PLANE WRECKED PASSENGERS ESCAPE

Sunday Flight Ends Disasterously Plane Wrecked and Passenger Severely Bruised

For a number of weeks Alfred Leckscheid, who has been employed as a mechanic at the shop of the Wayne Motor Company has been flying over and about Wayne on pleasant days in a plane he has been keeping near the city, and taking passengers up when any wished to take a bird's eye view of the city. He was up several times Sunday, and said that his engine and machine were doing good work all thru the day, but there was a story of a little minor engine trouble, which was fixed—but he said that was a mistake.

But there is always a time when something happens—and this was the case Sunday. Later in the afternoon, W. N. McGregor also of the Wayne Motor Company force was strapped into the front seat for a joy ride, and they were off. All went well until, as they were circling for position to light with wind just as it should be to make the most graceful and safe landing, the elevator apparently gave way, and left the machine without means of control, and it began a nose dive from a height estimated by those who witnessed the accident of from 200 to 300 feet. Mr. Leckscheid said he is not sure what gave way, or how it came about, but that the elevator no longer responded to his work on the levers. The machine came down in the VonSeggern field about a mile southwest of town, and just north of the railroad track. The motor was still running when the machine struck earth, and plowed quite a hole in the ground before stopping, tho it must simply have been the momentum of the motor, for when it came to earth it was broken from its fastenings in the machine, and pipes and connections were broken like pipe stems.

The driver, who was in the rear seat, was thrown clear from the machine, his fastening straps breaking under the strain of the impact; Mr. McGregor was held in place by his strapping, but released a few moments later by the one who had fastened him, he being in waiting near the landing grounds until they returned.

Fortunately both escaped alive. Mr. McGregor is still at the hospital, and he was cut and bruised badly about the face and head, and has a tooth or two broken, and is considerably shaken up. One leg was bruised badly, but no bones were broken. The driver was cut and bruised some, and both were taken to the hospital where examination satisfied the attending physician that their injuries were comparatively light, unless some internal injuries were made manifest later, and at this writing nothing serious is developing. In fact, Mr. L. was out of the hospital Monday, and about the streets Tuesday. Mr. McGregor is not moving out so fast, but he is reported to be improving daily.

Mr. Leckscheid tells us that this bump is not going to keep him from following the same business, and that he will go to Sioux City this week and if possible to secure another plane at a reasonable price, he will fly back in a few days in a new machine.

Of course, it is everyone's notion, as the saying is, but most people would be content to walk after such an experience, if they got out able to walk.

Before leaving for Sioux City Mr. Leckscheid said that it was his purpose to remove from the wreck such parts of the engine as are not beyond repair that might possibly be of use for repair for its successor and then set fire to the remaining part of the wreck, considering that the cheapest and best method of removing it from the field.

WINTER BREAKS IN

According to the weather reports a severe storm of blizzard proportions was sweeping the states north and east west of this state Wednesday with snow promised here today from one or the other direction. High winds and low temperature prevailed both east and west, but mostly rather north of this part of Nebraska. Ours is promised, but is hoped that it will holdy before reaching our delightful climate and disturbing the almost summer temperature.

LEROY OWEN "GLOBE TROTTER"

According to letters and cards received by Mr. and Mrs. L. M. Owen, their son LeRoy is seeing some of this world as he goes along. After spending some months in England, France and Germany, his later letters indicate that he has gone south, visiting Portugal, Spain and Africa. One city on the "dark continent" of 150,000 people he found no American save himself, and so he had to shake hands with himself each morning.

According to the reports of his letters he is getting a broad education, and paying his schooling as he goes, as he has a mission over there of a commercial nature. His last letters indicate that he is turning back, and may come home later, after a return visit in Northern Europe.

B. H. SWIM TRANSFERRED TO DETROIT, MICHIGAN

To most of the farmers of this county the announcement that the government work of testing the herds of the county for bovine tuberculosis has suddenly halted for want of funds, comes as a surprise.

B. H. Swim, who has been in charge of the work in this county as the representative of the Federal bureau, received a transfer order the last of last week, and the first of the week himself and wife left for Detroit, Michigan, where he was assigned work. The good work was well under way in this county, and doubtless in many other counties of the state when the halt came. A movement has been started to have the work continued, and a meeting of those interested has been called for Saturday at Lincoln, in which leading stockmen from over the state and representatives of the Farm Bureau organization, state veterinarians, and others are asked to take active part. They are asking that Governor-elect Bryan meet with them and join in considering what is best to be done.

When the last legislature met to cut expenses they cut fifty thousand from the 285,000 appropriated for the work, and of the balance practically one-half was consumed paying the state share of the condemned animals. In counties having the farm bureau organization many farmer members were told that their membership fee or dues was in part to be used to insure the continuance of the work; and they feel that they have been buncoed unless the work can continue.

RETURN FROM A YEAR IN GERMANY

About a year ago Mrs. Bertha Jacobi and daughter Miss Anna, who came from Germany 18 years before, and had made their home at Wayne practically all of that time went to visit their former home in Bortmund, in the northwest part of Germany, and report a very enjoyable trip.

They arrived at Wayne last Thursday evening and are again at their old home with Miss Ida Hinrich, and expect to remain here as before. Mrs. Jacobi noted much development in her native land since she first left, and to the younger woman many things appeared like new. They visited points of interest along the Rhine, and Miss Anna pronounced it a most beautiful river. Before leaving Wayne Miss Jacobi was chief operator at the Wayne central exchange, and thus knew many people by name, at least.

XMAS TIME COMING MAY IT BE MERRY

Wayne Shops and Stores Assuming Holiday Dress. Christmas Spirit Catching Among Patrons

No festive or holiday occasion brings more joy to the people than does Christmas—Christmas, the season of giving. The writer in the Good Book said, "it is more blessed to give than to receive." The Christmas season of giving presents and good cheer annually demonstrates the truth of that statement. We all know how the good mothers plan for weeks something they may give at Christmas time to express their love of family and friends; never thinking of themselves, and only disappointed that they cannot find some more ways to make more people happy.

The community should enter heartily into the Christmas spirit. Our merchants have placed many rare attractions before your eyes to aid you. They are inviting you to accept their services in the work of making others happy. Let the Christmas spirit pervade the air, not only at this time, but thru the months that follow; but make the start now, and when you get the thrill that comes from making others happy, remember that it was giving in the right spirit that caused it. May we all get and keep the Christmas spirit, and be really "Good Fellows."

PENSION TO VETERAN RAIL MAN

The following from the Sioux City Journal refers to a man known to a number of Wayne people, where he has come occasionally to visit at the home of his daughter, Mrs. L. A. Fenske: Clarence Wells, 1330 Jennings street, one of the oldest locomotive engineers in the employ of the Chicago and Northwestern railway was pensioned and retired Saturday after 45 years of practically continuous service.

Mr. Wells, who is a native of the state of New York, and is 71 years old, had his first experience in the rail business out of Clinton, Iowa, having served 40 years as engineer. He came to the Sioux City division of the Northwestern June 22, 1899, and during the past dozen years has been running passenger trains between Sioux City and Omaha, Nebraska.

In recognition of his 12 years of service as past chief of Twentieth Century division, No. 555, Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, Mr. Wells has been presented with a handsome gold badge by the division members.

Mr. Wells, who makes his home with a daughter, stated Sunday that he would continue his residence in Sioux City and proceed to take life easy.

WAYNE ODD FELLOWS CAMP TO ENTERTAIN

Wednesday evening the 13th there will be a big time at Wayne among the members of the encampment, I. O. O. F., for members of the camps from Laurel, Emerson and Ponca have accepted the invitation from the Wayne camp to gather here for the evening—perhaps we might say the night. There is to be initiation, and the teams from the different camps will take a part in putting the work on. All members of the encampment will be welcome.

THE BOOTERIE CORN CONTEST

More than a month ago the proprietor of the Wayne Booterie offered a series of prizes from his stock for best, second and third best, and when the contest closed the first of this month he had quite a collection of good seed corn. The judges selected the ear entered by Adam Saul as the best, and R. F. Roggenbach won the second prize and O. C. Lewis the third place. His collection showed that there was some excellent corn grown in this vicinity. It was a very good advertising scheme for the store just opening and was the means of introducing his line of goods to many new patrons.

DR. T. T. JONES INSTALLING AN ABRAMS EQUIPMENT

Dr. T. T. Jones came the first of the week from attending clinic for a month, studying Abrams method of diagnosing and treating disease by electricity or by the use of electrical appliances. This system of diagnosing and treating disease is the result of more than twenty years of patient study and careful experimentation on the part of the San Francisco doctor, and it was not given to the profession or to the world until a short time ago, and as fast as information travels in these days, comparatively few people have heard of the method of treatment—its very apparent success.

We have not space to explain the theory which the learned physician worked or give the reader any intelligent understanding of the system and what it is accomplishing. It is destined, if what is claimed for it prove true, to revolutionize the art of healing, and do away to a great extent the use of drugs for healing and also make unnecessary many surgical operations as well as relieve and cure many ills that have long baffled the skill of the medical world. Among its claims substantiated in many instances by actual demonstration, is noted the cure of cancer, tuberculosis, tumors, syphilis besides many less dreaded diseases.

Dr. Jones has fitted his office for for doing this work, and is daily expecting the balance of his equipment, when he will begin its use, for he has patients now on the waiting list. He promises to tell us some more of the work of the system of healing when the instruments are installed so that he can demonstrate fully the work.

GAEBLER—SHANE

Mr. Leonard Shane and Miss Louisa Gaebler, both of Bloomfield were united in marriage, at high noon Tuesday, December 5, 1922, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Love, with Rev. Shick, of the Methodist church officiating. They were attended by Mr. and Mrs. Love.

Miss Gaebler has been employed as cashier in the depot at Bloomfield for several years. Mr. Shane is fireman on the railroad, from Bloomfield to Wayne.

Mr. and Mrs. Shane left this afternoon for a ten day wedding trip. They will visit at Sioux City, Minneapolis and Duluth, Minnesota. They will make their home at Bloomfield.

MEARS IS WILLING

Norfolk, Nebraska, December 2.—Grant Mears, republican representative-elect from Wayne county, said here today that he would not object to his friends promoting his candidacy for speaker of the Nebraska house. With the coming session, Mr. Mears will have served five terms in the house. He said he believed he would be the senior member of the house in point of service.

WAYNE FIREMEN TO HOLD NEW YEAR MASQUERADE

REV. B. P. RICHARDSON CALLED TO SEATTLE

Rev. B. P. Richardson, former pastor of the Baptist church of this place, according to the Baptist, has accepted a call to the First Baptist church of Seattle, and began his work there the first of this month. Rev. Richardson left Wayne about seven years ago, after three years of faithful work here. He did a wonderful work at Hastings, and put the Baptist church of that city on the National map.

WAYNE TEAMS WIN TWO GAMES

Wayne Firsts Trim Madison and the Wayne Second Swamp Emerson Parochial School

The two games staged on the Normal gridiron on Thanksgiving day were a huge success, and the local teams ended the football season with a double victory.

The Wayne Seconds, champion second team of Northeast Nebraska, trounced the highly touted aggregation from the Sacred Heart School of Emerson by the overwhelming score of 40-0. The undefeated Wayne Seconds deserve much praise for their classy accomplishments on the gridiron attested to by their wide-margined victories over second teams from Randolph, Bloomfield, Norfolk (2), and the Emerson's Parochial first team. This last victory brought their successful season to a dramatic close.

The Wayne's first team is considered one of the strongest teams in Northeast Nebraska, and proved this fact by defeating Madison, 6-0. Their season's playing records victories over Laurel, Wakefield, Pierce, Hartington, and Madison, suffering defeats from Emerson, West Point, and Ponca.

The Emerson games were later forfeited on a claim of ineligibility of an Emerson player, West Point's victory was an honorable defeat for Wayne, and the Ponca victory was due to the absence of three of Wayne's regular men.

In the first quarter of the preliminary game, Wayne vs. Emerson Emerson kicked off 20 yards to Wayne the receiver being instantly downed. Lackey punted 45 yards, Sund tackling Emerson after a slight gain. Hartshorn stopped Emerson after a 15 yard gain and Sund recovered an Emerson fumble. On a great offensive Olson finally crashed thru center for Wayne's first touch down after Lackey, Finn, and Smith had carried the ball down the field for three first downs. Lackey kicked the try-for-point. Lackey kicked 45 yards, Emerson was downed on their own 12 yard line. Emerson failed to gain and punted on their last down to Finn, who returned the ball 10 yards. Olson gained 7 yards around left end as the quarter ended.

Wayne's ball on Emerson's 24 yard line. Good runs by the entire backfield carried the ball to within several yards of the Emerson goal line, and Lackey raced across for another touchdown. Lackey made the try-for-point. Lackey kicked 40 yards, Emerson returned 10 yards. Emerson punted 6 yards to Kay on the fourth down, good runs by Lackey and Smith, and a pass, Finn to Smith netting 10 yards, brought ball to Emerson's 15 yard line. Lackey sidestepped his way thru the opponents for another touchdown, and he also made the try-for-point. Lackey kicked 45 yards, Emerson returned 10 yards. Emerson was again forced to punt. Finn and Mabbott by good gains brought the ball to within striking distance of Emerson's goal, Lackey made the touchdown but missed try-for-point. Wayne led, 27-0, at the end of the first half.

The second-half was out short but Wayne scored two more touchdowns. Emerson kicked 20 yards to Owens, who thundered 25 yards down the field before he was stopped. Another first down and Lackey made the fifth touchdown. Sund made the try-for-point, Lackey kicked 40 yards, Emerson returned 8 yards, Emerson punted 15 yards to Smith, who returned the ball 5 yards. Olson made Wayne's last touchdown after Finn and Lackey had carried the ball deep into Emerson territory. Anderson recovered the ball for Wayne when Emerson fumbled the Wayne kick-off. Lackey missed an attempt for a field goal by inches when he drew-kicked from Emerson's 30 yard line. Emerson's ball on their own 20 yard line as the ended.

Wayne First vs. Madison
In the second game Madison kicked-off 40 yards to Wayne, Millner ran the ball back 10 yards. Wayne rushed down the field, and after they had completed 3 first downs, Will crossed Madison's goal line for the only touchdown of the game. Millner missed the try-for-point. Sund kicked 35 yards, Madison returned 10 yards before Brainard stopped the runner. Madison, after several good gains threatened to score, but after Madison had received a 15 yard penalty, the Wayne team broke thru Madison's line and tackled them for losses, and Madison lost the ball on failure to make their yardage.

With the ball on their own 22 yard line, Wayne carried themselves out of a hole. Good runs by Reed, Sund, and Brainard netted 30 yards, but Madison recovered a Wayne fumble. Goal tumbles by Millner, Fortner, and Sund resulted in lost ground for Madison and Madison punted 30 yards to Will, who returned 5 yards. Brainard punted 35 yards on the fourth down, ball rolled outside. Madison failed to gain as the half ended. Sund kicked-off 45 yds. to Madison who returned the ball 12 yards. Soules substituted for Fortner. After gaining 35 yards, Madison lost the ball on downs and Brainard and Sund made 20 yards thru the line. Reed made 15 more yards thru the line. Brainard punted 30 yards on the fourth down to Madison, the ball was returned 8 yards. After making 2 first downs Madison lost the ball on failure to make yardage. Brainard made a first down and Will made 15 yards around right end as third quarter ended.

With the ball on Madison's 18 yard line, Brainard carried the ball forward 15 yards on 4 consecutive runs. But the Madison line held and Wayne was unable to score. Madison carried themselves out of danger by advancing the ball 20 yards. Madison punted 35 yards and the ball rolled outside. Brainard made 6 yards thru the line as the game ended.

With the football season successfully finished, Wayne High School starts basketball practice this week and the material on hand indicates a winning team. Brainard is also captain of the basket-ball quintet, and under his guidance this cage team will certainly uphold the standards of WAYNE HIGH.

WAYNE HIGH SCHOOL NOTES

A program by the school will be given in the high school room, Friday at 3 p. m. The patrons are invited to attend.

The grades below the high school made a number of good posters advertising last Thursday's football games.

The kindergarten is closed this week because it was thought the safest plan to follow, when there is danger of exposure of any contagious disease.

This is education week. Special emphasis should be placed upon those efforts and interests that deal with training and education. Operating our educational system is the biggest job we have and there is none of more importance.

At a business session held last Monday evening, the football players elected Carl Sund captain for 1923. The captain elect has proved himself a good ground-gainer on offensive and a stonewall on defense.

The following members of the years squad played their last high school game last week. Ronald Reed, Owen Brainard, Chris Will, Ralph Hufford, Herbert Fortner, Vernon Kamey, Ellis Miner, George Randol, Valdemar Peterson, Gordon Lackey, Don Anderson, Clarence Hansson. In spite of the fact that the loss of these twelve star players will be a blow to football yet the prospects for a good team next year is promising.

Basketball is now the order of the day. The Opera house has been leased and is being put in shape for games. The schedule is as follows:

- December 22—Pillar at Wayne
- January 5—Wayne at Bloomfield
- January 12—West Point at Wayne
- January 19—Norfolk at Wayne
- January 26—Wayne at Lyons
- February 2—Wayne at West Point

Football retires now from the limelight, and basketball comes rolling in. It is not one thing after another. The pupils must be kept busy, and all work and no play makes Jack a dull boy. If you reverse the saying he don't amount to much. We used to get up a bit enthusiasm fifty years ago over the spelling school and the debating society. The literary, too, was one of the events not to be sneezed at.

Mrs. Emma Baker and her daughter, Mrs. Art Herschied of Winside and Mrs. Ross were called to Winnebago Thursday by news of the death of the little son of Mr. and Mrs. Ezra Ross, a grandson of the two older ladies. The little fellow, but eight weeks old. The cause of the death was choking or strangling, in some manner that was not fully made plain to the writer. Mr. and Mrs. Ross may be assured of the sympathy of their many Wayne friends in this sad loss.

A large flock of domesticated wild ducks at O'Neil departed for the south the same as wild ducks, recently. Perhaps they will return in the spring and spend the summer there. One question raised by their flight after being apparently domesticated for several years is whether a hard winter is coming or whether they left because the lake which had supplied them with a bathing place and good fishing had dried up during the fall drought, which was unusually severe this fall.

That fellow over in Indiana, a college professor, who married a new wife before the court of last resort had decided whether or not he was legally freed from the older one, and the mother of his children, found himself in "hot water" as soon as the adverse decision was handed down. It was decided that he must be insane, and stand trial as to his sanity. In the face of this charge, himself and wife fled, probably to Indiana, where it was hoped they would not consider his action an indication of an unbalanced mind, provided he had to face the same charge in his home state.

Tight here in the corn belt of Nebraska, A. J. Eckerman of Emerson, a feeder of many years experience reports that there is a shortage of corn for all the cattle that are assembled in this part of the state for feeding. Perhaps he is right, for many cattle have been shipped to this part of the state. But if the feed grown in this section of the state could be properly cared for, we believe that fully twice as many cattle could be fed this winter. Shos on every farm, filled at the proper time would mean a great deal more feed value from the corn crop, and the saving of some labor in harvesting the crop, for with the silo much of the harvesting is done by machinery. But it is too late now to talk that for this season; but the feeding value of the corn crop may be increased by grinding—for it is proven that cattle and hogs both get more from ground than from whole grain.

Some who watched the record of the vote on the ship subsidy report that our congressman voted against the administration measure. If that be true, the last election was not in vain, for it seemed that no one knew what were his sentiments on that question. His votes were counted—and counted on.

J. C. Forbes and wife left the first of the week for an extended trip in the east, joining their son Jerome, who will tour the eastern and southern states in the interest of the Northwestern Appeal, published at Minneapolis, and of which he is one of the founders. Mr. Forbes tells us that he cannot tell where their route will be, but that Chicago, Boston, New York and a lot of intervening points will be visited before returning. It should make a very enjoyable trip for them, as they will see the automobile most of the way.

SUGGESTIONS TO NEBRASKA COMING LEGISLATORS

(By J. R. Burleigh)
 The New State has hit the nail on the head when it said the Big Vote swung from Howell to Bryan because the Progressives knew the stand the men had taken, on Public Ownership. Big Business keeps harping on the Code Bill. Well—Mr. Bryan will not stop with this bill and they know it but they will not print it.

It is our place to get busy and help line up the rest of the legislators for progressive measures. C. W. Bryan campaigned for state owned water power. A measure that will put the Nebraska farmer and the Nebraska people on the map. This is important and progressive while the different ideas of the Code Bill are only a different way of handling the business of the state.

You pay about 9c to have the government parcel-post carry a 5-pound package from Lincoln to Mr. Brown near Kansas City, but the telephone monopoly from Wall street charges you the gigantic sum of about $1.45 just to permit you to phone Mr. Brown 3 minutes only. Certainly the electric message should cost less than sending a package.

Doesn't it cost you as much to ride on the train from Lincoln to Scottsbluff and haul 150 lbs. of baggage, as it does to phone 20 minutes to a friend the same distance? Just think of it. The state should own these telephones. Get busy and Charlie Bryan will help make it your benefits in Nebraska.

New York and Louisiana are wise enough to have state owned elevators. North Dakota a 3,000 barrel daily flour mill costing $2,500,000. This state owned project is running now.

South Dakota has a state cement plant which cost $1,300,000, that will hold the Cement Trust down to reasonable prices. California have their own state wharves, docks, etc., at San Francisco costing $50,000,000, earning $665,000 last year. Costing California not a cent in taxation, all they had to do was to issue their bonds.

Omaha makes about $2,000,000 per year from their water plant, Chicago about $3,000,000. That's the way to reduce taxes. Let's get busy early. Get your legislators either help the people pass some real progressive measures or come home branded as carrying a bribe.

 There is another little thing and that's our wasteful system of abstracts. Why go back so far in digging up real estate transfers. Let's get wise and do like York county which has two transfers to make, one from the seller to the county and then one from the county to the buyer. The Torrens system ought to be easily passed at our next legislature.

SOME FARM NOTES

An alfalfa campaign in Michigan last year resulted in an increase of 260,000 acres of added alfalfa in that state; and if alfalfa can be made a fair crop on these lands the annual value of that campaign to Michigan farmers will be millions annually. An alfalfa field is easily worth three times as much as a field of timothy and twice as much as a field of clover for the crop for feed, and equal to clover as a fertilizer.

About two-thirds of the butter made in the United States is made in creameries. Yes, and the butter made in the good small creamery that takes its cream first-hand from the farmer, and refuses to take any but good, clean cream, not over-ripe, can scoop the big central plants in quality. A small creamery that earns a reputation for good butter and lives up to the earned reputation often commands a premium of as much as five cents a pound above the other, on quality. It pays most to make the best.

Italy imports more wheat from this country than any other country except the United Kingdom. France comes next after Italy with 26 million bushels in 1920 to 32 million for Italy. Yet with three such customers, the powers at Washington try to restrict the market by making it harder for these people to pay for the wheat we have and they want. They do it with a tariff wall that discourages trade, and then try to even up with the ship owners, and as they claim in the interest of a merchant marine by making the American tax-payer donate the ship owner a bonus for being idle. Make trade possible and profitable, and the ships will be kept busy. Just now we have the spectacle of offering a bonus to keep idle ships busy while the railroads are hampering all lines of trade because they are not equipped and competent to handle the volume of business needed. Yet the ship subsidy fellows and the railroads unite in opposing a waterway from the great lakes to the sea, to the detriment of the producers in the great agricultural fields of the middle west.

FRANK HALLETT SENTENCED FOR ASSAULT

Last week Frank Hallett, who assaulted Clifford Penn a year ago at Lynch, has had his trial and was sentenced to serve from one to ten years in the penitentiary for his wanton assault. BANKERS TO TEST CONSTITUTIONALITY OF TAX LAW

From the Randolph Times, the home of the republican nominee for governor, we glean the following regarding the taxes of banks under senate file 65 of the last legislature, of which the Randolph man was a member, as well as a member of the finance committee, that sent the law to the floor of the senate with committee approval. Now it is in his home town that the bankers are the first reported to have acted to overthrow the law.

During the campaign the Democrat received a letter from some reader who warned the people that the law as passed was not one that would meet the test in court, because it discriminated—and therefore was unfair. So it seems now that tax-paying time is here, the banks propose to test the law.

The Randolph editor says: "Bankers from Randolph, Coleridge, Hartington, Laurel and Belden each one on Wednesday tendered County Treasurer F. O. Robinson one-fourth of the taxes levied by the county on the capital, surplus and undivided profits of their respective banks. This tender was made with the statement that their bank taxes were intangible property under the new state revenue law, known as senate file 65, and were subject to taxation at one-fourth value, not at 100 per cent as had been returned by the assessors."

Treasurer Robinson refused to accept any of the money thus tendered, and this refusal means that the banks will await the outcome of a test case in which the constitutionality of the law will be determined. Cedar county is not alone in this matter, for banks all over the state will do the same thing before December 1 when personal taxes become delinquent.

The tax on capital and surplus of the three Randolph banks is over $6,500 for this year, and for Cedar county is close to $28,000 and should the banks win their contention it will mean a big saving. The law on intangibles plainly says that bank stock shall not be listed as intangible property, but that stocks such as the Farmers Union Store and the Farmers Lumber Co. of this city are intangible and shall pay on but one-fourth of its value. The banks declare this is discrimination against them.

A law on intangible property is a good law and many states have such laws, but Randolph bankers take the position that the difference of one-fourth is too much, one-half being nearer a balance on the assessed value of farm lands, stocks of goods, farm machinery, live stock, etc., all of which are assessed under their first cost or market value."

WE WONDER?

How it comes that some postmasters permit bare lottery schemes to enter their offices, while the office at Wayne bars mention of every game of chance from the Wayne papers except marriage announcements—and that perhaps is the greatest chance game of all?

Why it is that a stiff tariff on wheat does not raise the price to the farmer at least 85 per cent of the tariff asked in the name of protecting the farmer?

Why the Nebraska legislature discriminated against the banks two years ago in exempting 75 per cent of other intangible property and not giving the banks any such favor? If we were trying to answer these questions, we would suggest that it was because they well knew that this would exempt the banks from paying their taxes—provided, of course, that they knew enough to make laws for taxing the people—but we hope some one will briefly tell whether it was ignorance or not.

Why congress and the administration prefer to make a donation to a rich shipping corporation rather than pay as far as possible a just debt to the soldier lads who bared their breasts to the foe in the battle that theirs was a venture to end war the world over?

Why so many voters crossed party lines in the recent election if it was not in hope of securing some progressive legislation? In Nebraska democrats supported Howells and republican voted for Bryan. Lines were crossed in much the same way in Iowa.

E. Stewart, the W. E. Stewart Land Mortgage Co. Sabin's suit was the first of fifty scheduled for trial in circuit court here involving about a quarter of a million dollars. Approximately 150 claims or intervening petitions have been filed in federal court for a total of $1,386,000. Sabin testified that he paid the defendants $14,928 for fifty-two acres of land in Hidalgo county, Texas, which he alleged had been misrepresented to him as being situated on an irrigation system. He sued for $13,622 actual and $27,200 punitive damages. He was awarded $13,833 actual and $10,000 punitive damage. A re-hearing on pleas of nolo contendere filed in the Stewart suit is scheduled for tomorrow morning in federal court here, it was announced tonight. Judge Van Valkenburgh has notified the attorneys for W. E. Stewart, Charles F. C. Ladd, J. A. Kenagy and other officials of the company to appear at 10 o'clock for argument. Officials of the company were indicted a year ago by a federal grand jury on charges of fraudulent sale of land in Hidalgo county, Texas. Caviness, president of Peru State normal the last year and a half, whose management has been under investigation by the state normal board, was announced following the monthly meeting here today. It was accepted and will become effective on August 1, 1923, the end of his school year. The board at the same meeting prepared a budget for the coming biennium, amounting to an increase of $950,673 over the appropriations for the last two years to take care of the four normals, at Peru, Wayne, Kearney and Chadron. This budget, which calls for $2,250,987 as against $1,300,314 expended the last two years, will be presented to Governor McKelvie, who will be asked to include it in his recommendations to the legislature in January. The increase is for new buildings needed, for increased pay to the faculty and for increased cost of maintenance. The investigation of President Caviness' administration was made on complaint of citizens and students six months ago, who said that the student membership was falling off, and the institution was losing prestige because of the Caviness management. At the last meeting a month ago the committee announced that it had no findings to make, and at the suggestion of T. J. Majors of Peru, president of the board, the committee was discharged. Press of private business was given by President Caviness as the reason for his resignation. "Other than that he refused to make any statement. "I intended to tender my resignation a year ago when it became apparent that my private business would take all my time," he said, "but I later decided to try to serve the school another year when it looked as if my own affairs had been so arranged that I could do so."	NOTICE OF SETTLEMENT OF ACCOUNT          In the County Court of Wayne County, Nebraska. Getting ready for business at Washington, the progressive have formed a harmonious organization to put up a united front for some better things for the people than they have been getting the past two years, if one may believe the Washington news dispatches. Among other things they charge that the attorney general, Daugherty, is a stumbling block in the way of progress and accuse him of failure to convict big bootlers and that this fight for enforcement of prohibition is but a bluff and means nothing else. Daugherty says in reply that it is the big business and high-up booze dealers who are making the big cry, because he is really hurting them.

EXHIBIT IN CULLING TO INCREASE EGG PRODUCTION

A sure means of increasing egg production by proper culling is given in an exhibit entitled "Make your poultry pay" shown by the United States Department of Agriculture at the International Livestock Exposition, Chicago, December 2 to 9.

Two pens of live chickens are shown. One lot of 12 hens was not culled, and ate in one year 900 pounds of feed, costing $20.70. The 12 hens laid 100 dozen eggs during the year. Contrasted with this lot is one of 8 hens which were culled, and which laid the same number of eggs but ate only 600 pounds of feed, at a cost of $13.50. The lot of 12 hens that was not culled ate 50 per cent more feed than the lot that was culled and produced no more eggs. The extra cost of feed, however, is but one of the larger costs. Others are the extra labor, extra housing room, and extra capital invested.

To enable the poultryman to cull his hens properly the exhibit gives the points to be looked for when determining a poor layer or a good layer. These points are quickly learned and are means of increasing profits from poultry.

J. S. BARKER SERVED BOTH SIDES IN CIVIL WAR

Two or three times a year for the past six or seven years, the writer would guess, an old soldier has been seen changing cars at this station several years ago we learned that he stopped here when on his way to Randolph where he has a son and daughter living, or returning to Norfolk where another daughter resides. Then we learned once that he had a home in the south part of the state, and that he visited there, whether or not some member of the family lived there we do not remember. Last week he was here again, going to Randolph to spend Thanksgiving with son and daughter, Charles Barker and Mrs. Ed. Wilson. Monday he was on his way back to Norfolk, and from there was to return to Burkett, where he had decided to make his home for the winter, as there he had the best of care, and not a thing to worry him—not a thing to do.

While he was waiting the scribe visited with him for a time and learned that he had quite a war history. So far as he knows, he is the sole survivor of his family of his generation, tho he had one brother living, but not having heard from him for more than three years it was his opinion that he had passed on ahead of him. He was a Virginian in his youth, and a year or two before the opening of the Civil War, he had become a member of a militia company in his native town, and was a member when Fort Sumpter was fired upon. His company received orders to report there, and there they started, and while on the trip the flag under which they had enlisted, the good old Stars and Stripes was changed, and they were thus taken in a body into the confederate service. Thus he had to continue to serve for a time, and was finally sent back to serve along the Potomac river, and they were there when the Monitor and the Merrimack had their trouble. The Monitor or boats she was escorting were bringing northern troops to the part of the river they were guarding, and their regiment was ordered to a new base a few miles above. Mr. Barker and his chum put up the plea to their captain that they had paid for their supper and did not want to go without it. After supper, they forgot to follow their companions, and when northern troops came went with them, and at Baltimore enlisted and a little later took part in the battle of Gettysburg. Here, while serving as a member of the advance guard after the battle, and some distance from the scene of the battle, he recognized some of his Virginia relatives among members of the guard from the army of the Confederacy, who came to the Northern lines to trade tobacco for coffee; as it is reported was frequently done during that war.

After Gettysburg, himself and a number of others who had escaped as he had, petitioned to be transferred from the front of those they had formerly served with, as when they recognized one of his class they made a special effort to get him. He was then sent to guard Indians who were troublesome near the Canadian border, and here he remained until his three year term of service expired about the close of the war.

He had been having a good time at Randolph last week, and saw some great grandchildren, he had never before seen. Though 86 years of age he would pass as a man of 70 years if he cared to do so. He always comes and goes when passing thru here unaccompanied, and always seems to reach his destination and return in good shape. His only trouble this time was the "toothache" he said as he took them out to see what was making the discomfort, for they were store teeth. Mr. Barker and those who served with him in the 60's will not long be among us, for the youngest of among them now has passed man's allotted three score and ten.

PEOPLES SPACE

Mr. Editor: Wish you would put this in the column you are asking the readers to fill:

Father Has 30 Minutes Off, Too
I read in a recent issue of your paper, the letter from a woman who advocated a "dream hour" for mother—a few minutes each day when they could go off for peace and quiet and "talk things over with themselves."
What about a "dream hour" for father? Doesn't he need one too? I would suggest that he get out in the hay-mow or behind the barn or down by the pig-pen and throw off the responsibilities of a home and family for a few minutes every day and think.

He can think about the happy day coming when son won't monopolize the car and daughter won't view him as her own special cash register; when the mortgage is paid and the barn painted and the long planned new house built; when he can get labor without parting with all his possessions, and freight cars will be his for the asking and transportation charges a near-minus quantity; when prices for produce and living necessities have once again struck a happy medium and the candidates for whom he voted gets the office.

Let him think of the days when the constant strain and energy to keep things going will be over, when that old sweetheart of his—mother will have more time to go out with him, and less work and worry.

I, Jersey father, too, will return to the farm work with a lighter heart when he's been away from things as they are and dreamed for awhile about things as they will be some day. Lancaster, County. Mr. J. R. R.

ANNUAL NEBRASKA ARTISTS EXHIBIT

Artists Exhibit in Omaha of Great Interest.

(From the Goldenrod)

During the month of October The Omaha Society of Fine Arts again sponsored an exhibit of the work of Nebraska Artists. The Catalogue announced this as the Second Annual Nebraska Artists Exhibition. Mr. Maurice Block is the Director of the Exhibits held by this society. Through their interest in art and public spirited support a number of opportunities are provided the Omaha public each year to see and enjoy the work of painters and sculptors and that of craftsmen working in many allied fields. At present Mrs. Ward Burgess is president of the Omaha Society of Fine Arts and Mrs. Leonard Everett is chairman of the committee on exhibits.

An encouraging symptom of an increasing interest in art in this country is the employment of an artist by the art societies in different cities to take charge as director of exhibits and municipal art enterprises. Quite recently Mr. George Eggers who has been the director of the Art Institute in Chicago was called to occupy such a position in the city of Denver. Another movement of interest to us as teachers is that of the society being organized in many cities under the name of "Friends of Art." The avowed objects of this society are to purchase and place in the school-rooms of the city original pictures of merit, that the children may be given the priceless joy of living in the presence of real pictures and to encourage artists by the purchase of their work. During the recent exhibit of Nebraska painters in Omaha a prize of this nature was awarded Miss Lily Yont of Lincoln. This is known as the MRS. HAROLD GIFFORD PURCHASE PRIZE of fifty dollars for the purchase of a work in water color to form a nucleus of a collection for use in the public school rooms. Other prizes or awards to Nebraska Artists this year were as follows:

THE CHARLES N. DIETZ PRIZE. One hundred dollars for a group of works of superior merit in oil painting by a resident of the state of Nebraska. Awarded to August Dunbar, an artist living in Omaha, for a group of paintings.

THE JOHN L. WEBSTER PRIZE. Fifty dollars for a work of distinction and merit in oil painting by an artist living in the state of Nebraska. Awarded to Alice Cleaver of Fall City for a group of paintings.

THE ROBERT MORSMAN PRIZE. Fifty dollars for a work or a group of works of high standard in any medium. Awarded to Augusta Knight of Omaha for groups of oil and water color paintings.

THE MRS. MYRON LEARNED PRIZE. Fifty dollars to encourage originality and standards in Applied Art. Awarded to Mrs. Anna Fay Albion, Lincoln, for a collection of hand loom weavings.

ANONYMOUS PRIZE. Fifty dollars for work of high order of merit by any artist living in Omaha. Awarded to Robert Gilder for a group of oil paintings.

Honorable mention in Oil Painting. Awarded to Robert J. Dinning, Alice R. Edmiston, Andree J. Haugseth, Edith Hammond.

Honorable Mention in Water Color Painting. Awarded to Frederick Knight, Elizabeth Ferguson.

The Jury of Selection for the works shown at this exhibit acted upon invitation of Mr. Block representing the Society of Fine Arts. They were Henry McCarter of the Pennsylvania Academy of Fine Arts, Philadelphia; Ralph Clarkson of the Art Institute Chicago; H. M. Kurtzworth, Director of the Kansas City Art Institute.

The quality of the work shown this year was of a kind to make Nebraska proud of her artists. An examination of the catalogue shows that of the fifty-nine artists exhibiting at Omaha only fourteen resided out of the state. Some of these are students in Chicago and New York or painters temporarily in residence elsewhere.

A comparison of relative merit or interest in a collection of work all of high merit would be out of place here, even if space permitted. All who were heard to comment seemed to feel that justice had been done in the matter of awards, the work of all those receiving prizes and honorable mention showing distinction in one way or another.

Not the least interesting feature of the exhibit was the beautiful hand work designated as Applied Art. New interests on the part of Nebraska Artists were reflected in the beautiful designs and coloring of the Batik wall hangings, scarfs and dresses, pieces of hand hammered silver, jewelry and other work in metal, leather, tooled book bindings and bags, carved wooden boxes, block printed textiles and hand weaving. The interest of some few members of the race will always linger with the handicrafts, and there will always be some who will prefer the hand-made article with its intimate suggestion of the soul of the maker, to the hard mechanical product of the machine. For such sensitive and appreciative friends artists have always delighted to make lovely things, which in their own way are quite as worthy of praise as pictures and sculpture. It is pleasing to see a group of these lovers of beauty at work in our own state. Nebraska may some time have some work in the applied arts that will make her famous, as Newcombe pottery has brought fame to a college in New Orleans, and the Rookwood to a city in Ohio.

While artists from all over the state sent pictures and other contributions, an examination of the catalogue shows that the majority are living in Lincoln or Omaha, as might be expected. The University Art School brings to Lincoln artists of ability and it is a matter for congratulation that they exhibit with the Nebraska group.

As teachers they are informed as to the later movements in the Art World, their work as well as that of their students shows some of the influences of the newer movements, and they are, as are also some of the Omaha group, frequently working in the studios of the famous artists and in the colonies of artists in Arizona and New Mexico and along the Eastern and Western coasts.

They bring the inspiration of fresh and original work done under different skies to those workers who are not so fortunate as to often work under such conditions. Through such an exhibit of work as that shown this year little refreshing breezes blow in from the Atlantic and the Pacific, one walks with Gilder under the blue blue skies of Arizona, and one sees with new vision the plain little house under the golden cottonwood tree, a half mile east of Lincoln, when it is shown to one by an artist like Mrs. Edmiston, who knows how to paint just as well with his own atmosphere, other little houses under a New England hill, or a blowy day on Lake Superior.

Descriptions of works of art are never very satisfying. If the message of a picture or statue could be given in words the artist would not have any reason for existence. The best of any work of art can never be explained, only felt when our eyes behold and in some mysterious way the artist's mood becomes for the moment ours and we rise to unaccustomed heights and breathe of purer air. Therefore this account is only a sort of amplified statement that we now have an annual exhibit which the people of this state may and should attend, and that this year was better than last. Also that with the cooperation of the "Friends of Art and Artists" of this commonwealth every succeeding year will find more artists at work, the standards higher and every higher and the life that is most worthwhile ever richer and better.

FACULTY HONOR MRS. MCKINSEY

Banquet Held for Departing Member of Faculty.

(From the Goldenrod)

There is probably no member of the Wayne State Teachers College faculty whom co-workers more gladly honored in the tendering of a farewell banquet, than Mrs. Minnie Marquardt McKinsey. It was the occasion both for the presentation of a handsome gift of silver and for the formal farewell, since Mrs. McKinsey last week terminated her period of service as a member of the faculty and has gone to take up her housewifely duties at her home in Stanton.

The three-course banquet was held at seven-thirty o'clock in the Boyd Hotel dining room. The forty guests were seated at a long table placed diagonally the length of the room. Large vases of yellow chrysanthemums decorated the table and the guests' places were indicated by place cards in season, having as decoration a rural harvest scene (presumably the fair acres of the newly wedded couple) over which a golden sun was rising. Dean Hahn acted in the capacity of toast master. The arrangements for banquet appointments and the selection of silver were in charge of Dr. House, Miss Smothers, Miss Schemel and Miss Scheinplugg.

The after-dinner program consisted of genial reminiscences, happy auguries of the future, and good-natured thrusts which were prompted by the character of the occasion. After the giving of the toasts Dr. Conn, with befitting ceremony, presented the faculty's gift to the guest of honor. The program of the evening was as follows:

- One of Ours.....I. H. Britell
- In Days of Old.....Miss Clara Smothers
- Pledged to the Race.....
- Miss Margaret Schemel
- Let X Equal the Unknown Quantity.....Prof. O. R. Bowen
- In Memoriam.....Dr. U. S. Conn

ENROLLMENT FROM MANY STATES

It may be surprising to friends of the Wayne State Teachers College to know there are twelve states and two nations represented in the group of students that daily gather in these halls of learning.

There are students from the sunny southern state of Oklahoma, from mountainous Colorado and from arid Wyoming, Michigan with its beautiful lakes is here represented, also the state of Kansas so kindly favored by nature with generous crops.

The far east and the far west come to us, representing the old established state of Maine on the shores of the wide Atlantic, and the balmy and pleasant state of Washington on the shores of the Pacific.

Minnesota, the state of many miniature lakes and large wheat crops, South Dakota which figures so largely with Nebraska in the story of Hugh Glass, made famous by the distinguished alumnus of this institution, John G. Neihardt, have many students among the throng. Another neighbor, kind and friendly is here, it is Iowa with her rich acres and varied crops.

Missouri has not failed to send us students. Even our sister nation to the north, The Dominion of Canada, is here represented.

It speaks well for the prestige of our College that so many students from other states come here for instruction. The College welcomes them all and hopes that many others will join our growing ranks.

Cliff Penn '18, who has been superintendent at Osmond this year and for several years previous superintendent at Lynch, has resigned as has also Mrs. Penn, who has been teaching the third and fourth grades at Osmond. This move was made necessary by the ill health of Mr. Penn. They plan to move to Wayne in the near future.

Prof. F. G. Dale and family motored to Lincoln to spend the holidays with Mrs. Dale's mother.

COMMISSION PROCEEDINGS

Wayne, Nebraska, November 23, 1922. Minutes of meeting held November 14th, 1922, read and approved.

Whereas, T. B. Heckert was assessed on a book value of $2300.00 or $575.00 for taxation purposes under intangible class I, Building & Loan Stock for the year 1922, and whereas the State Tax Commissioner had advised all county assessors to assess on a 3 per cent basis of book value, which would make $69.00 for assessment instead of $575.00 as in and for the city of Wayne. The tax was paid under protest, and he now asks that the difference in tax or $12.17 be refunded.

On motion the county treasurer is ordered to refund to the said T. B. Heckert the sum of $12.17.

Whereas, Gus Hanson assessed on a valuation of $4000.00 in the city of Wayne for the year 1921, which would make the tax amount to $167.28; that he paid said tax under protest for the reason that the $4000.00 item is a mortgage on real estate and of record and carries the tax clause which would exempt him from taxation and he now asks that said tax be refunded.

On motion the county treasurer is ordered to refund the sum of $167.28 to Gus Hanson.

Comes now August Hohneke and says that for the year 1921, he was assessed on a valuation of $400.00 in the Village of Hoskins for corn and oats which was on the farm in school district No. 21. That the difference in levies between Hoskins Village and Hoskins precinct is 14.89 mills which would make the tax to be refunded $5.95 which was paid under protest.

On motion the county treasurer is ordered to refund to the said August Hohneke the sum of $5.95.

Comes now Ray Robinson and says that for the year 1922, he was assessed on a valuation of $4555.00 in Hunter precinct and placed in School District No. 17 instead of No. 14 where he belongs and that the difference in tax amounts to $44.73 which was paid under protest, and for which a refund is asked.

On motion the county treasurer is ordered to refund to Ray Robinson the sum of $44.73.

Comes now Martin P. Jensen and says that for the year 1921 he was assessed in Garfield precinct on an item of $500.00 for Farmers Union Stock, which is exempt under the law, and which is paid under protest and now seeks a refund of $5.79.

On motion the county treasurer is ordered to refund to the said Martin P. Jensen the sum of $5.79.

Comes now John Rissell and says that for the year 1921 he was assessed with a valuation of Hoskins precinct of $320.00 on a part of S 1/4, SW 1/4 (being strip 126-ft. x 344-ft.) of section 27-25-1 east, which makes the tax amount to the sum amount to the sum of $11.88 which was paid under protest for the reason that it is too high, and asks that the valuation be reduced to $600.00 and a proper refund made.

On motion the claim for a refund is rejected and the county treasurer ordered to distribute the funds.

Comes now Alfred Gustafson and says that for the year 1921, he was assessed with a valuation of $20939.00 on the NW 1/4 of section 5-26-5 east, as in school district No. 13 of Wayne county, and that one James C. Miller as a tenant transferred for school purposes from school district No. 13 of Wayne county to school district No. 60 of Dixon county without authority of myself as owner, and which transfer was therefore illegal. That the difference in tax between school district No. 13 Wayne county and school district No. 60 Dixon county amounts to the sum of $270.12 which was paid under protest, and a refund of this amount is sought.

The board after due consideration and on motion, rejects said claim for a refund and orders the county treasurer to distribute the funds.

Comes now Mrs. Sanne Kallstrom and says that for the year 1921, she was assessed in the Village of Winslow on a valuation of $4000.00 which includes an item of "money on deposit" which she thinks should not be assessed for the reason that it is for the support of herself and children, and that said tax amounts to $105.06 which she asks a refund of said tax.

On Motion the Board rejects the application for a refund of tax and orders the county treasurer to distribute the funds.

Comes now Fred Niemann and says that for the year 1921 he was assessed with a valuation of $21672.00 on the SE 1/4 of section 1-25-2 east which made the tax amount to $208.92 which was paid under protest for the reason that it was too high and out of proportion to land in immediate vicinity, and asks that said valuation be reduced and so much of the tax be refunded as is reasonable and just.

The Board after due consideration and on motion rejects said application for a reduction of the valuation and tax and orders the county treasurer to distribute the funds.

Whereupon Board adjourns to December 5th 1922.

Chas. W. Reynolds, Clerk.

THE FELLOWSHIP OF BOOKS

(by Edgar A. Guest)

I care not who the man may be,
Nor how his tasks may fret him,
Nor where he fares, nor how his cares
And troubles may beset him.
If books have won the love of him,
Whatever fortune hands him,
He'll always own, when he's alone
A friend who understands him.

Though other friends may come and go
And some may stoop to treason,
His books remain, through loss or gain,
And season after season
The faithful friends for every mood,
His joy and sorrow sharing,
For old time's sake, they'll lighter make
The burden he is bearing.

Oh, he has counsel at his side,
And wisdom for his duty,
And laughter gay for hours of play,
And tenderness and beauty
And fellowship divinely rare,
True friends who never doubt him,
Unchanging love, and God above,
Who keeps good books about him.

Daddy's Evening Fairy Tale

BY MARY GRAHAM BONNER

LARRY LLAMA

"I'm a good animal," said Larry Llama.

"No better than I am," said Lionel Llama.

"Well, you are a llama, too," said Larry.

"I never said I wasn't," agreed Lionel.

"But that makes you a good animal, too," said Larry. "For to be a llama means to be a very fine animal."

"Especially when a llama is doing the explanation," chuckled Lionel.

"Our bodies aren't very big," said Larry. "We're not much bigger in size than donkeys; but, of course, no one would call us donkeys."

"No one could," said Lionel.

"Unless," he added, "they wanted to be rude."

"But," said Larry, "we have such different kinds of necks. We have long necks, quite long necks. Of course our necks aren't long like the necks of giraffes. We are ready to carry bundles and packages for our masters, but we do not want to carry, too, too heavy bundles. We simply can't carry bundles which are too heavy and we always know when they are too heavy. We always stand so straight and never hang our heads as though we were ashamed. And why should we hang our heads? We're never ashamed, as we have nothing of which to be ashamed. So we never hang our heads, but walk along with our heads held high in the air. We are good friends to people, and we like them to be good to us.

"An animal behaves better who is treated well, and that is only natural. We've been told we were a little like camels in our ways, and very, very slightly in our looks. We're glad we don't frighten people. Our master said the other evening that a bull had frightened some people terribly."

"Had he chased them?" asked Lionel.

"No," said Larry. "Didn't you hear the story?"

"I didn't," said Lionel. "I couldn't have been around when the master was telling the story. Do tell it to me, please."

"Why, our master went into a town the other day and in order to get there he had to cross a ferry.

"A ferry is a boat which takes people and horses and wagons across a river.

"Well, there was a bull which had escaped in some way or another, and he went aboard the ferry boat. The bull didn't know where he was and didn't like it any better than the people did whom he frightened, so our master said.

"He looked about the ferry boat to see where a bull was supposed to find a place and didn't see anything at all to his liking. He didn't know whether he would take a swim or not and decided he wouldn't. Some one caught him and later on he was returned to his master, but our master said he frightened the people dreadfully. We wouldn't have frightened people. I'm glad we're not so big as all that."

"Ah," said Larry after a moment. "I hear an oriole singing. Our master loves those birds. They are becoming more friendly with people, too, because people have shown them that they were friendly."

"The orioles don't build such deep, deep nests as they used to because they don't feel they have to hide so much, as they know now that people like them and care to have them around, and that they will be treated fairly. Well, Lionel, I must have a little rest as there will be work to do later on."

"And I must have one, too," said Lionel.

"Yes, Larry Llama, I must have a rest, too, for Lionel Llama has work to do later on, yes, he has work to do, for he is a good, hard working llama, as is his brother."

"As is his brother," agreed Larry Llama.

A Small Point.

His Wife—So your client was acquitted of murder. On what grounds?

Lawyer—Insanity. We proved that his father had spent five years in an asylum.

His Wife—But he didn't, did he?

Lawyer—Yes. He was a doctor there, but we had not time to bring that fact out.

PROPOSES BARK FOR FUEL

Properly Prepared, According to One Who Should Know, It Could Be Substituted for Coal.

In a report to the Technical Association of the Pulp and Paper Industry, which has been holding its annual meeting at Detroit, George D. Bearce, engineer for the News Print Service bureau, described experiments on the substitution of wood bark, properly prepared, for coal, stating that the "enormous quantity of pulp wood which is used in the paper business is evidence of its potential fuel value to the industry."

The quantity of bark in pulp wood, said Mr. Bearce, amounts to approximately ten per cent of the volume and weight of the rough wood, or 250 pounds of dry bark per cord of wood. One hundred cords of pulp wood represents approximately 25,000 pounds of dry bark that has a fuel value equal to eight tons of coal, if the moisture of the bark is reduced by one-half. The heating value, Mr. Bearce stated, increases greatly if the moisture content of the bark is lessened.

A large number of mills using pulp wood were visited or questioned by Mr. Bearce and the committee which he headed. Many stated that they considered the bark of little value. Tests made for the committee showed that two types of processes were able to reduce the moisture content to about 60 per cent, and that it would be necessary to have at least 50 per cent of the moisture removed if the bark were to serve as a suitable substitute for coal. Special draft conditions, a grate surface giving correct combustion, and refractory walls to dry out the moisture are required, said Mr. Bearce.

Under these conditions it was held by the committee that the bark could be used as fuel and thus effect a saving of a large amount of coal.

MAN HAS MADE NEW FRIEND

South Africa Reported to Have Developed New Animal Entitled to Distinctive Phrase.

A new friend of man has been found. This good news was announced by Professor Myers at the congress of the scientific association recently held at Hull, England.

This animal, not foreseen by Noah, is a dog. But a singular dog, which inhabits Rhodesia, and which, on account of the abundant mane that adorns his neck and shoulders, and also because of his moral qualities, has been named the "dog-lion." The inhabitants from South Africa had already begun to despair, so much had the wild beasts been multiplying there. The birth rate of the lion, in particular, according to reports, was incomparable. But now this dog-lion has appeared.

It was still in the state of possibility in the course of nature when illustrious experimenters and savants resolved to combine an animal which joined to the lion's force and courage the fidelity of the dog.

And now that the dog-lion has been launched the true lions are taking fright. They do not recognize this false brother and doubt if a drop of their royal blood flows in his veins; for they had not thought themselves so cowardly, and they ask themselves if their reputation is not a little overdone. The other pursues them, closes them round, and compels them to run.

Queer.

For twenty years no visitors were allowed in the Mellon home in Milwaukee. Eramen broke in. They found the place a dog temple. Nine mummified dogs, expensively draped, lay in state in the candle-lighted parlor. In an upstairs room a queen dog presided over eight living dogs, blinded by lack of light. It all sounds like some world religious rite.

No one would think it queer, however, if the Mellons had kept mounted fish, deer heads or animal pelts instead of dog mummies. The strangest things in the universe are inside the human skull. The brain is so complicated that no one understands it, not even the owner.—Chicago Evening Post.

A Vanishing Art.

Postal busybodies have been weighing letters and have found that their average weight is decreasing. From this the conclusion is drawn that the public is writing shorter letters than it did in other days.

This is confirmatory information, not news. The art of letter writing has been decadent for more than a generation.

There has been a conspiracy of reasons to bring this to pass. Perhaps the most important is that we live too busy lives to spend time filling reams of good white paper with our opinions, observations and knowledge, if we have any. What is more, letters of the ancient volume and content are not likely to be read any more than written.

Fled From Volcano.

The volcano of Stromboli, the island off the southeast coast of Italy, is very active. Ashes, cinders, and incandescent stones are being flung high into the air, while rivers of white-hot lava are flowing down the sides of the mountain, which is 3,040 feet high. By day a smoke-cap and by night the glow of the crater can be seen for many miles at sea. Deep underground rumblings are heard and earthquake shocks are taking place.

The few people who live on the mountain left their homes and rushed to the shore, whence they embarked for the mainland.

FAIRM STOCK

STOMACH WORMS DISASTROUS

One Per Cent of Copper Sulphate Recommended as Remedy—Rotate Pastures.

"Of all the internal parasites affecting animals, there is probably none more disastrous than the stomach worms," says Geo. H. Glover of the Colorado Agricultural college. "This is especially true of sheep. The first symptoms are dullness and lack of thrift. These bloodsucking parasites soon cause anemia which is manifested by paleness of the mucous membranes, such as the mouth. Sheep that are affected may have a swelling under the jaw, which is commonly known as 'bottle-jaw.'"

"A satisfactory remedy, endorsed by the United States Department of Agriculture, is a 1 per cent solution of copper sulphate. It is made by dissolving one-fourth pound of copper sulphate in a pint of boiling water and adding enough cold water to make three gallons. This will make enough to treat 100 adult sheep. The dose is three ounces for adult sheep and half that amount for lambs. Pastures which have been used by infested sheep are dangerous for healthy sheep. Well sheep should be immediately separated from those that show symptoms of the disease.

"To keep down stomach worms, pastures should be rotated. Sheep may safely follow horses and pigs, but not cattle and goats, since the latter will transmit stomach worms to sheep."

DON'T NEGLECT VACCINATION

On Account of Virulence of Cholera Attack Last Year It Is Best to Use Preventive.

In many states hog cholera was the most active last year that it has been for some time. The demand for veterinarians' time in vaccination and for serum from the serum plants became so great that many were unable to get attention to their herds in time.

On account of the extent and virulence of the attack last year it is recommended that no chances be taken by neglecting to vaccinate this year's pig crop. Serum is a preventive agent, not a cure, so it is poor policy to put off vaccinating until the disease appears.

BREED ADAPTED FOR MUTTON

Southdown Excels for Quality of Meat, Maturity and for High Standard of Wool.

No breed excels the little Southdown for quality of mutton, early maturity, folding quillies (for it dresses the lamb evenly and well), or for the high standard of its wool, which is nearest the merino of any of our breeds. It is a hardy, healthy constitutioned little sheep, able to withstand heat or cold, and wherever it has gone—and it is to be found in most of the sheep-breeding countries of the world—the Southdown has gained golden opinions.

FLUSHING WILL HELP LAMBS

Generous Feeding of Ewes, During Breeding Season Will Increase Number of Young.

Flushing, in the language of sheep raisers, means the generous feeding of the ewes during the breeding season, to reduce the number of lambless ewes and to increase the number of twins. In a government experiment, covering 302 lambings of 143 different ewes, the flushing system increased the number of lambs dropped by 18.1 per cent.

Castrate Young Boars.

Most hog raisers hold their surplus young boars, too long before castration. The best time to castrate young boar pigs is between six and eight weeks of age, before weaning. By performing the operation at this age the young pig is still sucking its dam and is small enough to be handled conveniently and the testicles large enough to render the operation quite simple. The objects of castration are to prevent reproduction, increase fattening propensity, better the quality of the meat and help insure deceler-

ODD BELIEF FIRMLY ROOTED

Bushmen, Who Should Know Better, Insist Puff Adder Can Make Long-Distance Jump.

One of the greatest causes for dread to be found in the African jungle is "snakes" and every camp fire brings to light fresh stories of reptile terrors.

There is one camp topic that supplies more thrills even than the Koster caves, and that is snakes. You have only to say "snakes," and as though you said "psst" to a pack of keen dogs, everyone at the "rendevu" is off on full tongue after mamba, cobra, tingsha, shaap-sticker, puff-adder, and python; and of all the yarns that are related, says a well-known traveler, I swear nothing will beat the absolutely rooted belief that a puff-adder can and does jump backwards over a full-sized tent-wagon. A man has told me with evident sincerity that he has "seen it." Yes! He has seen four feet of puff-adder that is built on lines of immobility—springing backwards and spring ten feet high! However, every puff-adder I have had the honor to meet declined, even at the threat of death, to spring an inch. What he did was to anchor three parts of his bloated body on the ground, and then lunge with the fourth part. His reach might be a foot, and as his fangs are long and curved he gives the appearance of "striking backwards" because the head is lifted to bring the long fangs into position. An active puff-adder, very angry, can exert itself to strike, prepare, and strike again—thus covering, say, two feet in two swift lunges. The idea that this sluggish reptile can spring clear of the ground is ridiculous, yet it prevails among a class of men whose business takes them into the veldt, and who are proud of their observation powers.

RELIC OF SPANISH ARMADA?

Anchor Fished Up Off Scottish Coast Is Thought to Be Three Centuries Old.

Not long ago the crew of an English trawler engaged in lobster fishing, near Kinsale, had great difficulty in getting their anchor aboard. It was firmly fixed in some massive, hard substance in the sand bank.

When at last they succeeded in bringing it to the surface, there was attached to it a very ancient anchor, five tons in weight, the shank being over ten feet long and the bend of equal proportions. Fastened to the anchor was a small cannon.

This anchor, which probably belonged to one of the ships of the Spanish armada, wrecked on this coast, has become covered with marine matter, and this, in the three centuries during which it had been embedded in the sand, had been converted into a rocky fossil substance.

The anchor is, of course, considerably worn, but it still presents a very massive appearance, and must have belonged to a very large ship.

Tennis Under Difficulties.

Tennis in the South Sea islands is not as delightful, as it might be, although it has its ardent devotees. Play usually commenced in the alleged "cool" of the evening. The players wore shirts and a vest, nothing else, and with inch-thick rubber glued to the soles of their shoes by way of protection against the heat and hardness of the courts. In five minutes everybody would be a mere dripping rag of profuse perspiration. But no matter, it was tennis, though arguments across the nets seemed the player's strongest point. One of these resulted in a bet as to who would win a game played in diver's helmet and boots, respectively. It was put to the test with the utmost gravity and resulted in a dead heat, the man in the helmet being unable to see through his three glass windows quickly enough to take the ball, and the booted competitors being unable to move.

Long Trip for Tomatoes.

John Bull grows some tomatoes but not nearly enough for his demands so that he depends upon the outside fields. The growing of tomatoes forms the largest industry in the Canary islands, and in the manner in which the fruit is consigned to foreign markets is a tribute to the efficiency of the shippers. Owing to the long journey overseas the tomatoes have to be picked when they are turning from green to yellow and they ripen on the voyage. Long years of experience have taught the growers exactly when to gather their crops for consumption abroad, and although the fruit has not the same delicate flavor possessed by home-grown, they are received in England in great quantities between the regular seasons.—Chicago Tribune.

Almost Certain.

The Crystal Gazer—I'm sorry to tell you, madam, that your husband will meet his end by being run over by a motor car.

Mrs. Credulous—Oh, are you sure of that?

The Crystal Gazer—It will happen without doubt. That is, barring accidents.—New York Sun.

Natural Complaint.

Mrs. Grubshaw—If you don't ask for any more candy I'll buy you one of those nice toy balloons.

Willie—That's just like you, mamma. Whenever you give me anything it has a string on it.

ADDITIONS TO THE NORMAL SCHOOL LIBRARY

(From the Goldenrod)

The Harvard Classics, a set of 50 volumes, popularly called the five-foot book shelf, edited by Dr. C. W. Eliot, have been added to the library. These books are classics from the world's best literature. An index volume will be of assistance to you to find readily anything you wish that you might expect to find in the books.

Many other books have been added to the library, and may be found on these shelves for new books which stand near the steps going up out of the library.

TRAINING SCHOOL NOTES

A practice teacher asked her little pupils to write a list of seven things for which they were thankful. The following is the list submitted by one small boy and shows what is dearest to the heart of the typical juvenile boy:

1. My dog.
2. My cat.
3. My wagon.
4. My bed.
5. My God.
6. My father.
7. My Beechel.

Miss Beechel was very amused and interested in the order in which they were given but was thankful to be on the list.

CLUB PRESENTS PLAYS

The Wayne College Players will present in the college auditorium on Thursday evening, December 14, at eight o'clock, two one-act plays from Harvard Plays. All students and friends of the college are invited.

The first play "Three Pills in a Bottle" is a most exquisite poetic fantasy in which real souls appear. A little sleek boy mists the souls of the people he sees passing by his window. His kindness to them makes his fortune. In this play there is created a mood or atmosphere rather than the unfolding of an action. The value and significance of the play are found in the moral lesson which it suggests and illustrates—"the beauty of souls is that you never can tell what they will be like." When seeing a play of this kind we must first drop our wide rimmed spectacles of imaginative sentiment; such lenses are wonderful aids to the appreciation of such a fantasy with its appeal to the imagination. It cannot be found with the seeing eye.

The second play, "The Florist Shop" is a pretty idyll of city life, tells the story of life as seen in a florist shop, and particularly the story of an elderly couple, suffering from a fifteen-year engagement, finally brought together through the effective but officious assistance of the slangy, ungrammatical, gumchewing, New York accent, florist's clerk.

BRIDGE NOTICE

PRAYER OF A SPORTSMAN

Dear Lord, in the battle that goes on through life

I ask but a field that is fair, A chance that is equal with all in the strife,

A courage to strive and to dare, And if I should win, let it be the code

And with my good faith and my honor held high;

And if I should lose, let me stand by the road

And cheer as the winners go by

And Lord, may my shouts be ungrudging and clear

A tribute that comes from the heart, And let me not cherish a snarl or a sneer

Or play a sniveling part.

Let me say, "There they ride on whom laurels bestowed—

Since they played the game better than!"

Let me stand with a smile by the side of the road

And cheer as the winners go by!

So grant me to conquer, if conquer I can

By proving my worth in the fray, But teach me to lose like a regular man

And not like a craven, I pray, Let me take off my hat to the warrior who strode

To victory splendid and high, Yea, teach me to stand by the side of the road

And cheer as the winners go by! —Berton Bracey in the American Legion Weekly.

SOCIAL NOTES

Mrs. Dora Benshoof was hostess at the Bible Study Circle, Tuesday afternoon when Miss C. M. White led the lesson study "The Good Samaritan," being the portion considered. After the Homenating study a letter was read from evangelist F. E. Hindgren telling of the wonderful outpouring of the Holy Spirit in Billings, Montana, where they have been holding special services in the Methodist church where over 200 persons publicly confessed Christ and 400 young people freely offered themselves for missionary service. Prayer was requested for a like demonstration at Helena where they are now laboring. News was received from the Great Commission Prayer League, Chicago, of much united prayer for a world wide revival and they gladly united with us for special awakenings for our town and vicinity. Miss White leaves today for Little Rock, Arkansas, and the circle had a social hour and dainty refreshments in her home after the meeting yesterday. Next meeting with Mrs. A. P. Gossard. WOODEN DUCKS LEAD COLLEGE PROFESSOR WILD-CHASE

(From the Goldenrod)

Even in our overly sophisticated age when man is coated with a triple coating of glazed veneer which is supposed to insulate him from all passing sentiments, the hunting instinct is still intact. Man still grabs his rusty shotgun from with a hint of savagery in his eye, and he will track his prey even through the wilds of a college campus.

On a certain Wednesday evening the habitual silence of the campus was broken by the quacking of many ducks. Let it be said for the sake of general enlightenment that the "quacks" were real but the ducks were not. Upon hearing this a certain dispenser of knowledge felt the tingle of the hunting instinct in his veins like the joyous surge of new wine through an old bootlegger. In other words he heard the call of the wild wooden ducks. Whereupon he unslung his gun and powder horn from the antlers above the wash stand and went in search of his prey.

Yes, yes; there they were! By the shades of great green cornfields, Ducks! The now vengeless schoolman put his rifle to his shoulder, not knowing that the ducks were as artificial as the pond wherein they floated.

Bing! bing! bing! exploded his pretty gun but the ducks on the pond regarded him as calmly as so many wooden soldiers. When the smoke and everything but mirth had cleared away, shrieks of silence became audible. The professor's loyal supporters either dissolved into space or choked down irrepressible sobs of laughter as they held their ground.

Not being of amphibious origin the pedantic one decided to leave his ducks in the pond until morning, expecting they would float ashore. They did. That is, they obediently came ashore next morning and arrayed themselves with a sort of stolid nonchalance on top of the pedagogue's desk. They uttered not a single protest although their beautiful paint was cruelly marred by tiny lead shot. He was also surprised, agreeably or otherwise, to find a note accompanying them which read thusly: "Dear Prof.: Here are your ducks, with best regards from the Gang."

THANKSGIVING
(From the Goldenrod)

Thanksgiving has come and gone, bringing its fun and mirth to young and old. All alike seem to enjoy this great national holiday of ours with its good cheer and happy reunions. For several days prior to Thanksgiving our young men and maidens saw visions—visions of the cornucopia of the big roasted turkey. In imagination they sniffed the savory odors emanating from Mother's kitchen. While their minds were running on this groove they forgot to partake of their regular meals, with the result that they became hollow and their principal organ of digestion hourly became more void and empty. This said organ is supposed to carry with it a head to correspond and it was noted that none were hollow eyed from over-much study.

Previous to Thanksgiving the students' schedule for study was as follows: Sunday, fun day; Monday, cannot work after Sunday; Tuesday, must work a little, feel compelled so to do after many warnings of wrath to come; Wednesday, work, provided no plausible excuse can be found to do otherwise; Thursday, slacken work a little because tomorrow is Friday; Friday, no-consciencions student works on Friday, simply because it is Friday—that is excuse superfluous; Saturday, all need to relax from the arduous and wearying toil of evading hard work all week.

Wednesday afternoon many of these star students gaily wended their way to the station laden with heavy suitcases but having light hearts and heads. Most of their pocketbooks also had acquired a lightness to match. On they went as if on important mission bent.

When arrived at their destination, these hollow colleagues of ours scarce took time to give mother her great big hug and kiss before stealing into the pantry to begin to fill that empty space. When Mother viewed her pantry shelves a little later she realized here was a case of "love's labor lost."

On Thanksgiving day all the good aunts and uncles and other kind friends were alarmed at the amazing capacity possessed by these students for fluffy mashed potatoes and savory gravy, for turkey, pie, cake and all the other good things the Thanksgiving feast affords. They sincerely hoped their young friends' heads were as capacious as this central organ of their anatomy.

Thanksgiving over, these vacillating students felt the lure of college life and returned, fully resolved to fill their mental vacuum as thoroughly as they had filled their physical. The schedule is now changed and after each day is written clearly and distinctly the words, "hard work until Christmas comes."

HOME
(From The Goldenrod)

It takes understanding and sympathy to make a real home, a home that may be considered a refuge where one is glad to go when tired or discouraged. Each member of the Family needs to have an interest in the affairs of the others. In a real home each one feels free to share his failures and successes. Often a trouble carried in one's heart for many days becomes of great magnitude and it alone burdens one's thoughts. But if the conditions in the home circle are such that trouble may be freely confided, it frequently happens that the mere sharing of it makes the worry seem trivial and leaves the heart light.

They say that there are three great divisions in the foundation of our nation's life. They are the church, the school and the home. I believe that the home influence is the greatest factor of the three in determining the view of life which the growing child takes. An observant boy or girl quickly becomes cynical and conservative if the home is unhappy. It seems to me that it behooves everyone in a family to make the home a place of harmony and understanding tolerance. The home may be the center of a young person's life, where friends are welcome, where cheery hospitality reigns. Or it may be a place of discord whence the youngster is glad to escape. When the small troubles for which he longs to find sympathy are treated slightly or with amusement, the child becomes introspective and distrustful of confidences. In either case the everyday happiness of the child is affected.

Those who are most needing of pity are the people who look upon home as a place to go when there is nothing else to do. In these days when mothers are interested in clubs and politics, when business engrosses fathers, when children care only for their school work and their own friends, it usually is a problem to have happy concord in the family circle. Many times one member of the household may monopolize time and attention and this eventually creates indifference or impatience on the part of others.

TO PLAY FOOTBALL
(From the Goldenrod)

Lloyd Rohrke, a junior of this school in 1919-20, has been making an enviable record in football at the University of Chicago. The Chicago Register referring to a recent game between the University of Chicago and the University of Illinois has this to say: "Rohrke, whose performance at end was a matter of doubt and made necessary by a crisis, kicked a goal from the field from the 35-yard line as the first gesture in an afternoon of brilliance. Rohrke, he was the individual star of the Chicago team both on offense and defense. There was no question about him a moment after the opening whistle blew—although there had been before. They couldn't circle him; his kick for a goal was vitally important and perfectly executed and his defensive work at all times top class. He was down under the punts on a par with the fleet Barnes, and when McIlwain fumbled in the fiercely fought final period the man waiting to tackle him on the long kick was Rohrke, and dropped on the ball and put Illinois in for their final and fatal disadvantage. Zorn sparkled, Thomas glistened, but Rohrke was the headlights' glare."

The Chicago Tribune reads as follows: "The kick that put the halo of fame around the name of Lloyd Rohrke, who incidentally played a bang up game as end, although strange to the position, was uncocked in the middle of the first period. A fumble led up to it. Woodward let the ball slip out of his paws on his 22 yard mark just after Pyott had punted over the goal line. Two line plays failed to gain and Pyott managed to eke out two yards off tackle and then battering John Thomas was stopped dead in his tracks by Wagner. Rohrke then dropped back a bit and from the 35 yard line sent a powerful drop kick high over the cross bar."

BOOSTING NEBRASKA POTATOES

Nebraska farmers produced a tremendous crop of extra fine quality potatoes in 1922, only to find the market stagnant and heavy loss confronting the producer. Upon suggestions from business organizations in the potato section of Nebraska, the Omaha Chamber of Commerce has undertaken a booster campaign of "Buy Potatoes" which has met with flattering success. The eastern section of the state rings with the slogan of the potato booster.

The above picture presents the display made by the Nebraska Power Company of Omaha, in its Farnam Street show window, one of the most prominent and valuable display locations in the Nebraska metropolis. It is but a part of the big Omaha thought, "Everybody buys."
