

$400,000 DECREASE PERSONAL LISTING DUE TO LIGHT CROP

Albers Brothers of Leslie and Wm. Langenberg of Hoskins are Heaviest Tax Payers.

CITY OF WAYNE NOT COMPLETED

With the listing of personal property completed in all the country precincts and all of the towns except Wayne indications are that the valuation of Wayne county personal property will total approximately $400,000 less this year than a year ago. If the valuation of Wayne is the same as last year the county's total will be slightly more than four hundred thousand less than a year ago.

The total for this year with an estimate of a half million on Wayne, which is $5,000 more than a year ago, is $4,966,690 as compared with $5,364,660 for last year.

Short Crop Blamed
The decrease in the valuation, Mr. Assenheimer, county assessor, believes, is due to the light crop which curtailed the feeding in parts of the county where not much corn was raised. This contention is substantiated by the fact that in parts of the county where the corn crop was near normal valuations were on a par with a year ago.

Albers Bros. Lead
Albers brothers of Leslie continued to hold, by a substantial margin, the honors of being the county's largest holders of personal property of approximately $50,000 which consisted principally of their large numbers of feeders.

Trailing them for second honors is Wm. Langenberg of Hoskins precinct, who also is a heavy feeder. His total was considerably less than that of Albers brothers.

Following is a list of the precincts and the amounts of each: Hoskins, $317,960; Garfield, $243,670; Sherman, $301,380; Deer Creek, $223,015; Chapin, $298,130; Hancock, $301,160; Brenna, $394,015; Strahan, $316,620; Wilbur, $305,045; Hunter, $386,520; Plum Creek, $459,575; Logan, $274,290; Leslie, $320,795. Wayne, (estimated) $500,000; Winside, $120,650; Hoskins, $59,325; Carroll, $114,175; Sholes, $16,730; Helkes (addition to Wakefield) $8,405.

REV. WHITMAN TALKS ON MANY BARGAINS

Calls Attention to Intangible Things Which He Calls Our Greatest Bargains.

DEFENDS YOUNG GENERATION

"Bargains" was the title of Rev. W. W. Whitman's talk before the Wayne Kiwanis club Monday noon, which was well received by his fellow citizens. Rev. Whitman talked of those intangible things which are worth far more than their actual value to the individual and to society. He pointed out that the educational influences, from the schools and from the press, are untold in their benefits, but they cost but very little comparatively. One of the greatest of satisfactions, said Rev. Whitman, is the appreciation of one's children, and one's friends, yet the cost of this is negligible. It was the speaker's belief that none of the spiritual values costs much in proportion to its worth.

Bargain Seekers
"We American people are great bargain seekers, we spent an hour perusing papers seeking the best bargain for a five cent purchase," Rev. Whitman stated. "The most enthusiastic places for any community are found around the bargain counters. The most enthusiastic activity of a church is a rummage sale or a church supper. But, in our mad rush for bargains we usually overlook bargains of greatest value, the speaker continued.

"Our public schools and colleges are bargains of great value. The public schools of today offer bargains for which Kings of a century ago would have gladly given the kingdoms, now within reach of every boy and girl.

"Dr. Cadman said he saved 1482 years one morning when he was ten years of age for he discovered that the world was round and it took others 1482 years to find it out. Caesar, Cicero, Socrates, Demosthene never knew it, the public school informed him of the fact before he was ten.

"The addresses of the recent speakers in Wayne have been bargains of information of infinite value to every citizen of Wayne," Mr. Whitman said. The press affords a circulating un-

Schools Are Lagging and Churches Not Adequately Meeting Development

Revolutionary Developments Have Outstripped Our Adjustments, I. H. Britell Declares.

BAND; QUARTET RENDER MUSIC

Our schools are lagging culturally and our churches are not adequately meeting their duties as a result of not having kept pace with our revolutionary developments of the past fifty years, I. H. Britell declared in his memorial address here last Thursday, when he challenged the American Legion as heads of the growing generation to exercise a percentage influence in the homes which are the foundation of our government.

In opening his address, Prof. Britell paid a tribute to American citizenship as expressed in our pride for our freedom and our love for the founders and defenders of our nation.

"Cap Sheaf to Shock"
Reviewing the early history and development of the nation, the speaker stated, the adoption of the central government by the thirteen sovereign colonies was like "putting the cap sheaf to a shock of thirteen bundles."

In the beginning, he said, each colony was a sovereignty in itself and soon following the adoption of the central government the failure of a number of states to recognize the central government as supreme resulted in the Civil war. This same condition might be repeated today due to the eighteenth amendment, he predicted, if it were not for the fact that instead of the difference of opinion on the wet and dry issues being represented by two definite sections they are evenly divided throughout the entire nation.

Pleads for Preparedness
War is inhuman, Mr. Britell stated, and everything possible should be done for the making of continued peace but, he said, it is no more unreasonable to disarm the nation than it would be to disarm the police (continued on page five)

DELEGATE BELIEVES PRESS EXAGGERATED

Union of Methodist and Presbyterian Churches Not as Imminent as Was Reported.

MOVE STARTED 20 YEARS AGO

That the daily newspapers exaggerated the imminence of union between the Presbyterian and the Methodist churches, is the belief of Prof. A. F. Gulliver, who returned last Wednesday noon from the 141st General Assembly of the Presbyterian church in America, held at St. Paul May 22-29, where he had been in attendance as elder commissioner from Niobrara Presbytery. At the general conference of the Methodist church last year a committee was appointed and authorized to confer with similar committees from other churches on the question of union. But Prof. Gulliver points out that the next Methodist general conference will not be for three years, and it is not likely that definite steps will be taken until that time. And, as the two churches are very different in organization, it probably will take some time to make all adjustments necessary.

The question of union between the two churches has been agitated for some time. The Presbyterians made a move in that direction nearly a score of years ago.

But, Prof. Gulliver believes, there will be little trouble in combining the difference Presbyterian churches in America, and definite steps were taken toward this end at the general assembly.

Another significant move that has fair chance of success was the decision to submit to the presbyteries the question of allowing women a part in the church government, and making them eligible to serve in the various offices of the church, including the ministry. This proposal will be submitted to the presbyteries during the year and the results reported to the general assembly next year. A favorable vote of a majority of the presbyteries is necessary to carry the proposal. The national organization of the church is entirely clear of debt for the first time in recent years, says Prof. Gulliver.

Prof. Gulliver returned home last Wednesday noon, just in time to attend commencement exercises and see his son, Henry, graduate at Wayne State Teachers college.

Norfolk Pastor Wants To Be Member Of Class

Former Laurel Boy Asks For Diploma He Never Got.

Asking that he might be regarded as a member of the 1929 class of eighth grade graduates of Cedar County, Rev. Merle Adams, Pastor of the Norfolk Congregational church and former Cedar county school boy, addressed the eighth grade graduates of that county at Hartington last Saturday.

Plow Was Diploma

Explaining his unusual request Mr. Adams said that when he went to the rural school near Laurel, Golden Prairie school there was no such thing as graduation "Instead, you just went until you were big enough to help your father in the fields. The quitting of school life and the beginning of plowing or other farm life, was the only graduation we had in those days.

"I guess I finished the eighth grade, Mr. Adams stated. Anyway, I was admitted to the ninth grade at Laurel. But I, really never did graduate, and so I wish to be considered a member of the 1929 class in Cedar County."

Learned to Give and Take

Before beginning his address on "Facing Forward," Mr. Adams spoke briefly of the rural schools of his day, paying tribute to the lessons which they taught. "In the hours of play in the rural school near Laurel, I learned to give and to take—to live with my fellow men. The business outside of school is just like the games learned in school, only on a bigger scale. But it is the same—the hard knocks just must be taken with a smile, and the good things must be shared with others if they are to be enjoyed most."

Rev. Adams recently addressed the men of the Presbyterian church of Wayne at a dinner program.

Interstate Power Co. Sue $100,000 Damage

Hord Company Charged With Publishing Libel in Ad.

George A. Lee, counsel for the Interstate Power company, according to news dispatches, has filed with the clerk of the federal court in the Grand Island division a petition in which that company asks for $100,000 damages from the Neligh Electric Light company based on an advertisement which is alleged to be libelous, wicked and false that was published in a Neligh paper recently.

Two Million Invested

The two companies are engaged in competition in that city, while the Interstate supplies a large number of towns in that section, having an investment of over two million in property. It says that the continued success of the business in that section and also in Neligh is dependent on the good reputation and credit for its honesty and fair dealing, with its customers and the general public and upon their confidence in it.

Héber A. Hord of Central City is president of the defendant company, which owns one of several plants that his parent company has built in competition with the Interstate company, on franchises which provide for eventual city ownership.

Ad Cites Clashes

In the article complained of, the defendant gave a history of the previous clashes between the two companies; charged that the delay in construction at Neligh was through the interference of the Interstate company; alleged that the latter was charging discriminatory rates as between the various towns; that the Interstate had offered to sell its distribution system at Hartington if Hord would sell the Neligh plant to it; charged the Interstate with cutting rates at Hartington and elsewhere with the purpose of destroying the new plants, and claiming for Hord the credit of bringing low rates to that section and city.

The plaintiff claims the advertisement contained defamatory and untruthful statements, that it was written and printed for the purpose of injuring the company and charged dishonesty that has injured its credit, standing and business.

Yankton Ex-Service Man Asks Sentence

Voluntarily Given 5 Year Penalty "to Square Things."

Altho friends paid the $1,420,38 shortage in his office and the case seemed closed, Jessie D. McCoun, former Yankton county auditor and treasurer, walked into district court in Yankton recently and at his own insistence, was given a five year prison term.

Mr. McCoun, a former ex-service man, said that he had never felt right about the matter, and that in order to square things with himself, he would have to suffer punishment. He was accompanied with his pastor, Rev. E. H. Lindeman of the Congregational church, to whom he had told the story.

McCoun mysteriously disappeared May 5th, at which time the shortage was noted. He was found on the streets of Topeka, apparently a victim of amnesia.

GOOD AND BUM ROADS

We are in receipt of a letter from the Nebraska Good Roads Association announcing that the membership dues to that organization have been reduced to two dollars and asking that we tell our readers about their good work.

In as much as we seldom visit the southern part of the state we are not in a position to intelligently inform our readers on the results of the efforts of the association, so we will confine our comment to Wayne county roads and some of the things that have not been done. We do not know whether it is because all the officers of the Good Roads Association are residents of the south Platte county or whether it is just due to negligence of home folks, but aside from the state highways and federal roads Wayne county is almost without a decent road.

Many farmers living off the main highways in various parts of the county that should do their trading in Wayne are seldom seen here and quite often we are told that they go to smaller towns that fall to offer the shopping advantage that Wayne does, because of the condition of roads leading to the main highways.

The main fault with the local road program we believe is that not enough local interest has been brought into action. Wayne should have a good road association of its own. It should have a membership that is representative of the town with officers and committees appointed to exercise influence whenever it is needed for for the best interest of the county.

We know of no legitimate reason for hundreds of farmers in various parts of the county being without access to a good road leading to their county seat. All the roads can't be built at once, but with many thousands of dollars flowing into the county road fund annually we believe that it is time that a good constructive plan should be worked out and followed. We believe Wayne should show an active interest in the development of such a program.

KEEPING IN THE WHITE

"Keeping out of the red" is an expression often used, but at present northeastern Nebraska is "keeping in the white," a condition just as desirable as the first phrase, for by "keeping in the white" this section of the state is one in which business conditions are shown to be best, according to the map of the country's business as shown in the May issue of the magazine, the Nation's Business.

Perhaps not as many people are familiar with the monthly business maps of the Nation's Business as might be the case, but it is certain that those who do know of the maps look forward to seeing them. Sections of the country where business is good are shown in white, quieter business areas are shaded, and where things are dull that part of the map is shown in black.

For several months this particular section in northeastern Nebraska has been "in the white," a fact that is mighty pleasing to those who have been watching the maps. One Hartington man who is competent to judge states that he has checked the maps with actual conditions over a period of years, and finds that the two certainly do check up closely. The maps are prepared by a representative of the great credit agency of Bradstreet's, which keeps in close touch with conditions over the nation.

To the public spirited citizens of this area, it is a course of pride to know that the nation as a whole regards northeastern Nebraska as a section in which good times are prevalent. It is a worth while record to have, and should be remembered when the calamity howler sends out his wail. Individual losses may have occurred, but according to one of the greatest business agencies in the country, this particular section offers as great opportunity for making good as any spot in the nation.

In your work, in your talk, in every act of your daily life, help to keep this section "in the white." - Cedar County News.

THE CURSE OF ARITHMETIC

Even though the discovery is belated, it is gratifying to hear that our educational leaders have finally found out that some 35 per cent more arithmetic is taught in the public schools than is required by "life situations." That is something the rest of us have known for a long, long time, and it has been a perennial cause of wonderment to us that children are compelled to solve problems whose uselessness is little short of fantastic. Which one of these children will ever be called upon to compute how much $3,941.26 will amount to in 7 years, 3 months and 21 days at 6 per cent, with interest compounded semiannually? Some of them, of course, will have $3,941.26 and may be curious to know what it will amount to in 7 years, 3 months and 21 days. But how they find out is to go to a bank and have a courteous gentleman at a flat-top desk figure it out for them. Similarly with the problem of how much paper, 22 inches wide, will be required to paper a room 18 feet long, 16 feet wide and 9 feet high, due allowance to be made for two windows, 6x3 feet, and three doors, two of them 7x3½ feet and one of them 7x5 feet. That is a job for a paperhanger, if one survives. Similarly with the problem of how many board feet of lumber will be required to build a bridge 132 feet long and 14 feet wide, the planking to be 2 inches thick, the guard rail to be 3 feet high and constructed of 3-in. x 3-in. lumber, mortised and braced as shown in Fig. 37, and the piling to be 12 inches x 12 inches, driven in clusters of three every 10 feet, as shown in Fig. 38. That is a job for a civil engineer. Similarly with A, B and C and their endless apples. That is a job for the inmate of a hobby match.

These problems may arise in various fields of human activity. But they do not arise in the life of the average man, and they have no meaning for the average child. Moreover, they are not arithmetic. The process of arithmetic are four, unless you count the complex processes of evolution and evolution that belong more properly to algebra, and one they have been learned, especially in their application to the decimal system and to money, they are all that most of us ever have occasion to use. "Arithmetic," says the report of a survey at Columbia, "has been shown to be the chief source of non-promotion in the elementary grades." And this does not state half of it. It is the chief source of the school-child's notion that all study is boredom. If arithmetic were boiled down to its elements for our children, and the reason for learning it carefully explained to them, we lay a wager that their interest in study would be increased manifold over night. - New York World.

POWER TRUST PROFITS

Now comes a group of prominent American manufacturers complaining they need a higher tariff because they cannot compete with Canadian enterprises supplied with cheap electric power by the public-owned Hydroelectric Power commission of Ontario.

The applicant for protection is the National Sand and Gravel association. It complains that the Canadian manufacturer gets electric power supplied him "approximately at cost." It complains that the American manufacturer must buy power from a private power corporation operated for profit. Therefore, the brief of the Sand and Gravel association, presented to the house committee, says, "The consequence is that the cost of power to the Ontario manufacturer is approximately 60 per cent of the cost of power to the American manufacturer."

When the Sand and Gravel association speaks of the Canadians getting their power "approximately at cost," it must not be supposed that the public-owned Hydroelectric Power commission is losing money. As a matter of fact, the lower Canadian rates by law are set high enough to pay all expenses of the public enterprise and supply a fund to retire its bonds within 30 years, after which time the power manufacturing and distributing plant will belong to the public free of charge.

We have long known that the domestic consumer got his electric current a good deal cheaper in Canada. The National Popular Government league recently made a compilation from official figures, proving that the average cost for household electricity in 32 selected cities in the United States was 7.4 cents per kilowatt-hour; in 21 selected Ontario cities it was 1.6 cents.

But, the power people told us, the public-owned Canadian system gives these cheap rates to citizen consumers in order to get votes. It makes up the loss by exorbitant charges on industrial users, so we were told. How is that to be reconciled with the very real plight of American manufacturers of sand and gravel, burdened with power costs two-thirds higher than their rivals in Canada?

Another interesting fact might have been included in the brief of the distressed Americans. Because of freight charges, Ontario sand and gravel, "even today" when there is no tariff can only be shipped a short distance across the American border. In this zone, American manufacturers are served by private utility corporations with Niagara Falls power, the same power distributed 40 per cent cheaper to Ontario Manufacturers by the public-owned Hydroelectric commission.

Heavens, what will happen if the American people hear the facts about Ontario, and learn what we could do with our own water power resources if we retained and developed them ourselves instead of handing them over to corporations that rob us?

To distort and suppress the facts about public-owned water power is the heart and soul of the whole power trust propaganda. To this end they secretly hire or bribe professors, doctors, engineers, editors, publicists, and legislators to deliberately misinform schools, colleges and the general public.

To control news and editorials regarding public versus private exploitation of the people's water powers is the main reason for this orgy of secret newspaper buying by the power corporations.

Give the people light and they will find their own way. Give them darkness and you can guide them with one hand and pick their pockets with the other. - Bee-News.

Prof. F. G. Dale Talks To Norfolk Kiwanians, Mon.

Praises Wealth of State In After Dinner Talk at Norfolk.

From the standpoint of products, and money on deposit in the banks Nebraska ranks first in the per capita wealth, Fred G. Dale local college geography department head, told Norfolk Kiwanians at their Monday noon luncheon.

Nebraska's high rank as compared to other states is due to diversified agriculture, Mr. Dale told the Kiwanians. This diversity is largely due to geographic divisions, which includes types of rainfall and climate, he added.

Nebraska ranks high among the states in production of crops, but not so high in industry, mainly because it does not have the coal supply and power necessary for manufacturing on a large scale, said the speaker.

Speaking on the early history of Nebraska, Mr. Dale said in 1854 when it became a territory, only about 2,000 persons resided within the boundaries. "The present population of Nebraska is 1,300,000 persons, but it is not increasing rapidly, principally because of lack of industries, the state being mainly agricultural."

There is a steady decrease in the farm population in Nebraska, the speaker pointed out, this being largely due to the introduction of highly efficient modern implements on the farms.

The opening number of the Wayne band concert was given at the Bressler park last Thursday evening and was attended by a crowd estimated at many hundreds of listeners and said to be one of the largest ever to attend a concert here.

Attendees were very complimentary in their remarks about the concert, and regard the present band as a marked improvement over those of previous years.

The concerts will be given regularly during the summer with the program for the second number announced for tonight.

Complain of Noise

The band committee have received some complaint about the noise of children playing about the park during the program and steps will in all probability be taken, it was said, to stop this annoyance unless it is otherwise taken care of.

The band committee is especially interested in having the children at the concerts, but they also believe for the best interests of all concerned they should not be permitted to play and make unnecessary noise and disturbances during the program.

Former Wayne Pastor Passes At Omaha Sun.

Rev. Thomas Bithel, Served Here Four Years Called by Death.

Rev. Thomas Bithel, a former Wayne pastor, died at the Methodist hospital in Omaha last Sunday night succumbing to bronchial pneumonia after a lingering illness of three years. Rev. Bithel, who has been staying with his daughter, Mrs. Cecil Bacon, in Omaha, was removed to the hospital about a week before his death.

Rev. Bithel was pastor of the Methodist church in Wayne for five years, from 1897 to 1902, when he was one of the most popular of pastors. He is remembered here for his untiring efforts during an epidemic of small-pox which occurred during his pastorate. He retired from the Wayne Methodist church to become presiding elder of the Neigh district, a post which he held for six years. Then he went to a pastorate in Fremont, and later to the Trinity Methodist church in Omaha. For the past several years Rev. Bithel has been retired. He was 68 years of age at the time of his death.

SCHOOLS LAGGING AND CHURCHES NOT ADEQUATE

force of Chicago. There are very few, today, who do not believe that war should be outlawed but the preservation of government is necessary, the speaker intimated predicting that eventually war will be outlawed.

Citing a large number of functions that interfere with the efficiency of the schools of today, Mr. Britell declared, that our schools are lagging culturally. The many parties, athletic activities and endless other functions are responsible for a deterioration of the schools, he intimated. No one of these is especially bad but all of them together seriously interfere with the mental development of the students, he intimated.

Need Old Time Faith

The church is not adequately meeting the developments of the times, the speaker intimated, and there is a great need of the old time faith of accepting the Ten Commandments. We owe our freedom and the development of our country to the faith of our fathers. It was due to their faith that the slaves were freed and that the west was developed by the pioneers—it was due to this faith that our fathers dared to die for posterity, he said.

An Enduring Memorial

Egypt, the speaker said, with her pyramids and China with its wall of seclusion attempted to build a perpetual memorial, but America has a memorial that is as enduring as love for freedom. It is our grateful memory for those who sacrificed as expressed by our custom of placing flowers on the graves of all our heroes from coast to coast as a token of tribute—for the principles they guarded and for the virtues they practiced. "It is a great spiritual reaction of a grateful memory."

Special music fitting the day was rendered by the Wayne band under the direction of Prof. F. C. Reed and the college quartet composed of J. G. W. Lewis, A. F. Gulliver, J. W. Costerian and W. C. Lowrie.

Following the program at the Gay Theatre the band and Legionnaires and Spanish war veterans marched behind the Civil War veterans to the cemetery where memorial services were held for veterans of the Civil and World war.

Former Wayne Couple Is Married Saturday

Wm. Johnson and Jeroma Nykodem Are Wed at Clarkson.

At 6 o'clock last Saturday evening in the first Presbyterian church of Clarkson, occurred the wedding of Miss Jeroma Nykodem, of Clarkson, to Mr. William Johnson, of Evanston, Illinois. Both the young people lived at one time in Wayne.

The ceremony was elaborate, with four bridesmaids and a maid of honor, who was Miss Matha M. Rykutan, a student at Wayne State Teachers college. The best man was Lambert Urbanek, who substituted for Frank Gamble, uncle of the groom. The latter was prevented by bad roads from reaching Clarkson in time for the ceremony.

The bride wore a white taffeta dress and a bridal veil, and carried a bouquet of white lilies and light tea roses. The maid of honor was dressed in pale green. Following the ceremony was a four-course wedding dinner served by the ladies of the church.

Rev. Phillippe, pastor of the Presbyterian church, officiated.

The wedding was to have taken place earlier in the day, but due to the delay of guests by showers and bad roads, it was postponed until 6 o'clock. Frank Gamble, who was to have acted as best man, started to Clarkson with his family Saturday morning, but the roads became impassable, and he had to leave his family behind, going the rest of the way by train, only to arrive too late for the ceremony by 15 minutes. Miss Florence Beckenhauer, who attended the wedding, also experienced difficulty in getting thru. Another wedding guest from Wayne was Lester Krothen, who acted as an usher.

The bride, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Emil A. Nykodem, of Clarkson, is a former student at Wayne State Teachers college. She finished the two-year course in 1928.

The groom, son of Mrs. Anna Johnson of Evanston, and nephew of Frank Gamble, of Wayne, formerly lived in Wayne where he received his A. B. degree from Wayne State Teachers college.

The young couple, after a week spent in the west, will make their home in Evanston, Illinois, where Mr. Johnson has a position with the Chicago State Bank.

E. Haldeman-Julius has now written an "Outline of Bunk". With gusto he uncovers a deal of folly and filusions that Americans harbor, and places this "bunk" as he calls it, out in the light for us to look at. We do not think Haldeman-Julius had a very big job, for there is plenty of bunk and anyone can uncover it who has a nose for it. There is bunk in education, in business, in the churches, in society, and lots of it in newspapers. Mr. Haldeman-Julius must have found it very easy work.

We would like to suggest a better pasture for him when he tires of playing around and puncturing the foibles of others, and that is to get some responsible job and show others how to conduct it entirely without bunk. But perhaps he should be left where he is. It is much easier to pick flaws than to get rid of them, and he attracts more attention that way. And probably he is happy doing it.

Anyhow, we need a certain number of debunkers to make a racket and keep the world from falling into a big rut and staying there, a few fellows like Haldeman-Julius to tell the rest of us what is wrong with us. H. L. Mencken, editor and publisher of the American Mercury, is the champion debunker in this country. He finds much fun in calling names and making fun of the "great American boob", as he calls all of us collectively. Americans as a whole are a set of mediocre intelligences concerned with petty and insignificant things, says Mencken. And most of those we make heroes out of are of the same stuff. And he tells us so in such a blunt manner that it gets under the skin. He has made innumerable pastors and newspaper editors foam at the mouth and call him bad names.

Young college students rummaging around library shelves and looking for new mental stimuli, are struck with a thrill of horror when they first pick up his green covered magazine and read about the rottenness of American life. And if they are in that skeptical and confused state of mind into which many students are flung by the conflicting currents of thought encountered in the larger colleges and universities, they are inclined to believe what Mencken says. Perhaps after all our churches and our government are pretty much sham, they think. They become admirers of "Hank" Mencken, and of his frank and courageous way of attacking the fakes and the frauds. If they think they can write, they become debunkers on their own account, criticizing with jaunty air anything that comes to their notice. There are more brilliant and clever young men trying to write for the American Mercury than for almost any other magazine.

But most of them tire of him after a while, and find that his philosophy is hardly one they can live by. They learn that there is almost nothing that Mencken is for, and they wonder if he is entirely sincere after all. He is against nearly everything that Americans hold dear, including the democratic form of government. If he believes in anything it is the superman. Most people are incapable of enjoying themselves very much. Let them go and give the man who can climb to the top of the heap a good time. As most of us are not at the top, we do not like that idea.

Another debunker who finds American in bad shape is the novelist, Upton Sinclair. He finds too much fault with us to be very popular in the United States, but he is greatly admired in Europe. Europeans are sure that there must be something wrong with a people who have as much money as do Americans, so they believe what Sinclair says about us.

But Sinclair goes in the opposite direction from Mencken. He is a strong socialist and an enemy of the superman. Let us divide with everybody, says he. Down with those on top. But if, in his ardor for socialism, he sometimes greatly misrepresents things, it can at least be said of him that he is laboring hard for an ideal, and has at times revealed some real rotteness in American life.

Debunkers, —and there are a certain number of them in every town— are good for us. Nothing helps so much to keep us on our toes and alive and trying to walk a straight path as our enemies. But we do not need to take them too seriously. They do not expect it. And we can manage to have a pretty good time in one way or another, even if the world is full of bunk.

KENTUCKY'S CHILD SLAYER

The public was profoundly shocked a week or so ago by news dispatches relating that a 6-year-old Kentucky boy had been sentenced to fifteen years imprisonment for killing an older comrade with whom he had been playing.

The facts in the case are distressing enough, but some of the dispatches and more of the editorial comment indicate that there is a great deal of misconception about the case. The sentence was not, as some newspapers related, to a penal institution, but to the state industrial school for boys, an institution established and maintained for juvenile delinquents. The lad was committed to this institution until he was 21 years of age, which is the usual period of commitment.

The attorney for the boy has given notice of appeal. An interesting question arises as to what ought to be done with the lad, in the case the higher court frees him. In the theory of the law a child of 6 is not capable of forming a criminal intent. In this case it is doubtful if this is correct. The boy, after an angry quarrel with his companion, went to the house, took his father's shotgun from the wall, and deliberately shot his victim. Apparently he knew exactly what he was doing. His acts indicated a fixed purpose in his mind. While no one will say that he should be punished as an adult would be under similar circumstances, the deliberateness of his act indicates a type of mind that makes it necessary that he be restrained. Where, then, shall he be confined? There seems to be no other institution, except the industrial school, to which a child slayer can be committed. Those who are criticizing the judge, should put themselves in his place and then make up their minds as to what they would do.

The first mistake in the case seems to have been committed by the lawyer representing the young killer. He demanded a jury trial when there should have been no jury trial. The case ought to have been handled in the juvenile court which is not bound by the legal red tape that surrounds the criminal court.

The law does not foresee and hence fails to make provision for 6-year-old murderers. There seems to be no place for a lad who begins his criminal career at that tender age. —Norfolk News.

Neligh Man Catches A 17 Pound Catfish

The prize fish of the season, a 17½ pound catfish, was landed last week by Lon Huston, old-time Neligh fisherman, according to the Neligh News.

Mr. Huston, the article stated, has hooked many large fish of from 10 to 12 pounds but last week's efforts were rewarded by one of the largest ever pulled out of the Elkhorn River. The fish was caught just west of the city limits of Neligh.

State Power Fight To Be Decided By Voters

Circulation of Petitions Will Follow Drafting of Law.

The fight between the League of Nebraska Municipalities and the "power trust", according to recent press dispatches in the Omaha Bee-News, which resulted in a defeat for the municipal ownership interests in the recent legislature, will be carried directly to the people in the 1930 election.

That was decided at a recent meeting in Lincoln attended by officers and members of the league and other friends of municipal ownership.

As a result of the decision to continue the fight against encroachment of the power trust in this state, the municipal ownership program which with the exception of one law, failed to receive the approval of the legislators, will be submitted to the voters through the initiative in the November, 1930, election.

Seek Outside Aid

Senator George W. Norris and R. B. Howell of Nebraska, ex-Governor Gifford Pinchot of Pennsylvania, Senator Robert M. La Follette of Wisconsin, Senator T. J. Walsh and Burton K. Wheeler of Montana, Senator Hiram Johnson of California and other progressives will be asked to come to Nebraska and aid in the campaign.

The program will be included in one comprehensive measure which will supplant municipal ownership legislation now in force. Several attorneys will co-operate in the drafting of the bill.

Seek Extensions

As now outlined the municipal ownership supporters will ask that municipal power plants be empowered to extend their lines into rural districts and to pledge their future profits to pay for such extensions.

They will also provide that municipal plants cannot be sold to privately owned power companies except by a 60 per cent vote of the people.

Other provisions will be included to curb attempts of the "power trust" to buy up municipal plants in the state and to limit the business of the municipal plants to the community in which they are situated.

Need 35,000 Names

Circulation of the petitions will begin as soon as the proposed law has been drafted and approved by the committee of attorneys. That probably will be late this summer.

Approximately 35,000 signatures will be required on the initiative petitions distributed so that 5 per cent of the vote cast at the last general election be secured in each of at least 38 counties.

A majority of the votes cast on the measure, provided that it equals 35 per cent of the total vote cast at the election, will carry the proposition.

Cedar County Farmer Charged With Assault

Released on $5,000 Bond Following Charge by Young Girl.

Charged with having assaulted Margaret Bruening, 17-year-old Cedar county girl, Henry Kohls, prominent farmer and neighbor of the Bruenings, was arrested at his farm home last week and was bound over for a preliminary hearing to be held later and released on a $5,000 bond, according to a dispatch in the Cedar County News.

Considerable excitement, the article stated, was caused Sunday night and early Monday morning by the disappearance of the girl.

When she had not returned home that night, her parents notified authorities and a search for her was started. She came home about 4 o'clock Monday morning, however, after having been gone since early Sunday evening. According to her statement, she had been with Kohls, and he had attacked her.

Kohls' statement was to the effect that as he was working on his car Sunday evening preparatory to making a drive, the girls came over and got in the car. He tried to persuade her from going with him, he says, but she insisted on going alone. He also states that they returned home about 10 o'clock, but that he let the girl out of the car when about a mile from home, and that she walked home from there. The two families are neighbors. Kohls is married and has several children.

VANISHING HELL (Emporia Gazette)

An old-fashioned hell sermon has not been preached in this locality for two years. As man becomes richer and richer he sloughs off his belief in hell. Hell is needed by the poor as a place for the rich to fry in. Lazarus in the bosom of Abraham needed hell for Dives.

Prof. George H. Betts of Northwestern university, a good Methodist college, has finished the tabulation of five hundred questionnaires answered by Protestant pastors and two hundred by students in divinity schools. Only 53 percent of the ministers confessed to belief in hell as an actual place. The students were still more hellish, for only 11 per cent of them asserted an affirmative.

In 10 years more hell will freeze over and by 1950 hell will pass out of theology in this country as completely as hate has passed out of religion.

As religion becomes more and more the yearning in man's heart for self respect, and a desire to live honestly and kindly and even nobly, hell—the fear motive in religion—will disappear.

Hell cools as justice broadens in the earth.

Wayne County Farmer Visiting in Germany

Dan Baier, Resident of County 35 Years Visits Old Home.

Dan Baier, a farmer living four miles southeast of Wayne, is spending the summer months at his old home at Beinstein, in the lower part of Germany. He sailed for Europe, from New York May 10, and plans to be gone three months.

Mr. Baier, who came to the United States 45 years ago, and who has been farming near Wayne for about 35 years, has never, until now, revisited his old homeland. He has been too busy farming. But this spring he decided that he should have a vacation and visit some of his relatives in Beinstein whom he has not seen for 45 years. He left the farm in care of his sons while he is gone.

Meets Tragic Death As Shotgun Is Discharged

Theory of Suicide Is Discredited by Friends of Clearwater Man.

Telling his wife he was going out to shoot some rats, Dick Jacobs, 28-year-old farmer of near Clearwater, left the house with his 20-gauge shotgun and a few minutes later was found fatally shot, by a neighbor who came to spend the evening at the Jacobs home.

Apparently the victim had slipped while negotiating a steep bank below the barn and in some manner discharged the gun with the full charge entering his heart, resulting in instant death.

The tragedy, following an investigation, was reported to have been accidental, as no reason for suicide could be learned. He had always been in good spirits, according to witnesses at the inquest.

NOTICE OF REFUNDING BONDS

Public notice is hereby given that the Mayor and City Council of the City of Wayne in the County of Wayne, State of Nebraska, by resolution duly passed and entered in the minutes of their proceedings in accordance with Article VI, Chapter 7, of the Compiled Statutes of the State of Nebraska for 1922, directed that public notice be given stating that "Street Improvement Bonds" of the City of Wayne amounting to the principal sum of $22,000, dated June 16, 1919, which were authorized by action of the Council on the 11th day of June, 1919, and bearing interest at the rate of five and one half per cent (5½%) per annum, are outstanding and unpaid; that the rate of interest since the issuance of these bonds has so declined in the market that by taking up and paying off such bonds by an issue of refunding bonds as provided by law, a substantial saving in the amount of yearly running interest will be made to said City; that the said outstanding bonds above mentioned of said City are sought to be taken up and paid off by means of refunding bonds of said City, in the principal sum of $22,000, bearing interest at the rate of five per cent (5%) per annum, payable annually, which the Mayor and City Council of said City propose to issue.

Public notice is hereby given that any taxpayer in the City of Wayne may file objections to such proposed action with W. S. Indigestion

Immediate Relief!

What most people call indigestion is usually excess acid in the stomach. The food has soured. The instant remedy is an alkali which neutralizes acids. But don't use crude helps. Use what your doctor would advise. The best help is Phillips' Milk of Magnesia. For the 50 years since its invention it has remained standard with physicians. You will find nothing else so quick in its effect, so harmless, so efficient. One tasteless spoonful in water neutralizes many times its volume in acid. The results are immediate, with no bad after-effects. Once you learn this fact, you will never deal with excess acid in the crude ways. Go learn now why this method is supreme.

Be sure to get the genuine Phillips' Milk of Magnesia prescribed by physicians for 50 years in correcting excess acids. 25c and 50c a bottle—any drugstore.

"Milk of Magnesia" has been the U. S. Registered Trade Mark of The Charles H. Phillips Chemical Company and its predecessor Charles H. Phillips since 1876.

Synod Expels Church With Masonic Members

Lodge Members Partake of Communion Is Cause for Action.

Whether lodge members may belong to Evangelical Lutheran churches affiliated with the Missouri synod will be determined June 19, when the appeal of Rev. F. W. Seesko, pastor of Immanuel's Evangelical Lutheran church of Benson since 1911, will be heard.

Rev. Mr. Seesko was expelled by the Northern Nebraska district last August for permitting Masons and members of other secret orders to participate in communion. Pending appeal to the synod the Benson church has been independent.

The district's ruling was: "Since the Lord's supper has been instituted by Christ himself and since the religion of the lodges is a religion of works and therefore an anti-Christian religion, therefore it is contrary to the scriptures and offense is given if lodge members are admitted to the Lord's supper."

The rulings based upon a similar attitude previously taken by the synod.

Revolt Is Widespread

The revolt against the church's anti-lodge stand is nationwide, Rev. Mr. Seesko says. Many other pastors have been expelled from the Missouri synod, but none before has made an issue of the rule.

Rev. Mr. Seesko agrees with the synod in opposing lodges, but he does not believe that "weak" members of his congregation, not convinced that secret organizations are un-Christian should be barred from the rite of communion.

His statement follows:

"I and my congregation are in full accord with the Missouri synod inasmuch as we also believe that there are principles in the secret orders, as far as we know them, which are in conflict with the gospel of Jesus Christ, and therefore we do not believe that church members should belong to such orders.

At Odds Since 1921

"But, we do not believe that the sacrament should be refused to those fellow Christians who are not yet convinced that their lodge affiliations imply contradictions to the faith which they and we profess.

"My attitude is shared by venerable leaders of our synod, and there are pastors in our synodical body whose action agrees with mine. Any pastoral treatment of brethren which forces the issue in a manner which would ultimately drive them from the church I consider absolutely unscriptural."

Local Oil Station Remits $1357 Gas Tax For Past Month

A local filling station this week mailed a draft to the state department for the amount of $1357.20 as their share of the four cent tax on gasoline for the month of May. The same firm remitted $986 for the previous month indicating that Wayne county is doing its bit to help swell the road funds.

Although the average for the stations of the county will probably not be as much as this station is remitting opinion prevails that the county roads should soon show signs of improvement.

Much complaint of Wayne county roads has prevailed during the past few months, by citizens who live off the highways who are hoping that these side roads will be improved.

Working Incubator

It usually pays to follow the directions given with each make of incubator and add moisture accordingly. Crippled chicks are sometimes said to result from too much moisture. Surplus egg material remains at hatching time in the form of a substance like glue. It dries the chick to the membranes of the egg until the joints have hardened in unnatural positions. When the joint has once set the young chick is a permanent cripple.

SIMPLIFYING SUMMER

WHAT is this summer going to be like for you—laborious or livable, a period of ease or hard work? That all depends on how you plan it. Here are some hints which will help enable you to while away the long carefree days out on the front porch with the rest of the family rather than painfully perspiring over an inadequate stove in your summer cottage or bungalow.

The first of these hints is to take along plenty of canned foods when you migrate for the summer season. The second is to leave your address with your grocer so that you can renew your supply from a source in which you have confidence.

What to Take Along

The first essential to right living in summer is an adequate milk supply. There may be one or many cows at the place where you elect to stay, but did you know that many farmers themselves are taking advantage of the established safety of dried, evaporated and condensed milk which comes from cows whose health has been tested and certified by Government experts? The great mail order houses are now distributing vast quantities of these products in rural districts.

For vegetables that can be quickly prepared for the table, you should, of course, take along some peas, corn, tomatoes and beans. Asparagus, beets, sauerkraut and sweet potatoes are a little more fancy products, but they will add variety to your menu at little cost.

Peaches, pineapple, pears and apricots should head the list of the canned fruits with which you provide yourself, but don't forget that apples (including apple sauce) cherries, plums and the various berries in cans will also save you a lot of time and labor.

Finally you should have some fish—salmon, tuna, codfish, mackerel, sardines—for their iodine content, and you'll find that a few cans of meat will not come amiss.

What to Do With It

When you come in hungry from a long hike, a fishing trip or any other appetite producing exercise, it's mighty nice to have a can of Irish stew, sausage, liver with bacon or onions or one of the five different beef dishes on hand ready to heat in a jiffy and to eat more slowly if you're wise.

Or, if the weather seems too warm for meat dishes, you can prepare any of several main courses by combining the vegetables you have brought along with fresh vegetables. Try, for instance, these:

Tomato and Pea Cutlets: Combine one cup of canned peas, drained, with one-half cup of very thick White Sauce and two slightly beaten egg yolks. Drop by spoonfuls into hot, buttered skillet, and fry brown, turning over once. Dip eight slices of ripe tomato in flour and sprinkle with salt and pepper. Sauté in the fat in which the cutlets were cooked. Serve a cutlet on each slice of tomato. This recipe will serve eight unless you happen to be very hungry.

New Potatoes with Stringless Beans: Choose very tiny new potatoes, scrape and boil or steam until tender. Toss with melted butter and finely chopped parsley and pile in center of a hot platter. Heat a can of small stringless beans, drain and season with butter, salt and pepper. Pile in a border around the potatoes. Hard-cook several eggs, cut in halves and dredge cut side with paprika. Insert at intervals in the border of beans.

Of course, it's possible to mix meat and vegetables and thus get a balanced summer menu. Here are a couple of recipes which show how:

Meat and Vegetables

Indian Corn: Dice one green pepper and sauté with two tablespoons butter until brown. Cut the contents of one 4½ ounce can of Vienna sausage in slices, add to pan and sauté a few minutes more. Add one teaspoon salt, one-eighth teaspoon pepper, a No. 2 can of corn, one-half cup milk and two slightly beaten eggs. Pour into a buttered baking dish and bake about thirty minutes in a moderate oven (350° F). This serves six.

Lima Beans Italiane: Dice four slices of bacon and fry to extract fat. Add one chopped onion, one green pepper, cut in rings, and two cups diced celery. Add the juice from a No. 2 can of lima beans, and simmer until the celery and green pepper are tender. Then add two cups of canned tomato pulp and the beans and heat well. Pour in center of platter and surround with one-fourth package of boiled spaghetti. Serve as a main dish with quince jelly. Serves eight.

Colonial Type That Will Appeal to Many Prospective Home Builders

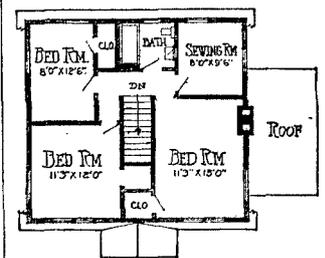

While this six-room house is of the colonial type, the wide dormers in the roof give three good-sized bedrooms on the second floor. The sun porch gives the home a colonial appearance. The size of the building is 28 feet deep and 24 feet wide. How the rooms are arranged and their sizes are shown on the floor plan.

By W. A. RADFORD

Mr. William A. Radford will answer questions and give advice FREE OF COST on all subjects pertaining to practical home building, for the readers of this paper. On account of his wide experience as editor, author and manufacturer, he is, without doubt, the highest authority on all these subjects. Address all inquiries to William A. Radford, No. 1827 Prairie Avenue, Chicago, Ill., and only inclose two-cent stamp for reply.

Ever since the Pilgrims built their simple style of home in the first New England villages the colonial type of architecture has been recognized as one distinctly American. Undoubtedly the plain two-gable houses of the early days were designed because of economy. However, their simple lines have an appeal which has made them popular all through the centuries. Present-day architects have used the colonial style as the basis for many of the homes they now design, but have made some changes in exterior appearances which have added to the attractiveness of the exterior. One of ing room with the kitchen back of it. The living room is 11 feet 3 inches wide by 25 feet long, a room that is spacious and, being open on three sides, is light and airy. At the center of the outside wall is a fireplace. At one side of the fireplace is a double cased open leading into the sun room, 7 feet 6 inches by 13 feet. The sun room is a substantial addition to the house having solid walls and seven windows. By running heating pipes to this room it may be left as shown on the plan through the winter. However, it is a simple matter to hang doors in the cased opening so that the sun room may be shut off during the colder weather if desired. The dining room is 11 feet 3 inches by 14 feet 8 inches and the kitchen is 8 feet 8 inches by 10 feet. Adjoining the kitchen is a built-in breakfast nook where the less formal meals may be served. Upstairs there are four rooms and bath. While on the plan one of the rooms is designated as a sewing room, it is large enough for a bedroom. The stairs run to a center hall off of which opens four rooms at the head of which is the bathroom.

The dimensions of the house are 28 feet by 24 feet exclusive of the sun room and entrance porch.

It is of frame construction and its outside walls are covered with shingles which may be treated in such a manner as to give them the silvered appearance that the action of the sea air puts on new homes and which is so much desired.

such a design is shown in the accompanying illustration. This home while not quite a true colonial is of that style and the room arrangement inside is the same as will be found in the early American homes.

The entrance door leads to a central hall out of which run the stairs to the second floor. At the right extending the depth of the house is the living room and at the left is the din-

FASHION RECAPTURES EMBROIDERY IN ITS EVERY DECORATIVE PHASE

GAY print has a rival—embroidery! With greatest enthusiasm stylists are turning to embroidery as a means of expressing decorative colorful themes. Last instant showings highlight embroidered coats, the embroidered blouse, embroidered hats, bags, scarfs, belts and even shoes.

Such a broad vista of ideas follow in the new embroidery trend one can scarcely keep tally on them. Not only does embroidery feature in the realm of formal dress, but sports linens, cottons and other washable weaves revel in gay stitchery either hand or machine worked.

To mention a few of the intriguing effects of the embroidery vogue, there is the embroidered scarf which competes with the colorful printed ones. Among the prettiest are those of crepe de chine embroidered with a tiny repeat point de Beauvals floral design, with scalloped edges. These tie like a fish collar.

An arresting number on fashion's summer program is the embroidered sleeveless blouse, styled very simply like the type shown to the right in the picture. This model of shantung silk has a deep multi-colored bordering with narrower embroidered banding about the armholes and the neckline. This blouse would be adorable copied in white or pastel-tinted jersey, with a simple flower patterning worked in bright yarn, for wool embroidered flowers done on jersey or an organdie are handsomely enlivening the summer mode.

The existing favor for embroidery is reflected in a renewed interest for peasant frocks either in crepe de chine or sheer voile. In the picture to the left, the smart black-and-white effect is carried out in a Paris mode of white silk crepe worked with a black floral patterning.

For daytime wear the ensemble which tops a solid-tone frock with an all-over embroidered coat bespeaks the "last word" in modishness. Small scattered motifs in both blending and contrasting colors fashionably express many an embroidery theme.

Farmer Should Consider Mixed Feeds for Dairy

Farmers' requirements for feed need not be confined to the cereal grains and their by-products as such. Mixed feeds of standard quality varying in protein content are available everywhere and these should always be considered in buying. A farmer may have corn and find it difficult to buy outs except in carload lots. He could buy the necessary amount of a 24 per cent protein mixed feed to meet his requirements, mixing it with ground corn in the correct proportion for a mixture suitable to the roughage fed. A farmer may have corn, oats and barley and plenty of legume hay and silage. His need is for protein and for variety in the concentrates mixtures. A 32 per cent protein mixed feed yielding about 28 per cent of digestible protein would go well with the home-grown grains.

Canny Servants

SERVANTS, housewives say, are not so good as they used to be, nor yet so plentiful. Good servants are hard to find and their wages are so high that fewer and fewer people can afford them. Have you ever stopped to think that this mechanical age has accomplished a lot toward doing away with the necessity for servants? We have not yet evolved an efficient Robot who can dust, sweep and clean, and also have the presence of mind to say "not at home" when you are not prepared to receive visitors. But we have something else.

The New Competition

Do you realize that more than 9,000,000,000 separate mechanical tasks which used to be performed every year in the home are now accomplished in the commercial canning factories in this country? Our population is, roughly speaking, 120,000,000, so that makes about 750 tasks per person, or 3,000 tasks for a family of four. These tasks, performed in the home, would each take, at least half an hour, for this means a saving of 4,500,000,000 hours of housewives' or servants' time in the course of a year. No wonder there are fewer servants. They can't find employment. And no wonder their wages are higher. So many of them have turned to other occupations that there is now a scarcity of them in this country.

But the best thing about these new canny servants is that they prepare safer and equally nourishing food according to the most eminent medical authorities. In this respect, certainly, they far excel the old.

Mr. Pollock proposed that this campaign be financed by a levy of a few cents on each carload of livestock shipped to market.

Praises Young People
"The greatest bargains of real values are found in the young people of this generation. Comparison of the songs of a generation ago with those of today prove that the preceding generation was jazzier than the present generation. It is about time we quit criticizing our young people and begin appreciating them."

"We are so busy looking for other bargains we are too busy to appreciate the appreciation of our children. These are largely spiritual values that cannot be bought with money or sold for money."

Defines Value

"The most vital question for any of us is the question, how much am I contributing to the spiritual values of my community? The answer is couched in a reply of the great poet Watts when introduced to a lady who by looks and words expressed her disappointment of his physical personality to which he replied, 'Were I so tall as to reach the sky, Or hold the ocean in my span, I must be measured by my soul. For that's the measure of a man.' 'How large is your soul, that's the answer to your value in a community.'"

Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Oman, for musical entertainment, gave appropriate solos and duets.

Look Inside

The John Deere Farm Engine

In the illustration above the John Deere Engine is cut in half, to show you how it is made, to show you why this enclosed engine that oils itself gives such universal satisfaction on farms—why it's the engine for your use.

The cross-sectional view above shows how the working parts of the John Deere are fully enclosed in a dust-proof case and automatically oiled. The self-oiling feature is one of the big reasons for the steady power and long life of this engine.

The simple splash oiling system insures the thorough lubrication of every working part. Clean oil is kept circulating—every important working part is bathed in a spray of oil while the engine is in operation. Oiling is stopped automatically when the engine is stopped—no oil is wasted.

Messy, easily-forgotten oil cups are done away with, and friction is reduced to a minimum.

With a John Deere engine on your farm you'll do all those little power jobs easier and make life more worth living for you and your family.

Come in and let us show you the smoothest running engine you ever saw—one that will give you years and years of low-cost service.
