Why should the government help the man who manufactures some commodities, such as woolen blankets and prosecute the fellow who makes corn and rye into something intended to keep one warm as well as the blanket? This is the question which is said to be puzzling foreigners.

Albert Hultine, of Saronville, Nebraska, was awarded three championship prizes at the International Live Stock exposition in Chicago last week. They were in the shorthorn division and included grand champion polled shorthorn female, reserve champion and champion shorthorn yearling.

A Pathe News weekly will be taken in Omaha this coming week which will show the interest of Nebraska and Omaha in the air mail service, of which Omaha is the headquarters. Many business men of the city will be caught by the movie camera as they mail their first letter after signing a pledge to send at least one letter a day by air mail.

Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Chaco leave this week for southern California, planning to spend the winter there with headquarters at Palo Alto, their daughter Marguerite L. being there an attendant at the U. S. Veteran's hospital. It is small wonder that the weather we are just now "enjoying" tells them that it is time to start.

August Loburg was at Chicago, going in with cattle they were shipping from Carroll. He took in the great stock show, and called it great. He saw President Coolidge and says in substance that he thinks he could get the prize in a beauty show over Coolidge. But still Mr. Loburg insisted that he thought the president might be a pretty good fellow.

A check to "speeders" was put on Wayne car drivers inclined to forget speed regulations, when the street cleaners cleaned the snow of street at the intersections. A four inch drop and a like raise on the other side of the bared strip did make too much of a bounce when going faster than the 12 miles provided for by ordinance. One trip up to the top, and the riders all holler to slow up.

Here seems to be gratitude, pure and simple, and nothing else—and some people wonder why the farmer organizations fail to grow and thrive. An exchange tell that the secretary of a local farmer union went to a neighbor to tell him that he was entitled to a patronage dividend from the organization, and asked him to become a member; but he declined, giving as his reason, as we understand the item, that he was well satisfied to let others carry on the union, and he would take what benefits might be coming to him. This all happened less than 1,000 miles from Wayne.

Over at Oakland last week the citizens who did not know what a ham looks like bought a load of shoulders at 30c the pound because the peddler came round calling them hams. The local meat market man had the same stock and was selling it at 17c. Had this meat market advertised as he should have done, telling what he had, and the price, he might have easily been selling his patrons at a fair profit, and also protected them from being imposed upon by a stranger. But, still, the people who persist in buying from a stranger peddler, should not kick if they get stung.

A Hassan from Sioux City was at Wayne Friday greeting a few of his many friends, all of whom were pleased to greet him after an absence of nearly four years. Mr. Hassan was in mercantile business here, and interested in a Sioux City business at the same time, but a little more than five years ago, soon after the close of the war, some of his Sioux City partners wished to return to their home in Europe and to permit them to retire the Wayne business was closed, and he spent several years with the Sioux City house, and later went to Minneapolis. He said that Wayne was to him, an ideal place, and that he would not object to returning here sometime—but that he would not at present be free to come.

WOMAN'S CLUB HOLD SUCCESSFUL BAZAAR

The Women's club took in something over $400 at their bazaar, at the bazaar dinner and supper, Saturday, December 6th. Some of the chairmen still have money to turn in and there are some expenses to pay, so that a definite statement cannot be made until the next meeting.

The apron committee, with Miss Mason chairman, made $52; the dolls, under Mrs. McEachen, $26.40, with some dressed dolls still on hand. The baby and children clothing, with Mrs. Michael presiding, had $45.10. Handchiefs, with Mrs. Hahn, chairman, $36.22, and some beautiful hand-made handkerchiefs yet to be sold. Fancy work, with Mrs. Huse chairman, $31.85, and candy with Mrs. Oman chairman $55.20.

The club wishes to thank all of the women who so generously contributed food, fancy work or both. The next meeting of the club will be held Saturday the 12th at the home of Mrs. E. W. Huse, when Christmas music by Miss Dondua and Miss Harris, a talk on Christmas painting by Miss Pierce, and a playette under Miss Nell Gingles will be the afternoon entertainment. All are welcome.

BASKETBALL SEASON BEGINS

With five lettermen, a number of men who were on last year's squad and the most promising bunch of yearlings seen here in years, basketball prospects are exceedingly bright. Schroeder and Miller were the only men lost from last year's team, which won thirteen out of fifteen games. The veterans returning to battle for Wayne are Capt. Best, Moran, Reed, Brainard and Wendt. Capt. Best and Moran are entering their third year of college competition, while the rest are beginning their second.

A tentative schedule calls for one game with Yankton and Kearney, and two each with York, Hastings, Western Union, Omaha, Cotner, Doane, Dana and Midland, a total of eighteen, the hardest schedule ever attempted by a Wildcat team. The conference board meets December 13, at which time basketball and football schedules will be adopted. Yankton will probably be the first home game.

Among the yearlings are a number of men with exceedingly good high school records, who will undoubtedly make the fight for first team berths interesting. —V. P.

BARTO'S NAME TO SENATE AS WAKEFIELD POSTMASTER

BARTELS-GIBSON

On Thanksgiving day November 27, 1924, at highnoon occurred the marriage of Miss Ruth Bartels, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Bartels, to Dr. S. S. Gibson, son of Mrs. R. W. Gibson of Andrew, Iowa, at the home of the bride's parents. Rev. F. W. Kaul of the St. Paul's Lutheran church performed the ceremony.

The bride attended high school at Carroll and also attended the Wayne State Normal. Later he taught in Carroll and Belden, and Powell, Wyoming. For the last two years she has been very active in public work performed the ceremony. The bride wore a gray satin crepe dress trimmed in platinum fox fur. The groom a suit of blue serge.

The home was decorated with bouquets of yellow and white chrysanthemums. The same colors were carried out in the decorations of the table at on which the wedding dinner was served.

Mr. and Mrs. Gibson left for Chicago, Milwaukee and other points and will be at home at Randolph, after January 1st.

The groom was graduated from a veterinarian's school in Chicago. He began practice at Monroe, South Dakota, before entering the World War, in which he was a first lieutenant, serving two years overseas. Since his return he has practiced and made his home at Randolph.

Besides the immediate family those attending the wedding were: Miss Lois Gibson of Sibley, Iowa, Dr. and Mrs. G. W. Burgess of Randolph and Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Allensworth jr. of Carroll.

We wish to join their many friends in wishing them joy, happiness, and prosperity.

Wynot Tribune:
Regardless of whether or not one believes in the prohibitory law, all believes in prohibitory law enforcement. "Bootleg" whiskey is demoralizing boys and young people to an alarming extent and the Wynot community is not free from this menace. It is high time that there was a clean-up in this regard, as the juggling of this vile and poisonous stuff is getting too common. What are the peace officers of the county and state doing that they overlook the disgraceful condition that exists in northern Cedar county?

Randolph Times:
We hear that there is some talk of organizing a De. Molay chapter in Randolph. This order is for boys from 16 to 20 years of age and is affiliated with the Masonic order, in fact a junior Masonic body. It is a splendid order, beautiful work and excellent teaching and fulfills its purpose of giving the boys an order of their own.

Wausa Gazette:
Rev. Wm. L. Hawkinson who has served as pastor of the local Mission church the past three years tendered his resignation last Sunday. Due to the ill health of Mrs. Hawkinson, which necessitates her absence from home to such a large extent of the time is the only reason of the pastor to give up his work at this point. He is not entertaining any call from any other point and as yet is undecided just where he will go, greatly depending upon the advice of physicians in regard to the condition of Mrs. Hawkinson. Its with great regret that the local Mission congregation accepts Rev. Hawkinson's resignation, but as conditions are, feel that there is nothing else to do.

A few months ago four trade checks the exact size of a quarter were found in the money drawer of the telephone pay station at the hotel. As the pay station belongs to the Northwestern Bell Telephone Co. and is operated by them, manager Bagstrom reported the case to the company and turned over to them what evidence he had. That company located the guilty party in Minneapolis. As he promptly confessed and settled for his offense the telephone company did not prosecute the case further.

The basketball season with the Wausa schools opens next Friday evening, when the boys' first and second teams journey to Osmond to play the boy team at that place. The girls team plays the girls team of Laurel school that same evening.

Rumor has it that the M. & O. has practically decided to ask the railway commission for permission to pull off the early morning passenger run from this branch, as well as one of the passenger runs from the Crofton branch. The reason for such a move is that the trains in question are not producing anywhere near enough to pay the expense of operating them. Should they appear before the commission with such a request there is small doubt but that the request would be granted.

One of the secrets some women keep sacredly is their age. Hiding the family bible is often necessary for some, where curiosity is too great on the part of the curious.

In 1920, which was such a great election, judging by the size of the majority, not half of the citizens voted. It was the stay-at-home vote which permitted the voters to win. Some enterprising politician who wants office should organize the non-voters, and he will win—if he can get them all to the polls for him.

Many of our exchanges are giving attention to home trading for various reasons, and good valid reasons too. Some are in the form of communications and appear to be favoring some home enterprise. But they are not marked "adv." so we suppose they are not paid matter—and we wonder if the beneficiary fully appreciates the effort on the part of the editor to educate people in the matter of the economy of dealing at home where possible? The more prosperous we can, as a community, make each and every home enterprise the better for all, we think.

We have a warning cry coming from far off California, telling us to "beware of the fake solicitor" for aims at this glad Christmas time. Do not listen to the cry of distress unless you know it to be real. You might not give enough to hurt you much or help the other fellow more than just a little, says our informant, but it is wrong to encourage such fraud. The story ends in this way: "It is the unknown and stranger-solicitor who needs watching." We would suggest that the voluntary donations do not hurt like those where the giving (for that is often what it is) has that given to some stock monger with an oily tongue where you expect to get dividend enough to pay the note before it comes due, only to learn before that time that the concern is in the hands of a receiver, and that you are liable to be traveling the same road. Good advice all, but often forgotten in time of need.

Will Irwin, than whom there is perhaps no more careful national newspaper correspondent, has commenced a series of letters in the Omaha World-Herald dealing with transportation, the railroads and the waterways, and what they can, should and do—do to the people and to each other. They start in with a lot meat for digestion. They are telling some facts and intimating from the conclusions logically drawn from the facts what might happen to the people unless they wake up and take a hand in the details of some legislation now pending. It looks like a move to stop the common people from getting benefit from the millions invested in the Panama Canal. It is well to know what schemes may be put up to Congress.

Speaking of the "Trade at Home Campaign" which the Clearwater Record is putting on these days, Editor Woodward of the Neligh Register writes: "Under the above caption Haden Mitchell in his Clearwater Record last week gave his readers the first installment of a series of articles which he promises to write and publish. I don't know anything about brother Mitchell. I have met him, it is true, but I have never seen a pipe dangling from his mouth. I have never seen him splutter the clean sidewalk with colored saliva, nor have I ever seen him under the influence of internal moonshine, therefore, I do not know whether he is a practical printer or not. But I do know that he is a clever writer and that his community can never repay him in dollars and cents for his loyalty to that community and I know that he only hopes to be repaid in gratitude for the logical argument he advances in his first article in favor of trading at home."

C. E. MASON BREAKS ARM IN AUTO WRECK

C. E. Mason, son-in-law of George Grissel of Belden, former Randolph citizen and now superintendent of the Pilger schools, suffered a broken arm when an auto in which he was riding was wrecked, says the Randolph Times.

Florence Dennis, 17, and Beasie Duncan, 17, two high school girls were also in the car. They were going to Stanton to take the teachers examinations. Miss Dennis was driving and just as the car was turning a corner it turned over.

Miss Dennis suffered a broken arm and severe bruises on the head and limbs. Miss Duncan received a few slight scratches.

Mr. Mason was a graduate from the Normal a few years ago.

The Women's missionary society will meet at the home of Mrs. A. D. Lewis, Thursday afternoon.

On account of pre-Christmas community programs, the midweek meeting of the Church will be held on Thursday evening this week and next week.

Instruction in missions will be given every Sunday morning by C. E. Whitaker. There is going to be nothing small or narrow in the point of view from which we shall look at the affairs of the Kingdom. A good foundation has been laid in the short talks and blackboard outlines given by Mr. Whitaker.

Our Sunday school work requires the cooperation of parents. Tardiness and irregularity of attendance are the chief hindrances. Will parents please help the teachers to get rid of them.

Did you know it snowed the other day—in fact all day last Sunday? Sure, but snow means crops and crops mean prosperity. So let us thank God for the snow and not let it keep us away from church next Sunday; rather let us go to church and thank God for the promise found in the snow. God asked Job in the long ago "Hast thou entered into the treasures of the snow?" Thank God for these treasurers and rejoice even when it snows.

NIB OF ADVERTISING PROBLEMS

As we understand the question, we believe the real lesson to be learned by the public and the advertisers is to impress upon the public, among whom are to be found the patrons, the fact that the advertising is for their benefit, and that they profit from them in the proportion to the use they make of them—and the study they give the advertisers. A number of Democrat readers by quick action on a puzzle page advertisement two weeks ago, cleaned up a sum sufficient to pay several years' subscription, and while the opportunities are not always as inviting as those for all, no paper is issued that does not carry in its advertising columns invitations that may be of much value to the reader.

MARKERT CAPTAIN-ELECT

(From the Goldenrod)
Fritz Markert of Randolph was elected Captain of the 1925 Wildcats at a meeting of the letter men held Wednesday. Markert has alternated this season at quarter and half and has been one of the most consistent ground-gainers on the squad, his open field runs being a feature of every game.

Markert went out for football last year and held down second string quarter in such a manner that this season he handled the team in a number of games. Markert is a hard fighter, and, under his leadership, the Wildcats should make a strenuous bid for conference honors next season. —V. P.

THE SKEPTICS SOCIETY

Editor of the Goldenrod:—
We, the Skeptics Society, wish to protest against several things which have been brought to our notice. In the first place we must bring to light a shocking situation. The theory which we declare to be wrong and false is one much cherished by the people and youth of this nation. We hesitate before taking this act, but the truth must and shall be known. We do therefore declare that there is no Santa Claus, fully knowing that this statement will meet with opposition. Yet we cannot keep silent. We should be false to our ideals if we should.

Respectfully yours,
The Skeptics Society.

guns. They observed that war is far too profitable to too many powerful elements that cloak their sinister selfishness in a mantle or hypocritical patriotism. They saw men drafted and wealth immune. They see their comrades still struggling against disease, still stricken with wounds, handicapped through life in the struggle for gain, and against this picture they hold that of the enormous fortunes that were built behind the smoke-screen beyond which men fought and died.
Thus they propose that the draft shall not be confined to men. Capital must be drafted. Labor must be drafted. Industry and transportation must be drafted. War prices must be stabilized by government, for if government can take the widow's boy it has the power to protect her market basket. In short profit must be taken out of war.
The Legion is right in thinking that when profit has been taken out of war much of the incentive of war will be removed. When cynical, selfish graybeards whose age protects them from the shot and shell are made to understand that if they cannot offer their bodies they must proffer their gold there will be fewer demands for military gestures where commercial considerations are involved.
In submitting this plan the legion is doing no more than reflecting the views of the vast majority of the people. It has had the approval of Presidents Wilson and Harding, and if President Coolidge is in accord he can do much toward encouraging the legislation needed to write the plan into the law of the land. When it is understood that every one loses and no one gains by war it will not be easy to create a sentiment for war, even through the most persistent propaganda, unless liberty and the sovereign rights of the nation are involved.

TO THE PATRONS OF THE WAYNE POST OFFICE

With the approach of the holiday season I wish to make a few suggestions in regard to your Christmas mailings:

Mail Early; Christmas mails increase many times the normal volume and by mailing early you will aid materially in avoiding congestion. Parcels may be marked "Do not open until Christmas."

Wrap securely using heavy paper and strong twine. Fragile articles should be packed with excelsior or other suitable packing and enclosed in strong wood or double faced corrugated boxes and plainly marked "Fragile" "Glass" or other suitable indorsement. Perishable articles should be plainly marked "Perishable" and sent special delivery. Address plainly giving house number and name of street, post office box or rural route number. Place your return in the upper left-hand corner. Printed cards may be enclosed in envelopes and sent unsealed for one cent. Sealed letters require two cents an ounce or fraction thereof except when mailed for local delivery (city) when the rate is one cent. Letters for delivery on rural routes require two cents. Please avoid the use of odd-sized cards and envelopes. "Tinted" cards must be enclosed in envelopes.

Particular attention is invited to the fact that there will be no rural delivery on Christmas day and that city deliveries will cease at 11 a. m. Christmas day.

Beginning December 18 parcels will be accepted for dispatch at the side door of the post office and the office will be open for receipt of parcels for dispatch until 7:30 p. m.

Your cooperation will be greatly appreciated.

Wishing you a Merry Christmas and a Happy and Prosperous New Year.

Sincerely
 C. A. Berry, Postmaster.

400 WOODMEN HERE

(Randolph Times)
 Tuesday night marked the Talbot Reception zone meeting in Randolph and there were 400 Woodmen present to see the work and to hear Hon. A. R. Talbot, head consul, give an address. The crowd was all here at about nine o'clock, the travel being by auto.

The big meeting was held in the Legion pavilion, and the drill contest was first on the program. Osmond won the contest and the team was presented free tickets to the banquet by Major W. E. Kelso of Central City. Bloomfield was second and were also given banquet tickets. The Randolph Forester team gave an exhibition drill and were presented tickets by A. R. Talbot.

Following the drills came the class adoption of 102 candidates into the mysteries of Woodcraft. The first degree was put on by the Randolph camp with State Deputy E. E. Kester of Lincoln as consul, and the second degree was put on by Osmond camp with Col. N. Welch as consul. After this work Hon. A. R. Talbot, head consul, gave an address. He gave an outline of Woodcraft, told what the M. W. A. had done in the past and what it planned for the future. He said that 59,000 Woodmen were in service in the world war and that 3926 sacrificed their lives. He told of the sanitarium at Colorado Springs and of its work in restoring the health of Woodmen. Over seven thousand have been admitted and 90 per cent of that number have been cured or the disease arrested.

Candidates given the work were from Randolph, Osmond, Plainview, Wausa, Crofton, Coleridge, Belden, Hoskins, Hartington, Bloomfield, McLean and Magnet. All these towns had delegates present, while other towns represented were: Wisnor, Winside, Wakefield, Pierce, Laurel, Carroll, Sholes and Wayne.

The Royal Neighbors served the banquet at the M. E. church and 325 were fed about 75 going to their homes after the degree work and speech. The visitors returned to the pavilion after the feed and made merry until 2 a. m. by conferring the fraternal degree. Randolph displayed the flag in honor of the occasion and as a decoration while many business houses decorated their show windows.

In June, 1925, the Head Camp and National Forester Encampment will be held in Milwaukee and Mr. Talbot urged Randolph to send its drill team there.

LEAVES FROM THE BOOK OF NEBRASKA

With a tree for a town hall

WHEN the Overland Trail was the busiest highway in America, with thousands of Mormons on their way, and endless wagon trains, with tens of thousands of gold-seekers bound for California, and home-seekers heading for the Oregon country, a single cottonwood growing near the present site of Central City was a landmark on the long, weary journey.

Afterward, in the early homesteading days of Nebraska, this tree served as a community center where public questions were discussed and neighborhood business transacted.

The railroad passed close by. But not far away were the reefs of the Sioux. Battle, murder and sudden death claimed many of the brave pioneers—both men and women—who laid the foundations of prosperous, peaceful Nebraska.

Paved streets, electric lights, comfortable homes shaded by trees, and the luxuries of modern civilization which Central City and scores of other Nebraska communities enjoy today, are the result and the reward of the bold pioneer spirit. It drives Nebraska forward to new triumphs.

Today, Nebraska has an automobile and a telephone for every five inhabitants. The average value of a Nebraska farm is three times the value of the average farm throughout the nation. Her annual income from agricultural products exceeds half a billion dollars. The income from her other industries is even larger. Here is a proud record and an inspiration.

When the sod houses rose on the buffalo plains in all parts of the state, there came the need of oil for the lamps and lanterns and later for the labor-saving oil cook stoves and heaters. With the coming of automobiles, tractors and individual home lighting plants and water systems, convenient supplies of gasoline became a necessity.

In the development of a state-wide service of supply, first of kerosene and later of gasoline and lubricating oils for all purposes, the Standard Oil Company of Nebraska was the pioneer, sharing both hard times and prosperity.

Directed and operated in and for Nebraska, the Standard Oil Company of Nebraska is a Nebraska institution that seeks to render service adequate to the needs of every community in the state—to every resident.

THIS is one of a series of advertisements in which historic spots and incidents in Nebraska history will be featured. If you desire a complete file of them, write the Standard Oil Company of Nebraska, and the complete series will be mailed to you as soon as the last advertisement has appeared.

Progressives vs. Socialists
 (Contributed)

Before entering more deeply into the progressive program, it is worthwhile to note that the philosophy of the Progressive is not that of Socialism. Let anyone who cares for this movement be ready to reply to the oft repeated statement that progressivism is socialism. Rather it is about the most complete opposite of socialism that one can well conceive. The socialists hold that the state should own all tools of industry. That is its goal. The collective life is then to dominate the individual life completely as far as concerns economic activity. The Progressives propose nothing of the kind. They propose the control of industry in the interest of real competition. They propose to free the individual from unfair competition, to give him a genuine opportunity, to see that the cards are not stacked against him. To this end they propose to use such power of the state as is clearly necessary, and absolutely no more. They will control monopolies in the interest of real private enterprise. If they take over the railroads it will be in order to give real private enterprise on the part of the farmers and other shippers a chance. Do we call the ownership of the post office by the state, socialism? No. Do we call the ownership of the highways by the state, socialism? No. Why do we favor these? Because we find that state-owned mail systems and state-owned highways, give people a better chance. The progressives will control (when they control, in the interest of the individual. They will refrain from control, when they refrain, also in the interest of private enterprise. It is always a question of how much or how little control is needed in the interest of individual freedom and initiative. Let us study every proposal with this conception in view.

Football season is over, and the basketball day is coming, and that in turn will be followed by baseball and the golf ball, any old time the weather permits. It was a true son of the Emerald Isle who replied when asked how he liked prohibition, said: "It is a domed sight better than no liquor at all."

"Well, what do you think caused the sudden change in weather from December 3 to December 4?" was the question. "Think?" was the reply. "It's a mortal sinch that some careless fellow bragging on the fine fall weather, forgot to knock on wood, the sap head."

WAYNE BEATEN IN LAST GAME BY ONE POINT

Wayne Makes Fifteen First Downs to Kearney's Five. Score 7 to 6. Wildcats Fight Hard.

(From The Goldenrod)
Thursday November 27, the Wildcats dropped the final game of the season to Kearney's Antelopes by the close score of 6-7. Fighting every minute and displaying anything but poor football, our boys showed an extreme reversal of form, closing the season with the knowledge of having played an excellent game.

The battle attracted several hundred fans who, had the students been present, would have filled the grandstand to capacity.

Snow threatened throughout the contest, the cold piercing the heavy coats and, in the latter half, the even heavier hearts of Wayne's loyal rooters.

The Wildcats played the best game of the season outpunting, outplugging and, as the summary testifies, outplaying their opponents. On both offensive and defensive the "cats" scratched with a vim that can be dimmed by no comment.

Fritz Markert's broken field run of forty yards, Scranton's 20 yard dash in the last period and Panek's last run of 35 yards for the visiting team's touch down were the three features of the day. However, Austin and Brainard functioned well for the locals and likewise Carskador, doughty half for the visitors. Kearney's most effective play was punting, Panek proving himself an artist in this department. In fact the Wildcats attribute their defeat largely to his faculty of putting the ball "where they weren't."

Wayne kicked off, Kearney punted and Wayne after feeling the opposing line followed suit. Another exchange of punts and the Wildcats, now on Kearney's 38 yard line went "plumb wild" tearing into the Antelopes for four first downs, and their counter, made by Brainard. Try for point failed.

The remainder of the quarter was scoreless, the play very even.

In the second quarter the Wildcats came back strong, but Kearney stubbornly resisted. Their came Fritz's remarkable run. Followed another first down. "Touch down!" was the cry. Just then Panek, Antelope full back, neatly intercepted a well meant pass and "loped" through the scrimmage line for 35 yards and the winning score.

Panek kicked goal for the extra point.

The game now became a punting duel. Several times the Wildcats, for the most part on the offensive, seemed off for a touchdown, but always a golden shirt intervened. Fumbles, due partly to numb hands, were indulged in at very inopportune moments by both teams.

In the final period it seemed that the Wildcats could not be denied, but always the Antelope forwards stiffened at the crucial moment, and thus it went, our boys ripping through at will for a distance to be held for downs. The game ended just as Brainard intercepted an Antelope pass, and was downed in his tracks on their 30 yard line.

Summary
First downs: Wayne 15; Kearney 5. Intercepted passes: Wayne 1; Kearney 1. Incompleted passes: Kearney 4; Wayne 3.
Penalties: Kearney 1 for 5 yards.
Punts: Kearney, 9 for 256 yards; Wayne 9 for 286 yards. Yards from scrimmage: Wayne 166; Kearney 85 yards.
Officials: Pucelik, Nebraska, referee; Burdick, Omaha, umpire; Wlinke, Nebraska, head linesman.—G. M.

AS WE WERE SAYING
(From The Goldenrod)
Every cloud may not have a silver lining, but it's a safe bet that it has.

Our only complaint is that the glitter doesn't catch our eye often enough.

After vacation, knowledge of our lack of knowledge descends like a fog upon us. Isn't it a shame that fogs have no linings?

We must drop the woeful woes and tell you about the timid tenor. He was practicing his vocal lesson in his practice room. Unexpectedly he dropped his voice. The crash frightened him so greatly that he fainted.

We also find the man who referred all cross word puzzle fans to his wife. He says she knows all of the cross words in the English vocabulary.

But the man who saw the silver lining was the one who called a cemetery in Omaha "Prospect Hill."

Why, do you think, have we a sort of general lack of vitality in pursuits along any lines except those of athletics and dancing? Not that we object to either athletics or dancing, dear me, no—we don't, but when it comes to affairs like class plays, class parties and so on, there are only a few who really do much—and they're the same group every time! Members of a class object that everything is "run" by just a few. But no one else will do it except those few.

For example we might have dramatic societies, literary, musical, scientific, etc. societies here at Wayne. But we haven't any. True, there are the various clubs, but these clubs are kept going only by the energy, interest and direction of some member of the faculty. This is a good thing in its way. We like to see the faculty take so great an interest in us. But why can't we have something of, for and by the students? As it is, it is, for and in spite of the students.

Observe the fate of the Open Forum. Last year the liveliest society on the hill (we thought so, anyway)—now dead after one vain attempt to revive it. In the Open Forum opportunity was given to discuss any question. The Y. M. and Y. W. have tried to give this opportunity but it is impossible for them to completely fill the need.

In the Open Forum last year perhaps too much importance was given to political questions. In our ideal Open Forum we should try to fix it so that a great variety of questions were presented.

We should also want everything to be begun by the students. We believe that more initiative should be taken by students in this school.

That is why we are glad the someone or some ones have prepared, printed and issued the "Yellowrod." It is manifestly a purely original venture coming from the students themselves. We have not yet seen a copy of our contemporary, but we are told that it is quite free from the vicious personal thrusts which are so often present in a newspaper of that sort. There is a very definite need for some other paper about the campus, and we hope that by its merit the Yellowrod will succeed.

To return to the Open Forum, is it too late yet to start some such society again? Over half of the first semester is over. Most of its real existence as a club would be in the second semester. But perhaps the majority of students do not want an Open Forum. As you know, the majority is always right.

Then, too, there is some trouble about the time of meeting of any new club. As it is the Monday nights are overcrowded with clubs. Also, many things are allowed to infringe upon the sanctity of club night. We wish that on Monday nights nothing but club functions should occur. Both the entertainment course and the chorus practice have been allowed to interfere with the club meetings which are held on Monday.

Do people like nonsense very much any more? Nonsense is very hard to write. Strange to say, most of the best nonsense was written by very "un-nonsensical" men. Of course you know "Jabberwocky." It is a masterpiece of nonsense. The first verse is like this:—

"Twas brillig and the slithy toves
Did gyre and gimble in the wabe.
All mimsy were the borogoves,
And the momraths did outgrabe."

Can you guess what it means? Nothing very deep, we guess, but isn't it delightful? We wish that some one would make a more complete study of nonsense. A meaningless jingle is not nonsense. Nonsense has certain definite attributes of its own.—L. D.

CONTRIBUTORS COLUMN
(From The Goldenrod)

The Goldenrod is pleased to publish two communications, each of which takes issue with something that appeared in the last number of this paper. However, we wish to correct an apparent misapprehension on the part of one of the two correspondents. There is no "propaganda" with regard to the nature of the teaching process or any other subject "behind" anything that has appeared in the Goldenrod. This paper has two purposes only, to publish the news, and to give expression to all shades of opinion that seem to us important or interesting.—L. D.

In the last issue of the Goldenrod appeared the following challenge: "This brings up the question—shall we aim to be a Teachers College par excellence or a four year school? We favor the latter. Do you?" No, we favor the former. The following are the reasons for our answer. (1) This institution is chartered as a Teachers College, not as "a four year school." The State has supported it liberally with that understanding and the school has accepted the State's support thus far in good faith. A concerted move in the direction of changing the institution from a Teachers College to a "four year school" would have in it the element of disloyalty to the cause for which the school has been founded and supported. (2) In the future the school may hope to get liberal appropriations as a Teachers College par excellence, but, as "a four year school," it could not get a cent for its support or for needed improvements. (3) The State's need for trained teachers is much greater than its need for graduates from "a four year school," however great its need for the latter may be. The school that supplies the State with trained teachers is therefore functioning upon a higher plane of service than is the school that furnishes the State merely with graduates from "a four year school." (4) The propaganda that inspired the above challenge may rest upon the assumption that "teachers are born, not made." If this assumption were true, then "a four year school" would be as serviceable to the State as a Teachers College. But, if true, "the whole world is all wrong" so far as educational practice is concerned. The truth of the matter is that the teacher-born doctrine is centuries old, and anyone who repeats it now, if indeed there be one bold enough to repeat it, is simply giving utterance to a tradition that never had scientific sanction.

This answer can in no sense be interpreted as being in opposition to the Wayne school functioning as "a four year school" for anyone who chooses to use it as such. The writer is wholly in sympathy with this phase of the work and wishes that the school might have many more students with this purpose. But the Wayne Teachers College must be made to function as "a four year school" without corrupting the purpose for which it was founded and for which it is supported.—Contributed.

Editor Goldenrod:

In your last issue I note with pain that you have opened your columns to a contributor who has either been misinformed or seeks to mislead the teachers of the third district. Every teacher who paid the membership dues was entitled to a vote both for officers and a place of meeting. The nominating committee sent out postal cards for the use of those who wished to suggest names. The nominees were so well chosen that there was little choice between them. The matter of the "rank and file" of the third district organizing will be postponed as long as the "rank and file" insist on going to Lincoln and Omaha in order to shop. I for one am satisfied with the leadership of the Association, with the officers of last year and with those of next year. The place of meeting was selected by a very decisive vote.

In other words, the ignorance of your correspondent is only exceeded by his eagerness to see his ravings in print.

Daddy's Evening Fairy Tale

MARY GRAHAM BONNER

PLAYTIMES

There were so many wonderful playtimes and so many wonderful things to play.

Peter Gnome made up a list of some of the playtimes he had watched the other day and told them to the other Gnomes.

"I'm going to ask that the list be made known," he said, "for perhaps it would suggest some playtimes to others."

"Well, there was Lucy. She used to play 'bedtime' long before her own bedtime."

"She would take her monkey, made of brown cloth, and her fuzzy white toy dog with such bright eyes, and her little toy white rabbit and would put them to bed in a doll's bed she had."

"Then she would cover them over so that they would be sure to be kept warm and snug."

"They had never been known to throw off their blankets during the night, so Lucy was never afraid they would catch cold."

"Then she would take a little basket she owned and in this she would put some little toy chicks and ducks she had and they would be covered up and put to bed."

"She would put the basket beside the bed and both of these near her own bed."

"Then she would tell them stories and would sing them a little song."

"There were no words to her song, but the music was pretty, for Lucy had made up a very sweet little tune of her own."

"And the toy monkey, the toy dog, the toy rabbit, the chicks and the ducks didn't mind at all that there were no words to the song."

"It was a very sweet lullaby without words!"

"Then I saw a little girl who used to play school on rainy days in the linen closet."

"She never touched the linen save very gently and she always made sure she had clean hands before she played this game."

"For she played that she was a teacher and a teacher should, of course, have clean hands. This little girl knew that."

"She would stand before the linen closet shelves and she would make believe each shelf was a row of desks."

"Then she would talk to her pupils."

"Now, Pillow-Case Scholars, I hope you know your lessons."

"How do you spell CAT?"

"Then she would pretend to be the scholars and she would spell cat."

"Next she would ask the Sheet Scholars if they could recite a piece of poetry."

"And, in a funny little voice, she would pretend to be the Sheet scholars and would recite a piece of poetry."

"Then there was Gloria—I watched her play. And she made believe she was a dog."

Her brother made believe he was another dog, and they tried to see how many tricks they could do, such as they had seen dogs do."

"Of course, standing on their hind legs was easy—they could do that, anyway, but they made it harder by half-standing and half-squatting, holding their hands up in front of them."

"They didn't know at first how they could wag their tails, but they got down on the floor and moved their right feet."

"Then they could bark most beautifully."

"A little boy named Danny used to go riding in an automobile and he made up stories to himself as he went along."

"Sometimes he went so far that he couldn't really believe that he was still in the world."

"The world couldn't, he felt, go on and on for such tremendous distances. Just as you got out of one state and into another if you traveled far enough, so, he thought, he could not possibly stay in the same world on one long automobile ride!"

"But he not only made up stories when he rode. When he was home he played Indian and baseball and 'store' but Indian was the best game of all."

Milked Dry

Six-year-old Freddy, bred in the city, was on his first visit to his uncle's farm. At breakfast he heard that his uncle's Jersey cow had been stolen during the night.

"That's a good job on the man who stole her," was Freddy's comment.

"Why?" asked his uncle.

"Why, just before supper last night the hired man took all the milk out of the cow!"

Trained Ears Detect Faults in Machinery

Brass workers hear "tempers" dull tools and noises imperceptible to ordinary ears. "Trained hearing has saved us thousands of dollars," says a writer in the official publication of a firm of brass manufacturers of Waterbury, Conn.

Some time ago it was discovered that there were many employees of the company, both men and women, whose sense of hearing was so acute that in spite of the deafening roar of machinery, they could hear noises, or the absence of noises, that the ordinary person would never notice. In every case it was discovered that this unusual gift was not inherited, but acquired.

It didn't come to them suddenly or easily, but only after years of experience and familiarity with their work, surrounded by the same machines, that their hearing would develop this delicate keenness that gave them the power to notice the smallest sound amid other noises. A curious thing was found, that the ability is more common where factory noises are deafening. It is the overpowering noise itself that makes these trained ears so delicate that they can hear what would be inaudible to others, observes the Literary Digest.

Magical Power Seen in Shorthand Writing

The ancients appear to have regarded their shorthand writers as possessed of a faculty closely akin to magic. Ausonius, a poet of the Fourth century, addressing a shorthand writer, says: "Your hand, of which the movement is hardly perceptible, flies over the wax surface; and though my tongue runs over long phrases, you fix my ideas on your tablets long before they are worded. I wish I could think as rapidly as you write! . . . Who has revealed to you what I was meditating? How many thefts does your hand make in my soul?"

There is no evidence to show that the speed of ancient shorthand writers was at all comparable with that of our own day. They wrote upon waxed tablets and no specimen of their art appears to have been preserved. For centuries there was no shorthand in the world. It was not revived until 1588, when Dr. Timothy Bright, a Yorkshire parson, published a book, "Character, or An Arte of Shorte, Swifte and Secrete Writing by Character." This system was simply a collection of arbitrary signs for a large number of common words. There was no attempt to provide a shorthand alphabet, says the Manchester Guardian.

Rhymes on Rings

While some old customs are dying out, others are being revived. Among the latter is that of engraving mottoes and proverbs on lovers' rings. Rings thus engraved were formerly called "posy rings," and some of the inscriptions were very quaint.

For instance, how would the following appeal to the "modern miss":
My love is fixt, I will not range,
I like my choice too well to change.
Among the many other mottoes which adorned the rings of oldtime lovers were:
"In thee, my choice, I do rejoice."
"This and the giver are thine forever."
"Of all the rest I love thee best."
"God for me appointed thee." "I joy in thee, joy thou in me," and "Providence divine hath made thee mine."

Those Fool Questions

The bright red motorcar skidded violently across the road, shot through a hedge and landed on its side in a roughly plowed field. The driver crawled painfully out of the wreck and stood looking at it, the picture of gloom.

After a while, a passer-by looked through a hole in the hedge.

"Hello!" he exclaimed cheerfully.

"Had an accident?"

The motorist bit back the angry words that rose to his lips.

"Oh, no," he replied, "not at all. The fact is I've just got a new car, so I brought the old one out to bury it. Have you a pick or spade you could lend me? I don't seem to make much headway digging by machinery."

Habits of Silence Inbred

In the old days Ojibway children were taught to be seen and not heard, for to be heard might have meant death. When the scream of the hoot owl or other strange noises came from the woods, they snuggled closer, but kept all the quieter, for the noise which they heard was liable to be the signal of a prowling enemy, and to have cried would have been to have revealed the hiding place of the family or tribe.

Thus through the thousands of years that the Indians lived in constant danger of attack, the habit of silence was bred in the blood. Even now the Ojibway youngster will take a severe jolt without a sound, and even come up smiling.

Theatrical "Run"

"Your show is the worst we have ever had here," said the manager of a theater in a western town as he handed the manager of the touring company his share of the box-office receipts.

"That's strange!" said the manager of the company. "Why, when we played in Omaha we had the longest run in the history of the city!"

"I'm sorry!" replied the manager of the theater.

"Sorry about what?"

"Sorry the audience abandoned the chase!"
