POLITICAL TALK AT CITY HALL

Saturday Afternoon and Evening Mrs. Funk, Speaker Nationally Known Speaks to Women, 3 p. m.

MIXED AUDIENCE IN EVENING

Announcement comes that Mrs. Funk, under direction of the national and state democratic committees is to address the women voters of Wayne and vicinity at the City Hall at 3:00 o'clock Saturday afternoon, October 6th. All women voters will be welcome at the afternoon meeting, and the talk will be educational regardless of your political preference. It is a duty every voter owes to his or her community to secure the best possible information on public questions that they may cast an intelligent ballot.

The case is called for decision November 6, and the evidence and arguments are being presented daily, and as one of the jury every voter should be informed as to the issues. The candidates and issues are being presented and there is small excuse for a voter to go to the polls in ignorance of the leading candidates and for what they stand and whether the rank and file of the people or the corporations and favored industries are to benefit from the policies advocated by the different candidates. Look the questions fairly in the face and vote for a verdict which you believe will do the greatest good to the greatest number. That will be good citizenship.

The Evening Meeting

A second meeting at 7:30 Saturday evening, Mrs. Funk is to address a mixed audience; and all voters are invited to attend. This means you.

SCHOOLMEN ARE GUESTS AT HOME OF PROF. HOOK

More than twenty members of the Northeast Nebraska Schoolmen Association were entertained at the home of Prof. and Mrs. T. S. Hook here last Saturday evening.

A feature of the evening's entertainment that proved most interesting was a republican and democratic rally. The teachers were divided into two groups and each group instructed to present support for the ticket assigned to them.

Those present were as follows: Supt. and Mrs. E. P. Hodapp, Emerson; Supt. and Mrs. W. G. Bell, Allen; Supt. and Mrs. T. I. Friest, Wisner; Supt. and Mrs. W. E. Flake, Stanton; Supt. and Mrs. C. A. Jones, Winside; Supt. and Mrs. R. A. Dawson; Supt. and Mrs. W. G. Bell, Al-Carroll; Prof. Lyle Mabbott, Carroll. Supt. and Mrs. D. V. Masser, Blair.

The following of Wayne also were present: Prof. and Mrs. K. N. Parke, Prof. and Mrs. A. F. Gulliver, Prof. George Costerisan, Prof. Judson Q. Owen, Prof. A. V. Teed, Prof. P. C. Maynard, Prof. Walter Albert and Prof. and Mrs. Ray K. Holder.

LOCAL LEGIONNAIRES GO TO NATIONAL CONVENTION

Ray Ash and Ray Cross, members of the local Legion post left yesterday morning for San Antonio, Texas, to attend the tenth national convention of the World War veterans, which opens in that city Monday.

Mr. Ash spent nearly a year in various camps of Texas during the world conflict, and anticipated a big time renewing army day experiences with old "Cronies".

They left by car early yesterday, and plan to spend a couple of weeks on the trip, which will take them to various places in the south before they return.

WORLD WAR VETERANS TO HOLD ARMISTICE "HOP"

An Armistice dance will be given at the Kay Pavilion here on the night of November 12, according to the Legion dance committee, who are arranging for one of the best dances ever given by the local post.

The Russ Renegar orchestra of Mitchell, South Dakota, said to be one of the best in the middle west will furnish the music, it is reported. This orchestra has never been in Wayne. Their services are very high and generally they play only in much larger places, it is said, and it is believed they will make a great hit with the dancers of this vicinity.

A meeting of the local Legionnaires is called for this evening.

ALL TWISTED UP

One of the neighbors brought A. Mann from southwest of Wayne to town Friday, and helped him into a physician's office to see if he had any broken bones. After an examination it was decided to go to the hospital and have an x-ray taken, and that did not indicate any broken bones.

It seems that Mr. Mann was going out with a mower, and while opening or closing a gate, his team started, and as he could not stop them, he made a hurried rush to get clear of the mower, stepped into a gopher hole, fell in the clear of the machine, but twisted a leg and hip badly in the effort.

No bones being broken, it was the verdict that he would be all right in a short time, if careful of the wrenched joints.

D. W. DAVIS TALKS TO H. S. STUDENTS

Football Team Go to Stanton Tomorrow; Teachers Will Attend Norfolk Meet.

David W. Davis, former governor of Idaho, gave a short talk at the assembly of the high school Tuesday, in which he referred to this country as one of great opportunities for everyone who is big enough to go after them.

Contrary to the opinion of some, he intimated, there are more opportunities today than in the "Good old days" they talk about so much.

To make a mark, Mr. Davis inferred, in the world one must determine on a goal and then fight to attain the end and it can be realized.

Play Stanton

Coach Holder and his football proteges will meet Stanton on the latter's field tomorrow in the second game of the season. With two full teams out each day this week, the new mentor is holding some hope of making a better showing that was made when they suffered a reverse in their opening game here Friday.

With Peterson on the flipping end of a passing attack, it is believed good results could be attained if a consistent receiver can be developed.

Hendrickson, although quite light, just missed several chances to get away when he fumbled beautiful heaves last week. With more experience, he may show up well.

Teachers Meeting

All of the Wayne teachers will attend the district meeting at Norfolk the last of the month, and the board voted to allow the usual time off for this occasion.

The glee club is working on an operetta to be given the latter part of November.

MRS. EMMA BAKER CALLED BY ILL BROTHER

Tuesday, Mrs. Emma Baker received a message from Deadwood, South Dakota, telling that her brother, Chas. Nies, from Ekalala, Montana, who was taken last week from his home to the St. Joseph hospital at Deadwood, must undergo an operation—one leg must be amputated, as the only means of relieving his suffering and possibly prolonging his life. The operation was to be had today, and Mrs. Baker was due to arrive there Wednesday forenoon.

Mr. Nies and family were for many years residents of Wayne county and were here for a visit about two years ago, and since that time Mrs. N. passed away. Former friends of Mr. Nies are hoping that he rallies from his illness.

REV. W. FISCHER ACCEPTS CALL AT WEST POINT

Rev. W. Fischer for so many years pastor of the Thopholis Evangelical Lutheran churches southwest and southeast of Wayne, preached at the Evangelical Lutheran church at West Point last Sunday, and a call was extended to him to become pastor there, to preach each alternate Sunday. He has accepted the call, and begins his duties at once. Rev. Fischer, who had resigned from his charge here is building a home at Wayne, plans to continue to reside here, and will drive to his appointments, once in two weeks. The pastor of the West Point church was called by death a short time ago, and Rev. Fischer has supplied the pulpit on several occasions. We are glad to note that he will continue to reside at Wayne.

Lid Comes Off College Football When They Meet Yankton Here Tomorrow

Starting Lineup a Mystery on Eve of Season's Opening Battle Here Tomorrow.

MAY INTRODUCE AERIAL ATTACK

The lid will be blown off the football schedule for the local college tomorrow when they meet the strong Yankton team on the local athletic field.

The starting lineup, Hickman confessed last night, is still a problem. He has been shifting his many candidates about freely during the scrimmage practices all week, and admits that he is at a loss to know who to trot out for the opening kickoff.

One thing is sure unless the eleven who start the opening game show a lot of class they will not start another, for there are a lot of men fighting for a berth and many of them are going to be good ones before the season is far along.

Local followers are anticipating a passing game. With three or four good passers available the only question is will there be anyone at the other end of this attack to make them count?

No doubt many of the fifty candidates will be given a chance to show what they can do under fire, and their performance will go a long way in determining who is who in the future.

Whether the Wildcats win, lose or draw followers will be treated to a real fighting brand of football. Every play during the evening workouts, has been bitterly contested. The boys have the enthusiasm and spirit that makes trouble for any opponent.

They're out to win, so let's go!

MR. AND MRS. CLYDE OMAN HOME

Clyde Oman and wife arrived home last Friday evening from a trip which took them first to their wheat fields near Dalton in the western part of the state, where they stopped and waited for the rains to cease that they might harvest and thresh a good crop of wheat, which was not improving much during the rainy month of July when it rained practically every day until August came, and then the sprinkler was shut off, and practically no rain since.

After harvest, they drove on to visit their daughter, Ferne and husband at Worland, Wyoming, with whom Mr. and Mrs. Jason Gorst they continued the trip on to visit Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Tuttle at Lewiston, Washington, and from there the family party went north into Canada, where they spent a week camping and having a fine outing.

Of the crops and scenery along their way, Mrs. Oman said that in the irrigated districts all crops were fine, and especially was the fruit crop in Washington. They were in the vicinity of Walla Walla, where all seemed to be unusually good, and the scenery very fine.

The return trip was made without any startling events.

MILO KREMKE MOVES IN NEW LOCATION SATURDAY

Milo Kremke, who has leased one of the rentals in the new theatre building plans to be moved and ready for the opening of business in his new home Saturday morning.

His business will be conducted much the same as in the past, although he plans to carry more complete confectionery lines, in addition to his news business.

He has handled all leading dailies of this territory and the leading magazines of the country. Because of lack of room he has not carried a complete line of candies and other confectionery, which he plans to have in the future, he reported.

A FAMILY REUNION TUESDAY

Tuesday was a great day at the home of Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Judson, for there gathered there at that time her father, Chas. Tompsett and wife from St. Louis, Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Colling, uncle and aunt from Belleville, Toronto, Canada; Mr. and Mrs. Harry Colling, cousins from Toronto, Canada, and Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Tompsett and children, a brother, from Bloomfield. The relatives from Canada are now visiting other relatives at Omaha and other points in the state; but her father remained for a little longer visit. It was a jolly, happy family gathering, beyond doubt.

ARRESTED TWICE ON THE SAME DAY

Sloux City Quartet in Clutches of Law Two Times While Here Last Friday.

TOO WEAK TO BE CONCLUSIVE

The manager of the Sloux Monument works, his son, a salesman and stone cutter for that firm were arrested twice while in Wayne last Friday evening.

Following threats of violence, the quartet, Wm. Burnham, manager of the Sloux Monument Works, his son Vernon, Emil Hallberg, a stone cutter and a salesman Mr. Cavanaugh of Carroll, were arrested here on complaint of Mr. C. O. Mitchell.

The four arrived here Friday afternoon, according to reports, and threatened to "clean up" on Mr. Mitchell and his workmen, following a disagreement caused when they failed to get a Laurel woman to cancel an order placed here for a monument.

Following a hearing in county court they were released on good behavior, promising to leave the city, but a few hours later were again arrested by the county sheriff and charged with intoxication.

Following an analysis of their breath by the county attorney they were found not guilty of this charge, but were again arraigned and fined for violation of their earlier court order.

The half pint of alleged whisky found in their possession was too weak to affect their breath sufficiently to convince the examiner that they had been drinking, it is reported.

WILLIAM ASSENHEIMER VISITS DEADWOOD

William Assenheimer returned Tuesday evening from a trip to Deadwood, South Dakota, where he went the week before to visit that place and the soldier home there. He reports an enjoyable trip—that the climate and the people were fine. At the home he met L. Mahaffey, a former citizen here, who served with other Wayne boys in the militia on the Mexican border, and who was seriously ill with rheumatism here after he returned from service. He has been at Deadwood for perhaps ten years and has employment there.

Their little daughter who was in ill health while living here, passed away some years ago.

He found at Deadwood, in the employ of the big mine of that place, the Mometake. Pete Rooth, one of the family of that name who went to the Black Hills in 1890, from this county, near Altona. Others of the family have passed away.

Naturally, Will looked hurriedly into financial conditions of the state, municipalities and counties, from the view point of an assessor, and from what he learned he is of the opinion that Nebraska is far better off in the matter of debts and rate of taxation than are they in the hill districts of South Dakota.

LEON BEERY TO REMAIN EAST

When Prof. Leon Beery of the Normal was given a year leave from his music here, he evidently intended to return; but he has accepted a place as conductor of music in the school of New Brunswick, New Jersey, and has sent for his goods, left in storage here, and they have been packed and are on their way to the eastern home. Many friends will regret to learn that they are not to return here. One of the inducements, we are told, for remaining is the fact that in connection with his work there, he can have access to and continue his music studies at Columbia Teachers College. Their home will be at Highland Park, New Jersey.

PROMINENT MOCUS CLUB MEMBER IN SMITH RANKS

Milo Kremke, prominent member of the Mocus club and long time standpat republican, is reported to have jumped over the political fence and joined the Smith ranks.

When interviewed Mr. Kremke refused to talk, but did not deny the accusation. At any rate he is flashing a fine Al Smith sign in his window.

THE J. C. NUSS STORE ADDITION

Wednesday the writer was asking Mr. Nuss how his new room was coming, and while it seems to him to move slowly, he took the trouble to show how it is soon to be. The store with full basement will be 150 feet in length and 25 feet in width. The new part will provide additional room for display of stock, the basement will provide better and safer room for reserve stock. The office will be where one from it may command a view of the entire store room, and will be well lighted. A room is to be set apart for display of wall papers, and there will be a commodious cloak room for use of employees, and other minor conveniences.

Next week it is that that the new front will be placed, the ceiling put on, all steel, and the furnace set and the elevator installed to ply between the basement and the first floor.

KASPER KORN NOW VISITING GERMANY

Writes Interesting Letter From His Native Land; Now on His Return Home.

Kasper Korn and wife, who left Wayne late in July to visit his native land over the sea, sends greetings to the Democrat readers, dating his letter which was mailed September 23, from Hofhelm, Bayern, Ufr, Germany, telling as follows:

Just a few lines to say we arrived safely in Germany on August 13 and have had beautiful weather and a fine time so far. Am staying at my brother here when not traveling. Have been to see one of my sisters in Thuringen at Mihla on the Werra. Mihla is a village of 3,000 inhabitants and is located on the beautiful river Werra. There is some beautiful scenery out here. We took in Eisenach and the Gartburg, where Luther used to live, and where he translated the Bible into the German language.

Last week we visited Nurnberg, a large city of over 400,000 inhabitants. It is over 1,000 years old and has many beautiful and historical buildings, among them some beautiful churches 500 to 600 years old. We attended one of the churches there last Sunday and could not help but admire the interior with its wonderful carvings and paintings.

We have not suffered from the heat here, as Germany is a moderate climate. It is a very beautiful country, no weeds to be seen, for every foot is under cultivation. So many beautiful flowers I have never seen, for all the peasants and the city folks as well, raise masses of flowers.

We hope to see our old Wayne friends soon for we sail on September 27 on the "Munchen" from Bremen.

Sincerely yours,
KASPER KORN.

SAVIDGES COME HOME AT CLOSE OF SEASON

Closing the season engagement at Lyons Saturday night, the Walter Savidge carnival train and many of the troupe arrived at Wayne Sunday morning, and have been busy most of the week storing the equipment in his buildings here for the winter season—and that was more of a task than it used to be twenty years ago, when Walter closed a season, for while in those days a few wagons were ample to haul the entire equipment, it now requires more than a dozen railroad cars to move the show.

The reports are that it was a very good season, playing northern Nebraska where the show is well known, and a few stops in the Black Hills region of Wyoming.

Mr. Savidge will doubtless spend a busy winter lining up attractions for a bigger and better show in 1929.

LOOKING FOR FEEDERS

Wednesday morning G. W. Albert and his neighbor, G. Alvin went to Omaha to stock up on feeders if they found the quality of young animals to suit, at a fair price. While our corn crop this year is not what was hoped a few weeks ago, it is yet enough to encourage the farmers to get feeders to consume it; and that seems a wise thing to do. More corn has been cut and put in the shock this season than usual, and thus an added feeding value is obtained from that part of the crop. Silos would have added much to the feeding value of the corn crop this year, and in fact that would be true many years, but the need is more noticed when the crop is below normal.

SPEAKER FLAYS CLEVELAND TERM

Andrew Mellon Praised by Idaho Speaker Who Elaborates on Cleveland Term.

SAYS WE'LL "CHOKE TO DEATH"

Spending most of the hour in flaying the Cleveland administration of thirty years ago, Boss Tweed of sixty years ago, and praising Andrew Mellon and the last seven years of administration, David W. Davis, former governor of Idaho spoke at the city hall Tuesday evening.

Painting a black picture he elaborated extensively on the Cleveland administration to substantiate his contention that the country cannot grow and prosper without a protective tariff.

The World war was credited with the good times of the last Democratic administration, and the tariff was given the credit for the prosperity which he claimed we have enjoyed during the past seven and one half years. Praises Mellon.

Referring to Andrew Mellon as a "Wizard", he said, "I hope and pray that this great man can be prevailed upon to continue in his present capacity for another four years if Hoover is elected."

Ignoring the decrease in the farm business for the same period, he said, "Industrial business has increased from 55 billion in 1920 to 78 billion in 1927," and added that for this reason we could not afford to take a chance on a change of administrations.

"Choke to Death"

No one is justified in voting for Smith, the speaker said, hoping that he will be able to give us wine and beer, because if we wait until then to get a drink we "will choke to death."

Appeals to Women

He appealed to the women to vote for Hoover because of the fine character and ability of his wife, who received her education and training in the same university, and the same experiences as Mr. Hoover, he said.

NEW LICENSE PLATES ARE RECEIVED BY CO. CLERK

License plates for 1929 were received by the county treasurer this week, and will be placed on sale about the tenth of December. The new plates are black with white numerals, and easily read.

The allotment includes 3700 car plates, 200 farm truck and 300 regular truck plates. To date 3553 passenger car licenses, 125 farm trucks 200 regular trucks, 15 trailer and 5 motor cycle licenses have been issued for 1928, according to Mr. Steele, county treasurer.

The plates were made by the Gopher Stamp and Dye Company of St. Paul, Minnesota, the same company that furnished them last year.

PROMINENT CUMING CO. FARMER SHOOTS PHEASANT

E. H. Von Seggern, of near Altona, was caught in the act of shooting a pheasant by Archie Stephens, Wayne county sheriff, last Friday and was hauled into court and found guilty, and fined $100 and costs.

While driving along the highway northwest of Carroll Mr. Stephens observed the shooting of the bird, which is protected by state game laws, and placed the offender under arrest. Von Seggern is a prominent farmer living east of Altona, just across the Wayne county line.

According to the Bloomfield Monitor, Henry Vlopp's death was due to financial difficulties, and they were not entirely of his own making. A crash of a few years ago, in which he was involved led to the financial break which was the cause of his brooding until he could see release only in death.

Grant Davis and wife, who moved to Plainview last spring to do a stunt farming, returned to Wayne last week. Mr. Davis tells us that farming was a failure in that vicinity this season, because of lack of moisture. It was a situation that needed farm relief, but there was none. They plan to again become citizens of Wayne.

Merchandise estimated to be worth between $7,000 and $8,000 was stolen from Hytse Brothers at Spencer Friday morning. All the hosiery in the store was taken, and $500 worth of mens shirts, and no trace is left to tell who they were. It is that that the loot was packed into traveling bags, as one filled bag was left at the store. They got but little money when they looted the place.

grain, and that barley, of which they grow much there for feed, had been returning about 40 bushels per acre in many fields, and that the corn was out of danger of frost, and gave promise of being a good crop.

The Beemer bank loss is placed at $1,100,000 besides the president, who appears to be lost in the shuffle. That is a nifty sum to be looted from a bank in a little town of a few hundred inhabitants. Still some hardened adventurous bank robbers take a gun and their lives in their hand and burglarize a bank, often getting but a few thousand dollars for their risk and sometimes get shot to that seldom happens—but they usually are apprehended and arrested soon or late or shot by their pals for mistakes in dividing the swag.

Over in Knox county, it develops that there is division of opinion among the farmers of Cleveland precinct of some of the action taken by the county board in appropriating $2,000 to an ex-official, but for what our story did not tell. There was also a discussion as the abolishing the office of county assessor, and turning that duty over to the county clerk at a cost of four times that of having the work looked after by an officer having that as his regular duty. If there is official action not in keeping with economy; not honest, not for the best interest of the county and its people, we believe a farmer union can perform no greater public service than to take a leading part in having such wrongs corrected.

OBSERVANCE OF FIRE PREVENTION WEEK IS URGED

Citizens are requested by city officials and members of the fire department to observe Fire Prevention week commencing Sunday, October 7, by making thorough surveys of their homes for the purpose of eliminating rubbish and other fire traps and making chimney and roof repairs, if necessary.

The big majority of September fires resulted from flames starting in rubbish in basements. Had the rubbish and trash been hauled from the basements before furnace fires were built, the number of blazes that month would have been cut in half, the firemen of a neighboring city point out.

There may be a number of defective chimneys at this time, and they should be repaired at once. A chimney without a defect is one assurance against a roof fire.

Carelessness is Cause Numerous times the firemen have found mortar missing on the side of chimneys and cobwebs in attics, the combination of which paves the way for a roof blaze. The firemen hold that practically every fire, if not every one, is due to carelessness and lack of necessary precaution. This belief is also held by Rogers, the famous fire clown, who contends that every fire could have been prevented.

In 1927, property loss alone in the United States due to fire is estimated to have totalled more than $475,000,000, while loss of life from the same cause was likewise heavy. The fire losses were decreased in the United States as compared with 1926.

BULBS MAY BE PLANTED NOW

Bulbs may be planted anytime between the middle of September and the time the ground freezes, the earlier the better. Too often people forget all about them until they see them in the neighbors' gardens the next spring. A gorgeous display of striking color contrasts can be provided if the bulbs are planted in beds or around shrub borders. In proportion to their cost and care, bulbs offer a maximum of attraction.

Fall bulbs include those early spring flowering plants such as tulips, hyacinths, narcissus, jonquills, crocuses, scillas and lilies. They may be planted in formal beds, in borders near the house, or in the perennial shrub border.

HOW SHALL WE PAY FOR OUR HIGHWAYS?

Paying for Highways is one of the big problems confronting Nebraskans today. It is no longer a question of shall we build roads. Automobile traffic demands roads. The issue is how best to pay for them.

The meeting of Good Roads Boosters at Alliance on the 10th of this month will attempt to decide that part of the problem.

The officers and members of the Good Roads Association are urging every community to send a delegation and to take an active part in planning this development work.

Chambers of Commerce, Community Clubs and similar organizations are formed for the purpose of assisting in the development of their localities. The majority of such clubs in Nebraska are members of this road organization and will send members of their road committees to help plan road legislation for 1929.

The meeting last year suggested the continuing of the two cent gas tax as it now stands hoping to complete the 8000 miles of state highways within the next few years.

It is proposed to commence building county highways by adding a third cent to gasoline, and additional cent on gas would gravel about 2000 miles of county roads each year and ultimately connect every town and market with all weather roads.

A few counties have completed their share of the Federal System and will need a small mileage of paving in the near future. Laws will be asked for permitting those counties to use their share of the two cent gas and their share of Federal Aid of retiring paving bonds, providing they do not interfere with any other counties opportunity.

The need of a floating fund has long been apparent. To supply this necessity a raise of two dollars in auto registrations is suggested. The proposal is to divide this fee between the counties and the state, then allow the state to use 40% of their share to close gaps in the state system, thus furnishing continuity of improvement.

Nebraska probably has less paving than any state in the Union, and it had been hoped the state system might be completely graveled before paving became a necessity. Maintenance costs on some of the heavy traffic highways have convinced road students that a small paving program is now needed to continue construction from the 2c tax. It has, therefore been decided to ask for a fourth cent for hard surfacing. An additional cent would hard surface from 100 to 125 miles where the maintenance of gravel is no extravagant waste.

Those proposed changes in road laws should be studied before approved or condemned. The Alliance meeting is open to all, attendance and suggestions will be appreciated.

The office of the Good Roads Association is located in Lincoln. They are glad to furnish information and answer questions pertaining to road legislation.

WHERE STOOD WM. J. BRYAN ON RELIGIOUS FREEDOM?

To many people in this country the utterances of W. J. Bryan carried much weight, nor was it due to the spell of his oratory. His utterances made good reading, and they rang true to his convictions—and it was a matter of principal with our late citizen when he took a stand in a political or religious crisis. Tho he is not here for this campaign, he left his views in unmistakable language in his last convention talk at New York, at the 1924 national democratic convention. It is given below:

In this country it is not necessary to protect any church. I have such confidence in the Catholic church, which was for 1500 years my mother church as well as yours, that I deny it needs political aid. It was the Catholic church that took our religion from its founders and preserved it—it was the only custodian—for over fifteen centuries. When it did this for Catholics it did it for men and every Protestant. The Catholic church, with its legacy of martyr's blood and with the testimony of its long line of missionaries who went into every land does not need a great party to protect it from a million Klansmen.

The Jew does not need this resolution. They have Elijah, and they have also Elisha, who drew back the curtain and revealed upon the mountain tops an invisible host greater than a thousand Ku Klux Klans. The Catholic church and the House of Israel have their great characters today who plead for respect for them whose pleading is not in vain.

I am not willing to bring discord into my party. The Democratic party is united on all the economic issues. We have never been so united since

I have known politics, and nobody has had more reason than I to regret past discord. Now when we are united and face our political foes with dauntless courage and with enthusiasm never exceeded, these people tell us that we must turn aside from this titanic task, divide our party on a religious issue and cease to be a great political force.

The Democratic party has never taken the side of one church against the other; the Democratic party must remain true to its traditions; it cannot surrender its rights to exist; it cannot be false to the mission that it had in the days of Jefferson, to which it remained true in the days of Jackson and to which it was still loyal in the days of Woodrow Wilson.

My last objection is that I am not willing to divide the Christian church because if it is destroyed there is nothing to take its place. We must stand together to fight our battles of religion against materialism.

There is only One who can bring peace to the world, and that is the Prince of Peace—the One at Whose coming the angels sang, "On earth peace, good will toward men."

Jew and Gentile, Catholic and Protestant stand for God, on whom religion rests, and Protestant and Catholic stand for the Christ. Is it possible that now, when Jesus—the hope of the world—is more needed than ever before—is it possible that at this time in this great land, we are to have religious warfare? Are you willing to start a blaze that may cost innumerable lives, sacrificed on the altar of religious prejudice? I cannot believe it; God forbid; I call you back in the name of our party, I call you back in the name of the Son of God and Saviour of the world, Christians, stop fighting; let us get together and save the world from the materialism that robs life of its spiritual values. Banish the "Hymns of Hate," our song must be "Blest by the tie that binds our hearts in Christian love."

The tariff is a great benefit to the people, we are told, when it is manipulated by the beneficiaries of the game. The steel trust is enabled by having a tariff wall behind which to hide to make millions from the consumers by selling its product at top price—the price to the foreign purchaser plus the tariff protection, plus the freight from Pittsburgh, be it far or near. This aids the farmer to get farm machinery at the right price, for the trust.

A lot of politics in the air these days. When one tunes in on a radio and hears the leaders in the political battle right in his own home, it makes those who were interested in getting issues to the ears of the people forty or fifty years ago wonder that the people in those days got at the gist of the issues. A great torch light procession was not especially educational for as a rule but a small part of the people following the band heard any of the speeches by those who were supposed to be the spell-binders. The railroads cannot now issue passes for thousands to go and march at a political gathering for the men and measures they hoped to see win. The law stopped the big delegations of laboring men from going out for a holiday at the expense of the special interests.

One wonders how it comes that our "blue sky" law is so easily evaded by fraudulent stock sales schemes. The Madison Star-Mail tells of issuing a warning to its readers last spring when certain salesmen were thick in that county, advising the readers to investigate before investing; and last week it tells that Oswald B. Wecker of Norfolk is trying to get his farm and $5,000 back, which he gave up to a slick salesman who traded him $28,000 stock in an Omaha refining company, which was going to make their share holders rich on oil to be taken from lands underlaid with oil, on which they had leases. It is a great game. And with the sanction of the state in the form of a permit to sell the stock, and a slick tongue and no conscience the honest people who would prefer not to wait long for riches are easily robbed.

The Nebraska Good Roads association will meet next Wednesday, the 10th, at Alliance, and they have a most excellent program outlined, including a wild duck dinner, and that is something that will appeal to a lot of the fellows. In addition all phases of road improvement will be discussed.

Today is Metcalfe day all thru Nebraska. He may be heard on the radio today—and he is the democratic nominee for the U. S. senatorship, because he is competent, able, fearless and loves all of the people.

The farmer who is going to vote for Hoover—or now thinks he will—should ask himself WHY? and then look the Hoover record over for a good and sufficient reason.

"WHISPERING HOPE"

In closing his one hour speech, here Tuesday evening, which was filled with insinuations, David W. Davis, ex-governor of Idaho, closed with a plea to the women to vote for the republican candidate because of the fine qualities and character of that candidate's wife, who he said is far more fitted to represent American women as first lady of the land. His reasons were mere insinuations, another form of whispering that has been injected into the campaign on many occasions.

Is a woman who rears a family of children, and who does her own housework less qualified to represent American motherhood as first lady of our Democracy than one who has no children or who has not done her own work?

THE SPEAKER FOR SATURDAY AFTERNOON AND EVENING

Of Mrs. Antoinette Funk, who is announced to speak here Saturday afternoon and evening, we have received a bit of her history, and feel assured that none will care to miss her talks, if possible to attend. The article says: With the vigor and enthusiasm which induced Roosevelt to call her "the little corporal," Mrs. Antoinette Funk noted woman orator, arrived in Omaha Tuesday to begin a speaking tour of the state in the interest of the democratic presidential candidate. Mrs. Funk spoke to a general meeting of the democratic women at the Castle hotel Wednesday.

"An enormous tide of sentiment has set in toward Smith," declared Mrs. Funk, "and the democrats have a hope and enthusiasm that will endure far past election day. Those who hold the reins of the republican party are slipping. Never have republicans been so lukewarm."

"This is a wonderful campaign," she continued, "and it will bring us something new. It is a long time since everything has been dragged in to the open."

Mrs. Funk comes from a staunch

"I find hardly any enthusiasm for Hoover in my observations, while Smith is talked on every hand," she said.

Mrs. Funk looks to see a realignment of political parties, which she believes has already begun.

After her Omaha appearance and a

We now have no dry party if we believe the reports, except the prohibition party—and we would advise those who can see no other question in this campaign to vote their ticket. To some the curbing of corporate greed and defending the rights of the masses to a little corner of God's footstool for their use without paying tribute to monopolies is as important as voting for a candidate who will not tell for what he stands on the liquor question. There are very few politicians who are to be trusted without being publicly pledged, and often "hog tied" if they are to be held for sure.

STATE BUYS COAL AT MINE

Chairman Birss of the state board of control announced awards Saturday on twenty-nine bids on coal for state institutions. Bids were received from dealers representing coal fields in six states. Bids were to be based on prices at the mines.

The Sheridan Coal company of Omaha was awarded a contract for 7,000 tons of Cherokee southern Kansas slack at 1.65 a ton at the mine. As the freight to Lincoln points it $2.25 a ton the coal can be sold at Lincoln for $3.90 a ton, the lowest price the board has paid for this coal. Other coal bought by the board is little if any lower than formerly.

4 thousand 4 hundred tons of Rock Spring, Wyoming, coal is to be divided equally between the Rock Spring Fuel Company of Omaha and Harris Coal company of Denver, each bidding $1.10, mine price.

The Midland Coal company of Kansas City was lowest bidder on 2,500 tons, of Oklahoma semi-anthracite slack at $1.15 a ton.

Contracts for 2,000 tons of deep shaft southern Kansas nut coal at $2.95 and 300 tons of Franklin county, Illinois, nut, at $2.25 were awarded to H. B. Miles of Lincoln. The board asked for bids on 400 tons of range coal but has not yet awarded contracts.

THE PREACHER IN POLITICS

There is and has been and doubtless will be comment on the attitude of the "pulpit" in political action of a partisan nature. As many people see it, a minister has as much right as any to his political freedom; but when he preaches it as some are said to do, from his pulpit, and with a personal attack therein, he will make trouble among his followers, and trouble for the candidate or the cause he may believe in favoring by his attitude; as is shown by the following: which has been handed in with a request that we publish the same:

Concerted in Reverse

Omaha, September 25.—To the Editor of The World-Herald: I wish to say I listened in last night on the radio speech made by Minister Stratton at Dallas, Texas, in regard to Al Smith.

Now, I wish to say I am only in Omaha on a short visit and I take this means of expressing myself. I am 68 years old, I am a thirty-second degree Mason and a Shriner, I have voted the republican ticket all my life and I would like to see you print this in box car letter size, that Stratton made a convert out of me. But converted me for Al Smith. I am 100 per cent American and dry but I will leave here for my home and will vote for Al Smith and will try and convert a few men who may not have heard this sermon. When a minister of the gospel will use his language in a tirade on any public servant who has the honorable position of governor of a great state in these United States, regardless of creed or color, I say he is beyond his calling. As I see it, such men make our politics a disgrace.

Cute in a Baby— Awful at Three —and it's Dangerous
by Ruth Brittain

Thumb sucking does look sweet in a baby, but it is disgusting in the three-year-old and sometimes it hangs on until fifteen or sixteen! The habit may cause an ill-formed mouth or induce adenoids; and it always interferes with digestion. Pinning the sleeve over the hand; attaching mittens, or putting on cardboard cuffs, which prevent bending the arms at the elbows, are some of the ways to stop the habit.

Another bad habit—irregularity in bowel action—is responsible for weak bowels and constipation in babies. Give the tiny bowels an opportunity to act at regular periods each day. If they don't act at first, a little Fletcher's Castoria will soon regulate them. Every mother should keep a bottle of it handy to use in case of colic, cholera, diarrhea, gas on stomach and bowels, constipation, loss of sleep, or when baby is cross and feverish. Its gentle influence over baby's system enables him to get full nourishment from his food, helps him gain, strengthens his bowels.

Castoria is purely vegetable and harmless—the recipe is on the wrapper. Physicians have prescribed it for over 30 years. With each package, you get a valuable book on Motherhood. Look for Chas. H. Fletcher's signature on the wrapper so you'll get the genuine.

DON'T suffer headaches, or any of those pains that Bayer Aspirin can end in a hurry! Physicians prescribe it, and approve its free use, for it does not affect the heart. Every druggist has it, but don't fail to ask the druggist for Bayer. And don't take any but the box that says Bayer, with the word genuine printed in red:

Aspirin is the trade mark of Bayer Manufacture of Monoaceticacidester of Salicylicacid

The Family Budget

The family budget and ours are alike in one particular—outgo must not exceed income if success is to be attained.

Telephone revenues must be sufficient to meet all expenses, such as taxes and wages. They also must provide a fair return on the value of the property.

Otherwise, reliable service cannot be provided to the public and additional money cannot be obtained from investors to expand the business to meet the increasing demands for service.

Your telephone needs can be met satisfactorily only when the telephone income is sufficient.

BOBBIE'S THREE FRIENDS

One night, after Bobbie had been playing in the barn all day, he went to sleep very quickly.

He went to sleep so quickly that he had not had time to say, as he usually did:

"Please, Mr. Dream King, send me nice dreams."

If he did not feel so dreadfully sleepy he would make his little speech longer and would say:

"Your gracious Majesty, Mr. Dream King, will your royal highness do a poor, humble subject like myself, the great and noble and wondrous, honor of sending me most royal and noble and wondrous dreams?"

This evening all he said was:

"Nice dreams, please."

"Soon, oh, so soon, it seemed as though he saw his three horse friends, Danny and Fanny and Prince walking into his room."

And then they all stood at the end of the bed, all in a row.

"Hello, Bobbie," they said.

"Hello Danny and Fanny and Prince," said Bobbie.

"We've come to tell you something," said Fanny.

"Hello, Bobbie," they said.

"It's something you've always wanted to know," said Danny.

"Because I'm the oldest horse, they've given me the honor of telling it to you," added Prince.

Then the three horses neighed, looked at each other, smiled their horse smiles and then looked at Bobbie.

"You've always wanted to know why we put our ears straight up when you come around," said Prince.

"Oh yes," said Bobbie. "I've always wanted to know if there was any special reason for it."

"There is," said Prince, "and I will tell it to you."

"When we put our ears up it's to tell you we're feeling pleasant and friendly."

"When horses put their ears way back it means they're cross, and perhaps they'll bite."

"But we have never put our ears back on our heads when you've been around, Bobbie, so it means we always, always like to have you with us."

And the next morning when Bobbie got up he went out to his three friends and kissed them, and said:

"I know a secret of yours."

An Easy Coin Trick

Place three coins in a row across the table. Next pick them up, and as you do so, count, "one, two, three."

Next put two of your coins down, counting "four, five." Then pick the two up again, counting "six, seven" as you do so.

The next thing you do is to place the three coins down, in a row across the table, but lower down, and count "eight, nine, ten" as you do this.

Now this all seems simple enough, but when others are asked to repeat your actions exactly, they will find it very difficult. The trick lies in the start. Your friend will probably begin to count as he places the first three coins down on the table, saying "one, two, three," and that will make him come out with "eleven, twelve, thirteen" instead of "eight, nine, ten" at the finish. Therefore you must remember to lay the three coins down first and not begin counting until you begin picking them up.—Grit.

Hunt Singing Earthworms

If you want to go out and watch the ways of the singing earthworms that have figured in the news of late, take a red lantern with you. Earthworms can't see red light, asserted W. B. Walton of the bureau of entomology, United States Department of Agriculture. Mr. Walton has been trying the effects of various colors of light on these unorthodox, but effective-trout baits. They are very sensitive to blue light and other parts of the upper end of the spectrum, but when red light is turned on them they continue their work of dragging food into their burrows, quite as though they were still concealed by their congenial darkness.

When Dreams Come True

"Well, Pauline, what did you dream about last night?"

"I dream that you gave me a box of chocolates and papa gave me a nice doll."

"But you know, dear, that dreams always mean the opposite."

"Then I shall get the doll from you and the chocolates from papa."

Shades of Difference in Term Thoroughbred

When you say another woman is a thoroughbred you feel that you have paid a compliment. What exactly do you mean?

One ingenious writer once explained that a real thoroughbred individual has a fine clear skin, fine hair of either light-brown, dark-brown, black, red or auburn hue, a bright clear eye—either tall or short but not excessively fat nor lean, regular teeth, well-proportioned nose, large nostrils, well-curved jaws, full, red and moist lips, well-rounded ears, a smooth or rich and full voice.

Probably your own notion of a thoroughbred has more to do with temperament, manner and mental traits than these purely physical features, though, undoubtedly there are some physical characteristics that you do consider essential to the real thoroughbred.

Perhaps you feel that a thoroughbred must, simply must, have shapely hands—and that the woman who has very stubby fingers with nails considerably broader than long cannot be a thoroughbred. That notion goes along satisfactorily until you happen to meet a woman with short fingers and very stubby nails who really is very much of a thoroughbred.—Washington Star.

Dog's Claim as Man's Most Faithful Friend

Most boys and many girls, and 10,000 times 10,000 men and women, love dogs. We don't know when this loyal, unflinching friend of man first met him, first learned to defend his flocks, his dwelling, his person and the lives of those dear to him, but wherever we have this creature we call man, there we have found his faithful friend and companion, the dog, always willing to follow him through thick and thin, never seeming to care for an instant whether his master was rich or poor, wise or ignorant, saint or sinner, alas even when beaten, starved, cruelly treated, ready to lick the hand that has hurt him. A good man once said, "When my father and mother forsake me then the Lord will take me up." Might not one say that, when a man might feel forsaken of every earthly friend, there would still be looking up into his face the gentle, trusting eyes of his devoted dog, saying by every look and sign, "Where thou goest I will go, thy lot shall be my lot, nor shame, nor loss, nor prison bars shall move me from thy side."—Chicago Post.

Electrical Dust Storms

Dust storms, which charge barbed-wire fences to a high voltage, stall automobiles by interfering with their ignition systems and add new worries to radio listeners by causing even worse static than thunderstorms, are among the curious phenomena that visit sections of the great plains east of the Rockies in dry seasons, says Popular Mechanics Magazine. In northwestern Kansas, during one of these disturbances, a man became curious about the amount of electricity his aerial was collecting and connected it with the ground wire through a 32 candlepower light. He obtained as brilliant light as when it was connected with his automobile battery. No thunder or lightning occurs during these electrified dust storms, nor is there any known relation between them and earth magnetism. Any metallic object insulated from the earth seems to become highly electrified.

Sounds That Climb

Recent tests show that the crowing of a rooster, the ringing of a church bell, and, under some conditions, the shout of a man, penetrate almost a mile into the upper air.

A cricket's chirp carries up 2,500 feet, and the croak of a frog can be heard at an altitude of 3,000 feet. Among sounds produced by living things, a dog yelp holds the altitude record. It has been heard by balloonists 5,900 feet up. The report of a rifle will carry about the same distance.

Of all sounds recorded, a locomotive whistle reaches highest. It has been heard more than two miles above the earth.—Popular Science Monthly.

Catching a Bird

Little Margaret was found playing in the back yard with her grandmother's best salt shaker. Margaret's mother asked what she was doing.

"I'm going to catch a bird," she replied.

"Surely you don't think you can sprinkle salt on a bird's tail and catch it?" the mother said.

"But Mr. B— told us kids that we could sprinkle salt on a bird's tail and catch it and he wouldn't tell a lie for no bird," Margaret insisted.

"Why, Margaret, that's impossible."

"Well, hasn't Aunt Carolyn a bird in a cage, and how did she get it?"

To Be, Not to Do

The besetting sin in America is to conjugate the verb to do every moment instead of to be. The incessant activity, regardless of what it is all about, leaves us empty. People do not enjoy their own society because it is not worth enjoying. They are not taught to have any resources within themselves. I think that the founding of the school of business administration at Harvard, for example, is one of the worst blows ever given to educational ideals in America.—James Trustow Adams in the Forum Magazine.

POULTRY

HEN COMFORT IS MOST PROFITABLE

When the rough days of autumn and winter arrive, the hens begin to hunt about for comfort and protection from winter winds and snow. If the poultry house is cold, dark, and uninviting, it is very unprofitable to the owner. It not only shortens up the egg supply, but next spring the hens go to work with a handicap because they have been poorly wintered.

If we give the hens one-half the attention that we do our other stock they start making things count, says a writer in an exchange. Our poultry house is built for economy and comfort for the hens. We are strong believers in the scratching department, making the hen work a lot. To do this we have all the floor space in the building arranged for bad days, for that is when they must work inside. We put up a gunny-sack curtain in front of the perches, which serves for two purposes. It keeps the hens warm when on the perches at night, and keeps them off the perches in the daytime.

Then we partition off the inside with this cheap burlap which breaks possible drafts, and also divides the flock in their work for the day. We also open the windows, and drop down a burlap curtain on bad days to keep out cold air, storms and beating winds. This burlap is almost indispensable in our poultry equipment, and we use much of it. Our front curtain to the main building is made from it, tacked upon frames so it can be raised or lowered as needed.

On snowy, rough days the hens work happily away, more contented than if outside. It has always been our custom to set up a windbreak of cornstalks against the lee sides of the fences and the west and north of the houses, and it is wonderful how the hens will take refuge behind this fodder barrage many winter days when the snow is off.

Consistent Layer Will Molt Late in Season

Most hens stop laying when they begin to molt. It is a fact no longer disputed that a hen, in order to make a high yearly record, must be a consistent layer. The early molting hen is not a consistent layer. She takes all the fall months as a vacation for changing her plumage. The consistent layer molts late and grows her new plumage rapidly.

The hen that under normal conditions molts early, will not lay as many winter eggs as the hen that molts late. Neither will she begin egg production earlier in the spring. No definite date can be set as to early molting. As a general rule, however, the first hens in the flock to molt should be sold, and the last to molt should be kept for breeding purposes.

Hens may be thrown into an early molt by starving while laying heavily; by irregular feeding; by roosting in a house that is poorly ventilated; or in any way that tends suddenly to check egg production. Molt from any of these causes should be avoided, as it is likely to result in a lower total egg production. If the pullets are hatched early, they will be laying in the fall and thus the egg production kept up at all seasons.

Poultry Notes

Teach the chicks to roost, as soon as they are old enough to learn.

Man must keep chickens free from lice and mites because the chickens can't.

Good feeding is important so as to maintain the resisting power of the fowls.

Good ventilation is very essential. If all openings are closed the house will become damp and the air vitiated.

Heavy egg production, like heavy milk production, can only be secured by liberal feeding of a well balanced ration.

During the summer months the colony house should be sprayed at regular intervals. A satisfactory spray can be made of three parts of kerosene and one part of crude carbolic. Coal or tar disinfectants are also satisfactory.

Sodium fluoride, used at the rate of an ounce to a gallon of water, is recommended by specialists for destroying parasites. This should be used on a warm day as a dip, and the birds should be completely immersed in the solution.

Hens should be as well fed when molting as when laying. Growing their new feathers is, if anything, harder on them than producing eggs.

Preventing the parasites by keeping the poultry house clean and by the regular use of dips is much more satisfactory than eradicating them once they have infested the flock. To control mites, the roosts and nests should be painted with carbolineum or some equally effective wood preservative. One treatment each year is usually sufficient.

POULTRY FACTS

POULTRY BREEDS AND HOW CLASSED

Chickens are divided into classes, breeds and varieties. Birds with the same general characteristics are placed in one class. Classes are then divided into breeds. Each breed of poultry is distinguished from other breeds by differences in type. Breeds are separated into varieties. The different varieties of the same breed are designated by differences in comb or color. All varieties of the same breed should have the same general type characteristics.

There are four general classes of chickens that are common and other classes less common.

The American class consists of birds that are of the general-purpose type. They have yellow skin and legs, red ear lobes and legs free from feathers.

The breeds that make up this class are: Plymouth Rock, Wyandotte, Java, Dominique, Rhode Island Red, Rhode Island White, Buckeye, Jersey Black Giants and Chanticleer.

The Mediterranean class are smaller than the American class and are often known as the egg breeders. They are nervous in disposition, very active, compactly built, have white ear lobes and clean legs. The breeds that make up this class, are: Leghorn, Minorca, Spanish, Andalusian and Ancona.

Fowls that make up the Asiatic class are large and clumsy, have red ear lobes and feathers on their legs. They are often referred to as the meat breeds. Brahmas, Cochins and Langshans make up the breeds in this class.

The English class, while not as common as the other three already referred to, probably rank fourth in popularity. These birds are medium in size, have red ear lobes, clean legs that are pink in the buff and white varieties and black in the black varieties. The breeds making up this class are Orpingtons, Dorkings, Red Caps, Sussex and Cornish.

Selling Squab Broilers During Winter Months

Quite a number of the broiler plants make a specialty of squab broilers, which sell best during January and February. They are grown in about eight to ten weeks, the hatches coming out in November and December, and are successfully raised without any outdoor exercise.

The greatest demand for squab broilers is in spring, when game birds are scarce, and a small bird is in demand in restaurants. They should weigh from three-fourths to one pound, and must be plump. Many who ship squab broilers make a great mistake in sending bony, poor ones. Good returns cannot be expected from poor, scraggy birds, half dressed.

The broiler for the winter market must be attractive looking to command a ready sale at good prices. Plump chickens, neatly dressed, free from pin feathers, with unsoiled skin and with perfectly clean legs, will find a ready sale, while poor stuff goes begging. A fat broiler is quite a rarity. The best that can be done, generally, is to have them plump, for the natural tendency of the chick is to use all nutriment for growth and development. The main point is to grow them rapidly.

To grow good broilers there should be dry quarters provided, thoroughly cooked food, comfortable heat (not too high nor too low), regularity in feeding, cleanliness and good light. The chicks must be induced to take plenty of exercise.

Moving Pullet Flock

When there are many pullets to be moved it often pays to leave them in the crates over night and move them in the morning. Then the poultryman has a better night and can do a better job of culling and treating the birds for lice. As each pullet is taken from the crate, it can be inspected for weight, general health and vigor, and prospective laying ability. All birds that are poor prospects for winter profits can be isolated for future observation.

Improve Egg Quality

Much can be done to improve the quality of eggs produced by careful selection of eggs used for hatching purposes. All undersized, misshapen, off-color, and defective shelled eggs should be eliminated from the incubator. By following such a practice for a few years the quality of eggs laid by a flock should be materially improved. Egg dealers are willing now to pay a premium for high quality eggs. It is well to assort them according to size and color.

Feed to Help Pullets

If pullets must search for their feed on free range they will probably find sufficient food for body maintenance, but growth will be slow and egg production will be impossible until late winter or early spring. Liberal feeding of grain and mash containing 20 per cent of high-grade tankage, or in place of tankage all the milk the pullets can drink, will not only reduce the amount of exercise but will hasten growth and stimulate fall egg production.

Never Can Live Down That Fatal Faux Pas

Of course, I shall have to leave town and attempt to begin all over again where my past is unknown. I cannot remain here, where my business associates eye me pityingly, knowing that the new sales manager, Mr. Goomis, has given me to understand that my time is up at the end of the month. And what I did seemed, at the time, so venial!

My blunder occurred at a little dinner given by the sales force in honor of Mr. Goomis. All had gone pleasantly enough; Mr. Goomis, who sat at my right, seemed to take a particular interest in me. And when, in response to the general demand, he rose to "say a few words," I sank back contentedly enough, certainly with no presentiment of disaster. It is true I had drunk a good deal; but my nerves were steady, I knew what I was about, and except for a slight feeling of unusual vigor, possibly of daring, I was quite normal. Even now I cannot account for that fatal faux pas.

I only know that when Goomis, after the usual apology for his lack of forensic ability, cleared his throat and began: "That reminds me of the story of the Scotchman who took his wife for an airplane ride—now stop me if you've heard this one—"

I stopped him!—Kansas City Times.

Human Body Depends on Toe for Balance

The most perfectly formed feet are found among savages. Civilization tends to compress the feet, spoiling the shape of the toes and in many cases actually deforming them. Originally intended to be used as a sort of second set of fingers, the toes still play a prominent part in the lives of many natives. Indian craftsmen, for instance, hold a tool between their toes with an ease almost equal to handling it. Amongst the more advanced peoples, however, this use of the toes is completely obsolete, and in another hundred years our toes may be out of work. In the meantime, however, we must certainly have a use, though limited, for our toes. On them we largely depend for the balance of our bodies, the spring of our walk. If we were toeless, every step would be a jar. For cycling, football, dancing, to name but three instances, toes are practically essential. In them we carry about with us a sliding lever more delicate than any science could devise, which helps us to keep our balance. Decidedly, we cannot yet afford to dispense with our toes.

The Wood Makers

The ancient Britons, we are told, dyed themselves blue with woad. The manufacture of dye from woad is still carried on, although it is not used for its original purpose.

Huge, cumbersome wooden rollers drawn by horses are used to crush the plant, and in the village of Parson Drove, in the Fen country, a woad mill is still in seasonal use, its processes probably differing little from those of two thousand years ago.

Woad has its uses in newer industries, and for certain purposes its value still remains superior to all modern substitutes.—London Mail.

Feathered Dustbins

Would you care for a vulture in place of your dustbin? In Tibet, where there are no modern facilities for getting rid of refuse such as are afforded in this country, vultures are used for this purpose.

The lamas make a practice of trapping the clemens or black vultures and fastening a long rope to the bird's leg. The other end of the rope is attached to a peg driven in the ground, and each bird is provided with a big rock on which to perch. Garbage is strewn around it, and the scavenging birds feed on this and quickly clear it away.

Novel Tadpole Test

Hot water causes female tadpoles to turn into males if they are kept in it too long. A scientist kept two sets of tadpoles from the egg stage until he was able to determine their sex.

In one set, in which the temperature of the water was natural, the sex ratio was normal, about 100 females to 96 males. In the other set the temperature of the water was jumped suddenly to nearly 90 degrees Fahrenheit when the tadpoles were five weeks old. The sex glands of the females in this set gradually assumed a masculine character, and the frogs emerged as males.

Sea Rarely Traversed

There are great spots in the Indian ocean that are never traversed. Take a map and draw a line from Freemantle to Colombo; draw another line from Freemantle to Durban. These represent the "lanes" of ocean traffic. Study the resulting triangle and try, if you can, to imagine its utter loneliness. Thousands of square miles of trackless ocean lie there—ocean where, since the beginning of the world, only an occasional stray keel has rippled the surface. In that great watery desert a derelict ship might drift for years.

Bananas the Only Clue

By MARIE DALE

(Copyright)

AUNT SALLY STONE had come to spend a few months with her nephew, Jim Leroy; and therein lay advantages and disadvantages for Jim. It was pleasant to think that one of his own kin would sit across from him at dinner in the dining room of the apartment hotel where he made his home. It was not so pleasant to have to burden himself with the duty of telephoning to Aunt Sally when he would be half an hour late.

All this solicitude was tiresome. Even more tiresome did Aunt Sally become concerning Jim's lunches. She figured out just how much it must cost Jim to buy his lunches at a restaurant. Then at breakfast one day Aunt Sally said:

"Jim, I found out that they put up lunches here for the boarders. You know you pay for lunch whether you eat it or not. You're entitled to it. So I told the waiter to have yours put up with the rest."

Jim offered a few objections, but in vain. So he started off with his bag of lunch. And Jim continued to carry his bag of lunch though he did not eat it. Aunt Sally would be with him only a month more.

Jim's habit was to lay the bag of luncheon beside his desk. One day he was so busy with outside business through the first hours of the day that when he returned at about three it occurred to him for the first time that he had had no luncheon. He was hungry, and he thought that even one of those cheese sandwiches would be palatable. And that was when he noticed for the first time that his lunch bag disappeared—all save the banana.

"Apparently my lunch eater does not like bananas," thought he.

Jim studied the faces of the office boys, trying to single out the one with the hungriest, most pinched expression as the probable lunch snatcher. But he found that they were all in the habit of lunching at a little lunch counter around the corner.

Once he asked Miss Baldwin, who took his dictation whether she had any suspicions on the subject.

"Don't think," he said, "that I object at all. Whoever takes it probably knows that I don't want it anyway. I am concerned to think that anyone working here has such a flat purse as to need such a tasteless lunch. I'd take it up with the salary committee if I thought we didn't pay enough."

Pretty Molly Baldwin looked reflectively at the end of her pencil, and her eyes were lowered. "Don't you think that there might be some one who—well, some one who had enough money to spend who still liked to be economical? She—he might be helping some one at home, or saving, or something, and so might be glad to eat the lunch that would otherwise be thrown away. It costs forty-cents at least to get lunch even at a cheap place, Mr. Leroy, and forty cents a day for five days a week is two dollars and two dollars a week for a year is a hundred dollars!"

Jim was looking out of the window and really said nothing. But Molly said: "What did you say, Mr. Leroy?"

"I was saying, or, rather, thinking, that you were a girl after Aunt Sally's heart. I never knew anyone else who figured things out that way, but apparently you do, too."

Then, as there seemed to be nothing else to do, Molly left the room or started to. As she went, Jim called her back.

"Will you go to lunch with me," said Jim, surprised at his own quick decision. "I thought we could talk over some business."

To which Molly thankfully consented.

On the list of "Specials for Today" on the menu of the restaurant where Jim and Molly lunched, was written "Banana Shortcake."

"Won't you have some of this?" asked Jim.

"Oh!" said Molly with a little frown, "I can't endure bananas."

When Jim returned the untouched bag of lunch was standing beside his desk. His work as a detective was progressing.

As Jim expected, the confession came without grilling. It was the night Jim was taking Molly home from the theater that after many false starts and a blush or two she told Jim that she had taken the lunches. "Only I never ate the bananas," she added. "I don't like them."

"You suggested," said Jim in reply, "that possibly the lunch eater needed to save money. Your family does not seem in need of help. What in the world are you saving money for?"

"Every girl who works ought to have money saved to buy furniture and things," said Molly in her frank, sweet way.

"Are you thinking of being married?" said Jim with difficulty.

"Oh, I'm not engaged—of course not," said Molly in confusion.

They had reached Molly's front porch by this time and Jim stayed Molly's hand before it touched the bell. He took the hand tenderly in his and watched to see whether her expression showed resentment. Seeing none, he took courage.

"Would you—could you—do you think you'd care to be engaged to me?" And before Molly pressed the button that summoned her watchful mother to the door she had said yes to Jim's query.

SOME WHISPERING IN NEBRASKA

"I am glad that Senator Norris has spoken so plainly," Congressman Howard is reported to have said. He also remarked, "Senator Norris never speaks with a double meaning in his speech." That is more than the congressman can say for the man whom he is supporting for president. — Lincoln State Journal

The above is a fair sample of "whispering" a grave charge against Governor Smith. The editor of the State Journal does not openly assert that Governor Smith speaks with a double meaning in his speech, but I apprehend that if the question should be left for a jury of Nebraska high school boys to decide—why, their quiet verdict would be that the editor of a newspaper published within the shadow of our great free Nebraska university is guilty on charge of "whispering" the charge that Governor Smith speaks with a double meaning in his speech.

But the state of the Lincoln Journal's editorial mind will be taken into consideration by all charitably minded Nebraskans. The editor of the Journal is angry and annoyed by the attitude of Senator Norris, and desperately frightened because of the increased Smith sentiment in Nebraska since Senator Norris openly announced that in his opinion a Nebraska believer in the principle of the McNary-Haugen farm bill CANNOT consistently oppose the election of Alfred Smith. In normal state of mind the editor of the Journal weighs his words, writing usually in kindly vein. When he is both angry and annoyed, as he is now by reason of Senator Norris' advice to Nebraska farm folks to vote for Governor Smith—well, when in angry vein the editor of the State Journal resorts to the meanest kind of "whispering," as per his words above quoted.

Senator Tom Heflin is more highly to be regarded than an anti-Smith whisperer. Heflin blurs his charges against Smith right out in the open. The editor of the Lincoln Journal only "whispers" the charge that Governor Smith speaks with a double meaning in his speech.

As between Senator Tom Heflin and the editor of the Lincoln Journal—well, each of them is a very pleasing personality, but in point of common every day fairness I am inclined to believe that the senator from Alabama is at least one notch above the Lincoln editor.

However I recall that when two of Jim Gliberson's mules broke out of the pasture, climbed up the railroad grade, and were both killed by a passing engine, Jim did most of his swearing at the mule he called Jack, heaping no harsh words upon the other mule, Blindy. I asked Jim why he damned the Jack mule so heartily, saying nothing about the carelessness of the Blindy mule in wandering onto the railroad track and getting killed. To my question Jim replied: "It's this way: That there Jack mule could see the train comin', and oughter get outen the way. That there Blindy mule was borned blind."

As far as fairness in politics is concerned Tom Heflin was "borned blind," whereas the editor of the Lincoln Journal is always fair, except when he gets angry at George Norris or some other progressive citizen, and then his anger blinds him to all sense of fairness, leading him now to shame himself by "whispering" the charge that Governor Smith speaks with a double meaning in his speech, when the fact is that in this campaign the speaking of Governor Smith is so free from double meaning that even the children may understand the meaning of it.
