ED WRIGHT, FORMER WAYNE CITIZEN DIES OF PARALYSIS

Word comes to Wayne friends from Wessington, South Dakota, of the death of Ed Wright, a citizen of this county for many years from a stroke of paralysis at his home near Wessington, the first of last week, and death came a few days later, and his funeral services were held Sunday, April 29, 1928.

Mr. Wright was one of the early settlers, having a farm a few miles south of the city, which he sold about 20 years ago, and moved to South Dakota, and there made his home until the end came. He was about 70 years of age, and leaves one son, Roy Wright, but he was stricken and passed away at the home of a grandson.

M. S. DAVIES DIES AT WILMINGTON, CALI.

Pioneer Citizen of Wayne Passes Away Following Stroke of Apoplexy at Age of 81.

Morgan S. Davies, pioneer of Wayne and Dixon counties, passed away Friday morning, April 27, 1928, at his home in Wilmington, California, aged almost 81 years, never rallying from a stroke of apoplexy the previous Tuesday. Funeral service was conducted Sunday at 2:30 in Wilmington and burial was made there.

Morgan S. Davies was born May 24, 1847, in southern Wales, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Davies. In 1864 the family came to America and located in Carbondale, Pennsylvania. There Prof. Davies took musical training and was active in organizing choral societies and in giving musical instruction. He came to Cherokee, Iowa, from the east, in the seventies taught music in Sioux City and Ponca. He married Miss Eva Jones in Ponca. The family came to Wayne in 1881, and Mr. Davies continued his music instruction for many years. He was active in instructing groups in the Baptist church also. The family moved to Wilmington, California, about twelve years ago.

Prof. Davies was one of the early settlers who aided much in activities which helped to build Wayne. He was always interested in church work. He was a charter member of the Wayne I. O. O. F. lodge. Besides his wife, deceased leaves one daughter, Mrs. W. S. Goldie of Wilmington, California, and one son Samuel Davies of Washington, and ten grandchildren. He is also survived by two sisters, Mrs. A. A. Welch of Wayne and Mrs. H. E. Harris of Wittler, California, and two brothers, Sam Davies of Wayne, and John Davies of Elk Grove, California.

Mr. Davies was for years one of the active citizens in many enterprises for the upbuilding of our city, and he was also one of the pillars of the Baptist church of this city.

ALVIN E. BAUMAN BURNED TO DEATH

Last week we learned of the accidental death of a little lad not three years of age, the grandson of Mr. and Mrs. S. H. Richards, but at that time could not learn the name of the child. Mr. and Mrs. Richards were home Wednesday, and he tells that it is the little son of their daughter and husband, Mr. and Mrs. W. Bauman near Martinsberg. The father had been raking stalks for burning, and the little fellow had been in the field with him. But when he commenced to burn stalks and also hitched the team to the plow he told the child to go to the house, and supposed he had gone. But either while on the way to the edge of the field, or stopping to play, he fell into the winrow of burning stalks. A little brother with him tried to pull him from the fire, but was not strong enough to do so, and before the father could reach him the clothing was nearly burned from him. He at once started to take the child to a hospital at Sioux City, but he lived only until they were part way.

The funeral service was held the next day and burial was in the home cemetery.

Legionnaires Extend Invitation For Aid In Beautifying Pioneer Burial Ground

Permanent Fence to be Erected. Ground Cleared and Graves Identified, on Mother's Day.

WORK WAS STARTED LAST YEAR

Mother's Day, Sunday May 13, has been selected as the time for the annual clean-up day for the La Porte cemetery by the local Legionnaires, at which time a steel fence furnished by the county will be erected, and other work attended to.

All citizens interested in the preservation of this pioneer burial ground are invited to join the World War veterans in the work and their presence on that day or at any other time will be greatly appreciated.

Want Information. Many of the graves are without identification, and pioneers who might be able to aid in the solution of this problem should be present and offer their assistance.

The Legion is anxious to have all the graves identified, and hope at some future time to have them permanently marked, which could be temporarily effected at this time.

Anyone who can offer aid in the work of cleaning-up the ground or identifying the graves are especially urged to be present on Mother's Day and are assured that such services will be greatly appreciated by the members of the Legion post.

Can See Officers. Anyone desiring additional information regarding the matter can get it from Wm. Kieper, commander of the post, H. A. Welch post adjutant, or any of the members.

County Gives Fence

The steel fence to be erected is being given by the county of Wayne, and is to be well put up, that it might protect the ground for many years.

It is thought that when the cemetery is put in good condition the work of keeping it thus will be made easy, and it is the hope of the Legion post that the county's pioneers will not be entirely forgotten.

CONTRACT IS LET FOR NEW THEATRE

Wayne to Have New Modern Fireproof Theatre of About 600 Capacity By Fall.

E. E. Galley let a contract Tuesday for a new theatre building of about six hundred capacity, construction of which will begin at once on the ground vacated by the Union hotel.

The new building will be about fifty by 130 feet, and will contain two rentals 17 by 25 feet with a front on Main street in each corner of the structure.

J. H. Foster, local contractor, was awarded the contract, and will have charge of the building of the Spanish Type theatre, which will greatly improve the appearance of Main street.

A large stage 18 by 38 feet will be included. All seating capacity will be utilized with a loft and flag gallery besides the main floor.

Work on the erection of the modern structure will begin at once, and it is believed that it will be completed during the summer.

Mr. Galley has made a careful study of theatres in other cities, and hopes to give Wayne one that will be appreciated by the patrons and public in general.

FORMER CARROLL PASTOR BUSINESS VISITOR HERE

D. T. Davies, of Early Ville, New York who occupied the Presbyterian pastorate at Carroll for twelve years, leaving there ten years ago, was a Wayne business visitor the first of the week.

Rev. Davies reports that Eastern farmers are not prosperous, and that farms can be bought for the cost of improvements. Many farms are idle, he said, and renters cannot be gotten to occupy them, as that industry has not paid well.

Business seems prosperous in the east he intimated, and people are crowding the industrial centers.

DOCTORS OCCUPY AHERN BUILDING

Three Physicians, Osteopath and Dentist Move Into New Quarters This Week.

Five of the new modern suites on the second floor of the new Aherm building are now occupied by Wayne doctors and dentists, who are very well pleased with their new homes.

Dr. Lutgen, who has had his down town office in this building for a number of years occupies the same quarters which have been completely modernized.

Dr. C. T. Ingham, has a suite of rooms giving him a very comfortable location and intimated that he is well pleased with his new home.

Dr. Siman will also have one of the suites, but had not completed the moving of equipment, he hopes to be established in the new rooms this week.

Dr. Jamieson, osteopath, who has had his office over the Larson store during the past year, is comfortably located in a two room suite in the new building.

Dr. Young, dentist who has officed over the Hiscox building also occupies a well arranged five room suite, which was planned according to modern dental needs, with an idea of convenience and cleanliness.

The quarters all give the impression of comfort and convenience, and all occupants seem happy in their new homes.

COUNCIL MEETING TUESDAY

At the meeting of the new council at the city hall Tuesday, May 1, four pool hall licenses were granted, to J. H. Rehder, to Wm. Dammeyer, to F. B. Rockwell and to Joe Meister.

The three first mentioned are to continue in the business at their old locations, and the new one to Joe Meister to operate in the Meister building now used as the Gem Cafe.

WAYNE TRACK TEAM 'TROUNCES MIDLAND

Hickman's Wildcats Take Measure of Midland by Big Margin in Dual Meet Friday.

STRONG IN RUNNING EVENTS

The Wayne college athletes overwhelmed the Midland opposition in the dual meet here last Friday, making a sweep of three events and collecting all firsts but one and a majority of the second places to pile up a total of 109 and five-sixths to 25 and one-sixth points for the Fremonters.

Although Wayne won every event but the javelin throw, their best exhibition was on the cinder paths, and hope is entertained for the track teams to cop a number of honors before the end of the season.

Farrow and Ray fought a close dual for high point honors that was not decided until the final event of the day in the discus throw. The former placed first and the latter second in this event, giving them 19 and 18 and one-half points respectively.

At Dakota Relays

Accompanied by their mentor the track team will leave for the Dakota relays held at Sioux Falls tomorrow and Saturday. These events will be a real test for the local talent as competition is always very hard in this annual contest.

Season's Feature

The feature of the season will be the Tri-state meet held here on May 11, when schools from Iowa, Dakota and Nebraska will compete for honors.

This event has grown out of the annual invitation meet with Yankton and promises to be a real treat for local fans, this year.

Track Good

The track and field are in the best of condition, much work having been put on them this spring to remedy a number of needed changes. The track is smooth and firm and offers plenty of chance for good records being made.

The jumping pit is in first class order and is filled with sand and sawdust.

Engineer Gus Wendt stopped off here Tuesday to visit his parents, and his little son.

2,410 WAYNE RESIDENTS ACCORDING TO CENSUS

According to the census taken by the Kiwanis club during the past few days there are now 2,410 people making their permanent home in Wayne.

A committee of Don Cunningham, James Brittain and H. A. Welch had charge of the campaign, each of these three being responsible for a district. Each district was divided up and a portion assigned to various members of the club.

It is reported that the census was carefully taken, and it is believed to be very nearly correct.

This gives Wayne a growth of 295 since 1920, when the last census was taken, which is considered a very good gain for a small city.

COLLEGE FACULTY CHANGE EFFECTED

Leon Beery, Walter Orr and R. D. Nelson Resign From Faculty Positions Here.

Professor Leon F. Beery, who has been on leave of absence during the past year doing music supervising in the New York schools and studying at Columbia University, has resigned his position in the State Teachers college at Wayne, and has definitely decided to continue with his work in New York City next year.

Dr. Conn returned Tuesday from a trip to Minneapolis. While there he had personal interviews with several applicants for positions here.

Orr Resigns

Professor Walter T. Orr has resigned from his position in the department of education as it is his desire to locate in Indiana, near his home at Greenfield.

The vacancy has been filled by the election of Mr. G. W. Costerisan of Milton, Wisconsin. Mr. Costerisan is a graduate of the La Crosse State Teachers College, holds the bachelor and master of arts degrees from the Wisconsin University.

Professor A. V. Teed spoke at two sessions of the Cherry County Teachers meeting Friday and Saturday, April 27 and 28.

Hon. Walter H. Head, of Omaha will give the college commencement address.

KIWANIANS INDOBSED WORK OF N.E.B. CHILDREN HOME SOCIETY

Last week after listening to a talk by Frank D. Winship, district superintendent of the above home finding society, the members of the Kiwanis club passed a resolution of endorsement and approval of the efforts to raise funds for the support of the work.

Mr. Winship wishes the cooperation of the various organizations in each community, so that the expense of a personal solicitation, by a paid representative of the society, will be, to a larger extent, eliminated.

The society will, in the near future, send thru the mail their appeal for the help of this work for the present year.

The work is confined to care of Nebraska people, and is certainly worthy of the hearty support of all, as each is able.

Signet, C. M. Craven, Pres.

They were clipped before shipment, so Mr. Wright has the wool as well as the price for the mutton.

STRAW STACK FIRE CALLS CITY FIREMEN

Sunday about noon fire started in a stack of straw on the L. M. Owen farm southwest of Wayne, and because of the high wind and the very dry weather, L. M. thought it better to be safe than sorry, and so the city firemen were invited to send a truck and men out for help in case of emergency. But the wind did not carry direct toward the farm buildings, and there was no need of the truck being used.

With the straw pile went one feed bunk, and Mr. Owen figures his loss at $100 with no insurance.

Harry McMillan, who is farming the place was or had been burning hogs, and it is that that the stack was fired by wind carrying from this fire.

Both Owen and McMillan ask that we express their appreciation of the help volunteered by neighbors from near and far in keeping the fire from the buildings.

We are told that Mr. Owen made a contribution to the firemen to show his appreciation of their coming to his of a rescue party if needed.

WILL RECOMMEND WAYNE AS ACCREDITED T. B. COUNTY

This week the final reports of the tuberculosis test of Wayne county will be forwarded from here with the recommendation of those who have had charge of the work that the county be admitted as an accredited county. Dr. Purdy tells us that they will have to make retests in but four precincts Chapin, Brenna, Logan and Deer Creek. The answer to the request for an accredited county will be reported soon.

A Butte genius by the name of Ole Huseby has built a little windmill with which he charges his batteries for car or radio—and not only his own, but for neighbors as well. He is adding to his plant, and increasing its usefulness to himself and family. Just now he is adding equipment with which to light his chicken house. Well, if the farmers and citizens generally could and would use the power the wind will furnish, Nebraska would need very little of any other power. Look at what was wasted Saturday because we have no way to gather and corral and store this power until needed.

Building projects either under construction or planned for 1923 total approximately $12,000,000 in value. They include a 325-room hotel, two bus depots, remodeling of the union station, two office buildings, truck terminal, livestock coliseum, apartment houses and homes by the hundreds.

August Wittler went to Sioux City Friday morning to be with Mrs. W. who is at the Methodist Hospital at that place, and where she was to undergo a major operation next day for some stomach trouble. Her sister, Mrs. Louise Brune accompanied Mr. Wittler to be with her sister for a while.

Russell Bartels, one of the Lyons teachers, was home for the week-end with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Bartels. Several of the teachers within a hundred miles of Wayne are coming home more frequently than in some other times, and the reason some of them give is that in addition to being with home folks, they find it a matter of economy, the new round trip rate making it cost less than board and room over week-end.

Gus Hanson came home last week Thursday from Long Beach, California, where he spent the winter month basking in the sunshine of that near tropical land. Gus was complaining Sunday—perhaps because he came in time to meet a bit of winter weather, but that was not what he said. He found the old Union Hotel gone, and with it had disappeared what had been his Wayne head quarters for a season or two. Gus said that Wayne lacked entertainment for lonely bachelors like himself, no amusements for Sundays and some other days of the week. Hoping to cheer him a bit, and at the same time gently remind him that he had perhaps been missing opportunities for providing a partner of his joys and sorrows, and that if he was lonely and seemed forsaken because the old hotel had gone, and the genial companions and friends he had passed evenings and Sundays with there were temporarily scattered, there still might be hope for him, and perhaps some other one who may be as lonely and disconsolate as our friend appeared to be. Of course, if the idea suggested does not appeal just right, Gus has John Morgan and several other good fishermen just waiting a few days for fishing to open, when they will be glad of his company along the banks of the Logan while they try for fresh fish for dinner. Then there is his firm friend, Jens Anderson who will never desert him. We hope that Mr. Hanson will find good company and plenty of amusement for the summer.

MISS PEARSON WRITES

Miss Alice L. Pearson, class of 1919, who has been teaching English in the high school at Stambaugh, Michigan, during the second semester, has been re-elected for next year.

She writes concerning that region: "Stambaugh is in the heart of an iron-mining district. Iron River, Ironwood and Iron Mountain are three towns within a radius of fifty miles or so. Iron River is like Wayne in size, perhaps a little larger. It is only a mile from Stambaugh's main street to that of Iron River. We go there to do our shopping for Stambaugh's stores are not much though the residences are nicer, on the whole that those in Iron River.

"Many nationalities are represented in our school—Italians, Finns, Poles, Swedes, French, Bohemians, etc. The names, Boles Adasiewicz, Malcolm Antonelli, Tyne Ketola, Bruno Pegalatto, Eno Conta, do not seem so strange to me now. Stambaugh High has an enrollment of 315 pupils. There are about eighty teachers in the system, several schools are in outlying districts. The pupils seem very well-behaved. Disciplinary problems are not serious, pupils seem more appreciative of the "privilege of attending school." The mental ability or capacity is average; I have not discovered any "sharks" yet, though of course we do have some all "A" students."

DO DREAMS COME TRUE (Cedar County News)

It depends on whether you dream hard enough and long enough. And even then they may not come true in time for the dreamer to enjoy even the satisfaction of knowing that they have come true, but they may be realized long after the dreamer has gone to the Land of Eternal Dreams.

Nearly a half century ago a dreamer named Pierce located at Yankton, and, representing a group of English capitalists, dreamed of a big city on the banks of the Missouri and a railroad south to connect with Omaha and Denver. They spent a large sum in erecting the then finest hotel in the little city, and another fortune in securing right of way and grading for the proposed railroad.

Then the dreamers awoke to find their money exhausted.

But another generation of dreamers completed a bridge across the Missouri at a cost of $1,300,000 and now a third group are planning to continue where the first group left off and construct that railroad.

If dreams are worth while keep on dreaming them. If you do not make them come true someone else may do so after you have discarded them as visionary.

It seems to be impossible to tire of hearing experts tell of the marvels of industry. The story told by Dr. H. E. Howe before several Lincoln engineering groups was one replete with wonders. The speed with which things are manufactured and the quantity in which things are produced. The manner in which scientific wonders are developed for commercial usage is also amazing. At the rate at which new things are being developed it will not be surprising if the world is revolutionized in the next two or three decades, as it has been revolutionized in the past quarter of a century. State Journal.

Perhaps the wonderful progress will enable the American manufacturer to meet foreign competition at home as well as abroad without the aid of a protective tariff.

NEBRASKA UNIVERSITY BABIES

Babies are the most important crop in Nebraska and many babies brought into the world under the auspices of the University of Nebraska hospital at Omaha. At regular intervals the mothers bring the babies back to the hospital in order that the doctors may check up on their development.

During the past year 3,000 patients from all parts of the state received free treatment at the hospital, while 5,000 more came in from day to day to receive treatment at the out-patient department. Marvellous cures have been made, giving the institution a reputation far beyond the confines of the state itself. One hundred leading physicians and surgeons give their time free of charge to the hospital in handling difficult cases and in aiding the regular staff.

Each county in the state is entitled to have a certain number of patients in accordance with its population. The requirement for admission is that patient must be too poor to pay for regular treatment. In order that as much good may be accomplished as possible with the available funds, patients are expected to pay a small charge for board and room, but many of them are too poor to do that. Were it not for this hospital many patients would simply have to be left to die or become county charges.

There has been a long waiting list in the past but a new wing, recently completed, will double the capacity of the hospital. There will be a special department for mental diseases in the treatment of which much progress has been made within recent years. Putting the new wing wholly to use only awaits an appropriation for operating expenses.

"The tariff protects our industries, our workers and our farmers from destructive competition of low waged countries. It must not be made a political football. It is a serious and technical subject demanding expert specialized knowledge of conditions in this and other countries."—Emerson Press.

The tariff "protects" our industries and raises the prices on nearly everything we in the middle west buy, but it is not so constructed as to protect agriculture as to "expert specialized knowledge"—its all that and then some. When the steel trust wanted the tariff raised, the president on recommendation of his expert commission ordered the tariff raised. When the Iowa congressional delegation asked the president to boost the tariff on corn to shut out the Argentine corn and benefit the farmer, well, the president or his experts went to sleep. In New England, over which our president keeps a fatherly eye, they don't want any aid given to agriculture, for fear it will raise the price of the farm products they must buy. (The Boston Chamber of Commerce thanked Senator Walsh of Massachusetts for voting against the Haugen bill giving that as a reason)—food products would raise in price. The law provides that the "experts" shall be taken from both great political parties, but the president selected "sugar-coated" high tariff democrats to represent the minority party.—Pender Times.

WAYNE MARKET REPORTS

Following are the market prices quoted us up to the time of going to press Thursday:

Table with market prices for Corn, Oats, Eggs, Butter Fat, Beans, Springs, Hogs.

And Tuesday was the hottest May one of record. And only a week before the coldest April 28 of record. Mighty changes—is it to be wondered that some people contract a cold or a fever?

The California primary has been the means of adding to the Hoover delegation to be at Kansas City more votes; and his friends are busy making the most of the delegates captured in the home state.

Some busy people are using the mails to organize a "Federation of Justice". We wonder how many that will please, for there are so many who do not want justice—in fact, could not live if they had justice. But let's wait and see how it goes.

According to the latest returns from California, candidate Smith has captured the twenty-six delegates from California to the next democratic national convention. The fellows who make estimates and count the chickens as they are hatching, or are perhaps going to hatch, say the California delegation assures Smith 484 delegates on the first ballot. They also see a democratic victory—and we suppose they are looking straight thru.

The report is denied that the pheasants are eating the road gravel along the highways; but that they are busy keeping the highways puncture proof. Friends of the writer almost ran a fine specimen of the male pheasant down, and were glad in deed that they had stopped their car before injuring the bird, that would not fly from before the approaching car, when they saw that the bird was just gathering up the last of pound of nails that had been spilled on the roadway.

Congressman Howard in his letter from Washington tells that the flu is making much trouble, with many deaths and much sickness among the members of congress. He then adds that Dr. Copeland a physician of fame and great knowledge, has said that there is need of better ventilation in the house and senate chambers. And one would think that there would need be, from the stench that has been going up from Washington the past few years. The man in the moon has to hold his nose when going over the Capital.

The sudden death of Congressman Madden of the 1st congressional district of Illinois has made necessary the naming of a candidate to fill his place on the ticket. One to be named by the committee; and they have met and placed a negro on the ticket to fill the place of the venerable congressman. Colored people are in a great majority in that district, which comprises a part of Chicago. Yet the report comes that the colored people are not pleased. They not only wanted a colored man for congress, but they wanted to select the man, rather than they have the white political bosses say who shall be the candidate. Some people, white or colored are not easily pleased.

The Power Trust is accused of being the power behind the throne that is checking the proposed and proper plan of averting flood damages in lower river countries by a system of retaining reservoirs near the head waters of our many great rivers. Why? Because such reservoirs would interfere with their plans to use these waters in the future to rob the people for the power they hope to control and the need of the people which can be met in no other manner nearly so well. Many people have their opinion of a concern that looks only to their own good, regardless of the public welfare, in grabbing that which belongs to the people and keeping it for their own use.

The farmers should have a friend and booster for farm relief in the person of Wm. Jardine, secretary of agriculture, if the report is true that the farm near Gregory, South Dakota, is losing him money, and that is what the farm neighbors and members of the farm union of the vicinity in which our farmer secretary farms, by proxy. A committee of the Union has made out a detailed statement of the cost of running the farm, following the established form for finding the costs and production of the farm, and it shows that the farm of the secretary of agriculture produced $6,000 worth of marketable stuff, and that the interest, tax, seed and upkeep for the year totaled $7,117, requiring the secretary to dig into his salary from Uncle Sam to the tune of $1,117—which is quite a sacrifice for the secretary to make. But suppose that he did not have the government job, and had to go to the loan agent to make up the deficit? We say that would be mighty tough—and that is the fix of many farmers, and certainly the secretary of agriculture should ask the government for a fair shake for the farmers, for he well knows the condition of the real farmer.

H. A. McCormick, sr., editor of the Wymot Tribune and veteran democratic warhorse, was named chairman of the democratic county central committee at the biennial county convention held at the courthouse this morning. Mr. McCormick was not present at the convention being detained to issue his paper and also to celebrate his birthday, says the Cedar County News.

MADISON COUNTY FARM

AGENT TALKS TO KIWANIS

Cal Stewart, extension agent for Madison county, addressed the Kiwanis club at their regular meeting Monday telling of the work being carried on by this body.

They do not try to tell the farmer how to farm, he said, as is often believed. They encourage and instruct in the business matters of farm operation.

By aiding the farmer in keeping a careful record of the various farm activities they have been able to increase profit by eliminating non-profit branches and increasing the interest showing a margin of gain, he intimated.

They try to help the farmer learn where he is making money, and on what efforts he may be losing.

She: Is he very bashful?
Second Ditto: When he took me on the roller coaster he told me to hold tight to the bar or I'll fall out.

NELSON SPEAKS ON CHINESE RELATIONS

Long Residence Permits Authoritative Statements and Interesting Information.

(From the Goldenrod.)
Professor Nelson was speaker for the evening at the meeting of the University Women's Association Wednesday, April 18. Mr. Nelson's topic was: "Problems of the Pacific Basin."
Mr. Nelson, who lived for six years in the Orient, four of them in China, is very well informed and a good authority on this subject.

The following is a brief summary of his lecture, which dealt with:

Our Relations with China
In discussing our relations with China Mr. Nelson dwelt mainly on political points of prominence although he said he was tempted to dwell on other matters, such as the superiority complex of foreign residents there, offensive displays of assumed social superiority, etc.

The first point discussed was the right of extraterritoriality held by foreigners in China. In explaining this right Professor Nelson said, "During my four years residence in China, I was not subject to Chinese government, Chinese law, Chinese courts or Chinese policemen."

If a foreigner has a dispute it is settled by his own consul or his consul represents his interest if heard in another court.

The Chinese authorities cannot arrest a foreign wrongdoer but only protest to the consul; they cannot search a foreign residence, business, school, church, etc. so great is the foreign power. Foreigners are free from all tax but customs duties.

These rights were gained through complaints of foreign business to their own government concerning unbearable, unreasonable, peculiar laws of the Chinese.

At present the Chinese argue: the rights infringe on Chinese sovereignty, give foreign business advantages, and protect foreign wrong-doing.

The foreigners argue: that it is impossible to subject themselves to law; the modern courts are not efficient enough to meet the needs; the modern Codes treat the accused guilty until proven innocent; that until militarism is abolished, and a strong independent judiciary is established justice for either Chinese or the foreigners is impossible.

Extraterritorial jurisdiction is personal, genetic, tribal, and cumbersome.

The rights have led to foreign postal systems and the establishing of military garrisons to protect these rights. The freedom from restriction makes graft, smuggling and bribery easy for foreigners.

Mr. Nelson's second point in connection with China was the foreign tariff control. This grew up out of the same conditions as did extraterritoriality.

Briefly stated—China's customs service is regulated by treaties with foreign powers. She is allowed to charge only a very low import tax. She must tax exports, a fact which hurts developing foreign commerce. The administration of the customs service is in foreign hands supposedly representing Chinese interests.

The third point was "The Concessions and Settlements". Concessions are perpetual leases of land to foreign governments. "Settlements" are areas set aside in which foreigners may acquire real estate from the native owners. Britain holds most of the concessions at present, but she offers them to other nations.

The concessions in actual practice are not only havens of law and order, and havens for Chinese political refugees, but also for certain types of law-violators, fomenters of agitation, political disturbers, etc.

Shanghai is a good example. She acknowledges the authority of neither China nor any foreign power; her municipal council is not under Consular Control. Yet her foreign citizens are registered subjects of their respective governments, and they do not hesitate to ask assistance. And her native citizens, who form the bulk of the population and pay much of her taxes, have no voice at all in her government, although they are subject to her laws.

Other rights given foreign countries in China are leasing of territory for a definite term of years and spheres of interest and influence where countries have rights of mining, building railroads, and other economic privileges.

With all the foregoing, must be lumped the forced treaties for protection of Christian missions and of Christian Chinese individuals and institutions. This forced tolerance of missions has made missions appear to the Chinese mind like an opening wedge for political and economic imperialism in China.

The powers are now recognizing the greater advantages of cooperation in China over competition, and so they are abolishing their claims to "spheres of interest" and "spheres of influence."

Foreign Domine, the Nordic superiority complex and treatment of the Chinese as inferiors make social adjustments hard in China.

The "Chinese Recorder," official organ of the Presbyterian Missions in China, published an article by a Chinese, saying, "As long as the Chinese worker has to make his call at the side door, instead of the front door, of the missionary home the course of Christ will proceed haltingly in China."

A FUNDAMENTALIST KEYNOTE (Chicago Journal)

"No better selection than Senator Fess, otherwise Dr. Fess of Yellow Springs, Ohio, could have been made by the ruling element in the republican party to sound the keynote in the national convention. Dr. Fess is a G. O. P. fundamentalist. His political Book of Genesis is made up of republican platforms from 1860 to 1924. Therein the earth is flat and "the sun do move." Anyone who holds a different belief is an evolutionist or a revolutionist. If he fall below either of these estates, he joins the democratic party or becomes a contributor to Senator Borah's "Shame" fund. If Dr. Fess could be induced to accept any symbolism whatever in his version of Creation it would only be to admit that the serpent in Eden was a disguised democrat.

The G. O. P. keynoter still believes that the high protective tariff is a heaven-sent boon to give employment to everyone and bathe the farmer in the sunshine of prosperity. These things he can prove by the use of his own figures and the inexorable logic of the Yellow Springs school of economics. By the same methods he can show that anything tending to discredit the republican party isn't so, or is fearfully exaggerated.

If at this point the keynote speech seems to squeak it will probably be due to a lack of lubrication. Quite likely the good Dr. Fess has never heard anything about oil, and if he has he may have forgotten it. When a man is voicing the high aspirations and noble endeavors of a great party bent on saving the nation—or what the Oil Crowd and the Ohio Gang have left it—he can not be expected to remember everything.

The party having saved the nation, the duty now devolves upon Dr. Fess to save the party. Nothing is more certain—or it must seem so to Dr. Fess—than the abysmal fact that if the republican party is put out of power the earth will again become without form and void and darkness will be upon the face of the deep. No such calamity can befall if Calvin Coolidge be drafted for a third term—a "second term," according to Yellow Springs arithmetic. Suppose it did humiliate and tend to discredit the president, was not Dr. Fess himself drafted into the Willis ranks?

While the party trembles with apprehension, Dr. Fess is brave. Mr. Hughes, when he "ducked" the role of keynoter, showed discretion, but Dr. Fess, in accepting it, displayed valor. And why should he not be brave? Hasn't he got behind him William M. Butler, Charles D. Hilles and that foremost of all Coolidge champions, "Big Bill" of the pineapple belt? But no one need fear that Dr. Fess will throw any political pineapples. He will send out no S O S call, lest it be interpreted by the unthinking as Sinclair Oil Scandal. He will content himself by showing that the republican party was a necessary creation to redeem a sinful world after everything else had been tried following the Fall of Man. But on that part of the record of the republican party which has kept the federal courts busy for so many years, he may be trusted to follow the administration policy of myopia and silence.

THE BANK GUARANTEE LAW

Nebraska's bank guarantee law has been worth millions of dollars to the people of the state. There have been bank failures since it was enacted, but these failures have been followed by no runs on the other banks, resulting in the closing of large numbers of them, as has been the case in Iowa. In that state entire counties have been left without a bank.

The bank guarantee fund created by law and raised through an assessment on state banks, is nevertheless in bad shape. The failures have made a heavy drain upon it, and the banks that have survived have been sorely pressed.

There have been numerous methods suggested as a means of relieving the situation. One organization has for its object an amendment to the constitution authorizing a special state levy upon all the property in the state as a means of raising funds to replenish the fund. This might be all right, but in all probability the people, to whom the proposition would have to be submitted, would never approve it.

The most practical means of meeting the situation, it appears to us, is one suggested by C. M. Skiles, attorney for the guarantee fund commission. He would make the certificates issued by the commission non-interest bearing. They now draw 7%. He would also have one per cent of the interest paid by banks, on certificates of deposits go into the state guarantee fund to help clean up the amount due depositors in failed banks. This would operate somewhat similar to the gas tax.

The legislature, through the passage of the intangible tax law, has been very generous in the past with persons who have surplus money, and these are the ones who are benefitted most by the guarantee law. It would seem but equitable that they should now extend aid in clearing up the situation, rather than try and levy a tax upon all property for that special purpose.—Seward Independent.

The reason some folks are absent minded may be because they were raised on a vacuum bottle.

Daddy's Evening Fairy Tale

BY MARY GRAHAM BONNER

MEAN IVY AGAIN

"You have never been able to do anything to us," said Peter Gnome, to a member of the Poison Ivy family, "because we belong to the Fairyland people."

Before the Season Begins.

"But we don't like you because you're mean to people, and we don't like things which are mean even if they aren't mean to us."

"That seems strange," said the Poison Ivy.

"Of course it does to you," said Peter Gnome, "for you are too mean to understand the reason why."

"Because we like people and children and because we like nice plants and leaves which are pretty and which don't do anything that is unkind."

"So, in plenty of time before the season begins we want to ask every one we can go to the big books and see from pictures just what the three leaves of the Poison Ivy family look like, so they will not suffer because of you."

"You're an enemy," said the Poison Ivy.

"Yes," agreed Peter Gnome, "an enemy of the Poison Ivy family, but a friend to others."

"It seems strange," the Poison Ivy said, again. "It seems very strange. Why be so nice to people? People aren't always so nice."

"They grumble and complain and often do mean things themselves."

"That's no excuse," said Peter Gnome. "Have you ever heard of the old saying that two wrongs never make a right?"

"Never," said Poison Ivy. "If I had heard it I wouldn't pay any attention to it."

"Besides," said Peter Gnome, "lots of the people who are hurt by you are nice, gentle, kind people who never did any wrong at all, people who never did anything mean."

"Last year I saw you give poison to one of the nicest little girls I ever saw. They had only done kind things to others all their lives."

"And you made them suffer a great deal."

"But the poison ivy didn't pay any attention at all to that. He didn't care if he was mean to the nicest people."

"In fact he liked to be mean. It was one of his pleasures in life as it was of the rest of the members of his family."

So Peter Gnome went around warning every one of the ways of the poison ivy family, telling them what the family looked like, how to recognize the family and stay away from them.

And, if you have not received Peter Gnome's message, he has asked me, through the Breeze Brother messengers, to tell you this.

The Laziest Man

Many years ago there was held in Algiers a competition as to who was the laziest man. The prize was a rich one, and practically all the population entered, for they were experts at doing nothing. So, from the first, it was hard to judge between one competitor and another. But by many ingenious tests the field was finally narrowed down to Henri and Jean, than whom two lazier men had never been known before. But how to choose between them?

Long and anxiously did the judges consult together, and at last hit upon a plan. After starving the candidates for some days, they led them beneath the branches of a grove of fig trees, pendant with luscious fruit. The rivals, though ravenously hungry, yawned languidly and stretched themselves on the ground to rest. But when a few hours had elapsed, Henri could withstand the temptation no longer, and, reaching out his hand, gathered and ate one of the fruits fallen near him.

"That settles it," whispered one judge. "Let us give the prize to the other."

"Let us rather wait awhile," replied his colleague. "The other competitor may have the energy to eat two figs."

Just then a ripe fruit fell plump on Jean's cheek and remained there. For half an hour he took no notice of it. Then, lazily turning his eyes toward the judges, he said: "This fig makes me tired. Have the goodness to put it in my mouth."

He won the prize.

Grateful for Friend for Deserved Rebuke

James Stillman, who for several years was one of the Titans of Wall street, sat in his office one day talking with a business man who had called, when it developed that some error had been made in Stillman's bank. An official was summoned and Stillman, without moving or raising his quiet voice, berated the offender in terms so harsh, with an irony so coldly insulting, and concluded in such a savage intensity of speech, that the unfortunate man trembled and beads of perspiration stood out upon his forehead. When the culprit had been dismissed, the horrified visitor spoke:

"Stillman, I never in all my life heard anything so outrageous! That man holds an important position in the bank and you have insulted him before a stranger. Why—I shouldn't be surprised if he put a knife into you! A man has no right to treat another so, nor to let himself go like that. The most charitable thing I can think is that you are on the verge of a nervous breakdown and that you have no business to be in your office!"

Stillman heard this outburst in a white silence, his powerful face a very mask of rage. The visitor waited a few moments, then picked up his hat and went out.

Sometime later the visitor received a card inviting him to a function at the Stillman home. He and his wife attended and received a gracious welcome. To the wife Stillman said:

"Tell your husband from me—won't you?—that owing to something he said to me, I am just back from the best holiday I ever had."—Anna Robeson Burr, in World's Work.

Odd Power of South American Vampire Bat

In his story of his explorations in South America, Dr. William McGovern has something to tell us about the dreaded vampire bat.

Bats are not believed to possess any saliva which could act as a local anesthetic; and yet it is a fact that they can insert their long teeth and suck out the blood of their victims without awakening them. Not a single case is known in which a sleeper has awakened while the vampires were at their work. It is also very curious that the bats never attack a person who is awake, however silent and motionless he may be.

He writes interestingly of the Amazonian medicine men.

The Indian medicine men are no doubt charlatans in many respects, but many of them are certainly possessed of really remarkable powers. They appear to know a great deal more than most Europeans about massage, and they are unquestionably acquainted with the nature and use of many strange herbs, drugs and poisons. It is also highly probable that these men are more than superficially acquainted with principles of hypnotism.

Types of Women

There are four types of women. Charlie. There are the unfortunates, who have been granted no attractions, physical or otherwise. They have heaps of friends of their own sex and kind, they live in women's clubs or institutions, and find an outlet for their emotions in religion and the love affairs of other people. Then there is the latest model, the aggressive variety, elbowing men out of the way; there is something rather attractive about them, but they know it too well. Then your feline women, the mischief makers, often most attractive. Then the bovine variety, which makes for peace in the home and a comfortable sluggishness in the heart of man. Worthy women.—Lesley Storm in "Lady, What of Life?"

Remove Wet Garments

All of us at some time or other get caught in a rainstorm, fall into water, get our feet wet in rainy weather, etc. These occasional "soakings" are harmless, if the right thing is done afterward. Dr. R. S. Copeland says getting wet does no more harm than taking a bath, if you do not stay in the wet garments. This, he points out, is particularly true of wet shoes. His advice is: Don't stay in wet garments. Get out of them into dry clothing. If you feel chilled after exposure, it is important to restore the circulation. The best way to do that is to take a good hot bath and go to bed.—Pathfinder Magazine.

The Lesson

If youth, with all its progressiveness and buoyancy, could only learn one great lesson that comes with advancing years, so much disillusionment and unhappiness would be prevented. If youth could only learn, while it is still youth, that there are certain fundamental things which it cannot do and "get away with," certain things that must be done and must not be done, certain things that are not only conventional but essential, half the tears of boyhood and girlhood would never flow.—Grove Patterson, in the Mobile Register.

Crack Shot

A man brought home three turkeys from a shooting match. His neighbor and four-year-old were congratulating him on his success. The father told his neighbor he was a crack shot. The turkeys were being discussed at home and the four-year-old informed the father that the shot "em with necks and never hurt 'em one day bit."

Writer's Fine Tribute to Forest Patriarch

I watched some time ago the cutting down of an oak. It was a huge tree, an old patriarch among the trees in the neighborhood, the kind and size of a tree that is regarded with a sort of attachment by friends and strangers. In the lives of those along the road it was a landmark.

It wore its rusty robes with an air of majesty. It possessed a distinguished appearance on account of age, and to look at it was to be aware of something ancient. The Indian stepped with moccasins feet the paths when it was in infancy, and its last years saw the automobile, airplane, the magic things of a modern world.

It went through much in the lease of life; it weathered everything, as an oak should do; but it had to surrender before the assault of a very small but numerous enemy—the leopard moth. It fought as a giant fights—bravely. It lost courageously and gamely, as a man loses when overwhelmed with superior numbers. It battled to the end.

It seems a ruthless act to cut down a tree. It is the taking of life itself. Such a tree enters the very lives of those who dwell in its shadows, and it is a part of their histories. And the more we know of such trees the more are we convinced they have a soul, a personality.—Edwin O. Hobson, in the Boston Globe.

Skunk Harmless if He Is Treated Right

Periodical reports are regularly and frequently printed in the papers at this time of year of skunks appearing and stampeding citizens, policemen and other officials as if they were the German army and yellow fever combined instead of being as friendly and harmless as an ordinary cat.

One was found in a schoolhouse and instead of being allowed to depart in peace a posse was raised and the "critter" shot and school dismissed for the day. The interesting feature is that the skunk always has to be killed and trouble started; in the country the incident attracts little attention and the skunk is not molested, but city people seem to take an aggressive course.

A skunk is usually able to depart the way he entered and if not imposed upon will seldom start anything. If met on the sidewalk, porch or in the woodshed as a social equal, he will be as friendly as you are.—Canaan Reporter.

Expensive Hats

The most costly hat whereof record can be found was not a woman's hat, but one presented to General Grant while he was in Mexico. Fifteen hundred dollars in gold was paid for it. It is to be seen in the National museum at Washington. Besides being so expensive, it is said to be the finest specimen of a Mexican sombrero ever made.

Perhaps the next most expensive hat was that which was presented to William H. Seward when he was secretary of state in President Lincoln's cabinet. It was the kind known as panama, and his South American admirers who sent it to him paid a thousand dollars for it.

His Recovery

"At one point in my career I was given up by seven doctors to die," stated Uncle Feebles. "The three local physicians gave me up, and then four doctors from farther away gave me up in rotation, each from his favorite incurable disease. Later they all gathered around in solemn conclave and gave me up in unison from seven different maladies for which the medical profession knows no cure. Soon after, because they were letting me alone, I got well on my own hook."—Kansas City Times.

Education's Object

The business of education is not to make milters or railway men, clerks or shopmen, managers or directors, parsons or lawyers, civil servants or politicians. It is not to make loyal adherents to trade unions or churches, political parties or nations. Primarily it is to make men, and after that, because no man can fulfill his mankind unless he has his own work to do, to equip those men for whatever task their special abilities and circumstances bring upon them.—Exchange.

Embarrassing Moment

The Christmas list had been made in the presence of George, the observing five-year-old. A few days later a neighbor called on the family. Christmas giving was the topic of conversation and the neighbor said to George:

"Whisper in my ear what to get mother."

"You're not on the Christmas list, and mother's not going to start trading gifts with anybody else," replied the tactless son.

"Bunyip" Frightens Many

That the mysterious "bunyip" is again being heard at night in the Wingecarribee swamp, is declared by people of the Burrawang district of Australia. The cry, which is unlike that of any domestic animal, is said to have been heard in the center of the swamp. Although the "bunyip" with its weird noise has been a tradition of the Wingecarribee swamp for more than 50 years, there is no authentic record of any one having seen it.

Set Training Tables for Fighting Crickets

The sporting element in China has been training fighting crickets for hundreds of years. Huge sums are still bet on cricket fights and the owners of champion crickets are nationally known. In his booklet, "Cricket Champions of China," Dr. Berthold Laufer, famous sinologist of the Field Museum of Natural History, discloses the interesting methods used by the Chinese in training these scrapping insects. Even in ancient times the trainers prescribed strict diets for their battlers. The usual diet consist of a dish of rice mixed with fresh cucumbers, boiled chestnuts, lotus seeds and mosquitoes. Some of the owners and fanciers allow themselves to be bitten by mosquitoes, and when the mosquitoes are full of blood they are given to their favorite crickets.

The fighting crickets are kept in specially devised jars, which are made to serve as both summer and winter homes. The jars are furnished with tiny beds and water jars. The champion crickets are transported in finely wrought cages, some of which are all-glass gold.—Pathfinder Magazine.

Now Cast Doubt on Myles Standish Tale

Capt. Myles Standish may have asked John Alden to propose to Priscilla Mullens for him, as Longfellow wrote (there is historical doubt on the point), but despite the means he may have taken the redoubtable soldier was married twice and left many children.

Proof of this has been found through twenty-one years' record searching by Dr. Myles Standish of Boston, eighth lineal descendant of the soldier.

"The legend about which Longfellow wrote 'The Courtship of Miles Standish' is not very convincing," said Doctor Standish. "Before coming to America, Captain Standish was in Holland and there he married his first wife, Rose. Rose died the first winter in America. Later the soldier married Barbara, who is said to have been a first cousin of Rose. They had several children. It is between the death of Rose and his marriage to Barbara that the captain is supposed to have courted Priscilla. It is a pretty story."—Miami Daily News.

Brotherly Love

A large crowd was waiting breathlessly on the beach. In the distance a small black object could be seen bobbing up and down on the crest of the waves. It was a bottle—and inside was a message!

A party of brave men ventured out in a row boat to see what tragic news it contained. After some difficulty the bottle was picked up and brought back to shore. With shaking fingers the leader of the party pulled out the message.

"The finder of this bottle," he read, "might please send it to my brother in Aberdeen and tell him to take it to the Pig and Whistle. There's two-pence on it."—London Answers.

Too Much Pep

Norma, age seven, was visiting her grandma, and they were telling jokes. Grandma told Norma the one about the boy who went to the grocery and bought some pepper for his mother, and when he arrived home and opened the package he found the pepper was half peps (p's).

Norma was quiet for a few moments, and then she said: "Grandma, here is one for you:

"A little boy went to the store to buy some pepper for his mother, and when he came home and opened it he found it was half pep."

Appropriately Named

Little Rock, Ark., was named from a rocky promontory which rises on the south bank of the Arkansas river some 50 feet above the river and now used as one of the abutments of one of the four bridges which span the river. This rock is the first seen ascending the river, and was called "Little Rock" in contradistinction to the bold precipice about ten miles higher which rises some three miles above upon the opposite bank and is called "Big Rock." This is now the site of an army post.

Movie Star

Five-year-old Ethel had never attended a picture show, but had heard her brothers and sisters talk a great deal about the "movie stars." One evening Ethel was out riding with her parents after dark. It was a new experience to Ethel to be out driving late enough to see the stars, and she was very much interested in watching them. One bright star in particular attracted her attention, and as the machine moved Ethel thought the star was moving and said, "Mamma, that must be a movie star."

One Thing Missing

Mrs. Newlywed rushed in from the kitchen, a smoking pie dish in her hands. She placed it on the table in front of her husband.

"There, dear," she cooed, "that's a cottage pie."

"I'd have known it was cottage pie," he remarked after the first few mouthfuls.

"You would?" she asked, delighted. "Yes," he replied. "I can taste the butchered roof and the crazy paving. But what did you do with the bricks?"

Genius of Holbein Recognized by King

When Hans Holbein, the celebrated portrait painter, went to England, he became a favorite of King Henry VIII, who took him into his service, and paid him a salary of two hundred florins a year.

One day, it is said, a nobleman called upon Holbein when the latter was very busy, painting from life. Holbein sent a message asking to be excused the honor of the visit for that day. The nobleman, highly offended, walked straight upstairs and broke open the door of the studio. At this, Holbein also lost his temper, and aimed a blow at the intruder which sent him from the top of the stairs to the bottom. When his passion had cooled down, the artist realized his danger, and wisely went at once to the king, to whom he told the story of the quarrel. Shortly afterward, the nobleman made his appearance, clamoring for vengeance. Henry made Holbein apologize, but the angry peer declared that nothing but the offender's death would content him. Whereupon Henry replied, "You have not now to deal with Holbein, but with me. Whatever harm you do him shall rebound tenfold on your own head. Whenever I please, I can make seven lords out of seven plowmen, but of seven lords I could not make one Holbein."

These are the facts brought out by F. L. Quaffs, farm expert, reporting in the Farm Journal the results obtained by the 500 Iowa farmers who have given their porkers a chance to lead hygienic lives.

Clean Pigs Are Winning Favor

Bigger Porkers and Higher Profits Result From Sanitary Care.

That long-standing belief that a hog is naturally a dirty creature who reels and thrives in a mud wallow has been completely wrecked by 500 Iowa farmers.

The fact is that the hog is as cleanly as any other farm animal, but until recently has never had a chance to prove it. Given clean pasture lands on which to feed, instead of the old-fashioned hog pen, regular baths and clean bedding, the hog will produce bigger and better pigs, and more of them. At the same time the death rate will be markedly lowered.

These are the facts brought out by F. L. Quaffs, farm expert, reporting in the Farm Journal the results obtained by the 500 Iowa farmers who have given their porkers a chance to lead hygienic lives.

Expose Hogs to Parasites. Farmers who raise their hogs year after year on the same ground and in the same unclean quarters are exposing them to periodical ravages of parasites which kill off many and stunt the growth of many more. The test cases, directed by Iowa farm bureau experts, show:

In one case an owner put 18 sows on clean alfalfa pasture land, washed them carefully before they gave birth to their litters and housed the pigs in clean quarters where parasites had no chance to develop. Of 180 pigs born, 174 were sold, fat and healthy.

Eight other sows were kept in an old-fashioned piggery under the old conditions. These gave birth to 48 pigs, of which only 16 were alive at the end of four months; and all of the 16 were stunted and unthrifty.

Under New Conditions. Of a group of 8,836 pigs raised under the new conditions the average saved and sold was 6.8 pigs per sow, as against 5.2 in other years. A litter born in March and raised on pasturage had reached an average weight of 86 pounds by June, while a litter born the previous December and raised under the old conditions weighed only 88 pounds on an average at the same time.

Most of these Iowa pigs were farrowed in April and sold in October; only six or seven months from birth to market. "Most of the men had their pigs ready for market two or three months in advance of previous years and at just as heavy weights. Several of the men sold April pigs in September at weights well over 200 pounds. And not only did they get the benefit of a higher price but they escaped the period of the greatest danger from flu and hog cholera."

Unusually Good Control of Oats Smut Is Found

Iodine, long used as an antiseptic in medicine, is to be put to use in controlling plant diseases. After four years of experimenting with many preparations for the control of oats smut, plant pathologists of the Ohio agricultural experiment station have developed two dust formulas containing iodine and formaldehyde. Unusually good control of the smut is given. The two men who worked on this were R. C. Thomas and J. D. Bayre.

There were heavy losses due to oats smut last year and a large part of the seed to be sown this spring is still without treatment. The cost of treating seed with the new dusts should not be more than five to seven cents an acre, say the station men. For particulars regarding the treatment and where the dust can be obtained, write to the Department of Botany, Ohio Agricultural Experiment Station, Wooster, Ohio.

Materials Contained in a Crop of Sweet Clover

A good crop of sweet clover contains two and one-half tons of dry top and roots to the acre by the spring of the second year. This amount of material will contain 200 pounds of nitrogen or as much nitrogen as is contained in 20 tons of average farm manure. This is more nitrogen than is required to grow a 100-bushel crop of corn. Only 150 pounds of nitrogen are necessary to produce the stalks and grain of such a crop of corn. Thus the farmer can grow a fertilizer factory on his own farm that will furnish an abundance of nitrogen for his crops at a very small cost.

Agricultural Squibs

Market bulky farm feeds through high quality stock and increase your profits.

Pine trees can be moved in the winter time when the ground is frozen so that a pile of frozen earth may be moved with the tree.

Leafy spurge is a comparatively new weed. It is gaining a foothold in several spots, however, and attention should be given immediately to eradicating it.

In pruning young orchards, it is seldom necessary to use a disinfectant to sterilize the small wounds made by the removal of branches. It is also true that there is much less disease in the young orchard than in the old.

TAX PAYER LEAGUE FORMED IN CUSTER

Problems of Government and Tax Payers to Come up for Discussion in County League.

"Shall we allow the state to be bonded according to the Iowa plan to build and complete highways?" is one of the main topics to come up for discussion at the next meeting of the Custer County Tax Payers League, which was recently organized by a group of prominent men of Custer county, according to the State Journal.

According to the item these meetings will be held from time to time with a hope of enlightenment on the issues before the public and the lawmakers.

J. G. W. Lewis, of the local college faculty who formerly lived in that county, is personally acquainted with most of the backers of the league, and referred to them as being open minded and progressive in their views; and ventured the prediction that much good would come from the movement.

A league of that nature might be a fine thing for this county as well as others, he suggested, as it would offer all an opportunity to acquaint themselves with the problems of government, and would give them a chance to venture opinions.

An organization of this kind if it were large enough to be truly representative might offer many advantages. Problems that come up for consideration by local government could be referred to the citizens for their opinions.

The tax question has become a problem with which everyone is more or less concerned. If the public would go about it in the right way they might be able to offer constructive solutions to many problems that will come up for consideration in the near future.

MAU'S ATHLETES MAKE GOOD SHOWING IN TRACK MEET HERE

With only a green squad with which to work Coach Mau has developed a team that was good enough to place in several of the events in the tri-school meet held on the college field last Saturday, and has a favorable outlook for another year, and might cause some trouble in the meet here Saturday.

Max Hendrickson a freshman looks like a good bet for future seasons, showing a lot of class for a first year man.

This is the first season the local school has competed in track for some years, and their showing is considered very creditable for a green squad.

Max and Lloyd Voe of Wakefield were the high point men for the day and these two brothers collected four firsts and tied for another, two seconds and a third. Coupled with the work of Nunfberger, a fine half miler they piled up a safe margin for their school.

The Wayne athletes won enough laurels to place them far in the lead of Emerson for second place.

Local Winners
Dowling, second in 880 dash; Surber, first in 440 dash; Dowling tied for first in pole vault and Dennis placed third in this event. Dowling won the broad jump. Paul and Kelly Peterson tied for third and fourth in high jump. Surber third in discus. Hendrickson, Surber, Dennis and Dowling placed second in the half mile relay.
Dennis placed third in 220 low hurdles and fourth in 100 yard dash, in which Kelly Peterson was second.
Dowling placed third in the 220 dash and Paul Peterson came in second in the mile run.

ENTERTAINMENT WEEK OPENS MONDAY, MAY 7

Beginning Monday next, Entertainment Week will begin at Wayne, for that is what the Savidge Carnival is coming more and more to mean to the communities they visit week by week in this part of Nebraska. We have no hesitancy in making this announcement in quoting the words of Mr. Savidge when he says he opens this season with one of the biggest and best shows he has ever started with. They have many new features and new people.

All new plays, and it is the rule for this company never to do other than secure better plays than the year before. Then, under the new "Big Top" will be installed a specially built stage one of the largest and best on the road. The stage effect is a great aid to making the drama appear real, and here one gets the scenic effects equal to those of the permanent stage of the city theatre, adding much to the charm of the plays. While the orchestra and band will add much to the week entertainment.

The midway this season is to be the highway to a good time. There may be seen Viola's Wonderland of Curiosities, Freed & Freed variety circus, the little Pinto Pony, Law, Outlaw and underworld, the monkey speedway, and "Baby May", America's smallest and fattest girl, weighing 480 pounds, some baby, and one speaking seven different languages, and quite an entertainer.

Then there is that part of the midway devoted to the merry-go-round for little folks, the Ferris wheel and the merry-mix-up and the seaplanes, a wonderful collection for real amusement.

In his advertisement in another place you may get the plays and the order in which they are to appear, so if one cannot attend all, they may pick their play—but they cannot hit a poor one, if they attend any time. The concert band will be under the direction of Geo. Blocker, and the orchestra under direction of Chas. Cushman, assuring real entertainment by both organization.

The free attractions this year are to be different, and appear daily at 6:45 p. m. and Saturdays at 2 o'clock in the afternoon, also. All will be pleased with the work of the trained tropical pets, an act that will well repay one for a visit at the midway. In fact, the shows are irresistible this season to a greater extent than ever before, and you will admit it when you have seen them.

FORMER WAYNE MAN IS MURDERED BY HIS WIFE

The lifeless body of Fred Ulrich, 39 years old, a farm laborer, was found lying on a bed in his home, 713 Wall street, with a bullet hole near his heart, late Monday, says the Sioux City Journal.

Accused of firing the shot that fatally wounded her husband during a drunken brawl, Mrs. Nettie Ulrich, widow of the slain man, is being held without charge in the city jail for questioning.

A 32 caliber revolver with one empty cartridge in the barrel, was found under the bathtub in the home. Hammer marks on another cartridge showed that the first attempt to fire the gun had failed.

Besides the widow, police arrested four other persons, who were in the house when they arrived, for investigation. They are Johnny Ulrich, 17 years old, and Fred Ulrich, Jr., 16 years old, two sons of the dead man, and Frank Thomas, 60 years old, and N. E. Connor, 41 years old, farmers from near Merville, Iowa.

Widow Appears Dazed
Police said that they believed all four men witnessed the shooting, although Thomas and Connor said that they had gone to the house shortly after Ulrich was killed.

Mrs. Ulrich has been arrested here several times for violations of the liquor laws, police said.

Mrs. Ulrich appeared to be dazed, and told the police a disconnected story in which she was said to have first admitted the shooting and later denied that she was the slayer. The youths, who are Ulrich's sons by a former wife, were not questioned by the officers Monday night.
Mrs. Mae Hermanson, proprietor of a grocery store next door to the Ulrich home, was one of the first persons to enter the house after the shooting. She said that Mrs. Ulrich met her at the rear door and said, "Mae, I shot him—they forced me to do it, but he isn't dead, I just know he isn't dead."

Later in her story to police and Coroner J. H. Robbins, Mrs. Ulrich said that she shot her husband when he threatened her and rushed at her with a chair following a quarrel. They were in the dining room at the time, she said.

Born at Wayne
Ulrich was born at Wayne, Nebraska, and had lived there for several years. He is a member of a family of 11 children, four brothers and six sisters.

Mother Critically Ill
Surviving Ulrich are: His widow; two sons, Fred and Johnny; his mother, Mrs. Anna Ulrich, who is critically ill at her home in Wayne, Nebraska; four brothers, Henry of Omaha, Johnny of Wayne, Frank of California, and Richard, who resides in Canada, and six sisters, Mrs. Bill Rentz, Mrs. Frank Chippey and Mrs. Bob Chippey, all of whom reside in Minnesota, Mrs. Bob Mears of Omaha, Mrs. Gus Michaels, who lives in Oklahoma, and Miss Ella Ulrich of Wayne.

The bullet which caused Ulrich's death was found lodged under the scapula bone in his shoulder by Coroner Robbins, who performed an autopsy. It was a .32 caliber bullet, the same as were found in the gun.

The body was taken to Westcott's undertaking parlors pending funeral arrangements.

NEW TIME CARD SUNDAY, FEW CHANGES ARE NOTED

While the new time card which went into effect Sunday makes changes on a number of trains on the Northwestern railway in Nebraska, and in the Black Hills lines the change directly of interest at Wayne are few. The Sioux City-Norfolk train leaves Sioux City at 4 o'clock, a half hour earlier than the old time, and is due to leave Wayne at 6:00 p. m. instead of 6:30. The train from Emerson to Bloomfield is due in here at 5 o'clock p. m. and is scheduled to leave at 6:05.

If you go to Omaha by train, or other places along that line, better find when the train home is due to leave your station, for it is earlier all along the line from trains north and west. Trains in the opposite direction are not changed.
