AGED CITIZEN CALLED HOME

Ernest Bernsheim Passes Away In 82d Year, Closing Long and Useful Life, Respected By All.

At an early hour Sunday, October 25, 1925, death came to relieve the sufferings of Ernest Bernsheim, who had been in failing health at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. G. W. Lewis, his daughter, for some months, and confined to his bed most of the time for nearly a month, with afflictions that come to those of advanced years. Monday afternoon a funeral service was held at the Baptist church, Rev. Fenton C. Jones of the Presbyterian church preaching the short sermon. The body was then escorted to the station by his brother, Masons, and accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Lewis to their resting place in the family lot at Fort Dodge, Iowa, cemetery, where the final services were held Tuesday afternoon.

His life history is briefly given as follows:

Ernest Bernsheim was born in Hanau, Germany, January 31, 1841. He came to the United States when 21 years of age, landing at Philadelphia, April 14, 1865—the day of the assassination of Abraham Lincoln.

He was married September 20, 1868 to Mary Wilson Adams of Galena, Illinois, and they lived at Vamestown, Illinois, until 1884 when they removed to Fort Dodge, Iowa. This was his home for about 30 years till the death of his wife in 1912 when he came to Wayne, Nebraska, to be with his daughter, Mrs. J. G. W. Lewis.

He united with the church in his early manhood and has served in the capacity of Elder for about 40 years. (During twelve of these years he has been a member of the Session of the First Presbyterian church of this city.) His weary body gave up the struggle against wracking pain and the victorious soul passed on to his Maker, Sunday morning October 25th, 1925.

Ernest Bernsheim is survived by a half sister living in Philadelphia, by nieces and nephews in Germany, and his daughter, Mrs. J. G. W. Lewis of Wayne, Nebraska.

Of Ernest Bernsheim no words of commendation which we might write would fully convey to those who knew him not a conception of the high esteem in which he was held by all who came to know him. That his was an industrious life was shown in his attitude since coming to Wayne to make his home in his declining years. Besides tilling a wonderful garden, when the war needs were pressing he equipped himself with a knitting machine and thus did his part in supplying the needs of the boys in the trenches. This but an incident noted to illustrate how he measured up as a citizen in time of need; and thus in every walk of life as citizen, neighbor and Christian was he always doing the full part of a man.

WILL VISIT THE SOUTH

Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Gildersleeve left Wednesday to spend a month in the south, where they go to visit their son Glenn Gildersleeve and wife, at Greenboro, North Carolina, where Glenn and his wife are in charge of the department of music in the schools of that flourishing city. The travelers will spend a day at Chicago with their daughter Helen, who is taking some special school work there. No one blames Mr. and Mrs. G. for going to that sunny land for a few weeks, when they consider that they were given, with the rest of us in this corner of the state, such snowballing as came Tuesday.

Mr. Gildersleeve tells us that Greenboro is now a city of 50,000, having increased in population one fifth of that number in the two years since his son began his school work there. Mrs. Gildersleeve is one of the music instructors at a college in the city.

SEVEN CARS CALVES

The first of the week seven cars of whiteface calves from the west, shipped in by Jas. Oser for himself and Oscar Jensen. They came to Wayne for winter feeding, and in the spring they will have about ten or twelve car loads of baby beef for the market. Mr. Johnson tells us that the percentage of gain on calves is greater than on older cattle, and that it properly fed and finished the price is usually such as to make a good price for the feed they require.

MRS. JOHN SOULES DIES

This morning at 8:45, Mrs. John Soules passed away, following a number of weeks of suffering during which she was confined to her bed. A paralysis had for months been sapping her vitality, and thus she was not able to withstand an attack of pneumonia. She is survived by husband, two sons and three daughters, Henry and Albert of this place; Mrs. B. B. Hollis of Omaha; Mrs. Frank Evans of Emerson and Miss Lottie at home; besides her aged parents, Mr. and Mrs. Caldwell, who came here from O'Neill since she became so seriously ill. Funeral arrangements have not yet been made.

OBITUARY—MRS. VIOLA E. HEADY

Viola E. Soule Headly was born at Olin, Jones county, Iowa, June 2, 1857 and passed away at Sioux City, Iowa, October 25, 1925, at the age of 68 years, 4 months, 23 days. November 8, 1873, she was united in marriage to Waymen Skadden, who passed away September 12, 1902, at Wayne, Nebraska. To this union were born seven children, two of whom passed away in infancy. Those remaining are: Mrs. C. I. Carter, Vermillion, South Dakota; Mrs. W. G. Ketchmark, Daylin, Nebraska; Mrs. G. B. Palmer, Sioux City, Iowa; W. M. Skadden and L. C. Skadden, Scottia, Nebraska. There also remain twelve grand-children and five great grand-children.

Her marriage to George Heady occurred twenty years ago, and he remains to mourn her passing. There are also four sisters and two brothers: Mrs. Ada Steele, Harlan, Iowa; Mrs. Grant Carlson and Mrs. J. A. Flaugh, Hartington, Nebraska; O. N. Southwick, Bonners-Ferry, Idaho; D. G. Southwick and Mrs. W. A. Jones, Crofton, Nebraska.

The family lived at Harlan, Iowa, until 1889, when they went to Ainsworth, Nebraska, where they resided for eight years. They then removed to Wayne, Nebraska, where they lived until seven years ago when they came to Sioux City.

Mrs. Heady became a Christian when but a girl at Harlan, Iowa, and possessed a strong, practical faith throughout life. She was a self-sacrificing mother, devoted to the welfare of her children. Her neighborliness and helpfulness to others endeared her to all friends and acquaintances. She was unselfish to the utmost and always considered the interest of others before her own.

Her health has been poor for years, and yet she was always cheerful and uncomplaining. The break came about a week before her passing, and on the Lord's Day the death angel came, bringing relief from her suffering.

The following poem, written by Mrs. Heady herself, in memory of her mother, is a splendid tribute to herself and her ideals of life:

In Memory of Our Mother

(Mrs. V. E. Heady)
Wife and mother, how our memories
By these little words awake
To the spot that she has left us,
That the Lord his own did take
Left us in the world of trouble,
For that far-off Golden Shore,
That we may some day meet her
She'll return to us no more.

Many years she toiled to help us,
Bore the trials of each one;
How kind and true and tender,
Faithful till her work was done.

Deeds of kindness ever doing,
Sons and daughters all will tell
Of our patient, loving mother,
Friends and neighbors loved so well.

As I gaze into the Heavens,
Her smiling face I see,
With our brother standing by her,
Little Jamie on her knee.

At her feet, dear mother, all my pleasure
Clouds the sunshine, sometimes hid,
Grief overwhelms, but not forever,
There will come a brighter side.

Knowing this, 'twas not my happy
Knowing it we watch and wait,
We can some day meet our mother
Close beside the pearly gate.

Farewell now, our dearest mother,
We have laid you down to rest,
Tho it grieves us so to lose you,
Our dear Savior knoweth best.

LEGION AT HOME TO WAYNE MEN

The Men of the Local Post Will Entertain State Commander Kinder and Home Service Clubs.

Tuesday evening, November 3, the boys of the American Legion of Wayne will be "at home" at the city hall in honor of their State Commander, J. R. Kinder of Madison. All ex-service men are cordially invited, and especially those not yet affiliating with the post. Also, members of the Greater Wayne and Kiwanis clubs and other business and professional men if there are any such.

The state commander is to give a talk appropriate for the occasion, and in addition, a short program of home talent is being planned, but it had not yet been sufficiently developed to be given to the public.

The invitation is cordial, and it is the hope and wish of the legion men that one and all will honor them with their presence.

MRS. JAS. G. WRIGHT OF MATTOON, ILL., DIES HERE

Nearly a month ago, Mrs. Wright came from Illinois to visit at the home her son Ed Wright at this place, and with other children in this state and South Dakota. While here, she was taken sick about ten days before her death, and passed to her reward Monday, October 26, 1925, at the age of 78 years, acute gastritis being given as the cause.

A short service will be held Thursday afternoon at the home of Ed Wright after which the body will leave on the afternoon train for the home at Mattoon, where burials will be had.

She is survive by three sons and three daughters: Ed Wright of this place, C. W. Wright of Peoria, Illinois, and R. H. of Mattoon, Illinois; Mrs. Maud Cannon of Green Castle, Indiana, Mrs. Chas. Sheldon of Watauga, South Dakota, and Mrs. Carl Harlen of Fullerton in this state, who was with her mother here.

MRS. MARGARET NEELY DIES AT PENNSYLVANIA HOME

W. A. K. Neely and family received word Monday of the death of his mother, Mrs. Margaret J. Neely, which occurred Sunday, October 25, 1925, at her home at Mercersburg, Pennsylvania, at the age of 93 years, 11 months and 5 days, of infirmities due to old age.

Mrs. Neely has visited her son here on three different occasions, since he came to Nebraska as a pioneer nearly 50 years ago. At one of these visits, she spent the winter with himself and family, and was thus known to some people who lived here a number of years ago.

Her death is mourned by four sons and a daughter, all living in Pennsylvania except Mr. Neely of this place and his sister, Mrs. Bower of Ottumwa, Iowa.

Mr. Neely did not go to attend the funeral service, having been home for an extended visit not long since when the mother was critically ill, and for weeks her recovery was not expected.

Mrs. Neely spent practically her entire ninety-three years of life a resident of Pennsylvania.

GOTTIE GANSKO PASSES AWAY

Gottie Gansko, father of G. A. Gansko of this place, died at his home at Meadow Grove Saturday, October 24, 1925, in his 84th year, having been born in February 1842. The funeral and burial was Monday, Mr. G. and some going to attend.

For about five years, Mr. Gansko made his home here with his son, before going to live at Meadow Grove. An industrious, hard working man during his earlier years, he was ever busy while making his home here. It was simply a case of wearing out. The heart grew weaker until the end came.

EDUCATION WEEK OVER NEBRASKA

School Will be Dismissed Thursday and Friday For Teachers Meeting, November 4, 5, 6, and 7.

For the first time in the history of the state, a governor has recognized by proclamation the schools and teachers of the state. In a proclamation, issued October 9th, Governor Adam McMullen gave official recognition to the schools of the state and the instructors. The introductory paragraph calls the education of the children the most important task the people are called upon to perform, and he feels that the state must accept the responsibility of seeing that the local districts function properly, and as far as possible in harmony with other districts and the general plan of seeing that every child in the state spends a goodly portion of his younger days in school, for the training outside of the home.

He cites the fact that the state employs 15,000 teachers in the public schools and that on an average one third of that number are new to the work each year, and that they may learn, early in their teaching career, to feel the responsibility, and know best how to meet it, he endorses most heartily the education conferences to be held next week in each congressional district of the state, and that they may have the endorsement of the state executive administration, the week of November 1 to 7 inclusive, is officially designated as Educational Week. He calls upon patrons of the schools and the school boards to co-operate to the end that teachers may attend these conferences and return to their desks with an increased enthusiasm, a more serious purpose, and a higher resolve that children under their influence will grow to be the best citizens in the history of our notable state.

The October Educational Journal carries a very complete program of the different district meetings. The Goldenrod has given a review of the program in this district so far as it relates especially to Wayne teachers taking parts as officers and on program. This follows:

The Northeast Nebraska State Teachers' Association convenes at Norfolk, November 4, 5, and 6. The state is divided into six districts of which northeast Nebraska is the third. Superintendent R. E. Bailey of Newman Grove, Nebraska, is president of this district. The teachers of Nebraska attend the meetings in their respective districts quite generally, and much good is accomplished in this way by valuable instruction, personal talks, and the development of a professional attitude toward education.

School will be dismissed Thursday and Friday, November 6 and 7 so that the Faculty will be able to attend the meetings on those days. While most of the teachers are going to Norfolk for the meeting there, some of them are going to Omaha or Lincoln to similar meetings in those places. The meetings in Omaha and Lincoln provide an opportunity for more highly specialized instruction for certain departments. Miss Schemel, Miss Pierce and Mr. Chittum plan to go to Lincoln, while Mr. Lewis and Mr. Beery aim to go to Omaha. The dismissal of school on Thursday and Friday will give the students an opportunity to visit home for a few days.

Many of the members of the faculty are on the program at Norfolk. Professor Hunter and members of the orchestra are going to Norfolk Thursday evening, and will provide most of the program for that evening. Miss Marshall, sixth grade supervisor in the Training School, is chairman of the Intermediate Grammar activities. Miss Enid Conklyn is one of the instructors for this section. Professor J. G. W. Lewis is chairman of the Social Science section, and Dean Hahn is on the program for this section and will talk on the following subject: "The Contributions of the Social Sciences to Education." Miss

Mamie McCormick is the chairman of the Rural section. She has prepared interesting and valuable instruction for those interested in that kind of work. Miss Esther Dewitz has charge of the Health and Recreation section; Miss Glennie Bacon of the Wayne High School will give a report of the Committee of Six on "Mathematics in Nebraska High Schools." This report will be given in the exact science department of which Miss Louise Wendt, assistant

AN EARLY SNOW

Tuesday morning the first real snow of the season began to fall, by noon there was more than three inches over the ground in this vicinity. Skyes cleared about noon, and the settling process began, but the temperature was hardly high enough to thaw any considerable amount of the snow that afternoon. The reports indicate that the snowfall is quite general over all of South Dakota and the north half of Nebraska, and in some parts of the state extending well to the Kansas line.

A CHANGE OF OWNERS

Announcement is made elsewhere of the agency of the Delco-Light products contract for Wayne county, in which H. M. Sears becomes successor of Fritz K. H. Eickhoff, who has for the past two or more years represented this wonderful system, in this county. Mr. Eickhoff has been doing a large volume of business in this county, and as these plants are giving excellent satisfaction, and are coming to be considered a home necessity in so many farm homes, and their use increasing so fast, it is a foregone conclusion that the demand for these products will continue to increase.

Mr. Sears hardly needs an introduction to this people, among whom he has spent most of his life. For nearly four years past he has been in the employ of the city plant as line man—that is, looking after the work outside the plant and wiring and connections on all lines. He has tendered his resignation to the city, which has been accepted, to become effective December 1st. He however, takes possession of the business at once, but until the first of December, Mr. Kugler will be in charge of the place.

Since learning of the change, we have not been able to learn just what Mr. Eickhoff's plans for the future are, but hope that they will not be such as to cause him to find employment or a business out of Wayne.

VISIT LINCOLN SATURDAY

Last week Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Gildersleeve, accompanied by their son John Austin and nephew Ed Reynolds, drove to Lincoln to spend Saturday in that city. Mrs. Gildersleeve's object in going was to attend an annual meeting of the Daughters of Founders and Patriots of America, for Nebraska. This is a national organization with out other branches in this state than the one. This session was quite informal, and largely social.

The program consisted of music, singing, historical discussion of questions of interest to the members. They met at the Lincoln hotel, where they enjoyed a 1 o'clock luncheon in the Chinese room while at the same time discussing questions of mutual interest to the members. Their next meeting is to be held at Omaha, but the date is not yet definitely set.

The men of the party took in the big football game and saw Nebraska win over Kansas—a most exciting game to watch. But the report is that not all of the excitement was centered on the game, for on account of mud, which was everywhere in the south part of the state, it took as much strategy to keep a car in the road and right side up as to win a game of football. On several occasions the ditch was escaped by a narrow margin.

In the chemistry department of the State Teachers College, is secretary; President Conn will give a talk in the High School section. It is expected that other members of the faculty will assist, but due to the fact that the programs for some of the sections are still in process of arrangement, a complete list cannot be given at this time.

These meetings, which are held yearly, are for the professional development of the teachers of our state. Other professional groups have their organizations and meetings. Teaching, being fully as valuable as any of them, must also have organization and meetings in order to keep pace with the great growth that is being made along educational lines. Every teacher should consider it part of his or her professional training to attend these meetings and to gain new ideas and thoughts from more advanced instructors. Aside from the professional advancement, there is the cultural, through entertainments of music and speaking, and the social through contact with others who are interested in the same ways and with whom one has many problems in common.

WAYNE LOSES TO COTNER ELEVEN

On Muddy Field, Wayne is Loser in Game With Cotner Grid Team At Lincoln Friday.

Cotner contributed one of the surprises of the week to the state conference football race by defeating the Wayne eleven 7 to 0 on the Bethany field Friday afternoon, says the State Journal story of the game. The Bulldog's score came in the third quarter when Sims, Cotner, left end, intercepted Rennick's pass and ran 20 yards across the Wayne goal line. The teams slipped and wallowed through the game on a field that was all mud. With the exception of the early part of the third quarter the Wayne gridlers more than held their own. Cotner failed to make a single first down but the visitors made their distance on three occasions.

Once in the second quarter and twice in the last quarter Wayne made strong bids to score. During the entire last period the ball was within Cotner territory but the Wayne backs were unable to lay the water-logged ball across the final chalk mark.

Wayne Starts Passes

In the last period Wayne opened up with an aerial but Rennick's forward flips were for the most uncaught. After the first quarter and part of the second in which the offensive of both teams consisted largely of three attempted line plunges and a 20-yard kick the Wayne eleven had its first chance to score. A punt by Snyder carried to the 48-yard line and Rennick skidded thru a broken field for a 38 yard return to the Cotner 10-yard mark. Three line plunges gave the visitors 8 yards but a pass across the goal line on the fourth down was grounded by Shuman.

Just before the halftime Cotner took possession of the ball within striking distance of the goal when Rennick's hurried kick carried a bare ten yards to the Wayne 35-yard line. A line buck by Roland netted three yards but the half ended before the Bulldogs had exhausted their quota of downs.

Rennick was the most conspicuous performer in the Wayne lineup. His 38-yard return of a punt in the second quarter gave Wayne the ball on the Cotner 10-yard line and his 23-yard return in the fourth quarter gave the visitors another scoring opportunity.

Snyder, Cotner captain, was shifted to end this week altho he did all the kicking for the Bethany team. A greater part of the game consisted of a kicking duel between the Bulldog leader and Rennick, in which Snyder had the edge. The Wesleyan Fresh and the Cotner Reserves played to a scoreless tie in a preliminary game.

Now is the time to change a little the wording of the man who wanted to "see the world go by" to "Give a sent by the fire and a radio, and let me hear the world go by." It must be great to listen to songs from the "sunny south" at such a time as now, while looking out at a snow-covered world—that is, as far as the eye can reach from our present surroundings.

Over at Madison, says the Star-Mall, the annual gathering of the community club found a number of members pretty badly discouraged, and their reason of excuse for that attitude was because of the members who seemingly shirked their share of the work—the volunteer work which some must do in every community—for the good of the community. However, the meeting closed in a more optimistic feeling, and possibly the delinquents will get into the game, and help make the things move.

Judging from the reading of an item in the Blair Pilot, their fall festival there this season was not a real success. The weather man was not kind in providing genial, warm days, claiming that he could not put off and weather all fall just to make their show a success. Then the people who had gotten up splendid floats for their celebration July 4, seemed to feel that they could not spare the time and money for another demonstration, so the Pilot man could not honestly praise that feature of the festival very much.

TOOK OFF FLESH

Edna went to the doctor to learn what ailed him, and the doctor said: "You ought to take off flesh. Get a car and get out more."

"And so I got a car and got out more," says Edna. "I got out six times in one block and took off a little flesh in four different places."

The last time I got out was through the windshield. That was the time I took off the most flesh."

EVENTS OF WORLD INTEREST

The daily press is bringing to the people daily so many great events—news of such strides in world affairs, that one can scarcely believe them real in the great drama of nations. Hoover said: "Had the willingness to adjust differences now being shown in Europe been exercised in July, 1914, the annals of the past decade need not have been written in blood. Secretary Hoover said at Washington today to the International Young Men's Christian association convention."

A Paris dispatch says: "In the same room where Woodrow Wilson in the closing days of the peace conference, proudly read out the articles of the league of nations covenant, and M. Clemenceau, as president, in staccato tones declared them adopted, the council of the league tonight delivered what is virtually an ultimatum to Greece and Bulgaria that they must unconditionally and within 24 hours, order all their troops to retire behind their respective frontiers."

In France the financial crises follow each other in close order. In Paris: "The drop in the franc was brought to a sharp halt today by government intervention in the market and a grave warning to speculators in the form of criminal proceedings opened by the minister of justice against unnamed parties for illicit exportation of capital."

"Finance Minister Caillaux allowed the franc to reach 25 to the dollar before deciding to make use of the Morgan loan, having, according to information around the bourse, caught some French bankers largely short of francs on foreign exchanges, principally Amsterdam."

The French cabinet crisis has been put off for another day. Premier Painleve and his colleagues adjourned this morning without taking final decision on the financial situation and the convocation of a cabinet council with President Doumergue was postponed until tomorrow."

Our home troubles at Washington: "Taxpayers bombarded the house ways and means committee today with arguments for repeal of a majority of the special taxes now in effect."

The committee, which will start work next week on a bill revising the revenue law, was asked to wipe out levies on automobiles, automobile trucks, tires and accessories, jewelry, fine arms and accessories, cameras and lenses, and stock, together with some of the stamp taxes and those applying to brokers and taxi operators."

"Recommendations for repeal of only a few of these taxes, which aggregate more than 250 million dollars annually, was made in the 300 million dollars deduction program suggested to the committee by Secretary Mellon, and the widespread requests for additional relief finally provoked Representative Treadway, republican, Massachusetts, to read a clipping today stating that, if all requests for repeal were granted "The government soon would have to pay a bonus to citizens to exist instead of collecting a tax from them."

"In addition to hearing the numerous new appeals today, Chairman Green prepared a statement clarifying his position announced Saturday for repeal of the inheritance tax at the end of six years if states enacted uniform inheritance levies in the meantime."

ON A BROAD, FAIR FOUNDATION

The Nellig News of last week contains the following, which is well worthy of consideration. We have only printed a small portion of the editorial which is founded upon the introduction we give:

Big Man vs. Narrow Views

We have always been of the opinion that an individual ought to be broad enough to feel personal pride in the beauty surrounding his holdings; far sighted enough to see personal advantages in the equal distribution of wealth in his community. We have always held that a county seat ought to be broad enough in its views to evince civic pride in the upbuilding and improvement of every town within its county. That we ought to be broad enough to see the advantage to itself in the generous distribution of a share of the natural advantages that fall to the county seat by reason of its prestige. That the county seat ought to encourage public improvement in all towns of its county, and be instrumental in the cementing together of all the towns of the county in a single purpose—that of promoting and stimulating the fundamental industry in the county of which it is the capital. The services the individual of the rural town can render to world progress cannot extend much beyond the boundary lines of his county, but neither ought to confine his whole interests in a single little spot of the county, thereby isolating himself from the whole world, following out this theory, it would seem that the metropolis of a state which owes its progress and prosperity not to a single county, but to all the county in the state, to every town in the state to assist in the upbuilding of those counties, towns and communities, instead of shoving their gnarled, glutinous fist into every county, every town and hamlet of the state to rake in all the prosperity its state produces. Selfish as they are, it would seem that the big cities could see additional prosperity and growth to themselves in the prosperity and progress of all the towns and of their state in general, but they can't see it. It would seem that the large cities would exhibit pride in the industry that governs the prosperity of the state and nation, and the small towns that are supposed to supply the necessities of life to that industry, but they don't. Civic pride in the large cities does not extend beyond their own curb stones. They are so greedy, so selfish and so narrow that if they controlled the air the rural districts would pay for every cubic foot of air they breathed.

Pleases for either furnace or heater. It is the same high class coal that Wayne consumers used to use in other years, and called for more like it when the supply in the bin was out.

Pinacle Lump or Nut

The coal that has won a warm place for every user. It is clean and lasting coal when in the stove; big in heat units, small in ash and clinker. A popular coal, because of its merit.

The Old Ben—Franklin County Coal

From Illinois is the same old standby in moderately priced good coal.

Hard Coals

In the different sizes—from Colorado or Pennsylvania. I can supply your hard coal furnaces or the base burners. New cars coming to supply demand.

Sportsmanship
Every one admires the fellow who can smile when he's losing and who can control that smile when he wins; who can, like Lincoln, "hold" on through blame and falter not at praise.

When we have fought so hard and given every ounce of strength, we have played a clean game, and yet the score turns against us, it's hard to smile. It takes courage. It's doubly hard if our opponents are poor sportsmen and "rub it in." And yet in the end it's worth it. Though the prospects may look dark at first, the spirit of true sportsmanship will eventually come out victorious and with colors flying.

It is a real pleasure to watch a contest between opposing forces, who are all doing their best—all working for their school with pure enjoyment of the game and win, when they have finished—conquerors or conquered, can smile for they have done their best.

Nor should the contestant stand alone—his followers, his schoolmates should stand behind him loyally in his spirit of sportsmanship.

Pickle Washers Win
The contest between the Pickle Washers and the Potato Mashers closed Thursday afternoon. Thursday morning the Potato Mashers were ahead though both sides held back money that morning. At noon both sides had meetings to be sure that as many tickets as possible had been purchased.

The counting showed that the Pickle Washers had $173.50 and the Potato Mashers $156.25. This meant that the Potato Mashers would wear the baby bonnets to the matinee.

When school was let out, the Pickle Washers marched out first received a piece of colored paper and a string, also a ticket for the theater. Then the Potato Mashers marched out, to be crowned by the winners with a paper baby bonnet. Each loser had a winner for a partner. The students marched down 4th St. to Main, turned south and proceeded to the Crystal to enjoy "A Son of His Father" by Harold Bell Wright. The losers paid for the matinee.

The Randolph-Wayne Football Game
Wayne displayed a strong and effective defense during the first quarter. Randolph's gains were almost entirely around end and through well directed forward passes. Wayne's offense was marked and their punting game worked well, Dennis punting on an average of 45 yards.

Wayne kept up their strong punting during the entire game but from the second quarter on they slacked up on both defense and offense. Randolph scored one touch down in the 2nd quarter as a result of a 35 yard pass and two off tackle plays. Their try for point failed.

Randolph's constant driving resulted in 2 touchdowns, and a safety during the third period of play. A bad pass from center on their 20 yard line caused Wayne to forfeit 2 points for the safety and the touch downs were made easy by the grasping of opportune breaks by the Wayne team.

The last period was a battle to hold Randolph. Their line smashes often netted more than ten yards and through hard hitting and completed forward passes succeeded in pushing over 2 more touch downs and making one point of the try's after goal. The game ended, Randolph 33, Wayne 0. Victory "fled" from Wayne at the opening of the second quarter but the local team displayed a strong and courageous battle to hold the opposing team. Not once did the Wayne

High team lose spirit and many real football players were brought out in this game. Although Wayne has lost two of its games these were the hardest of the season. Those ahead will be tight games and should not be overlooked.

Stanton will oppose Wayne at the State Normal field on Saturday, October 31. Let's have every one out for the biggest game of the season, to root for the home team. Stanton was defeated by Creighton Prep last week by a small score. They will have a strong but over confident team which has resulted in defeat many times.

The line up in the Randolph game was as follows:

LT Gifford,
LG Wilson-Benschopf,
C Keyser
RG Trapp-Coraine and Hohenstein-Bradford.

Citizenship
(by Alvern Johnson)

Citizenship is the state of being vested with the rights, privileges and duties of a citizen.

It is the matter of doing things that are right and being truthful and honest in your work whatever it may be. We apply or should apply it in our daily work. The minute the teacher looks from you, you are tempted to do some forbidden thing, disturbing all those around you. You know it is wrong, therefore why do it? Is that the way a real citizen should do?

A true citizen is loyal and open minded ready to accept somebody else's ideas if found better than his own. A good citizen is courteous to all around him no matter where he may be and is self-controlled at all times.

(by Gretchen Treckhaus)
What does the word citizenship mean? Many people think we deserve to be called a good citizen when we obey all the laws, when we do not steal or lie or cheat. But is this enough? Is there not more meaning to this word than this?

Yes there is much more meaning. Stop and think. Are you a cooperative person or are you a selfish person? When we are cooperative we are thoughtful and helpful, are always ready to cooperate with others in any helpful undertaking. But when we are selfish do we think of other people in their needs? Do we always try to cooperate with the persons we are working for or with? No we do not. We think only of our own wants and needs.

And how about responsibility? Can people trust us? Or are we known in our community as one that can not be trusted?

There are many who pride themselves on being a good citizen, but can a person be a good citizen and be pessimistic, always gloomy looking on the black side of things? No he must have the optimistic spirit in him, be hopeful, take a cheerful outlook of things. This will help every one out.

We must have a certain degree of intelligence but we cannot be really intelligent and hold any prejudices. Let us try to be open minded enough to receive and weigh carefully any advice or views that are heard; then store them up so we can use them in the future.

In conclusion can we honestly say that we measure up to the standard stated above or are we forced to admit that we are lacking in some traits of good citizenship?

The pupils whose names appear in the following list, also ranked very high in the first six weeks work, but their names are placed on the 85% list because they fell below 90% in one or more subjects, although all their grades were 85% or above: Esther Ingham, Martha Lenser, Helen Nuss, Charles Keyser, Bernard Pollard, Dorothy Loomis, Evelyn Felber, Miriam Huse, Marjorie Ley, Esther Theis, Ellen Finn, Kathryn Kemp, Gretchen Teckhaus, Wm. Von Seggern and Edna Ericson.

The pupils who received a grade of 80% or more in all subjects are placed on the 80% list which follows: Lucile Ames, Alice Berry, Gayle Gilderleeve, Mabel Hurstad, Mary Alice Ley, Mabel Stamm, Esther Taylor, Myron Brockway, Isabelle Adams, Elsie Carhart, Jane Jeffrey, Margaret McMurry, Una Schrupf, Margaret Fanski, Viola Jones, Evelyn Mellor, Myrtle Wallace, Richard Condit, Herbert Perry, Alma Martin, Edyth Prescott, Louise Rickabaugh, Milford Wright, Amanda Hollman, Olinde Pflueger, Jane Von Seggern, Marie Finn, Roy Green, Dick Fanske and Fred Davis.

Are You a Constructive Citizen?
Citizenship does not mean that you are just naturally good. It means more than that. If a person just sits and does nothing to aid the town or school, he is a poor citizen. This last week in ticket selling, we encountered a great problem. People felt like they would like to help us if they could but some of them could have that didn't. We encountered many people who said, "Don't ask me to buy a ticket. If your high school isn't going to win, I'm not going to come to the games." That person is very destructive. He thinks only of the past of our high school instead of the future. Let's all do our best to make ourselves desirable citizens.

STATE FISH CAR PASSES THIS WAY

Monday morning the east bound passenger carried one of the state fish cars as a trailer, the car returning thru here in the evening. When the writer interview one of those in charge, he learned that the mission of the car had been to deliver and deposit thirty-five thousand fish in the waters of Crystal Lake, which should assure some good fishing in its waters in a year or two or three. The delivery consisted of bass, blue gills, perch and croppies, and they came from the hatchery at Valentine. There is now another hatchery at Benkleman, in the southwest part of the state.

Protective lubrication prevents BREAKDOWNS

Modern motors are marvels of dependable service. With reasonable care they often run thousands of miles without serious mechanical trouble.

The necessary attentions are simple—water in the radiator, clean oil of correct grade in the crankcase, water put in the battery occasionally and grease applied where required. This much care generally prevents breakdowns and keeps repair bills small.

Because your motor will run on unsuitable or dirty oil, you are not wise to use it. The hardest steel wears down unless protected against friction—and dirty oil or oil of the wrong body or grade cannot prevent friction.

Innumerable tests prove that after 500 miles of operation—with a much smaller mileage if piston rings are loose—the lubricating qualities of motor oil are destroyed by gasoline that works past the rings and by particles of grit that are drawn in through the carburetor.

So make it a rule to use the proper grade of oil and to renew it with fresh, clean, oil every 500 miles. Consult the Polarine Chart for the grade best suited to your motor. Guard your motor car investment.

Polarine is made in Six Grades—Light, Medium, Heavy, Special Heavy, Extra Heavy—and a special grade for Ford trucks and cars—Polarine "F".

Buy Polarine where you buy Red Crown, the balanced gasoline, or wherever you see the Polarine sign.

We saw it reported that Ford is claiming that if auto tax is taken off, he can easily dispose of thousands more of his cars. Don't do it—it is a busy job now for the foot passenger to dodge 'em all when streets are slippery.

There is no more unfair distribution of inheritance tax proposed than that it shall be made a state law and the states in which the owner holds residence at the time of his death, shall have the tax. Did Henry Ford or John Rockefeller make their wealth in the states in which they reside? No, they have made us all contribute to its accumulation.

Some new ventures in house building are reported in these latter days. The latest is to build that heat once generated in a house cannot escape. Instead of building only to keep rain, snow and wind out, the latest method is to build in to keep the heat in, and thus conserve fuel. If only one could build so as to make one good warming of a house last all winter, how fine it would be—If one could live under such conditions.

One of the really big moves of the great central west was put into going shape at Kansas City last week, when governors and delegates from more than a half dozen states met and organized for the express purpose of demanding of the government ample funds for the making of the great Missouri river bear a part of the "White man's burden" to the water. All too long have the people of this great interior valley paid tribute to the railroads—and often excessive tribute, while the great river was allowed to go uncontrolled, taking a farm here and planting a sandbar in some other place from the material that was once a farm. To be sure, in the past there have been appropriations for control of and making streams navigable, but if one will look carefully for the results of such money, he will find as a rule that it has been used to protect the banks of the streams where the railroads wanted a bridge. Now let's make it count in intelligently directing the stream current so that it will to great extent dig its own channel over which commerce may ride.

NO ONE GOES ON RECORD

Just at this writing, no one has answered our questions as to whether or not Wayne is a high priced town as compared to the neighboring towns and as compared with the cities, for publication. But we heard one woman who had been looking and pricing here, tell of opportunity that came to her to visit the Sioux City stores, and there she looked and priced dresses—and found nothing that appealed to her as better than the hope showing, unless she looked among the $75 to $100 offerings, and that was beyond her means; and this was her verdict: "I decided to come home, buy the goods and make my own dress, because I believe in buying at home."

In addition to this, we were told of a Bloomfield man who usually comes to Wayne for his clothing, because of the favorable price, compared to the home offering at his town.

LET THE FLAG WAVE DAILY IN ALL CEMETERIES

There is a movement to have the flag flown every day in all cemeteries. It is probable that soldier, sailor or marine dead, are buried in nearly every cemetery in the land, but the flag is continuously flown in few except the national ones, maintained by the Federal Government.

It would not cost much, says a correspondent writing from Washington, to equip each cemetery so the flag could fly over it every day in the year—from sunrise to sunset. Moreover, it would be a graceful tribute to the service dead, and a patriotic inspiration to the living. "Probably in most instances, it would only be necessary to bring the matter to the attention of local cemetery managements, and flags and poles would be provided, and the custom of flying the flag in cemeteries become established," says the writer.

As it now is, the flag seldom is seen in a majority of cemeteries except on Memorial Day, and the short time thereafter that the small ones placed on graves can withstand the elements. These soon present a pitiful and bedraggled appearance. They should not be allowed to remain until they become soiled and faded by dust and soaked into the earth by rain, but rather to be gathered in the evening after the ceremonies, and respectfully preserved for use on succeeding memorial days.

This suggestion is a good one for our local cemetery board to consider, and act upon in proper time. So far as we are informed, but one cemetery in Iowa and none in Nebraska have taken this question up and acted thereon. Wayne may be the first in this state, if the local board so will it.

TO RESIST PAYMENT OF ADDITIONAL TAX

Winside, Nebraska, October 27. Walter Gabler and August Bronzynski, executors of the estate of the late Carl Bronzynski, accompanied by Attorney H. E. Siman, will soon go to Washington, D. C., to protest against additional inheritance tax. Before Mr. Bronzynski's death he owned 2,640 acres of Wayne county land, of which he deeded 1,920 acres to his heirs, retaining a life estate in 720 acres and $100,000 worth of personal property. The government contends these deeds were made in contemplation of death and if so a larger tax can be collected. The heirs claim the lands were gifts from their father, to start them in business.

THE "HYMN OF HATE"

That is the title which Joseph P. Tumulty, so long private secretary to the late Woodrow Wilson, gives to the column just published from the writings of Henry Cabot Lodge. Under a New York date, Tumulty makes the following statement regarding the publication:

"The posthumous book of Senator Henry Cabot Lodge of Massachusetts, 'The Senator and the League of Nations,' in which he criticized Woodrow Wilson for his course in the league controversy, was characterized today as 'The final edition of the hymn of hate,' by Joseph P. Tumulty, Mr. Wilson's secretary. Mr. Lodge, in his book, also defended his own course in opposing the league.

"It is a futile effort at self defense," said Mr. Tumulty's statement, "an apology, weakly put forth, a recital without a single handsome feature."

"It is regrettable, indeed, that at the end of his career a distinguished man should have put his great talents to so base a use as attempting, by insinuation and innuendo, to besmirch the reputation of a man who, at a critical hour, single handed and alone, sought to apply to the ills of the world the healing balm of peace."

Woodrow Wilson's place in history will in no wise be affected by this attack, whose only basis is envy, jealousy and personal hatred.

Events at Lincoln and the intervention of the league of nations in the Bulgarian-Grecian affair discredit utterly the whole case of Senator Lodge and his ever-depressing army of isolationists.

INTERESTING LETTER FROM DR. HOUSE

Made Promise to Write to Several Publications When Leaving State.
Writes to Goldenrod First.

Montgomery, West Virginia,
October 3, 1925.

Dear Goldenrod: On leaving the Nebraska prairies and the beloved hill that houses the institution to which I shall ever be loyal, I carried several commissions to write for the press of my home state. The egotism of that remark is only apparent, for it is preliminary to this: The commission most prized and the one first fulfilled (indeed, the only one thus far) is that of my friend, Pres. U. S. Conn, who asked me to write for the Goldenrod, child of my dreams and of troubled memories.

This is a picturesque country. The valley in which Montgomery nestles, of course we must say "nestles"—not to do that would be like violating Lyle Dowling's dictum that all readers should close their programs by quoting from Edgar A. Guest—where was it?—Oh, yes, "the valley in which Montgomery nestles" is very narrow and the hills on either side rise sheer to a height of 1200 feet or more. The natives call them mountains, and perhaps the nomenclature is justified. The town covers less space than Wayne and houses 5000 people or more. The lots are very small and the lawns negligible and neglected. Our domicile is on the side of a hill and to reach it one must climb innumerable steps. There are some beautiful residences but the town is not beautiful, except in its setting.

Last Saturday I took a motor bus ride over some seventy miles of mountain roads to a point about 25 miles from Montgomery as the crow flies. It was a great experience, but so many Wayne people have driven through the Rockies that I will not dwell upon it. However, it was interesting to look down through mountain gorges upon little farms clinging to the flanks of the hills, interesting and a bit saddening to see tumbledown houses and abandoned barns and to realize that this was once a not unprosperous farming country. But the young people have been lured away to the cities and to the omnivorous West. Occasionally there remains a rather fine farm house with fairly impressive fields, pasture and orchard.

Speaking of the young people going West, our Nebraska philosopher, Walter Locke, on the day we placed the monument, confided to me that he was born on a farm among these hills. Naturally, as I passed the farmhouses I would wonder, was it this place or possibly that one that sheltered our David Grayson in his meaty days? and as I looked, I could fancy his return in old age to his native hills, selecting a cabin against the side of the mountain and gazing with comic calm and some humor and pity upon the hurrying migrants in the swarming mining towns below; gazing with a "sunset glory as over a glassed lake", "triumphant over shipwreck and all storms."

By the way, the purpose of the trip was to speak in the morning to a group of white teachers; in the afternoon to negro teachers. The latter seemed to me the more responsive. They sang the entire group, a most wonderful chorus. It sounded like oratorio singing. As never before I was impressed with the musical gift of these people. The subject is discussed in Prof. DuBols's book "The Souls of Black Folks", a volume that is in the Wayne State Library.

To Professor Lewis I wish to confide that, as yet, I have found no trace of religious fundamentalism. The professor of philosophy, a man with a string of degrees, spoke in chapel on the subject and took the side of science without qualification. All the teachers assume evolution and the President and Dean both told me it was not an issue here. Of course, I can conceive of its becoming one, for evolution implies different philosophies to different people.

As to economic and legal fundamentalism, I am not so sure. One man of whom I asked whether the mines in the region were closed shop replied, "They have been closed shop, but we have about broken that up." His tone of voice said, "of course," as if it were axiomatic that all reasonable people were open shop sympathizers.

I have not yet been down into a mine, but I have passed miles of mining villages; cabins all alike, huddled together, some of them in the last stages of delapidation. I learn that some school teachers are getting rich buying stock in the coal companies. There are two reasons why I can't do this. The second is that those villages would haunt my dreams. Yet why should one feel a greater responsibility if he is a stockholder than if he is a mere citizen? Are we not all responsible? By the way, I was surprised to hear a young man, superintendent of schools in a mining town, whose salary is paid largely by taxes on the coal companies, defend the right of free speech with remarkable vigor. He is a graduate of Marshall College and plans to be a lawyer.

What about the school? Write me five years from now and I will tell you. It is in the carlinous stage. For 25 years it was a state-supported preparatory school. It is now a very fine junior college with aspirations to become a full-fledged, degree-granting institution. As there are innumerable high schools all about and everybody goes to college, I see no reason why the dream may not be realized. I was surprised to learn that 90% of the graduates of the high schools come from the families of the miners, and that they are all ambitious to go to college.

If President Martin can carry out his building program, New River, within five years, should be an excellent college and as President Martin's work in the past reveals him as an executive and strategist of a high order, there is much confidence in the future of the school.

This is Saturday, October 3, and I am wondering about the Wayne game with Midland. If we are to have football, let's win the championship this year. Of course we shall miss Moran both now and during the basketball season. But here's hoping, and an old shoe for luck to Markert and his Wildcats! May they always have raw meat!

Seven hundred fifty students the first week (nine hundred fifty with the training school)! My mind is full of exclamation points. Will Kearney please report, including the class in swimming?

Of course we are homesick. We sit on the porch at night and look at the Pole Star and think it is bringing us messages from those we love, or a sunset we see the "sprites" of light above the tops of the hills and think they beckon us to the land of wide skies and limitless prairies that Nebraska has made a part of the spiritual inheritance of America, and to the "poet's town" that lies so peacefully on the bosom of the plain.

With kindest regards,
J. T. HOUSE.

ATTITUDE

Just what is your attitude toward school work? What are you in school for? It is to get a certificate that you may have a pay check coming to each month—or are you here to have a good time and spend Dad's money—or rather, are you in school that you may acquire wisdom and sharpen your natural talents which in turn will be of lasting value to you?

The attitude of an individual toward his work, the school, and his associates has a very vital effect upon the development and the success of his work after college days are over. This attitude is very largely developed. If one allows himself to be interested in the lesser things of life, to be interested only in "getting by", to be drawn away from, rather than into, the really worthwhile things, he soon finds that he differs radically from friends and associates, and in what constitutes the valuable portions. It will soon be saying, "Ah! what's the use" and "that's all bunk" and in this manner allow himself to become disgusted and tired and thus build a barrier between himself and that for which he is attending school. Should you be one who believes that your greatest effort should be directed toward "getting by" you will soon find that to be your attitude toward all things, and as a result spend a life time in "getting by" and never be of real worth. Should you, on the other hand, seek to know all of a subject, should you desire to go to the bottom, that in turn, will be your attitude and it will apply to all you seek to do. It will be of great value after school as well as in school. Too many people have occasional moods for study which are not allowed to carry long enough to become a genuine attitude.

You are asked to concentrate, to think, to reason out answers chiefly that you may get into this habit. The acquiring of this habit is one of the most valuable portions of a college education. Given a keen analytical mind and your success is far less doubtful.

To think that this opportunity is within the reach of almost everyone and to note the indifference with which some treat it, leads one to wonder why some individuals attend an institution of higher learning.

The attitude of a student should be one of keen alertness, always searching for the truth and satisfied with nothing else. He should delve to the bottom that he may know the "Why." It will save in both time and money, and place one in the front ranks. It pays the highest dividends.

PRES. CONN AND PROF. BRITTELL TALK IN CHAPEL

(From the Goldenrod)

President Conn discussed study habits, attitude toward school work, and the general increase in enrollment in our schools and colleges Tuesday morning in chapel.

President Conn stated that the student who followed a regular study program, who was registered for subjects corresponding to his desires and abilities, and who maintained an enquiring and honest attitude toward his work need not fear regarding the completion of his work. Furthermore, he stated, we must put forth effort, and not think of our schools as resorts in which to entertain our friends and amuse ourselves. However, he said, recreation is an important thing in the development of the student, and there should be a time for this as well as a time for work and study.

President Conn thinks there is no real danger confronting the American government because there are more students in our schools and colleges than ever before. The enrollment in the high schools of Nebraska has increased 400 per cent in the last fifteen years. Our colleges have probably increased proportionally. These people trained in citizenship, character, and efficiency will make good citizens and tend to strengthen our society.

The talk was instructive, interesting and appreciated by those in attendance.

Thursday morning during the chapel hour Professor Brittell talked on the worth of a man. The talk was largely the outgrowth of observations made during recent visits to different parts of the country.

On a recent trip over parts of the United States, Professor Brittell found four interesting points of view on "when is a man successful." In moneyed New York the test question was "What is he worth?" From punctilious Boston arose the query:

"What is his training?" Virginia catechised "What of his family?" Out where the west begins challenging a mighty voice: "What can he do?" Which is the real test? They are all necessary. We must save wealth to maintain our present standards of civilization, and culture to appreciate the fine things of life. Family relations are a very important, for we all like to feel that we came from a good ancestry. Finally the big question comes up: "What can he do?" That is the real test of a man's worth. From doing can come all of these others. So let us be up and doing to be worthy of the name "American."

BLUSHING AS AN ART

A Chicago sociologist makes the astounding announcement that blushing requires mentality. Fine! It is indeed encouraging to one afflicted with the habit to know it is an indication of the presence and the functioning of brains.

Although we receive this news so gladly, we still envy a certain heroine of a late novel who uses this art of blushing at moments advantageous to herself, for, she is one of the few immortals who not only has sufficient intelligence to blush but she can also do so beautifully.

Unlike this wonderful heroine most of us are not so lucky. For instance, the boy who sits in front of us had occasion to blush when called upon to recite a part of the lesson he had unquestionably failed to prepare. Now we failed to see the beauty in the performance, neither could we see that such an action required intelligence. What else could the poor fellow do?

If the sociologist is right, perhaps blushing may take its rightful place among the fine arts and then too, we, who lament the flush of red on our cheeks, may be called intelligent.

STATE ATHLETIC CONFERENCE

(From The Goldenrod)

What do you know about the athletics of your school and the schools with which it competes?

Time and again we hear some one speak of the state conference on the conference standings in Nebraska. Chances are we took this without challenge and it meant very little. It may give us more interest if we know some thing as to the standards and who is who in our realm of athletics. Do you know that the athletics of the Wayne State Teachers College is governed by an official organization or association, called the Inter-collegiate Athletic Association of Nebraska?

The object of this association is to regulate and supervise college athletics throughout the state of Nebraska in order that the athletic activities in the colleges of Nebraska may be maintained on an ethical plane, in keeping with the dignity and high purpose of education.

All Universities, Colleges, and State Normal Schools in Nebraska are eligible to membership in this association.

The organization consists of one faculty member from each institution. An annual convention of this association is held at Lincoln the second Saturday of December at 10:30 a. m.

The members enrolled in this association severally agree to take control of student athletic sports as far as may be necessary to maintain in them a high standard of personal honor, eligibility, and fair play, and to remedy whatever abuses may exist.

Just because one is a good athlete does not mean that he may compete in inter-collegiate contests. He must also be a student of good standing. Athletics is often wrongly condemned as having a tendency to go ahead of the educational basis of our schools. No student shall enter any inter-collegiate contests who does not take at least twelve college hours of fifteen normal school hours work up to the passing grade of the institution. This work is to be in only such subjects as are accredited by the North Central Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools, and does not include typewriting, drawing, music, penmanship or other purely drill subjects. Neither shall a student enter any inter-collegiate contest who did not receive during his preceding semester or term, credit in at least 12 college hours or 15 normal school hours.

This all means that one must be a student in full standing, as well as an athlete and must be a student first. Also to be awarded a letter one must earn at least 12 college hours during the term in which he competes.

In the Nebraska conference there are twelve institutions represented and these twelve compete for championship each year in football, basketball, and track. The following are members:

- 1 Grand Island College, at Grand Island.
- 2 Nebraska Central College, at Central City.
- 3 York College, at York.
- 4 Doane College, at Crete.
- 5 Hastings College, at Hastings.
- 6 Cotner College, at Cotner.
- 7 Omaha University, at Omaha.
- 8 Midland College, at Fremont.
- 9 Kearney State Teachers' College, at Kearney.
- 10 Chadron State Normal, at Chadron.
- 11 Peru State Teachers' College, at Peru.
- 12 Wayne State Teachers' College, at Wayne.

When anyone speaks of the State Conference or you read an article in regard to the State Conference, it all refers to the above Association of which our school is a member.

This time of the year, or in the fall the competition is in the way of football. It may be of interest to know the conference standings up to October 23.

THE NEW NATIONAL COMMANDER

In his speech of acceptance of the office of national commander of the Legion John R. McQuigg said: "You will never select a commander who appreciates more the honor than he who now speaks to you. Words cannot express my feelings at this moment. From the bottom of my heart I want to thank you now as one soldier to another for the confidence you have expressed in me. I pledge to you the best service of which I am capable. During the seven years of its existence the American Legion has never known ultimate defeat. One by one we have taken our objectives. For us it must be always onward and onward. During the coming year our efforts must be devoted to rehabilitation, child welfare, the completion of the endowment fund and the increasing of our membership. Without your help the national commander can do little. With your help we can accomplish much. Upon our efforts we implore the blessing of Almighty God."

Protective lubrication means a QUIET MOTOR

A noisy motor that labors on a moderate hill is an advertisement of defective lubrication. Powerful motors are quiet.

Repair men say that seventy to ninety per cent of all bills for automobile repairs are traceable to improper lubrication—that with protective lubrication motors run quietly and have an efficient life, double or treble what most owners expect and get.

The correct grade or body of motor oil to suit the clearances in cylinders, bearings and between moving parts is the first important requirement. The second is equally important—clean oil.

Buy the grade of motor oil recommended on the Polarine Chart, which you can consult at any Red Crown Service Station, and you use the most suitable oil. You run on clean oil when you drain out the old oil after every 500 miles of operation. Following these two simple rules provides protective lubrication—a smooth running, quiet motor and small repair bills.

Polarine is made in Six Grades—Light, Medium, Heavy, Special Heavy, Extra Heavy—and a special grade for Ford cars and trucks only—Polarine "F"

Buy Polarine where you buy Red Crown—the balanced gasoline—or wherever you see the Polarine sign.

NEBRASKA WINS OVER KANSAS
SATURDAY—SCORE 14 TO 0

It was a great game which was fought out at Lincoln, Saturday between the Cornhuskers and their great rivals, the Jayhawkers of the Sunflower state. Here is the brief summary of the game as given in Sunday morning paper at Lincoln: "Held scoreless for the first two quarters by the heavy Kansas team, fighting desperately in a defensive battle, the Cornhuskers came back in the third and fourth quarters and defeated the Jayhawkers in the homecoming game on Memorial stadium field Saturday afternoon, 14 to 0. Below we give pictures and short sketches of some of those who took prominent part as stars in the game:

CECIL MOLZEN
Memphis, Nebr., claims this Cornhusker football player as a native son. Molzen is playing his second year on the Nebraska eleven. Last year he was running mate to Capt. Ed Weir at tackle, but he will probably be used at guard most of this year. Injuries have been bothering him during a part of the early season, but "Red", as his fellow grid-warriors call him, is expected to be a valuable member of the Cornhusker eleven before the close of the season, November 26, when the Huskers meet Notre Dame at Lincoln.

MIKE HANLEY
A brother of Dick Hanley, coach at Haskell Institute, Mike Hanley, will be watched with interest when he appears in Lincoln as a halfback on the University of Washington (Seattle) football team, October 17, the opening home game of the Nebraska gridiron season. Mike is 22 years old and weighs 170 pounds.

HAROLD HUTCHISON
This young man, said to be one of the greatest centers ever produced at the University of Nebraska, is playing his first year in Cornhusker moleskins. Hutchison comes from Lincoln, where he starred on the high school eleven. He weighs 190 pounds, being one of the heaviest men on the squad. "Hutch" has an uncanny ability to sense the direction of the opponents' plays, and he frequently breaks through to break up an attack.

JOE WEIR
A brother of Captain Ed Weir of the Nebraska Cornhuskers, Joe Weir has inherited his brother's instinct for being a fighting football player. Last year Joe starred at a guard, being one of the lightest men ever to hold down that position on a Nebraska eleven. This year he has been transferred to an end, and has been showing up well in that position. Joe is playing his second year. His home is at Superior, Nebr.

ROLAND LOCKE
This is the man who equalled the world's records in the 100 and the 220 yard dashes last spring on the cinder paths. Locke plays halfback on the Nebraska football team, and is said to be the fastest man in football togs in America. Locke comes from North Platte where he starred on the gridiron and the track, as well as being a member of the basketball team. He has won two letters in football, two in track, and one in baseball at the University. He is playing his last year for Nebraska. Locke is a junior in the college of law.

WALTER KRIEMELMEYER
"Ox" is what they call him at the University of Nebraska, and members of the football team believe he is named correctly. "Krim" is a guard on the Cornhusker football team, and holds the distinction of being the biggest man on the squad, weighing in at 230 pounds. "Ox" played football for Nebraska in 1917, and last year returned to again try for a place on the gridiron team. He formerly lived at Cambridge, Nebr., but now calls Yuma, Colo., home.

ARNOLD OEHLRICH
This is the man who is under study to John "Choppy" Rhodes, Nebraska's hard-hitting fullback. Oehlrich comes from Columbus where he starred on the high school eleven. He is a good line plunger, and has been seeing much service in the early season practices. He is playing his first year under Nebraska colors.

LONNIE STINER
He was named Alonzo by his parents, who live at Hastings, Nebr., but to most folks he is plain Lonnie. Stiner is Captain Ed Weir's running mate at tackle on the Cornhusker football team. He is fast on his feet, and favored by football fans to be one of the best tacklers ever to don Husker moleskins. Stiner is playing his first year for Nebraska. He and Weir should make a lot of trouble for opposing teams this season.

GEORGE WILSON
Walter Camp placed George Wilson, University of Washington (Seattle) halfback, on his second all-American team last fall. Wilson weighs 185, and is without doubt the cream of the halfbacks in the Pacific coast football conference. He is recognized as one of the best backfield men to play football in the far west in several years. Wilson will appear in Lincoln, October 17, when the Universities of Washington and Nebraska clash in the first home game on the Nebraska schedule.

CLARENCE RAISCH
This young man who hails from Grand Island, Nebr., is a rival of Walter Kriemelmeyer of Yuma, Colo., for the honor of being the heaviest man on the Cornhusker football squad. Raisch weighs 215 pounds. He plays a guard on the Nebraska eleven, and has been showing up well, his ability to break through opponents' lines being a valuable asset to the Husker eleven.

BUELL McRAE
A guard with better than 180 pounds of beef to back him, and one year of experience under his belt, McRae will give the Nebraska Cornhuskers something to worry about when the Universities of Washington (Seattle) and Nebraska clash in the opening game of the Nebraska gridiron season at Lincoln, October 17. McRae is 23 years old and claims Seaman, Wash., as his home.

FRANK POSPISIL
Here is another member of the University of Nebraska football team who has inclination toward being a policeman. Pospisil served on the Lincoln police force during the summer. Now he is playing a guard on the Cornhusker football eleven. Pospisil comes from Watou, Nebr. He is studying to be an engineer, in which college he is said to be one of the best students enrolled. He is playing his second year in Cornhusker football togs.

GLEN PRESNELL
Presnell is one of the most promising halfback candidates to be graduated from the freshman squad of 1924. Presnell is fast, and is regarded by football followers of the Cornhuskers as one of Bear's few good backfield men. He comes from DeWitt.

ELMER TESREAU
Elmer Tesreau, captain and fullback on the University of Washington (Seattle) football team, which will clash with the Cornhuskers at Lincoln October 17, is one of the most popular athletes ever to appear in a football suit at the Pacific coast school. Tesreau won his spurs two years ago in the game with the Navy at Pasadena. He is a man with a pleasing personality, active in student affairs, and one of the best students in the institution. Capt. Tesreau is 22 years old and tips the scale beams at 187 pounds. He has a brother, Louis, who weighs 195, and is among the leading members of the 1924 Husky freshman team trying out for a regular position on the Washington eleven.

FRANK DAILEY
Frank Dailey is a halfback on the 1925 Cornhusker football team. Dailey tried for a place on last year's team but was not seasoned enough for a regular berth. He has been going great in the practice tilts this year, and may be one of the stars of the Husker camp before the curtain falls on Thanksgiving day in the game with Notre Dame at Lincoln. Dailey, who comes from Alliance, Nebr., was one of Coach Henry F. Schulte's track stars last spring. He runs the hurdles and the relays.

JOHN "CHOPPY" RHODES
The Red Grange of Nebraska—that is what some people call this hard-hitting fullback on the Husker squad. A man with but 172 pounds of beef to his credit, Rhodes makes up for his lack of weight by his fight and ability to hit hard. Opponents say Rhodes is never happy unless he is hitting like a battering ram. "Choppy" is a good punter, a good passer, and a brilliant open field runner, as well as the best line plunger in the Husker camp. Not only is he a football star, however, but he has the distinction of being the outstanding athlete in the Husker camp. He is a star punter on the baseball nine, and in track was runner-up to Emerson Norton for the all-around championship at the Illinois Relays. Rhodes is a broad jumper, a fast vaulter and high jumper, and holds the state high school record in all events. Rhodes lives at Ansley, Nebr. He is a senior in the college of business administration this year.

MANDERY TRIO IN HUSKER CAMP
This Mandery Trio—Roy, left; Tony, center, and Avard, right,—are playing football at the University of Nebraska. Roy was an end on last year's varsity, but now playing tackle, while Avard plays halfback. Tony is on the freshman squad, and will try for a berth on the 1926 varsity. If he is successful in his attempt to land a position, Nebraska football fans may see three brothers on the Cornhusker team next year. The Mandery brothers come from Tedumseh, Nebr. Avard is also a member of the Nebraska track team, on which he is a broad-jumper, dash and relay man. Roy Mandery spent the summer as a member of the Lincoln police force.

JOHN BROWN
This is the man whom Cornhusker gridiron followers expect to develop into one of the bright spots on the Nebraska team this year. Brown is a former Lincoln high school football, baseball and basketball captain, having won a position on the first all-state team as a gridiron and cage athlete. A clever open field runner, probably the best in the Husker camp, a passer and punter of ability, as well as a line plunger, Brown is expected to show up well on the Nebraska football team this year. This is his first year in Cornhusker moleskins, so he will have two more years in which to play. Brown is seen trying a drop kick, at which he is adept.

JOE WESTOUPAL
This is another of the Cornhusker football players who is playing his last year for the University of Nebraska. Joe comes from Westpoint where he starred on the high school eleven. He is a center, a tackle or a guard, and the best utility man on the Husker team. Joe can be put anywhere in the line and be depended upon to make a good showing. He weighs 190 pounds. Guess is where Joe is most likely to be found this year, as Hutchinson is being used at the pivot station.

Norman, Okla.—Two Indians, Bat B. Shunatona and Robert O. Sumter, are fighting for first string positions on the Sooner football team this season.
Shunatona, who is 21 years old and weighs 149 pounds, is a full-blood Indian, half Osage and half Pawnee. He is a candidate for quarterback, and is considered one of the shiftest brokenfield runners acquired by the Sooners in years.

Sumter is a halfblood Choctaw, with four years of high school football at Atoka, Okla., and a year with the Haskell Indian team as center. He is 21 years old, weighs 198 pounds, and is unusually fast for his weight. He played tackle on the freshman squad last year, but has been shifted to center this season.
They will be seen in action against the Nebraska Cornhuskers at Lincoln, October 31.

Norman, Okla.—Coaching his older brother, from whom he learned the tricks that brought him All-American fame on the gridiron, is the unusual experience of Leigh A. Wallace, line coach of the University of Oklahoma squad.
Eleven years ago P. A. Wallace was first string center on the Oklahoma City high school team, and his little brother, Leigh, was his understudy. When the older brother was graduated, Leigh took his place. Later at Ames he won All-American mention for his work in the pivot position.

The elder Wallace enrolled in the University of Oklahoma ten years ago, dropped out a year later, and returned in 1924 to resume his gridiron activities.
Leigh Wallace joined the Sooner coaching staff this fall, and during the long afternoon workouts he devotes considerable attention to the work of his little brother.
The result of the younger Wallace's work as a coach will be seen when the Sooners meet the Nebraska Cornhuskers at Lincoln, October 31.

CONSTRUCTIVE CRITICISM
Editor McCormick of the Wynon Tribune in an interesting editorial of a recent number comments and criticizes the railroads and their recent excursions at excursion rates.

Can They Compete?
(Wynon Tribune)
Can the railroads compete with automobile and buses in carrying passengers in this section of the country? We believe this is possible if the railroad managers will use a little enterprise, together with a few ounces of brain matter.

be appreciably increased. Again, an excursion to Duluth or Chicago, with a return limit from Friday night till Sunday night or Monday morning, is impracticable and unattractive.

It takes from nine to twelve hours on the train each way in day coaches—a most tiresome trip. There is no chance for enjoyment or business on such a short sighted time limit. Low rate excursions with a decent return time limit, together with an appreciable reduction in regular passenger rates would help to fill the empty coaches the railroads are now hauling around the country.

ideas in the above article. It could go further. The M. & O. road badly needs a real publicity man—one that knows that "It pays to advertise"—if it is properly done.

Then it might also be mentioned that the regular reduced rates to the Sioux City fair and to the Legion convention and Ak-Sar-Ben doings at Omaha were not advertised. The M. & O. made no arrangements for the public to get to the State Fair either as to rates or train service.

Another thing, we believe there are a good many boys and girls in small towns who would go to the cities to take music lessons if the rates would allow it—but the present rates are prohibitive.

DAIRY

MOST ECONOMICAL PRODUCER OF FOOD

Although the statement that the dairy cow is the most economical producer of human food of all the different classes of live stock, is a fact, it does not hold true for each individual cow. The one most important factor in profitable milk or cream production is the ability of the individual cow.

South Carolina has just recently started developing its dairy herds, and although we have no available figures on the actual production of all the cows in the state, it is very obvious that the production is much lower than this average for the United States.

First, by keeping records on the cows he now owns, and this does not mean official records, but the actual weighing of the milk each produces at each milking. Totaling this record each month and also keeping a record on the feed each cow consumes in a month, he can in a few months tell which of his cows are the best.

The second way by which the farmer can improve the producing ability of his herd is by buying cows which have already made creditable records proving that they do have this ability to make a profit on feed consumed.

The third way is a combination of the first and the use of a bred-for-production dairy sire on the cows you now own and which are selected from your herd as being the best, judging from the records they have made.

Feed for Calves Where Milk Is Not Available

Where milk is not available for calves, give the following: Take 50 parts finely ground corn, 15 parts linseed oil meal, 15 parts ground rolled oats, 10 parts dried blood flour, 10 parts skim-milk powder, one-half part salt. Stir up with warm water at the rate of one pound of the meal mixture to about six pounds of water.

Better Dairy Practices to Increase Production

By increasing the average production of his cows about one-fourth, and at the same time reducing his production costs one-seventh, Arnold Graue of Jackson county, Minnesota, has increased the profit from his cows, above cost of feed and labor, more than 70 times.

Egg Shipping Business Allied With Creamery

A good many of the cooperative creameries as well as the smaller private creameries are planning on handling the eggs of their patrons. The reason for this is the feeling that the egg-shipping business is closely allied with the creamery business.

Bitter Milk Cause

It is quite common for some cows to give bitter milk for some time before calving, especially if they have been yielding milk for eight months or more. When the trouble starts the milk secretion had better be dried off at once if the cow is within two months of calving.
