CITY BUYS NEW ENGINE— MORE THAN DOUBLING POWER

This week three car loads of a new 630 horse power engine of the Corless type came for the city, and the work of installing the same is now under way, the foundation having been laid some weeks ago, and pipes to carry the steam to the new engine laid ready for connection. When this is in running order the capacity of the Wayne plant will be more than doubled.

The new engine is rated at 630 horsepower, and will develop 500 k. v. a. The engine installed two years ago has a capacity of 300 k. v. a., and the older small engine is rated at 25 k. v. a. All are of the small type.

The cost installed will be about $20,000, and provision has been made for the new machine to pay for itself out of earnings of the plant. With this added power a number of farm lines may be taken on, and we are told that they are just waiting for the plant to be ready. Thus with increased volume of business with but little added expense for labor, fuel or overhead, Wayne people have a right to expect a reduced light and power rate in the not distant future.

L. M. OWEN HUSKING 100 BUSHELS PER ACRE

What L. M. Owen says is the biggest and best corn he ever raised has just been harvested from a 30 acre field he grew just below the railroad track just southwest of town. In telling about the crop Mr. Owen said that it seemed to be rolling out a lot of corn—big ears and lots of them, so they weighed a few loads, and measured up farmer fashion, and decided that it was a 100-bushel to acre field. But that did not quite satisfy, so he had County Surveyor Jones come and measure out an acre, and weighing that acre out, which was no better, if quite as good as other parts of the field.

Mr. Owen said that there is evidence that the wind which passed this way one night when the corn was just nicely in ear broke off approximately 10 per cent of the stalks or turned them out by the roots. This is no guess work, for the withered and rotted stalks are now to be found in the field.

This corn grew on a piece of new ground that had been pastured for many years, and had a great bed of timothy and clover turned under when plowed. The biggest yields yet reported, so far as Wayne observation goes has been from 70 to 91 bushels per acre, for this seasons crop.

WOMAN'S CLUB BAZAAR

On account of conflicting dates, the time set for the Wayne Woman's club bazaar has been changed from Saturday, December 1, to Saturday, December 15. Kindly remember the change in date. We also ask you to do your Christmas shopping at the bazaar which the club is trying to make the biggest and best bazaar yet. They will have a fine assortment of beautiful Christmas gifts for each member of the family, at very moderate prices.

Two big meals will be served. Ladies in charge of the different booths will be at your service all day. The Christmas spirit becomes active about December 15th. Come and have it all over in one day.

MRS. CHAS. SHULTHIES,
General Chairman Bazaar.

LAND SALE

Two land sales were made at Wayne Monday, both sheriff sales. In the first, 320 acres near Sholes went under the hammer to a Randolph man who bid $16,200 for the half section, subject to a first mortgage of $30,000 making the total bid $46,200. He was evidently protecting some second mortgage interest.

The second sale was of 360 acres south of Wayne, which Edward Perry bid in at $90,000. This was land sold a few years ago to Chas. Meyers, and over which there was considerable litigation. This land was started by J. T. Bressler at $70,000 and finally run up to $90,000 where bidding stopped.

A MAN SAID

As he was stopping at Wayne a few days last week: "I have been in several towns in the state in the past two weeks, and Wayne shows more life and pep in a business way, judged by appearances, than any of the places visited, which include a number of what are called good towns; and I know that the town I next go to will seem dead—in fact I know if it is not dead, it is sound asleep."

OBITUARY—HINNING WOCKMANN

Hinning Wockmann was born, November 21, 1841 in Holstein, Germany, where he also went to school and was confirmed. In the year 1862 he was united in marriage with Wibke Harms. March the 24, 1896 he left Germany with his family and emigrated to America. He first came to Winside, Nebraska, and after living near Winside for two years he came in the vicinity of Altona.

His marriage was blessed with sixteen children, five of whom died in the old country and two in this country. His wife Wibke, nee Harms died March 18, 1901.

Mr. Wockmann was taken seriously ill on Wednesday, October 31. The main cause of his death was old age. In his sickness he sought consolation from God's Words and asked for and received the Lord's supper. He fell asleep, as we believe, in Jesus his Savior, Thursday, November 8 about 2 p. m., at the age of 81 years, 11 months and 18 days.

His departure is mourned by nine children, four sons and five daughters, four daughters-in-law and five sons-in-law, 34 grand-children and 19 great grandchildren.

Funeral services were conducted at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Emil Spittgerber. The body was then taken to Trinity church at Altona where Rev. F. G. Schaller spoke on Ps. 90, 12. Thereupon the burial took place at the Lutheran cemetery.

DR. LUTGEN TALKS AT KIWANIS MEETING MONDAY

At the regular Monday noon-dinner of the Kiwanis club, Dr. S. A. Lutgen of this place spoke on the progress of surgery and medicine in these latter days. The doctor told a number of facts—and contrasted the treatment of today with that of other and earlier days. It was not our pleasure to listen to his remarks, but we well know that he is qualified to tell much of the modern progress of the profession, and how practically every progressive innovation in medicine and surgery has been opposed by those who were well satisfied to let "well enough alone," and continue in the track made by their fathers.

Modern surgery has been the marvel of the age. Plenty of people remember when what is now diagnosed as appendicitis, was called "inflammation of the bowels," and was considered incurable. If a patient recovered from that complaint, it was considered that it was something else that ailed him or that it was dispensation of providence. And not many lived, either.

In the late World War many wounded were saved who but so short a time as the Spanish-American war would have been called incurable—and at the time of our civil war no thought of saving certain wounds was dreamed possible. The antiseptic treatment has been one great advancement in healing. The successful use of anesthetics another. Now we may apply the local anesthetic to those who might not be able to survive the uses of either or chloroform administered internally, because of weak heart action or lungs. Such cases are now frequent and successful. Even major operations are performed by use of local anesthetics.

Of course, we do not know just to what extent Dr. Lutgen told of the things noted above; but he did predict that it is coming to be recognized as the mission of the physician to keep people well rather than cure them when ill, and he expressed the belief that the day is not far distant when the mission of those who heal will be to prevent disease as far as possible.

FOOTBALL

Wayne Normal went to Peru last Friday and met defeat by a score of 40 to 9. We should have been glad of a report of the game in detail, but that did not seem to be available, and the very thing we had hoped would not have to be told may be best told as briefly as possible, perhaps.

We all know that the Wayne boys put up a game fight, and that it is no disgrace to be defeated, when you go down fighting. Often the football game that appears one sided, by the score earned may be one of the best and most hotly contested games ever played. A fumble, or some little thing at one or two critical points in the game mean victory or defeat.

The Normal team is ready for their next battle.

GREATER WAYNE CLUB AND WHAT IT IS DOING

At the meeting of the Greater Wayne club Monday evening a brief review of some of its work showed that a big job of road and street marking was about finished. That a plan for getting Normal students and those desiring their help out of school hours together is functioning—also that a fund is available for loan to students in temporary need of help to keep their college work going, as well as some minor things.

What Next?

A membership drive, beginning next week for the 1924 membership is to be in charge of V. T. Senter, E. S. Edholm, Fred Blair and Carl Madsen. This is an organization to which all progressive business men of Wayne and the farmers should seek and the farmers in this vicinity should seek membership. The club needs your co-operation, and the community needs a strong, aggressive club.

Another Move to Boost

During the past week there came to the club officers knowledge of opportunity, perhaps, to secure a short course at Wayne—two days under the instruction of some of the "biggest men in the nation in agricultural work. Such men as Holden, Norris and other may be here, as there are to be but five such meetings in northern Nebraska during January, we believe. The club officers and members believing this to be a work in which the farmers will wish to take the initiative, have taken the information to them, with the result that a meeting is called for the City Hall for Saturday evening at 8 o'clock, for discussion of the matter, and every farmer is urged to be present and take a part. On its part the club promises to aid in every possible way to have Wayne selected as one of the places of meeting—and provide a suitable room for the sessions, or help in any possible way.

All come to the Saturday evening meeting, and tell your farmer neighbor of it and bring him along.

A similar meeting was held at Wayne seven or eight years ago, and while the attendance was not large, because the object of the work was not then as well understood as now, it was of a highly instructive nature, and inspired some of those in attendance to so direct their work on the farm that it has meant many dollars in added wealth to them and to the community.

The Next Meeting

At the December meeting the "Merchant Problems" will be the subject of discussion and consideration, and every member can find something of interest if he will attend. Will you attend?

WARNING TO BANKERS AGAINST INFLATION

Lincoln, Nebraska, November 12.—A note of warning to Nebraska bankers against undue inflation and a corresponding weakening of their reserves by too many loans on luxuries and essentials is sounded in a statement issued today by K. C. Knudson, head of the state banking department.

Knudson sees the face of prosperity returning in the "big corn crop nearly ready to be marketed and in the thousands of cattle and hogs daily growing into ready money," but does not let this condition clear his mind from a fear of over-loaning brought on by the memory of 1919 and 1920. "In only such things as are absolutely necessary," he says, "we should learn that sacrifice means satisfaction," "we should grasp the opportunity to pay our indebtedness" and "we should avoid all kinds of speculation," are the high lights of his warning.

BROGREN—HOLT

Wednesday, November 14, 1923, at the parsonage of the English Lutheran church, and by the pastor, Rev. J. H. Fetterolf, Mr. Arthur F. Holt and Miss Emma Brogren, both of Winside, were united in marriage. They were attended by George Staben and Miss Dora Brogren.

The bride and groom will remain in their home neighborhood, where he has been farming.

DEFIES THE STORM

A new storm front came Wednesday for the Crystal, and is being put in place so that one may stand out of storm and wind when cashing in for the show. This will be an appreciated improvement, for at times the northwest wind is rather severe at that particular spot.

SHAILOR WHEELER DAYTON PASSES AWAY AT WAYNE

Tuesday, November 13th, 1923, death came to S. W. Dayton of this city after a year or more of falling health due to the infirmities of age, at 78 years and 21 days.

Mr. Dayton was born at Princeton, Illinois and grew to manhood in that state. His parents died when he was a few months old, and he found a good home where he remained until of age. He united in marriage December 31st, 1866 to Miss Tabatha Lamsey, who with one daughter and one son survives him. Two sons born to them died, leaving Miss Mabel of this place and Vernon L. Dayton of Carroll to mourn his death, and one grandson, Lawrence Dayton.

He came from their Illinois home to Harlan, Iowa, and lived there 35 years, then spent a number of years in Lincoln, and returned to Harlan, coming from there to Wayne in 1912, when he retired from farming; and his home has since been here.

In early manhood he united with the Baptist church, and transferred his membership as he moved, and was in constant affiliation with churches until the end came. He was an earnest Christian, a man of excellent character, and integrity, industrious and thrifty.

The funeral service will be from the home at 1:15 this afternoon, conducted by Rev. Fetterolf assisted by Rev. Jones, and the body will be taken to the old home at Harlan, Iowa, for burial, leaving at 2:45.

STOP YOUR SPEEDING— DRIVE MORE SLOWLY

The law which places a limit to the speed of automobiles in villages and cities is one which is ignored too frequently. Wayne authorities have been lenient too long, and the violations were becoming more frequent so a systematic method of finding out who violates has been started. As a result no less than sixteen alleged violators have been politely invited to appear before His Honor, Judge Cherry and answer the charge.

Some admit the truth of the charge and the judge seems to have a habit of saying $9.45 for first conviction—and no one knows what one would draw the next time. Others are indignant—and some claim extenuating circumstances. Not all have had their hearing yet; and there may be others not yet reported. The evidence seems to be very conclusive in the cases reported. The speed has been measured by a tested speedometer, in the presence of witnesses.

AMERICAN LEGION POST NAMES NEW OFFICERS

Irwin Sears Post, American Legion, held their regular business meeting Tuesday evening, and had election of officers for the year of 1924, electing the following: John C. Johnson, commander; Herman Lutt, vice commander; A. L. Swan, adjutant; James Pile, historian; J. J. Steele, finance officer; Harold Sears, sergeant at arms; Carrol Orr, post chaplain.

Post members to the number of about thirty were present and took part in the meeting, an executive committee was named.

LEROY OWEN TO GIVE LECTURES ON HOLLAND

While in Chicago last week L. M. Owen visited his son LeRoy, and learned that he has been engaged by the Chicago Tribune to give lectures on Holland in the school houses of Chicago—giving at least five lectures. The Tribune will make slides from the pictures. Mr. Owen took while traveling in Holland about two years ago, and they will be used to illustrate the talks. His Wayne friends would be glad to hear his talk and see his pictures.

SHERIFF O. C. LEWIS HOME

Sunday evening O. C. Lewis arrived home from a Sioux City hospital and while weak and weary from the trip, the late reports from his bedside are that he is gaining strength to "come back" to health again. All will welcome him when he shall be able to come out and arrest us—if we deserve it.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to express our sincere appreciation to all the kind friends for dainty food and beautiful flowers, and to all who assisted in so many ways during the long illness of our dear Elsie. Also for the beautiful floral offerings at the funeral.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Merriman.

WAYNE HIGH SCHOOL NOTES

Wayne High Loses tough Game to Stanton

Wayne high fell before the powerful rushes of the heavy Stanton eleven last Friday on the normal Gridiron to the tune of 33-0. Altho the score seems to indicate an uninteresting game, it was exciting from first to last. Stanton came here with an enviable record, and Wayne did their best and it was a noble effort to hold the heavy invaders to a low score and the locals ability to gain surprised many of the fans. Altho they did not score they carried the ball for into foreign territory several times. Stanton's backfield consisted of four flashy backs and they worked exceedingly well together.

Wayne, as a rule, worked hard and furiously to stem the onrush and were successful in many times, showing their merit, as they held the fast Stanton aggregation for downs, within their ten yard line two or three times, after they had carried it down the field for what appeared to be a certain touchdown.

Wayne staged their usual comeback spirit in the second half, and played a real brand of football, but it was impossible to stop the Stanton backs who were too fast for the local team. However, the Wayne team showed their offensive ability as they made consistent gains both on off-tackle smashups and passes.

Ferry-boat" Sund, as usual was the outstanding star of the Wayne aggregation, making more than his share of the tackles and being the most consistent round-gainer on offense, as he ripped thru the opponents defense time after time for good gains. Thun the little half, also played his usual stellar game, while Dutch Kay, altho only playing in part of the game showed the crowd that he could plug the line with a good deal of effectiveness.

Wayne goes to Randolph this week, and are expecting to come thru with a safe margin. They beat Randolph once this year, but were playing under a handicap. The following week, the team plays Ponca, who have been playing thru a successful season, but the team expects to put the hooks in to their right. This game will be played at Wayne, and is the last game of the season, and the team is going to come thru with flying colors.

The County Red Cross nurse has been here this week examining pupils.

Mr. Bonney spoke during chapel period last Friday.

Miss Franklin is testing pupils for the operetta.

Girl's basket ball work is progressing nicely. Prospects for a winning team are running high.

Miss Hanson and Miss Windenberg entertained the teachers at Kensington Monday evening.

The High school held a short pep meeting before the Stanton game, last Friday.

BUSINESS AND PROFESSIONAL WOMEN MEET

Wednesday evening the ladies of Wayne belonging to the organization of business and professional women held a meeting at the I. O. O. F. hall, and had a well prepared program presented. First on the program was a piano solo by Miss Mildred Reed, then a vocal solo by Miss Emily Button, accompanied by Prof. Beery.

J. H. Kemp was the speaker of the evening, and his remarks were well received. First he congratulated the ladies on their organization and told why organization was good—embodying as it does the grouping and putting in practice the best ideas—a survival of the fittest, one might say. He said that human history is a record of the progress and failure of the people, and civilization is largely the result of organized endeavor in spiritual, political and economic. Great questions confront the people of America today, such as ownership and occupation must be decided.

He cited the growth of life insurance as the result of organization, and the great saving and earning capacity of earnings judiciously invested.

At the business part of the session committees were named for different duties, and the next meeting arranged for. This is to be at the court house, November 23th, when a Thanksgiving covered dish luncheon will be served. Arrangements were also made for the presentation of a musical comedy December 4 and 5, co-operating with the John Roger Producing Co.

SPECIAL MEETING TO BE SUNDAY EVENING

The three week special meetings held here by the pastors of the Baptist, Methodist and Presbyterian churches are to close Sunday evening. There has been a continued good attendance and interest, and many are showing an interest in the better life they are telling of in their talks.

There has not yet been any whirlwind of excitement, but a careful, earnest effort to interest the people, young and old, and especially the young, in the cause of Christianity, believing that it is the foundation on which to build character, and have a real foundation from which to begin a life of usefulness.

The only outside talent employed was a leader for the singing, Prof. Bonney acceptably carrying that part of the work with the aid of the local singers and the pupils from the public school.

It was regrettable that Rev. John Grant Shick, pastor of the Methodist church, was unable to be present and assist in the work; but his place was filled in part by ministers of that church from other places, the district superintendent and others taking part on different occasions.

The three remaining meetings will have open doors for all who care to attend.

NATIONAL EDUCATION WEEK

Beginning the 18th, the president has proclaimed that the seven days of that week be observed as "Education Week," when the citizens are requested to give more than usual time to the subject of education. Education is the one great factor in putting the people of the United States in the van of progress—a leader in all the good and great things that come as blessings to the common people.

In other lands there may be a few who have a higher education than any in America; but the great mass of the American people are beyond doubt the best educated people of any nation in the world, unless it be possible the republic of Switzerland, which is a very small country, compared to ours, but they are a people well educated as a class. Yet, with all our boasted free schools, when the country was raked as with a "fine comb by the draft, many thousands of men fit in years and physical requirements for military service, were found who were not able to read or write. So long as such is the case, we should observe educational week as often as once a year at least.

GIVING THE BLACKKEY TO SOUTH DAKOTA

According to the Emerson Enterprise, J. J. Corn, formerly of that vicinity, is back, after seven years spent in South Dakota, and has rented the Herman Detlef farm, and is going to commence over again. He is reported to have said that wheat had not proved profitable, his yielding but five bushels to each two acres. Hogs seemed to do well, whether bled or quadrupled. The former took $1.25 per hundred for taking the latter to market. He held no sale when leaving because the auctioneers demanded a minimum fee of $50 for crying a sale and the banks take 35 percent for clerking the sale and taking the paper, so he estimated that he could not afford such luxuries. He has hopes of faring better back in this corner of Nebraska.

A CLASS IN PHYSICAL CULTURE

Beginning Wednesday a class of Wayne ladies met at the college gymnasium, to take training in athletic exercises, under direction of Mrs. Leon F. Beery.

CRADLE

HALL—Wednesday November 14, 1923 to W. D. Hall and wife a daughter.

GILDERSLEEVE—Sunday, November 11, 1923, to Harold Gildersleeve, and wife a daughter.

STOCK SHIPMENTS

St. Louis City
L. C. Gildersleeve, 2 cars hogs.
Andrew Stamm, car hogs and car cattle.

E. A. Surber & Sons, car hogs.
Dick Auker, three car hogs.

More than a score of the counts in the indictments against Samuel M. Souder former treasurer of Lincoln county have been squashed by Judge J. T. Tewell, who is presiding. All charges of forgery based on tax receipts were thrown out, and these were considered by plaintiff as the most damaging of all charges.

Congressman Howard tells that he used to get lost in the Nebraska sand hills, but always found his way out; but that owing to the angle streets in Washington, where he now is, he finds it very hard to go where he wants to go and get back again to the place of beginning. He says that some of the new congressmen carry a bit of chalk, and mark their out trail so that they may follow it back—but Edgar prefers to hire a small boy for then he has company as well as a guide.

The Winside Tribune has just installed a model 15 Linotype, and Fritz knows how to play most any tune he wishes on the key-board; and this addition to the Tribune force will add much to the service the paper and editor may be to the community. It will mean more time for Editor Dimmel to chase round for news, because he can set more type in less time, and for one ambitious as is Bro. Dimmel that means the development of newspaper features he could not handle before. If he desires, he can handle a lot of propaganda that he could not hand set, but we hope he won't do it.

Motorists have outgrown that OLD IDEA— "Any old gas is all right"

When it was a triumph to get there and back without having to stop for repairs and adjustments, there was some justification for the notion that the fault was always with the motor. It generally was.

Today the tables are turned. The modern motor is a marvel of mechanical efficiency and dependability. It will run on almost any old gas. But for quick starts and pick-ups, for full power and economical mileage, there is a better kind of gasoline—balanced gasoline.

Red Crown Gasoline is balanced gasoline—the result of many years of experiment and test, of accurate refining and improved processes. It is built to definite specifications and contains the right proportion of low boiling point fractions and high boiling point fractions to assure every desirable gasoline quality.

That's why Red Crown Gasoline is better for winter driving and for summer driving. It costs no more than ordinary gasoline and you can buy it everywhere.

At filling time drive in to the nearest Red Crown Service Station. You are assured prompt, courteous service and accurate measure of uniform, balanced Red Crown Gasoline and motor oils that provide protective lubrication.

POULTRY RAISING IS INCREASING IN STATE

Ninety-three per cent of Nebraska farms are utilized for the raising of poultry in connection with their regular agricultural uses and the poultry industry on these farms is valued at $35,000,000 annually.

In 1922 the value of eggs produced on Nebraska farms was $20,000,000, more than the total output of Colorado, and the value of poultry sold was $15,000,000. More than 50,000,000 dozen eggs shipped out of Nebraska was equal to 1,540 carloads. Half of the eggs produced were shipped out of the state.

In the past ten years there has been an increase of 28 per cent in the poultry of Nebraska. Nebraska farmers have come to realize the value of raising poultry in connection with their other farming pursuits because of the ready cash markets that awaits their eggs and poultry.

The state in 1922 ranked tenth in poultry population and in number exceeded the combined poultry population of the New England states plus New Jersey and Delaware.

The above figures are the result of statistic gathered by impartial authorities, and are undoubtedly correct as to that part of the poultry product that enters the market, but it takes little or no account of the amounts used for home consumption. There is also another matter that it does not discuss—and that is quality and fitness for market.

The Nebraska egg crop could undoubtedly be made to return 10 to 15 per cent more by the proper sorting and care of the eggs, and a system of marketing before reaching the consumer.

Then we send millions of head of poultry to market which the purchaser finds profitable to stuff for ten days or two weeks to finish fattening, not only adding pounds to the weight, but cents per pound to the price, representing the difference between fat and lean chickens. If the

MIDDLE MAN CAN DO THIS WORK AT A PROFIT ON THE HIGHER-PRICED FEED IN THE MARKET CITY, HOW MUCH MORE COULD THE GROWER MAKE BY FATTENING RIGHT AT HOME WHERE FEED IS PLentiful AND THE BIRDS ARE CONTENTED AND FEEL AT HOME.

Another big sum might be added to the returns to the farmer from his poultry of capitalizing his male birds and feeding to give them the size as well as almost the price of turkeys. Some say that by the proper observance of these three measures, the returns from Nebraska poultry crop might be near doubled.

BEST TIME TO CUT ALFALFA DISCOVERED

That farmers, as a rule, cut their alfalfa at the wrong time, will be demonstrated by the Kansas State Agriculture Experiment Station in its official exhibit at the International Live Stock Exposition which will be held in Chicago from December 1st to 8th.

An exhaustive investigation has been under way at Manhattan, Kansas, during the past ten years to determine the effect of cutting alfalfa meadows at different times. This is the most extensive and complete experiment that has ever been conducted along this line and is of particular interest to live stock raisers and general farmers who grow alfalfa. The results shown in the experiment are quite different from those generally accepted as being true and when forcefully set forth in the Kansas State booth at the International, will be of great educational value. Many other lines of scientific work in Kansas will be illustrated in that state's display besides the featured alfalfa experiment.

Nearly a score of state institutions in all parts of the country will install booths at the great Chicago show as a demonstration to the general public of their scientists' latest discoveries and to furnish timely and practical information on many subjects. This group of official state displays will be only one of many valuable and interesting features of the mammoth International Live Stock Exposition which will be visited by nearly half a million people in Chicago the first week of December.

K. P'S HAVE BIG TIME

The Knights of Pythias held their district convention here Tuesday evening, and enjoyed one of the biggest times of their lives. Towns represented here were: Creston, West Point, Madison, Norfolk and Pflug. The business meeting was held in the Woodman Hall where several of the candidates were given their final degree. The Winsde team put on the work. After the initiation the members were taken to the Jewel theater where the Ladies Aid of the Trinity Lutheran church had a magnificent banquet prepared for them. The theater was beautifully decorated in the colors of the lodge, blue and yellow and red and also with banners bearing the F. C. and E. of the order. H. E. Siman acted as toastmaster and the address of welcome was delivered by Prof. John Dassenbrock of the high school. L. Leudtke of Creston spoke of "Friendship" and Gus Nueberg of West Point gave a reading. W. L. Dowling of Madison also spoke his talk embracing "Service" and "Fellowship" of one brother to another. Rev. Littrell, pastor of the M. E. church also addressed the gathering. The local lodge work was in charge of L. W. Neddham. Perhaps the most interesting talk of the evening was delivered by W. Ellswick of Crawford, chancellor of the state lodge. He spoke on "Recommendation of Recreation." Mrs. Ellswick also delivered a most interesting talk, her subject being on "Pythian Sisters."

WHAT LINCOLN SAID

Let Every American, every lover of liberty, every well-wisher to his posterity swear by the blood of the Revolution never to violate in the least particular the laws of the country, and never to tolerate their violation by others. As the patriots of '76 did to the support of the Declaration of Independence, so to the support of the Constitution and the laws, let every American pledge his life, his property, and his sacred honor; let every man remember that to violate the law is to trample upon the blood of his fathers and to tear the charter of his own and his children's liberty. Let reverence for the laws be breathed by every American mother to the lisping babe that prattles on her lap. Let it be taught in schools, in seminaries, and in colleges. Let it be written in primers, spelling books, and almanacs. Let it be preached from the pulpit, proclaimed in legislative halls, and enforced in courts of justice. In short, let it become the political religion of the Nation.—Abraham Lincoln.

AMERICAN RED CROSS HEALTH SONG

Gone are the days when our ears were full of grime,
Gone are the days when our faces did not shine,
Our teeth do not ache for they're clean,
as they should be,
We're happy boosters for our nurse
of the A. R. C.

Chorus
We're scrubbing, we're scrubbing,
Till our faces shine and gleam,
We hear the people's voices saying
Oh, how clean.
Tune Old Black Joe.

NELIGH BANK CLOSES

The Atlas bank at Neligh, a large banking concern, failed to open its doors for business Tuesday morning. This action was no surprise, as it was expected for some months past. No statement has been issued at this writing, and it is claimed that the bank will soon complete a reorganization that will enable it to re-open in better condition financially than for a number of years past.

MAY LICENSE ALL AUTOMOBILE DRIVERS

The increasing number of accidents in which motor vehicles are involved has started a movement by the state automobile department to compile a bill to be introduced at the next session of the legislature of Iowa, asking that all drivers be licensed. Connecticut, Massachusetts and several other eastern states have been under this law for several years, and investigation shows that it has been directly responsible for the small number of accidents. Last year in New Jersey 36,000 operators were passed and 19,500 were rejected. In Massachusetts 100,000 were passed and 25,000 rejected. Under the law drivers would be required to pass an examination and carry a license with them at all times while operating a car. The right would be reserved to revoke the license when a driver proves himself incompetent or careless.

WHAT PARTY DO YOU BELONG TO, MISTER!

That is the question that Henry Ford seems to be frequently asked. If one may judge from his page in the Dearborn Independent. He turns the question about in a way that but few can answer, and many of those who could reply would not do so honestly, for they might give the scheme away. His question is "What does your party belong to?" Mr. Ford says not to take party platforms for the reply—but take recent party history—the recent record. It behooves the voter to get an honest answer to this last question and know before he votes what party he belongs to and why—and to what the party belongs to and why. Is the head of your party with the people or with the monopolies? Is it known to the voter? In other words, what do parties mean these days. Henry has propounded a very far-reaching question, and one to

OUR FARMERS BURNING CORN

But this time it is not because the corn is so low in price, as was the case three years ago, but because of the inferior quality of some corn. From many fields, each load contains from one to three bushels of mouldy corn, and to crib that with the good corn would lower the grade when it came to market, and might also damage other corn, for it is yet none too dry to crib. It makes very good fuel, however.

It is mighty easy to criticize, but quite difficult, often, to offer some thing better than that which you are kicking about. If it were the rule that one who criticises must offer something which he believed to be better there would be far less criticism.

"HALLOWEEN PRANKS" PROVE RATHER EXPENSIVE

(Wynot Tribune)

It is very hard to see just what enjoyment a crowd of young Americans find in getting our Hallowe'en and maliciously destroying property, for that's what it amounts to in a majority of cases, and they are allowed to get away with it under the guise of "Hallowe'en pranks."

Hallowe'en is the day, before All Saints day, and traditionally it was observed in merry-making consisting of "ghost walking" and other innocent fun. Where the idea of overturning out-houses, tearing up machinery, etc., originated, we never were quite able to find out. Things of this sort have been indulged in for many years to a greater or less extent, depending upon the vigilance of the peace officers. Really innocent pranks on this occasion could scarcely be objected to, but when property is overturned and damaged and destroyed, it is time for the authorities to put a stop to the practice.

Very little damage was done in Wynot last Hallowe'en, but a few places and buildings suffered and it was clearly the work of "boys" who had the stature of manhood if they hadn't arrived at that stage morally. Peace officers should be on their guard in the future to take care of the irresponsible element.

Why a Motor Needs Re grinding

1. Loss of power and pep.
2. Continual fouling of spark plugs.
3. A new round ring will never fit an egg-shaped hole.
4. Leaking cylinders are the seat of all motor troubles.
5. When regrinding an old bloc you have a thoroly seasonable casting which will stay put.
6. Accuracy of the cylinder walls with new pistons and rings means perfect compression and combustion—result, power and pep and a satisfied car owner.

Facts most motorists know.

Protective lubrication keeps cars out of repair shops

Modern motors will stand a lot of abuse and still deliver power. But they can't stand friction.

Unless the motor oil is right, it isn't long before you turn in or are towed into a repair shop for costly work on your motor. Poor lubrication is responsible for seventy per cent of all motor troubles and repair bills.

Unfortunately you can't judge motor oil by either looks or price. Testing out oil in your motor may prove expensive. Why not save time, money and bother by using the grade of Polarine that tests have proved will give your motor protective lubrication?

Polarine is the highest quality motor oil that years of experiment and test have produced. Made in five grades—light, medium, heavy, special heavy and extra heavy—a grade that suits every type and make of gasoline motor.

Consult the Polarine Chart. Use the grade recommended and your motor will stay powerful and make few visits to repair shops. Buy where you see this sign.

Hardly seasonable, we would say for a November issue of a newspaper in these parts is an item telling how to prepare green tomato toast.

ABOUT NORRIS

First he is and then he is not going to be a candidate to succeed himself as member of the senate from Nebraska.

An ancient adage says one must go away from home to hear home news. It's true.

Today, in the lobby of a Washington hotel I heard a member of congress make the bold statement that he positively knew that Senator Norris did not mean it when he recently declared that he would not be a candidate for re-election.

That was indeed news, but I do not regard it as truthful news. Norris has publicly said he would not be a candidate to succeed himself. I never knew George Norris to tell a lie.

The Dearborn Independent this week is asking and starting to answer the question "Do you know how your Red Cross dollars are split between relief and overhead?" It is a proper question, and does not necessarily imply any misappropriations of the great funds so freely given in time of need. In America the work was largely that of volunteers, tho of course thousands of people were required to devote all their time to the cause, but not all of these were paid from the funds. The question above is a legitimate one, and a question to which thousands of people hope for an answer, and they also hope and believe that no charge of fraud shall develop. Three hundred millions were spent by the organization, and those who gave the vast sum have the right to know how it was spent.

Secretary Work is reported as saying that the farm home is the hope of the nation. If that be so, the hope of the nation is up against the docks just now, in many instances. He also intimated that a lot of our statesmen might better be studying conditions at home rather than abroad. That's a true saying.

Colonel Forbes of the Veteran's hospital—the head in fact, is facing some ugly charges, we will say. When a man is accused of robbing the crippled and disabled soldiers, not much worse charge can be made.

Now comes the story that Governor Walton of Oklahoma, took the obligation as a member of the Klan, and that he paid his membership fee of $10. Perhaps it is for violation of his obligation to the klan that the attempt is made to impeach him.

CHIROPRACTIC

The NATURAL METHOD TO REGAIN HEALTH

A STRAIGHT BACK, A CLEAR HEAD AND STIFF UPPER LIP

That's a good start for any boy or girl. And Chiropractic adjustments assure it.

A straight back—vertebrae all in right position, all nerves free and vigorous.

A clear head—all poisons and toxins eliminated, because all organs are working normally and with ample nerve force.

A stiff upper lip—self-control, and courage, and unimpeded nose breathing.

Enlarged adenoids, which cause mouth breathing, deform the teeth and jaws, and deprive the brain of healthy oxygenated blood, can be corrected and adjusted by Chiropractic.

Give your children the advantage of a Chiropractic examination and any Chiropractic adjustments that are necessary. It's the start you owe them.

SIDE COMMENTS ON THE HOME TOWN PAPER
Yes, they have an easy time, these printers and editors. "The paper hasn't a thing in it worth reading and to think they charge $2.00 per year for it. Imagine that for a regular holdup. No we haven't paid our subscription for several years but we are going to. Say did you ever notice the mistakes? Honestly I found two on the front page. Some weeks the paper is nothing but advertisements. Of course I know that's where the big profit comes from, but they make plenty off of their subscribers, let alone the advertising. Yes they put out good job work but there are shops that do it a little cheaper. I most always have my work done at the other shop but if I want a few favors in the printing line I always try the home shop first. If I was printing that paper it sure would be different, believe me, I'd have something in it."—Ex.

COMMISSIONERS PROCEEDINGS

Wayne, Nebraska, November 6th, 1923.
Board met as per adjournment. All members present.
Minutes of meetings held October 16th and 19th 1923, read and approved.
Bond of Sol Hooker as Highway Commissioner for the balance of the fiscal year 1923, is hereby approved.
Anson A. Welch, Judge of the District Court, having ordered this board to pay or cause to be paid to Irma Brown a widow's pension out of the Mothers Pension Fund for the support of her minor children, Raymond, Rita and Frances Brown, commencing November 20th 1923, and continuing for six months at $20.00 per month, all of which was duly approved, and the county clerk is ordered to draw such warrants.
Report of J. M. Cherry, County Judge, showing amount of fees collected by him for the quarter ending September 30th, 1923, amounting to the sum of $561.45, and the payment of the same into the county treasury, was examined and on motion duly approved.
Comes now Chas. W. Reynolds, County Clerk, and makes the following appointment as Deputy County Clerk which is in the words and figures as follows:
I hereby appoint May Belle Carlson as Deputy County Clerk of Wayne County, Nebraska, for the remainder of my ensuing term as County Clerk of said County, said appointment made necessary by the death of Elsie Merriman, and I respectfully request that said appointment be confirmed and her bond be approved.
Witness my hand and seal this 6th day of November A. D. 1923,
Chas. W. Reynolds, County Clerk.

(Seal) which appointment is on motion duly approved.
The following claims are on motion audited and allowed and warrants ordered drawn on the respective funds as herein shown. Warrants to be available November 17th, 1923.

Daddy's Evening Fairy Tale

BY MARY GRAHAM BONNER

SHARING STORIES

"Every year," said Daddy, "we like to have a talk with those who read our stories. And we like to speak of these stories which we have shared together. This year, too, we have had so many letters—letters telling us such nice things!

"We've heard of far-away places where our stories have gone and of most up-to-date places, too. In some of these places they have unusual kinds of animals and birds and when we have had a story about their kind they have written to us to tell us what they have seen and noticed themselves.

"One little girl from far, far North wrote us about the farm animals up there and of the long cold winters they had and of how they all struggled to keep warm.

"And another little girl wrote us from a place where there was never any snow. She said she loved to hear about the Ice Men and Madame Snow and Old Man Snow and Prince Sleet and the Blizzard Boy.

"She told us that sometimes when the days were very hot she took out all our 'coldest' stories and read them over again! For she told us she kept all our stories in a scrap book, which pleased us.

"I'm going to ask the Breeze Brothers to tell that to the Animals and the Birds and the Fairies, for I know they will all be glad to think that they've made such a good friend that she wants to keep their stories.

"Then we've heard from a little girl from way out West, who told us such wonderful stories of her home life. Such riding as she must do! And she told us of her pet horse.

"Some of our friends have told us they liked to hear about the animals in the zoo—those animals who had come from other countries, and they liked to hear of their ways in the zoo and of what they did before they came to the zoo.

"And others of our friends have loved the Fairy stories. 'Billie Brownie' has many friends. For Billie Brownie, of course, has been granted a special permission by Mother Nature.

"He can always understand Mother Nature's children now and they can always understand him. He goes about calling on the flowers and the animals, the butterflies, the frogs—oh, he has such an enormous calling list. And we've been able to give some of the stories of his travels and of his adventures.

"Then there have been letters from many and many a girl and boy, who have said their favorites of all were old Grandfather Porky Pig and Sammy Sausage and Miss Ham and Brother Bacon and Pinky Pig, Mrs. Pinky Pig, Mrs. Pink Pig, Master Pink Pig, Pinky's mother, Sir Percival Pork and Sir Benjamin Bacon.

"Oh, those jolly, greedy, happy, grunting, squealing pigs have many friends. And the pigs are much pleased that it is so, for even if they do love their food they are gentle and good-natured and they are so contented with their home pig pen and aren't always wishing for something they haven't got.

"Some friends have asked for certain stories—perhaps a story of adventure, perhaps one telling about the trees in the springtime or of the ways of flowers.

"And others have liked the stories of cats and of dogs and of horses. 'Many have written of clubs they have formed in which they've all promised to understand animals better and to think of them and to be kind to them.

"And they're trying to stop people from wearing feathers in their hats—especially agrettes which are so cruel to wear. Then, too, they've told us of other good things they're trying to do—seeing that horses get water in the summer time, and that the birds do, too, and putting suet in the trees for the birds in the winter.

"And, oh, how we do love these letters, and our many friends. And we want to tell every one that if they will write to Mary Graham Bonner, 607 West One Hundred and Thirty-seventh street, New York city, we will hear the letters."

"Oh, yes," said Nick and Nancy, "and we hope we get lots of letters this year again. They're such fun! And it seems that as though we shared our stories so really and truly with lots of others."

WHERE ALL THE SUGAR GOES

Bakers and Makers of Candy and Soft Drinks Use Vast Amounts of It.

Not more than half of the sugar we Americans consume is used in our homes. The rest goes into manufactured products. The estimates of the quantities used in manufacture run this way:

Our candy makers alone use more than 350,000 tons, and 130,000 tons more go to sweeten up chocolates and ice creams.

Every year the bakers dip into the national sugar bowl for well over 45,000 tons for bread, 55,000 tons for crackers and 90,000 tons goes every year into frostings and odds and ends in the bakeries.

Fourteen thousand or more soft-drink makers hit the nation's sugar bin for at least 130,000 tons for their concoctions and another 100,000 tons goes into condensed milk.

Twenty thousand tons of sugar is chewed up each year in gum, and less aesthetic jaws worked on another 15,000 tons that goes into the nation's "eat-in tobacco," this not including about 6,000 tons that goes to smoking tobaccos.

The country's pill and potion bill disposes of about 6,000 tons of sugar each year, and the corner druggist uses an unknown quantity in filling what the doctor ordered.

Even sticky fly paper and roach-ant and rat killers draw from the sugar supply to the tune of hundreds of tons.

And nobody knows how much has gone into bootleg and home-brew.—Nation's Business.

SCALING SHIPS BY MACHINERY

Labor-Saving Device for Cleaning Bottoms of Vessels Is Run by Compressed Air.

Scaling ships' bottoms by machinery is the latest labor-saving practice devised to aid "those who go down to the sea in ships." Ever since the advent of iron and steel hulls, one of the meanest jobs faced by Jack is cleaning the vessel's underwater section when the ship is placed in dry dock. Hammers with chisel-like heads, wire brushes and even cold chisels have been laboriously wielded to clean off marine growths, rust and the old paint.

Now comes the ship scaling machine run by compressed air and looking very much like the pneumatic riveters, so painfully familiar to New Yorkers who live near modern building operations—and who doesn't? By its use, one man with a scaling machine can do as much in a day as could six men with the old-time methods and do a better and cleaner job at that. Gauge goggles are needed, however, in operating the ship scaler, because it works so fast, that bits of metal, rust and paint fly about in a veritable shower. Another modification of the machine is run by electricity.

Voice Pictures.

So that future generations might be able to compare the quality of her song with that of voices yet unheard, Melba consented to sing into Professor Low's audiometer, an instrument which photographs the waves of sound as they come from the singer's lips. This photograph is quite different from that of any other voice ever recorded. No other has had anything resembling the same variation combined with the same regularity. It is full of harmonics and infinitesimal variations in the wave, but these waves are perfect in regularity. This might account for its carrying power, by superimposition, since it is not a loud voice in the ordinary sense.

Heroic Act of Collie.

A collie dog is reported to have saved the life of a London (Ont.) girl, while accompanying the child to a nearby store. The girl stopped on the railroad tracks in the path of a fier. Realizing the child's peril, the dog threw himself against her with sufficient impact to knock her clear of danger, and was cut to pieces by the train before he could regain safety. The little one's mother had tried to discourage the dog from going when the daughter started on her errand.

Shooting Cement.

An 18-mile tunnel has been pierced to bring New York's water from the Catskills. Four hundred thousand barrels of cement will be used in lining the tunnel. A mixing plant at the mouth of each one of the seven shafts of the tunnel discharges compounded concrete down an eight-inch pipe at the rate of a mile a minute. The concrete is shot into steel forms by a "concrete cannon."

Frank About It.

A visitor to a mountain village found a sect which believed that the world was flat and made that a tenet. "You hang together well," he suggested to an elder.

"We don't always hang together so well at that," responded the elder frankly, "but we ain't got enough members for a split."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

"Watch Geese" for Warehouse.

Several of his watchdogs were stolen, so now a London warehouseman is using geese instead, taught no doubt by the old story of Rome being saved from night capture by the geese of the capital. Geese are nervous birds and can be relied on to cackle in the presence of anything unusual, he says. Many men are afraid to go near a goose.

Mere Tribute

By MORRIS SCHULTZ

(© 1922, Western Newspaper Union.)

"YES, my dear Mrs. Elwes, but the price has gone up to seven thousand five hundred," smiled the colonel.

Mrs. Elwes stood before him dumb-founded. "You—you told me five thousand," she stammered.

"Three years ago," smiled the colonel.

"I've paid you that hundred a month all the time," she faltered desperately.

"Mere tribute," smiled the colonel, leaning back in his chair. "I'll take the five thousand on account and debit you with the balance."

Mrs. Elwes stood there, a pitiful figure that might have melted a heart of stone, but the colonel's heart was made of alabaster, for he was the editor of a notorious society paper which made a specialty of scandal.

And there had been something in Mrs. Elwes' past life which the colonel had found out, three years before.

His threat of divulging it to her husband had kept her in constant terror. Jim and she adored each other. If ever he found out he would leave her, cast her off; his anger would be terrible. She could not bear the thought of it. She had saved every penny she could scrape together to get that fatal letter that was the proof. And now the colonel had calmly raised his price 50 per cent.

She looked at him in despair. The colonel looked back at her. He didn't want to drive her too far; he had his own reasons, also an acute psychological sense which told him just how far he could go.

"I'll make it sixty-five hundred," he said, still smiling. "And that hundred a month until the debt is paid. Otherwise—that is to say, if I don't receive the whole amount within a month—"

"A month!" she gasped.

"A month," he smiled. "Come, my dear Madam, it is an easy thing to wheedle another fifteen hundred out of that complacent husband of yours."

She bit her lip. That was the hardest thing of all to bear, the thought of having to deceive Jim, who trusted her so implicitly.

"I'll do my best," she answered desperately.

"Your very best," smiled the colonel. "A nice little, juicy article that story would make, wouldn't it! And that letter would look so well in print in our columns."

"Oh, you are a brute!" sobbed Mrs. Elwes.

"So many have called me," answered the colonel, bowing her out.

She went out in a nightmare. She must go to Jim, lie to him again, let him think her extravagant, so long as she could wheedle another fifteen hundred out of him. She was desperately in debt, all her bills were unpaid, and the colonel had her five thousand, in bills, upon his desk.

She started violently. She had nearly collided with a tall man who was coming along the passage. And she looked at him in terror. It was her husband!

"Pussy! You here?" he exclaimed.

"Why, Jim, I—"

But she could think of no lie to tell him. She had a desperate desire to blurt out everything, rather than go on enduring what had been her portion for so long.

And, staring into her husband's face, which wavered in a blur of mist, she saw his blue eyes hardening, saw a dreadful look come upon his face.

"You've been to see Colonel Lawrence!"

He had her by the shoulder, tight, as in a vise, and she was sobbing desperately in the passage.

"You've been in there!"

"No—I—I—"

"Answer me!"

"Yes, then, yes! If you must know he's got a letter of mine, and I've been paying him blackmail for years—all your money went there—now—"

She realized with dismay that he was embracing her. His kisses fell tenderly upon her forehead.

"You poor little girl, to think that you should have suffered as you have! Why, I've been paying blackmail to that scamp for years, too, so that you shouldn't know I knew. How much have you paid him?"

"Five thousand, just now—"

Her husband laughed as he entered Colonel Lawrence's office.

"There must be an earthquake in the room above," said one of the occupants of the room under the colonel's.

"Oh, I guess not," answered his friend. "Sounds like the colonel having difficulties with one of his subscribers."

Better Hurry.

Quick thinking always gets results. "Won't you help the Patagonians?" asked a lady collector.

"Young lady," responded the business man gravely, "last week you asked me to help the Babylonians. After an investigation, I find that the Babylonians have all been gone for 2,000 years."

"Then you'd better help the Patagonians while you've got a chance." He gave her a check.

Far Away.

"There seems to be an idea that voices had better be trained in Europe."

"As a flat dweller, I heartily subscribe to that."

Milligan No Quitter

By ANTHONY REIMERT

(© 1922, Western Newspaper Union.)

MILLIGAN drifted into the ranch-house on a Friday afternoon, announced that he was a new hand, and proceeded to occupy an empty bunk. The boys sized Milligan up for a while without saying much. He was a big, gish, fair-haired young feller with a cast in one eye, and he hadn't much to say for himself.

Soon the boys began joshing him gentle-like. They saw he stood for that, and they joshed him harder.

"Say, was you ever on a cow ranch before?" inquired Big Stud Egan, who was the hardest nut ever uncracked in the Bar M outfit.

"Can't say as I was," drawled Milligan.

"We'll learn you to be a cowman," says Big Stud. "We'll put you on Whiner tomorrow mornin'."

Now Whiner was the name given to the orneriest cayuse in the saddle-stock corral. There wasn't a mean trick Whiner didn't know, nor there wasn't a man had ever sat on him more'n a minute. Way he got his name was from the squeals he'd emit when he was bucking.

Next mornin' Whiner was brought out. He'd stand quiet as a lamb and let you gentle him, jest waiting till you got your leg across the saddle.

"Hop up, Milligan," says Big Stud. And the boys stood around laughin'.

Miss May, the owner's daughter, stood around too. She was a fine gal; all the cow-punchers was in love with her, me included, but nat'rally she wouldn't have nothing to do with our kind. Still, she liked a bit of fun, like what was being planned now.

"Hop up, Milligan," says Big Stud, grinning.

Milligan gets his leg across the saddle in a workmanlike way, and Whiner starts in. The boys, of course, look to see Milligan go sailin' over the corral fence.

Did he? Not he. Five minutes later he was cantering Whiner round the corral amid a stupefied silence.

But that five minutes had been the briskest Whiner'd ever experienced, or the boys had ever seen. What Milligan didn't do to Whiner ain't worth trying to tell. I never see a pony get the spirit taken out of him so quick as Whiner did.

And Milligan setting there as cool as ice, and laughin'.

When he gets down Miss May steps up to him. "I think that's perfectly splendid," she said. "It's the finest feat of horsemanship I've ever seen, and you must come on up to the house and have a chat with father. He'll be tickled to death when he hears of it."

"Ticked to death! I guess we was tickled to death to see Miss May, who hadn't no use for us punchers, making up to Milligan that way. But Milligan makes a sort of bow.

"Thanks, lady," he answers, "but I ain't what you might call a sassiety man."

Miss May goes red as fire, and steps back with a gasp. Milligan goes up to Big Stud.

"Thanks for learning me to be a cowman, Stud," he says. "Here's a little memento of 'ol occasion." With which he hands Stud a wallop that sends him flying head over heels.

"Well, you can guess that tickled us some more. There wasn't no man had stood up to Stud since he smashed up old Murphy, the champion of the Two-Cross the year before.

Stud gets up and comes back with a bellow, and Milligan, jest stepping out of the way of his fists, hands him another that sort of jolts him. Big Stud stands stock-still, as if wonderin' what had hit him. And with that Milligan hands him his last. And Stud goes down for the count.

We was all standing round there, stupefied like, when the boss comes hustling up. It appears he'd seen the whole thing.

"Say, what are you?" he asks Milligan. "Last night I took you for a hobo a-morning to become a cowman. This mornin' you ride Whiner, who's never been rode before, you insult my daughter, and you knock Big Stud cold."

"Fergit it," answers Milligan, with a wave of his hand. "When I goes to a job I aims to do my best. I've rid the meanest, orneriest horse in your outfit, and I've knocked out the best guy with his fists, and I've won the hearts of the ladies—leastwise the only ladies here."

"The idea!" exclaimed Miss May indignantly.

"So I come out at the top of the tree now, and there ain't nothin' more worth doin' in this outfit," says Milligan, "so I'm off."

And Milligan went down the road.

Question.

A German is murdered in England, and Scotland Yard detectives take the trail. The murderer, believed to be an Englishman, will be hanged if caught. Both are ex-soldiers, former enemies.

If he had killed his victim five years ago, when both were in uniform of opposing armies, the law would have commended him.

In other words, killing is an ethical matter in one year and a legal problem in another.

Turkish Women Now See Doctors.

Turkish women no longer refuse to see doctors except through a rent in a curtain. Many of them will now, when ill, voluntarily send for a doctor and submit to examination.

TIME TO VIEW WITH ALARM

Startling Exploit of Pennsylvania Girl Whose Fiance Was in the Sheriff's Custody.

(© 1922, Western Newspaper Union.)

Had an Oppenheim, a Chambers or a McGrath written a tale a few years ago of a girl who forced her way into a sheriff's home and then, single-handed, freed her fiance from the nearby jail with the aid of the keys and a revolver she obtained in her housebreaking, readers would have been amused at the idea a girl could do such a thing.

But truth continues to make fiction look silly. And times have changed. The Warren (Pa.) girl who did that thing is a type that the writers of shockers have not caught up with as yet. There are policewomen and women deputy sheriffs today—also girl bandits. Millady in her emancipated state both enforces the laws and breaks them. No task is too much for her.

If the facts in this case were as they are told, here's love laughing at the locksmiths and the sheriff and all the embattled array of the forces of law and order. That's the way the movie scenario writers would look at it. Many other persons will take that judicial attitude toward the exploit of this lass, too.

But are not the ladies going a bit too far? Nobody, not even judges and juries, have objected very strenuously so far to women shooting up their husbands at odd times, even to their shooting up other people's husbands. But if they are to be permitted to break open the jails to get their chosen ones out of durance, of what use will be jails or policemen or laws, even?—Buffalo Evening News.

ECUADOR PINEAPPLES HUGE

They Grow to Weight of Twenty-Five Pounds in the Province of Esmeraldas.

Ecuador is fast becoming a great fruit-growing country, said Frank Edward Kink of Esmeraldas, Ecuador, to the New York Times.

"Pineapples grow to a weight of 25 pounds in the province of Esmeraldas," he declared. "This is about twice the size of the pineapples grown in Hawaii and shows that we must have very superior soil. Moreover, there is no place in the world that produces such large, thin-skinned, seedless oranges.

"Indications are that the province has also a considerable wealth in oil. There are a great number of oil seepages which would indicate a great production of high-gravity oil. The character of this oil is higher than the famous Pennsylvania oil, and has been produced in Ecuador for the last 300 years, but it is only recently that modern machinery has been used for drilling, with excellent success. One month ago an English company brought in a well of 900 barrels an hour of 38 gravity oil. These conditions combine to encourage immigration, which is steadily increasing in Esmeraldas."

Yucatan Likes Wheat Bread.

Corn tortilla, for ages the favorite bread of Yucatecans, is threatened by a modern competitor. Little baking is done in the homes of Yucatan, the frying pan being the standard implement of cookery. The simple but wholesome Mexican tortilla is an article of general diet, but wheat bread is now being widely consumed. The wheat bread supply of the entire peninsula of Yucatan originates in bakeries and consists principally of long, sour French loaves. According to Consul O. G. Marsh of Progreso about four years ago a progressive Yucatecan opened a modern bakery in Merida equipped with American machinery and using American fresh yeast. This bakery enjoys remarkable success. A great variety of rolls, biscuits, etc., raised with baking powder and containing lard and sugar are purchasable.

Wanted a Change.

Watkins came in from the office and tossed his hat over on the table.

"Hello, Mary," he called.

Mary came from the kitchen to give him her wifely kiss of greeting.

"Here, dearie, I brought you a box of candy tonight," Watkins announced. Mary was nonplussed for a moment.

"Why, Jimmie, this isn't our wedding anniversary!" she exclaimed.

"And it isn't my birthday—and it isn't— Oh, Jim, you're courting me again!"

"Nope," Jim denied casually. "I just thought a little something sweet would taste good!"

Billiard Balls From Beans.

Billiard balls at present being grown at the Royal Botanic gardens, in England, are the most recently discovered use of the soya bean, whose natural home is in the Far East. But billiard balls are not the only uses to which the soya can be put. It can be utilized as: A substitute for knife and bands. An ingredient of cheese, flour, table oil, cake, sauce and soap. In making lubricating and illuminating oil, glycerin, paint, varnish, celluloid, printing ink, waterproofs, explosives and linoleum.

Discovered.

Little Bobby, who had been playing with a neighbor's daughter, came sobbing to his mother and declared that his little playmate had pulled his hair.

"Why, Bobby," his mother gasped, "I thought she would never do anything like that." "So did I," wailed Bobby. "That's why I kicked her."—Los Angeles Times.

So Simple.

"Pa, it says here in the paper that a man did something willy nilly. What's that mean?"

"It means that it was a case of volens volens, my top."

The Old Homestead

By ELLA SAUNDERS

(© 1922, Western Newspaper Union.)

BARBARA walked up the weed-grown path and pushed open the back door of the little house. She stood there, looking out at the familiar scene with intense happiness in her heart.

And yet it was not unmixled with sadness, for this was her birthplace, and it was seven years since, a girl of eighteen, she had left it for a far-away city.

Now she had come home. Her aunt had left her enough money to live on in a very quiet way, and she meant to take up bee-farming. She had had enough of city life.

She had come back, but her father and mother were dead, all whom she loved were dead, except Tom Wayland, and—

Bitter thoughts flooded her mind. Tom had been her first sweetheart. He had been five years older than herself, and they had almost become engaged. But they had quarreled, and Tom had gone West, and Barbara had never heard from him again.

Well, she had put Tom's memory aside, and she was not going to let it disturb her now. She went into the little house. Her trunk was to follow on the morrow, but she had bought a few things at the grocery store in the village, and she set to work like a methodical housewife, cleaning up.

And there was an odd sense of some one having lived in the place. It was not that it was clean—she had written to one of the village women to clean up for her, and supposed this had been done. But there was that indescribable atmosphere of another presence, and—she smelled tobacco.

No doubt the woman's husband had come, she thought, or it might even be that some one had taken up his residence there. Well, Barbara wasn't standing on her rights. It was her cottage, and every one would know now that she had returned to it.

She ate a frugal meal, but she was too weary to go over the house that evening. And she wanted to revive her memories by day. She went into her own little bedroom and flung herself down on the bed without undressing. How peaceful it was, with the view of the distant hills beyond the lush, flat country through which the river wandered. A bird was singing. Barbara closed her eyes.

She awoke with a start. She had heard footsteps in the house! She sat up, frightened. Some one was coming up the stairs.

And it was the man's footsteps. Always timid, Barbara did not know what to do. It occurred to her that it must be the man whose pipe she had smelled. Probably he had taken up his residence in the house. She must wait till he had gone into his room and then slip quickly out.

But suppose it was her room he had chosen! And—now she thought she smelled tobacco in her room. Fearfully she crouched upon the bed, listening.

The man was carrying a candle. Its flickering light came through the crack of the door. And the footsteps had reached the top of the stairs.

He stopped, Barbara's heart beat fast. Then, to her terror, she heard him coming into her room.

Next instant the door opened. A man stood on the threshold.

Some 8,700 hogs showed up Tuesday and trade was slow from start to finish at prices 10 to 20c lower than Monday. Best light and butcher weights brought $3.75 and bulk of all the trading was at $3.25@3.75.

Lambs A Quarter Higher.
Only 4,200 sheep and lambs showed up Tuesday and they were quickly cleaned up at figures around 25c higher than Monday. Best fat lambs would bring $13.00 or better.

Quotations on sheep and lambs:—Fat lambs, good to choice, $12.25@13.00; fat lambs, fair to good, $11.50@12.25; clipped lambs, $11.50@12.15; weaning lambs, $11.25@12.75; wethers, $8.00@7.50; yearlings, $8.00@10.00; fat ewes, light, $6.25@6.25; fat ewes, heavy, $5.50@5.00.

Bed Worth a Fortune

The rajah in one of the northwest provinces of India is the possessor of an extraordinary bedstead. The posts are constructed of malacca, the remainder being manufactured of solid gold. The golden headpiece is set with no fewer than 700 gems of all kinds, and the dazzling effect as the light falls on the scintillating array of thickly studded jewels is said to be almost beyond expression. As the bed is valued at something like $50,000 it is guarded day and night.

THE MORE RECENT AMENDMENTS TO THE CONSTITUTION OF THE UNITED STATES

Sixteenth Amendment.—Income Tax.

The Congress shall have power to lay and collect taxes on incomes, from whatever source derived, without apportionment among the several States, and without regard to any census or enumeration.

Seventeenth Amendment.—Senators Elected by the People.

1. The Senate of the United States shall be composed of two Senators from each state, elected by the people thereof, for six years; and each Senator shall have one vote. The electors in each State shall have the qualifications requisite for electors of the most numerous branch of the State legislature.

2. When vacancies happen in the representation of any State in the Senate, the executive authority of such State shall issue writs of election to fill such vacancies: Provided, That the legislature of any State may empower the executive thereof to make temporary appointments until the people fill the vacancies by election as the legislature may direct.

3. This amendment shall not be so construed as to affect the election or term of any Senator chosen before it becomes valid as part of the Constitution.

Eighteenth Amendment.—Prohibition.

1. After one year from the ratification of this article, the manufacture, sale, or transportation of intoxicating liquors within, the importation thereof into, or the transportation there from the United States and all territory subject to the jurisdiction thereof, for beverage purposes, is hereby prohibited.

2. The Congress and several States have the concurrent power to enforce this article by appropriate legislation (This amendment became effective January 16, 1920.)

Nineteenth Amendment.—Woman Suffrage.

Gives women the right to vote.

DOWN IN INDIANA

Some of Indiana is as worthless as the Mojave desert but most of Indiana is as pretty as a woman, speaking agriculturally. All day long I have been viewing an agricultural paradise, and always I am thinking of the old woman in the "Hoosier Schoolmaster." She was here when folks were coming from Ohio and eastern states in search of cheap land. Many were disappointed when they first saw the land, and many returned to the East, declaring Indiana could never be anything better than a system of timbered swamps. But always the old woman was optimistic about Indiana, indulging in glowing forecasts of the quick development of the country, telling every new comer of the rich financial reward in store for those who bought the cheap land, and always her final admonition was: "While you're getting 'g' a plenty." And great was the reward of every pioneer who accepted the old lady's advice. And while on the subject of agriculture I ought to make a comparison between farm conditions in Nebraska and Indiana. The comparison will be brief. The Nebraska farmer is in about the same situation as the Indiana farmer, both are getting what seems to be good prices for farm produce, but the seemingly good prices are quickly exhausted when the farmer buys the things necessary for the operating of his farm. Today I talked with a young Indiana farmer who is in hard luck. When the late war was declared he enlisted and went over the sea. On the day the boy enlisted his proud father decided 320 acres of farm land to the lad, reserving a life interest, the title to be in fee upon the death of the grandfather. It was stipulated that after the war the boy should pay his grandfather annually a sum equal to five per cent of the value of the land at that time, $325 per acre. But let the boy tell his own story, as follows: "I was the proudest man in Indiana when I came home from the war and took possession of that fine farm. In 1919 my crops were light, but prices were high and I had no trouble to pay granddaddy his annual interest of five per cent. But since then, why, if granddaddy was not the best fellow in the world he would have kicked me off that land over a year ago. Last year's low prices hit me hard and then came a lot of extra school and road taxes, and granddaddy received a dollar of his last year's interest. Granddaddy doesn't say much, but I expect he's thinking a whole lot. So now I, mostly I am thinking what would happen to me if I owed that big interest money to a Philadelphia mortgage company."—Congressman Edgar Howard.

Lloyd George is back in Merry England fighting the protectionist tariff. In this work he is co-operating with some whom he could not work with on some other questions; Premier Asquith. Political enemies of some questions, they are agreed as to the tariff.

OF GENERAL INTEREST (From the Wayne County Teacher) Notes from District No. 69.

My 5th and 6th grades have kept their work for the month in spelling. Bessie Baker, fifth grader, has had 100 each day. John Bergerson, sixth grader, has had 100 every day except one and that was 90. Frances Brown, sixth grader, has been here ten and one-half days and has had 100 every day except one. Lydie Brinkman and Truma Prescott fourth grader, have had 100 every day except one.

Florence Baker and Lydia Brinkman were neither absent nor tardy during the whole of last year.

We have a new bubbler fountain. Nearly all of the trees that were set out last Arbor Day are growing. Mrs. Nora Gaines, teacher.

The Sholes Consolidated school has a new full cemented basement, containing fuel bins and play room. This is a fine improvement.

We noticed that Violet Meng, teacher in District 65, went to look over or provide new busy work for little folks after each recitation. This saves a good many questions and much running around of the little people.

One teacher told me that she told the jokes and good stories that she heard at institute to her pupils and they enjoyed them too.

From District No. 22.

Lena Bauman, teacher
Last Wednesday, Mr. Stewart of the Security State Bank of Randolph accompanied by Mr. Adams visited our school and gave a brief business talk on behalf of the "One Dollar Savings Account" at their bank. This plan is, each pupil, also myself, by depositing one dollar or more, would be entitled to a nickel plated liberty bell (as a souvenir) and a prize of Five Dollars that would go to the entire school.

Friday they came again and found it to be true that our school was a pure 100 per cent school.

Each pupil was presented with one of the bells to be used for savings purposes and also the Five Dollars was presented to the school.

The pupils and I worked up a few good school yells and gave them, and they complimented us very highly as a much interested and enthusiastic school.

We have decided to add a few more dollars to the five and get us a school room clock.

An invitation was received to attend a program and box supper in district 54 on Friday evening, October 26 at 8 o'clock. Nellie Wingett is the teacher.

Also an invitation to a Halloween Party in District 58 on the evening of October 30, at 8 o'clock. Florence Nelson is the teacher.

Miss Blanche B. Groves, formerly of Winside, writes that she has a planographed organ for sale, if any district would care to buy it. She says it is practically new and would sell at a reasonable price. Her address for the present is Allen, Nebraska, Box 111.

In District 83, the teacher reported that each week two girls and two boys were appointed as policemen for the school. Their duties were to carry water, sweep the hall, clean toilets, and look after the orderly arrangement of coats and dinner pails.

In district 84 the pupils of the sixth grade history class instead of reading the lesson in class as I find in some schools, were asking each other questions concerning the lesson. They had written out their questions when they studied their lessons and their questions were good ones.

In checking over the exhibit cards for the fair and taking them back to the schools, we find the following districts had no work there: Districts Number 2, 3, 7, 12, 13, 18, 25, 31, 36, 37, 46, 48, 53, 64, 72, 74, 75, 77, 80, 83, 84, 86. Is your district among them? Who was your teacher and why, I wonder, was no work sent? Didn't you do anything the whole year through of any kind that was worth sending? Some of these schools had cards delivered to them but none came back. Some of the teachers are in the same schools again. Some of the patrons asked me where they could find the work from their district and I had to tell them there was none there. We had a VERY NICE exhibit without these schools but we hope that next year EVERY school in the county will have at least one or two cards ready to be exhibited.

GOLD SEALS

Those receiving Gold Seals for an additional year's attendance are: Bertha Meierhenry of Hoskins, Elwin Trautwein of Winside, Florence Baker of District 69, Edward Dunklan of District 61, Anna Maas of District 55, Theresa Stevers of District 2 and Katie Granfield of District 11.

STATE HOLIDAYS AND OTHER DAYS RECOMMENDED FOR "FLAG DAY" OBSERVANCE

(From the Nebraska School Laws) The following days, viz:

- 1. The first day of January known as New Year's day.
- 2. The twenty-second day of February, known as Washington's birthday.
- 3. The twenty-second day of April, known as "Arbor Day."
- 4. The thirtieth day of May known as Decoration or Memorial Day.
- 5. The fourth day of July, known as Independence Day.
- 6. The first Monday in September, known as Labor Day.
- 7. The twelfth day of October, known as "Columbus Day."
- 8. The twenty-fifth day of December, known as Christmas Day.
- 9. Any day appointed and recommended by the governor of this state or the president of the United States as a day of fast or thanksgiving.
- 10. Any day which may hereafter be made a legal holiday, shall for the purpose of this act, be holidays; but if said days herein be the first day of the week, known as Sunday the next succeeding secular or business day shall be a holiday.
- 11. The state superintendent of public instruction also recommends the following days as "Flag Days": February 12, Lincoln's birthday; March 1, Nebraska's admission to the Union as a state; April 15, Death of Lincoln (half mast); April 19, Inauguration of the first president of the United States; October 19, Surrender of Cornwallis; and December 20, the landing of the Pilgrims.

As far as practicable we trust the above named days will be observed in the respective schools of the state by appropriate exercises and instruction of the character especially suitable for the respective occasions.

So far as schools are concerned the statutes of Nebraska make no provisions for legal holidays. A teacher, in the absence of any provisions upon the matter in his contract, would have no authority to close school upon the so-called holidays, without being legally required to make up the time so lost to the district. However, a district board has authority to make provisions for closing school upon such days and in case the board directs that school be closed upon any specified day, the teacher would legally draw pay for such time.

DIPLOMAS OF HONOR

Pupils who have received Diplomas of Honor since our last issue are:—Olga Chapman of District 78. Eva Paulson of District 70. Bertha Grone of District 69. Allan Bruse and Hilda Buss Hoskins, Emil Greve of District 27, Mabel Brudigan of District 75, Clarence May of District 49, Olga Nielsen of District 63, and Helen Billeter of District 75.

OF INTEREST TO TEACHERS

Some of the teachers have not yet paid their subscription to the Wayne County Teacher. We would be glad to receive them at any time.

Are you having mental arithmetic part of the time in place of spelling, or for a short period some time during one or two days of each week? The mental arithmetic problems in the question books would be all right to use for part of the work.

We believe that some teachers are just too LAZY to provide and prepare busy work for their little ones. This work must be done mostly in the evenings or on Saturdays. There is no time to prepare it during the day.

Only the Quarterly Examination Grades are to be placed on the white monthly reports. You may place them on the second or third report, which ever is most convenient for you.

There is a little booklet "One Hundred Devices for Seat Work" sold by A. Flanagan Co., Chicago, price 15 cents, that would be very helpful to teachers for their busy work.

Do your pupils in history always try to recite with no helps of any kind? Why not for part of the time use questions prepared before hand, and sometimes use outlines, and some times topics, the pupils studying so as to take a topic and recite in full on it?

Can you have some little part in your corner of the world during American Education Week in informing the public of the accomplishments and needs of the public schools and to secure the co-operation and support of the public in meeting these needs?

Why not have the pictures on your walls hanging straight? They look very much better and it requires very little effort to keep them that way.

Some of the teachers say that they find the "Junior Home" Magazine very helpful in their school work. It is published by D. C. Kreidler Co., Chicago, Illinois. Think price is $2.50 per year.

I like to see pupils go to front of room to recite. I believe by their being together there is more interest and that they recite better.

Why not have drawing for part or most of the time after recess on Friday afternoons. I believe the longer period which gives the pupils time to finish what they begin is better than two or three very short periods.

UNITED STATES COURT FOR THE DISTRICT OF NEBRASKA, NORFOLK DIVISION.

In the Matter of Phillip G. Burress, Bankrupt. Case No. 351.

In Bankruptcy.

Voluntary Petition.

On this 13th day of November, A. D. 1923, on filing and reading the petition of the above named bankrupt for his discharge herein, it is Ordered, that the 17th day of December, A. D. 1923, be and the same is hereby fixed as the date on or before which all creditors of, and all other persons interested in said estate and in the matter of the discharge in bankruptcy of the said bankrupt, shall, if they desire to oppose the same, file in my said office in Norfolk, Nebraska, in said district, their appearance, in writing, in opposition to the granting of said discharge, and also, within ten days thereafter, file in my said office specifications of the grounds of said opposition.

WITNESS my hand thereto, at my office in Norfolk, Nebraska, the day and date herein first above written.

H. F. BARNHART, Referee in Bankruptcy.

At Columbus the Legion is sponsoring "Education Week" under the auspices of Hartman post, No. 84, co-operating with the school authorities, the Chamber of Commerce, the Lion club and the Rotarians. Good work.

HADN'T HEARD OF EGLESTON

Small Wonder That Ignorance of Tourists Excited Indignation of Indiana Official.

The town of Vevay snugly nestling in picturesque hills along the Ohio river in Switzerland county, has two show places of which it is particularly proud, according to Jim Wright, Vevay's postmaster.

The two special features of interest to which Vevay folk point with pride is an unusual view of a stretch of the Ohio river and the old home of Edward Eggleston, author of "The Hoosier Schoolmaster." Now and then the pride of the citizen who points out these two places gets a jolt, Mr. Wright said. One was delivered the other day at the Vevay library where tourists asked the librarian whether the town had anything of historic interest.

"We have, indeed," replied the librarian. "We have the old home of Edward Eggleston."

"Eggleston, Eggleston," remarked one of the tourists, "and who was he?" "The stinging part of it," Wright said, "was that these tourists were from Cincinnati, where our women do some of their shopping when they go out of town. Think of it—such ignorance."

Mr. Wright tells of a woman from the arid Southwest visiting Vevay not long ago with her little daughter. The child came from a land where irrigation ditches contain most of the water.

Filled with amazement on her first view of the Ohio river the youngster cried excitedly to her mother: "Mamma, wherever in the world did they get such a big ditch?"—Indianapolis News.

BREAKFAST OF TODAY SIMPLE

Yale Professor Tells Students Habits Have Radically Changed in Recent Years.

Food fads are as common as clothing fads, according to Dr. Lafayette B. Mendel, professor of chemistry at Yale, who lectured at the University of Washington recently.

Habits, not fundamental principles, have undergone radical changes within ten years, he said. The breakfast once demanded comprised cereal, pork chops, eggs or steak (occasionally two of these protein foods), hot breads, coffee, flapjacks and sometimes pie or cake. Today's morning meal, Doctor Mendel pointed out, begins with fruit, rings many changes on cereals, counts hard toast especially beneficial if made from entire wheat, substitutes a codded, soft-boiled or poached egg for the one-time fried product, and ends more often than not with milk or cocoa.

Professor Mendel attributed some of these changes to altered economic conditions, and improved methods of food transportation and preservation. Most important, he explained, are changes in views as to what constitutes food. He said that animal husbandry experiments conducted in this country 12 years ago have been vital influences in the study of human nutrition. In other words, balanced rations for cows, hogs and chickens preceded knowledge of proper foods for human beings.

I like to see pupils go to front of
