CORYELL & BROCK GARAGE BURGLARIZED

Tuesday night burglars entered the Coryell & Brock garage on south Main street and robbed the till of its contents, $8.02, and then took an automobile belonging to Mr. Nelson from north of Wayne which had been left there to have a broken bumper repaired, and made their escape, getting as far as Winside with the car, where it was left because of the shortage of gas, it was supposed.

Suspicion pointed to two young men who were about the depot late Tuesday night, no where to be seen Wednesday morning. They were found at Norfolk, where a description of the pair had been sent. Last night Sheriff Lewis, accompanied by Chas. Van Norman, who had seen the men about the depot, went to Norfolk. Van Norman at once identified them as the two who had been here, and they admitted being at Wayne, but disclaimed all knowledge of the car or the robbery. At Winside, they were not seen except driving about in the car—or whoever had the car, and the nightwatch following them said that they abandoned the car and skipped out before he could reach the car. As they have no street lights all night in that place, their escape was easy.

The sheriff brought the men to Wayne, and they are now in the county jail. They gave names of Frank Barron, and Wilson, with no first name.

CITY ELECTION QUIET

An election without competing tickets is quite apt to be a tame affair, and in one precinct the wise judges passed the time playing chess between times for receiving ballots. The nominees of the two caucuses were duly elected, the votes varying from 57 in the 3rd ward to 82 in the 2nd, while in the first ward the vote was a tie and 76.

The officers elected are Wm. Orr mayor, W. E. Jenkins treasurer, Walter Bressler city clerk, Robert E. Jones city engineer, councilmen, 1st ward, B. F. Strahan; 2nd ward, Geo. Lamberson; 3rd ward, L. M. Owen. Members of the board of education are Rollie W. Ley, D. E. Bralnard, and Mrs. E. W. Huse, to fill vacancy made by the resignation of Mrs. Morris, who has moved to Omaha. The new officers assume their duties the first Tuesday in May this year.

NEW RECEIVER FOR WINSIDE BANK

B. M. Saunders has been named as receiver for the Farmers State Bank of Winside, succeeding Nathan Chace, who recently tendered his resignation to Judge A. A. Welch. Mr. Saunders is a resident of Norfolk, but it is said that he may move to Winside. He is doing a wholesale business as receiver, having been acting in that capacity for the late Hoskins and Hadar banks, and is said to be a very capable man, and well qualified for the job.

PRELIMINARIES IN ORATIONS AND ESSAYS FRIDAY NIGHT

The preliminary contest in oration and essay will be held in the Normal auditorium Friday evening. The two students winning first and second place will represent the school at Chadron and Wayne in final contest. The orations will be given by Paul Jacobsen, Christina Jacobsen, Helen Sauser, Richard Hall and Norman Harvey. Essays will be read by Veronica Wina, Howard Ferrans and Lulu Larson. Prof. Hunter and his department will furnish music.

CLEANUP NOTICE

The week of April 10 to 15 is designated by the mayor as "Clean up" week, and it is hoped that all good citizens will comply with the spirit of the request, and clean up yards, alleys, and wherever there is trash, ashes, old cans, manure or other unshightly or unclean matter. Make the place one to which you may point with pride. Of course, a little later, if you neglect this gentle hint, the premises neglected will be cleaned at your expense by order of the city and the board of health.—1.

CRADLE

McDONALD—Sunday, April 2, 1922, to LeRoy McDonald and wife, a son, HUGHES—At Wayne hospital, Saturday, March 29, 1922, to Lee Hughes and wife, a son. Mr. and Mrs. Hughes reside at Concord.

WAYNE SALES PAVILION ANNUAL MEETING

Monday afternoon is the time set for the annual meeting of the officers and members of the Wayne Sales Pavilion organization. The meeting is called for the city hall, and should be well attended, for it is a going concern and a valuable asset to the community. It makes opportunity to buy and sell at less cost than any other way, perhaps. Especially is this true for those who have offerings too small for a public sale of their own. It also makes opportunity for the purchaser to buy from a varied assortment of stock, machinery or other articles—buy at a central point—at a good town where he naturally wants to come Saturdays. While the wife is trading at the store he may also be purchasing something he needs.

Another benefit comes to the breeders of pure bred stock, both at Wayne and immediate vicinity; and for those who bring stock from some less favored locality to find buyers. Every year horses and cattle are brought here and sold, because there is a place to care for them, and a convenient sale ring in a warmed house.

Most of those who took stock at the inauguration of the enterprise did so because they believed it would be a benefit to the community, and not with hope of any dividend direct—yet no year has passed when there has not been a dividend in either cash or needed improvement that was the same as money.

This season has been a very good one, and the sales have been successful as a whole, and closed a week ago Saturday with the largest sale of the season, totaling more than $10,000. An auctioneer with whom the writer was talking a few days ago gave much credit to the banks of Wayne for the success of the sales, saying that at no place where he had cried sales had the banks apparently been as able and willing to take care of the paper and do it right as at Wayne. This, in his opinion, had been a great factor in making the sales better in offering, larger in volume and selling for better prices. With all of this, it is believed that there is hope of improvement as the years go by. One thing that should help would be to give wider publicity to the fact that Wayne has such an institution, and that it is for the benefit of the community—and should be used more generally than it now is. There should be some way of lengthening the season for sales, and also to bring sales of pure-bred stock here. If the buildings were not idle so much of the time the community might profit to a greater extent.

COLUMBUS DAILY TELEGRAM

The new daily from Columbus comes to our table, a very creditable publication, which succeeds the Weekly Telegram and the Daily News, a combination of the two papers. It is to issue every evening except Sundays, and it goes without saying that it will be progressive democratic while the name of Edgar Howard appears at the head as editor. His associates are Zela H. Loomis, A. C. Smith, A. H. Backus, Lloyd Swain and Will Gorgorius, men long identified with the Telegram and the public, and known as able newspaper builders, and their respective follows in the order named above: Managing editor, city editor, business manager, advertising manager and mechanical manager. Edgar Howard is the president, and the two vice presidents are Loomis and Smith, with Backus secretary-treasurer. We hope that the new paper may prove a power for good in this part of the state.

MARRIAGES

Serven—Okblom
Ray Okblom and Miss Hatt's L. Serven both from near Carroll, were united in marriage Wednesday, April 5, 1922, by Rev. J. H. Petheroff, pastor of the English Lutheran church. Mr. Okblom is the son of the late Swan Okblom and was born and raised in Wayne county. Miss Serven is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Nels O. Serven, and was a resident of Burke county.

Christensen—PETERSEN
Chris J. Peterson of Carroll and Miss Marie Christensen of Pierce, were united in marriage Wednesday, April 5, 1922, at the Swedish church at Carroll.

WAYNE HIGH PUPIL WINS IN DISTRICT DECLAMATORY

Last Friday evening contestants from twelve high schools in this corner of the state met to contest for place in the state contest which is to be held at Lincoln soon.

Paul Crossland of the Wayne school was awarded the first place. His selection was in the oratorical class, and was a most timely topic for the times. "Universal Peace" was the subject, and it was a logical and masterly piece and well presented. It reads well, and we hope to give it to our readers a little later. The justness of settling great questions by right rather than might was clearly shown, and aside from being the winning oration, it was a credit to the speaker and the Wayne school and community. Perhaps no little credit should be given to Mrs. Pollard of the high school under whose training Paul made good.

It is possible that Paul inherited some of the qualities of a great orator—perhaps he was inspired by the records made in college by his brothers, Will and Weldon, both of whom carried off honors in college. Will, having first place three successive years at Lincoln, and Weldon also taking first place, and both entering the interstate field. At any rate, Paul made good in his first contest.

Howard D. Campbell of Winnebago won the second place Friday night in the oratorical class. In the humorous class first place was awarded to Wilma Bradley of South Sioux City; and the second place went to Russell Lindskog of Pigeon. In the dramatic class, Cita St. Clair of West Point was first, and Ida Lyman of Wakefield was given second place. The program was interesting, and much appreciated by the audience, which was not especially large, other entertainments that evening taking a share of those who would like to have attended.

WAYNE WOMAN'S CLUB

About sixty women, members of the Woman's club and their guests, enjoyed a delightful kenstington at the Community House Saturday afternoon. Mrs. E. W. Huse, president of the Woman's club, spoke briefly of the aims of the club and their work in Wayne, and urgently invited all the ladies of Wayne to come into membership in the organization. Mrs. C. W. Hiscox, chairman of the social committee had arranged for an entertaining program of music and readings. Miss Faith Philleo gave a well rendered piano number, Miss Frances Beckenhauer and Mrs. T. T. Jones each sang two solos, Bessie Hiscox and Celia Rennie gave readings. The social committee and board of directors served refreshments of sandwiches, coffee, and cakes.

In the business session, report was made by the committee that has been investigating the matter of purchasing chairs for the community house, and it was voted to continue the committee, giving them the power to purchase about nine dozen chairs, with the approval of the president. A committee, composed of Miss Martha Pierce and Mrs. D. J. Cavanaugh was appointed to investigate the matter of new curtains and scenery.

Mrs. F. S. Berry was elected delegate to represent the Wayne club at the district meeting of the Federated clubs, which is to be held here April 13 to 20 inclusive.

The following committees were appointed by the president to look after local arrangements for the Third District convention which meets in Wayne, April 18th, 19th, and 20th. Music—Mrs. Clyde Oman.

Entertainment—Mrs. Chas. Shulteis, Mrs. Fred Bluff, Mrs. E. J. Huntmer, Mrs. D. J. Cavanaugh. Reception—Mrs. C. A. Chace, Mrs. A. A. Welch, Mrs. Phil Kohl, Mrs. Lou Owen.

Decoration and Badges—Mrs. Henry Ley, Mrs. E. Kostomlatsky, Miss Martha Pierce, Mrs. Frank Gamble.

Press—Mrs. Fred Berry.

Ushers—Mrs. E. E. Lackey.

Third District Exhibits—Miss Margaret Pryor, Miss Mary Mason.

Social—Mrs. C. W. Hiscox, Mrs. Fred Philleo, Mrs. J. J. Ahorn, Mrs. J. R. Rundell, Mrs. A. G. Adams.

Invitation—Mrs. H. J. Miner, Mrs. J. J. Williams, Mrs. H. H. Hahn, Mrs. H. A. McMillan, Mrs. F. H. Jones.

Special Entertainment—Mrs. S. A. Lutgen, Mrs. C. W. Portner, Mrs. Wm. Beckenhauer.

WAYNE FIREMEN ORDER PULMOTOR

Recognizing the need, that may come to this community for a pulmotor for use in case of near suffocation from smoke and gasses as well as from drowning, the Wayne Firemen at their meeting this week ordered one of those lifesaving instruments, and like all firemen apparatus, it will be for public use. Until this arrives it is believed that there are none nearer than Norfolk, and that would do much good in an emergency. It may save life sometime—and no one knows when it might be needed. The Wayne Drug Co. took the occasion to present the firemen with a very complete "first aid" kit, and this may be worth its weight in gold when badly needed. Fred Blair seems to think the firemen do not get smoke enough, at all times, and he sent them a box of cigars. For these remembrances the boys extended a vote of thanks.

BIBLE STUDY CIRCLE MEETING

The Ladies Bible Study circle met with Mrs. Benschhof on Tuesday afternoon to discuss the current Sunday school lesson and to unite in prayer for various objects of interest all over the world.

Miss Edith Dreyer who was brought over by her parents from Hung Tung, China, to the Mayo Brothers in Rochester, Minnesota, for an operation on her leg, was reported in a serious condition and doctors feared speedy amputation necessary. This has delayed Mrs. Dreyer's visit to Wayne friends and it is hoped she will still be enabled to come to Wayne a little later on.

News from the Sywulka family tells of their moving to a point 350 miles south of Belra in the Portuguese territory where they have found at least 2,000,000 people wholly without gospel provision. The Portuguese government has yet refuses to allow the gospel given to any natives in their own language and the natives do not know any other so the case is a difficult one, but prayer changes things.

A word from Mr. Dinwiddie says he has reached New Orleans returning from Central America where he has been in conference work the past six months with touching results.

The revival wave sweeping Scotland has now reached over into England and many churches are being transformed by the Spirit's power.

There seems no special human leadership and no particular denomination at the head, and the work is unique and thorough and is being remarked as a mighty moving of the Holy Spirit.

Dr. H. Strachan's evangelistic campaign in Central and South America goes on in victory. Dr. Strachan and his colleagues many times narrowly escaping death at the hands of infuriated mobs.

Greeting to Wayne friends was sent by Mrs. Martin Elvold who expects to return to her work among the blind orphans of China in September.

Mrs. E. B. Young will be the next hostess and a special meeting is planned and a large attendance desired.

MRS. M. E. BOWEN DIES

Word came to O. R. Bowen of the death of his mother Mrs. M. E. Bowen. She passed away Monday morning at 10 o'clock at the home of her son Rev. E. E. Bowen, at Superior, Nebraska, at the age of 83 years.

Funeral services were held this morning at 10 o'clock from Marey Chapel at Lincoln.

Mrs. Bowen, having visited with her son O. R. Bowen several times in Wayne, has friends and acquaintances here who will learn with sorrow of her passing away.

W. R. UPDYKE BUYS INTEREST IN WAYNE BAKERY

A deal was concluded about the first of the month by which W. R. Updyke of Laurel becomes a part owner in the Wayne bakery. Mr. Updyke is to assume possession at once, and is expected here this week to assist in the business. Mr. Lingren tells us that some changes will be made after his arrival, of which the public will be informed.

WAYNE COUNTY FAIR MEETING CALLED

and each and every one of you are invited to attend a meeting called by the officers of the Association for next Tuesday evening. Last year, owing to various local conditions, Wayne decided not to try to have their fall meeting. This season a different spirit prevails, and it is proposed to resume the fall exhibits, and this initial meeting is called.

The officers hope to have every part of the county represented, and every interest in the community be in on the ground floor, so to speak, and boost for success. Wayne certainly should have one of the big fairs of this part of the state.

We are glad that this enterprise is to again be taken up, for a fair is not only for pleasure at the time it is held, but is educational. It helps to increase and improve the quality of the live stock and all manner of farm, garden, household and school production. It is a stimulant to every legitimate industry within the county. It is none too soon now to commence getting ready for the fair.

The first thing to do is to attend the meeting called above.

THE ACME CLUB AT FORTY

The Fortieth anniversary of the Acme club was celebrated Tuesday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Mines. The Acme club members, their husbands and a few invited guests were present. The guests were Robert Atwater of Manchester, Iowa, Mr. and Mrs. P. M. Corbit, Mr. and Mrs. P. R. Mines, and Miss Billz, both Mines. A two course dinner was served. The centerpiece on each table was a vase of red carnations, nutcup and place cards were also of red. Following the dinner letters were read from old and absent members of the club. The absent members were Mrs. Forbes and Mrs. Jacobs. The letters from old members were as follows: Mrs. M. S. Davies, Wilmington, California; Mrs. Robert Utter, Baeville, Texas; Mrs. Alice Neihardt, Branson, Missouri; Mrs. Theo. Duerig, Twin Falls, Idaho; Mrs. Ella Pile, Adrian, Michigan; Mrs. Ed. Raymond, Des Moines, Iowa; Mrs. B. F. Feather, Pomona, California; Mrs. B. F. Swan, Sioux City; Mrs. W. H. Bradford, South Sioux City.

After the letters were read the men were called on to give a speech, each one responded. It being Mrs. C. E. Carhart's birthday she was presented with a shower of handkerchiefs and a bouquet of flowers. Mrs. W. A. Hiscox, being a new member was given a club spoon, and the rest of the evening was spent in playing games.

The committee on entertainment were Mrs. Mines, Mrs. C. T. Ingham, Mrs. W. A. Hiscox, Mrs. Senter, and Mrs. W. R. Weber.

DEATH OF DOLLIE BARNETT

Wednesday just after noon, April 5, 1922, Magdaline Barnett passed away at the home of her parents in this city, Harry and Jane Barnett, at the age of 22 years and a few weeks. She had been ill for about 15 months, suffering from tuberculosis, and nothing that could be done staved the dread disease.

She is survived by her parents, two brothers and five sisters, Herbert at Birmingham, Alabama, Parry at Sioux City and Mrs. Leonard Riebe in Montana, and Lulu, Nina Josephine and Gladys of Wayne.

Funeral services will be from the Baptist church of which she was a member at 2 o'clock Friday afternoon, conducted by Rev. Owings.

BASEBALL COMING AT WAYNE

At the ball revival meeting at the city hall last week the groundwork was laid for a home nine here this season and a committee named to learn some things of community sentiment, and they are to report at a meeting to be held Friday evening at the firemen's room in city hall. If you missed the first meeting, they will welcome you at the Friday evening meeting just the same.

Henry Dohren from Triumph, Minnesota, left for home Friday after a month visit at the home of his uncle Nick Dohren, between here and Pillger. His uncle brought him to Wayne for the train. He said that they had had a very pleasant winter in southern Minnesota until the great sleet storm struck them. This did much damage, and the whole country was under a coat of ice, so much so that business was suspended. It occurred in February, near farm moving time, and it absolutely put a stop to all moving. Cattle or other live stock could not travel on the glare of ice.

Mr. Simpson expects to have to go to O'Neill to look after his personal property there.

Teacher salaries are being cut in many schools—usually 10 per cent. Bloomfield is getting publicity for that kind of economy. The state of Nebraska, by its governor at least, considered that as one way of reducing taxes. The school board at Butte elected teachers last week conditioned on a 10 percent reduction of price. Superintendent A. M. Nelson of Auburn was asked to accept a reduction of $500 or 16 percent, but himself and the teachers united to oppose the cut, and as a result, Mr. Nelson has agreed to remain at a reduction of $200. Mr. Nelson formerly taught in this part of the state and is considered a man of good ability and well qualified for superintending any high school.

At Lincoln the American Legion added 200 new members to their roster in a drive which closed last Saturday.

Mrs. G. A. Gansko left Saturday morning for Columbus where she will spend a short time visiting with relatives.

Mrs. Hattie O'Connell and son Don went to Sioux City Tuesday afternoon to spend a few days visiting with relatives.

Mrs. Sarah Reppert, who was visiting at Norfolk passed through Wayne Saturday on her way to her home at Randolph.

H. L. Taylor went to Sioux City Tuesday afternoon, where he expects to be for a few days, doing construction work.

Mrs. J. L. Kelley and daughter Mrs. C. P. Larson, went to Sioux City Monday morning where they expect to spend a few days.

Mrs. Mary Anderson, who has been visiting with her daughter Mrs. Anna Anderson, returned to her home at Concord, Tuesday afternoon.

Mrs. J. C. Horney left Monday morning for Vivian, Louisiana, where she will spend some time visiting at the home of her son and family.

Ingmer Hansen, wife and daughter of Coleridge, were here Sunday to take train for Council Bluffs, being called to attend the funeral of Mrs. Martin Hansen, near that place.

Mrs. B. M. Armstrong, who has been visiting at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Wright, and other relatives and friends, returned to her home at Plainview Monday morning.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry L. Thomas of Vermillion, South Dakota, went to Sioux City Tuesday afternoon, where they will spend two weeks visiting with friends. They will return to Wayne and make their home here.

Mrs. Emma Hayes and her little nephew, Raymond Sala, came from Oakdale Saturday to visit her brother Ed. Sala and other relatives and friends at Wayne over Sunday. The little fellow had a day with his father. She reports all well as usual in the Sala family at Oakdale.

Mrs. Emma Baker, accompanied by her former neighbor, Mrs. M. E. Murfield, who came from Harlan, Iowa, where Mrs. Baker formerly lived, drove to Winside Monday to call on Mrs. Baker's daughter, Mrs. Arthur Hershield. Mrs. Murfield admits that Wayne county has the appearance of splendid farming country.

Mrs. E. L. Griffith returned last week from Kansas City where she went to visit the home of Mr. and Mrs. R. K. Parkinson, her daughter. Mr. P. is quite seriously ill, but appeared some improved before Mrs. Griffith left, but slight hope is entertained for his recovery, as he is a victim of enema, in the opinion of the attending physicians.

A party consisting of Peter Johnson and wife, Chas. Ross and wife, Dan Sullivan and Chas. Lyons from Laurel were here Sunday on their way to Omaha to attend the funeral of Mrs. August Johnson, and finding roads too bad for driving, waited here until the afternoon train. They were guests at the home of their former neighbors, Henry Korff and wife during their stay here.

The assessors are abroad in the land in all Nebraska, and one from Hamilton county wants the people to realize that the assessor has solemn duties to perform, and hopes they will do their full duty in his county, at least. One thing he urges those assessed to take and keep a duplicate of what they give in. He stated that it had been decided not to make any change in real estate values this year, other than to equalize as between farms.

Friday evening the Wayne Yeomen are planning a class initiation of new members, and State Manager Merrell and some of the Supreme officers are to be present and assist the local team in the work. Of course the new team is not yet doing perfect work, but they have made excellent progress in the past two weeks, and will not need to offer any apology for their work, considering that six months to a year are required to perfect the drill and parts in most instances. If you are a Yeoman you should not fail to attend the meeting tomorrow evening.

Gee, How Can a Feller Be Cheerful!

BASEBALL

The "fans" are thawing out, so that we feel we may appropriately occupy a little space concerning the local phase of our great national sport. We believe every town should have a ball diamond and ball team. There are two things that nearly always come to the forefront during the ball season that militate against the game as a clean recreation; especially is this true in the smaller towns where we notice such things more and where such matters always become more acute. The first thing is the matter of hiring out side players; this will eventually kill baseball in any small community. The other matter is Sunday playing. The writer is a clergyman, but we are writing in defence of the national game for our small towns. We do not propose to be drawn into any discussion on Sunday baseball other than to say we do not believe the game should be played on the first day of the week. But we have a suggestion, and it is not all hot air either for we have tried it and know what we are talking about. There are plenty of people in every community who would patronize baseball if played on a week day, but who would be knockers if the game were played on Sunday. The result being that small and hitherto peaceable communities become rent with strife and dissension, which does not stop with Sunday ball, once the blaze is started but burns on into the business and social life. Offhand, we are usually told that week day ball will not pay we know it will for we have seen it tried. If a ball team is willing to refrain from Sunday baseball, it obligates every minister and church member in the town and country to get behind the team and boost. Now, the writer is submitting the proposition to the following eight towns, all of whom are in driving distance. Wakefield, Wayne, Winside, Laurel, Beiden, Wausa, Randolph, and Carroll. Let the fans in each of these towns select three delegates. If you will correspond with the writer, we will take the responsibility of calling a meeting, where we can arrange a schedule with the understanding that at no time will any but bona fide home players appear in the "line-up" and that we will play one game each week say on Wednesday or Saturday, with the idea in view of appealing to local sentiment for support. The farmers giving their boys time off to see and participate in the games, the merchants closing their place of business during the game; then wind up the season with a grand tournament. This will do away with the agony of what many small towns are now going through in voting on the matter, and we feel confident will bring such support and backing to the game locally as could not be had otherwise. Call a meeting and talk it over and write me.

STANDARDS OF HIGH SCHOOL STUDENTS

Statement Issued by the Superintendent of the Chicago Schools—Much in It That Merits Approval.

To high school students: You are meeting the experience of life in contact with large numbers. To meet emergencies efficiently now will help you to solve life's problems successfully when you are older. The following statement of principles has been formulated by men and women who are interested in you. Their value depends upon the support you give. Talk them over with your parents and teachers. They are your best friends. Those who depart from good standards, injure not only themselves, but their school, their family and their community.

The Superintendent of Schools reports that, in conference with the deans and principals of high schools, statement of general principles has been evolved. The greatest force for good in the school, is the sentiment and public opinion of the main student body; it is believed that these young people and their parents will co-operate with the Board of Education in setting standards and in restraining the less responsible. The Superintendent suggest the following statement of general principles.

We believe the modern method of dancing has done much to break down respect for womanhood. We feel that on our part we cannot counteract this evil unless the parents realize the danger and help us maintain the standards.

We believe that jazz music has done much to corrupt dancing and to make it impossible for young people to learn the more refined forms of dancing, at the same time vitiating their taste for good music. It is the intention of the Board of Education and its officers that all dances given by the pupils of any high school shall be conducted within the high school building if possible. When this is not possible, the affair is to be so advertised that parents can make no mistake as to the responsibility and chaperonage of the school. The Superintendent asks that parents assure themselves that a dance so organized and conducted be not confused with a dance patronized by high school pupils but not authorized by the school.

We believe that the unrestricted use of the automobile is another demoralizing influence, and that parents who allow boys in their teens to take high school girls joy-riding, are doing much to break down the moral standards of the community.

We believe that in accordance with the State Law, pupils should refrain from smoking.

Extremes in dress are deplorable.

We believe that mothers should know that modesty and simplicity in high school girls' costumes are most helpful and uplifting to the school ideals.

We believe the young people of high school age should keep early hours and devote five evenings of the week in their high school studies.

We believe that parents should be invited to share in the patronage and chaperonage of all school functions.

Inasmuch as our greatest concern is to preserve the wholesome elements in the characters of our young people, and to insure a development into a strong manhood and womanhood, with a will to combat evil, the Superintendent feels that he has a right to the active support of the parents in these matters of standard and ideals.

Respectfully submitted,
Peter A. Mortenson,
Superintendent of Schools.

A WASTEFUL INDUSTRY

The coal miners now on strike have been poor or rich according to the bias of the person doing the figuring. The hourly wage of a coal miner is high.

The United States geological survey reports, however, that the soft coal miners of the United States averaged but a little over three days' work a week in 1921. Because of this lost time, the weekly or yearly wage of a coal miner last year does not seem large.

This was not a peculiar year in this respect. There was more lost time than usual, but on the average for thirty years the coal miners have lost 93 working days a year, about 30 per cent of their possible working time.

Hence even in average times, the coal mining industry has been supporting one third more laborers than the industry needed. This means either underpaid miners or overpriced coal or both. Not only are the men idle this large part of their time, but the mines also are idle. The country's coal bill contains not only the item of idle labor, but the cost of partly idle capital. These items might easily account for one fourth the price of coal at the mine.

The striking miners wish by means of a shorter hour day to make steady work for all the men now in the industry. This, supposing that the present eight hour day is right, would be merely to perpetuate the loss. What the country needs is mines running full time and at the full capacity of the miners. If there are more miners than needed to produce the coal the mines can dispose of, the surplus labor and should be put at producing something else of which the country has not enough. We now have a 700,000,000 ton mining capacity with a 500,000,000 ton market.

These are the bottom problems of the coal industry. The industry has too much labor and also too much capital to support. Its effort has been to insure support for the too much labor and the too much capital. It doesn't take long to see what that does to the consumer. And the consumer's interest should be, in the final test, the paramount one.—State Journal.

A mistake of the make-up of the State Journal put a death in the married column. Well, one may be a bit more serious than the other, but which one?

Keep your belt tight a little longer. The retail price of food is coming down in the cities, and that means the country a bit later, perhaps.

President Wilson was not the only one who had trouble to have his good work in treaty making ratified. Now that the senate has ratified the treaties recently made by the present administration, the French parliament is threatening to back-kick over the traces and refuse to put their o. k. on the pact without some reservations. That reservation idea seems to be catching. If this statement is not correct, lay it to Mark Sullivan, for he told it for facts in his letter the first of the week.

EDGAR HOWARD TO RUN FOR SEAT IN U. S. SENATE

Lincoln, Nebraska, April 3 (Special).—A meeting of progressive party leaders was held here Saturday night behind closed doors, and some of those who attended admitted afterwards that its purpose was to begin a movement looking to fusion between progressives and democrats, for all offices below United States senator and governor. Chairman J. H. Edmisten, of the progressives, was said to favor the fusion plan. Invitations were issued to a dozen or two more or less prominent democrats, but only a few appeared for the conference. Those who were invited, but remained away, said they believed such a plan will be futile. Suggestion was made that Anson H. Bigelow, of Omaha, tentative selection for United States senator by the progressives, be shifted to the office of attorney general and Edgar Howard, of Columbus, be substituted for senator. Mr. Howard was not at the meeting, but was represented by some of his intimates as being willing to make the race. Mr. Howard heretofore a democrat, has aligned himself with the progressives.

BETTER THAN RECLAMATION

(From The Milwaukee Journal)
There is no need of spending the country's money in costly irrigation and drainage projects so long as there is a vast amount of undeveloped agricultural land at our very door. In Wisconsin, Michigan and Minnesota alone there are 40,000,000 acres of cut-over timber land waiting to be transformed into farms. This land is near the markets, near railroads which put it within easy reach of markets. It is in a region of diversified agriculture so that it can produce all kinds of food products. Why, then, undertake to make farms in the desert in sparsely settled states, farms far from railroads and in many cases so far from markets that freight charges would prohibit competition with farmers near any of these markets? Only necessity could justify the enormous expenditure for irrigation projects and no such necessity exists. Clearing land, on the other hand, involves almost no cost except labor. Making the desert bloom makes so strong an appeal to the imagination that it is easy to induce the public to part with its money. But at present it is a "pork barrel" idea. There is not a public benefit to be obtained from reclamation which cannot be obtained at less cost, and more immediately and more effectively, by clearing cut-over timber land that lies close to the great markets.

RANDOLPH PEOPLE TO BACK HOME MAN

Randolph, Nebraska, April 3 (Special).—At a mass meeting held here a Randolph-for-governor committee was organized with C. C. Bacon as president, and M. P. Buol as secretary-treasurer. The committee is composed entirely of Randolph men and will be for the purpose of backing the home man. Seven members of the committee elected are: Geo. Reed, S. I. Black, J. W. Bowles, James Farrow, L. C. Brunner, W. H. Stage-man, and Henry Gaertner. Senator Randolph in a short talk expressed his thanks for the support shown him but did not touch on the question of his party politics.

Newspaper Not Limited
To Printing All the News
Conserving of People's Rights and Fidelity to Principles of America's Democracy Are Basis of World-Herald Conduct.

For more than a third of a century the Omaha World-Herald, under the ownership of Senator G. M. Hitchcock, has been the champion of true Americanism and of good government.

It has fought without swerving for fundamental democracy.

It has been the exponent of popular rights guaranteed by the constitution—the rights of free speech and a free press, of freedom of assembly, of religion, and of education—and has defended them whenever and by whomsoever assailed.

The World-Herald, under Senator Hitchcock's direction, has devoted itself to teaching understanding and respect for the constitution of the United States, respect for the law, the liberties of all citizens under the law, and the duty of government, under the constitution, to protect the lives and activities of the people and to respond to the settled popular will.

A daily reading of the World-Herald affords a liberal course of study and enlightenment in not only the duties and obligations, but the rights and privileges of American citizenship.

The World-Herald is a newspaper that does not stop with printing the news and commenting upon it. It believes that an American newspaper owes to its readers an educational duty as to basic principles, to help men and women fit themselves for the responsibilities of citizenship. Ours is a government of the people. It will be such as the people make it. And they will make it such as they are themselves. The stream cannot rise higher than its source. If greed and privilege entrench upon the people's rights, if cunning triumphs, if liberties are lost, it will be because the people do not understand and, because they do not, are unable to help and protect themselves.

It is more light and less heat that is needed in dealing intelligently with our public problems. Light that will enable the people to know what Americanism really is, the soul and truth of it, what are their powers and opportunities as electors in our government, what the government actually means to them.

There has been published recently a wonderful little book, called "The Short Constitution." It is the work of Judge Martin J. Wade of the United States federal court and of Dean William F. Russell of the college of education of the Iowa State university. This book translates the guarantees of the constitution into the language of the ordinary man, woman and child. It affords to the ordinary citizen knowledge of the relation of the constitution to his life and the lives of his children. It is a most helpful and inspiring work in the field of true, not spurious Americanism.

The World-Herald, beginning April 9th, will publish this book in daily installments. It takes the form of lectures delivered by a judge to children in the school room. It brings home to every man and woman, and to every child, the great truth Abraham Lincoln had in mind when he said:

"Government—Liberty—Authority—Law—the man or woman who fails to appreciate the true meaning of these terms, lacks the training necessary to be a good citizen of the republic."

The World-Herald wants all its readers to read these lectures. Especially it wants to interest the children, for the future of our republic is in their hands.

Therefore, the World-Herald is offering liberal prizes, open to all children in common schools, parochial schools and high schools, for essays based on these lectures, on "What the Constitution Means to Me." The study of the lectures, followed by writing a short essay—not to exceed 500 words—on the subject, will be an influence for good citizenship that will last through life. The World-Herald urges fathers and mothers to read these lectures themselves and to interest their children in them—and in the prize essay contest.

This is only an example of the work the World-Herald is doing to promote the cause of good citizenship and good government. It is a newspaper with ideals and convictions and with the courage to fight for them. While in a partisan sense it is democratic, as Senator Hitchcock is, it is something more than a partisan newspaper. It is independent and free, and it does not hesitate to disagree with the democratic party when it believes the party is wrong. It is the property solely of Senator Hitchcock and his close associates engaged in producing it. No corporations, no outside interests of any kind, own a dollar of its stock. Its owners are not financially interested in other enterprises or corporations. Its soul is its own, and it is free always to speak its own mind. It is a clean newspaper, free from sensationalism or objectionable matter in both its news and advertising columns. You can safely take it into your home and encourage your children to read it.

The World-Herald is by far the largest newspaper in Nebraska and by far the best. Much more money is spent to produce it. Yet the price is reasonable. It gives you more for the money not only than any other Nebraska paper, but than anything else you can buy. A year's subscription for the Daily and Sunday World-Herald is $6.00, or it will be sent you six months for $3.00. You could make no better investment for yourself and for your family—over 500 pages every month, or 6,200 news pages in a year's issues.

Entered as second class matter in 1884, at the postoffice at Wayne, Nebr., under the act of March 3, 1879.

WAYNE MARKET REPORTS

Following are the market prices quoted us up to the time of going to press Thursday:

Table with market prices for various goods: Corn, Yellow (.37), Corn, White (.37), Oats (.26), Springs (.15), Hens (.18), Stags (.12), Roosters (.06), Eggs (.18), Butter Fat (.32), Cattle ($5.00 to $7.50), Hogs ($8.00 to $9.00)

Edgar Howard, who is touring the south, writes from Mississippi, and says in substance that the state government of that commonwealth is so rotten that the man in the moon has to hold his nose when the revolution of the earth on its axis brings Mississippi state under him.

Edgar Howard of Columbus, who is traveling in the south with his eyes and ears open gathers the impression that the fight which the giant corporations are making on Henry Ford and his proposed methods of providing relief for the people will very likely make him a formidable candidate of the people for the democratic nomination for president.

Henry Ford is putting up a fight against the idea of contracting an interest-bearing public debt for real public improvement. He shows what a burden these improvements become when they saddle people not yet born with a debt for something that is perhaps gone and forgotten except for the balance due, after its original cost has been paid twice perhaps in interest.

C. F. Anstey in the New State makes a very nice comparison of two different taxes—the tax on what you make and the tax on what the other fellows take on necessities—the income and the tariff taxes, when he likens them to the goose and the golden egg. The income tax takes a part of the golden eggs—the tariff tax tends to kill the goose that lays the eggs.

The Poland China hog men are waking up to the fact that publicity is helpful, and from their headquarters the Democrat has just received three pages of propaganda, mostly telling of the hogs that breed, and what they have been doing, and for what they may win prizes.

Some who has taken the trouble to look up the records and figure the percentages says that the last census shows that less than four hogs out of each hundred on the Nebraska farms are purebred. Yet some people are afraid to go to breeding pure hogs, fearing that the business is being overdone.

While the publication of the personal tax list would probably add a few dollars to The Herald's revenue, it doubts very much the wisdom of having it printed at the present time.

The above item is taken from the Hartington Herald and doubtless voices the sentiment of Editor Stone, but we cannot agree with his view. We go to people asking them to advertise, and they look at the cost, and not the results. Brother Stone is looking at the cost, and because some of that expense would come to him, is to be given credit for being honest. It happens that the last man the editor talked with before seeing this little editorial was harping on that subject. He said that his personal property tax paid this spring was $15, and that was almost more than the furniture would bring—and he added, "I can stand in my yard and throw a stone into the homes of several neighbors who have," he is confident, "more personal property than I have, who paid, in some instances, less than a dollar taxes, and not one of them came near my tax in amount."

SOCIAL NOTES

The Queen Esther society was entertained at a 6 o'clock dinner Wednesday evening at the home of Rev. and Mrs. Wm. Kilburn. A two course dinner was served cafeteria style. A short business meeting was held and it was decided to send a box of clothing and cookies to Mother Jewels at York.

AND AGAIN I AM ON HAND WITH THE GOODS—THE
that has no superior. This feed is manufactured in Wayne—made fresh each week from the best of materials, and made so that an analysis will show that it is all feed, and a balanced ration. It is backed by a positive guarantee not to contain musty or mouldy grains so fatal to the little chicks.
The price is right, and no higher than other feeds that will not test as high in food value.
By the 100 lbs. or more, as you want it, Freshly Mixed
$2.25 cwt.
Use the heat and save your chicks, and make them thrive.
Oyster Shell, $1.60 per cwt.

Call To Organize Progressive Party
Meeting to Be Held at City Hall in Wayne to Organize County
Monday, April 10, 1922
At 2 o'clock p. m.
The formal organization will be under the direction of W. H. Green, who is to be here with the necessary papers to place the members of the cause in Wayne county in position to have a place on the ballot and also to have a primary ballot the same as the older parties.
Voters, whether men or women are asked to attend this meeting at Wayne (the place of holding to be announced later) and learn what you can of the new movement.
You may not agree with the principles of the new party, but you will want to know what they are before you fully decide. Therefore attend the meeting.

Wm. Fox again has his arm in a sling. About two months ago he broke a bone near the elbow while trying to crank his car. This time he was working on the car, using a wrench, which slipped when he was putting all his strength behind it, and in some manner the arm broke again, this time just the other side of the elbow. He has had it put in place; something not done promptly the first fracture, as he thought it only a sprain at first.

Nels Johnson left for Newman Grove Monday morning where he will attend a Farmers Union meeting and assist in organizing the farmers of that community for the United Grain Growers Association. Mr. Johnson stated that the Farmers Union is directing a campaign to enlist as many farmers as possible in the new grain corporation and that if the campaign proves successful it will only be a question of a year or two when the farmer will be in a position to dictate his own prices for the products he grows.—Winside Tribune.

Clyde Holcomb, a painter who is known in this county, but who has been in that business at Sioux City, is reported to have worked out a formula for paint that adds materially to its lasting quantities, and when he had it well guarded by patents, he sold the right to use same to a Detroit paint manufacturing concern for $36,000 and a royalty of 7 cents a gallon on all that is manufactured. He has quit the painting and is living at his ease in California. Geo. Motson of Winside was formerly a brother painter and partner, but he did not stay in the firm for the big strike.

Carload Semi-Solid Butter Milk

3½c per lb. next week

This car will contain sixty barrels and we wish to engage the co-operation of farmers on this well known auxiliary food. For pigs, calves and chickens, results considered, Semi-Solid Butter Milk is the most economic food obtainable. It's no experiment, scores of farmers know its merits, have been well pleased and will use it again this year. Just sold a barrel to be used exclusively for raising chickens.

Place your order and save $1.00

Everyone placing their order will save $1.00, this amount being saved by the carload proposition. If you are raising pigs or chickens you should be interested. Call us up, we will place you in direct communication with farmers in your own community who will tell you you can't afford to be without Semi-Solid Butter Milk. It's their own experience. SCHOOLS GET LITTLE OF MONEY SPENT
Very Little Money Is Used To Build Citizens

(From N. E. A. Press Service)
Throughout the country teachers are now being selected and salaries fixed for the coming year. Hundreds of thousands of public school teachers will be employed during the next few weeks.

This is no time for extravagance. However, there can be no retrenchment in the support of education. Money wisely expended for this purpose is an investment in citizenship. Every thoughtful citizen knows that a school with a poor teacher is worse than no school. Listen! More than half the teachers in this nation, 350,000 of them are not prepared according to any reasonable standard for teaching; namely, two years of professional training beyond the four year high school course.

There are teaching in Nebraska today many hundreds of girls who have made no preparation, nor had they given any thought to teaching until attracted by the salaries boards were compelled to pay in order to open their schools at all. Every position held by such unprepared teachers should be filled by trained teachers at the earliest possible date.

Our free public school system is an integral part of our free government, essential to its life and prosperity. A government of the people, and by the people, can be no better and no stronger than the composite citizenship of which it is constituted.

William Penn declared that the only way to preserve free government was by the education of all its citizens, "for which," said he, "spare no cost, for by such parsimony all that is saved is lost."

Washington urged his countrymen "to promote as objects of primary importance institutions for the general diffusion of knowledge. Jefferson, Adams and Madison taught that the education of all the people furnishes the greatest safeguard for our free institutions.

The greatest need of our country today is competent, well qualified teachers to train the future citizens of our nation.

Here and there we hear rumblings that salaries are to be reduced! Go slowly. We must attract people into that profession who will remain more or less permanently. The schools of tomorrow should be taught only by the best, and teaching should be made so inviting that it will attract and hold the best. Any reduction in the salaries of teachers or any failure properly to appreciate the importance of education will turn from the teaching profession those men and women who are now preparing for their life's work, who should be secured for this important field of public service.

More Luxuries Than Schools
We must learn to weigh values. Many families spent more for gas and more for rubber, to say nothing of the first cost of automobiles, than they did for school taxes last year. Let us cut down expenditures for luxuries. A nation that can spend $2,100,000,000 for tobacco can afford to pay for its education; that is three times as much as is paid to all the teachers in the country. There is spent for luxuries in this country more than $5,000,000,000 or four and a half times more than is paid to teachers of all grades of education. The salaries of all teachers could be doubled if instead of buying three cigarettes a man would buy two, and instead of buying three cigars, he would smoke two to the nib instead of throwing the butt away.

The hope of America is in her free schools. To elevate their standards and promote their efficiency should be the purpose of every American and citizen.

FRIENDSHIP

By C. A. Lufburrow
Friendship is like a bubbling spring. Unheralded it finds its way into the heart, from where no king could more completely hold its sway.

True friendship is a golden chain, Enduring, springing from above, A bond that none can rend in twain If every link is made of love.

True friendship is a lovely flower, Unfolding for another's sake, Growing more beautiful each hour If loyalty its petals make.

True friendship is a stalwart bridge, Unchanging, joining man to man, A high and holy privilege If service makes up every span.

Our friendship like a flowing stream We may divert, but cannot end; Choose well, and hold in high esteem That priceless, matchless gift, a friend.

DAKOTA COUNTY SCHOOL NOTES

W. E. Voss, Superintendent

Since the days have been short and somewhat cold, there has been considerable absence and tardiness in some of our rural and in one of our urban schools. The county attendance officer seems to think that this seasonal condition effects some parents so that they do not get up early enough to get their children to school on time if at all. It would appear that such things should not bring parents to cause children to be absent, tardy, or to play truant. The facts that have been collected in such cases would indicate that some of the parents in question seek to cover their neglect by offering the excuse for their children's absence that they had been "sick." Some of these "sick" children have been found to have spent those days, cut short by getting up in the middle of the forenoon, helping mother or father, skating, hunting, going to town, or killing time around the home. These cases are being taken care of as they come to our attention through the functioning of the attendance law. This is not so hard to do because every community has people who are interested to see that every child has an opportunity to get well the education obtainable through our free schools, and that the large sums of money spent for schools will render a full service to every child.

A striking indifference towards the educational interests of children is shown by some of the parents who plan to move elsewhere soon. They attempt to withdraw their children from school several weeks or even months before they will actually leave the district. This, of course, cannot be permitted; but what idea such parents have for taking their children out of school so soon before moving away is hard to tell. One would almost surmise that they feel that their sending the children to school is not intended so much for the good of the children as it is to satisfy a desire to conform in some measure with the custom and ideals of the people in general and incidentally with the requirements of the law. When these motives have been met in their estimation, our trouble begins. Already, we have a number of patrons who appear more or less highly incensed because it is being required of them to keep their children in school until their actual changing of residence takes place. Since they have taken the position that they may take their children out of school at any time they please under such circumstances, and we the position that they must keep their children in school, we can appreciate their attitude towards us and the law. With them as with nearly all other persons who have to meet requirements, it is just ordinary human nature functioning that makes trouble and not the nature of the requirement. While due allowance is made for this nature of people, nevertheless we feel in duty bound to see that all children attend school when possible. The educational interests of children go above all.

The hope of America is in her free schools. To elevate their standards and promote their efficiency should be the purpose of every American and citizen.

NOTICE OF SHERIFF'S SALE UNDER CHATEL MORTGAGE AND DECREE

POETIC

When Alice Smith had attained the age of 16 she undertook to alter the orthography of her given name to what it seemed to her, was a more poetic form. Accordingly, she began to sign herself Alyce. Thus designated she entered a new school and, of course, the first question put to her was with reference to her name. "Alyce Smith," she said, "A-l-y-c-e." "Thanks," said the teacher. "And how are you spelling Smith now?" Philadelphia Ledger.

FROM THE MONTHS' LETTERS

(From the Wayne County Teacher) District 56.

A box supper was given at the Hillside School on Friday, March 3. A large crowd attended and the program of songs, recitations and plays was enjoyed by all. The applause would have brought encores but none had been prepared. The proceeds of the sale of boxes amounted to $14.85. The money will be used for supplies for the school. Lauretta Whitney, teacher.

District 71, February 15.

We had a Christmas program which was well attended considering the weather. Yesterday being Valentine Day we had a valentine box. The pupils were all remembered. Most of the valentines were made in school and answered the purpose just as well as more expensive ones. Minerva Merrell, teacher.

District 32.

A pie social was held in District 32 Saturday evening, March 11. A short program was given by the pupils of the school and a play "Deacon Dubbs" was given by the young people of the district. The house was crowded. The pies averaged $1.18 and proceeds amounted to $50. A cupboard for books and dishes and one nice picture are to be purchased with the money. Hot lunches have been served very successfully in this school all winter. Grace Soden is the teacher.

District 40.

A program and basket social were held in District 40 on the evening of Washington's birthday. The program consisted of patriotic exercises, solos, dialogues and recitations, and was attended by a large crowd in spite of the disagreeable weather. Proceeds from sale of baskets will be used in purchasing a water cooler, pictures, classics, etc. Anna M. Mueller, teacher.

District 85.

On the 24th of February we gave a program and box social. The former consisted of dialogues, recitations and songs. Proceeds of boxes amounted to $23.75. Lella M. Baker, teacher.

District 64.

From District 64 we get the report of the purchase of a new covered water pail. The teacher gave each pupil a drinking cup, and each child uses his own cup. The children from each family also have a towel for their own use. Dallas Omev is the teacher.

District 85.

A play entitled "Valley Farm" was given in District 35 on Friday evening, February 24. Boxes were to be sold for admission. Mae Frink, teacher.

District 66.

A box social was held in District 66 on the evening of February 10. The program consisted of recitations, songs and drills by the pupils and a play was given by the young people of the district. The social was largely attended and the proceeds amounted to $32.60 which will help to pay for a teacher's desk. Aylene Nelson, teacher.

District 80.

We had a program and a box social at our school house Friday evening February 24th. Quite a number were present and the proceeds amounted to $40. We have not yet decided what we will get. Elsie Helms, teacher.

District 26.

It was reported that a good program was given in District 26 on the evening of February 28. It was a Washington program. The sale of twelve boxes brought $26.80. Proceeds will go for window shades, sanitary water jar and library books. Amanda Koerner is the teacher.

District 42.

We have 15 square feet of new blackboard, also a place at the board for chalk and erasers. We also have new shades for the windows. The school board put new screens on all the windows at the beginning of the term. Four of my pupils moved away this month, but I have three new ones, making thirteen pupils in all. I have all of the grades except part of the third, so I am very busy. Christine Beck-Mast is the teacher.

District 62.

A program and box supper were held in District 62 on the evening of February 9th. Proceeds $22.80. Irene Carpenter, teacher.

District 29.

On February 22, Washington's Birthday, the last quarter of the day was given over to fun. The teacher and some of the pupils entertained in honor of the pupils who expected to move from the district. Games were played until five o'clock and everyone had a fine time. Refreshments consisting of doughnuts, cake, popcorn-balls and cocoa were served. Sara Milliken is the teacher.

District 59.

February being the month when several of our noted and honored men have birthdays, the pupils decided to hold a short program on Washington's birthday.

The pupils recited poems which they had memorized and read stories they had written for their language lessons.

After the program the children amused themselves by playing games. One game which was very interesting was for the pupils blindfolded to pin their hatchet to the cherry tree. The one pinning it nearest the hack received a prize.

We also had a Christmas program. It consisted of songs, dialogues, and recitations. We had a tree and imaginary fireplace and everyone received a present which Santa Claus had placed near the fireplace under the tree. The gathering was another successful Parents' and Teacher's Meeting. We are having hot lunches at school and the pupils enjoy it very much. Ruth V. Hanson, teacher.

OF GENERAL INTEREST

Eighth graders who have not attended their required 120 days before the examinations will need to get in the remainder after the examinations.

Out of thirteen pupils enrolled in District 65 ix had not missed a day at the end of the sixth month. Blanche Johnson is the teacher.

In District 51 there are 26 pupils enrolled. All except two had attended more than 100 days out of the first six months. Doris Swanson is the teacher.

In District 80 five out of the thirteen pupils had attended 120 days at end of the sixth month. Elsie Helms is the teacher.

20 of the rural teachers have not yet paid their subscription to the Wayne County Teacher. It is fifty cents. We would be delighted to receive these subscriptions for we need them.

EVIDENCES OF GOOD CITIZENSHIP

(From The Nebraska Teacher)
The following may be helpful to your eighth graders in the examinations:

What does the good citizen do? As an excellent exercise in the teaching of good citizenship, it is well to have the children observe practical affairs in the community and make a list of the most important things a good citizen does. Let each child first make his own list, then the lists may be combined into one list representing the best thought of the group.

Here is a list of the ten best points collected by the children of a standard rural school:

1. A good citizen pays taxes and cheerfully supports the government.
2. A good citizen votes at every election.
3. He supports good schools.
4. He attends church and helps pay church expenses.
5. A good citizen works hard.
6. He saves money.
7. He loves his family and plays with his children.
8. He helps cripples, sick persons, and poor persons.
9. He reads good books and newspapers.
10. He builds up his community and never knocks.

After a free discussion, have the pupils put their lists in the best possible form, and have them take home copies of the common list they prepare:

INCOMPETENTS ARE KEPT

The annual turnover in the government service is something almost incredible. No business corporation, however strongly established, could long endure the heavy annual drain on its resources. Hundreds of men leave the government service daily; and new, untrained people have to be taken on and taught to do the work. This costs money, as every employer knows.

The resignations from the government service are chiefly from the supervisory and most highly paid positions and from the very lowest grades. The men at the top, if they have any initiative or ability or ambition to make a name for themselves, are offered private employment at double or treble or more what the government can pay them. The people in the lowest grades leave for private employment when opportunity affords because in too many instances they actually cannot keep body and soul together on their government pay.

It is the people in the middle class who stay on the longest. The whole constant process makes for a steady deterioration in the quality of the government service and tends to retain the mediocre in public employment.

The civil service commission, through which the great bulk of government employees are brought into the service, is acutely aware of this condition. Its reports give emphasis to the difficulty constantly experienced in securing and retaining competent employees. The rotation in office has become increasingly frequent and vitally impairs the efficiency of the service.

During the war there was a lower rate of turnover in the mechanical forces than in outside establishments. The proposition of separations, however, is excessive in clerical, professional and technical positions, in which the rate of turnover sometimes amounts to a third of the force in a year.

During the nine months preceding the armistice more than 60,000 appointments were made in the civil service and about 28,000 separations occurred—that is, for every two appointments made one person left the service. For a period of similar length following the armistice only 60 per cent as many appointments were made, but there were nearly 83 per cent more separations. In this period almost as many positions were vacated as were filled.

The exigencies of the war required a great expansion of the clerical forces at Washington and elsewhere and this was accomplished by a labor turnover several times above normal. The percentage of declinations of appointments among eligibles on the civil service register increased in many instances from 30 to more than 50 per cent—that is, more than half the men and women who successfully passed civil service examinations and were offered jobs under the government refused to take them. It is estimated that more than 950,000 of those who met the test were appointed during that time.

The civil service commission says flatly:

"Those familiar with the federal service at Washington know that the service is now hampered by the retention of incompetents whose removal is rendered difficult by influences which are incompatible with the efficiency of the service. Preferences and exemptions increasingly clog the departments with persons who, no matter how inefficient, are difficult to remove, and whose retention tends to destroy the discipline of the service."

Among these inefficient, of course are the superannuated and the physically incapacitated. The bureau of efficiency estimated, before the passage of the superannuation retirement law, the number of employees in the civil service of the United States seventy years of age and over as follows:

Number	Total
Railway postal clerks.....	43
Rural letter carriers.....	43
City letter carriers.....	53
Post office clerks.....	28
Mechanics.....	23
General employees, Dist. Columbia.....	1,49
General employees elsewhere.....	1,40
Total	4,20

The commissioner of pensions supplies the following compact statement of the age of the employees in the pension bureau:

Number in the classified civil service, 874; age of the oldest employee, eighty-eight; number over eighty years of age, 26; number between sixty-five and eighty, 266; based on age of sixty-five, number eligible for retirement, 292; percentage of employees eligible for retirement, 33.4; average age of all employees, July 1, 1919, fifty-eight.

These old men and women bear the burden of the administration of the complex, intricate and involved procedure under the pension laws having to do with the disbursement of $222,169,292 in 1920 to 600,000 and some odd beneficiaries.

MISERIES OF AGE

"THE paper tells of an old man who fell out of bed and broke an arm and three ribs," announced the landlady. "It doesn't seem possible, unless the bed was as high as an ordinary, old-fashioned walnut bookcase."

"I have no doubt that the bed was entirely normal," said the star boarder. "The fact that the victim was an old man explains everything. When I was young I frequently fell out of bed. It was a favorite pastime of mine, so to speak. And I never was injured in the least. Of course it roused me from my sleep, and I used to consider it funny, and would sit on the floor and laugh with demonic glee. But if I fell out of bed now it would be necessary to ring up the Red Cross headquarters for an ambulance and a few nurses."

"It is that sort of thing which makes age tragic. Every little mishap means suffering to the elderly individual. Go think of it, in silence and alone, Mrs. Jiggers."

"I remember when I first learned to skate. I was a young man, just growing my maiden sideboards. I should have learned the noble art when I was a boy, but my education in honest sports had been sadly neglected. It's better late than never, as the old adage has it, and so I took up the study of skating when I was at the voting age. It was on a brilliant winter day, and all the beauty and chivalry of the neighborhood had gathered at the pond to see me do my devils."

"An expert skater who was present assured me that there was no trick to it. All I needed was confidence, he said, and I believed him. It looked passing easy, as I watched the others, gliding over the ice with ease and grace. So I fastened on my skates and stood erect, with the help of a couple of innocent bystanders, and then I went forward boldly, on my own initiative. Immediately I lost control of my feet, which previously had been docile and obedient organs. They wouldn't do anything I wanted them to, and the result was that I came down on the back of my head with such emphasis that I shook the whole pond, which was several miles long. The crack in the ice that I made with my head was there until the ice melted in the spring, and then you could see it in the water."

"I lay there in a comatose condition for a minute or two, and then scrambled to my feet and smiled. Yes, my dear Mrs. Jiggers, I actually smiled. The smile may have been a pallid, sickly thing, but it was true to type and couldn't have been mistaken for anything else. I was so little injured by that cataclysmic fall that I could smile. Not a bone was broken, not a joint dislocated. In a few hours I was as good as new, with the exception of a lump on the back of my head about the size of a baked turnip."

"Outwardly I look much as I did then. People often say to me that I haven't aged any in a quarter of a century. My hair is like the raven's wing, my alabaster brow has few wrinkles, I have the stately and commanding port of a man half my age. But it is all a delusion, Mrs. Jiggers, I am a whitened sepulcher. Inwardly I am as old as any man, and my bones are brittle as pipe stems, and my muscles are all dried up, and if I stumble over a pin cushion I dislocate an ankle or break a leg."

"The other day I stepped on an orange peel and came down on the sidewalk. I didn't fall violently. In fact, it took me ten minutes to fall. I struggled so hard to save myself, grasping at the atmosphere and trying to balance myself like a tight rope walker. But when I did eventually reach the pavement I felt as though the end had come to my misspent life. My head ached for three days, and all my bones felt out of place, and my teeth were loose in their sockets. This thing of being old, Mrs. Jiggers, isn't what it's cracked up to be."

Very Likely.
Church: "Do you remember when they used to put a calloso at the end of a circus procession?"
Gotham: "Sure, I do?"
"Why did they do that do you suppose?"
"To show that the worst was yet to come, I reckon."

Made No Rash Promises.
"Who was the smooth talker?"
"A promoter."
"I dare say he wanted to make you rich in six months?"
"No. He was very conservative. He said he thought it would take at least a year."

The Reason.
"I see in a new production of 'Othello' they use electric lights in the murder scene."
"Probably that is to make Desdemona's death more shocking."

SUCCESSFUL TOMATO GROWING DESCRIBED

Bulletin Gives Different Methods Used in Industry.

Much Depends on Good Farm Practices, Seeds, Plants, Fertilizer, Planting, Cultivation and Thorough Spraying.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

About 2½ quarts of canned tomatoes is the yearly per-capita consumption in the United States, according to figures of the United States Department of Agriculture. How the tomato is grown, put up, and shipped, together with practices followed in communities where its cultivation is highly specialized, are given in Farmers' Bulletin No. 1233, recently issued, copies of which may be obtained free of charge upon application to the Department of Agriculture at Washington.

Hardy Tomato Plant Started in Pot.

ton, D. C. The bulletin also contains valuable suggestions to growers as to methods which are profitably followed where the crop is most successful.

The story of the tomato is that of a delicacy which has lived down a bad name and come into its own after years of effort. Of American origin, it attracted unfavorable attention first about 1800, and for a long time was branded as poisonous and consequently avoided. Later, designated as the love apple, it found favor with a few lovers of delicacies and with growers. By 1887 the total pack of canned tomatoes in the United States was about 3,000,000 cases of 24 one-quart cans each. Now the commercial pack, exclusive of soups, purees, ketchup, and pulp exceeds 10,000,000 cases of 24 No. 3 cans. These figures do not include the millions of cans put up by housewives for home consumption or the fresh tomatoes which grace American tables during the growing season.

Chief among the states where tomatoes are raised for canning are, in order named: Maryland, Indiana, Missouri, Delaware, New Jersey, New York, Utah, Illinois, Kentucky, Ohio, Pennsylvania, Tennessee, Virginia, and West Virginia. The acreage planted in tomatoes for canning purposes only in 1920 was 244,745. The yield from that acreage was 1,003,358 tons.

The bulletin follows the methods used from the seed to the can, describes methods of planting, soils best adapted for the vegetable's growth, tells how the crop may best be harvested, and sums up the chief requirements for good results as follows:

GOOD EMERGENCY FEED CROP

Sudan Grass Is Rapidly Replacing Millet in Many States—Useful Summer Pasture.

Sudan grass is admirably adapted for use as an emergency hay crop, and is rapidly supplanting millet in many states. It is being used successfully by thousands of farmers as a summer pasture. For this purpose there are few crops that give better returns and serve so well to supplement the permanent pastures and the feed lot.

FEED CROPS ARE NECESSARY

May Not Bring in Much Money, But They Take Care of Animals Which Can Be Sold.

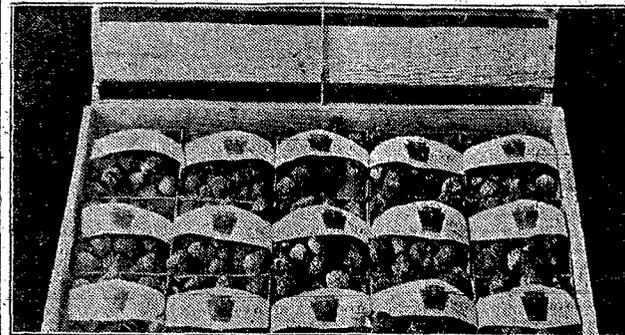

Feed crops may not bring much cash but they are very convenient to take care of the animals. The animals may be converted into cash or the products from animals such as milk, cream, etc. It is not an easy matter to produce too much feed. It is hoped that the money generally paid out for feed will be kept at home this year.

GIVE SOY BEANS ATTENTION

Crop Should Not Be Overlooked by Progressive Farmer in Adjusting Corn Acreage.

Soy beans should not be overlooked by the progressive farmer in the readjustment of his corn acreage. They require careful attention like corn, but they will make his decreased acreage of corn worth more money. It is a high-protein, high-oil crop in one.

GROWTH OF STRAWBERRY INDUSTRY DUE TO INTELLIGENT MARKETING

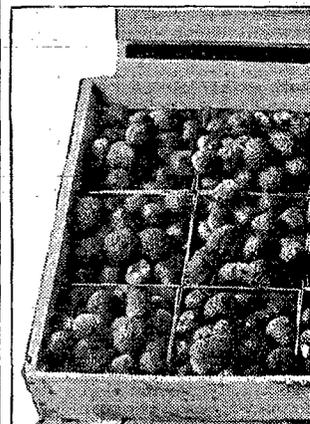

Paper Labels for Special Shipments.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Within six years Louisiana has taken first place among the states as regards value of strawberry production. The 1921 season was the best ever known in the industry, 1,400 carloads of Louisiana berries being marketed in 74 cities in the United States and Canada. In Chicago the 24-pint crates brought as much as $6.50 each, and during practically the entire marketing season Louisiana strawberries sold at a higher price than any other berries on the market, due to the high quality of the product.

With such a record of achievement, much interest centers in the opening of the 1922 marketing season. As heretofore a field station of the United States Department of Agriculture will be maintained in the Hammond district during the season to keep producers and shippers informed daily of strawberry marketing conditions in the principal consuming markets, prevailing prices, carlot shipments from competing areas, and other marketing data essential in the scientific marketing of agricultural products, and granted favorable conditions the 1922 season should surpass even the 1921 record.

Nation-Wide Distribution.
The Louisiana strawberry industry is of national importance. The crop has nation-wide distribution, the carlot shipments spreading out like a fan from the Atlantic coast to the Rocky mountains. Last year 29 carloads also went to four cities in Canada. Chicago is the principal market for the fruit, Detroit, Boston, Pittsburgh and New York ranking next in the order given. Heat, cold and distance—marketing obstacles that seemed insurmountable a few years ago—have been overcome by the growers and shippers, and with continued careful selection, grading, packing and shipping, marketing experts say that the industry will enjoy increasing prosperity.

During the early years of the strawberry industry in Louisiana several varieties of berries were grown, and Chicago was the main market outlet. Today the Klondike variety is grown exclusively, and Louisiana strawberries have a wider distribution than the strawberries from any other section of the country. The quality of the fruit is dependable, and there is everywhere a demand for the berries. When picked the berries are carried to packing-sheds, where practically each one is handled separately. Both the 24-pint Hallock crate and the 24-pint ventilated crate have been used in packing the fruit, although during the past few seasons there has been a considerable decrease in the use of Hallock's crates, which are known locally as "coffin" crates. Practically all growers are now using ventilated crates, as berries shipped in such containers arrive at market in sound condition and usually command a premium over the price paid for berries in non-ventilated crates.

Trains of Strawberries.

Fully 90 per cent of the marketed crop is shipped by express, the railroad company providing two or three express fruit trains daily. These trains run on a schedule of 40 miles an hour, which puts the fruit on the Chicago market before daylight the second morning. Less than carload shipments are cared for by the express company, which operates localiced cars to pick up small shipments.

The growers have good transportation facilities; deliveries are prompt, and few instances are known where cars have not arrived at destination on time. Strawberry buyers from the large consuming markets establish headquarters at Hammond during the marketing season, sales being made on a cash f. o. b. shipping point basis. The fruit is inspected at shipping point and acceptance taken before the cars move. At Ponchatoula all cars are sold at public auction.

Several strawberry preserving plants in the district utilize overripe and soft stock in the preparation of fruit for the ice cream and soda fountain trade in northern cities.

Perhaps the principal reason for the prosperity enjoyed by Louisiana's berry growers is that they keep themselves closely informed upon day-to-day market conditions. The producers appreciate that "knowing the markets" enables them to meet the consumers' desires as regards quality and quantity, and that to overstock one market when another market is undersupplied is unsound from both an economic and financial viewpoint. Every day during the marketing season a daily report of conditions and prices at the principal marketing centers throughout the country is issued by the local representative of the United States Department of Agriculture. This information is obtained by trained market reporters at consuming points.

The growers are also informed as to daily carlot shipments everywhere in the United States. Thus the producers not only know the prices being paid for berries at the various consuming markets, but exactly what competition may be expected from other sections shipping strawberries at about the same time. The department also furnishes daily information regarding temperature and weather conditions, so that the necessary icing and refrigeration can be provided for the shipments.

Information for Growers.

The department's station at Hammond was opened in 1915, and was the first field station established anywhere by the United States Department of Agriculture for the issuance of market news reports. Here, in the heart of Louisiana's strawberry producing district, arrangements were first made to study methods of packing, shipping, and distributing strawberries in the United States; to keep growers informed of strawberry movements from other regions, and to inform them daily of prices and conditions in the leading consuming markets. Hammond was selected as the location for the department's first field station because of the large proportions that the Louisiana strawberry industry had attained. Louisiana then ranked fourth in commercial strawberry importance. Today the state ranks second in carlot shipments.

ROUND POSTS MOST DURABLE

One Kind of Timber Will Last as Long as Others if Amount of Heartwood Is the Same.

Is a split fence post as durable as a round fence post? This is a question frequently asked of the United States Department of Agriculture. The fact is, says the forest products laboratory, one kind of post will last about as long as the other if the amount of heartwood is the same in both. But if the percentage of sapwood is increased by splitting, the split post will be less durable and if the percentage of heartwood is increased, it will be more durable than a round one. Posts of spruce, hemlock, or any of the true firs are exceptions to this rule, because their heartwood and sapwood are about equally durable.

When posts are to be treated with creosote or other preservative, a round post is preferable to a split post, because of the comparative ease with which the sapwood can be treated. The heart faces on split posts do not, as a rule, absorb preservative well. Split red-oak posts will take treatment, because the wood is very porous, but the heart faces of split posts of many other species, notably white-oak, red gum, and Douglas fir, resist the penetration of preservative, even under heavy pressures.

TOO MUCH MANURE INJURIOUS

Fertilizer May Burn Crop if Season Is Very Dry—No Fear of Harm if Worked In.

The claim that too much manure will burn up the crop is only partly true. It may if it is a very dry season and the manure is not worked well into the soil. But there is little likelihood of injury from a heavy application, if worked in right. Far more corn has been lost through too little than through too much manure.

PLANT ENGLISH PEAS EARLY

Seed Should Be Put into Ground as Soon as Soil Will Permit—Some Good Varieties.

English peas should be planted just as soon as the soil will permit. Thomas-Laxton, Alaska, Horstford's Market Garden, and Telephone are excellent varieties, and the Telephone late. The seed should be sown thickly in the drill in rows 3 feet wide and covered 5 to 6 inches deep.

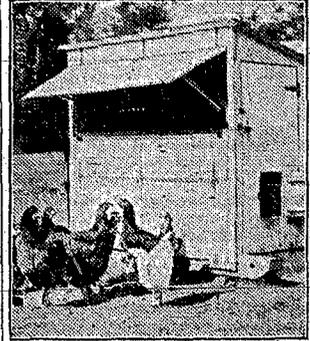

FARM POULTRY

GRESOL GOOD DISINFECTANT

Added to Water It Makes Excellent Solution for Spraying Houses or Prefrises.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

The kerosene emulsion which is frequently used to destroy mites may readily be converted into a disinfectant, according to the United States Department of Agriculture. The emulsion is made by shaving one-half pound hard laundry soap into one-half gallon soft water. Boil the mixture until soap is dissolved and then, after removing it to a safe distance from the fire, stir into it while hot 2 gallons of kerosene. This makes the stock mixture. When it is to be used as a house killer, 1 quart of the emulsion is mixed with 10 quarts of water. When it is to be used as a disinfectant, stir well and add 2 pints of crude carbolic acid or crude cresol. The compound solution of cresol is one of the best disinfectants that can be purchased ready to use. It contains 50 per cent of cresol and a pint of it in 10 quarts of water makes the right solution to apply to houses or spray over the ground. A 5 per cent solution of carbolic acid (1 pint carbolic acid, 10 quarts water) is about equally efficacious.

ESSENTIALS OF INCUBATORS

Chief Point, Whether Small or Large Machine Is Used, Is to Have Air Fresh.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Incubators are operated successfully in a great variety of places. Small machines generally are set in a room or the cellar of the house. A special cellar or incubator house should be provided where the incubator equipment is extensive or where mammoth machines are used. The chief points are to have a room which is not subject to great variations in temperature and which is well ventilated, so that the air is fresh and pure, according to Farmers' Bulletin 1100, Incubation of Hens' Eggs, issued by the United States Department of Agriculture.

If built above ground the walls of the incubator house should be double and the entire building well insulated. Incubators may be operated in buildings with single walls, especially in mild climates, but a well-insulated room is preferable. Good results in hatching are secured in incubator cellars and in incubator rooms which are entirely above the ground level.

The incubator room or cellar should be large enough to allow the attendant to work around the machines conveniently. Many incubator cellars are provided with some system of ventilation in addition to the windows, while in others the ventilation is controlled entirely by the latter method. Muslin screens on the windows provide good ventilation without draft and at the same time keep the direct rays of the sun from the machines. Many incubator cellars have cement floors, which are easier than dirt floors to keep clean and neat.

EXPERIENCE MOST ESSENTIAL

No Great Difficulties Offered in Operation of Modern, Improved Incubators.

Modern, improved incubators offer no great difficulties in order to achieve success, yet like running almost any other machine, the better they are understood by the operators, the easier they can handle them. This ease and simplicity is only attained after a thorough knowledge of the principles involved and a familiarity formed from a frequent employment of them; in other words, experience.

Spade up the yard frequently.

Build a cheap house or shelter.

Grow some green crop in the yard.

Neglected colds are the forerunners of roup.

Keep hens free from lice and the house free from mites.

There is this to say for the incubator: You need not wait for it to get in the hatching notion.

ROBBIE ROBIN

"It is so since," chirped Robbie Robin, "that almost every one knows me by sight at least. And most people know my voice when they hear it and the different songs and calls I have."

"I am glad of that for I like many people. I like friends and I like to be about. I am naturally sociable and I am not a snob."

"I've a fine voice and I look quite smart, I'm told, but I am not a snob. And I wouldn't be a snob for anything."

"I Do Enjoy Sprinkling."

"A snob is a creature who puts on airs and who thinks he is better than other creatures. And I know what I think of a snob."

"Do tell me," said Mrs. Robble. "I think a snob is a foolish creature," said Robbie Robin. "Any creature who thinks he is better than some one else is foolish."

"How does he know he is better than any one else? He doesn't know it. Perhaps he may have more money or better clothes than the next person, but he may not have any right to be a snob."

"He may be mean and cross and selfish. Or he may be silly and vain. A snob is always rather apt to be like that. And those who have a right to be snobs never are."

"That sounds very strange," said Mrs. Robble. "Pray explain."

"Well," said Robbie, "any one who is fine enough to be a snob is too fine to be a snob. A snob is such a silly, conceited thing that any one who has the right to put on airs wouldn't do it because that would make such a person at once become a silly, conceited creature."

"Oh, I see, chirp, chirp, I see," said Mrs. Robble.

"I would never be a snob," said Robbie. "I believe in being friendly and sociable. I'll go walking and hopping on green grass whether it is the grass of a person who owns a fortune or whether it is the grass of a person who has very few extra pennies lying around."

"But oh, Mrs. Robble, how I do enjoy sprinkling myself. I wish that people would give me drinking dishes of water which are big enough for me to bathe in, too."

"A great many do this, and I am very thankful. It is kind of people to give us drinking dishes and bathtubs. But I also wish they would be quite careful to put these dishes where they are pretty sure that cats cannot get at them, for cats may come for us when we're not on our guard and when we're bathing and having a fine time."

"But dear Mrs. Robble, though we are so fond of a good bath as often as we can get one we're very bad housekeepers. They say our nests are considered very dirty, for we don't bother much about how we build them. We build very carelessly and we use weed stalks or bits of dried grass or mud or anything else that is handy."

"Yes, that is true," said Mrs. Robble, "but I am fond of my untidy home. I sit on two broods of eggs through the summer and sit on four eggs at a time."

"But I stay in the same nest. Even though it is a bit untidy I like it."

"But I'm not a fancy creature."

"Oh, Mrs. Robble, I've been told that there are some fine worms in the lawn three places down from here. Let us fly there and have a little meal."

"I don't believe it will be a little meal," said Mrs. Robble. "We're not strong for little meals. We're great for big meals."

"How many worms we can eat! And how we love to gobble them down whole!"

"We have good appetites, you and I."

"Indeed we have," said Robbie. "So they flew off and had a fine meal and then Robbie Robin sang a song of joy, and this was what he sang: I love the whole world and I love every part of it."

To sing and to eat are both lots of fun. I wouldn't be silly and not like a snob. For no robin would and, and least of all Robbie.

"For that," he said, "is my name when I'm making up songs, as it rhymes more easily than Robbie."

Properly Refused Citizenship.
Thirty-seven applicants for American citizenship were recently rejected in the federal courts of Boston, Mass., on the grounds that all had claimed exemption from military service during the World War on the plea that they were aliens. The list included Greeks, Swedes, Russians, Irish, Norwegians, Turks and Armenians.

ENGINEER HIRED TO LAY OUT SEWERAGE

At a special meeting of the village council one evening last week, an engineer was employed to proceed at once to lay out a sanitary sewerage system, and to furnish the board a blue print of the same.

At the same time the engineer was instructed to outline the project for the extension of water mains and to extend circulating connections, so that possibility of stagnant water proposition at the water heads will be eliminated.

It was the intention and still is the intention of the board to install these improvements, which above all civic improvements, are needed the most.

However, it will be up to the new board elected to take up these improvements where the old board lets go, or to relegate the whole thing to the waste basket—Emerson Inter-prise

JUST BRIEF MENTIONS

The steel king says that March was the best business month yet for steel interests. How about the steel interests? They are reported to have been active also.

The mine strike is on and more than half a million coal miners are out. Well, most of us can worry along during the summer months, but if the winter catches the coal pits empty there will be trouble. The operators do not admit that they should take any part in the game looking to settlement.

Uncle Sam is going to check border booze runners. The first line of attack is to be between Canada and New York.

NEW ODDITIES IN LEGISLATION

Freak Proposals Common Among State Lawmakers

New York, April 1.—The Kentucky legislator who proposed that moonshiners be compelled by law to equip their "stills" with whistles that could be heard for two miles has no monopoly of the unusual in proposed legislation for the solons who sit in legislative halls of state capitals are prone to sarcasm, irony and jokes.

Some odd bills have cropped up in the state legislative sessions now drawing to a close.

For example there is the bill introduced in the New York state assembly making hypocrisy a misdemeanor and defining it as "the act of a person who for pay, gift or other valuable thing publicly advocates and supports any legislative measure restraining free exercise of personal liberty or the act of any person who solicits funds for such support."

The measure is aimed at "reform" organization workers.

The Massachusetts legislature had before it in this year's session a bill making church-going compulsory for every resident of the state who was physically or mentally capable of attending church.

Another measure proposed in Massachusetts provided that every candidate for public office must be examined by a justice of the superior court to determine whether he is qualified to hold office to which he aspires.

A bill in the Massachusetts legislature authorized the appointment of a special legislative committee to make an official tour of July visit to the Irish free state at the expense of its members.

Some of the unusual legislation proposed is obviously aimed at what the authors regard as injustice.

Housewives who do not share in joint control of the family income found a champion in Mrs. Margaret Laird of Newark, N. J., who introduced a bill in the New Jersey legislature enabling married women to control the wages they earn in their own homes.

Another New Jersey measure would exempt nurses from jury duty.

A third would enable innocent persons to collect from the state $1 a day for each day of confinement in jail, provided they proved their innocence.

The fools are not all dead.

SPRING'S MESSENGER

(From World-Herald) When the last snowdrift is melting, And bright brooks fill to their brim; When green grass comes shyly peeping

From the warm knoll's sunny rim; When on bare boughs, gently swaying In the Southland's breezes warm, Baby buds await life's summons

Snuggly cradled from the storms— Then there comes a flash of crimson And a bird call, crisp and clear— 'Tis our old red-breasted Robin With the glad news, "Spring is here!"

HOT LUNCH FOR TWO CENTS

Hot lunches, consisting of creamed potatoes, soup, peas, cocoa, etc., were served the schoolchildren of Friend, Nebraska, during the last year at an average cost of two cents a day for each child. The lunches were prepared by the pupils in the domestic science department and the expenses were covered by the school board.

AN ALUMNA LETTER

(From The Goldenrod) Miss Frances Oman, '13, who is attending the Dunbar School of Opera in Chicago writes of her work and interests as follows:

"I am completing my first term's work this week and feel that my time has been well spent. The school is just two blocks from the place where I room which is located near Jackson Park and is just two blocks from the lake. There are five other girls from the school here and I dare say the neighbors know that we are studying music.

"We have a class in ensemble singing four days in the week where we are taught the chorus parts to the different operas. We have recently been studying such compositions as Cavalleria Rusticana, Mikado, Rudigore, Firefly and Bohemian Girl. I also have private lessons in voice and dramatic art and class lessons in make-up and stage dancing.

"I have enjoyed seeing so many of our Wayne friends here. They have made me feel quite at home. The Musselmans live only a short distance from my room and the University is not far away. I was invited out to Fousers for tea one Sunday and enjoyed them and their hospitality so much. The other day I was surprised to meet Vern, Anderson on the street. She has an office down town and has a good practice as a nerve specialist, I understand.

"I was happy to receive and look through the Register. It is a pleasant reminder of our Alma Mater and makes me all the more proud of that worthy institution. I regret deeply that I shall have to miss Homecoming Day this year but I do not expect to be home at that time. I have attended every one since my graduation and have regarded those days as among the happiest I have spent."

Miss Oman's address is 5498 Cornell Avenue, Chicago, Illinois.

A DEFENSE FOR LIBERTY

The following letter was apparently written in reply to the discussion concerning fads in hair and dress now prevalent in colleges and universities everywhere. And perhaps while reading the article the reader might appreciate it more if he were informed that a young man, not a woman, is the author.

Knowing the general scarcity that sometimes shows itself in the news world, I submit the following for publishing.

The time has not been so many months passed that the chief topic of conversation was whether the proper length of a girls skirt was a little over two feet. In fact the greatest argument resulted in how little this little shouldn't be. Two weeks ago we heard a man from Omaha tell us about the future use of free air. Today they are discussing free HAIR.

Recently several business firms have announced that they will no longer employ short-haired women. Is not this an unwarrantable infringement of personal liberty? Is there a word in the Declaration of Independence or the Constitution of the United States, to justify it? A thousand times no. In fact, short hair for women, as any honest and intelligent person can see, is the shortest route to life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness (if not always beauty) and the right to it is affected neither by race, color, nor any previous condition of servitude or convention. Let it not be said in this country of the free and the home of the brave that any American women need repeat those historic words of Patrick Henry, "Give me liberty—or BOBBED-HAIR."

Very truly yours, One who wears them short.

RECEIVE SCHOLASTIC HONORS AT UNIVERSITY

(From The Goldenrod) Miss Margaret Schemel, '14, of Lincoln, formerly of Hoskins, and Miss Paula Mittelstadt of Winside, who attended the Normal as a junior in 1917, were among the forty-eight seniors at the University of Nebraska, who were elected last Thursday to the Lincoln Chapter of Phi Beta Kappa, national scholastic fraternity.

The group included eight men and thirty-nine women and both the highest grade and the lowest grade were made by men. Only students who have completed 64 hours of work in the University are eligible to the honor. One-sixth of the eligible members of the present senior class were elected.

Miss Schemel, taught in the language department of the Wayne school three summer terms and will be an instructor in that department again this summer.

Mrs. Small—Well, Hazel, you have certainly fallen off since I last saw you. How do you manage to do it?

Hazel—I thought the best way to reduce was to starve myself, so I became a school-teacher.

TO PIONEERS OF NEBRASKA

We settled the sweeping prairie And turned over the virgin sod Lived very close to nature— And worshipped nature's God.

Our children played in the sunshine— Their lives happy and free Never dreaming of City or fashion, They had wonderful nature to see.

The corn growing and tasseling, The wheat all ready to cut. So many young things a coming To drink at the spring in the rut.

The calves and colts that frolicked In pastures green and fair Happy free and playful, Breathing God's pure air.

Daily we thanked God for the children That made home noisy and glad. Hoping no earthly sorrow Would come to make us sad.

Thanks, for the wind-swept prairie The fruit and flowers that grew. All blessings that came from heaven Along with the morning dew.

Oh, may we keep our children In the country bright and fair With no thought of the city calling Or its power their lives to snare.

From the humblest cot in the country May come a warrior brave and strong Who may prove a Grant or Lincoln And fill this world with song.

THINGS TO FORGET

If you see a tall fellow ahead of a crowd A leader of men, marching fearless and proud

And you know of a tale whose mere telling aloud Would cause his proud head to in anguish be bowed

Its a pretty good plan to FORGET IT.

If you know of a skeleton hidden away In a closet and guarded and kept from the day

In the dark and whose showing, whose sudden display Would cause grief and sorrow and lifelong dismay

Its a pretty good plan to FORGET IT.

If you know of a thing that will darken the joy Of a man or a woman, a girl or a boy

That will wipe out a smile or the least way annoy A fellow or cause any gladness to cloy

Its a pretty good plan to FORGET IT. Atlantic Division Bulletin.

WANTS OLD VIRTUES TAUGHT IN SCHOOLS

CHICAGO.—Smart, if possible, but smart or dumb, virtuous.

This is the hope of John J. Tigert, United States commissioner of education, for Young America, expressed here before 8,000 leading educators.

Tigert pleaded for the teaching in the schools of the old-fashioned virtues of honesty, justice and decency. He asked less attention to "high brow" subjects and more stress on virtue.

"In the words of a famous evangelist, I would rather have my boy in heaven learning his A. B. C.'s than in hell reading Latin and Greek."

Why are people who have no children made to pay school taxes?

Answer—Because good schools make better citizens. A boy or girl is not sent to school for his or her benefit alone, nor for the benefit of his or her parents alone, but for the good of the whole country. The country needs educated citizens—men and women who have been trained when they were boys and girls, and taught to think. So every taxpayer is expected to do his bit toward making good schools possible. Furthermore, schools benefit the taxpayer personally, since educated neighbors make the community pleasanter for him and safer for his property.—Current Events.

Two 80-foot towers for the radio aerial are being installed at the northwest corner of the science building. The aerial will take the place of those on the roofs of the administration and science buildings. This new aerial will be directly over the part of the physics laboratory in which the wireless apparatus is installed and the change will greatly improve the sending power of the station.

A father, jailed in New York for refusing to permit his 15-year-old daughter to attend school, declares this is not a free country. In a free country, according to his idea, parents would have the right to deny children education. It's queer how many different opinions of what constitutes "personal liberty" there are.

Don't chew the rag—consider the moth who hasn't a friend in the world.

THE DEMOCRAT

ATHLETICS

The annual high school track meet will be held on the Wayne track Saturday, May 15. A junior-senior meet will be held sometime in the near future. The football championship was unsettled and the seniors copped the basketball flag but the juniors are confident of romping off with the meet. The seniors are equally confident that they can turn the trick and a real race is to be expected.

Hogs Show Good Advance. Tuesday's receipts of hogs were only 8,800 head and buyers cleaned up them quickly at prices 10@20c higher than Monday. Tops brought $10.00 and bulk of the trading was at $9.65@9.90.

Sheep and Lambs Higher. Prices for sheep and lambs were generally 15@25c higher than Monday. Receipts were about 4,500 head and demand broad and active. Best fat lambs brought $15.75 and clipped sold up to $13.65.

Quotations on sheep and lambs: Fat lambs, good to choice, $15.25@15.75; fat lambs, fair to good, $14.50@15.25; clipped lambs, $12.50@13.65; shearing lambs, $13.75@14.25; feeder lambs, good to choice, $13.00@13.50; cull lambs, $10.00@12.00; fat yearlings, light, $12.50@13.00; fat yearlings, heavy, $9.50@10.50; fat wethers, $8.00@10.00; fat ewes, light, $9.00@9.75; fat ewes, heavy, $7.00@9.00.

Eleven cents has been paid for lambs in Wyoming, October delivery, but very few have been contracted at that figure," remarked Bert Roberts, western representative of the Omaha Stock Yards company, in reply to a query as to the genuineness of the reported 11-cent quotation. More lambs have been contracted for at 10 cents and some as low as 9.
