Wayne Organizations Hold Early Meeting and Extend Invitation to Santa to Visit Our City

A meeting was called for Tuesday evening in the interest of our holiday entertainment for the people of this community—and that means for all citizens of this and adjoining counties. Last year's public tree was so much appreciated that it was the opinion of those at the meeting that at this Christmas time a still better entertainment could be provided. Committees representing the Business and Professional Women of Wayne, the Kiwanis, the Greater Wayne and the Good Fellows organizations were there, taking a part.

The meeting was called to order by J. C. Nuss, who gave interesting talk, telling the object of the meeting and the desire of Wayne people to have their patrons come and enjoy the days and evenings of holiday time with us. He paid eloquent tribute to the ladies for starting the last year movement and partly financing it. Then he asked for nominations for president of the meeting, and Miss Mayme Johnson, president of the organized Business and Professional Women of Wayne was elected. Miss Johnson called for a secretary, and the meeting named J. C. Nuss.

It was decided after some discussion to name an executive committee composed of one from each of the four organizations, and then place them under the direction of a general manager. The following were selected: For the women, Miss Ferne Oman; the Kiwanis, L. A. Kanske; Greater Wayne, Ralph Rundell; the Good Fellows, Fred Blair; and for manager, E. W. Huse, in recognition of his signal service in the last year entertainment. It is now up to all citizens to put a shoulder to the wheel and push, until it is assured that Wayne will have an entertainment for Christmas time which will not be equaled in seven states.

Numerous plans were informally discussed, but the final decision lies with the committee, and it is safe to say that no effort will be spared to make success. Let's all work.

COME HEAR ABOUT LAW ENFORCEMENT

We are told that Rev. Mr. High, state superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League, showed the pictures "Let Us Forget" before the Methodist Conference at its recent session in Omaha and that those who saw them spoke very highly of them and also of the address "We'll See It Thru".

See the films and hear the address at the Methodist church tonight. Admission free. Mr. High is a Seminary classmate of Mr. Shick, pastor of the church in which the picture will be shown, therefore his coming to Wayne is doubly pleasurable to Mr. Shick.

DOCTORS OF FOUR COUNTIES MEET

Wakefield, Nebraska, November 19.—About twenty-five members of the medical association of Dixon, Cedar, Thurston and Dakota counties met here and papers were read by Dr. Clyde Roeder and Dr. A. Dunn, both of Omaha. Dr. Norris of Blair, president of the Nebraska Medical society, was present and delivered a short address.

The wives of five of the doctors accompanied them to the association meeting, and they and their husbands were guests at a 6 o'clock dinner at the home of Dr. and Mrs. L. J. Kilan.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to express our thanks to friends and neighbors who so kindly assisted us during the illness and death of our beloved wife and mother and for the beautiful floral offerings!

We also appreciate the sympathy shown us by the W. C. T. U., the Rebekah Lodge and Royal Neighbors.

STUDY THANKSGIVING PAGES

We want the readers to give the Thanksgiving pages on page 3 and the last page of this issue more than a passing notice. Read carefully the introduction and the list of names, and see if there are any signers whom you do not know or what line of business they represent; or any business signed of whom you do not know the proprietor.

Prizes Offered for Studying

The Democrat will give at least two prizes, one for the first and best list of all the names which appear on the pages, telling (where the name is given) the business it represents; and where the business is given, the name of names of those carrying it forward. Just as example, take the name J. L. Payne, and tell the line of business he is following; or the Electric Shoe Shop, and tell the name of the proprietor, and what branch of the shoe business he represents; and so on thru the list.

For the first and best and nearest correct list we will give subscription to the Democrat until January 1, 1926; or a dozen handsome Christmas cards with name and address and Christmas sentiment printed thereon. For the second best list, or the second one received if both shall be correct, the Democrat till July 1, 1925 or a half dozen cards.

Study the list, it will be easy and if you don't know, ask one who does know, study the telephone directory and the newspaper advertising. We would like to have a correct list to publish next week.

W. A. WILLIAMS DIES AT ARTESIA, CALIFORNIA

W. A. Williams, for many years a resident of Wayne county, died November 13, 1924, at his late home at Artesia, California, at the age of 68 years from paralysis which had afflicted him for a number of years, and rendered him helpless for many months before death came to release him.

He was born in Wales in May, 1856, and came to America with his parents when but three years of age, and for many years they lived in Montgomery county, Iowa, where he was united in marriage to Mary Hughes, who survives him, in the year 1894. He is survived by brother and two sisters, one being Mrs. Evan Jenkins of Carroll. A niece, Mrs. Wm. Cooper and Dick Jones to whom Mr. and Mrs. Williams have been as parents, and he like a son to them.

After leaving Wayne about nine years ago, they made a home in Minnesota for a season or two, spent a year or two visiting former homes and relatives and friends, before locating in California. They were visiting friends here a few years ago, at which time Mr. Williams was not in the best of health.

Mr. Williams was a genial fellow, a good neighbor and firm friend, and a useful citizen in a community. His funeral services were last Saturday at his home town, and burial there.

DRAINAGE DITCH PROPOSAL CARRIES IN DIXON COUNTY

Monday an election was held at Ponca in which land owners in the west and south part of Dixon county were interested. It was concerning the ordering of a drainage ditch which it is thought will stop a vast amount of overflow in time of great rains, and also make tillable a lot of near swamp land. The question was decided by land owners in the territory benefited, and they are to pay the cost of the drainage. It may seem a hardship now, but if the work is properly done, in five years not one would want the money back if the present condition came back with the cash.

HAD TO ANSWER IN COURT

The county judge had a few cases this week in which the auto owners were accused of running without tail lights and a fine was paid. That is all right, but what has become of the law which was supposed to do away with the glaring, blinding head lights.

There are an hundred violations of that law if it still be a law—and greater menace to road safety than most any other auto evil. Why not get busy with this evil?

SPRINGTIME IN AUTUMN

It was the pleasure of many Wayne people to have a bit of spring sunshine and cheer last week when home talent under direction of the Wayne Business and Professional Women's Club put on "Springtime" Thursday and Friday evenings, playing to good houses each night. The net proceeds were above $100 which will doubtless go to some good community enterprise.

Those taking part had much enjoyment and an 100 or more people had a benefit from training given by the director who came with the costumes and the play.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to express our great appreciation of the aid and sympathy of friends and neighbors so kindly extended to us during the final sickness, death and burial of our mother; also for the very generous floral tribute to her memory by those who had so long known her. We thank one and all.

A number of Wayne people visited Norfolk Sunday, where they attended the meeting of the Knights of Columbus, when thirty-eight candidates were initiated into the mysteries of the order.

Every now and then the Democrat sees an item of interest to farmers that is given that our readers may know what other communities are doing. Just now we noticed that at a cow sale held at Villisca, Iowa, last week, a lot of 20 Guernsey cows sold at an average price of $93, the price ranging from $132 the top to $65 for the bottom. These were not pedigree animals, as we understand, but just a good grade dairy cows, most of which he had purchased in Wisconsin during the spring, and kept until they were thoroly acclimated.

A. H. Carter and wife of Winside left the first of the week to go to Excelsior Springs, Missouri, for an indefinite stay. Both well known in Winside and Wayne, and will be missed by many friends, whose good wishes go with them. Mr. Carter is a veteran of the Civil War, and celebrated his 70th birthday last Saturday—at least that was his birthday, whether celebrated or not. Mr. Carter is not in the best of health, and Mrs. Carter is far from well; so they have decided to try the effect of the mineral waters and bathe of that place, and escape from the colder weather we are apt to have in Wayne county during the winter months. Mr. Carter spent several weeks there recently, and thinks it the mildest priced health resort ever he encountered. They may not return before spring if health improves. They have apartment engaged at the Gardner House.

Revival meetings just closed at Madison resulted in about 140 persons deciding to start a new life. W. D. Hamilton of University Place was the evangelist in charge, and it is reported that much interest and large attendance was the rule during the series of meetings.

Mrs. E. F. Shields and Peter Hinkel went to Norfolk Monday morning to attend the funeral of Julius Salzwedel, who passed away at his home in Norfolk Friday. He is an uncle to Mrs. Shields. Deceased was father of Mrs. Rollie Hinkel, formerly of Wayne. Mrs. Peter Hinkel went over Sunday.

Miss Charlotte White who was born on the day we are now calling Armistice Day, some years before that day was thus designated, was remembered on that day by numerous friends. Mrs. Chichester invited in a few of the friends of the lady in honor of the day, and a very happy, social time was had—and the birthday cake and the candles were all that could be expected. Then the members of the Bible Study Circle, which met that day were not forgetting their member of the early days of that organization, and they had cake and candles—no one said how many. Then relatives and friends from away showered her with postcards, letters of congratulation, and substantial remembrances. Now that armistice day has fixed the date definitely in the minds of most of us, Miss White will be expected to have a birthday annually from this on, regardless of when she began to have them. This paper joins other friends in wishing her added years of happy, useful life.

The American Legion Boys are going to have a great Thanksgiving ball at the community house next Thursday evening. With good music and jolly company, it will be fine opportunity to settle that Thanksgiving dinner. Try it, and see how it helps to add years of happy, useful life.

Providence Has Been Kind to Us All—

Let Us Safeguard Our Prosperity!

Another year rolls around and with it comes the day set aside for Thanksgiving—a day in which we review the past and give thanks for the bounties bestowed upon us.

This bank is indeed grateful for the prosperity that it has been favored with—for the confidence the citizens of this community have shown in bestowing such prosperity and for the many acts of kindness and consideration that it has been our privilege to receive from those with whom we came in business contact.

We consider it, indeed, a favor to be able to serve such an intelligent and loyal community as this and hope that every citizen will call upon us whenever we may be able to serve his purpose.

Choice Thanksgiving Poultry

Every woman hopes to make her Thanksgiving dinner the "feast of feasts!" That means, first of all, selecting the choicest Poultry.

So, madam, we suggest you make it Turkey—one of our select, fresh, corn-fed Turkeys. And, stuffed with chestnuts or some other desired filling and roasted to a crisp brownness—just wait and see how you and the family and your guests will simply delight in its tastiness.

Perhaps, you would prefer a pair of tender Chickens, a Duck or Goose. Whatever your choice, we're ready to fill your Poultry order now.

Denbeck's Market

The elevator fellows have been having it easy of late. Mr. Smith says he never saw grain come in so slow this time of the year. He credits it to the fact that every one is improving the time gathering their own corn so snow will not catch it on the ground. There is a third or more lying on the ground. The Mr. Smith was our R. R. Smith.

The small grain crop was greater than expected that year.

Thoughts for Thanksgiving

*"Your bounty is beyond my speaking.
But if my mouth seem dumb, my heart shall thank You."*

NON this, the great occasion set aside for us all to give Thanks for the bounties that have been bestowed upon us by our Creator during the past year, we the undersigned business and professional men of Wayne, desire to take this occasion to express our sincere thanks for the many courtesies and considerations extended to us by our neighbors and fellow citizens.

In the list of things that we are thankful for, your Goodwill and Friendship comes first and foremost.

And, to show our appreciation of this we shall endeavor to serve you as faithfully in the future as we have in the past and exert every effort to make life for you happy, healthful and successful.

Now it is most difficult to tell the leadership of the Democratic of Nebraska— that the split is likely to come as to whether Bryan will defeat as the party nominee for the vice presidency or Norris who failed to win the election as governor of the democratic ticket shall be next in party circles. Will not a winter lead? We have the in the diplomatic Chas. W. Poor.

Some of our exchanges are commenting on the fact that Antonia Spillman ran so far ahead of the candidate for governor on the same ticket, and wondering "Why wonder?" Was there any other candidate on the republican list of nominees who won the progressive nomination? Every mark in the circle for a straight progressive ticket counted for no other significant candidate.

Publicity is not wanted by the financiers and corporation who are sucking more than their share of the nation's financial circulation medium which to the business world is a bad mood in to the more. So they are going to ask congress to repeal that part of the income tax laws which does not produce property. This is evidently in a stage with other repub. who do not want publicity as to their aggregate meetings. They perhaps have had in some of them at a recent gathering an idea to the people like:

Out in the sandhills of Cherry county they are using an electric charged prod pole to hurry the obstinate cattle into the dipping tank for their occasional bath to rid them of ticks and other crawlers which infest range cattle and sheep, much to the detriment of their growth and health. Even the most obstinate critter, they say, steps right in when the spark is applied. Some that a tail twist would not move, now cease to block the march. We hardly think any agent of the Humane society will enter complaint. If so, let the said agent get the animals into the tank in a better way, if he can.

It just grew—that sunflower in the back yard of Editor Needham's home at Bloomfield, says the Monitor in telling of the sunflower which came up and thrived without any aid or cultivation. The big flower and seed bed at the top measured 43 inches in circumference, and 14 inches in diameter. The stalk which bore this flower attained a height of 12 feet 5 inches, and a circumference of 10 inches at the base, and he wonders what it might have done with care and water. Needham implies a worry that wheat, corn, oats and potatoes do not grow and thrive in like manner, and intimates without saying so, that the sunflower is of little value. He may think so, but let him go to the drug store or a bird feed store and ask for sunflower seed for his parrot and if he is wise and seeks riches he will go to growing sunflowers, not only in his barren back yard, but by the quarter section. Of course there are not many parrots in this country, but the seed is a wonderful chicken fattener.

FROM THE DEPTHS OF CYNICISM
(A. L. Mencken in Baltimore Evening Sun)

The Hon. Mr. Coolidge was elected to the shoes of Lincoln by 10 million plurality. The Hon. Tom Walsh, out in Montana, got through by the skin of his teeth. There is juicy material for the political pathologist in these facts, for the Hon. Mr. Walsh is the man who uncovered Fall and forced out Denby, and the Hon. Mr. Coolidge is the man who did more than any other, by public bull and private wire, to bring that business to wreck. I say nothing of the Hon. Mr. Wheeler, the foe of Daugherty. The Hon. Mr. Wheeler was beaten so badly that little remains of him save a grease spot. Anon the friends of Mr. Daugherty, aided by the friends of Mr. Coolidge, will mop up the grease spot, put it on trial, and try to railroad it to jail.

What does all this mean? That the people of the United States are against robbing the government? I suspect as much. More, I have suspected it for years. Yet more, I have argued it for years. Who, indeed, can recall a time when the act was actually dangerous—as dangerous, say, as spitting on the sidewalk or carrying a bottle of wine to a sick friend? Certainly it is not dangerous in this, our prosperous and Christian age. None of the thieves who trimmed Uncle Sam at Hog Island during the war have ever gone to jail. The airship contractors are still at large, their billion of loot in their pockets. So are all the camp contractors. So is Doheny. So is Fall. And they will stay at large, happy, at peace venerated by the general, until they are snatched up to bliss eternal.

Dawes deserves special attention. Dawes is the man who put down the investigation of the war frauds. A shyster banker himself, full of dubious ways, denounced even by kept judges, he went gallantly to the rescue of all the prehensile dollar-a-year men, and saved them from jail. The scandal of their colossal thieving fell upon democratic shoulders, and Dawes was a republican—but Bruderschaft above partisan spite! Today he is heir-elect of the greatest moral republic ever heard of—the exemplar and despair of other nations. Let the Bolsheviks murder Cal, as they murdered the illustrious Harding, and Dawes will wear the sword of George Washington.

A thought somehow staggering. It is almost as if Dr. Billy Sunday should be made pope. But let us not commit the error, so common among progressives of all wings, of shuddering over it too piously, of seeing in it too much of the lamentable. Dawes, in Washington's day, would have been barred from the higher political perferment, as not a gentleman. But he is very typical of the America in which he lives, and in particular of the business America now triumphant. His ethical ideas are simple and devoid of cant. He believes that any man deserves whatever he can get. This is also the notion of at least 98 percent of his countrymen.

BRIEF MENTIONS

Now comes the Wheat Growers Gazette from Kansas and says that it is not the tariff but the "Wheat Pool" that has fixed the cost of marketing so that the farmer and not the elevator combine are getting what was the dealer rakeoff until recently. It was the big wheat pool in Canada that made their wheat sell for more than on this side of the line, and that same pool was instrumental in making a higher price for wheat in the U. S. than would have been had not the Canadian farmer organized to hold for a right price. The pool beats the tariff, they say.

Governor Bryan is not worrying over the charges that he is profiteering in coal and gas so long as these charges come only from dealers in these commodities. If the consumers who purchase at right prices make the charge, he might want to have them prove it or retract.

Fire caused by overheated furnace caused a damage estimated at $2,500 to Citizens National bank and its tenants at Norfolk the first of the week.

It must be that thieves anticipated an advance in the price of gas and grease, for they tapped the Beemer filling station the other night and took about 40 gallons of gasoline and 60 pounds of grease and got away with it. A car No. 55 was seen but no one was apprehended, tho this car passed both the marshall and the sheriff at West Point.

And now there is a half dozen senators who are asking the opportunity to step into Lodge's shoes as leader of the senate. The lust for place of power seems mighty. Why should there not be a race among the members as to who can give the greater service?

Chas. G. Dawes, at the close of a strenuous campaign has to go to the hospital for a slight operation—a rupture, and it is considered a very minor matter. If he were not the vice-president elect the matter would not have commanded more than a three-line notice.

The conference over opium traffic at Geneva is said to have ended without agreement. Thus it ever is. Opium and oil, because of the wealth they represent and opportunity to graft, are bound to make trouble until this old world becomes more civilized. The Japs bolted this time, because not given their share.

Out in California water is a cause for trouble. Los Angeles interests appear to have appropriated a great water supply some 200 miles north of that city; and now the farm lands which had formerly claimed right to this water, have gone to the gateway thru which it was diverted for the city use and turned it back whence it came. And that means war in a small way perhaps—but war.

NEWSPAPER IS PUBLIC UTILITY

Editor Marvin of the Beatrice Sun moralizes about the responsibility of the newspaper to serve its community. In a recent editorial he says:

"A public utility, such as a newspaper, must serve all of the people and advance all the legitimate interests of the community in which it operates."

"The chief function of a newspaper is to collect and publish the news. This may seem a very easy thing to do, and the methods of doing it have been fairly well defined, but when it comes to pleasing everybody, particularly rival interests, the news editor has a difficult task.

Propagandists of one cause and another appeal to the news editor to put the thing they are interested in upon the first page and under the largest head that the paper uses. They are not interested in making the newspaper readable but they do wish to advocate. If some really important news of the day happens to come in and crowd their pet items into a subordinate position, they take it as an evidence of favoritism and unfairness on the part of the man who makes up the pages.

"The news editor who uses his head displays the news in proportion to its importance. A meeting of the chamber of commerce which had labored and brought forth a resolution on the subject of railroad rates might get a prominent position on the first page on some day, but if it happened to occur upon a day when a prominent citizen was assassinated, or when one of the stores on main street was robbed or the court house was burned, the resolution might get very little space in the paper.

"It is but natural that the advocates of some particular cause or movement, intensely interested in that particular thing, have a distorted idea of its news value. The man who arranges the news, having the interests of the newspaper at heart, and actuated by a desire to make it readable and interesting to the readers, approaches the subjects from a different angle than does the advocate of some particular cause which only a part of the community cares anything about.

"There may have been uttered sometime, somewhere, a word of thanks for a newspaper's fair and impartial handling of a matter of news, but such words are not common. It is far more common for the advocate of the special cause, which somebody wants boomed and promoted, to complain because the thing he is interested in did not monopolize the front page. To be able to find reward for his labors in the knowledge that he has done his work faithfully and with the interest of the entire community at heart is a part of the equipment of a newspaper man."

"The news editor who uses his head displays the news in proportion to its importance. A meeting of the chamber of commerce which had labored and brought forth a resolution on the subject of railroad rates might get a prominent position on the first page on some day, but if it happened to occur upon a day when a prominent citizen was assassinated, or when one of the stores on main street was robbed or the court house was burned, the resolution might get very little charge of a large cream department. He is a very pleasing appearing young man and it will be only a short time until he will become acquainted with all the people in this immediate trade territory. Hartington Herald.

WHAT'S THE USE

DAIRY INTEREST GROWING

Wayne county's dairy cow population is increasing according to figures announced by the Blue Valley Creamery Institute. The statement covers an area embracing approximately one-eighth of the state in this section, and is believed to hold true for the county proper.

A 11.8 per cent gain in the number of dairy cows two years old and over is noted for the district over the preceding year while the increase for the state as a whole was 8.8 per cent as compared with 1923. The entire United States shows an increase amounting to 6 per cent, government figures show.

In citing those figures the Institute calls attention to the fact that the United States needs 320,000 more cows every year if production is to keep steps with the normal growth of demand for dairy products. There are 1,412,000 more mouths to be fed in the United States with every passing year, and with the increased consumption of dairy products per capita, this adds to the nation's herd will barely suffice to meet the increased demand.

THE 1926-'28 CAMPAIGN

(Contributed)

Will the New Party Succeed?

The new party is here to stay. In seventeen states west of the Mississippi it polled nearly two million votes, while in the same area Davis received less than a million. The democratic party was wiped out in the north and new party is the second party in the west. La Follette was second in eleven states. It is time for all progressives to unite, leaving the solid south to go its own way. The south, with its backward social and political conditions, is a liability to any party. It is bound to its idols of race prejudice, grandfather clauses, and is about to establish large industries, exploit child-labor and be under the control of big business. All progressives should join the new party.

Progressives should begin now to study more thoroughly our whole social and economic situation and tendency. During the campaign just closed, the republicans and democrats refused to discuss the issues on their merits. As a result many were misled. The entire progressive program was a unit, based upon the belief that certain economic groups were exploited for the benefit of other economic groups. It was and is held that, because of advantageous economic position, large business is able to command returns for its services out of proportion to their value to the nation and to society. Big business can charge and receive "all that the traffic will bear," by which we mean all that men can be made to pay for clothes, fuel, transportation, flour, meat. On the other hand, the farmer and the laborer receive only what their services can command on a competitive market. The result is that both are exploited.

The laboring people of the industrial centers seem to understand the situation better than do the farmers. This is shown by the unexpectedly large vote that La Follette received in cities like Cleveland which he carried by 5000 plurality. The laborers have been so close to the situation that they know who exploits them, while as yet the farmer is not fully awake. From time to time I shall discuss further these questions hoping that the farmers and laborers and all others who are interested will study with me the issues that will loom larger in 1928 than they did in 1924. Let us get ready.

Daddy's Evening Fairy Tale BY MARY GRAHAM BONNER COPYRIGHT BY WESTERN NEWSPAPER UNION

BILLIE BROWNIE'S WALK

Billie Brownie went for a walk. He wore his best brown suit and his brown stocking-cap and he went first to call on Ackbar, the lion in the zoo.

"I went to a luncheon the other day," said Ackbar.

"You went to one!" exclaimed Billie Brownie. "You mean you had a fine one here?"

"No," said Ackbar, "they took me down in my cage to a big luncheon in a big hotel. There were many men at the luncheon and I was the guest of honor.

"It is true they did not ask me to sit at a table with any of them but I was given good things to eat and they said I was a 'mascot.' They probably thought I'd bring them good luck."

"Anyway, they had me there at the luncheon."

"Well, well," said Billie Brownie, "that is astonishing news. How amused they will be to hear that in Brownieland."

Then he called on a family of goats and they all boasted of their goats which they said were their pride and joy.

He also saw a little boy who led a goat who was pulling along a wagon in which was another little boy.

The little boy who led the goat held up his arms for the hens to pass along the road and then told the goat to come along. He acted just as though he were a policeman directing the traffic upon the farm!

He also saw another little boy who was playing policeman, too, and what fun he was having, waving his arms this way and that.

Billie next called on a little girl who said she loved her trowel almost more than anything else.

"I can weed around the flowers with it and I can transplant the flowers when they are too close together to other parts of the garden so they will grow," she said.

"I love my trowel almost more than anything else because it helps my garden and I dearly love my garden."

Then Billie Brownie called upon three cows who were in a city park.

"It is strange to see you here," Billie Brownie said.

"Moo, moo," they answered. "Yes, it is strange for us to be here."

"Many automobiles pass along the roads and many people come to the park."

"It is different from our quiet farm life. But we help look after the animals in the zoo by giving them milk to drink and we have grown used to the noise."

"There is nice grass here, and so we cannot complain."

"Moo, moo, we cannot complain."

Next Billie called on Mr. Porcupine.

"I don't throw my quills," said Mr. Porcupine, "so you will try your best to see that that gossip about me does not continue."

"I can back into a creature and stick my quills into him. When dogs chase me this is what I do. But I'm pretty gentle on the whole, though my quills make me look dangerous."

"And to look dangerous helps when one is a wild animal and has to depend upon his own wits to keep safe from harm."

"I enjoy a good meal of bark and leaves and I am of the Rodent family, just as a rat is a rodent, or ground animal."

And then Billie called on some cows upon a farm.

These cows sent a message by Billie

Brownie.

"Please tell people," they said, "that we thank those who have driven by us in automobiles this summer when we have been going back to the barn for milking time, who have waited until we have succeeded in getting out of their way."

"Some people are very impatient and are in such a hurry to get on that they will hit a poor cow and try to push her on."

"But many have been kind and considerate to us and to those we send our thanks."

"Yes, tell them that the cows unite in sending their moo-moo thanks to people who have been kind to them."

Billie went back to Brownieland then to tell of those he had met on his walk.

He had gone a great distance but he had been helped, too, along the way by Fly-High, the Elves' bird who had carried him upon his back when he had long distances to go between visits.

LEAVES FROM THE BOOK OF NEBRASKA

ATHER Marquette says that during his famous voyage of discovery down the Mississippi in 1763, he did not visit Nebraska or see the Platte.

Yet, on a recently discovered map of his in St. Mary's College, Montreal, he outlines the course of the Missouri to a point far north of this latitude. He lays down the Platte in almost its exact location. The Indian tribes which he enumerates bear such names as Panas, Mahas and Otontantes which can be easily translated Pawnees, Omahas and Otoes.

He collected all his information from Indians and only his early death deprived us of a more detailed account of Nebraska of that day, because he had hoped and planned to explore the Platte.

The lure of the Buffalo country, called by the Spaniard, Coronado "The land of Quivira", has exercised its enchantment ever since. Its conquest is an epic of boldness and courage, of endurance and perseverance in the face of discouragement and disappointment.

It is a record of determination and heroism. That pioneer spirit lives on in Nebraska. It has made Nebraska a land of promise fulfilled, of opportunity unlimited. The state stands absolutely at the top in value of beef produced per capita. No state spends more money per capita for education. No state has a lower percentage of illiteracy.

Right now Nebraska sees the dawn of an even greater prosperity than that which preceded the world-shaking and paralyzing period of post-war chaos.

A Nebraska institution that has shared the labor of pioneering and known Nebraska's "growing pains", the successful operation of the Standard Oil Company of Nebraska is absolutely dependent on the prosperity of Nebraska. By developing and maintaining a state-wide and efficient service for supplying gasoline, motor oil and kerosene for all the people all the time—in the sparsely settled rural districts as well as in rich cities—the Company seeks to be an asset of increasing helpfulness. Constructive suggestions for bettering our service are always welcome and receive careful consideration.

85% of Nebraska's Corn Crop Is Fed to Live Stock

While Nebraska is known far and wide as a great corn state, only 15 per cent of its average annual crop of 190,000,000 bushels of corn ever reaches the elevator. The remainder is used to fatten live stock.

Nebraska ranks third among the states of the Union both in acreage and production of corn.

Nebraska's farm industry is growing steadily and as it develops, more telephone service will be needed. At the present rate of growth, the Bell System must spend about three-fourths of a million dollars annually for new telephone equipment in this state.

The constant growth of the industry requires vast sums of money from investors and already about half a million people have a financial interest in the business. If you, also, are interested in a conservative investment, any employee will gladly tell you about Bell stock or bonds, or just telephone our Manager.

As Nebraska prospers, the telephone is successful. Therefore, we constantly strive to provide reliable telephone service at the lowest possible charges consistent with reasonable wages to employees and a fair return on the money invested in the business.

A public wedding was one of the attractions suggested for the Wayne Yuletide celebration; and a $25.00 purse was mentioned as about the proper compensation for the bride—but in the light of offers of which the editor learns, that will be unnecessary expense; for one would-be bride has said that to her it appeared that she would be glad to pay at least the equal for the suggested purse for the privilege—and this is leap year.

Among those present from away to attend the funeral of Mrs. Buetow Saturday were Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Seiffen and George Luther and family, from Wisner; Carl and Walter Buetow, Mrs. August Albers, Mrs. Esther Albers, and Mr. and Mrs. Herman Liedke from West Point; Mrs. Kienhardt Buetow from Beemer; Mr. and Mrs. Carl Lindvall, Mr. and Mrs. John Wilbur, and Mr. and Mrs. Warren McCool of Ponca; Mr. and Mrs. M. Mrs. D. M. Shirts of Sholes was a Wayne visitor Wednesday for an audience with one of our dentists. She was accompanied by her mother, Mrs. J. R. Washburn from Mercy, North Dakota, who is here for a visit. Mrs. Washburn tells us that she was for some 18 or 20 years a resident of this county, living near Winslow—that when they came here from Montgomery county, Iowa, more than forty years ago, Wayne was a very small mark in a wide expanse of prairie; and she saw it grow for a number of years, and that compared with the Wayne she first knew, and Wayne as it was when they moved north the change is remarkable. When asked as to conditions in North Dakota she said that the past year had been one of the best seasons for a crop in many years, and as a result, conditions are comparatively lively. Last season—1923 they had poor yield of small grain but the best and biggest corn crop in their experience. This year their corn was not much, but the wheat was good. Wayne and Wayne county, however, looks good to her yet.

BADLY SCALDED

Carroll, Nebraska, November 18.—When a pail of boiling water splashed on her. Mrs. W. C. Everett, wife of Carroll business man, was badly burned about the ankles and feet. She is also suffering from nervous shock.

Mrs. Everett was carrying a pail of boiling water, with which she intended to clean a chicken, Sunday to the back yard. When she stepped off the porch, she stumbled and fell three steps, causing the water to splash over her feet.

DID NOT KNOW NECK CRACKED

Coleridge, Nebraska, November 18.—To break his neck and be up and around a whole day before knowing it was the experience of Charles Willey of this place.

A cow which he was milking crowded against Willey and to guard against being shoved over, he braced himself and pushed against her with his head which resulted in a sudden popping noise plainly heard by Willey and his hired man, although at that time they thought nothing of it, except to wonder what it was.

The following day, when Willey was taken with continued fainting spells, he recalled the experience with the cow the previous night, and calling a physician it was found that a vertebrae in his neck was fractured.

Don't forget that I am offering good Durac Jersey Boars till November 1st at $30.00 for your choice. Don't be deceived and use a scrub, when you can get a good Pure Bred at the above price. H. C. Cronk, Wayne, Nebraska, —adv.

All Hope Abandoned

"I Never Saw a Bird That Looked With Such a Wistful Eye"—With the necessary apologies.

How Other Peoples Celebrate

Thanksgiving day in America began as a public rejoicing over a good harvest—the first reaped by the New England colonists. The idea is not peculiar to our people; probably they imbibed it from English customs or those, as old as history, which prevail in one form or another on the continent. Gratitude for plentiful harvests is the keynote of these customs, although among us the day would probably be celebrated even if Governor Bradford had not started the observance in 1623 by that memorable Thanksgiving day when a long drought was broken.

Different peoples have different times, but always some time, for harvest thanksgiving. When the Jews inhabited Palestine the festival of Pentecost embraced a thanksgiving for a plentiful harvest; but as the wheat is not gathered in Europe at the time of the Pentecost, flowers take the place of the first fruits in the synagogues there. The Druids had their harvest festival on the first of November; the Chinese and Japanese have theirs at their year's close.

The second of the three great festivals of the Jewish ecclesiastical year occurs on the sixth and seventh days of the third month (Sivan) which includes part of May and June. It is called in Hebrew, Shovuot, but more generally, the feast of the Pentecost, the fiftieth day, since it commences the giving of the law to Moses on Mount Sinai 50 days after the deliverance of the Israelites out of Egypt. It is also called the Feast of Weeks, because it marks the completion of seven weeks, counted from the second day of Peasach or Passover.

In the famous temples of Ise, in the neighborhood of Yamada, are the shrines of the goddesses in whose honor those festivals are held. There are two temples, the Nakku (inner temple) and the Geku or outer temple. The Nakku is sacred to the sun goddess, the great ruler of heaven, the Geku is dedicated to the goddess of food, in other words, to the worship of the earth.

Thousands of pilgrims resort annually to these temples at Ise, because of the pre-eminence of the goddesses to whom they are dedicated. This sun goddess, Ama-terasu, is believed to be an ancestress of the imperial family of Japan. The rationalistic, educated classes do not take as much part in the pilgrimages as do the artisan class. The working people in Tokyo and Kyoto and Osaka believe, however, that they may find difficulty in obtaining a livelihood unless they invoke the protection of the goddesses at Ise, and the peasants are even more devout believers.

It is not entire, but it was evidently torn before its owner died. Beyond clearly establishing the reign of Rameses the Great, it contains nothing else of any value.

The doublet, that famous coin of romance, is still in circulation. The Isabelline doublet, worth $5, still remains current in Cuba. The doublet is so called because, when first coined, it was double the value of a pistole—that is, it was worth $8. The name was given later to a doublet doublet in the West Indies. Pieces of eight, with which readers of fiction are familiar, are also in circulation. They are simply Spanish dollars of eight reals. A doublet dated 1787—there are said to be only six of that date in existence—sold not long ago for $6,200.

But the Best of Friends

Nature's Amends for Toll Taken by Years

The critics have always stumbled a little over this final phase of supreme genius. They used to think that Michelangelo's last work was unfinished. They still often think that what we must recognize in such a manifestation is lassitude, failure of energy, weakening grasp of brain or hand. I am not sure that there is not an element of truth in such criticism, observes Havelock Ellis, in the Forum. Only let us not forget that it is the mark of high genius, less to display athletically Titan strength than to be able to use weakness to reach divine ends. That power, it may well seem to us, is supremely visible in the typical last phase of the highest genius. The artist has lost his early power of realistic grip, and with it lost also his early taste for such power. But he has lost it only to attain a wider and deeper and more symbolic mastery of the world. He no longer cares more than he has ever before for its essence, and he is conscious of that essence with a delicacy of sensitive perception he never before possessed. He is no longer concerned with things; they are receding from his view. As he rises above the earth, like Elijah in his chariot of fire, he now sees it only in the distance. Henceforth he no longer deals with things. It is the soul of things that he brings before us. That is why his latter work fascinates us endlessly as, slowly, after many years, enlightened by the long course of our own experience, we begin at last to understand what it means.

Good Stories Told of Famous French Writer

Max O'Rell, the famous French satirist, joked to the end. When he was lying on his deathbed, and after the doctors had informed him that there was no hope, he wrote: "I fear that I am doomed. The doctors give me a few months, but I believe I shall last longer. At any rate I shall try; for I'd rather wear a hat than a halo."

Max O'Rell, like all professional men, was occasionally imposed on with regard to hospitality, hostesses inviting him to an "at home" as a guest and then expecting him to perform, in other words to "tell a few stories."

Once when this happened, he left the drawing room hurriedly and went down to the hall, whence he returned in a few minutes in a state of great excitement, and approaching his hostess whispered agitatedly into her ear: "Madam, what kind of people have you here? The check you placed in my overcoat pocket—my fee for tonight—has been stolen!"—San Francisco Argonaut.

Wars of the Roses

The Wars of the Roses were a series of sanguinary contests for the possession of the English throne, waged by the adherents of the houses of York and Lancaster, whose badges were the white and red roses respectively. The struggle, says the Kansas City Star, commenced with the battle of St. Albans (1455), and lasted until 1485 when Henry Tudor (of Lancaster) defeated and killed Richard III (of York) at Bosworth field. The two houses were finally united in the person of Henry Tudor (afterward Henry VII), who in 1485 married Elizabeth of York, daughter of Edward IV. It is estimated that the Wars of the Roses occasioned the deaths of 12 princes of the blood, 200 nobles and 100,000 of the gentry and common people of England.

It is written like all other Egyptian manuscripts, on papyrus, and was found on the mummy of an Egyptian, who had treasured it apparently as something sacred, for it is of a strong religious character. Under the days, which are written in red ink, there is a figure followed by three characters, signifying the probable state of the weather.

It is not entire, but it was evidently torn before its owner died. Beyond clearly establishing the reign of Rameses the Great, it contains nothing else of any value.

Doublon Still Current

The doublon, that famous coin of romance, is still in circulation. The Isabelline doublon, worth $5, still remains current in Cuba. The doublon is so called because, when first coined, it was double the value of a pistole—that is, it was worth $8. The name was given later to a doublet doublet in the West Indies. Pieces of eight, with which readers of fiction are familiar, are also in circulation. They are simply Spanish dollars of eight reals. A doublet dated 1787—there are said to be only six of that date in existence—sold not long ago for $6,200.

Colors to Scare Spirits

The Chinese, as most people know, are extremely superstitious, and have a great dread of evil spirits; they take endless trouble in all the affairs of life, to circumvent the demons, says the Detroit News. The evil spirits, the Chinese believe, loathe bright colors, especially red, and these lurid decorations are supposed to be very potent in their protective influences. With decorated hull in all sorts of vivid tints and a big eye at the bow to enable "it to see," a Chinese junk is a very impressive-looking craft.
