T. B. ERADICATION GAINING PRESTIGE

Monthly Report Indicated Bovine Tuberculosis Eradication is Gaining Favor.

SUPREME COURT SUPPORTS PLAN

The plan of eradication of bovine tuberculosis as it is being conducted in this state, according to the April report of the U. S. department of agriculture, is rapidly gaining favor throughout the country and is also being considered in England.

The work has been started in thirty states and in several larger areas are accredited. During March more than a million cattle were tested, which is the largest number tested in one month since the work was started. Wisconsin and Iowa lead all states in number tested during that month.

Reports from Canada, according to the bulletin, indicate that splendid progress is being made in that country, with the work being introduced in all parts of the provinces.

Court Supports Plan

The United States Supreme Court on October 31, 1927, dismissed the appeal of Minnesota objectors to tuberculin testing of cattle. The objectors to the test argued many of the questions that have been put before other State courts. Therefore the ruling of other states will be upheld. It is claimed, making objection to the plan superfluous, and wasteful of time and money.

The reliability of the test and the method are also sustained by this court action, for Minnesota authorities argued that "the area plan is the most modern, scientific, practicable and satisfactory method known to state or federal authorities."

Fake Cure

Other interesting claims are brought to light, including a so called cure originating in Oregon that has received considerable publicity. According to the bulletin, this so-called tubercular cure upon careful investigation was found to be without value and its use constituted a menace.

RAILWAY COMMISSION RULINGS

Lincoln, Nebraska, May 11.—The state railway commission today denied the application of the Missouri Pacific railroad to close its station at Maynard and permitted the company to substitute a custodian for an agent at that place.

The Cedar County Farmers' Telephone company of Hartington was authorized to establish vacation rates of 65 cents for residences and $1 for business. The Madison Telephone company of Madison also was permitted to charge a rate of 5 cents each for fifty calls and 2½ cents each over fifty calls for service to non-subscribers.

The Central Power company of Grand Island was authorized to construct a transmission line extending south from Lorton in Otoe county.

The engagement of Miss Elaine Morrow and Donald Snygg has recently been announced, the wedding to occur in June.

CORN PLANTING FAR ADVANCED, HALF PLANTED

According to the reports from different farmers interviewed, the corn planting this spring is well up to the average for May 15, and many farmers tell that they have finished their planting, and the general opinion is that the acreage of the county is more than half planted.

Another feature on which they are agreed is that the seedbed was never better conditioned for receiving seed than this season. The weather has been inclined to be dry, and the soil just dry enough to work nicely, except that a few rolling fields have been a little too dry for the easiest plowing; but there has been no need to turn the soil so wet that it will bake. The fields, as a rule, are clean from weeds and grass, and the corn has promise of getting better than an even start with the weeds.

OMAHA BOOSTERS VISIT WAYNE MON.

About One Hundred Omaha Business Men Spent Monday in Wayne on Goodwill Tour.

About one hundred Omaha business men and representatives of wholesale firms spent the night here Monday, the first day of their week's tour of northeast Nebraska and adjoining parts of Dakota.

Because of the unfavorable weather the number of visitors from adjoining territory was not as great as anticipated, but a good crowd gathered on the streets of Wayne to welcome the Omaha delegation.

The Wayne band was assembled and entertained the crowds during the evening while awaiting the arrival of the Omaha representatives, who were accompanied by the famous Desdunes band.

Because of the interference of the weather the big pavement dance was sidetracked and the community house substituted. Although inadequate for the crowds it furnished shelter.

The members of the Desdunes band entertained with their music, songs and exhibition of jiving.

Stores were kept open until late in the evening to afford all a place to keep out of the rain, and do their shopping.

The delegation expressed hearty appreciation for the welcome received here, indicating that it was the best they had experienced during their first day out.

LOCAL FORD DEALERS MAKING IMPROVEMENTS

The local Ford dealers have been busy the past few days making improvements in their garage, which they believe will offer them greater convenience, and will add to the efficiency of their service.

The show room, parts room and office will be considerably enlarged, making it possible to do away with the present plan of using the basement for stock storage.

Fords Coming
The Omaha branch of the Ford Motor company is now running, according to Mr. Briggs who returned from the city with a new coach Monday, and they are entertaining hope of getting more cars soon.

They are turning out about twenty-five cars a day, he said, and hope to increase this output from time to time until they get up to capacity.

Tough on Coyotes

Recently while returning to his home at Omaha Mr. Briggs, the senior member of the local firm, had the thrill of running over a coyote that was unable to match the speed of the Lincoln, which Mr. Briggs was piloting.

The coyote came out of a field south of Wayne, and started down the highway just ahead of the car, and the driver stepped on the gas and ended that animal's career.

They had it mounted and plan to bring it here to place in their show room.

FLOOD CONTROL BILL SIGNED BY PRESIDENT

Washington, May 15.—President Coolidge today signed the Mississippi river flood control bill.

By affixing his signature to the measure, Mr. Coolidge placed upon the statute books an act which embarks the federal government upon the tremendous task of curbing the flood waters of the Mississippi—probably one of the greatest engineering undertakings ever attempted in history.

Mr. Coolidge expects to immediately fill the board provided for in the measure. It is Mr. Coolidge's intention to appoint to the board as one of its three members a civil engineer entirely disconnected, both as to residence and business connections, with the area involved so that he shall have the utmost freedom to reach whatever decisions he may consider best without being encumbered by local connections.

SUPT. HOOK INVITED TO OMAHA MEETING

Plans Will be Made to Centralize Boy Scout Activities at Omaha Meeting Monday.

T. S. Hook of Wayne has been invited to attend a meeting called by Omaha Council of Boy Scouts, at the Omaha Athletic club, May 21, when plans will be made to centralize the activities under the extension program of the National Boy Scouts association.

Chairman Henry Monky of the Omaha Council announces that the program will bring the various troops in closer relation and that trained scoutmasters from Omaha will be able to visit each community to assist in scout work.

At the Omaha meeting use of Camp Gifford, Omaha-Boy Scouts' greatest recreational center, will be offered to troops in all of the Omaha district which includes twenty-eight counties of which this county is one.

At Camp Gifford, nestled in the tree-clad hills along the Missouri river, the scouts have great times each summer. There is a swimming pool, carefully supervised by instructors, where the Scouts qualify in their aquatic tests. There are baseball fields. The boys sleep in well-constructed barracks, just like soldiers.

The camp is regulated in real military fashion. The boys arise at reveille, blown by a Scout and go to bed at taps. Surrounding Camp Gifford is the Fontenelle Forest, an ideal place for Scouts who love woodcraft. This is a protected bird sanctuary and thousands of birds of all kinds build their nests and raise their young.

Athletic competitions are on the daily program.

FINGER STRIPPED IN HAND CORN SHELLE

The first of the week Park Hurly, living east of Carroll about three miles, had the misfortune to get his finger in a hand corn sheller, and was at Wayne looking for a physician to dress it, after having had first aid given by a local physician, and the wound was continuing to bleed.

The flesh was stripped from parts of the end of the finger, and the finger nail will probably be a loss and new one will have to be grown.

MEMORIAL DAY WILL BE OBSERVED HERE, MAY 30

WILDCATS LOSE IN HARD FOUGHT MEET

Local Tracksters Cop Running Events But Lose Heavily in Field Competition.

LITEL, RAY AND DENNIS, STARS

The Yankton Greyhounds were fast enough to cop a majority of the points in the triangular meet here last Friday, making most of their tallies in the field events, but the Hickman proteges ran a good second and had much the better of the argument in the under path competition, with Trinity being forced to contend themselves with a mere lunch so far as getting counters is concerned.

The Dakotans collected a total of 75 and one-half points while the Wildcats garnered 53 and Trinity trailed with 15 and one-half.

Mendel, Yankton's all round athlete was high point man of the meet winning two firsts and as many seconds for a total of sixteen tallies for his school.

D. Farrow, who was counted on to take first or second in the discus, disqualified himself by stepping over the boundary, which might have cut the Yankton margin several points.

Titel Ties Record

Titel and Dennis, fleetfooted Wildcats, furnished the thrills of the day and were directly responsible for winning the half mile and mile relays. Between the two they about had everything their own way in the short races.

Titel, who runs a little faster each week, clipped off the 100 yard dash in the fast time of 10 seconds flat, and surprised fans by showing his heels to Mendel, the Yankton ace, who was all but conceded the race before it started. He gave his running mates a lead in the half mile relay that enabled them to cop that event.

A Good Freshman

Dennis, who is a first year man, unforked plenty of speed and managed to slip past his competitors including Mendel to lead the way to the tape in the 440 dash, and he ran a good race in the half mile relay.

In the mile relay he overcame a wide lead and led the way to the tape on the final lap, which brought plenty of cheers from the crowds on the sidelines.

Ray Shares Honors

Ray, a good man when he isn't too tired, was the best attack jumper and won first place in both hurdle events for a total of ten points to divide honors with Litel as high point man for the local school.

Hunt Injured

Hunt fell down on the final lap of the two mile run and suffered a broken shoulder, which was the only mishap of the day.

He was in third place and about to overtake a rival when he stumbled and fell.

THOSE WHO PROFIT

Webster, South Dakota, Journal: The big boost in small grain prices hasn't benefitted the farmer, because the farmer disposed of his grain long before the raise in price happened. The farmer sells his small grain in the fall and winter because he is compelled to. The farmer is in debt and debtors do not wait for grain prices to go skallyhooting upwards. They get their right off the bat while the threshing machines are running. The men who have profited by the increase in grain prices are the big millers, the big elevator companies, and the big speculators.

CARD OF THANKS

We desire to acknowledge to our friends and neighbors the grateful appreciation we feel to all who so kindly and freely extended aid and sympathy to us during illness, death and burial of father.

Some wonder as to why and who is buying large tracts of land along the west side of the Missouri river opposite Chamberlain, South Dakota. The purchasers are supposed to be eastern concerns. It is reported that prospecting of some kind is going on there. Perhaps it is an oil deal—if so we venture that some big interests are trying to grab it.

George Worthington, the last of the Civil war veterans to pass on from Battle Creek, passed away Friday, the 11th, at the age of 83 years. He had lived in Madison county more than half a century, coming to Nebraska from the state of New York, with relatives who came from England. The soldiers of that war are fast passing from the scene. Wayne has but three survivors of those eventful times, all that remain of about 50 who were here when the writer came to Wayne 17 years ago.

Mrs. Arthur Parry from Worthington, Minnesota, came Saturday to spend mother's day at her old home at Carroll with her mother, Mrs. G. Williams, and her brother Vaughn Williams and greet other friends of other days. Mrs. Parry tells us that their part of Minnesota had a rather hard winter, cold being severe at times and most of the time, with quite a plenty of snow at times. They had at Worthington vicinity a heavy snowfall, which drifted considerably, after their grain had been sown—and some of it is just getting off and the fields fit to plant corn. This work was going on when she left home Friday.

Dr. Harold Gifford, philanthropist and eye specialist, was cited by Omaha Post No. 1, American Legion, as Omaha's "Most Distinguished Citizen" for the year. Donation of Fontenelle forest sites for playgrounds and a portion of the new River Drive were recalled when the award was made.

Mr. Clark was here most of the winter looking after his farm interests, and the winter climate was pretty severe for him, and he had quite a severe attack of flu, and Mrs. Clark came about five weeks ago to care for him. With the better and warmer weather and the better care and some relief from the work he had been doing he began to improve, and this week felt able to make the trip home. Friends here hope that change in climate will prove helpful, and that with rest doubts will speed up complete recovery.

Mr. Crossland, tho a democrat, does not seem to be an Al Smith democrat, and doubtless he will learn by a visit a bit nearer the home state of this possible nominee for the presidency and return with fixed convictions as to his duty as a citizen, and we know that he will have the courage to express his convictions, and so should we all have even tho they may not leave us in line with those we have associated with in other days. In this free land of ours all are entitled to talk and vote according to what we believe to be right, and best for the community as a whole.

Damage Suit Grows Out of Auto Collision Accident

A damage suit in the county court has developed from an auto collision which occurred on the road south of Wayne last week between the Buick sedan driven by H. E. Siman of Winside and a car driven by Harry Zarits of Sioux City, Iowa. The cars were on a bridge when it collapsed. The Zarits car struck the Siman car on the rear and threw the former off the bridge and landed right side up. No one was injured but both cars were considerably damaged and Mr. Siman has brought suit in the county court for two hundred dollars damages which he claims will be necessary to meet the repair bills on his car. Mr. and Mrs. Siman and Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Needham were in the Siman car on their way home from Omaha, where they had been at the K. P. Grand Lodge.

TENURE OF OFFICE

The Methodist Episcopal church is struggling against an autocracy of its own. The autocracy so far holds the powerful faction of the general conference in its grip.

That is the contention of the faction known to the "conservatives" as the "rebels". The "rebels" want to elect bishops for a definite term, the one most generally proposed being for eight years. The practice has been election to the office of bishop for life. Under that kind of rule Methodism has grown and has become a power in the religious world. Naturally the "conservatives" believe that policy best. They would not change.

There are many, however, among church people, who believe in democracy and would apply it to church affairs as well as to civic matters. These would limit the power of bishops by curtailing their terms in office.

An illustration: This contention was before the episcopacy committee at Kansas City with nearly three hundred present. A sub-committee had presented a report. The majority favored the present rule. Twenty members signed it. A minority report signed by five members was offered. A motion was made to submit the minority report for the majority report. The question of voting came up. Most questions had been decided by a show of hands. A motion to vote by ballot was made. Dr. Mertes S. Rice of Detroit opposed the ballot motion. "I do not like its implication that we are afraid to vote as we think," he said. Dr. Ray Allen, leader of the "rebel" faction, retorted: "The matter does not apply to you, Brother Rice. You are in your job and all the bishops under heaven could not get you out. But that is not true of all of us."

Most of the rebel leaders said their relations with the bishops were amicable, but a news report of this meeting says "they chafe under a system which makes a pastor's assignment to a $1,200 or a $3,000 church with all attendant considerations at the mercy of a bishop's arbitrary decision." They would not make any man a church ruler for life.—State Journal.

A BIG MOUTHFUL

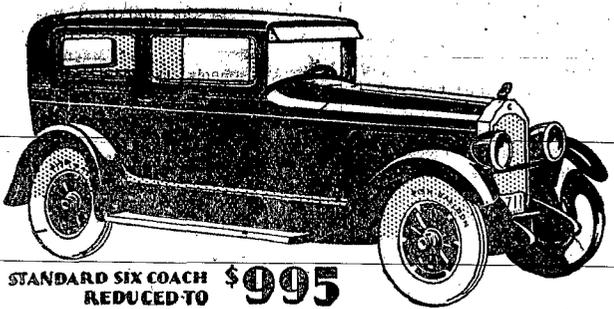

When I was little boy says congressman Howard, I frequently heard my elders say, that a certain person had "over-stepped himself." Also I sometimes heard my elders say that a certain person had "bit off more'n he could chew."

Both of those old sayings came forcibly to me this afternoon when the Big Money leaders tried to jam through the House a bill to create a mighty corporation which, by aid of the United States, would soon have a lead-pipe monopoly upon all the rubber in the world. The bill appeared under the innocent title of "An act to promote export trade, and for other purposes." The bill plainly was a direct slap in the face of all existing anti-trust laws, authorizing the proposed rubber corporation to do unlawful acts, but plainly providing that such acts should not be regarded as illegal. The bill was advocated by some of the keenest Big Money leaders, but the common-herd members forced a roll-call and killed the bill. It is not often that the keen Big Money leaders make such a losing fight as they made today when they tried to put over the rubber monopoly bill. They "over-stepped" themselves.

WILL THE RIVER BE BRIDGED?

Congressman Howard has been kept busy at times getting permits from Congress for some concern to bridge the Missouri river at Niobrara, and after the permission the concern for whom the permit was obtained, has failed to come up to the mark and deliver the goods. But the Niobrara people want a bridge over the river there and are now asking the permission from Congress thru our congressman, and if granted propose to do the job themselves. We remember the story in the old reader at school—yes it was a McGuffey, when the old mother quail and the little quail who had a nest and home in the farmer's wheat field, and the little birds that they would have to move because the farmer said that farmer Jones was coming to harvest the grain. But mother quail did not worry about moving, and then when nothing was done by farmer Jones, the owner of the field told that farmer Smith was to come next day and harvest the grain—and again the little birds feared they would be killed or captured—but the old quail remained indifferent. Then a few evenings later the owner himself came out and looked at the grain and said that he was done waiting for the neighbors to harvest the wheat—and next morning himself and help would be on the job and cut the grain. Then the mother bird said to the flock, then large enough to fly, in the morning we must go. When the owner gets in earnest and going to do the job himself, it is time to move. So, perhaps, the Niobrara folks have quit depending on others.

The dollar days and dollar sales are becoming quite popular with those who have the dollar—if the inducement to spend it are ample, and for the things wanted and needed.

Congress is making ready as fast as possible to adjourn within the next fortnight. Well the national campaign may not be in vain—if it speeds up congress for an early adjournment.

An Iowa newspaper made the assertion that money can be made on an Iowa farm, and is being made—and an exchange says that he should be made to prove the truth of his assertion.

Hoover is ahead in the New Jersey fight, the dispatches claim. Well, it has been no great credit to any candidate to win in that state of recent years, it seems to us. They also have a senatorial fight on in that state, as well as for state officers.

Sioux City police made quite a chase after a hit and run motorist, who had bumped into a car and upset it, and then stopped on the gas. The police gave chase and sent bullets after the fellow, but were not good marksmen, it seems. Shooting is too mild a punishment for one of those birds.

Out here in Nebraska our governor McMullen tells the world that if Hoover is the republican nominee for the presidency he and the party will suffer defeat. And the Monday morning paper says that Secretary Hoover went away from the city for a fishing trip expecting to get a string of fish for Monday dinner.

Beauty Hints For Ladies

The Frenchmen are great students of the art of beautifying people, and have so perfected the art that a noted artist has said there are no homely women—only those who do not know how to be beautiful. Wayne has a student of the French art in the person of Joe Smolsky who conducts the French Beauty parlor.

Quoting the great French artist, Mr. Smolsky tells us that the secret of lovely skin lies in the correct selection and proper use of harmonizing toilet requisites as indicated for one's particular type of skin—a dry skin an oily skin and the normal skin, each need a different preparation.

Mr. Smolsky gave us a little booklet, and he has them for patrons who ask, in which are many hints and rules for keeping a perfect skin. The booklet tells of the toilet preparations and it is dedicated to "Esprit d'Armour", and a complete assortment is carried in stock at the French Beauty parlor, and these wonderful preparations are used by the artists there, who also advise their patrons as to the proper kind to use and when and how to apply the same.

In marcelling and shampooing as well as the permanent wave different dressings are required for the different hair and scalps, and in this knowledge as well as skill in giving these treatments lies the great efficiency of the work of the French Beauty parlor.

Voters, both men and women, are urged to read the special correspondents' stories in the leading Sunday papers of the land. Read them all carefully if you want to know. First, who is to be the nominee of each party and second, and a little later, these same fellows will tell you who is to be elected. It is mighty fine to be able to make long-distance forecast of things no one else knows, and on which no two forecasters agree. Then after the nominations are made and the election won, see how many missed it and how far off they were. Be sure and keep informed by reading them all every Sunday until election, and there you have it, as DeGoley would say.

Down at Boston, the "hub" of the universe, some claim, there are those who have so low an estimate of the great men who claim to be republicans as to express the belief that Coolidge is the only man who can save the party from defeat. That is sad. Suppose they try the effect of an honest platform that will tell just what they plan to do, and how, and to whom it shall be done. Not being of the party, perhaps we are not eligible to even make a suggestion. But we will venture to suggest that a tariff reduction on all monopoly controlled products be endorsed in the platform, and that congress be pledged to enact the same into law. Perhaps that is plenty for the first dose.

JAPAN SETS GOOD EXAMPLE

With good reason to be flustered by the course of events in China, the cool-headedness of the Japanese press is remarkable and reassuring. On Friday it was reported in Tokio that 100 Japanese had been killed by Chinese in riots in the province of Shantung. The Japanese press did not see red and cry for vengeance. On the contrary, it displayed restraint and a noteworthy sense of fairness. It admitted that Chinese casualties were even heavier than Japanese casualties. It advised its readers that there was no cause for panic. And, on the authority of the Associated Press, it went so far in its desire for fair play that all but one of the Tokio newspapers took their own government to task for a policy which they considered largely responsible for the riots in Shantung. The charge was flatly made by the Tokio press that the disturbances were part of a prearranged plot to discredit the Chinese Nationalists.

We have only to imagine the United States involved instead of Japan, and to picture sensational headlines announcing "One Hundred Americans Killed in China," to realize the extraordinary degree of coolness and fairness now on display in Tokio. The latest dispatches from that city confirm first impressions, the American correspondents in Tokio taking occasion to note that the attitude of the press is "striking." "The newspapers either tacitly or openly admit that the presence of Japanese troops (in Shantung) had an irritant effect, and distribute censure almost equally between Premier Tanaka's policy and the Chinese. . . No passionate demands for vengeance are heard. . . There is no sign of any agitation to force the government into strong action."

The present government in Tokio, the Tanaka Cabinet, is not so liberal and so friendly toward China as some of its recent predecessors. But with Japanese sentiment being mobilized on the side of peace instead of vengeance, the Tanaka cabinet is likely to move cautiously. In the matter of how to conduct itself in the face of a sudden crisis, the Japanese press has set the world a good example.

Seniors Give Class Play

The senior class play was given on Tuesday night to a capacity house in the school auditorium. The play was a comedy drama, entitled, "Cupid at Vassar" and included a number of humorous situations. Every one in the cast took their parts well and the play was thoroughly enjoyed by all present as indicated by the generous and frequent applause given.

The play was in four acts, two being at home and two at the college. The four young people, John Willet a young architect and Ams North, a bankers son, Kate Newton and Wanda her half sister are the principal actors, these parts were taken by Ralph Durham, Dale Brugger, Elsie Fler and Yleen Neeley. The love making between these young people was attended with the usual difficulties but all ended well.

The romance however in the play was given zest and interest by Shiny a lazy negro, represented by Dwight Pinion, Hank Gubbin the hired man, furnishing plenty of fun thruout. The Misses Nona Fillmore, Margaret Stamm, Margaret Miller, Georgia Keeney, Lena Walde and Florence Frink were all college girls who assisted materially in the love making. Miss Laura Wacker was Mrs. Newton of Great Falls, who had high ambitions for her daughter but whose plans did not work out as she desired. The class will probably clear about $80 from the play.

Mrs. C. C. Kilburn, who spent some time at a Sioux City hospital where she underwent a major operation, returned to her home here last week, and is continuing to rally from her recent illness.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Armstrong were out from Sioux City the last of the week, and when they returned home Sunday evening, her mother, Mrs. A. A. Welch accompanied them for a short visit.

Remodeling of the Union station at Omaha with the erection of a concourse between the present Union station and the Burlington station a block away, is expected to be started this summer. It has long been talked of.

A twelve-story addition to the Union Pacific headquarters at Omaha will cost a million, and nearly $500,000 will be expended on the Smith building on Farnam street, and $450,000 on the new Barker block at Fifteenth and Farnam.

Mrs. August Whittler, who has been at the Methodist hospital in Sioux City for some weeks, where she underwent an operation three weeks ago is said to be getting along very well and it is now believed that she will be able to return home Saturday or Sunday.

Thos. Sundahl was looking a bit fagged out the other day, and he gave as the reason that he had been at work—having motored up to his farm near Winner and gotten busy for a week or so. He reported that the farm conditions there are appearing favorable—and in spite of the fact that the weather had been constantly cold and dry. The prospect is for a good crop.

Your Telephone Has Passed the Most Rigid Tests of Science

The materials used to make your telephone are frozen, soaked and steamed. These rigid tests give assurance that it will serve you best.

Almost fifty years of patient study have made you a telephone which is complete in itself and the best science can design. Appliances of any kind which are attached to the telephone do not improve but impair your service.

Devices supposed to eliminate noise, make secret conversation possible, destroy germs, and the like, should not be attached to your telephone.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Cahart of Randolph were Wayne visitors yesterday spending the day with friends and relatives.

Mrs. Henry Cozad accompanied her mother to Omaha last week, where her mother underwent an operation for her eyes, the lids of which were in need of treatment for granulated condition. She is now getting much use and comfort from them.

Mrs. Geo. McElroy from Vinton, Iowa, came Tuesday for a short visit here at the home of Mrs. Main, her sister-in-law, and returns today accompanied by her mother-in-law, Mrs. H. H. McElroy, who has spent the winter here at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Main.

One of our farmer friends remarked that he was rather confused as to the new farm relief bill, now waiting the verdict of the president, as to whether it will be wise and safe to extend the principle of protection to agriculture. He said that he had been reading much on both sides of the question until he is in doubt as to what the bill will do for the farmer. Well, he is not the only one who is wondering how many jokers it contains.

The special man of the Savidge Amusement company was this way this morning, coming from Norfolk where he had been to arrange for the show to come there next week, and told us that Monday night had been a big house at Pender and that Tuesday night the rain made bad roads and a small crowd—but the rain left a feeling that was good, because it moistened a land that was getting most too dry to please the farmers.

Wednesday evening Mrs. Jennie Davis, who spent the school year teaching at Safford, Arizona, returned home, accompanied by her son Lusian, who attended the school at that place. Mrs. Davis stopped a day or two at Sioux City to visit her mother, Mrs. John Gertner and her sister, Mrs. Blanch Henry, with whom their mother has been staying for a short time taking treatment from a physician at that city, and is expecting to be home soon.

Just to keep people posted as to the growth of the number of calf clubs in the state, and the work they are doing, we note that more than 1,200 calves are being fed this season for show this fall, and more than 300 club members are competing for prizes and place this season at the different fairs. And that is not the big item in connection with the movement. So many boys and girls are learning, and learning while young to take an intelligent interest in such work—and that means that they are being instructed in a lot of important features in connection with the farming work, tending to make them better farmers and stock growers at an earlier age than they otherwise would have been. It keeps them busy with a work for which they have assumed a responsibility early in life, helping them over some slippery places in life that come for most of the young people to cross soon or late. Wayne county has its quota of calf and pig clubs, and should have some poultry clubs.

Mrs. W. H. Sharer left here Saturday for New Hampton, Iowa, to the bedside of her mother, 82 years old, who has been in very poor health for some time. Little hope is held for her recovery. A brother of Mrs. Sharer met her at Sioux City and took her to New Hampton.

The P. E. O. met Tuesday evening with Mrs. A. M. Jacobs for a study of current events. Joy Ley and Margaret Mines conducted a guessing game of hidden names of the members. Mrs. C. A. Chase and Mrs. Hamer Wilson won the prizes in this contest. This was the last regular meeting of the year, the next meeting will be called to receive the reports of the convention.

Christ Holst for many years a resident of this county at and near Altona, but later of Hooper came here this week and is officiating in a part of the Fairmont cream station while introducing to the people of this vicinity a new washing machine, the Paramount, which introduces a real laundry principal of cleaning to the home, he claims. Himself and an assistant salesman plan to make their home at Wayne for several weeks.

The Wayne M. W. A. Foresters go to Laurel this evening where they will meet like drill teams from other camps, and indulge in drill work preparatory to going to the big Woodman meeting at Lincoln next month. Following the drill session there is to be a public dance to which all are welcome. The Wayne team is under direction of James Pile, who is drilling the team for the contest at Lincoln in which they will compete with many other teams.

E. W. Ferguson, who was shut in last October by sickness and bad weather, made his first appearance on the streets of Wayne Wednesday, when he ventured down town after spending a few days when the weather was not too severe, out of the house and doing light work about the place. Himself and wife have been making their home with Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Crockett their daughter, at 612 West 1st street. Spring sunshine is a great tonic for young or old.

The American Legion Auxiliary held their regular meeting at the Legion parlors Tuesday with 17 members present, at which time they elected a new president and treasurer as the present officers are leaving Wayne. Mrs. Max Ash was elected to succeed Mrs. L. E. Robertson as president and Mrs. Fontanelle Smith treasurer to succeed Mrs. Paul Mildner. Mrs. Hattie McNutt was elected chairman and Mrs. Frank Heine assistant chairman for the Poppy Day sales, and those who wish to assist in this work should see one of these two. Refreshments were served by the following committee: Mesdames Max Ash, L. E. Robertson, Nels Juhlin and Harry McMillan.

APPRECIATION

George R. Frady is one of the most beloved men in Neligh. He has been janitor at the West Ward school for many years, during which time he has established an enviable reputation among the school children, their parents, and the teachers. The children love Mr. Frady as much as if he were their own grandfather, and he has more influence among them than many of the teachers. He gives them a splendid example of faithfulness, punctuality and unflinching loyalty. Recently, Mr. Frady's wife passed away, leaving him to go about his daily tasks alone. Mrs. Frady had been blind for a number of years before her death. Mr. Frady gave her the best of care and loving attention. The honor of the school children for Mr. Frady was evidenced in the large number who attended the funeral of his faithful wife. He will always be honored, loved and revered by the children, and the memory of him as the personification of kindness, will go with them all through life.—Neligh News.

The above expression of appreciation so far as it has reference to Mr. Frady and his duties and position might apply with equal force and truth to Peter Hinkel, who for nearly thirty years has been janitor of the city school of this place. Every one of the hundreds who have completed the course of study in the last quarter of a century know and respects Pete Hinkel. The little folks in the grades know that he is their friend, and few if any of the teachers can claim more loyalty than is shown the janitor of the school, and this is as it should be—a worthy janitor on the same plane in the respect of the pupils as the most efficient of the force.

LAW ENFORCEMENT FOR REVENUE

Mayor "Big Bill" Thompson police commissioner in Chicago, acting no doubt under orders from his chief, announces his purpose to "close up" drinking establishments at 1 o'clock in the morning, arrest rum runners and seize their cargoes, clamp the lid down on gambling, and make things hot generally for beneficiaries of crime and vice in the Windy City.

This frenzied campaign for law and order, coming as it does in the wake of a smashing defeat for the mayor's machine in the April primaries. In fact, the statement given out by Police Commissioner Hughes frankly admits that such is the motive behind his akase.

The primary election results, he says, indicate that the voters want reform. "We'll give them reform," he is quoted. "Close up everything. Make a house to house canvass in the hunt for beer flats. Watch for slot machines and any other form of gambling. We are going to make this town so tight it will squeak."

In promulgating its decree, the Thompson regime seemingly admits that the law requiring cabarets, night clubs, and drink parlors to close one hour after midnight has not hitherto been enforced. The whole country knows that crime has been rampant in Chicago, as evidenced by the bombings of prominent citizens' homes; the abduction of underworld leaders who were "taken for a ride" and murdered; the assassination of others shot down on the streets from "death cars" carrying machine-guns; frequent bank and train holdups by organized gangs; and other manifestations.

The sudden reversal of policy by the Thompson administration seems to have its inspiration in a spirit of peulance directed against both the law-abiding people of Chicago whose votes put a crimp into the city hall machine and the bootleggers, vice profiteers, and criminal organizations.—Lincoln Star.

ALL JUST GUESSES

David Lawrence looks beneath the surface of Mr. Mellon's recent statement in favor of Hoover and sees, or thinks he sees, an underlying hope on the part of the secretary of the treasury that Coolidge may yet be induced to become a candidate. Should the convention result in a deadlock between Hoover and either Dawes or Lowden it might well finish up in a stampede for the silent man in the white house which would be exceedingly difficult for him to avoid. In fact Lawrence seems to suspect that some such plot as that is brewing in the back of Secretary Mellon's mind. It is very likely, however, that the white house will have a good deal to say about it before such a scheme is finally carried out.

The above is from the State Journal and a local man whose guess may be as good as either Lawrence or the Journal editor, has been looking the situation over, and he sees in such a dead locking of interests the possibility of nominating Andy Mellon. Possible, and not probable, it is assumed.

THE PROBLEM OF OLD CARS

Detroit, Michigan, May 15: An entirely new slant on the used car, elevating it to its rightful place in the industry, was taken here by R. H. Grant, vice-president in charge of sales of the Chevrolet Motor company in an interview just prior to sailing for a month's trip to Europe. As evidence of the growing importance of the used car, Mr. Grant pointed out that during the first quarter of 1923, when the Chevrolet dealer organization was moving 250,000 new cars, it also was delivering at retail more than 200,000 used cars.

This was made possible by a changing attitude toward the used car on the part of both the automobile dealer and the public, Mr. Grant said.

"Where the auto dealer formerly paid little attention to the used car," Mr. Grant declared, "the proportion of used car to new car sales has mounted so high that used cars are now an important part of his business. Today, practically all the direct dealers in the Chevrolet organization have Ducoing equipment with which they re-finish used cars in a manner similar to the factory. Cars are gone over from head light to tail lamp by skilled mechanics trained in approved factory methods. The reconditioned cars bear an 'O-K. Tag' showing that every vital part has been checked. They are then displayed attractively, and lenient time payments are made available to the purchaser, at a wide range of prices.

IS STILL A DEMOCRAT

John A. Heeren of Carroll was at Wayne on a business mission a short time Tuesday afternoon, and while waiting for the train home the writer had a bit of visit with him. Mr. Heeren is one of those independent democrats who is with the party when he thinks it right—but does not always swallow the entire party platform as handed out. He has opposed some measures in the past that he did not think good, and in some cases it has developed that he was looking ahead further than some others, and saw a side that many of us had not considered.

Naturally, we spoke of the political situation, and expressed opinions as to candidates and measures. Different from some of the western party members, Mr. H. seems to worry that Al. Smith may not get the nomination, rather than that he will. He has apparently taken the measure of the man from his record as governor of the greatest state in the Union and his familiarity with big questions and ability to handle the same. He is not worrying about the effect on the prohibition law—it is not to be easily set aside. As a former banker, Mr. Heeren seems to be well posted on the weak points of the banking laws.

HODGE-PODGE
 There is considerable talk about strictly cash business by the merchants in different towns. Plainview and Bloomfield merchants have decided to try the plan quite generally. It is yet too soon to say how it will please the public or profit the merchant. It is an ideal condition to contemplate, but probably has its drawbacks, and it may often be as good for the purchaser as the seller—for it may keep him from buying something that he is just thinking he has to have, but might be better off to do without than have a debt to meet.

Now that the farm relief bill is passed, and up to the president, a lot of people are wondering if he will sign it, and if not, will congress pass it over the veto. Then comes the question who will it benefit, and how? There may be a relief in the measure—it may be as much benefit to protect the farmer with a tax as it has been to protect the manufacturer in other years, but who is going to have the price to pay more for farm products. If a protective tariff is wrong, will it make it better to add more to the protected list?

Belden, as well as many other communities in this part of the state are planning to observe Memorial day. The sentiment which inspires a day when those who sacrificed much for a common cause are gratefully remembered is to be commended, and it is a day that should be more and more sacred as the years pass.

No less an authority than an exchange tells us that the dip of the moon, on its back or standing on end has no significance as a weather indicator—but if there is a ring to be seen about the moon or sun, it is an indication that there is thin veil of clouds—or moisture—in the air, which may be condensed into rain or snow in quantity too great for atmosphere to carry, and down it comes, and is known as rain or snow, according to the temperature of the air—above or below the freezing point.

Wayne now has the Sunday movie, and one hears some discussion of the right or wrong of having open places of amusement for gain on the "first day of the week". One should consider perhaps that is a question settled by one's convictions and conscience—and that often is a matter of training and education in youth. On that theory, there will be more movies and less opposition to Sunday amusement in the years to come than now. In other words, the people now going down the shady walks of life toward the bottom of the grade were trained and taught a different set of morals as to amusements and Sabbath observance than are those of today. One thing may be noticed here as the result of the Sunday movie is a change in the evening church services for some features educational and moral.

and of more interest to the young than the ordinary church service of a few years ago, and I one think back a half-century they may well know that the change of service and attitude to the public has been very marked.

The Neligh News appears to be making a call to know what has become of one municipal band that was once in evidence at that place; but with perhaps little hope of finding the lost, for the story appears on the editorial page of the paper. Another item in the same editorial pages quotes this: "An editorial is that part of the newspaper that isn't read." Well, that is often the fault of the editor—and we believe that the News editorial page has "kick" enough in it to cause most of the subscribers to read its columns. It is a good place to find ideas fit to use.

The first page reader, if that is all of a newspaper he reads, misses much—is not getting all he pays for, in fact. Only recently a "reader" who likes to have the home paper get the news, asked if we had seen a certain piece of news in which Wayne people were interested, in a daily. We had not, and told our friend so, but added that we had read it in the Democrat. "Well, I did not see it spread out on the first page," he said, and admitted that page was all he read of a paper as a rule. A merchant often puts a lot of showy stuff in the windows to attract attention, but goods of real value, or greatest value are kept for sale and sold to discriminating buyers. The jeweler seldom puts his diamonds on display in the window. But we do not suppose that the subscriber who so kindly told us of the item he did not see in this paper will read this, for it is not intended as first page stuff.

Here comes another something to be charged up against prohibition. A sheriff in Illinois, near Quincy, is reported to be defendant in a case in which he is sued for the value of five fat hogs alleged to be worth $11.99 per cwt. because he dumped 2,500 gallons of mash that had been confiscated in a hog lot, and gave the hogs no protection from the rotten pile. Five of the hogs died with all symptoms of tremors. Of course, being hogs and having the chance they took an over-dose and went blind and then dead. Suppose the extract from that mash had been peddled over the land, would it have been any the less poison?

Perhaps the churches are advancing a bit along practical lines. At any rate it is reported that the Methodists in general conference now being held at Kansas City the idea of church union was endorsed by a vote of 852 to 3; and a commission will confer with representatives on the matter. With but one Savior, one Heaven and one Hell, it has often been a wonder why so many kinds of churches exist unless it be to demonstrate that while "salvation is free" it is expensive to run a church—especially when so many of them seem to be conducted as rivals in style and costs with other churches. Trying to "Keep up with Jones."

DEMONSTRATION IS TO BE HELD SOON

Physical Education Department to Present Contest of Seasons as Theme.

(From The Goldenrod)

The Physical Education Department demonstration is to be held Tuesday, May 22 at 1:30 p. m. in the college gymnasium. This is an annual event and the department spends a great deal of time in preparation for it. The program as planned at present indicates a very worth while entertainment.

The program is divided into five parts as follows:

The Contest of the Seasons.

Prologue

Some naughty fairy, perhaps she was only unwise, one day asked Prince Wayne which season she loved the best. She should have known that her question would cause trouble but as I have said, she was naughty—or perhaps just unwise.

Prince Wayne became worried. He had been accustomed to regard all of the seasons alike and he would have ignored the question had not the seasons themselves demanded an answer to the impertinent fairy's question.

Indeed, they became so jealous that Prince Wayne besought wise Mother Nature to advise him what to do. "Why not have a contest?" suggested Mother Nature. "A contest to decide which season could make the children happiest." The Prince was delighted for he was very fond of the children in his realm. He was sure that they would choose wisely.

It is the day of the Contest. Prince Wayne ascends the throne gathering the children about him as the trumpeters sound the challenge.

Lovely Summer is confident that her offering will please the children most for she brings vacation time with swimming days and picnics. Colorful butterflies and pretty daisies attend her.

SUMMER:

1. Land Drills in swimming—Grade 5 and 6.
2. Butterflies and Daisies, Game—Grade 1.
- Boys with nets, Frog Dance, Swing
3. In the Cornfield—Junior High Girls.

Next comes Autumn, beautiful in her gorgeous colors, as carefree as her dancing leaves are the children as they enjoy the rollicking sports which she presents. Here is the time of the harvest and its merriment.

AUTUMN:

1. Potato Race—Grade 3 and 4.
2. Vineyard Dance—Grade 2.
3. Reap the Flax—Grade 5 and 6—Girls.
4. Harvest Dance—College.

Winter is regal in her white splendor. With the air of a queen she presents to the children her contributions. The snow fairies help her. Nor does she fail to remind them of Christmas joys and winter frolics.

WINTER:

1. Picking up Sticks—Grades 5 and 6—Boys.
2. Snow Storm—Grade 3 and 4—Girls.
3. Fairies in the Toy Shop—Rural
4. College Gymnastics.
5. Weaving Dance.

Charming Springtime dances lightly forward with her dainty colors and joyful games. Last of all she brings out the well loved Maypole. She is sure that this will win the favor of the children.

1. Spring Dance—Kindergarten.
2. Stunts and Pyramids—Rural.
3. Ribbon Dance—Grades 3 and 4—Boys.
4. Folk Dance.
5. Maypole Dance—College.

The children have been so pleased with the whole contest that they beg Prince Wayne to allow each season to share equally with the others. He willingly consents and the now friendly seasons join with the children and Prince Wayne to do homage to the queen of Spring whose turn it now is to rule.

Test Your Methods.

No teacher would want to get the results that the farmers got in this story.

Two farmers met on the road and pulled up.

"St. I've got a mule with distemper. What'd ye give that one o' yours when he had it?"

"Turpentine, Giddap."

A week later they met again.

"Siy, St. I gave my mule turpentine and it killed him."

"Killed mine, too. Giddap."

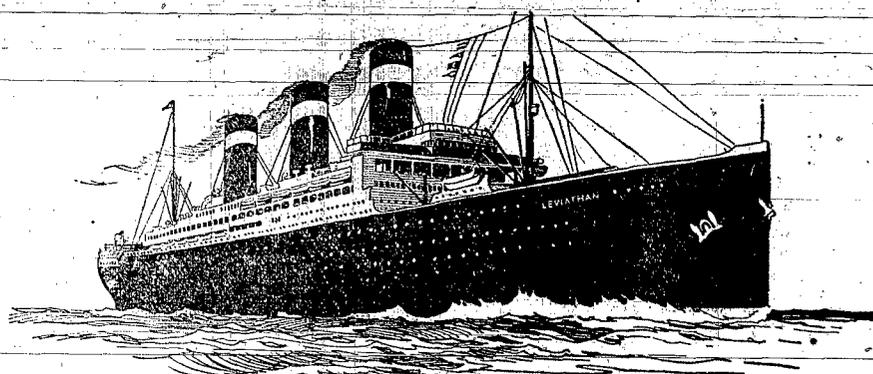

Teachers must make up their own ideas, and then have confidence in those plans and they will be given ample opportunity to work them out. That is the only way that educational advancement can be made by ideas, confidence and initiative.—Nebraska Educational Journal.

FOOD FOR A LEVIATHAN

By Roy Mason

NO, I'm not going to tell you the proper pabulum for a prehistoric monster, but about how carefully Uncle Sam inspects all of the canned foods which form a part of the twelve hundred or so different articles in the diet which is provided for the passengers and crew of the "S.S. Leviathan," the largest steamship on the seas, and also the other ships of the United States Lines fleet—the "America," the "Republic," the "George Washington," the "Roosevelt" and the "Harding."

In the first place Uncle Sam employs a certain keen eyed gentleman who has had years of experience in the experting of canned foods. His name is Michael W. Doolan, and he is the same man who also passes on millions of dollars' worth of canned foods which are consumed in the United States Navy every year. He accepted two years ago this additional task of experting all the canned foods for the United States Lines.

When this gentleman is notified that the new foods which need to be experted are all on board, he betakes himself to Pier 86 at the foot of West Forty-sixth Street on the North River, where the "S.S. Leviathan" now docks, and descends innumerable flights of red painted iron stairs into the very bowels of the gigantic liner. There he takes from the steamship's vast storerooms samples of all the new deliveries and opens and experts them for Uncle Sam. This experting is not only visual. It consists also of tasting, and often even of counting the number of pieces of a fruit or vegetable in a can in order to make sure that they contain the proper number for that particular kind of a fancy pack.

Fancy Grades for All Passengers

Canned foods are generally graded as standard, extra standard, and fancy, the latter title implying the finest food. The fancy foods served on the "Leviathan" go not only to first class, but also to second and third class passengers, while standard grades are served only to the crew. The prime object of the United States Government, according to Mr. Doolan, is to popularize its lines as a means of transportation by serving nothing but the finest foods.

And he sees to it that they do so. Here is a can of fancy California Royal Anne cherries. He has a steward open it and pour its contents into a soup plate. Then he inspects the can, tastes the syrup and counts the cherries. There should not be more than a hundred of this fancy species in a No. 2½ can. He eats some of the cherries, too, and pronounces them perfect. Then he makes a checkmark on his food list. The cherries are passed.

Fancy Hawaiian sliced pineapple comes next. He knows that there should be eight slices of the particular kind and brand which his food list calls for. He counts them, tastes the rich syrup, and nods his head. The steward then opens a big No. 10 can of fancy sauerkraut. "Taste how tender it is," he says, as he sips it. "See how evenly it is cut, how well filled is the can."

"These fancy Bartlett pears should contain eight halves. Right. See, they are all stemmed; everything can be eaten. You don't find such a product in standard packs."

"Fancy California apricots. Twenty-four. They are allowed up to thirty on a strictly fancy pack."

"Fancy egg-plums. Nine to fifteen allowed. Eleven in this can. Mmm! Isn't that perfection id syrup for a plum?"

"Fancy California Elberta peaches. Yellow clings, eight halves. They're allowed nine. Don't they slide down smoothly? Did you ever taste better fruit than that? They're taking thirty dozen cans on this trip—fifteen cases. Of course the number they take on each voyage depends upon the passenger list."

Fruits for Pies and Fancy Vegetables

"Here are some No. 10 cans of fancy New York State apples. See how pure white they are. They're used for pies. And here are some big cans of standard California peeled pie peaches—a solid pack, the best stuff in the world—with which to make pies. These No. 10 cans of fancy crushed pineapple are also used for pie fillings. All the fruit canned for pies contains no syrup. It comes plain. No. 10 cans of standard Maine blueberries for pies. The best thing they can get. They couldn't get fresh blueberries at this season of the year. And these fancy Red Sour Pitted cherries put up in their own juice. They're tart. That's the only way they want them for pies. The cans are well filled, and every cherry is pitted. These cost $14.00 or $15.00 a dozen, and they're worth it."

Thus Mr. Doolan talked as he looked at every can and every label, and tasted of the various foods. He seemed to enjoy his job as a connoisseur does a beautiful painting, or a scholar gloats over a rare and valuable manuscript.

"See this No. 2 can," he said, "of fancy succotash made with fresh green lima beans. Tender? Oh, my! Isn't that nice stuff? They're taking ten cases—twenty dozen along."

"And these fancy California white asparagus tips. Forty to sixty tips to a can. Thirty-six dozen of them. Here's some more—fancy California mammoth white asparagus in this can. Seventeen to twenty-four allowed... twenty, twenty-one, twenty-two."

"This big can is fancy tomato puree. Eastern packing. Notice its nice rich color. If it was cheap stuff it might be faded, and you'd find trimmings in it. There are none here."

"And this is Crosby corn—white corn from Maine. Taste it—Isn't it smooth and creamy? Delicious!"

He worked rapidly and skillfully, never overlooking anything, and insisting on seeing every can opened right in front of him. He tasted the fancy Northwest strawberries, Oregon and Washington grown, and put up in gold enamel-lined cans to preserve their color; the big cans of dark red cranberry sauce; and he was no less careful with the standard packed products for the crew.

Good Pork and Beans

"Try these pork and beans," he said. "There's a great difference in pork and beans. These aren't dry and hard, but soft and succulent. This is a fine pack. It tastes like more."

"These are standard Eastern tomatoes. Nice color. Very nice. All right. They're used for sauces and that kind of thing in the kitchen."

"And here are some whole beets. A mighty nice color, too. Dark Detroit red. See how nicely they're handled. They have to be graded to be about this size. Splendid!"

"These standard New York State string beans are all right, and these standard peas are really better than standard. They're extra standard."

"These pimientos came from Spain. They're simply splendid. They get the best from all countries on this ship."

A Formidable List

All these canned foods which he checked were merely a replenishment for one winter voyage when the passenger list is apt to be light. A glance at the Steward's Account of Stores of the United States Lines shows eighty varieties of fresh fish, including twenty-two of shellfish; sixty-three kinds of fish, salted, smoked, canned, and in the form of paste; fresh beef, mutton, lamb, veal, pork, and more than a dozen different smoked meats; It includes nine different corned meats, fifteen kinds of sausages, and half a dozen kinds of canned meats. The miscellaneous meats, fresh, frozen, and pickled, numbered twenty-three, and these big ships now carry sixteen different kinds of Kosher meats.

There are thirty-eight kinds of poultry and game in the ships' larders; butter, eggs, cheese, and ice cream in endless varieties; milk, flour, sugar, syrup, fifty-four different cereals; dried fruits, nuts, pickles, olives, oil, coffee, tea, spices, extracts, seasonings, crackers, sauces, enough sundries to bewilder a housewife; and nearly thirty different varieties of jellies and jams.

As for the canned foods on this list, in addition to the fish and meats mentioned above, there are thirty-five different kinds of fruits, including eleven pie fruits, and fifty-three different kinds of vegetables. The fresh vegetables carried in season number seventy-seven items, and the fresh fruits number thirty-eight. In all there are approximately 1200 items on this formidable list.

Parasites Kill Much Live Stock

Deserve More Attention and More Money for Their Investigation.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture)

Ten per cent of all the newly born calves, pigs, lambs, colts, and chicks, as well as other representatives of the domestic animal family, die each year as a result of the work of parasites, according to Dr. M. C. Hall, chief parasitologist of the United States Department of Agriculture. Losses from parasites, he says, run into hundreds of millions of dollars annually.

Parasites Are Increasing.

Our live stock, from horses and cows to chickens and pigeons, is attacked internally and externally by parasites representing hundreds of species, the horse alone having about 250 such enemies listed. The evidence indicates, says Doctor Hall, that for the most part these parasites are increasing in numbers and importance and are extending their distribution in the United States. Several reasons for this increasing spread are cited by Doctor Hall, among which he emphasizes the change from range conditions to modern pasture practice thereby increasing the density of stocking. Modern transportation facilities also aid in the distribution of parasites over a wide range of country.

Economic Importance Not Recognized.

The co-operative efforts of the parasitologists, veterinarians, and stockmen are controlling or defeating a small number of parasite species, says Doctor Hall, but we are losing ground to all the others. The basic research on which control measures must be based has not even been attempted for most of these parasites. The economic importance of animal parasites is not generally recognized, and for that reason too little attention has been given to their study. From both the economic and scientific standpoint animal parasites are important and deserve more attention and more men and money for their investigation.

Skim Milk Unexcelled as Protein Supplement

Skim milk is unexcelled as a protein supplement for swine, but in most sections of the East it is either impossible to get or prohibitive in price, so in practically all rations fishmeal or tankage are used to balance up the corn or other high carbohydrate feeds.

Tankage is a packing house by-product. It is made from fresh meat scraps, fat trimmings and scrap bones. These are cooked under high steam pressure, and then dried and ground fine after being passed over steel magnets to remove any metallic material present. This product runs from 40 to 60 per cent protein and 1 to 10 per cent of fat. The variation in protein depends on the amount of bone present, and for this reason should always be bought on a guarantee of composition. It can be obtained from your feed dealer or from the packing company.

Fishmeal is a product which has become very popular in the East as protein supplement, and runs about the same as tankage in its composition.

Hens Appreciate Warm Water During Winter

Since eggs are made up largely of water, it pays to keep plenty of clean water before hens at all times, and experience has shown that the hens appreciate warm water, or at least water that is not ice cold.

Electric or kerosene heaters are used by some professional poultry men, and the thermos-bottle type of drinking fountain has found favor on many farms. Packing the water pail with straw, newspapers or other material will do a fairly satisfactory job of keeping the water from getting too cold, in case other devices are not available. The bucket should be emptied and refilled with fresh, warm water each morning, noon and evening in cold weather. The extra work entailed by this chore is well paid for in the greater production of eggs.

Short Farm Notes

Sand or stones that have clay or dirt mixed with them will not make good concrete.

Two farm inventories, taken a year apart, show whether a farm business is getting ahead and how much.

Concrete foundations provide rigid, durable bases for gasoline engines and other stationary farm machinery.

A concrete foundation wall eight to twelve inches thick is usually suitable for farm structures up to two stories in height.

When lights are used in the hen house, the flock must have more to eat. And be sure that water is ready for the hens when they come down off the roost.

Experiments at Michigan Agricultural college show that corn and barley have about equal feeding value for dairy cows and that one may be substituted for the other.

Daddy's Evening Fairy Tale

MARY GRAHAM BONNER

NOT WANTED

Peter Goblin had driven Mr. Mumps, Mr. Measles, Mrs. Croup and Master Chicken Pox away from the children.

"I make children fat," said Mr. Mumps. "Of course I never bother about more than their cheeks. They grumble so after I've made them fat that I get disheartened." "Good thing you do," said Peter Goblin. "You're certainly not a nough."

Mr. Mumps knew Peter was right, so he didn't say another word in reply.

Mr. Measles spoke next. "We wanted to have you talk to us," said Mr. Measles, "because we cannot understand you."

"Why not?" asked Peter Goblin. "I try to protect the children from getting measles, mumps, chicken pox and croup."

"Of course they have to help me by trying to keep as well and strong as possible so they may escape you."

"Whenever one of you gets past us, how badly we do feel. We can't keep you out entirely but we can help."

"And then good and kind doctors drive you away."

"We hate doctors," said Mr. Measles. "Well," said Mrs. Croup, "we shouldn't hate them so much, because we give them a lot of trouble, and we love to give trouble."

"That's so, we do," said Master Chicken Pox.

"But," said Mr. Measles, "people say:

"Oh, don't catch the measles. And be careful not to catch the mumps. Don't go near anyone with chicken pox or you might catch it."

"Now to catch a thing," continued Mr. Measles, "means to chase after it or try to get it in some way. If they don't like us why do they talk about catching measles?"

"They say: 'Be careful not to catch Mr. Measles.'"

"It is very silly, for if they really don't like us they should say: 'Don't let Mr. Mumps catch you.'"

It is rather an absurd expression," admitted Peter Goblin, "but stay away from children and talk about it for a good long while."

"That's what you must all do."

Budding Diplomat

Little Bobby, aged three, was so fond of playing with our toy automobile that he had on one occasion refused to part with it when it was time to go home. He had, therefore, been forbidden to ask for it when he called again.

But Bobby was a budding diplomat. On his next visit he asked, "How is your toy automobile running now?" And upon being told it was in good order remarked casually, "O, I didn't want it. I just wanted to be sure nobody had burgled it!"

Needless to say, he got the "automobile."

A Figure Puzzle

Open a book at random, and select a word within the first ten lines, and within the tenth word from the end of the line. Mark the word. Now double the number of the page and multiply the sum by five. Then add 20. Then add the number of the line you have selected. Then add five. Multiply the sum by ten. Add the number of the word in the line. From this sum subtract 250, and the remainder will indicate in the units column the number of the word, in the tens column the number of the line, and the remaining figures the number of the page.

Jealous Little Joan

Little Joan, aged five, had always been somewhat jealous of her brother, Jackie, two years her junior. However, one day when playing some of the older children persisted in tormenting Jackie. Joan came to the rescue and mothered him beautifully. Later she confided to her mother: "Mamma, I don't like Jackie very much, but when any one is mean to him I like him a lot."

Children Not Allowed

The three boys wanted to go to see their aunt and her new baby, Mary. Mother protested, but still they insisted. Why, children aren't allowed in the hospital," continued mother. "Well," said Jack, "if they're not allowed, then how in the world did the baby, Mary, get in?"

POULTRY

CARE OF PULLETS

WHILE ON RANGE

Just "feeding the chickens" sounds simpler than the task really is, if the chickens are to be well fed. The purpose for which the flock is being kept has a great deal to do with the matter. Rations for fattening, maintenance, growth and egg production are all different, and will also be varied according to the age of the chickens.

Twenty-one kinds of chicken feeds, all of them different in their result, and all of them suited to different purposes, are exhaustively analyzed and discussed in a new bulletin by Prof. A. R. Winter of the poultry husbandry department of the Ohio State university. The bulletin, No. 63, entitled "Poultry Feeding Stuffs and Rations," has been published by the agricultural extension service of the university.

In addition to the definitions and discussions of the various feeds, there are given six formulae for rations. Two of them are "starting and growing" rations and the other four are for laying hens. Along with the formulae for the rations there are directions for making simple and efficient feeding equipment for the poultry yard.

Two special fattening rations are suggested, one for hens and the other for young birds. For hens, a ration of corn meal, 40 parts by weight, mixed with 60 parts, by weight, of liquid milk, is suggested. For the younger birds a greater variety of grains is recommended. The formula calls for a mash consisting of 59 parts of ground corn, 25 parts of wheat four middlings, 10 parts of finely ground oats, 5 parts of meat scrap, and 1 part of salt. This mash should be mixed with enough liquid milk to make a batter that will pour fairly easily.

Egg Production Is Cut by Uncomfortable Pens

If hens could talk, they would probably say harsh things about hot, uncomfortable poultry houses.

Ohio poultrymen are urged to keep that in mind, among other things, by poultry extension specialists of the Ohio State university in their monthly letter to farm poultrymen keeping records in co-operation with the extension service.

A hot poultry house, the specialists observe, is no place for a hen either to eat or to lay eggs.

"Open the ventilators and remove the windows; make the houses cool and comfortable," writes one of the specialists, P. B. Zumbro. "Don't expect egg production if the house is as hot as a bakeoven. Hens won't stay in hot houses long enough to consume their feed."

Another point in summer care of the poultry flock;

"Summer and fall production are greatly influenced by good green feed; old dry bluegrass or dead rye is not satisfactory. Rape is the best thing to plant now for summer pasture.

"Yard off a part of the ground around the house, and plant the rape there, allowing it to get a good start. It will provide good pasture until freezing weather."

Two other practices successful poultrymen observe at this time of year are culling the starker hens, and getting control of lice and mites on the birds.

Best Plan to Separate Cockerels and Pullets

As the flock reaches the broiler stage the roosters and pullets should be separated, for the pullets need no forcing but will make better layers if let grow along normally, with plenty of exercise. Broilers, on the other hand, should have only enough exercise for health and should be fed a fattening ration. At the final stage the broilers should be shut in a pen only, moderately lighted and fed all the while they eat of fine ground corn and semi-solid buttermilk. Some prefer to use a prepared fattening mash, many of which are on the market. Green or succulent feed should be fed also. Lack of exercise causes them to fatten very fast and makes tender, juicy flesh.

Duck Meat Breeds

One of the most common breeds of ducks is the Pekin breed. These ducks are white or creamy white in color and are as large as any of the breeds of ducks with the exception of one. Drakes weigh eight to nine pounds and ducks weigh seven to eight pounds. In the meat class this breed is perhaps the most popular over the United States as a whole. Pekins may be mated in the proportion of one drake to every six or eight ducks.

Prevent Chick Loss

Cleanliness is highly important in the prevention of chick losses. Always scrub the brooder floor with hot lye water and let it dry before putting in baby chicks. Clean litter, free from mold and small kernels of grain, should be used and changed often enough that filth does not accumulate. It is better to keep chicks partially confined, when provided with sunlight, than to let them out on old ground which may carry disease germs and parasite eggs.

ObeY Life's Laws and Keep Spirit of Youth

There has been no improvement in the longevity of human life in the last one hundred years for those who reach the age of fifty, a writer in Physical Culture Magazine maintains. By improving the mortality record of the earlier years of life, he admits, the average span of life has nearly doubled in the last two or three centuries. But, he says, the chances for life for a man of middle age have not improved in the last century.

"The proper way to prolong life," he declares, "is to get more life, to live more completely, to make yourself more alive in every part of your bodily organism."

"There is much about the human body that is beyond our understanding. The most learned anatomical experts and that the more he studies the body the more he realizes how numerous are the unsolvable mysteries that are hidden within it. Then why tamper with this marvelously constructed organism? Why not try to interpret the laws of life and health as indicated by the endeavors of the body itself to build and maintain health?"

"Then the spirit of youth can be retained on and on, at times even to old age; for life is worth little or nothing when the decrepitude of senility creeps upon you."

Old Year Dead When Harvest Is Gathered?

That the calendar by which we count our days does not fit in harmoniously with the seasons is pointed out by an editorial in Liberty Magazine.

"It has long been obvious," explains the editorial, "that starting the calendar on the first of January is all wrong. The year ends with the harvest, when the last grain is in, the leaves are fallen, and the earth has gone to sleep. The closing day of the calendar might well be that one on which we turn away from outward things and ask about the chances of having a little steam heat."

"It is unlikely on the whole, that the calendar makers will agree to end the year with the fall and begin it with the spring, as is meet and proper," concludes the editorial. "We must take January 1 as the beginning of the year because Julius Caesar fixed it that way and nobody has changed it."

Averages Untrustworthy

Recent insurance experience has shown that average tables are often misleading. The average weights are by no means the best weights. At ages under thirty the best conditions apparently exist among those whose weights are from five to ten pounds above the average. After age thirty the most favorable conditions are found among those whose weights are below the average. The amount below average increases with advancing age and at age fifty persons seem to be at their best when their weights are as much as twenty or thirty pounds below the average. Insurance experience shows that underweight is definitely an advantage so far as long life is concerned.

Her Past

They were very much in love with each other, and the young girl had but recently accepted an engagement ring from her sweetheart.

Although everything was perfectly planned for their future, the young man was inquisitive to the point of folly.

"Tell me, dear," he pleaded, "have you ever been kissed before?"

The girl blushed. She did not know what to say for the best.

"Well, yes; only twice," she confessed reluctantly.

"What?" he shrieked. "Who by?"

"Don't be ridiculous, dear," returned the girl. "It was only the church choir and the baseball club."

Trying to Help

Mrs. Blank returned home one afternoon after consulting a physician with the announcement that she had been advised to reduce the amount of carbohydrates in her diet. A few hours later the family assembled for dinner prepared by the cook, when all at once Mrs. Blank looked up to see Mandy lifting some of the vegetables off the table.

"Why, Mandy, what's the matter. Don't we get anything to eat?" some one asked the cook.

"No, sirree, you don't get this. It's got too many hydrophobias in it," she answered quickly.

Frugality

As boys should be educated with temperance, so the first greatest lesson that should be taught them is to admire frugality. It is by the exercise of this virtue alone that they can ever expect to be useful members of society. It is true, lectures continually repeated upon this subject may make some boys, when they grow up, run into an extreme, and become misers; but it were well had we more misers than we have amongst us.—Goldsmith.

What's the Use?

The American book canvasser tackled a solemn-looking negro elevator man.

After listening imperturbably while the canvasser enlarged on the vast stores of knowledge to be derived from the work he was offering on the installment plan, the negro remarked quietly: "Tain't no use to me, boss; I knows heaps more now than I gets paid for."—Exchange.

FARM POULTRY

MODERN CHICKEN MUCH IMPROVED

When you sit down to your breakfast eggs or your Sunday chicken dinner nowadays you will probably enjoy much better food than you did seven years ago. For while few of us know anything of the change, the great American hen has become a decidedly improved bird since 1921.

Thousands of poultrymen in more than half of the states of the Union have adopted standard systems for improving the breeds and eradicating disease in their flocks since Wisconsin began producing "accredited" chicks seven years ago.

"The basis of the Wisconsin plan," explains the Farm Journal, "was a breeding program whereby through culling, selection of birds of standard qualifications and vigorous constitutions, with supervision of both flock and hatcheries, high-quality flocks and chicks might be produced. The chicks thus produced were designated as 'accredited' and were advertised and sold as such."

"This accredited idea spread rapidly from Wisconsin and is now in operation under essentially the Wisconsin plan in Ohio, Illinois, Kansas, Missouri, Michigan, Texas, Tennessee and a number of other states. Some eight or ten more states are also preparing to put this plan into operation."

"In 1922, Connecticut adopted the Wisconsin idea, but made the blood test for bacillary white diarrhea the basis upon which flocks were to be accredited. Following the lead of Connecticut, Massachusetts, Rhode Island, New Jersey, Pennsylvania and a number of other Eastern states have built up an accredited system based on the disease-eradication plan. Washington, Oregon and Idaho are now on, or are adopting, this plan. New York has a plan that is a modification of this, with more emphasis on breeding."

Success of the plan is evidenced by the fact that Ohio, where the state poultrymen's association adopted the plan only in 1924, will this year produce 12,000,000 chicks from 65 accredited hatcheries.

Hot Water Very Useful in Preventing Chilling

If there is anything more aggravating than an old "mother" hen that refuses to hover her brood on cold, wet days, I don't know what it is, says a writer in Farm Life. But you know a dead chick more or less means nothing in life to an old Cuck, so it's up to us to give nature a lift in the way of artificial heat, when the hen refuses to do her duty.

Here's my way. Fill one-half or one gallon jugs with hot water, make a snug cover of woolen (an old blanket is ideal) to fit the jug, cork tightly, and place in a box or in the coop with the chicks. This will give off enough heat to keep the little things cozy for several hours. When necessary refill with hot water and you'll never lose chicks from chilling.

Poultry Notes

Comfortable quarters in the very earliest days means much in the future development of the chicks and the profit which they will return to their owners.

Young chicks should have no feed for 36 or even 48 hours after hatching. Corn bread, rolled oats, and hard-boiled eggs are good feeds for the first few days.

It takes 21 days for a hen egg to hatch, about 28 days for ducks, from 30 to 34 days for a goose egg, and 28 days for turkey eggs. The time may vary somewhat according to conditions.

The all-mash system of feeding chicks after the first month furnishes a satisfactory method and also allows the person handling the flock some leisure time without damaging the young birds.

Ground oats may be used for growing stock or laying hens when fed in limited quantities.

Wheat bran is largely used in all chick mashes. It is bulky but fairly digestible and has a laxative tendency which is beneficial. It is fairly high in protein.

Chicks need something green to eat. When they are out on good range they will take care of this requirement themselves. When they are housed it should be supplied.

In the building or maintaining of a high quality flock of poultry, no one factor is as important as the males heading the flock.

Buckwheat is lower in feeding value than corn, oats, or barley. Furthermore, it is higher in fiber and lower in digestibility than these grains.

When bluegrass is pastured too closely by geese, it will kill the grass out just the same as it will if bluegrass is pastured excessively close by cattle, or particularly by sheep.

Laments Passing of the "Good Old Times"

Times have changed and people have grown so serious that the old delight in holidays has vanished, is the complaint voiced by the writer of an editorial in Liberty Magazine.

"April Fools' day was one of the bright spots of the year," points out the editorial. "There was a brick under the hat; the stuffed pocketbook with the string tied to it. Breakfast muffins filled with cotton were a rare jest, and so was candy shot through with cayenne pepper. It was a long time anticipated and long remembered, as were St. Valentine's day, Christmas eve, Halloween, and the night before the Fourth of July. On Thanksgiving we went to grandmother's house and ate gorgeously. There aren't such grandmothers any more, or such cranberries."

"Christmas now means bills to meet," continues the disillusioned writer. "Independence day has been made a Sane Fourth. We no longer get any fun out of April Fools' day. Those unofficial childish holidays were a kind of possession peculiar to the past. They are not the same now. We are grown up and serious, and times have changed."

Odd Contradiction in Behavior of Mankind

When a man goes into a field to devote a day's work to producing food crops for his needs, he labors with intelligence, and accepts world experience. There is an agreed time to plant and harvest, and he follows this knowledge; in everything, while in the field, he works as effectively as possible. He naturally accepts all information that has been tried out in the centuries. He finds truth an asset; folly troublesome and expensive.

But when the same man goes to church, or lodge, political convention, or social affair, he changes his attitude; he believes in sentiment, and denies fact and experience in half he does.

A man must be a strange creature to God, who does all things well.—E. H. Howe's Monthly.

Safety Organization

The National Safety Council is a nonprofit, nonpartisan organization for the promotion of safety, sanitation and health in the industrial, public and home life of the whole world. It was founded in 1913, when a little group of employers, appalled by the useless and unnecessary sacrifice of life and limb occurring every year, determined upon a relentless fight against accident causes. Today the council has a membership of over 4,500 industrial concerns, government departments, insurance companies, schools, libraries, miscellaneous organizations and individuals. Its influence is felt throughout more than 10,000 workshops and among more than 10,000,000 workers, whose lives are safer because of its service. Its scope has grown from national to international.

Origin of Basket Ball

In 1891 a lecturer on psychology in the training school of the Young Men's Christian association at Springfield, Mass., speaking of the mental processes of invention, proposed the example of a game with its limitations and necessities. The same night James Naismith, a member of the class, worked out basket ball as an ideal game to meet the hypothetical case, and the next day in the lecture room it was put in practice with the aid of the members of the gymnastic class. Thence it spread to other branches of the Young Men's Christian association, and in two or three years to other athletic clubs and to the general public.

Fingerless Families

The story is that the great-great-grandmother, when she was young, told a lie about an apple, whereupon her parents threatened her with a curse that her children later on would be born with deformed hands. Whether it is true or not, the family of whom the story is told have for four generations suffered from a curious deformity. Ten members have had something wrong with their fingers, some having only two joints instead of three in some of the fingers, others having no finger-nails, and one or two being without fingers at all.—London Tit-Bits.

Her Point of View

John Bull, M. P., was determined to wake up his constituency. In particular he resolved to tackle a certain baronet's wife who, though she might have been a power for good in the district, preferred auction bridge to deeds of charity.

"Doubtless, Lady Blankspace," he said, when he called upon her one afternoon, "you have noticed the time that is wasted at bridge parties."

Lady Blankspace agreed heartily.

"You're right," she said. "Some people take years to shuffle and deal, don't they?"—London Mail.

One Is About Gone

The fisher, most closely related to the marten, is exclusively American, inhabiting a rather narrow range from Nova Scotia to northwestern British Columbia, and in the Alleghenies, Rocky mountains and Sierras-Cascade ranges. It was never a common species, says Nature Magazine, and the effect of settlement and unrestricted trapping has been its virtual extinction over most of its range; yet it still has little protection, and the high price that the skin commands insures its continued pursuit.

Daddy's Evening Fairy Tale

MARY GRAHAM BONNER

MR. AND MRS. JOCK

The elephant school is the school the keeper in the zoo started in which he taught the elephants to do tricks, for it would have been of little use to the elephants if they had been taught to do sums and to write and read.

No one can quite think of an elephant sitting up with a pair of glasses before his eyes and trying to hold a book before him with the aid of his trunk.

Besides, very few books would interest the elephants—if they could read, except books on hay, and there aren't many written on that subject.

So the elephants learn to do tricks in their school, and the keeper calls his time for showing them how to do the tricks his lesson time.

You know that in a circus they have a school for the different kinds of animals and they have lessons every morning.

If they didn't do their lessons well they wouldn't be able to give such fine performances.

Mr. and Mrs. Jock were looking forward to the summer when they would take real baths instead of the oil ones the keeper had been giving them during the winter to keep their skin from cracking.

He Rang a Bell.

One of Jock's best tricks was the way he could catch pennies which were thrown to him.

He put them in a little bank in his cage and every time he did this he rang a bell which the keeper gave him.

And when he is given peanuts he is very wise, for he takes as many as he can get and holds them in his trunk if he hasn't time to eat them all.

He had his toe nails cut the other day, for when an elephant is in the jungle he keeps his nails in good condition by going over rough ground.

They find plenty of oil in the marshes for their skin, and they harden their feet by rough stones.

In place of this in the zoo the keeper gives them sandpaper.

When they drink they use their mouths, which of course is what all sensible people and animals do—in fact everyone drinks that way.

But then you see elephants have long trunks and we often wonder just how they can manage.

They throw their trunks over their heads when they drink. Of course they get their food to their mouths by the help of their trunks.

So now, here is a little more elephant information which the elephant keeper hoped would reach the children—and he said he knew the elephants would like to feel that the children knew all this about them—particularly Mr. and Mrs. Jock.

Remarkable Avenue

Near Tonbridge, in Kent, England, there is perhaps the most remarkable avenue of trees in the world. This avenue is nearly half a mile long, and the trees in it are planted in alphabetical order. At present the trees are quite small—saplings, as they are called—and some of them are new to the country; but the gentlemen who has planted the trees, Sir William Geary, of Oxon Heath, Hadlow, hopes that they will all take kindly to the strange soil and climate, and grow into a fine, stately avenue.

Here is a list showing how this alphabet of trees is made up: Aspen, beech, catalpa, chestnut, alder, hornbeam, elm, fraxinus, gum, hornbeam, idesta, juglans, koelreutia, larch, maple, negundo, oak, plane, poplar, quince, rowan, sycamore, tulip-tree, umbella pine, laburnum, willow, xanthoceras, yellow-tree, zelcova. The majority of these names will be quite familiar to boys and girls who live in the country, or who are interested in nature study.

Quite Busy at School

Samantha—How is your boy making out at college?

Miranda—Well, the poor boy can't have much time to study, for I think he visits his sick friends most of the time. He says his job as cheer leader takes a lot of time.

Table Under Paint

Jean Edward, aged three, was talking about the kitchen table which had been newly painted. Daddy pretended to be nonplussed.

"What table, Jean?" he asked.

"That table," said Jean, pointing to it. "That table under the paint!"
