

PROMINENT SPEAKER TO BE HERE SUNDAY

Dr. Ira Landrith, Candidate for Vice Presidency in 1916, to Speak at Presbyterian Church.

ACTIVE ON PLATFORM 25 YEARS

Dr. Landrith, candidate for the vice-presidency of the United States in 1916 and one of the best known public speakers of the nation who has been active on the platform for 25 years, will give an address at the Presbyterian church, here, Sunday afternoon in connection with the Christian Endeavor Rally.

A native of Texas, however any part of the United States is home to Dr. Landrith, following 25 years of intense activity on the platform in the interests of progressive movements.

He formerly was president of the Ward-Belmont college and in 1916 was candidate for the vice-presidency of the United States. During the past few years much of his time has been devoted to writings and addresses in promotion of Christian Endeavor movement, which he regards as the distinctive Christian youth movement for all nations.

Typical of the strong and epigrammatic addresses of Dr. Landrith are the following quotations:

"All prejudice is the child of sin and ignorance."

"The crime of partisanship has been making a political issue of world peace, a partisan football of the broken heart of humanity. The Nero of partisanship has been fiddling while the world burns."

The Kansas City Gazette-Globe recently described him in these terms: "As a platform man, Dr. Landrith is unsurpassed. His style mingles the elusive plantation melody, quietly permeating as the moonlight and soft as the scent of magnolias, with the precipitous fire of a soul that instantly flames out against injustice, whether it be individual or national."

DRAW 30 DAY SENTENCE FOR THEFT OF AUTO WHEEL

Lana Henegar and Harold Murphy pleaded guilty in county court here yesterday to charges of stealing on complaints filed by Dr. J. C. Johnson and were given 30 days sentences to be served in the county jail which are subject to street labor or other labors which the sheriff may designate for them.

They were charged with the theft of two tires, tubes, wheels and steel axels which Johnson and Hawkins use as a truck for their deborning chute, and pleaded guilty to the charge.

The articles were missed Tuesday when they were to be used and a complaint was made to the sheriff who upon investigation succeeded in locating the stolen items and the charge was made against the alleged offenders.

Besides the 30 days jail sentence they are ordered to pay all costs amounting to $7.20.

ANOTHER BUILDING GOING UP ON LOWER MAIN STREET

Work is already under way on a new building which B. W. Wright is constructing on the vacant lot just north of the new garage which he built early last spring.

According to present plans this new addition to the south end of Main street will be much the same as the one which Mr. Wright completed last spring on the ground made vacant by the large fire which burned the Corryl Garage to the ground about a year ago.

The new building, the foundation of which is already laid, will be 150 feet long and will cover the full lot which has been vacant for some time. The work on the new building will be completed early this winter if the weather is favorable.

HARTINGTON NATIONAL BANK CLOSED TUESDAY

The Hartington National Bank failed to open for business Tuesday morning, according to reports received here, caused by the institution holding too much slow paper and real estate.

At the time of the last statement the bank had near a half million in deposits. El E. Collins was president and Ellor Henry, formerly of Laurel was cashier.

ATTEMPT TO STEAL CARS HERE LAST FRIDAY NIGHT

An unsuccessful attempt to steal two Buick cars belonging to C. E. Carhart and John Carhart was made last Friday night, according to evidence discovered the following morning.

Although they had attempted to break the locks on the cars, which are kept in a double garage at the C. E. Carhart residence, no serious damage was done, it is reported. The motor meter was taken off one of the cars.

Both cars are valuable, the one a new sedan and the other a coupe that is only two years old and in very good condition. Apparently the fact that they were locked is what saved them from being taken. No clues as to the identity of the violators has been discovered by local officers.

COLLEGE SQUAD TO PLAY MIDLAND HERE

Make Home Stand With Midland Tomorrow Following Four Disastrous Road Trips.

WILL RELY ON AERIAL ATTACK

Following four disastrous road trips during the last five weeks the Wildcats will make a home stand here tomorrow when they meet the strong offering from Fremont in the second home game of the unfortunate season.

According to reports by disinterested spectators the local squad have performed very well in recent games, and have exhibited a passing attack that is seldom equaled in small schools, but have been running in decidedly hard luck.

Injuries and sickness have played havoc with some of the most promising candidates since the opening of the season, but the breaks of the games have gone to the opponents in every contest, and breaks mean a lot in close battles such as all of them have been.

Wayne has not been badly beaten in any of their five games and several strong teams have been hard pressed for a victory.

The Wildcats are out to win the balance of their schedule, and they are strong enough to do so with the right support. If local followers will get behind them as they should, with their moral support they can win from Fremont tomorrow, and from the two remaining opponents.

Gregg McBride, one of the state's most prominent sport writers will referee the game. He is regarded as one of the best critics of football and knows every angle of the game and both teams will know that they are going to get only what's coming to them.

In seven games with Midland Wayne has won only two, in 1921 and 1925 when they got on the long long end of a lone touchdown margin. Last year Midland trounced Wayne to the tune of 44 to 0. In the seven games between the two schools Midland has piled up a total of 116 points to Wayne's 15.

The visitors have practically the same team this year as represented them last season, with a couple of additions that are reported to have strengthened their lineup.

APPOINTMENTS ARE MADE BY JUDGE CHASE, MONDAY

Clinton Chase, district judge who held court here Monday made appointments of Juvenile officers and Mother's Pension committee which are announced for the coming year.

Notifications of the appointments were mailed to those who were named, Tuesday.

Wm. Orr, mayor of Wayne, and Mrs. Art Ahern were named probate officers of the Juvenile court of Wayne. The following were named as members of the Mother's pension committee for Wayne county: D. H. Cunningham, Wm. Orr; Art Auker, Winside; Mrs. G. H. Porter, Carroll and Mrs. Art Ahern, Wayne.

GLENN WINGET CHARGED WITH ILLEGAL TRAPPING

Glenn Winget, who lives near Carroll, was arrested on a warrant charging him with illegal possession of 12 muskrat hides, which he is alleged to have gotten by trapping out-of-season.

Before the county court yesterday his case was continued until next Monday when he will answer to the charges.

Wayne's Hotel Will Hold Grand Opening With Formal Dinner and Dance Saturday

Modern Hotel Accommodations Made Possible Through Co-operation of Wayne Citizens.

EQUIPMENT STRICTLY MODERN

Announcements of the formal opening of the Stratton Hotel and invitations to the banquet and dance to be given on the opening night have been sent out by E. O. Stratton, who will manage the new place.

The building is nearing completion, and when opened will offer hotel patrons of Wayne modern conveniences which have not been available here in the past, and it is believed by many that at least twice as many travellers will stop here with these accommodations available.

Work on the new hotel was begun about a year ago and was made possible by citizens subscribing to stock for about 30,000 dollars, and a loan being made for the balance necessary for completion.

The building contains fifty rooms, four small apartments equipped with kitchenettes, two dining rooms, ample lobby facilities, a full basement and other features to make the hotel up-to-date in every detail.

The building is completely equipped with all modern fixtures and the convenience and comfort of patrons has held every consideration in selection of these, it is reported.

The invitations to the opening dinner and dance will be given preference in the order in which they are received, as it is believed more responses will be received than it will be possible to admit.

SCOUT MASTERS SCHOOL HELD AT LAUREL MONDAY

The Scout Masters school held at Laurel Monday was attended by more than 20 men from towns in northeast Nebraska. The school was conducted by Mr. Childs of Omaha, who instructed in the art of knot tying and the organizing of Scout Patrols. The schools are held on the second and fourth Monday of each month for the benefit of Scout leaders in Northeast Nebraska.

NUSS BUILDING IS NEAR COMPLETION

Store Closed to Trade This Week to Complete Front and Interior Arrangement.

One of the finest business homes in the city will be completed within the next few days when the J. C. Nuss Variety Store will be opened to the trade here following the remodeling and addition which will give the public access to one of the most complete stocks of its kind in the state.

The new store will be strictly modern with ample room for a complete departmentizing of his stock. The building will be closed to the trade for a few days to permit arrangement of stock and setting up of new fixtures in the entire building.

The building is 150 feet long with a full basement and every convenience for the benefit of the management as well as the public.

The office and a fine rest room for ladies is included in the rear of the spacious store. A full basement will also be departmentized to carry all excess stock where it can easily be transferred to the main store.

The front is of pressed brick with a double entrance and modern show window arrangements. The store room is well lighted with skylights to brighten up the interior, which is all finished in white. The fixtures are all new and the very latest idea for a store of this nature, offering the public easy access to every item carried in stock.

Mr. Nuss started in the Variety business here several years ago, and by serving the public well at all times has built a small store into one of the greatest in the city.

When the new store is opened to the trade, within a few days, they will be offered the advantage of a much more complete stock than has been possible for Mr. Nuss to offer in the past.

E. J. Huntemer, who has been in charge of the work on a number of the improvements in the city of recent years, drew the plans and supervised the construction of this new addition to Wayne's business district.

CHAS. BOSE DIES HERE YESTERDAY

Passes at His Home Here Following Lingering Illness From Which He Suffered.

BURIAL AT CONCORD SATURDAY

Chas. Bose, 59, who for a number of years has lived in the east part of Wayne, passed at his home yesterday following an illness from which he had suffered for many months.

Mr. Bose was a pioneer of northeast Nebraska and moved to Wayne from Dixon county several years ago. He owned a farm in Dixon county besides his home and a five acre tract in the east part of Wayne.

His father, Frederick Bose, who is 92 years old, is still living at Concord, where the burial will be held Saturday beside the body of his first wife, who died many years ago.

Mr. Bose is survived by a large family. He was married twice, his first wife passing several years ago. He was divorced by his second wife, who now is living at Laurel. Several children from both marriages survive.

During his long illness Mr. Bose suffered much pain and distress, and the inevitable end had been anticipated for many months. He was a prosperous farmer and had endured many hardships of pioneer life.

Funeral services will be held from the Beckenhauer parlors Saturday afternoon with Rev. H. Hopman in charge of the rites. Burial will be in the Concord cemetery beside his first wife. He was born at Cincinnati, Ohio, and in the early days came to Nebraska with his parents who settled at Concord.

PLEASE TAKE NOTICE

In order to avoid the usual Spring Rush we will give you a discount of 10% on all oiling and repairing on Harness up to January 1st, 1929.

We have plenty of time now to do your work satisfactory.

WM. PIEPENSTOCK, Wayne, Nebraska.

TO WIND UP GRID SEASON TOMORROW

High School Will Turn to Indoor Sport Following Final Game With S. S. C. Tomorrow.

The Wayne high school will close their grid season with a game with South Sioux City to be played on the college field here tomorrow as a preliminary to the college game.

Although the Holder proteges have not fared well in the number of games won they had the satisfaction of handing Randolph a nice drubbing which was worth a few chips. This was the only game the locals have been able to chalk up, although they managed to hold most of their opponents to a comparatively low score.

Little hope is entertained of defeating the visitors tomorrow, as they have enjoyed a very successful season. They are perhaps the strongest team the locals have met during the season.

Start Basketball

The local mentor and his cage material are already looking toward the indoor activities, and plan to schedule a couple of preliminary basketball games to be played before the holiday season.

Cage prospects are more favorable than was the grid outlook as not so many men are necessary to develop a strong team. The available material for the football season was far short of enough to be encouraging.

Although Wayne does not expect to win the national championship they will offer followers a good brand of basketball during the winter months, it is predicted.

HOSPITAL NOTES

Mrs. Vernon Lundquist of Laurel gave birth to a baby daughter Friday. Both are doing fine.

Mrs. Jennie Mitchell of Emerson left the hospital Sunday following a major operation.

Mrs. Jas. Pile and baby left the hospital Tuesday.

Colburn Olson of Hartington is a medical patient. Doing fine.

Mrs. Mary Surber, medical patient, left the hospital Monday.

NEW PAPER INTRODUCED AT CARROLL THIS WEEK

The Carroll News, published by H. M. Woolman who for some years has been in newspaper work in the western part of the state, made its initial appearance last week.

Carroll has been without a paper for several weeks, following the discontinuance of the Index by Mr. Dawson, and according to statements by a number of business men the new venture is greatly appreciated.

Editor Woolman planned to begin publication a week earlier, according to his statement, but was handicapped by many hindrances, and found it necessary to delay the introduction.

Mr. Woolman plans to give Carroll as good a paper as the town warrants, which will depend largely upon the support he receives.

JOHN A. SCHAENUS DIES SUNDAY A. M.

Wayne County Resident For Many Years Dies at His Recent Home in Dakota City.

FUNERAL SERVICES HERE TUES.

John A. Schalus, who with his family moved to Wayne county from Iowa in 1888 and bought a farm southwest of Wayne, which he still owned and on which a son George is now living, died very suddenly at his home in Dakota City Sunday morning.

Mr. Schalus, who was 75 years old at the time of his death, had been in very good health, it is reported, but became ill about midnight Saturday night and about two hours later passed away.

Mr. Schalus was born in East Prussia in 1853. Coming to the United States in 1878, he located in New York City and later moved to Boone, Iowa. He was married to Mrs. Alice McVey in 1883 and the couple lived in Boone until 1888 when they moved to Wayne, Nebraska.

In 1917, after the death of his wife he moved to Rodney, Iowa, where he operated a hardware and implement store. He was married to Miss Carrie M. Olson of Sioux City in 1920. They moved to Dakota City the same year.

Mr. Schalus was a member of the Lutheran church and the Sons of Herman lodge of Wayne. Surviving are the widow, of Dakota City; one son, George Schalus, of Wayne; one daughter, Mrs. Hugh Odlo of Chicago and one sister, Mrs. Godfred Dieber of Ross, Iowa.

Services were held in the Immanuel Lutheran church at Dakota City Tuesday morning at 10 o'clock. Rev. C. Franklin Koch, pastor of Trinity Lutheran church of Sioux City officiating.

The Sons of Herman lodge, of Wayne, had charge of the final rites and burial which was in the Greenwood cemetery, here Tuesday afternoon.

WAYNE COUNTY IS FIRST IN ELECTION RETURNS

Wayne county, according to a letter received from the Associated press by Chas. Reynolds, Wayne county clerk, was the first county in the state to send in complete returns of the general election.

These returns, which are tabulated by Mr. Reynolds, were sent in to the Omaha office of the Associated press about 11 o'clock on the night of the election and beat all other complete returns from this state.

Mr. Reynolds has been one of the first and several times has been the first to make election returns in other years.

GOOD ROADS BOOSTERS AT NORFOLK MEETING

A delegation of eight business men of Wayne attended the Good Roads Meeting held at Norfolk Tuesday when Mr. Tilly of the state road department told the 200 northeast Nebraska visitors of the plans outlined for this corner of the state.

Included in those who attended from here were: James Brittain, F. L. Blair, Wm. Hiscox, B. W. Wright, C. M. Craven, R. L. Larson, Walter Savidge and C. W. Brown.

Plans for the improvement of the roads of this corner of the state were discussed, as well as the plans of distributing the gravel.

CRADLE

LUNDQUIST—To Vernon Lundquist and wife of Laurel a daughter at the Wayne hospital on November 9, 1928.

PIONEER IS CALLED ON ARMISTICE DAY

Mrs. Julia Riese, 78, Resident of County 45 Years Dies Following Two Year Illness.

FUNERAL SERVICES HELD WED.

Mrs. Julia Riese, 78 years old and a resident of Wayne county 45 years died at her home here Sunday following a two-year illness which had kept her confined to her home.

Mrs. Riese had been a widow for 39 years, her husband passing in 1889 six years after they moved here from Sioux City, where they lived for a time.

She experienced many of the hardships of pioneer days. When she was a young girl she came, with her brothers, from Pennsylvania, where she was born, to Windon, Minnesota, in a covered wagon. Here she was married to Henry Riese a few years later.

With her husband, who died many years ago, she pioneered in Iowa and Wayne county where they moved in 1883.

During her many years of residence in Wayne and vicinity she had gained a wide friendship, and the final rites which were held yesterday from the Beckenhauer Funeral parlors with Rev. W. W. Whitman officiating, in the absence of a pastor in the St. Pauls Lutheran church of which she was a member, were very largely attended. Burial was in the Greenwood cemetery beside her husband.

Ten children survive who are scattered over the country, and Canada. They are as follows: Minnie Acker, Checotah, Oklahoma; John H. Riese, Camrose, Alberta, Canada; Wm. R. Riese; Hudson, Wisconsin; Emma F. Weeks, Auburn, California; Herman B. Riese, Oakes, North Dakota; George B. Riese, Chadron; Margaret Norman, Red Wing, Minnesota; Julia Stevens, Miller; Frederick and Charles of Wayne.

One brother and two sisters also survive.

All the children except Emma Weeks and John Riese were here for the final rites of their mother.

STATE LAW IS UPHELD ON T. B. ERADICATION

Lincoln, Nebraska, November 12.—Secretary McLoughlin of the state department of agriculture is of the opinion that the judgment of the supreme court entered Saturday in the case of the attorney general, against two Dawson county stock men, will end the resistance of farmers, manifest in several cases that originated in northeastern Nebraska, one being in Cedar county, to the power of the state to compel the inspection of herds for bovine tuberculosis.

Each year since the first law was enacted, farmers here and there have challenged the right of the state to go onto their premises and inspect the cattle, when they did not want it done. Several cases have gone to the supreme court, and in each decision, while favoring the principle of the legislation, the judges found fault with the way in which the law sought to apply it. The last amendment was made in 1927, and the decision of the court now is that the law as it stands meets every tests of fairness and constitutionality.

The court says that it has been determined beyond doubt that bovine tuberculosis is communicable to man, and hence the state has the right to take whatever steps are necessary to eradicate it, this being an exercise of the police power to protect both the public health and the herds of the stockmen. The fact that this requires owners to open their premises to the inspectors and not interfere with their testing is not a violation of property rights that may be enjoined, since the public good is the first consideration.

Mr. McLoughlin says that the work is well along in more than half the counties of the state, and that this decision promises to rid the work of all obstacles, since the order is that the defendants be permanently enjoined from preventing the entry of inspectors on their premises and from interfering with testing. The court holds that the state, having spent $1,000,000 or more money in this work must not be halted in doing it, since to do so would make losses of what money has been spent.

A flow of words is no proof of wisdom.

Next Tuesday, President-Elect Hoover is going to ride one of our battleships, the Maryland, to visit a number of South American republics, on a peace-mission—a goodwill tour. But why go armed?

President Coolidge seems to fear trouble—perhaps from his unjust policies; for he is urging the construction of a bunch of cruisers. Just when world-peace is being agitated, it looks like a waste of money as well as placing a chip on Uncle Sam's shoulder.

Peace sentiment is reported to be growing apace, but the profit to builders of cruisers and battleships appears to go on just the same. Why not use that fund to improve our inland waterways? That will give employment and opportunity to spend money, and perhaps a graft.

Coal is now hoping to successfully combat the growing sentiment for oil for heating purposes as well as mechanical uses of heat in developing power. New and improved methods of combustion are being perfected which they say tends to greatly increase its heating efficiency per ton, and at the same time, eliminate much waste. Let us hope.

Massachusetts has voted its favor of repeal of the prohibition law in that state, 37 of 40 districts favoring the repeal. That looks tough in the "hub" of culture, and the home of Boston brown bread and baked beans. We always supposed that was all a Massachusetts New Englander wanted or needed, unless it was a bit of fish to take off the fog of brain force.

One of the regular after election cries is going up against the circle on our ballots. By its use, not only Hoover, but the entire ticket was voted for, and by a lot of people who knew nothing of the merits of the candidates for the different offices. To be sure, Smith voters, in many instances carried his strength thru a ticket that might not have been all that it should have been. Two wrongs do not make a right, and never did. Lets eliminate the ring—no the circle.

Why dig out ancient microbes? We have plenty as it is of the modern ones, and not only that, they are accused of originating plenty of trouble. Here comes the story of C. B. Lipman, who claims to have dug from pre-Cambrian rock, alleged to have been at least 2 million years old some pieces containing microbes of that remote time, which when given proper encouragement have commenced to grow and perhaps multiply. At least, he claims to have them shut in sealed tube where he can watch them without being bitten, and something is discovered developing there by aid of the microscope different from the microbes of the present day. Let the professor keep them bottled up, for in this age of progress, some scientific and deadly exterminating means would meet them as they started some work of devastation, and they would be done for in such short order that it will be evident that they should have been permitted to sleep on in their ancient tomb.

NEBRASKA

The Union Pacific agricultural department has just issued a Nebraska pamphlet of nearly 100 pages which tells much of the resources developed in this great state. It is a work of art in the matter of illustrations showing the various livestock and grain and fruit productions of the state since the time when this road followed to ox freight train from the Missouri river to the mountains and then on to the western coast. Then the buffalo and the short grass and Indians, coyotes and jack rabbits vied with rattlesnakes and prairie dogs for possession of this fair land. This folder includes all manner of products of the state from Alfalfa to the zephyrs that blow across the great plains summer or winter. Grain, fruits, vegetables, live stock and poultry and manufacturing, and irrigation and the part it plays in the state. If you would know Nebraska at its best try to secure one of the little booklets.

AL SMITH TOWERS IN DEFEAT

The true measure of men is more often taken in defeat than in victory. It is a great man who can smile in the face of a defeat of what must have been the reversal of a great ambition to serve his fellow men. Such a character is the late democratic nominee proving to be. In compliance with a request from the National Democratic Committee Al Smith spoke over a broadcasting chain Tuesday evening to many thousand listeners, and told them that the principles of the democratic party are enduring, and he thinks right, and a defeat at the polls does not make them any the less vital truths.

His advice for the hosts of democracy, now more than fourteen million strong, is to continue constructively—present a constructive program to congress and work for its adoption, asking the aid of the opposition, or at least appealing to them and assisting them to aid in and not hinder progressive legislation. Of the many good things he said we can use but the following paragraph this issue, but hope to quote from it at other times:

"It will not do to let bitterness, rancor or indignation over the result blind us to the one outstanding fact, that above everything else we are Americans. No matter with what party we aligned ourselves on election day, our concern should be for the future welfare, happiness, contentment and prosperity of the American people."

MIX OIL MEAL WITH TANKAGE

A mixture of one part linsed oil meal to three parts of tankage proved to be the best high protein feed for hogs in the 1928 summer tests at the Nebraska experiment station. The pigs were self fed on shelled corn and a high protein feed and were on sweet clover pasture. The addition of a little oil meal to the tankage gave the pigs a better appetite, made a larger daily gain, and produced 100 pounds of pork with less feed than was used in the corn and tankage lot.

Tankage was a valuable addition to the ration of pigs on corn and pasture. This is especially true if the pigs are rushed for an early market. Hand feeding of a limited corn and tankage ration will make the pigs eat more pasture and produce a cheaper but slower gain. This method is to be recommended to men who are short of corn and want to make use of the new crop in the fall.

SEWARD COUNTY FARMER EXPLAINS "MIGHT OF POOL"

The following from a Seward county farmer, who owns land in Canada, appeared in a recent issue of the Nebraska Farmer, and is claimed to be a strictly unbiased view on the worth of the Canadian Wheat Pool:

"Enclosed is a clipping from a Canadian newspaper which speaks for itself. This paper is not controlled by the Pool. The Pool has room for 28,000,000 bushels in its terminals and 15,000,000 bushels in its country elevators. In addition, it pays one cent a bushel per month to its members who hold their wheat on the farm. By doing this, they have held the price of wheat steady. Their cash resources enabled them to make a first payment of eighty-five cents a bushel. The elevators are full and there is a car shortage through Northern Canada."

The newspaper clipping referred to and entitled, "The Might of the Pool" is from The Western Producer, Saskatoon, dated September 27th, and is as follows:

"All arguments concerning the worth of the Wheat Pool or the effect of the Wheat Pool have been swept aside by the events of the past two or three weeks in Western Canada. No theoretical discussions concerning whether the Pool is effective on the world market, or whether it rises or lowers the price, or whether it markets wheat in an orderly manner or just follows out the custom of the grain trade, can be considered in the light of the present situation. Making all due allowances for super-optimism, and calculated misrepresentation about the size of the crop, it is evident that this year's crop of western wheat is as large, if not considerably larger, than any previous crop. In addition to that, the harvesting weather has been more favorable than it has been for many years. In addition to that, the handling facilities are more extensive than they have been in the history of grain growing in Canada. In addition to that, the extensive use of trucks for hauling grain, have succeeded in speeding up delivered to the railways and to the elevators than during corresponding days last year. In spite of all these factors, the price of wheat has, although moderately low, stood steady under the strain. Practically all conditions favored a disastrous slump on the wheat market. There is only one factor which has the opposite tendency and that factor is the Canadian Wheat Pools. The Pool wheat, although put on wheels and in elevators, has not been hurled into a stuffed market. The farmers have not been made the victims of their fortunate yield. It is fairly evident also that the non-Pool farmers have learned a lesson from the Pool. Although they have not joined the Pool, they have become definitely aware of the fact that it is the worst kind of business to throw wheat on a market which will not take it except at sacrifice prices. The market is being fed in a reasonable manner with quantities of wheat it can absorb. The Pool has proved its effectiveness. There is not a business man, outside the grain trade, on the prairies, who will not admit that the presence of the Wheat Pool has so far saved the situation this year. There is not one of them, with the exceptions mentioned, who will not state his belief that, had it not been for the operations of the Wheat Pool, nothing could have avoided a slump in the price of wheat which might have gone far below any possible hope of profit. All arguments against the Pool have been swept aside. The daily quotations issued by the grain trade itself provided an answer to every argument. They indicate that the farmers have a shield which protects them from the previously inevitable results, when millions of bushels of wheat were thrown every day upon a market controlled entirely by the speculative element, and free from any concern about the price which the farmer was entitled to receive."

HENS NEED ALFALFA HAY

As green feed disappears and the garden-stuff is cleaned up, the laying hens will need some other sort of green feed. Many practical poultry keepers depend upon green, leafy alfalfa hay during the winter months. Hay for hens may sound unreasonable, but it does help them keep in thrifty condition and in high production. Some folks stuff the hay into buckets and pour boiling water over it, then feed it hot. Others build racks with sides made of two inch poultry netting and let the hens pick off the leaves. These racks should be made so the hens cannot get into them or roost over them. Hay may also be cut up or ground with a cutter or grinder. The hens will eat more of it in this form.

POWER PROJECT INACTIVE

Approximately three million hydro-electric horsepower awaits development on the St. Lawrence river between New York and Canada. One half belongs to Canada and the other half to the United States.

When is it to be developed? The Canadian government does not want to spend the many million of dollars necessary until there are ample assurances that the power can be developed at a reasonable price. On the other hand Ambassador Massey objects to selling any of Canada's share into the United States, because it should all be used in Canada eventually in encouraging industry and developing natural resources.

People in the Middle west are not so anxious for the development, because they can see that the tremendous dams that would be established in the St. Lawrence river would tend to discourage the plan for a Great Lakes-St. Lawrence freight outlet at the Atlantic seaboard, a proposal that has been consistently opposed in New York and New England.

Secretary of State, Kellogg, is urging for an immediate treaty with Canada so that work on the international power project may be early begun. He argues that it will be at least fifteen years before steps could be taken toward opening the St. Lawrence river to ocean trade.

In the meantime politicians with interests for the Eastern states are accusing Western politicians of having selfish motives, and vice-versa; while all Canada is blaming the United States, and all elements in this country are laying the blame on Canada statesmen.

THE "GARBAGE MAN"

The "garbage man" at Norfolk has startled his customers by announcing his retirement with a tidy little competence.

Thus things sometimes turn out in real life the way they ought to. Usually the hewers of wood, the drawers of water and the haulers of garbage are lucky to spend the sunset of life out of the poorhouse or independent of the bounty of friends and relatives. They deserve well of life, but they generally get short commons.

The big garbage contractors, like Vane of Philadelphia, make their millions out of this messy business, but the men who ride the wagons and do the dirty work must reckon prosperity in terms of a steady job and three square meals a day. The retirement of garbage men on competences is as rare as men who bite dogs, and in consequence rate as high in news value.

The beggar who is discovered to have a chauffeur who brings him to "work" downtown in a limousine only arouses cynicism about the hardships of those human derelicts who sit in street corners with a tin cup and a handful of lead pencils. But the poor unkempt old garbage man who manages to acquire a bank account and a stock interest in General Motors wins congratulations.—World Herald.

AN OLD FAIRBURY WATER RIGHT

For a number of years the water wheels of the Fairbury Mills have furnished the backbone of the power which has generated electric energy for the municipal system at Fairbury.

More recently the city has established its own hydro unit and the contract between the city and the milling company for further use of purchased power was discontinued by order of a majority present at the council meeting.

The record shows, however, that Manager Lea has a perpetual water right to the Blue river, issued by the U. S. government in 1873. This fact would seem to not only preclude further development of the city's hydro plant, but make it necessary to remove present construction from the stream.

The matter came to a show-down after physical connection with the mill had been broken and by a mishap the flowage of water in the city's flume was insufficient to turn the wheels. The mill went into service again to meet the emergency and arrangements have been agreed upon whereby the turbines of the mill company will again furnish the power to turn the city's electric machinery.

OBSERVATIONS

(by H. A. McCormick)

Now that election is over there will be something else to talk about besides prohibition, farm relief and intolerance, to say nothing about tariff, our natural resources and other kindred subjects. The campaign has been one of more interest probably than any ever held. It has to a great many been an educational campaign and they have learned something about things of which before they did not dream existed. It is to be hoped that the bitter feeling engendered in many localities will be more than offset by the good done in an educational way. In this campaign the new voters and many of the older ones have been led to study questions of government and the effect of this and that policy advocated by the two great parties. There has been more interest created among the women voters than was thought remotely possible and withal the campaign, regardless of the result, has served as a great school of education in civil government. Even the pupils in the high schools, several years under the voting age, have grasped the subjects and tried to master some of the intricacies of a national presidential campaign, and when they come to the age of using the franchise, will be much better equipped because of this experience.

The successful round trip of the big Graf Zepelin from Europe to America is an outstanding epoch in the history of air transportation now in the making. It leads one to speculate as to what is going to take place in this line during the next decade. Almost unbelievable things have already been accomplished in this line and the success of this latest venture is one of the greatest, which in later years will probably be considered as only an ordinary occurrence. Altho this writer has comparatively few years left in the span of life, he is looking forward to some great achievements in the flying field. We expect to see flying almost as common as auto transportation, when one will only need to open up his hanger, turn on the current and fly to any point desired. Snow blockades and impassable roads will be a thing of past history and there will be few more interruptions in mail passenger and other transportation. Wonderful development in air transportation will be experienced in the next few years.

The matter of issuing township or precinct bonds to secure the building of railroads was very common in the early days of our state and nation. Of late years it has not been attempted to any extent. The new promoters of the Yankton, Norfolk & Southern a few months ago assured the public that the road would be built at an early date, as the money was forthcoming to pay for it. Now it develops that the company is going to ask the farmers and others along the proposed line to vote bonds. Elections are called for Precincts 2 and 3 in Cedar county for November 30th, at which election Precinct 2 will be asked to vote $15,000 and Precinct 3, $10,000, to aid in such construction. We don't know just how much benefit these precincts will receive from the building of this road or just what attitude they will assume toward the voting of more taxes. It is up to each one of those affected to decide for themselves. Generally railroad bond issues by the people are

COUNTY JUDGE BRYANT LOSES POLITICAL RACE

Wilbur F. Bryant, who has held the office of county judge in Cedar county was defeated for reelection in a close race last week in one of the upsets of this corner of the state.

Judge Bryant has held the office for 16 years without an interruption, and has established a record for continuous service in Cedar county. He first took the oath of office in 1912, and has earned a reputation for having very few decisions reversed in higher courts.

He is the original "bread and water" judge of the state, and has meted out severe sentences in liquor cases since prohibition laws were adopted.

Bryant will open a law office at the expiration of his present term. He is a pioneer of Cedar county, and first came there in 1876.

In 1882, he was selected to enforce the Ames Law in 16 northeast Nebraska counties. This law was similar to the present liquor laws, and Bryant's sincerity in enforcement gained for him both friends and enemies and on one occasion an attempt was made to end his life.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Beckenhauer returned Monday from a visit at Madison, South Dakota, where they were guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Sherbahn of that place, and from there Mr. B. accompanied by Mr. Sherbahn indulged in a bit of hunting, it being open season for game birds in that part of the state, and they doubtless bagged the limit of these game birds. Now we hear some wondering about who their host and hostess were. Mrs. Lucas, for a number of years matron at the Wayne hospital is now Mrs. Sherbahn, and that tells many that they were entertained by a most genial hostess, for she won a host of friends during her years at Wayne, for besides being efficient in her professional work, she was a most genial lady in every respect. Mr. and Mrs. Beckenhauer report that they stopped at the Yankton broadcasting station, WNAX, and saw the broadcasting in active operation, as well as other places of interest in the city at the north end of the bridge. It was a most enjoyable trip.

FORMER WAYNE STUDENT MAKING GOOD AS CHEMIST

From among our exchange pile, we find the following telling of a former student at the Normal here, the nephew of a Wayne county farmer. This is the story:

"William Harbeck, nephew of Henry Reilman, writes his uncle that he has been promoted to head chemist in the plant of the Certified Products corporation located near Buffalo, New York. There are approximately four hundred men working under his direction. Mr. Harbeck, hardly more than a boy, came to this country about five years ago, at that time being unable to speak scarcely a word of English. He attended Wayne state teachers college for a semester, and there mastered in a fair way the language of our country. The following year he started a four year course in chemistry in the South Dakota School of Mines, a course which he completed last spring with high honors. He is to be commended for his rapid advancement in so short a time. His success reflects unusual ability on his part as well as demonstrates what can be accomplished if one has ambition, is not afraid of work and willingly and diligently applies himself."

WITH THE WAYNE CHURCHES.

First Baptist Church
Rev. A. C. Downing, Pastor
There is one more verse to the message we have been giving week by week and here it is:—"Don't knock and kick and slam and slap
At everybody on the map,
But push and pull and boost and boom
And use up all the standing room
At church next Sunday."
Follow the suggestion here given and all the churches in Wayne will be crowded to the doors.
Our notice comes as another reminder of the privileges that are yours. Attend the Sunday school service at 10 o'clock and stay through the morning worship hour which begins at 11.
The evening services are just as important as the morning, the whole day is the Lord's day, then let us so recognize it. The young people meet at 6:30 in the north room and this service is followed by the evening service at 7:30. Song service led by orchestra and sermon by the pastor. A bright, helpful service.
The mid-week service will be held on Thursday at 7:30, it will be followed by a Board meeting and every member of the board is requested to be present. Others are invited to attend also.
The special Thanksgiving offering mentioned before means that we are now in an intensive campaign to secure in cash the sum of $900.00 by Thanksgiving day. Rev. George Sharp of Omaha will be with us to lead in the drive.

First Methodist Episcopal Church
William W. Whitman, Pastor
The opening exercise of the Sunday school conducted by the senior class was greatly enjoyed by all last Sunday. A still further increase in attendance was recorded last week.
More parents in the Sunday school is still the urgent need. Come next Sunday at 9:45 and hear the splendid orchestra.
Dr. J. D. M. Buckner of Lincoln, will preach for us Sunday morning at 11 o'clock. Dr. Buckner is the father of the famous, fearless New York attorney, of the "padlock" fame, Attorney Emory Buckner.
Special Anthem by our fine choir.
Evening services conducted by the young people at 7:00 o'clock.
We had a fine service last Sunday, another good one this Sunday evening. A cordial welcome to all the services of this church.

1:30 p. m. District C. E. Rally.
3:00 Address by Dr. Ira Landrith of Chicago. Dr. Landrith is a reformer of wide experience and an eloquent speaker. Wayne people can not afford to miss hearing him. Everyone young and old is invited.

St. Paul's Lutheran Church
The usual services will be observed at this church next Sunday following the Sunday school, which convenes at 10:00 in the morning. There will be preaching at 11 o'clock, when a theological student, Hugh Dumlet, known to many here will preach. Again in the evening the same young man will speak.
The Luther League will meet at 7 o'clock Sunday evening.
Choir practice Wednesday evening at the usual hour.
Next week Thursday, the 22nd, the ladies aid will meet at the church basement. All welcome to any and all meetings of this church.

Evangelical Lutheran Church

SOCIAL NOTES

The Monday and U. D. clubs held a joint meeting at the home of Mrs. A. B. Carhart with Mrs. W. K. Smith hostess for the U. D. Mrs. C. A. Chase gave a book review of "The Lantern at Her Side" by Bess Greeter Aldrich. Prof. Horn and Mrs. Giesler of the college faculty gave a number of Vocal and Piano selections. The U. D. club will meet with Mrs. H. B. Craven next week and the Monday club meets with Mrs. R. E. K. Mellor. Guests at the joint meeting this week were: Mrs. J. S. Carhart, Mrs. Alice Kate Welpton, Miss Margaret Chase and Mrs. C. C. Herndon.

Douglas King Chapter, D. A. R. met Saturday afternoon with Mrs. Wood Jones with Mrs. H. W. Theobald assistant hostess. Miss Conklin chairman of flag committee, gave a talk on flags. Mrs. L. C. Gildersleeve, chairman of the genealogy committee, reported the purchase of four books on genealogy of Connecticut by W. R. Cutter. These books are to be placed in public library. A number of letters on matters of interest were read by Mrs. Oman. At the close of the session the hostess served refreshments.

The Alpha club met Tuesday afternoon with Mrs. Geo. Crossland. Following the singing of America they responded to roll call with cartoons. Mrs. Lottie Samuelson read some magazine articles on prominent cartoonists. Mrs. B. W. Wright favored the club with some piano selections. Light refreshments were served by the hostess. The club meets on November 27 with Mrs. R. F. Jacobs.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Beckenhauer were at home Tuesday evening to Mr. and Mrs. C. O. Mitchell and Mr. and Mrs. L. R. Winegar at a 6 o'clock dinner that was most thoroughly enjoyed; and where game from Mr. Beckenhauer's invasion of the wilds of South Dakota formed a part of the menu. It was a happy evening for the guests at that home of hospitality.

The Fortnightly met with Mrs. John Carhart and Mrs. E. R. Love had the lesson on, "Modern Devices in the Home." Roll call was answered on the same subject, which was followed by a social time. The club meets in two weeks with Mrs. F. A. Mildner.

The Business and Professional women were entertained at a dinner at the Gus Wendt home—Tuesday evening, with about thirty members present. The club voted to join the national federation of women's clubs.

OFFICE NOTES

The results of the citizenship contest showed a great increase in parent voting over last year. The contest was a success. Three grades tied for first place. The contest was an averaging of parent voting in each grade. The following are the results: Grade one, 77 per cent; Grade two, 96 per cent; Grade three, 90 per cent; Grade four, 100 per cent; Grade five, 100 per cent; Grade six, 88 per cent; Grade seven, 96 per cent; Grade eight, 100 per cent; Freshman, 97 per cent; Sophomores, 95 per cent; Juniors, 98 per cent; and Seniors 96 per cent. Grades four, five and eight tying with 100 per cent for first place which entitles each class to a citizenship banner.

The monthly school board meeting was held Monday, November 5. Thanksgiving vacation was set for Thursday and Friday, November 29 and 30. Two weeks vacation was set for Christmas starting December 21 and lasting two weeks.

Lesson schedules for new band members are being made out this week. Twenty new members are to begin band work and others are expected to take the work up. Mrs. Laura Belle Johnson was elected for the district music contest at the district teachers meeting in Norfolk last week. The contest is to be held in Wayne, in April. District number three of Nebraska comprises the schools of Northeast Nebraska. Only the winners in these district contests are qualified to enter the state contest in May at Lincoln.

Mrs. Belva Melvin was elected chairman of the grade section for this district for the next year convention.

Miss Dorothy Cooley was elected chairman of the commercial department for next year's convention.

Miss Olive Huse was elected secretary of the foreign language section for the convention next year.

ASSEMBLY NOTES

Mr. J. H. Kamp gave an address before the high school assembly Friday morning in keeping with National Education week. Last year National Education week was observed by short talks each day but it was decided this year to have one general address.

Weekly class meetings were held at 9 o'clock Wednesday November 7 at which time the "check up" was made on the Citizenship contest held each year, following election day.

If both parents of each pupil in school voted at the election, two points were made by that pupil for his class citizenship record. The following list is the percentage of each of the high school classes: Freshman 97 per cent, Sophomores 95 per cent, Junior 98 per cent, Senior 96 per cent.

Each year a banner has been given to the class having the highest percentage in the whole school, but this year 3 grades tied so a banner will be given to each of the 3 grades.

Mr. P. W. Maynard, social science teacher, conducted a student election in the high school assembly from 3 to 4 o'clock election day. He declared all students of age and then explained the rules and regulations of voting.

Two judges, an election board and a counting board, comprised of students, had been appointed by Mr. Maynard to preside at the desk and over the ballot box. Sample ballots were used. These were marked "Sample Ballots" and printed on pink paper.

Challengers had previously been appointed to challenge any one who went up to the booths to vote who was not qualified. There was one person who did not get to vote because she had not lived in the state 6 months. The judges decided that the others that were challenged could vote.

The results of the election were announced before the assembly the next morning at 9:00 o'clock. All republican candidates were elected. Herbert Hoover received 107 votes and Alfred Smith 33 votes.

Several ballots were not counted because they were not filled out correctly according to voting rules.

The fact that one must know a great deal about the several candidates before he is able to vote intelligently, was pointed out by Mr. Maynard after the election. The election drill was very instructive to students.

The kindergartners and pupils of the four lower grades marched before the high school Halloween day garbed as witches, ghosts and other Halloween figures. Each grade presented a song or reading for the entertainment of the high school students.

COMMERCIAL NOTES

The bookkeeping class is starting practice set No. 2.

Irol Whitmore has made the highest average of the beginning typewriting class.

The second year shorthand class began to read the play "Hamlet."

MUSIC NOTES

The operetta "The Bells of Capistrano" will be given Friday, November 23. A synopsis of "The Bells of Capistrano" follows:

The Ortego ranch is under a dark cloud. Drought any mysterious disappearance of cattle have left Ramon, its present master, with but one herd to pay off the mortgages held by Jake Kraft. Noneeta, an Indian girl is a maid in the Ortego household, and is loved by Lone Eagle, a young chief. Medicine Man Pose calls upon his boss to restore the tribes lost lands, and tells of a curse on the ranch and Capistrano Mission because of wrongs done to the Indians—a curse lifted only when the bells of the Mission shall ring again. Kraft urges Pose to "rustle" the last of the Ortego cattle. Noneeta overhears, and begs Lone Eagle to save the Ranch. Jealous of Ramon, he first refuses, but finally promises to bring back the herd on the night of the full moon. Noneeta realizes too late that she has sentenced him to death by making him a traitor to his tribe.

Professor Anderson, his sister Laura and students arrive at the ranch. Three of the boys fall in love with the Ortego sisters. Marian, a college friend of the latter, arrives with her father, James Allen, who has been sent to restore the Mission. Word comes that the great herd has been stolen. Noneeta tells Marian promise and sacrifice, and explains that if the Mission bells ring on the night of the full moon, the Indians would believe the curse lifted, the cattle would be restored, and Lone Eagle saved. Maria discovers an old painting which when reversed discloses a secret map of the ranch, and this leads to the discovery of an ancient mine of great richness. Ramon remembers, however, that the mortgage due the next day will take the mine along with the ranch.

The operetta itself will disclose the solution of the plot.

ATHLETIC NOTES

The game was postponed last week on account of the weather. The game was with Wisner and to be played on the college field preliminary to the college game.

A new rule which was passed at the last meeting of the state athletic board which has to do with basketball is: That all teams must play at least eight games in one season and win eighty or seventy per cent of them. Or that a team may win the district meet or be runners up in that meet in any class also permits a team to play for state honors.

There is to be a game with South Sioux tomorrow on the college field. This is to be the final game of the season.

Two games are being scheduled for the basketball team. These games are to be played before Christmas.

SENIOR NOTES

The seniors observed their annual sneak day Wednesday, October 31. This observance set a new precedent for heretofore has observed sneak day in the spring. The seniors left by bus from the high school at 6 a. m. and arrived in Sioux City about eight a. m. They ate breakfast at the Stock Yard Exchange cafe. From there they visited Swift Packing house, Johnson's Biscuit and Candy factory, the Journal building and broadcasting station, court house, and the Telephone building. Luncheon was served at the West hotel. In the afternoon each one was free to do as he wished. The seniors took dinner at the Bishop cafeteria and then attended the New Orpheum theatre. After that they started for Wayne. They stopped at West Point for lunch and then continued on their way home.

The B language class is studying letter writing. Iro Gene Kilborn had the most interesting letter and Jane Randall wrote the neatest letter. These were placed in the front of the room where all could see them.

The A division of arithmetic is studying division of fractions. The B class is studying subtraction of fractions.

The fifth grade was 100 per cent in the Citizenship contest.

The paper charts are now finished and on display.

Hazel Liveringhouse was absent on account of illness Wednesday.

The class has finished the reading of "Tik Tok of Oz" and will next read "The Five Little Peppers."

FOURTH GRADE

The fourth grade held a Halloween party last Wednesday afternoon. The B class entertained the A class.

The students are making Health posters this week. Pupils were weighed this week and it was found that the children underweight are gaining. The pupils are sponsoring a health contest.

Election of officers of the Health club was held this week. Officers elected were as follows: President, Carroll Pearson; Secretary, Maxine Barrett; and Treasurer, Buford Johnson.

The fourth grade tied with the eighth and the fifth grades in the citizenship contest sponsored by the high school, scoring 100 per cent. The object in this contest was to see that the parents of the students voted on election day. 100 per cent is a perfect score.

THIRD GRADE

The pupils of the third grade took a spelling test over the second six week's work. Eleven of the twenty-five pupils received 100 per cent.

In the Citizenship contest which was held last week, the third grade had a percentage of ninety-two.

The third grade took part in a Halloween parade before the high school. They sang a song entitled "A Jolly Old Pumpkin Man."

The girls were given a free period as a result of winning the Health Contest. They spent this time in painting pictures and doing various things. Another contest will be held between individuals. Each day they have to give a report on their health habits. If they have carried out all of the Health habits that day they receive a star.

Betty Helen Ellis drew a Turkey on the blackboard this week.

In arithmetic the A class has completed the 7's of the multiplication table. The B class is learning how to carry in addition.

SECOND GRADE

Cute in a Baby-Awful at Three-and-it's Dangerous

by Ruth Brittain

Thumb sucking does look sweet in a baby, but it is disgusting in the three-year-old and sometimes it hangs on until fifteen or sixteen! The habit may cause an ill-formed mouth or induce adenoids, and it always interferes with digestion. Pinning the sleeve over the hand; attaching mittens, or putting on cardboard cuffs, which prevent bending the arms at the elbows, are some of the ways to stop the habit.

Another bad habit—irregularity in bowel action—is responsible for weak bowels and constipation in babies. Give the tiny bowels an opportunity to act at regular periods each day. If they don't act at first, a little Fletcher's Castoria will soon regulate them. Every mother should keep a bottle of it handy to use in case of colic, cholera, diarrhea, gas on stomach and bowels, constipation, loss of sleep, or when baby is cross and feverish. Its gentle influence over baby's system enables him to get full nourishment from his food, helps him gain, strengthens his bowels.

Castoria is purely vegetable and harmless—the recipe is on the wrapper. Physicians have prescribed it for over 80 years. With each package, you get a valuable book on Motherhood. Look for Chas. H. Fletcher's signature on the wrapper so you'll get the genuine.

DON'T suffer headaches, or any of those pains that Bayer Aspirin can end in a hurry! Physicians prescribe it, and approve its free use, for it does not affect the heart. Every druggist has it, but don't fail to ask the druggist for Bayer. And don't take any but the box that says Bayer, with the word genuine printed in red:

Grandmother
Had to Shout When
She Used the Telephone

It is now so easy to hear over the telephone when words are spoken in a normal tone of voice directly into the mouthpiece, that it is hard to realize that when grandmother was a girl she had to shout when using the telephone.

Thus, telephoning, once a matter of nerve strain and lung power, has become progressively easier and more certain. One has but to compare the quality of local and long distance telephony 20 years ago and today to realize the amount of intensive work which has gone into perfecting the telephone art.

Research and experiment to improve "hearing" qualities have been carried on continuously since the telephone was born. As a result, receivers and transmitters have been improved, better wire developed and countless other parts of the telephone system perfected.

MARY GRAHAM BONNER

STRANGE DOGS

The first Dingo dog sang this verse:
I'm not a log, no, I'm not a log,
For I'm a Dingo dog, a Dingo dog,
And my brother, my dear brother,
Is another, is another.

Then the second Dingo dog sang the same verse, and then they sang it together, and the chorus was simply:
Bow-wow, bow-wow, now, all together,
bow-wow-wow.

And then both sang again and this was their song:
We're friends in the zoo,
As doubtless you're, too!
For we seldom growl, and you never growl.

The Dingo dogs said they had seldom, seldom, seen their visitors, the children, scowling.

"Yes," said the second Dingo dog, "we both come from Australia."

"So we both do, you see," said the first Dingo dog.

"Over in Australia they sometimes call us the wild dogs," said the second Dingo dog.

"And we are wild dogs, too," said the first Dingo dog.

"We're plain yellow dogs with no silly airs or graces," said the second Dingo dog.

"It's enough that we're dogs, and Dingo dogs, wild dogs of Australia, and that we're yellow," said the first Dingo dog.

"Quite enough," said the second Dingo dog.

So they both barked, made friends in their own peculiar way with the other animals in the zoo and then the first Dingo dog said:

"We're Plain Yellow Dogs."

"What's the news?"

"What do you mean?" the other animals asked.

"Well," said the first Dingo dog, "what is there to tell us? What is going on? What is there going to be going on—you know—the news."

"The news," repeated the second Dingo dog.

"Well," said one of the animals, "we're fed by the keeper and we sleep and we eat—of course we eat when we're fed like sensible animals do."

"People come to look at us and hear of what we do and from where we first came."

"Ah," said the first Dingo dog, "we're important, we are. We are the news!"

"They come to see us and to hear about us."

"Good! Well, we'll tell them we're Dingo dogs and they can see with their own eyes that we are yellow in color."

"Name Please!"

In this game some one commences to tell a story in the following manner: "There was a man and his name was Norman. He had a donkey—"

Here the other players cry—"Name, please!"

"And its name was Neddy. He also had a pig—"

"Name! Name!"

"Norman! a hen, Naomi; a goat, Nancy, and a horse—"

"Name, please!"

"Nathaniel. Then he had a cat, Nora, and she had five kittens. Pretty little kittens, too—"

"Names, please!" roar the listeners, and the story teller realizes that he has blundered into a "hole." He thinks very hard, for they must be proper names, and he must not repeat one of those already given. If he makes an attempt he may come forth valiantly with—"Nero, Nadine, Nell, Neil, and Neta."

Some one makes a list of the names given by each story teller. When each player has told a story—each story finishes when the teller is "stumped" for another name—he or she who found the most names is the winner.

Naturally, the second story teller should choose a different initial for his names.

What Is It?

My first is in honey but not in bee,
My second is in ocean but not in sea,
My third is in lorry but not in cart,
My fourth is in pie but not in tart,
My fifth is in drawer but not in box,
My sixth is in heavier but not in fox,
My seventh is in day but not in night,
And my whole is a thing which you hail with delight.
Answer: Holiday.

The Moral

"Pa, won't you please help me with my Sunday school lesson? It's about Noah and the flood, and we've got to say what the story teaches us."
"Why, that's easy, my boy. Obviously it teaches us that we should always provide for a rainy day."

Failure and Success Mixed in Blackstone

Blackstone was born in 1723. There are said to be three ways by which a young man can get on at the bar—by marrying an attorney's daughter, by writing a book or by a miracle. Blackstone wrote a book.

He was a more or less disappointed barrister; and (like many other comparative failures) set out to teach others how to succeed in the profession at which, to put it mildly, he had not won so many laurels, himself. The outcome of his Oxford lectures was his "Commentaries," perhaps the most famous law book ever written. He wrote it with a bottle of port always on his desk.

His work is rather snuffed at today as a textbook for professional students; but its rare and lucid style made it the authority to which, for nearly two centuries, every layman has turned. When the newly formed United States first set up court of their own, they took "Blackstone" as their legal bible.

Its author became an M. P. and a judge. It was his dictum, during the trial of a woman murderer, that gave rise to one of Doctor Johnson's most entertaining discussions; about the man who shot himself because he could not digest hot buttered muffins, and he loved them so.—From the Continental Edition of the London Daily Mail.

Portents Meant Much to Early Englishmen

Portents in earth and sky, that filled our forefathers with dread, figure largely in our ancient history books; especially in that treasure house which so few Englishmen have explored, the Anglo-Saxon Chronicle.

It was in the year 1100, in Berkshire that blood welled from the earth, "as many said that should see it. And thereafter on the morning after Lammas day was the King William Rufus shot in hunting by an arrow from his own men. . . . All that was loathsome to God and righteous men, all that was customary in this land in his time."

The Chronicle does not tell us, but another historian does, that from the spot where he fell—now marked by the Rufus stone, which every visitor to the New forest goes to see—his body was carted by a few peasants, in a country wagon, to Winchester cathedral, where it was buried beneath the tower; and the very next year—another portent—the tower fell.

Who, indeed, living in such times, could fail to discern the wrath of God, when two of the Conqueror's sons—for Richard, his second son, was gored by a stag close by—met their doom in the glades which their father had devastated that he might hunt the tall deer therein?—London Daily Mail.

Cattiness

All men are divided into two classes: Those who are convinced most women are catty and those who insist that they all are.

If, by cattiness, you mean petty vindictiveness sweetly expressed, I do admit that quite a lot of women are gifted in that respect. Men have the vindictiveness often enough but it is seldom as petty and it is likely to be distinctly not sweetly expressed. As I see it, cattiness is mainly a hangover from the days when men were permitted to swear great, big, tempering oaths, while women weren't permitted to swear at all—so they relieved their nastier feelings by learning to say sweet things with a sting.—Plain Talk Magazine.

Whitewashed, as 'Twere

A Glasgow man whose business and private reputation would not have stood too much scrutiny ultimately found himself in the dock on a serious charge.

But his lawyers played their parts so skillfully that the Judge dismissed the case, telling the accused that he "left the dock without a stain on his character."

On leaving the building one of his cronies approached him and remarked: "Man, Jamie, did you hear what his lordship said about your character? Wasn't it a darned good job you were arrested, you lucky dog?"—London Answers.

Unkind

The man and the girl were sitting on the pier, and for some time there had been silence between them.

"Do you know," he said at last, "that every evening, before I go to bed, I write down my thoughts in my diary? Interesting, don't you think?"

"Oh, most," she answered. "How long have you been doing it?"

"About a couple of years," was the reply.

"Indeed!" said the girl; "then you must have had the first page nearly full."

In the "Good Old Days"

It is not as easy today as it was 20 years ago to walk right in and ask the president of a bank what time it is or what he thinks of the weather. Heads of corporations are today entrenched behind a squad of bright-eyed secretaries whose greatest ambition in life seems to be to ask useless questions. In the old days, the president of a railroad or the head of a steel company could sit in the front office in his shirt sleeves and smoke a clay pipe and nothing would be thought of it.—Harry Daniel, in Thrift Magazine.

The Gobbling of the Turkey Gobbler

The air was crisp, the season fall,
When on the turkey came to call
That little bird with tireless wings
Who flies around and tells folks things.

He told the turkey, "You're a goose,
Unless you hurry and reduce.
Your face is red, you waist's a joke,
You're very apt to have a stroke."

The gobbler said in careless mood,
"My boarding house now sets up food
That's quite the best I ever ate,
I can't help pecking clean each plate."

The warner gave his wings a whirr
And chirped, "That's rather sinister.
I see you with a noble tan—
From ovens, not from sun, old-man."

"The bright, red cranberry beware—
And all that well-dressed turks will wear.
You'll be stuffed full of bread and sage,
Unless you try and be your age."

The gobbler gobbled all he found
And gaily took on pound by pound,
His exercise was staid and mild;
Exertion makes wild turkeys wild.

Deaf was the turkey to all pleas
"Gainst vitamins and calories.
His requiem was this remark:
"Now what will you have—white or dark?"

Good Fellowship in Thanks of Pilgrims

The fact that this holiday, a most cheerful American festival, is an inheritance from the Pilgrim fathers may account for the misgivings in some consciences that it is celebrated in too secular a vein, the emotion of gratitude finding innumerable outlets beside devotional services in the churches.

It is doubtful that Governor Bradford would share that feeling. He rejoiced that his people "had all things in good plenty," and the day of thanks that he appointed was given over to feasting on the fruits of the season and the trophies of the hunt and to such good fellowship as the means of the Colonists afforded. There was a semblance of sport in the festivity. Edward Winslow wrote to a friend in England that "among other recreations we exercised our arms, many of the Indians coming among us, and among the rest Massasoit, their greatest king, with some ninety men, whom we entertained and feasted three days."

Psalm of Thanks

And the Lord shall make thee plenteous in goods, in the fruit of thy body, and in the fruit of thy cattle, and in the fruit of thy ground, in the land which the Lord swore unto thy fathers to give thee.

The Lord shall open unto thee his good treasure, the heaven to give the rain unto thy land in his season, and to bless all the work of thine hand; and thou shalt lend unto many nations, and thou shalt not borrow.

And the Lord shall make thee the head, and not the tail; and thou shalt be above only, and thou shalt not be beneath; if that thou hearken unto the commandments of the Lord thy God, which I command thee this day, to observe and to do them.
—Deuteronomy 28: 11-13.

National Thanks

In our open gates we proclaim a confidence in Man and in our theory of government without historical parallel.

We believe in our institutions, in their potency to establish and sustain equality before the law and equality of opportunity.

As a nation we believe in God, and that belief has been put into the broadest, fairest practice Time has witnessed.

Plenty blesses us. The high purpose to go on and on into better things electrifies our national thought. For the prosperity of today and the visions of tomorrow we give thanks.

Church Thanksgivings

Well into the Eighteenth century the day was marked by two church services, the reading of sermons at the family hearth, and family prayer. Before Revolutionary days it was more or less of a fast day.

Recognition of the civil proclamation of a day of prayer and thanksgiving by the Protestant Episcopal church came in 1789, the year of President Washington's first national proclamation. Roman Catholic recognition of the day by special religious features was given in 1888, when a Mass of Thanksgiving was authorized.

Thys Day

Ye thankful feast be on ye table,
Come now and eat all that you're able;
But first some act of kindness do,
That another may be thankful too.

MUST NOT BE ONLY DAY OF PLEASURE

Thanksgiving Also Time of Cheer and Inspiration.

Men have little of the Thanksgiving spirit in them who see nothing in life for which to be grateful when they themselves happen to be stricken or afflicted. They do well to be sorrowful and sad, do well to mourn—they would be less than human if they did not. But it is again a mistake to rebel at what is the common lot, or to indict God for the inevitable. One with a truly thankful spirit can be thankful even though the tears flow and the heart seems broken. One can be thankful with a thankfulness shown in their "lives by an humble, holy and obedient walking before" God all the rest of their life. The important thing ever to bear in mind is that we are dealing with a spiritual relation, and with life as a spiritual experience, which relation no one can break but ourselves, an experience of which no one but ourselves in rob us. Looked at in some such way as this Thanksgiving day may be a blessing to all, and a great and wonderful teacher. So we should each year approach it with a determination to make the most of it, and to get out of it all the benefits which it is so capable of yielding. It ought to be a day of blessing, a day of cheer and inspiration. Perhaps we have gone too far in thinking of it mostly as a day of feasting, and of material pleasure. It would be well to view it in its profounder and more sacred aspect—we must view it in this way if we would make it a blessing to the soul. The thankful spirit—what a great thing it is! Its antithesis is a jealous and grudging spirit, and perhaps the choice is between them. There can be no question as to which a right-thinking man would choose for himself. As a rule the most thankful people are those who have little. For those who have much generally take what they have as a matter of course—as only their due—and therefore as calling for no expression of gratitude. We should wish one another a spiritually profitable Thanksgiving day as we wish one another a Merry Christmas.

"I've Got Him!"

Washington's Thanks

I do recommend and assign Thursday, the twenty-sixth day of November next (1789), to be devoted by the people of these states to the service of that great and glorious Being, who is the Beneficent Author of all the good that was, that is, or that will be; that we may then all unite in rendering unto Him our sincere and humble thanks for His providence in the course and conclusion of the late war; for the great degree of tranquillity, union, and plenty, which we have since enjoyed; for the peaceable and rational manner in which we have been enabled to establish constitutions of government for our safety and happiness, and particularly the national one now lately instituted; for the civil and religious liberty with which we are blessed.—George Washington.

Turkey Supreme

Whether the various monarchs occupying their several thrones recognize the turkey as the bird par excellence for all notable gastronomic occasions is a question of minor importance. He is so recognized here in America and is the crowning glory of the White House table on the greatest of great feast days; and since the President of the United States, be he Republican or Democrat, is more powerful than any sceptered ruler, the turkey's claims to pre-eminence among the fowl birds of the world may be regarded as established.—American Legion Monthly.

Thanksgiving

The roof of the world is in my eyes.
Thank God for the roof of the world!
Thank God for the mighty tide of seas.
Against me always huddled!
Thank God for the lightning and ceaseless strife,
And the sting of his chattering rod!
Thank God for the stress and pain of life,
And, and, thank God for God!
—Joyce Kilmer—

"In the Shadow"

Contemplation of the approach of the great day may account for the dojected attitude of the bird which plays so large a part in the national feast.

Domestic Appeal of the Festival Season

Tradition says that there were athletic contests on the first Thanksgiving day. Bradford mentions in his journal that the Pilgrims played pitch-the-bar. Our modern Thanksgiving is quite in the spirit of the original.

It is pleasant to feel that there has never been a trace of dourness or morbid introspection in the holiday which began at Plymouth Rock, which the Puritans adopted, which New England cherished and which since the Civil war has won a national observance as wholehearted as a set occasion for rejoicing could well attain. No day is more signally marked by charitable deeds and the good offices of friendship. The very heart of its appeal is domestic. Above all it is a day of family reunion, "gathering in the shattered sheaves of home and kin."

Summing Up Blessings

Neither wealth nor poverty is a blessing—both may be curses. Epicurus regarded them as among the things which he classed as "indifferent." It is wrong, therefore, to think very much of them in connection with the attempt to sum up our blessings. They may have no significance at all, one way or the other. In this connection, a study of the Greek philosophers would be many be found extremely helpful. "Life is more than meat, and body than raiment," a truth which it seems highly important to bring strongly home to the consciousness of men—especially of those who, whenever the skies are dark, see only a mockery in Thanksgiving day. That is a thoroughly anti-Christian, and, as is believed, anti-common-sense attitude.—Indianapolis News.

Few Ungrateful

Although there may be many in America today who have no feeling, no thought, and even no word, of gratitude, there is no doubt that on the whole this country has a deep sense of thankfulness for the many and bountiful blessings that have been bestowed upon it. Surely no nation ever had such abundant reason for gratitude and in the same degree no nation ever had such an obligation laid upon it.

Thanksgiving

Grateful for the harvest
Gathered from the field,
Fruits of plain and valley
In overflowing yield;
Thankful for the beauty
Seen upon each way,
For the many simple joys
That came with every day;
Grateful for the favors
Given to our land,
For the progress and the work
Seen on every hand;
Thankful for the striving
That will not let us be,
The restless urge that leads us
To new discovery;
Grateful beyond telling
For home and kin and friend
When we count our blessings,
There seems to be no end.

Turkey Production

The most important sections of turkey production are the Middle Western and Southwestern states. In these states large numbers of small flocks are raised annually on the grain farms and there are also many large commercial flocks. The census of 1920 shows the six leading states in production of turkeys to be Texas, Missouri, Oklahoma, California, Kentucky and Virginia. Formerly large numbers were raised in New England, but in recent years there has been a decided decrease.

Goodness and Gratitude

Cicero called gratitude the mother of virtues. He regarded "grateful" and "good" as synonymous terms, in as much as to be grateful is to be good, he said, and to be good is to be grateful. Gratitude, that is to say, is a measure of goodness; one is good in the degree that one is grateful, and one cannot be good who is ungrateful. Indeed, if they are not one and the same thing there is an intimate relation between them.

POULTRY FACTS

RAISING GUINEAS NOT DIFFICULT

I've been raising guineas a number of years and have often wondered why they are not more plentiful on general farms, as they can be raised in connection with turkeys or chickens with very little extra labor, writes M. G. Roberts in Farm and Ranch.

Guinea is served on the tables of American hotels under various names, as it is the best substitute for game of any of our domestic poultry. The meat has a distinct game flavor quite different from chicken or turkey.

There are three varieties of guineas raised in America, the Pearl, the White, and the Lavender. I have raised both the White and Pearl varieties, but found little difference between them, although the Pearl might be just a little harder and easier to raise.

These birds are great layers. Although their eggs are not quite so large as hen eggs, they are of a richer flavor. They begin laying early in the spring, sometimes in March, and lay until cold weather if not allowed to set. The first pair of guineas I bought, the hens laid 80 eggs. That I got the first season, and set and raised a brood of young ones, and this exceeds the average chicken hen.

These fowls cannot be confined in small yards and do much good, but if given their liberty on general farms will pick up most of their living.

They do not damage planted fields or crops as do turkeys or chickens, as they never scratch, but they will destroy more insects than any other fowl, and never stay away from home.

They are always on the lookout for any strange animal or bird, and their sharp eyes will detect the presence of a hawk long before chickens will notice it, and their shrill cries always give warning of any intruder. This fact should make them a welcome addition to general farms where other poultry is raised, if they had no other good qualities.

Any little disturbance in the night sets them to cackling, and therefore, chicken thieves usually give a wide berth to the flock housed with guineas.

Guinea eggs hatch in from 25 to 28 days, and usually all hatch at about the same time. They are remarkably fertile and almost every egg set will produce a guinea chick. They do better when set under chicken hens, as they can usually be given better care. The guinea hen will sit and hatch well, but as soon as the first one hatched are able to travel she will often leave the nest and the balance of her eggs.

Hens Will Appreciate Clean Winter Quarters

"Clean house now," is the advice of A. C. Smith, chief of the poultry division, University of Minnesota, to poultry keepers of the state who hope to make winter egg production profitable. Here is his recipe for cleaning the hen house:

"Brush down the ceiling and walls, and get all the dust and cobwebs out of the building. Take out all the movable fittings, including nests, nesting material, roosting platforms, water-stands, and feeders, and clean thoroughly. Sun and air them for a few days if possible, and then spray with a combined disinfectant and insecticide. Burn all nesting material and floor litter.

"If your floors are of sand or gravel—if properly constructed, you cannot have better—remove as much of the top as has become discolored and replace at once with new, clean, fresh gravel or sand. Spray the entire wall space as well as the fittings."

Typhoid Contagious

Fowl typhoid is highly contagious. It can be carried by surface washings of the soil, by English sparrows, dogs and humans. A good cleanup is the best way measure against this disease, using the plow or spade on yards, with slaked lime, and scrubbing and disinfecting the house. Sick birds should be killed promptly and burned, and the healthy birds moved to fresh ground. Give epsom salts, a pound to 100 birds.

Poultry Plans

Many people have found the budget very helpful in keeping their household accounts in shape but they have not yet adopted the same principle in their poultry business. One of the troubles with the way poultry is kept on most farms is too little planning of the work. Many people do not know how many chickens they are going to hatch or buy, what feeds they are going to use, how large a flock they want for the winter or how the birds are to be handled or marketed.

Oat Sprouter

An easily-built oat sprouter may be constructed by making an upright frame 7 feet high and about 2 feet wide and 2 feet deep. Seven trays, one for each day in the week, are made to fit into the frame. The outfit may be left in any warm room. If desired, the frame may be covered, and a lamp placed in the bottom to furnish heat. When a tray is emptied, a new supply of oats is immediately placed on it, so that one tray is ready for each day of feeding.

HALF MILLION PEOPLE AIDED BY RED CROSS IN HURRICANE RELIEF

Porto Rico and Florida Victims Helped by Prompt Action; $5,000,000 Given by Public.

One of the greatest disasters, in point of loss of life and devastation of homes, in which the American Red Cross has ever carried relief was the West Indies hurricane of September last, which swept across Porto Rico, parts of the Virgin Islands, the coast of Florida and north to end in torrential rains, flooding streams in a half dozen states. The known dead in all of the areas affected was 2,259, although it was admitted that the complete total of dead in Florida would never be known. The number of injured was estimated at 3,170. Approximately 20,000 buildings were destroyed and damaged.

At the height of the emergency the Red Cross was caring for 506,410 people—that is, feeding and clothing them and arranging for whatever shelter was obtainable. As long as three weeks after the hurricane struck Porto Rico and Florida, the Red Cross was aiding 20,236 people who were sick, of these 236 in Florida and the remainder in Porto Rico, where influenza and malaria were being treated to prevent epidemics of more drastic diseases. Large numbers of Red Cross nurses were active at both points.

In Florida more than 11,000 persons applied to Red Cross for assistance, and a great number of people in Florida and also in Porto Rico still were being cared for in the matter of food, clothing and shelter as long as two months after the hurricane, while they awaited maturing crops which would enable them to again become self sustaining.

For this relief task, the American public gave the American Red Cross a fund of $5,000,000—the sum set forth in a proclamation issued by President Coolidge a few days after news of the hurricane was received.

The relief given by the Red Cross in this great emergency, spread over such a wide territory of sea and land, was everywhere commended and special emphasis was placed upon the promptitude with which the organization responded. The hurricane struck Porto Rico September 13, and the first brief cabled word of it came September 14, to both Red Cross and the news agencies. Before nightfall, the national director of disaster relief for the Red Cross and a staff of four trained men had left Washington for Charleston, South Carolina, to board a navy destroyer which upon instruction of the President of the United States had been placed at command of the Red Cross by the Secretary of the Navy. And although the next day was Sunday, a Red Cross man arrived in New York to purchase a thousand tons of food for the Porto Ricans, already reported to be starving, and the Navy again placed a ship for the cargo at Red Cross command.

Late on Saturday evening there came another cable—a Red Cross nurse at St. Croix, in the Virgin Islands, adtained a radio party Tuesday night. Mr. and Mrs. Guy Auker and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Jones and children and Rev. and Mrs. L. R. Keckler and daughter were guests. A lunch of apples and pop corn was served by the hostess.

ressed a plea to the mother organization in Washington and gave first warning of the plight of the people of the American possession, where no family in a population of 11,000 had escaped injury.

In the meantime the Red Cross had notified its Florida Chapters that it stood ready for any service, in event the hurricane, headed toward them, did any damage. Not content with this, the Red Cross on Sunday night entrained a disaster relief director and six workers for Florida.

Money, food, clothing were dispatched immediately to both points, and before the end of the week the Red Cross was feeding a half million people.

This prompt response was made possible by the disaster relief organization the Red Cross has brought together and trained through a series of such national calamities.

Support of this work is through the annual Roll Call for memberships. The goal in the twelfth annual Roll Call to be held Armistice Day to Thanksgiving Day, November 11 to 29, is 5,000,000 members.

THE VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

No mistaking that voice, as it spoke at the election last Tuesday. Some of us may not admit that the voice spoke as it should have spoken, but none of us will misunderstand the meaning of the speaking.

It means that the people of the republic desired Herbert Hoover to take the presidential chair.

It means that the people of all the farm states desired four years more of the same policy which President Coolidge followed with reference to legislation in behalf of agriculture.

It means that the people applauded the policy of Andrew Mellon in his peculiar enforcement of prohibition, and that they desire four years more of that peculiar enforcement.

It means—

But what's the use?

And now that the country has clearly heard the voice of the people, spoken in a lawful way, it is up to every citizen to bow to the decree. If our republic is to live through the years it may live only in the strength of the law, and the highest law of all laws in our America is the law framed and acclaimed by the people at the ballot box.

I made the best fight I knew how to make for Governor Alfred E. Smith. In the face of his overwhelming defeat I am not ashamed of the part I played in the campaign in his behalf. The more I studied Alfred Smith, the more I knew of his beautiful and clean private life, and his incomparable record as the four-times governor of his own native state, the more I loved him as a man, and the more I applauded him as a public servant.

But the voice of the people is ringing in my ears. It is the highest law I know. It commands me to hail Herbert Hoover as the president of my country.

I do hail him as our president and as my president, and wish him god-speed.

AL SMITH

(Chicago Tribune, Rep.)

It will be the hope of considerate citizens throughout the country, and regardless of party or other affiliation, that Governor Smith will continue to be an active and influential factor in national politics. In spite of the force of the electoral decision against his candidacy for the presidency, we doubt there has been a decision delivered with less rancor or personal feeling among the majority of the electorate. Governor Smith emerges from the contest defeated, but retaining not only the devoted attachment of his followers but the high regard and cordial esteem of the American people. He has failed in his direct object, but he has fought in the great arena of the republic with notable credit, and retires with the respect of his adversaries and of his fellow countrymen. His discussion of public questions has been able and useful and it has marked him as a leader worthy of respectful hearing, worthy of public leadership. He represents real issues which demand consideration by our body politic. He represents elements in the nation which should have a powerful voice and he has been and is that voice. His career from youth to these days of manly fruition has been one of which he and his countrymen may be proud, and it fits him well for continued service to his party and to his country.

U. S. BACKWARD IN CARING FOR AGED, SAYS SPEAKER

More than 1,800,000 aged persons in the United States are dependent upon relatives or public or private charitable relief for their support, declared Abraham Epstein, executive secretary of the American Association for Old Age Security, one of the principal speakers at the annual meeting of the Nebraska Conference for Social Work, November 13 at the Omaha Jewish Community Center.

Mr. Epstein criticizes the present poor house system as antiquated and costly, pointing out that in Pennsylvania it has been found that the cost of an inmate in a county almshouse would support three persons in their own homes. Old age pensions or insurance is the solution sought in many states.

The United States, Mr. Epstein declares, stands only with India and China in failing to inaugurate some form of old age insurance like virtually every other civilized country.

SENATOR NORRIS

(Baltimore Sun)

Men in all parties will now ask, What of Senator Norris of Nebraska? And cost candid men, we believe, will agree that it is no new thing for Senator Norris to give proof of his devotion to principle by putting it above considerations of personal or party expediency, but never in more unselfish form than in this election.

During his service in the senate he has consistently fought for measures which he believed to be right and in the public interest without regard to the attitude of his party or the course of his political associates. Almost singlehanded he kept alive in Washington the opposition to the power trust and when the corruption of the Pennsylvania primaries was exposed he was the only republican senator who dared to translate his protest into positive action. Although many republicans like Borah uttered pious exclamations of horror and stopped at that, Senator Norris went into Pennsylvania and spoke for the democratic candidate against Mr. Vare, who represented the corrupt influences. Given therefore, the republican presidential candidate's equivocal position on water power and his opposition to the form of relief which Senator Norris believed was needed by the farmers, it was not surprising that the straightforward senator should come out against him and in favor of Smith, but it called for moral courage and devotion which few have.

The defeat that Governor Smith has now suffered in the very region where Senator Norris has the greatest influence would terrify and humiliate the politicians who shape their conduct according to the standards of success. They would at once begin to trim and hedge and talk about bowing to the will of the people. No such thing is to be expected from a man of Senator Norris' record. He represents the rare thing in political life of a man with convictions and the still rarer thing of a man who stand by them.

A General Purpose Tractor That Does All Farm Work

The Two-Row Tractor that Plants and Cultivates

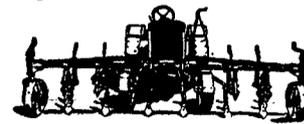

Now you can do all your farming with mechanical power—plowing, planting, cultivating, disking—all field work, all belt work, including jobs requiring power take-off service. All these operations are accomplished quickly, economically and efficiently with the John Deere General Purpose Farm Tractor.

The GP is a tractor of standard, conventional design, light in weight, but remarkably powerful. It does high-grade work on any farm job within its power range.

GP Tractor with Planter Attachment

Here's the John Deere GP Tractor with planting attachment. One man can plant from 30 to 40 acres per day with this three-row outfit. Planter attaches to tractor to form a single unit, saving time at turns. Also makes possible closer planting to the fence or end of field. No levers to operate—power lift raises and lowers planter.

GP Tractor with Cultivator Attachment

With this cultivating outfit as much as 40 acres can be cultivated in a day—three rows at a time. One man with this outfit will do the work of four men with four single-row cultivators and eight horses. All rigs are raised and lowered without stopping the tractor—by merely a touch of the foot. Has same flexibility on uneven ground as single-row cultivator.

Come in and see this cost-reducing, labor-saving outfit.
