CITIZEN AND STATE BANK BUILD- INGS ENDANGERED BY FIRE

Shortly before midnight last night the fire alarm brought the firemen and equipment to the front of the Citizen Bank building, where a lusty little fire was under way, which but for its early discovery and the prompt work of the firefighters would have endangered both bank buildings and some adjoining properties could scarcely have escaped.

The fire originated in the northeast room of the second floor of the Citizen Bank building, which was occupied by Wils Heister when he sleeps, and was evidently caused by the explosion of an oil stove. There are every indication that Wils was in bed when the stove exploded, for his face and hands are badly burned, while his sleeping garments were not scorched. As yet, he has given no very clear account of the fire, being so badly burned and suffering from pain. He is now at the hospital, and his burns are being properly cared for, and as the face and hands only are burned, it is thought his recovery will be speedy.

The fire was first discovered by outside people by some people at the Boyd, who saw the smoke and gave the alarm, and Frank Gaertner and I. P. Lowry, both of whom are familiar with the building, and interested by reason of being in the next building were first to render aid, except that Mr. Heister had evidently been carrying water from the back of the hall in an effort to stop the blaze, as the night watch who was at State bank heard hurried steps passing and re-passing along the hall. Gaertner and Lowry entered the furniture store and took their fire extinguisher up stairs, and one aided Wils down while the other turned on the gas in an effort to stop the fire which was gaining such headway and creating a heat which was making the hall an impossible place in which to long remain.

When the firemen arrived it was necessary to reach the blaze thru the window, and the battle was then soon over, and the damage was confined to the one room in which the start was made, and the roof above it. This room and contents were completely destroyed, Mr. Heister losing his clothing and furniture. There has been no estimate given of the damage to the building, which is covered by insurance, but it is small compared to what it might easily have been.

Wils was taken to the hospital, and his burns dressed, and he is said to be resting comparatively free from pain. R. B. Smith, who occupies a room over the State Bank, near the west end of the building, was awakened by the noise, and made his escape thru the smoky hall and stairway, without other inconvenience than taking a run thru dense, hot smoke.

McINTOSH-McKIM

Mr. Harry McIntosh and Miss Eva McKim were married at Sioux City Saturday, December 17, 1921, at the Presbyterian parsonage. They were accompanied to Sioux City by her sister Rachel.

Miss McKim is the daughter of Mrs. W. H. Norman, and attended the Wayne public schools. Mr. McIntosh is the son of Mr. and Mrs. James McIntosh. Both young people are well known in Wayne and have many friends who wish them well. They returned from Sioux City Tuesday and will make their home at present on the McIntosh farm.

BIG GATHERING STOCKMEN AT WAYNE DECEMBER 27TH

H. J. Miner of this city, and secretary of the Wayne county pure breeders organization was at Emerson the last of last week attending a meeting of the officers and directors of the "Northeast Nebraska Pure-Bred Live Stock Breeders Association," informs us that the next meeting of the members will gather at Wayne the afternoon of Tuesday, December 27, and the invitation is for all who are in any way interested in breeding pure stock to attend the meeting, and become a part of it, if they wish.

This is a comparatively new organization, and it is intended to take in all breeders of pure stock in this corner of Nebraska. Dan F. Sheehan of Emerson is president at this time, J. F. Bresslin of Newcastle is the vice president and C. R. Young of Dakota City is the secretary-treasurer. Their directors are R. J. Hilliker of Allen, E. M. Blessing of Dakota City, C. H. Gibbs of Newcastle, C. S. Buckley of South Sioux City, Luke Albaugh of Thurston and John Schulenberger of Rosalie. Their place of business is Emerson.

They have adopted a short constitution and by-laws for their guidance and have membership fee and dues as low as may be to make a fund to defray needed expenses. Their annual meetings are in October. They are not going in debt, for one article provides that no indebtedness shall be contracted or liabilities incurred in excess of the cash in the treasury.

We hope to see the good farmer breeders of Wayne and vicinity attend this gathering next Tuesday afternoon; for in times like these it is being demonstrated that stock growing and dairying are the proper things for the farmers of Nebraska to follow; and if that is conceded, there is no logical reason for having scrub stock, because it is demonstrated in many ways that the pure-bred animals are superior in every way.

BOOTLEGGERS CAUGHT HERE

At an early hour Thursday morning of last week Marshal Wm. Stewart observed some suspicious actions on the part of two men who parked their car here, and hunted a place to eat; appearing from their actions, to have had enough to drink. Examination of the car revealed the fact that they were well supplied with liquid refreshments.

So the marshal took charge of the gents as they returned to the car, and placed it in a garage, and called Sheriff Lewis from bed to care for the prisoners.

When they appeared before Judge Cherry, David Colby of Bloomfield, a single man, entered a plea of guilty of transporting liquor that would intoxicate, and having liquor in his possession. Judge Cherry said $100 on each count, and committed the prisoner to jail until paid or worn out.

His car, a rather antiquated Ford was also seized and condemned as a nuisance, together with the contents, and it will be sold in due time and the price go to the school fund. There was also a steamer trunk and a couple of suit cases, as well as a dozen gallon glass jugs, which are to be sold—but the contents of the jugs is said to have been condemned and poured out.

C. L. Thomas, a man of about 50 years having a family at Omaha was the other member of the firm—and he first entered a plea of not guilty; after sleeping over the question, changed his plea to "guilty," and the judge gave him the same sentence he had prescribed for Prisoner Colby, and they are both boarding with Sheriff Lewis.

CALUMET CAFE HAS NEW OWNER

A deal was concluded last week by Roy Murfield becomes owner, manager and proprietor of the Calumet cafe, for the past two years owned and conducted by F. E. Stuart. Mr. Murfield and wife are both experienced in the restaurant business, having been engaged in that line at Onawa, Iowa, and later at South Sioux City. Thus they feel that they will be able to win the approval of their patrons by their service. Just now they are caring for the trade, and preparing to better serve in the near future.

Mr. and Mrs. Stuart left Tuesday for Cushing, Iowa, where Mrs. Stuart's home folks live, and beyond a visit there and a rest, they have no very definite plans. Naturally, Mr. Stuart will gravitate again toward the same business, as he has followed it for a number of years.

Mrs. E. H. Carroll is ill at the hospital—seriously ill, with no hope given that she can recover.

WOMEN JOIT CONGRESSMAN

A short time ago, the organized women of Utica, New York, 15,000 in number, invited their congressman to come home from Washington and talk things over. He came, apparently expecting to find a small group of social butterflies wishing to be entertained. Instead he found a big opera hall overflowing with women who were interested in the peace conference and insisting that he stand for it uncompromisingly at Washington.

They reminded him of his pre-election promise to observe his constituents' wishes and proceeded to tell him what these wishes were. He became nettled and answered that he had never knowingly promised to obey the wishes of his constituents. The chairman replied that they were glad to learn their mistake and would remember it when the next election came around. Then he hastily reconsidered, agreed to do as the women wished, and returned to Washington bearing a resolution addressed to the president, as well as a tip to his colleagues in Congress as to what they might be on the lookout for from the women at home.

AN AUTOMOBILE WRECKED

In the early morning, Monday as John Bannister was driving to Wisner where he was going to meet an early morning train with some of his family who were on their way to Lincoln. When at the county line just south of Altona, Mr. B. did not discover the little jog in the road there in time to make the turn gracefully, and as a result went into the ditch, breaking the car, and slightly injuring two or three of the passengers. It is believed that none of them sustained more than slight injury. A farmer car was secured to get the passengers to the train at Wisner, and the car was gotten back to Wayne for repairs.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to thank my many friends who kindly assisted us, and sent floral offerings, in the sickness and death of our loved one.

WAYNE ATHLETIC ORGANIZATION GETS BUSY

The recently organized people of Wayne who believe in athletics as a better cure for dypesia than medicine held a meeting Tuesday evening and finished the preliminary work of organizing. They adopted bylaws and elected officers as follows: O. W. Crabtree, president; LeRoy Ehlers, secretary-treasurer; directors, Frank S. Morgan, A. T. Cavanaugh, Wm. Morris, J. M. Strahan and Francis Jones.

It was decided that neither high school or Normal students should be eligible for membership. A membership fee of $6.00 was decided upon as the proper amount. Orders were placed for equipment for basketball, volleyball and indoor baseball. The matter of arranging for games here between home players and those of some of the neighboring towns was put under way. The community building is to be used for games and practice, and their evenings are to be Mondays, Wednesdays and Thursdays. When games are to be played, a small admission fee is to be asked. This will be a fine thing for the community, and will give a lot of the young men opportunity to have a place of real amusement, where they may participate in clean athletic sports, and be benefited physically, mentally and morally.

TLETGEN BROTHERS SHOES STORE BURGLARIZED

Saturday night burglars visited the general store of Tletgen Brothers at Sholes and escaped with a generous portion of the stock. They did not seem to be very particular, but took just any thing and every thing from sugar to soap. They must have overloaded their auto, for goods were scattered quite freely along the road from the store as far as Carroll, where the trail ended. Sugar was lost off as well as hose.

There is no real clue so far as the public knows, to the robbers, but of course there are suspicious whispered, but nothing tangible. The loss is variously estimated at from $300 to twice that sum.

There have been some lesser robberies at Carroll in the past few weeks.

MARRIED AT SIOUX CITY

Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Yaryan and daughter, Miss Bess, were passengers from Carroll to Sioux City Wednesday morning. But that is not all of the story for the young lady was starting on her wedding trip. At Sioux City they were to be met by Mr. W. J. Herter of Lincoln, and were to be married that afternoon, and will make Sioux City their home, after a wedding trip to St. Louis and other points to the south. Miss Yaryan has many friends in the county who will wish her much of the joys of life.

HANSEN-OSBORN

At Minneapolis, Wednesday, December 14, 1921, Mr. Milo P. Osborn and Miss Freda A. Hansen were united in marriage. The bride has been stationed at Wayne for a number of months, operator at the station, and assistant to the agent. She won many friends among those she met at Wayne. They will be at home at 3500 Vine street, Sioux City, after January 16th.

THE STORY OF THE SHEEP

Friday evening we met a Bloomfield feeder-farmer who was happy over the fact that he had earned a nice profit on a bunch of lambs which he had fed out. He was returning from selling the bunch, and had it figured out that the hay he fed them brought him $12 per ton, and the corn $1.50 per bushel. When he learned that he was talking to a reporter he said don't print that, please, for a lot of fellows will want to try the same game next fall, and go broke. The feeder seemed to realize that he had been fortunate. The flock had done well, he had bought on a low market, and sold when the price was better. We hated to disregard his request not to publish, but felt that the readers were entitled to know that one little venture had more than paid the freight and commission charges this year.

We have had a number of hard-luck stories to print of late, and are glad to vary the story. We wish that we might never have to print of loss and failure.

Why not make that naval ration equal instead of 5-5-3 and write and print it this way, 0-0-0? that would look as well to most people.

CITY SEALS BONDING ABOVE PAR VALUE

At a special meeting of the city council Friday evening the paving bonds of the city were sold in three lots to three different concerns, and five bidders were represented. The bonds are 6 1/2 per cent, 20 years to run, and sold at a slight premium.

The city intersection bonds, amounting to $214,691.43 brought a premium of $1,075 dollars, and were bought by Benwell-Phillips & Co., of Denver.

The bonds on districts 1 and 2, amounting to $107,500 were sold to Wachob-Klausen Co., of Omaha, and they brought a premium of $600.

The bonds on districts Nos. 3, 4 and 5, amounting to approximately $225,000 (the amount is not yet really known) sold at a premium of eight cents on each $100. They were awarded to the Omaha Trust Company.

AN AUTOMOBILE COLLISION

About 8 o'clock Wednesday evening Messers Swenke and Nelson coming south on Main street in a Ford with the former at the wheel, crashed into James Grier's Ford in front of the Jens Anderson place, where they had stopped on their way home from town. It was a head-on meeting, and the Grier car was boosted over the curb onto the parking while the car that was in motion was turned half around and turned over onto its side. The Grier car was injured but little while the other car had a broken wheel, and was considerably battered up, but the men escaped injury.

It seems strange that a driver on a smooth, well-lighted street, with room for at least four cars abreast would bump into another car resting against the curb at one side of the way. But some drivers do not look where they are going, else they would not go there.

KNUDSEN-PRITCHARD

According to announcement received here, on December 12, 1921, at the First Christian church, Sioux City by the pastor, Rev. Doreen, Mr. Frank W. Pritchard, formerly of this place, and Miss Elsie M. Knudsen were united in marriage. They will be at home to their friends at Sioux City from this date.

Mr. Pritchard was an industrious farmer near Wayne for a season or two, who took a profit on his land holdings and moved across the river, and now is a resident of Sioux City, or the suburb of Leeds.

AMERICAN LEGION BALL TONIGHT

This evening the first real ball in the remodeled opera house will be put on by the American Legion lads. They have spared no pains to make it a really great ball, and if ever you dance, it might be a good time to try it this evening, it will encourage the soldier lads a bit, too.

ADVERTISED LETTERS

Wayne, Nebraska, December 21, 1921. Letters: Mrs. Clarence F. Fogloy, Miss Regina Kurrelmeyer, Mr. J. H. Richardson, Mrs. O. S. Schifner.

C. A. Berry, Post Master.

CHRISTMAS GREETING

I want to make a greeting each Christmas and New Year that will last the year thru. If I so conduct business all year that you are pleased, I am glad it is so, says Mrs. Jeffries.

LET US HOPE WE DO IT

According to the reports of special correspondents to the syndicated press, Uncle Sam is at last planning to borrow money of the people when it is needed and do it as a straight business proposition. It is proposed to issue certificates from $25 to $100 each, and keep them at or above par. For instance, Jones pays $20 for a $25 certificate, or $80 for $100, payable at the face value in five years. But if it happen that Jones needs his investment before it matured, he may cash his original investment plus interest at 3 1/2 percent for the time it has run. No one person may have more than $5,000 of these securities, so that they may not be a football for the brokers and speculators to any great extent. The government should never allow any of its war-issued bonds to go below par. Of course it is a little late to lock the barn after the horse is stolen, but it may be possible by this means to save the colt. But the government owes it to the people to arrange matters now so that those who come to the aid of the government in such an emergency as we have just passed thru can not be robbed by speculators, as has been done for the past four years.

Frank "Pete" Peterson, midget left wingman on Fred Dale's Wayne Normal team won himself a permanent place in the niche of fame when the bantams in the Normal met the Wesleyan Coyotes on the State University field last Saturday. The contest was a post-season game that decided the college championship of Nebraska and it was one of the fastest clashes of the autumn season. Sport writers for the state's leading dailies who witnessed the scrap from the press box did not stint their praise of the speedy Normalites who were outweighed by their opponents thirty pounds to the man. "Pete" was named as one of the stars of his club and repeatedly he drew mention for his work of breaking through the Methodist line and spilling the heavy two hundred pound backs for big losses. As a result of his playing which has been one of the stellar attractions of the season at Wayne he was chosen as one of the wing men on the mythical college eleven that represents the clearest football athletes playing with college teams during the past fall.—Madison-Star-Mail.

Portner wants your eggs.—adv. Misses Rachel and Eva McKim were Sioux City visitors Saturday. James Stanton, from Carroll, was visiting at Sioux City the last of the week, going down Friday morning. Take cream, eggs, poultry to E. E. Kearns at the Chas. Hiscok Implement house.—adv. Mrs. N. J. Cockran went to Thurston Saturday afternoon to visit over Sunday at the home of her sister. Jim Mahoney is in the market for cattle, making a specialty of bulls and springers. Yard east of sale pavilion. Mrs. Chas. Riese and daughter Pearl, and Mrs. Henry Cozad were passengers to Winside Friday evening. Mrs. E. R. Love of Bloomfield spent Sunday visiting with her husband. Mr. Love is barbering at the Rockwell shop. Mrs. H. A. Stallsmith went to South Sioux City Saturday morning, where she will spend a few days visiting with relatives. Mrs. A. M. Helt went to Blair Friday morning to spend a few days visiting with her son, Raymond, who teaches school there. Paul Juhlin came from Kansas City, Missouri, Thursday evening to spend Christmas at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. N. J. Juhlin. Miss Cora Viles, who spent a couple of days visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. O. W. Milliken, returned to her home at Lyons Monday morning. Mrs. B. B. Berg, who spent four months visiting at the home of her brother, Mr. and Mrs. N. J. Juhlin, returned to her home at Chicago Saturday afternoon. A meeting of the Traveling Men's Protective association of Nebraska, Iowa, South Dakota, Wyoming, Kansas and Missouri will be held in Omaha December 27-29. Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Secrist, who were visiting at the home of her sister, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Conger, returned to their home at Winnetoon, Monday morning. Mrs. C. D. Rockwell and little son, Vern, left Friday morning for Weeping Water, where she expects to spend a month visiting at the home of her mother. She was accompanied by her aunt, Miss Boufke. Herbert S. Daniels, Omaha, has been appointed auditor to investigate the sale of the Wells-Abbott-Neiman Milling company at Schuyler. He will seek to protect rights of stockholders and creditors. Disbarment proceedings have been instituted against Thomas H. Matters, Omaha attorney, convicted of irregularities in connection with the Pioneer State Bank, lately sent to the penitentiary and subsequently pardoned. The Gossard Corsets are growing more popular as they become better known in the community. Mrs. Jeffries carries a very complete stock of them in different grades and sizes as well.—adv. J. M. Skiles came over from Des Moines, Iowa, last week and is here visiting at the home of his brother Robert Skiles. He has visited here several times before, and therefore has some acquaintances here as well as the brother. Money talks, and the fact that it is just at Christmas time makes it talk louder. That is why you are interested in the splendid line of new dresses, valued from $30. to $35 each. They all go on special from now until Christmas at the modest sum of $14.98. The money saved is what talks loudest, says Mrs. Jeffries.—adv. J. E. Stahl of Bloomfield was here Friday to attend the Andrew A. Flock funeral, and that evening went to visit his aged mother at Meadow Grove. He tells us that his mother is now 82 years of age, but that she suffered from a stroke of paralysis 17 years ago, since which time she has not been able to either walk or speak. Her hearing is acute, and her sight fairly good, so while she cannot talk, she can see and hear and appreciate company. It is not often that one hears of one so afflicted late in life continuing to live so long. The Lehigh cement works at Mason City, Iowa, closed last week for an indefinite time, leaving about 600 employees out of work over an exchange. Well, cement is one of the enterprises that is handicapped by the high freight rate. It is not a high class product which should require a high rate. It requires only an ordinary box car that does not leak, and it has weight enough that the car may always be loaded to capacity. It is loaded at the plant and unloaded by the purchaser. A dozen yards of cement could be purchased in car lots, as far as 400 miles from where it was loaded as low as $1.20 per barrel of 400 pounds—four sacks. Of course the sack was extra; but returnable for all that one paid for it. It is a wonderful building material, and in spite of the high prices of today, and the high freight charges, it is much more freely used than at that time. If it could now be delivered at Pre-war prices, it would help start a real building boom.

The Democrat wishes to all mankind a most happy Christmas, and may every following day be a happy one.

Wonder if any of the state officials and employees will strike at the Governor's proposed wage cut. Call out the strike-breakers if any of them can be induced to quit.

The days of slavery are said to be over in this country; yet we read as an item of news the statement that the New York Yankees have purchased R. Tycarr, the left-handed pitcher, from the Jersey City club.

When the tax goes on gasoline, the speeders and joy riders will be happy? Hardly. One man at our elbow says the tax won't hurt him, if things go on as at present—for he has not had the price to get his car filled for a month—and therefore he will not swell the revenue of state?

Judge Allen is making some record among violators of the prohibition law. When they get a fine of $1,000 and a jail sentence and have 60 days to meditate on the fact that the next conviction may mean a term in the penitentiary, it seems that some will hesitate to resume business once out of jail. The way of the transgressor is getting rockier all of the time.

Now there is about to be trouble between the president, the senate and the wool-growers. Over the tariff, of course, and while they chew the rag—a wool rag this time—the people will continue to pay too much for really wool goods, while the fellows who grow the sheep and shear the wool are begging for a price for their raw material which will enable them make the two ends meet at the end of a year of work.

Who is this man McKelvie, who speaks so glibly about cutting the pay of state officials and employees? We wonder if, for instance, he realizes that in making such a cut he is unjust to a lot of the fellows who did not have their salary raised 100 per cent, as we think his was? Of course we believe that there is a lot of needless help employed, and that they should have a salary cut of 100 per cent.

Lincoln is going to have a "corn week" early in January, and show off the many ways in which corn may be used as a food, but we did not see any mention of it as a beverage. Perhaps they may eat enough to make the price to the farmer advance a trifle. One trouble about eating corn is the great cost of getting it to eat, when prepared in some palatable form. A package of corn flakes of the different kinds as retailed, makes a pound of corn cost practically as much as the farmer gets for a bushel of good corn. The difference in price is too great.

Governor McKelvie is going to convene the legislature in extra session in February at an estimated cost of $24,000 and ask them to put a tax of one cent per gallon on gasoline, according to reports now circulated by the papers. This will mean a revenue of about a quarter of a million. Then some paper says it would make the Governor more popular to do something to reduce taxes, and then he comes out with the suggestion that he cut the salary of all state officials and employees 5 per cent which would amount to $164,000. Now we may be able to find about what the state is paying its officers and employees, and as we figure it the total is $3,280,000 annually.

On another page we are presenting some of the views of Henry Ford, and we hope every voter will read them, especially that part in which he gives his views of a new method of financing government enterprises. It hits at the interest question—and hits it fair. The government is the power that issues the money. Why should it delegate that power to some other than its self? Why make gold, or any other commodity or product the standard of money—the standard of wealth? Wealth is produced by labor, and as Mr. Ford asks, why not make labor—production, productiveness, the basis of money? The article expresses a view we long have had, but did not seem to find a good way to express the idea. Of course the money power now in the saddle will fight the idea. But other people are all becoming slaves to the money monopoly. Let's study the idea—not in antagonism to any class or interest, but in hope of solving a problem that is vital to all people, the world over.

A SWIFT VINDICATION (Springfield Republican)

In his campaign speeches Mr. Harding declared that this country should not be under a moral obligation to take the advice of a council of powers, yet in the four-power treaty he would impose upon the country a moral obligation to accept the advice of the conference of powers signatory to this particular pact; and curiously enough three of those four powers are the strongest nations represented also on the council of the league of nations.

Mr. Hughes in campaign time attacked Article X, declaring that if it was "the heart of the covenant," as Mr. Wilson insisted, "then the covenant had a bad heart." Yet he has now signed a treaty that would bind the nation for ten years or more to all the implications of moral obligation, acceptance of the advice of a conference of treaty powers and the use of force, whereas in two years' time the United States could have withdrawn as a member of the league of nations. In principle, the Pacific alliance is more "dangerous" than the league covenant because the alliance will run for at least a decade, and it contains no provision permitting actual withdrawal within less than eleven years from the exchange of ratifications.

The ratification of the four-power Pacific treaty, however, should alarm no one who favored the league of nations. The fact that Article II is now deemed necessary by our foremost republican statesmen, for a reason best known to themselves, in the limited region of the Pacific, brings to the author of Article X, which was meant for the world, a vindication in its swiftness if not in its completeness almost without parallel.

WAYNE ABSENTEES ENTERTAIN
(From The Goldenrod)
Miss Elizabeth Bettcher, who is on leave of absence from her work in the training school and is taking work at the University of Chicago, writes interestingly of some of the Wayne people who are in Chicago:

"Miss Burton and I gave a little Tea Sunday afternoon for the Wayne people. We planned it sometime ago. It was given in the parlors at Ida Noyes Hall—the Women's Club House. The afternoon was rainy so we thought it was fine that we were fifteen in number. Three brides and grooms! Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Ingham, Mr. and Mrs. John Rockwell and Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Musselman. Then Gladys Woods (who graduates this quarter and has been elected to an honorary science fraternity), Mr. Siems (Swift Fellow in Chemistry), Mary House, LeRoy Owen, Lloyd Rhorke, Tillie Solfermoser, Lura Dean (Miss Luers' substitute one summer)—all these besides Miss Burton and myself. L. C. Austin was on duty Sunday. I understand that he is Assistant Superintendent at Michael Reese Hospital."
Miss Bettcher will return to Wayne at the beginning of the second semester and resume her work as demonstration teacher in the fifth and sixth grades.

DR. A. D. LEWIS

DR. BESS A. LEWIS

To Our Friends and Patrons

If there is any month in the year that people should feel good toward each other it is this one. This is the get-together season.

Let us offer the best of good wishes for your continued good health, prosperity and ability to carry the message of chiropractic to suffering humanity, so that they too may receive the great blessings of health and happiness.

The best gift that one can receive is one that is most useful. God gave to us Niagara Falls, Yellowstone Park, Grand Canyon and Giant trees. We are awed into silence when our eyes behold the beauties of the Yosemite and the Mammoth Cave, but the mind fails to grasp the wonder of wonders—the human body and its function.

Man, in turn, has endeavored to pay the debt he owes to the great designer. The Sphinx, Pyramids, Porcelain Tower of Nanking and the Great Chinese Wall are but the mute testimony of human genius and indebtedness.

Think of other gifts—the printing press, locomotive, telegraph and incandescent light. All very useful, but the greatest of the great, the most useful of the useful, is the gift of chiropractic by the infinite to mankind.

What do all the marvelous discoveries, inventions and achievements mean to a suffering humanity if they cannot restore health?

Truth is simple, life is simple, chiropractic is simple; Simplicity is the basis of all greatness.

You have said that we helped you. Bless you, it was you who helped us. If it had not been for your cooperation and support our efforts would have been nil. Again we wish you the finest of God's blessings not only for this Christmas and New years season, but always.

DEAN HAHN IS AUTHOR OF NEW BOOK

(From The Goldenrod)

"Projects in Observation and Practice Teaching" is the title of a new book which is just off the press, by Dean H. H. Hahn of the State Teachers College at Wayne. Dean Hahn has spent many years studying the problems of the Practice School. His new book undertakes to direct the work of the practice teacher so that the observation work will be purposeful and the class discussions afterward helpful in solving the problems studied and observed.

Dean Hahn has done unusually careful and meritorious work in his new book on the problems involved in training young teachers. There has long been need for such a careful study and the cordial interest shown by the teachers in the high school and teachers college training courses indicate that the book will meet a real need.

Dean Hahn takes his place among Nebraska text book authors with a book of very real merit.

Christmas Greeting:

MUSIC AT THE GLAD CHRISTMAS TIME
IS MOST FITTING

You may have the best of music in your home, not only at Christmas time, but daily—with the best of musicians at your command, whether instrumental or vocal by the purchase of or if you have a phonograph of any kind, by the purchase of the latest and best records. Either the records or the Grafonola will make a wonderful Christmas present—a present that will be a source of pleasure the year round.

I have a complete stock of the new records, and also a fine line of German records, for those who learned the music and songs of that land.

Now come and do BUSINESS: I will take corn at 35 cents the bushel for any Grafonola at their reduced prices, ranging from $30 to $175. Former prices ranged from $35 to $275.

In concluding this Christmas Greeting, I ask that you please call at my home office on South Main street for one of the handsome calendars as a souvenir of the Columbia that will be in daily use during the coming year.

With hearty Christmas Greetings, I am truly yours,

Morgan's Toggery

W. W. Black, of Carroll, was a Wayne visitor Wednesday forenoon.

Don Shannon was looking after feeders at Sioux City Wednesday, going in on the morning train.

Interested in a coat? Mrs. Jeffries will have special sale of coats Friday and Saturday.—adv.

LeRoy Owen came home Wednesday morning from Chicago to spend the holidays with home folks. He is attending Chicago University.

Mrs. Bess O'Linn Smith and son Holden, and daughter Frances, were visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. D. E. Brainard last week.

Mrs. J. H. Foster went to Sioux City Wednesday morning and will spend Christmas at the home of her mother. Mr. Foster will join her there Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Herman Mildner will have as guests at Christmas dinner, Mr. and Mrs. Dawson of Randolph, and Mr. and Mrs. Paul Mildner and two sons.

Wednesday morning was the coldest of the winter thus far, when the mercury hovered around four above zero, depending a little on what kind of a thermometer you looked at, and where it hung.

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Fox came from Omaha Wednesday morning to spend his holiday vacation time here at the home of his mother, and visiting Wayne friends, of whom he has many.

Glenn Gildersleeve, who is teaching music at Rochester, New York, comes home this week to visit his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Gildersleeve, and with Wayne friends. His sister, Miss Helen, who is attending college at Oberlin, Ohio, will also be home.

Julius D. Young of Craig, came up to Wayne Tuesday to visit among his former friends on Normal hill. Mr. Young was a member of the class of '19, and at the last meeting of the Alumni association of the Normal was named as its president for this year.

If he needs gloves You'll find a fine stock at Morgan's Toggery.

Paul Young, who is teaching at Omaha, came the first of the week for a short visit with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Young, and with other friends, returning Wednesday morning. Mr. Young is teaching at Council Bluffs, and her school was in session yet when he left.

Mr. and Mrs. A. R. McFarren from York, who have been visiting at the home of his uncle, F. Z. Taylor and family, for the past ten days, left Wednesday morning for Council Bluffs to visit an uncle and aunt, then to Hamburg, Iowa, before returning home about the first of the year.

Are the little girls and misses needing a coat? Buy it now from Mrs. Jeffries, who has a nice line yet in stock—but will not long have, for each and every one is on the rack, and marked to go at only one-half regular price. They will make a fine, serviceable, Christmas present, too.—adv.

Miss Nelle Steele, who is teaching at Hawarden, Iowa, came home last Saturday for the Christmas vacation. She would not, however have been home for a week but for the fact that an epidemic of typhoid is invading the school. With ten cases among the pupils, the board decided to begin the holiday vacation a week earlier than planned.

Mr. J. J. Tully, formerly of the State Normal board, was a Wayne visitor Wednesday, and called for a few moments at the Democrat office, and told a bit of how the political situation looks where he has been; and asked how is the sentiment in this vicinity. He seems to get the impression that the "New Party" is going to be a good fighting place for the dissatisfied in either of the old parties to light, for they seem to be many of that class. It may prove a sort of half-way stopping place from which they may go back to their place of starting, or continue their flight on into the fold of what they once held as an opposition party.

Mr. and Mrs. D. Sylvester of Chadron, passed through Wayne Wednesday morning on their way to Wausau, to visit her father, J. Frank Norman, and a brother-in-law, J. G. Anderson. Mr. Sylvester tells us that he is starting his vacation, and he does not know how long it will last; for he had been in the employ of the railroad people at Chadron, and it is vacation time for a lot of the boys—because freight rates are so high, and passenger rates are so high, and prices are so low for what the people have to sell that the railroads have no work for men. Now, we don't want any one to jump onto Mr. Sylvester for the list of causes given above, for he did not say all of that—he just said with a sort of sad look that he was laid off. No doubt there are others in the same boat—he implied as much. We hope that prosperity returns, and that he is called back to work there or elsewhere. There are too many idle men—and also too many who will not work when opportunity comes.

CHRISTMAS GREETING:

TO you, without whose patronage our business would have been less pleasant and prosperous, we extend our sincere and hearty thanks. May you have a

Miss Winifred Main came home from Grinnell, Iowa, this morning to spend the holidays.

Miss Mary Goodrich left this morning for Lincoln, Minnesota, where she will spend the holidays visiting with her parents.

Miss Dortha Brainard, who attends the college at Evanston, Illinois, came home Saturday to spend the holidays with home folks.

Mr. and Mrs. G. M. Church, of Peru, will spend Christmas at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. P. C. Crockett.

Mrs. Frank Tucker of Sholes, who has been ill for several weeks, was able to come to Wayne this week, tho not yet well.

Coats for little girls and misses are on sale at Mrs. Jeffries store for women this week at only half price.—adv.

Mr. and Mrs. John Kay moved this week in their new modern bungalow, which was just completed. Their old home has been occupied by Mr. and Mrs. F. B. Rockwell.

A nice Auto Blanket will please "Him". Morgan's Toggery.

Mr. and Mrs. Claude Mitchell drove to Creighton and Niobrara the last of the week to look after some business matters and visit relatives at the latter place.

Business is dull, comparatively, said Judge Cherry the other morning, referring to the slowing up of the suits for recovery of accounts commonly known as debts.

Miss Helen Main, who attends the Smith college at Northampton, Massachusetts, came home Monday to spend the holidays with her mother, Mrs. D. C. Main.

For a market for poultry, eggs and cream, remember Fortner.—adv

Directors of Wayne Athletic Association met Tuesday evening.

Miss Hattie Morton will spend Christmas with her parents at Norfolk.

Miss Mildred Waller will go to Randolph Saturday to spend Christmas with home folks.

Miss Colla Potras went to Lyons this morning to spend the holidays with home folks.

Miss Edith Porter, who has been visiting with her sister, Mrs. Claude Wright, returned to her home at Norfolk Wednesday morning.

Miss Schaffner, nurse at the hospital, left this morning for Hartington, where she will spend Christmas with home folks.

Mr. and Mrs. Russell Harrison, of Wakefield, who have been visiting at the George Roberts home, left this morning for Hawarden, Iowa.

Today is one of the three short days of the year. The sun did not rise this morning until 7:51, and went to bed at 4:58, leaving but about nine hours for sunshine.

The Gem Cafe is offering to do the right thing for any unfortunates who happen to be at Wayne on Christmas day. They invite those who are "down and out" to come and eat there, a free dinner for those thus unfortunate.

W. C. Coryell, who has been wrestling with typhoid fever for a number of weeks past, and who was able to come home from the hospital two weeks ago, is able to be out a little now, when weather is not too severe.

Miss Hattie Crockett goes to Omaha today, and expects to find her sister, Miss Martha able to return home with her, and both be home for Christmas. Miss Martha was taken to a hospital there two months ago quite seriously ill.

Bargains are never more appreciated than at Christmas time, says Mrs. Jeffries, and for that reason this store will be a bargain house the rest of this week. One great outstanding bargain will be the choice of many dresses, at only $14.98. Garments made to sell at $30 to $35 each. Friday and Saturday will be the first opportunity to get best choice.—adv.

Mrs. Art Auker of Winslow, was a Wayne visitor between trains this morning.

Mrs. R. B. Snyder of the office force at the passenger station, was a passenger to Omaha the last of the week.

Chas. Meyers was a passenger to Sioux City Wednesday, going to visit the stock yards of that place.

Wes Bonawitz and family, who have been living at Pilger for a time, have returned to Wayne to reside.

Mrs. James A. Brown, who spent a month visiting with Mrs. D. C. Main will leave for her home at Webster City, Iowa, in the morning.

Mrs. Max Dewitt and little son, Jimmie, went to Stanton this morning to be at the home of her parents for Christmas. Mr. Dewitt will join her there Saturday.

Tuesday morning the College Physics class of the Wayne State Normal enjoyed a radiophone lecture from Prof. Larson of University Place. His address was upon the audibility meter. Twenty-five phones were hooked on to the one receiving set and all heard plainly. This is the first address over the radiophone to a class in Nebraska.

Morgan's Toggery for your last minute Christmas Shopping.

Miss Louise Sprague was a Norfolk visitor between trains today.

A. G. Bohert has an adv elsewhere in this paper offering 35c per bushel for corn.

Mrs. Pete Peterson left this morning for Burke, South Dakota, where she will spend Christmas with her parents.

It's vacation for the public school pupils, since Wednesday evening. College holiday vacation will begin Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. S. E. Auker and Mr. and Mrs. Hobert Auker went to Sioux City this morning to be present at the wedding of Miss Edna Owens and Irvin Auker. Irvin is the son of S. E. Auker.

Misses Wilma and Elizabeth Gildersleeve, who are going to school at Grinnell, Iowa, will come home this evening to spend the holidays with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Gildersleeve.

The program presented by the pupils of the public schools last Tuesday evening made an entertainment that was excellent and pleasing to the many who attended. It was a well-planned entertainment, and presented in such a manner as to reflect credit upon the pupils and their instructors. Cream, eggs, poultry bought by Fortner.—adv

The regular meeting of the Commercial Club took place Monday evening with forty-four present. Lynette Rennie opened the program with a few well-chosen current events and read them with excellent expression. Clara Erleben chose an account of the War Finance Corporation and read it with clearness and force. Frank Kroger read a carefully prepared essay on "The Steps Taken in Making a Sale." His essay was well written and delivered.

These numbers were given favorable comment by Mr. D. E. Brainard of the Citizens National Bank who was the chosen speaker of the evening. Mr. Brainard's subject, unknown to Miss Erleben, was also the War Finance Corporation. He explained the purpose of the corporation and the steps taken in securing loans through the corporation. He also gave some reasons why Nebraska had not received as much in loans as Montana and some other states. A vote of thanks was extended to Mr. Brainard for his timely and instructive address.—Goldenrod

BETHLEHEM

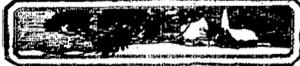

Cold was the earth and all the stars,
But Mary Mother smiled
Where in the manger of an inn
Lay warm the Holy Child.

The ox was host upon that night
Unto the King of all;
He gave for incense meadowy breath,
For shelter his side stall.

Not all the cold of earth and man
Can pierce the heaven mind,
Where warm against her leaping heart
A-Mother clasps Her Child.

O, miracle of utmost love,
How God grew greater when
He stooped to be a helpless babe
Beside the hearts of men.

Long ages since—and still in joy,
In loneliness and tears,
We kneel unto a Little Boy
Who smiles down through the years.

Those Not as Fortunate as You Are.

Christmas is a sad time in some households, among the older members who miss familiar faces always associated with family gatherings—a list of missing ones which increases as the years go by. But if it is impossible to be happy one's self, it is always possible to make some one else rejoice—this is an easier task than some people imagine. So many are so foolish as to think that because they cannot give beautifully that it is not worth while to give at all. They forget that what seems very little to a person in comfortable circumstances may appear very large to those who have virtually nothing at all; while among friends a small gift, bearing some sign of thoughtfulness, is often more acceptable than a costly but ill-chosen present. This is an excellent time to go over the children's toys and select those which can be spared to go to some less fortunate little ones. Do not select only those which are too battered to be recognizable; such, of course, are not to be despised, but a little glue and a few stitches to freshen up a broken doll or torn book add much to the pleasure of a second-hand gift—for all children love fresh-looking things and it is, besides, scarcely generous to give away only such articles as would otherwise be thrown in the ashes.

WHERE SANTA WAS BORN

Russian Legend of Saint Klaus and How He Came to Be Known as the Children's Friend.

Very many years ago there lived in Russia a nobleman and his wife, who had a little son named Klaus. He was such a good boy that everyone used to call him Saint Klaus. In course of time his parents died and left him a large fortune, not the least part of which was three large bars of gold.

Saint Klaus one day happened to be passing a house, and overheard a father telling his daughters that he had lost all his money, and that he didn't even know how he was going to buy food for them. This worried Saint Klaus very much, and he wondered how he could help them. So that night he took one of the bars of gold and threw it through the window. The next night he threw the second bar, and crept quietly away, but on the third night when he was about to throw the third bar, the man who had lost all his money came out and caught him. He tried to thank Saint Klaus for his goodness to him and his daughters, but Saint Klaus told him to pay his thanks to God, whose servant he was.

And there, boys and girls, you have the story of Saint Klaus (or Santa Claus as we call him).

PRECIOUS MOMENTS WASTED.

Mrs. Slumm—They're not going to have the Christmas tree at the church tonight. Not till next Friday night, Jimmie!

Jimmie—Gosh! Will I have to wash me hands agin nex' week, too?

Christmas is the poker that makes the dull ashes of the past and brings smoldering memories and resolves to light for the warmth of man throughout the year that follows. It is modern civilization's greatest involuntary stimulant.

Real Christmas Joy.

For, somehow, not only for Christmas, but all the long years through, the joy that you give to others is the joy that comes back to you.

PRETTY LEGEND OF CHRIST

Old-Folk Tale Relates That Stars Danced and Birds Sang on Day of His Birth.

When the child of Nazareth was born the sun, according to the Bosnian legend, "leaped in the heavens and the stars around it danced. A peace came over mountain and forest. Even the rotten stump stood straight and healthily on the green hillside. The grass was bedewed with open blossoms, incense sweet as myrrh pervaded upland and forest, birds sang on the mountain top and all gave thanks to the great God."

It is naught but an old-folk tale, but it has truth hidden at its heart, for a strange, subtle force, a spirit of general good will, a new-born kindness, seem to animate child and man alike when the world pays its tribute to the "heaven-sent youngling," as the poet, Drummond, calls the infant Christ.

When the three wise men rode from the east into the west on their saddle-bows were three caskets filled with gold and frankincense and myrrh, to be laid at the feet of the manger-cradled babe of Bethlehem. Beginning with this old, old journey the spirit of giving crept into the world's heart. As the magi came bearing gifts, so do we also; gifts that relieve want, gifts that are sweet and fragrant with friendship, gifts that breathe love, gifts that mean service, gifts inspired still by the star that shone over the City of David 2,000 years ago.

Then hang the green coronet of the Christmas tree with glittering baubles and jewels of flames; heap offerings on its emerald branches; bring Yule logs to the fire; deck the house with holly and mistletoe, "And all the bells on earth shall ring On Christmas day in the morning." —Kate Douglas Wiggin.

TO TRIM A CHRISTMAS TREE

Pretty Trimmings and Decorations Can Be Made in Almost Any Home at Slight Expense.

As to trimming the Christmas tree, first of all, don't trim your tree with cotton batting and lighted candles, as there is always danger in this combination, and "safety first" should be the slogan in all Christmas festivities.

You can purchase a whole lot of pretty decorations for your tree at the shops, and these come very cheaply, too. But almost any home can furnish the decorations for a really lovely tree without very much expense, and there is no reason why every family where there are children should not have their Christmas tree.

Strings of popcorn and red cranberries looped from the branches make an effective decoration. And strings of yellow field corn gleam beautifully in the Christmas light. Green-eyes, stars and hearts cut from heavy cardboard and covered with silver and gilt, or even colored paper, and cornucopias of bright colors filled with candy and popcorn are very pretty. Form cotton batting into balls the size of an orange and cover with orange-colored crepe paper, twist tightly and tie to the tree with a bit of narrow ribbon. These are pretty on the tree and look like oranges.

It is best to place all the larger packages under the tree, tying only the smaller gifts which are tied up in bright-colored paper to the branches. In this way the tree will not look frayed and denuded when the gifts are distributed, and it may be kept a long time for the children to enjoy.

USE OF EVERGREENS.

The use of evergreens at Christmas time is older than the Christmas tree, the Christians seeming to have copied it from their pagan ancestors. In a very old book we find this reference to the use of evergreens at Christmas time: "Against the feast of Christmas every man's house, as also their parish churches, were decked with holme, ivy, bayes, and whatsoever the season of the year afforded to be green. The conduits and standards of the streets were likewise garnished; among which I read that in the year 1414, by tempest of thunder and lightning, toward the morning of Candlemas day, at the Leadenhall, in Cornhill, a standard of trees, being set up in the midst of the pavement, fast in the ground, nalled full of holme and ivy, for disport of Christmas to the people, was torn up and cast down by the malignant spirit (as was thought), and the stones of the pavement all about were cast in the streets and into divers houses, so that the people were sore agnast at the great tempest."

HYMN FOR CHRISTMAS.

O! lovely voices of the sky
Which hymned the Savior's birth,
Are ye not singing still on high,
Ye that sang "Peace on earth?"
To us yet speak the strains
Wherewith in time gone by
Ye blessed the Syrian swains,
O! voices of the sky!

O! clear and shining light whose beams
That hour heaven's glory shed,
Around the palms and o'er the streams,
And on the shepherd's head
Be near, through life and death,
As in that holiest night
Of hope and joy and faith—
O! clear and shining light!
—Felicia Hemans.

A Rather Vague Order.

A Wisconsin boy wrote to Santa Claus as follows: "I would like a air rifle, a pair of Indianapolis a mouth organ a christmas tree and some candy and nuts that is all a game of checkers for." It's a little vague, but we hope Santa will be able to fill the order.

STOP and talk to the next man you see with U. S. Tires on his car. Ask him why.

Most likely you'll hear an interesting story about his tire experiments—before the answer was found. Money wasted. Promises unkept. Trouble on the road—humorous to every one except the man who went through it.

Finally U. S. Tires. And U. S. Tires ever since.

Perhaps it's the experience of U. S. Tire buyers that makes them more emphatic in their preference than ever this year.

When these men have tried most everything by the way of "staggering bargains", "hurrah discounts", "discontinued lines at less" and so forth they know what not to get.

They want a fresh, live tire. With a good reputation. That's everything it says it is. With the people behind it who back it up.

There are 92 U. S. Factory Branches.

Your local U. S. Dealer is drawing upon them continually to keep his stocks sized up, complete—to give you service.

Whenever he gets one or a hundred tires from a U. S. Factory Branch, they are newly made this season's tires.

Sold to you at a net price. Full values. Square-dealing. A reputable maker. A reputable dealer. The whole transaction as befits the leadership of the oldest and largest rubber organization in the world.

Uncle Walt's Story

WALKER MASON

VEXATION OF SPIRIT

WHEN I was in business, said the retired merchant, "I never had time to read much, and I used to look forward to the glad days when I could revel in literature. I felt sure I'd be entirely happy. I used to jot down the titles of books I intended to read, and when I retired from business I had a list as long as the Russian battle line.

"And now that I can read all I want to, I don't get any enjoyment out of books. They bore me the worst way. I get sleepy as soon as I begin to read, and my wife comes and tells me my snoring is disturbing the neighbors."

"It's that way with everything we look forward to," observed the hotel-keeper, sadly. "Man always will be, but is never blest, as some half-baked poet remarked. Young Gooseworthy was in here last evening, bubbling over with happiness. There wasn't anybody around, so he took me into his confidence. He's going to marry Gwendolin Jimalong next month, and he's perfectly satisfied that his married life will be one long stretch of sunshine. He seems to have the idea that he's going to do something original when he gets married, but the idea isn't new. Men have been getting married ever since Christopher discovered Columbus. Ohio, and every doggone man jack of them had the idea that everlasting bliss was going to be inaugurated on the wedding day."

"I listened to Gooseworthy for three hours, and hadn't the heart to say anything that would dampen his enthusiasm. His twittering recalled the long vanished days when I was getting ready to be married. I felt about it then just as he does now. I thought the parson opened the gates of paradise when he joined two loving hearts. My wife lived up to all the plans and specifications, and was, and is one of the best women in the United States, but I hadn't been married three months before I had a sneaking conviction that the man who gets married is a chump.

"A good many optimists say that a married man doesn't need any more money than a single one. If he marries the right sort of woman, but they might as well go to the blackboard and demonstrate that two and two make two, instead of four. I fell for that cheerful theory when I was married. I was earning enough to keep myself comfortably, and never had any financial worries. I could have been buried for less money than it took to be married, and the expenses from that time forward were double what they used to be, although my wife was so economical she used to make waists and such things for herself out of my superannuated shirts.

"Oh, doggone it, there isn't any unadulterated happiness in matrimony. I wonder that young fellows like Gooseworthy don't look around them, and contemplate the dejected appearance of the majority of husbands. But even if they did, it wouldn't do them any good. I suppose, for they are full of pipe dreams, and they think the girls they are going to marry are different from all other girls, and that they will prove exceptions to the general rule.

"I had a wise old uncle in those halcyon days, and about a week before the wedding day, he backed me into a corner and handed me a dust-proof package of wisdom. He tried to lead me into taking a sensible view of the future. He talked about the cares and responsibilities that would be mine after the wedding, and wanted to know if I felt equal to them. He tried to show me that I wasn't going to marry an angel, but a human being like myself, with a human being's faults and frailties.

"I let him get that far, and then I told him that his gray hairs alone saved him from having his head re-modeled, and said I never wanted him to darken my door, and he never did. I had to darken it myself, with walnut stain. But many a time afterward, I recalled his wise words and wept over his grave."

MIRACLE OF THE THORN STAFF

Pratt Legend of Ancient Britain That Is Often Repeated in England at Christmas Time.

It is one of the prettiest legends of ancient Britain—the old Christmas story of the thorn of Glastonbury. William of Malmesbury, the chronicler, told it hundreds of years ago in his "Antiques of Glastonbury." It is repeated often at Christmas time in England.

The legend tells how Joseph of Arimathea, was so persecuted by Pontius Pilate, because he had laid away the body of Christ in his sepulcher, that he fled to Gaul, carrying with him under a cloth of mystical white samite, the Holy Grail. In Gaul he found the Apostle Philip, preaching to the heathen, and he rested with him a few days.

One night a radiant light awakened him, and an angel bade him go to Britain and preach the glad tidings to King Arvirgatus; and, where a Christmas miracle should come to pass, there to build a church.

He and a band of followers followed the instructions of the angel, and Arvirgatus gave them the Isle of Avalon, and bade them erect an altar there to the new God. It was a beautiful gift. The tiny isle lay warm in a verdant valley. Sparkling waves softly lapped its shore. Soft breezes played in its trees, and nowhere was the sky so blue as over Avalon.

When they reached the top of the hill called Weary All, Joseph planted his thorn staff he had carried with him on his long journeys over land and sea, deep into the ground, and lo it took root, and immediately there blossomed a bush of beautiful white flowers.

"This is where we will build our church," the good man said, and so, at Glastonbury Abbey—for so Avalon is known today—the thorn bushes bloom white at each Christmas time, lend their fragrance to the frosty air, and remind all who see them of the Christmas miracle.

THE CURIOUS MISTLETOE

Something Like 300 Varieties in the World—Pink Berries Found Only on Cedar Trees.

There are about 300 kinds of mistletoe in the world, and each variety grows on the branches of trees and has little white or pink berries, says St. Nicholas. But the pink berries are found on only the cedar trees. The mistletoe, unlike other plants, gets no food directly from the ground. Instead, it gets its nourishment from the trees on which it grows.

Another curious thing about the mistletoe is that though it blossoms earlier in the year than the tree on which it grows, yet the little berries do not ripen before December. Maybe that is because it has to steal its food from the trees, and therefore cannot ripen early. The very name "mistletoe" gives some idea of its insignificance. In the Anglo-Saxon language "mist" means gloom, and it comes in mid-winter, the gloomiest time of the year.

The gathering of mistletoe was a very important ceremony among the ancient Druids. About five days after the new moon they marched in stately procession to the forest and raised an altar of straw beneath the finest mistletoe-bearing oak they could find. The arch-Druid would ascend the oak, and with a jeweled knife, remove the sacred mistletoe. The others stood beneath the tree and caught the plant upon a white cloth, for, if a portion of it touched the earth, it was an omen of misfortune to the land.

And this is doubtless the reason why it is still the custom to hang it from the ceiling and why it is supposed to lose its charm if it touches the floor.

MY CHRISTMAS TREE.

On Christmas morning I awoke when I heard a rustling sound from my room. I opened my eyes and saw a light that makes me start and causes thumps in my heart. A Christmas tree—oh, pretty and with candles, bells and balls slight. With buns and dolls and sugar plums, and skates and trains and beating drums. And, oh, it is a wonder tree, with heaps of things for me to see. Rare gifts hang upon the side, which I should like to see. A soldier doll, a doll house, too, and strings of gold come to my view, and as I look I seem to hear sweet Christmas music soft and clear. A merry Christmas, it seems to say, A merry, happy holy day!

Squaring Himself.

Last Christmas a young man was invited to dinner at the house of one of the leading men in the town. At the dinner table he was placed opposite a goose.

The lady of the house was seated on the young man's left. Seeing the goose, he remarked:

"Shall I sit so close to the goose?" Finding his words a bit equivocal he turned round to the lady and said, in a most inoffensive tone:

"Excuse me, Mrs. Blank, I meant the roast one."

Christmas Thanks.

For little children dear, who A joyous season still we make, And bring our precious gifts to them, Even for the dear child Jesus' sake. —Cary

FOR SAFETY IN AIR TRAVEL

Elaborate Devices That Are Under Consideration by British Experts in Aviation.

Three new fog devices to overcome the drawbacks of mist and fogs to airmen are stated to be under discussion by British authorities. The first consists of the "laying along the route traversed by the airway of a powerfully charged electrical cable. This automatically sends up into the air a constant series of signals." By keeping his machine in such a position that the strength of the signals is kept constant the airman is assured that he is flying along the cable line. The second makes for safety in landing when the ground is not visible, and consists of a wire, with a weight attached, which is lowered from beneath the machine; when the weight touches the earth the airman learns that it is time to "flatten out" his machine. The third is called the "artificial horizon." It is "a gyroscopic instrument which shows an artificial horizon line always in front of the pilot and enables him to detect instantly when his machine is heeling over too much sidewise in its relation to the real horizon, which is temporarily invisible. A tiny model airplane poised above the artificial horizon line mimics precisely the movements of his own machine."—Scientific American.

HAS MADE NEW PROFESSION

Philadelphia Woman Makes Excellent Living Arranging Details for Amateur Entertainments.

A pin-money career, for one Philadelphia woman, was the outcome of her refusal to drill some children for an Easter program. On previous occasions she had "thrust upon her" the responsibility of planning and preparing various kinds of entertainments, home-talent plays, cantatas, etc., for different organizations. As this work required much time and strength, she was offered remuneration for her services and accepted the money. Now she has work ahead in that line all the year round. She assumes the responsibility of miscellaneous programs, plays, etc., for all ages, for Sunday schools, lodges, clubs, etc. She arranges time and place of practice, and assigns parts to each one in drills, plays, dialogues, cantatas, solo, duet, quartette, chorus, etc. Superintendents in the schools often call on her to help in such lines, and various organizations of the city. Much of the work, as the practicing, is done in her own home. She receives from 20 to 40 cents an hour. Free-will offerings from a church organization have also been generous, as the manner of paying her.

Ductless Glands in College.

Ductless glands, said to be responsible for epilepsy, feeble-mindedness, cancer and other diseases, will be the subject of special study at the University of Pennsylvania. A chair in endocrinology, the branch of medical science dealing with ductless glands, has been endowed at the university, and it is said to be the first ever established in the world. Experiments will be conducted at the ear, eye, nose and throat hospitals of Philadelphia, the various clinics under control of the university medical school and other places.

So important do the physicians of the American Therapeutic society regard this step that the chairman of the society's council was instructed to appoint a committee to formulate a curriculum for the teaching of endocrinology to graduates and post-graduates in every medical school in the United States.

Comforting.

A Hooster minister's wife was getting ready to go to the hospital for an operation. Her husband and children had been solicitous of her all day, everything around the house had been very quiet until late that evening, when she heard the seven-year-old twins quarreling. She asked her husband to see what it was about, and he summoned them into the room to give them a lecture on worrying their mother.

"It was all your fault, daddy," Flora retorted. Floyd nodded his head and the minister asked what he had done. Imagine the feeling when Floyd replied: "Mr. Long said he didn't see where you would get another wife if mother died, and I said you would want Miss E. and Flora said you would want her Sunday school teacher because you called her your helping hand all the time."—Indianapolis News.

Stopped at Last.

As little Harry came in the back door, he was saying to himself, "Well, I got the best of him that time."

His mother happened to be in the kitchen. "Harry, have you and the neighbor boy been fighting again?" she asked.

Harry was quick to reply: "Not this time. You know when he was over here last week we made a kite and you made me let him take it home with him. Yesterday we made a birdhouse and he got to take it home. So today we dug holes and he didn't take them home with him."

Flights of the Future.

"Do you believe the automobile is the last word in transportation?" "No," replied the far-sighted citizen. "Some of these days we are all going to wear wings outdoors and hang 'em up on the back in the hall when we are not going anywhere in particular."—Birmingham Age-Herald.

STREAM A FREAK OF NATURE

But Phenomenon in State of Washington Seems Simple—After It Is Explained.

A small stream called Bear Creek flowing from the glaciers of Mount Adams, near Husum, Wash., is a freak. It plays hide and seek along its course through the forest, slipping into a cave here, a crevice there and reappearing below a full fledged rivulet. Its bed is ice coated nearly the entire year; on the surface rocks float and in the water logs sink.

The water is bright yellow in one place, red in another and light bluing when it flows into the Columbia river.

Bear creek, differing from other streams, freezes at the bottom first instead of the surface. This is caused by a rocky formation, similar to a corrugated washboard, retarding the movement of the water, forcing the surface to move swifter. In this way air bubbles are shot downward, carrying freezing temperatures, and ice forms. Often in winter the stream flows while the bed is solid ice.

This stream also contains more water in one part of its system than in another. A 4-foot depth quickly becomes a tiny brooklet by the water disappearing into the porous volcanic bedrock. Later it reappears and resumes its course.

The logs that readily sink are a species of black jack pine with a specific gravity heavier than water. They are carried into the creek by landslides.

Rocks seen floating are a sort of pumice or lava cinders released by melting glaciers. The yellow color is directed from the glaciers, the red caused by red clay bluffs, and the blue by a deposit of copper quartz through which the stream has cut its bed.

MYSTERY OF OLD EGYPT

Archeologists at a Loss to Explain the Presence of Buttons Found in Country.

Historians, archeologists and other experts in ancient lore are trying to solve the mystery of the buttons found in ancient Egypt; used in a country and at a time in which all garments were fastened by means of bands slipped into place, or by ties and loops. Buttons were not used.

The button, so far as is known, is of south European origin and it was only in the last two or three centuries that it came into use in north Europe, where the dress had been tied together and hose and doublet were fastened with point and laces.

Somehow buttons found their way from south Europe to Egypt. Some of these arrived in Egypt at about 2500 B. C., and others 1500 B. C. Historians are hoping that with the buttons as clues they may be able to obtain more information connecting the so-called prehistory of Europe with the ages-old records of Egypt.—Cleveland News-Leader.

Tinted Writing Paper.

Oculists have often called attention to the fact that the eyes are easily fatigued by the reflection from white paper, especially when the surface is under a strong light. Since green is known to be the color most restful to the eyes, it is a common practice to use wall papers and draperies of that color in libraries and private studies. For writing paper, however, green is an unsatisfactory color. It imparts a reddish appearance to the writing and makes it hard to read. Yellow writing paper is not open to the same objection. In strong daylight it is softer than pure white paper, and in artificial light it is not too dark. Black letters on a yellowish background show clear and distinct. Many mathematicians use yellow paper in figuring long and difficult calculations, and many writers have adopted it for manuscripts. It has the additional merit of cheapness.

First Great Warship.

The first real advance in securing stability and great carrying power in a ship was made by a British architect, Phineas Pett, who built the Sovereign of the Seas, to carry 100 guns, in 1637. After launching he found that her enormous upper works, in which he had followed the fashion and, incidentally, the shipping defect of his period, made her somewhat unstable. So he took her back, boldly swept away all the cumbersome upper fittings, increased her length, gave her two decks instead of the original three, and refloated her as the Royal Sovereign.

Under this latter title she remained for 60 years the finest, staunchest, and most easily handled vessel in the British navy, far in advance of any other ship of her kind in the world.

Mythological Birds.

The Australian thick-headed shrike is about six inches long, rich-yellow below, with a jet-black collar and a white throat, black head and partly black tail. It is sometimes called the black-breasted flycatcher and white-throated thick-head, and it has also a variety of French and New Latin names.

In the mythology of some low tribes such as the Caribs, Brazilians, Harvey Islanders, Karens, Betchunas and Basutos there are legends of a flapping or flashing thunder bird, which seem to translate into myth the thought of thunder and lightning descending from the upper regions of the air, the home of the eagle and the vulture.

Bell's Toy

Telephone Shows Enormous Growth in 45 Years.

In just a little more than the span of a generation the telephone industry has developed from a toy to an essential industry uniting all our commercial and social activities. The growth of this toy has been remarkable, but it has always had to struggle hard merely to keep pace with an ever-increasing demand for service. From one instrument in 1875, the telephone has grown until there are in use today in the United States over 13,600,000 telephones. If these instruments were placed side by side, they would span a distance greater than a line drawn from New York to Chicago. With these instruments are associated central offices, poles, wire, underground and overhead cables, etc. There are nearly 15,000,000 poles in use at the present time, or enough poles, end to end to extend three times around the world. There are 31,000,000 miles of wire connected to the plant at the present time in the United States, or enough wire to go around the world 240 times.

To operate efficiently and economically the exceedingly intricate mechanisms of which the modern telephone system is composed, requires, from top to bottom, a carefully trained and skilled force drawn from the most intelligent and alert classes of the population. In fact, practically all telephone workers may be classed as experts.

Because the telephone requires a body of expert workers the wages constitute a large proportion of all the expenses. According to a recent report 63 per cent of the total cost of operating the telephone companies of the country last year was paid for wages. The remainder went for materials, rents, taxes, light, heat, etc.

An important feature of the telephone business is the obtaining of new money each year for expansion. Each year the public is demanding more and more telephone facilities. The Northwestern Bell Telephone Company in the five states in which it operates, Iowa, Minnesota, Nebraska and North Dakota and South Dakota, spends on the average of about $8,000,000 a year for additions to its property and yet this Company operates in a territory that has only about one-tenth of the total telephones of the country.

The telephone companies do not make their extensions out of the profits of the business as do most non-regulated private concerns. In order to expand to meet the requirements of the public for facilities each year, telephone companies must be able to sell their bonds or stock to investors. In order to do this the companies must be in a prosperous condition. Nobody can tell investors where they can put their money. They may hide it in their stockings, under the floor or invest it in a sheep ranch in Australia. But they will put it where they think they will get the greatest return consistently with the safety of the investment. The investor in telephone securities cannot look forward to speculative "profits" such as he may find in many other enterprises which are less conservative and which present a greater hazard for his investment. He must be able to look forward to a safe and conservative investment where he will be fairly paid for the use of his money put into the business and where his principal will be safe. The possibility of the earnings of a telephone company being less than what investors feel is reasonable would be as disastrous to the public as it would be unfortunate for the stockholders of the Company. It would prevent the Company from attracting new money necessary to provide facilities for all applicants or for those who are moving from one locality to another. Telephone service, to be of the greatest value, must be provided to all business houses and residences who desire it. This, however, can only be done by the constant investment of new money in the business.

Study of Patents

Is Important Phase of Telephone Art

Hardly less remarkable than the rapid growth, in less than a half-century, of the first crude telephone into a system of wires and cables that extends to every corner of the country, is the enormous amount of research and legal work that has been done by telephone engineers in perfecting the patents that have made this development possible. Alexander Graham Bell's first model of the telephone, placed in the patent office at Washington in 1876, was destined to be the ancestor of a long line of other patents having to do directly or indirectly with the practical application of the principle he first announced to the world.

Nearly 4,000 patents are either owned or controlled or used under license by the Bell System for the benefit of its associated companies, of which the Northwestern Bell is one of eighteen which operate in different parts of the country. Applications for some 2,000 additional telephone patents, filed by the system's engineers, are now pending. Each of these patents was thoroughly examined by experts of the system's

CHUM CHIMPANZEE.

"They have named me Chum," said the chimpanzee, "because I do many tricks to entertain, and amuse all the people about."

"I like to be obliging and do what I can."

"There are some of my family though, who are most horribly over-worked, and I hope that grown people who surely can do a lot will do what they can to see that we're never over-worked when we're performing in theaters."

"Just Like a Chum."

"We like to do our part, but we can't do too much!"

Not too much! We're not as strong as all that. Now we are brighter than any of the other monkeys or animals in existence.

"I'm quite sure there are no other creatures who are as bright as we are. When we're free we go about and play and talk and yell."

"Here in the zoo, we make quite a noise at times too for when I say 'we,' I speak correctly. There is another chimpanzee here too."

"But when we were free we used to move about in family groups and what good times we did have!"

"I'm having a good time here, and I am often dressed up, and I do my tricks."

"As I told you they call me Chum because I'm just like a chum to the zoo people when I'm so willing to be friendly and entertaining."

"I am not the special chum of any one person but of everyone, though perhaps I am a little scrap more of a chum to my keeper than to any one else."

"I do not stand up and walk unless I am dressed up and have shoes on my feet."

"Of course then I do because I know that that is the proper thing to do and I like to do the proper thing."

"I walk on the knuckles of my fingers when I'm not wearing shoes."

"In that way I am different from people, for whether they wear shoes or not they still walk on their feet."

"We're not as friendly as the Orang-Utan. Sometimes we are cross and sometimes we play a mean trick on those we are usually good to, but we are very nervous and we cannot help it."

"The Orang-Utan isn't nearly as nervous as we are, and he is much more friendly. He would never do a mean trick."

"Of course I don't mean that all Orang-Utans are alike and I don't mean that all Chimpanzees are alike, any more than I would say that all people were alike."

"The people who come from France aren't all alike and the people who come from Greece aren't all alike and the people who belong to the United States aren't all alike."

"But there are certain things about people of certain countries which are somewhat alike."

"So the Chimpanzees all have certain ways about them and so have the Orang-Utans, though sometimes certain special members of a group might be quite different."

"But we're bright, and we give creatures lots to look at when they see us and our tricks."

"How they do enjoy me and my ways here in the zoo."

"At times I get a bit excited, for I'm such a nervous, active creature."

"I like to be doing or thinking all the time. I don't like to dream my time away idly. I like to make the most of it."

"That is what the chimpanzee is like."

"But how I do make the people laugh when I pretend to act just as they do."

I was given a bicycle to ride the other day and I acted just as proud as proud could be, and I put on all sorts of airs and graces and grinned as I did so.

"Didn't the people all laugh? Well, I just should say they did!"

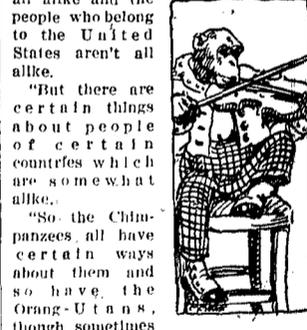

"And I don't wonder. I'm not surprised. I would have been surprised if they hadn't laughed to see me act as I did."

"I did it on purpose, oh yes, I did, for Chum, the Chimpanzee, is full of tricks, full of tricks and of ideas and brains too!"

Effect of Cigarettes.

"Doctor, do you think the cigarette habit affects the brain?"

"That question can never be answered, for a man with brains has never been discovered smoking one."

"Dressed Up."

SOCIAL NOTES

Woman's Club Meeting

The regular meeting of the Wayne Woman's club was held at the Community House Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock.

A brief financial report of the Christmas bazaar was given by the treasurer, Mrs. Hahn, and a vote of thanks was tendered by the club to the chairmen of the various booths and to the general chairman, Mrs. Prad Blair, to whose untiring and enthusiastic leadership, much of the success of the bazaar is due.

Several donations toward kitchen equipment have been made to the woman's club within the last few weeks and a vote of thanks was given to the W. C. T. U. for water glasses, to the Minerva and Acme clubs for cups and saucers, and to Mrs. Wm. Beckenhauer for a stove.

Mr. Chance did the plastering in the new entry to the community house building, charging nothing for his labor and the ladies wish to express their appreciation of this donation, and also to Messrs. Huntmer, Crabtree, and Luckey for their time and effort given gratis in the remodeling and re-wiring of the building.

Mrs. Oman, Mrs. Berry, and Mrs. Lewis were appointed as a committee to make a contract with the High School for renting the building for basket ball practice and for scheduled games, up to about the first of April. Owing to the lateness of the hour, the program was omitted. The next regular meeting will be in three weeks, January 6th.

Minerva Club

The Minerva club enjoyed a delightful yuletide program at the home of Mrs. E. S. Edholm on last Monday afternoon. The true Christmas spirit was expressed in the verses given in response to roll call.

Mrs. Ada Rennie read an instructive article on "Christmas in Foreign Countries". Mrs. E. W. Hueb gave a paper on "Origin of Santa Claus and Other Myths". Mrs. Lambert W. Roe recited a poem entitled "Vision of Christmas", and Mrs. Geo. Partner gave a reading "Marley's Ghost" from Dickens' "Christmas Carol".

At the close of the program Mrs. Edholm invited the guests to find places at two beautifully appointed tables. Hand painted place cards from the brush of the hostess marked each place. A Christmas poinsetta graced the center of one table while a blooming hyacinth added beauty and fragrance to the other.

Through a previous arrangement an exchange of gifts was planned and each member found a surprise parcel at her plate.

While the hostess served a delightful two course luncheon a joyous hour enhanced by the holiday surroundings was passed. Christmas Carols on the Victrola added much to the general good cheer of the afternoon.

The Alpha club held their annual Christmas dinner at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Beckenhauer Monday evening, December 19th, with Mrs. L. C. Gildersleeve hostess. A beautiful cyclamen was used as the center piece on the over-laden table, and the whole house was beautifully decorated with cut flowers. The bouquets most worthy of mention were the Russell roses, Richmond roses and sweet peas, the bowl of waterlilies, and those more suggestive of Christmas; in which spirit the entire program was conducted, corresponding well with the decorations and the spirit of the season. The two numbers most enjoyed were a group of instrumental solos given by Mr. and Mrs. Marcey and several readings given by Mrs. Wilson. At a late hour Santa Claus appeared with a message of joy. He proceeded to take the gifts from the Christmas tree, saying that he had presents for all of the good girls and bad boys. He also remembered the zest of the evening, Miss Porter of Norfolk.

Last Monday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Hamer Wilson members of the Acme club gathered for their annual Christmas party. They found the house most appropriately decorated for the occasion with Christmas green and Christmas bells. Two long tables were spread, one in the living room and the other in the dining room, and a poinsetta plant on each formed the center piece of each. Nut cups in Christmas red were favored at each place, the donation of Mrs. J. C. Forbes, an absent member. A three-course dinner was served by the following committee: Mesdames J. T. Bressler, I. H. Britzell, E. S. Blair, C. E. Carhart, S. R. Theobald, and it was a splendid repast.

The evening following the dinner was spent in social conversation, games, etc. It was an evening not soon to be forgotten.

Mrs. Peter Coyle and Mrs. T. W. Moran were hostesses to St. Mary's Guild on last Thursday afternoon at the home of the latter. It was the last regular meeting of the year and after the reading of the financial report of 1921 the following officers were elected for the new year: President, Mrs. J. C. Nuss; vice president, Mrs. Emma Baker, and secretary-treasurer, Mrs. J. H. Massie.

The business session was followed with a social hour during which the hostesses served a two course lunch.

The Guild Ladies were all happy to have with them Grandma Coyle, their oldest member, who has recently recovered from a serious illness.

The Junior and Senior classes of the Wayne State Normal enjoyed a hard time party in the gymnasium last Friday evening. Hard time costumes were worn and old-fashioned games were played. After the lovely refreshments which were served by an able committee Santa made his appearance and after presenting each guest with a present he bade them sit around the Christmas tree while he presented Prof. and Mrs. Huntmer Senior sponsor, with a beautiful electric perculator with a cream and sugar and tray to match, and Prof. Bowen, Junior sponsor with an electric waffle iron.

Tuesday evening of this week Mrs. C. H. Hendrickson and Mrs. H. M. Auker entertained at Kensington, in honor of Miss Edna Owens. During the evening the "bride to be" was given a large basket containing many packages which Miss Owens was requested to guess contents and then unwrap. She received many beautiful gifts as well as foolish ones including the "Auker heirloom". The hostesses served delicious refreshments. A white and yellow color scheme being carried out in place cards and decorations.

The ladies of the Monday club were entertained by their husbands at a Christmas party at the Boyd hotel Monday evening. The committee was Mr. Chace, Dr. Hess and T. W. Moran, they were assisted by Misses Goldie Chace and Bonnie Hess. A four course dinner was served. Mrs. Oman and her daughters Fernie and Frances, sang several musical selections. The tables were beautifully decorated with cut flowers and Christmas decorations. The movies furnished the entertainment for the rest of the evening.

U. D. club entertained their husbands at a Christmas party Monday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. S. Ringland. The evening was spent playing 500. A two course supper was served at 10:30 by a committee of ladies, Mrs. Kemp, Mrs. Charley Craven and Mrs. Miller, after which gifts were distributed from a beautifully decorated tree. The house was decorated with Christmas greens. W. K. Smith was a guest of the club. The next meeting will be January 2, at the home of Mrs. Kemp.

There was a very pleasant gathering a week or more ago at the home of Daniel Baier, when members of the Salem church of that neighborhood gathered there to honor Mrs. Kline, Mrs. Baier's mother on her 81st birthday. It was the ladies of the Aid society who were the movers in the matter, and a very pleasant session was held.

Friday evening the Junior class of the High School held a child's party in the home of Arline McLennon. Kiddish games were played at least a part of the evening. Delicious refreshments were served by the class and all departed at a late hour voting thanks to the committee for their pleasant evening.

Last evening the girls of Friwohe campfire circle met in a Christmas party at the home of their guardian, and after a social hour, and a program of music, they gathered about their Christmas tree which was the medium for an exchange of Christmas remembrances between the members. Then came light refreshments, and home.

The Sorosis club met Monday afternoon with Mrs. Mae Young. The afternoon was spent with Kensington, and the members exchanged Christmas gifts. Refreshments were served by the hostess. Next meeting will be January 9th at the home of Mrs. Fred Blair.

The Bible Study circle met Tuesday with Mrs. Fred Benschroff and their study was the Christmas Sunday school lesson, which is an impressive one. The next week meeting will be at the usual hour at the home of Mrs. A. E. Laase, to which all are welcome.

Last Saturday evening the teachers of the Junior High entertained the ninth and tenth grades of the Normal. Games filled the evening brim full with fun. Light refreshments were served.

Perhaps the greatest gypsum deposits in the world, in both quantity and quality are to be found in Iowa, near Fort Dodge, and we see it stated that there is trouble over the wage question, and whether it is to be union or open shop. Well, if the state or nation had simply retained this great natural resource—this deposit of a valuable building product might now be used by the people who need it without paying tribute to some great corporation.

KNOW YOUR TRAINING SCHOOL

You who are taking the course in observation and methods know your Training School. The school is much bigger than the part you observe. Get glimpses of the whole school. It will furnish you a concrete basis for your theory of education and prepare you more thoroughly for your practice teaching.

You who are teaching know your Training School. Your practice teaching brings you in contact with but a small part of it. What the children do in the subject you teach is important, but the greater part of their work you do not see. You can not estimate the relation of your part to the whole unless you know what is done outside your subject. It is possible that the most vital thing for the children is done by someone else. The most skillful methods of teaching may also be those of someone else. Find out what they are. You can if you forget the part and study the whole.

You who are working in other departments know your Training School. You are working in a limited field and are best informed as to methods and subject matter. You can be a source of inspiration to the supervisors of the Training School. The Training School can give you concrete illustrations for your field work. A closer acquaintance would result in mutual benefit.

You who directs the work in general know your Training School.

The Training School is really worth knowing. Some of the finest things in the way of teaching can be seen there daily. It should have a publicity agent and he should have publicity machinery whereby the excellency of its teaching could be made a matter of common knowledge not only among the workers of the Hill but also among the teachers of Northeast Nebraska. —A Friend.

Meats For Christmas Dinner

Meat is the foundation for most every dinner, hence the importance of having the best to be obtained—and the particular kind your taste calls for. It is my aim to have the best of anything you may need, especially for the patrons of the Little West Side Market, whether it be Buffalo, Turkey, Goose, Duck, Chicken, Beef, Mutton or Pork.

It May Be Fish or Oysters

Then we have the necessary accessories, Celery, Pickles, Cheese, Etc., and in fact most anything you need.

Among the special orders for this Christmas week you will here find

Oysters—Real Blue Points on the Half Shell

And portions of the very best of buffalo meat, having just received a fine carcass from the famous "Sooty" Phillips Buffalo herd in South Dakota. You should try a piece of this famous native "Beef" which was so much prized by those who pioneered in this land and drove great herds of them on to the west—until they are now almost extinct.

I Wish One and All a Very Merry Christmas

Announcement

In assuming charge of the Calumet Cafe of Wayne we wish to assure the eating people—that is those who eat at public places—that we hope to so serve you as to please you—and thus will you get the habit of coming to the Calumet Cafe when hungry. We wish to extend the season's greetings to the people of the good town of Wayne, to its college students and the farmers of the surrounding country who are looking for a place to eat when at Wayne.

Respectfully yours,

Roy Murfield
