Expect 1000 to Enter; Plans Completed for Entertaining Returning Alumni Friday.

LARGE ATTENDANCE EXPECTED

The first session of summer school at Wayne State Teachers college opened this week with the first classes at 7:30 o'clock Tuesday morning. College registration totaled around 800 by Tuesday with a few more still to register. Practically all those enrolled are teachers of Nebraska and surrounding states, and 70 percent of them are people who have taken previous work at the school. More are expected to enroll during the second session, when registration probably will total around 1000.

The training school opened Monday for four weeks, with an enrollment of 200. This is lighter than during the rest of the year, as the junior high school is closed. Mrs. Edith Hitchcock is taking the place of Miss Staple as fifth grade teacher this term, the only change in the teaching staff of the training school.

Wayne Barrister Raps Reformers In S. C. Address

Paid reformers, sob sisters and others shouting to the world the prominence of crime and the alleged inefficiency of the courts were scored by Fred S. Berry, local attorney, in a talk before the Sioux City Professional club at a dinner at the Martin hotel last Friday.

"The world believes those exaggerated pictures of crime painted by paid reformers," said Mr. Berry, "and it believes that justice is lax and punishment of criminals is uncertain. That kind of publicity is bad for society. It's not the truth, and encourages the criminally inclined to take the crooked path.

Too Much Regulation
"Let me sound a warning of the danger of too much federal control and regulation. Throughout history there has been the struggle for balance between liberty and government. If government becomes too oppressive, the people first will defy laws and then will revolt. If liberty is too strong, there will be license and finally mob rule. I have faith, however, that this nation will maintain the necessary balance between government and liberty, and that a better country will come out of this transition period."

Diplomas Are Presented to 111 Eighth Grade Graduates Here Last Saturday

O. S. Spillman Urges Children to Keep Forging Ahead and Not Be Content.

TWO OF CLASS ARE COMMENDED

In the Methodist church, overflowing with parents and friends, Pearl E. Sewell, county superintendent, presented 111 pupils of the county schools with their eighth grade diplomas last Saturday afternoon. O. S. Spillman, Norfolk attorney and former attorney general of Nebraska, made the graduation addresses, urging the graduates to strive ahead with their education, to go on with it at all costs.

The pupils filed across the platform to receive their diplomas. During the presentation Miss Sewell commended Jane Gildersleeve, who made an average of 87 percent in the eighth grade examinations, the highest average in the county this year. Jane is the daughter of Abram Gildersleeve. She also praised the work of Everett Rees, who took his examination in bed, and passed in everything, making an average of 80 percent. Everett was unable to attend the exercises with the rest of the graduates, but remained in a car outside the church. He has had to remain in bed for over a year, since an attack of scarlet fever, but has continued with his school work just the same. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. David Rees, of west of Carroll.

Spillman says, "Keep at it" Spillman's striking style of delivery captured the attention of the youthful graduates. "Do not allow little things like failures to worry you," he told them. He said that the man who succeeds falls down a hundred times to the one fall of the man who never does anything at all, and urged those pupils who had become discouraged and had dropped out of school to come back again and keep on going. "What if others have gotten ahead of you?" he asked. "A year or two now makes little difference, and you can catch up again if you work. He held out hope for the youth who has trouble in learning, if he will keep on digging, for that type of person often makes the greatest achievements. He admitted that he had failed in school a few times himself.

Mr. Spillman urged the children (continued on page three)

TWO WINSIDE BOYS WILL COMPETE IN EDISON'S CONTEST

Were Outstanding in the Four Years of Their High School Work at Winside.

LAUREL LADS ALSO ENTERED

Winside having won the state music contest is not loath also to have one of its boys represent Nebraska at the competition of all the boys of the country for Mr. Edison's offer for a four year scholarship and scientific training.

The state competition in which nearly sixty boys of the state have now qualified will take place at Lincoln on June 21. The two boys to represent Winside are Walter Gehrke and George A. Miller. These boys were at the head of their class for four years with a high average and those associated with them in their school work believe they are well fitted with natural ability to reflect credit upon themselves in the state elimination contest.

Winside friends have high hopes that one of the boys may be able to take that free trip to East Orange, New Jersey, to enter the national elimination contest. The Lincoln contest carries with it for the successful one, besides a free trip, a free radio and phonograph valued at $1000.

Other boys from this part of the state who will go to Lincoln are: Darel O'Gara and Vernon C. Larson, Laurel; Neil R. McFarland of Norfolk and Alonzo J. Olson of Newmans Grove.

WAYNE GIRL WEDS NORTH DAKOTA MAN AT PARENTS HOME

Rev. Whitman Officiates at Beautiful Nuptial Bites for Miss Florence Beckenhauer.

WILL TOUR THE BLACK HILLS

The marriage of Miss Frances Beckenhauer, of Wayne, to Mr. John H. Volk, of Williston, North Dakota, occurred at the William Beckenhauer home Tuesday morning at 11 o'clock with Rev. W. W. Whitman officiating. It was a simple wedding with the ring ceremony, and a few relatives and friends were present. The bride was attended by her sisters, Misses Florence, Faye, and Faunell Beckenhauer. The best man was Mr. Willard Witte.

The bride's gown was a simple white georgette trimmed with panels of Spanish lace; she carried a large bouquet of pink tea roses and lilies of the valley. The bridesmaids wore taffeta gowns, pink, peach, and green respectively. The groom was dressed in conventional black. The house was attractively decorated with cut flowers in the bride's colors, pink and white.

Following the ceremony a two-course luncheon was served.

Among the many fine presents given to the young couple was a grand piano from the parents of the bride.

The bride, the eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Beckenhauer, and a graduate of the Wayne high school and Wayne State Teachers college, has lived in Wayne all her life, and is one of the most talented and popular of the local young women. For the past several years she has been teaching in Nebraska schools. She is a graduate mortician, and prior to taking up teaching she helped her father in his profession.

Only One Hundred Have Box Office Value

Of the 17 or 18 thousand motion picture actors and actresses, there are only about one hundred whose names have pulling power at the box office, according to the movie people. The rest of them mean little to the public. That shows what chance the average beauty who goes to Hollywood has to instantly become a star, even if she succeeds in landing a role.

But the men have some better chance in landing jobs, even if not of becoming stars, for five out of every seven extras are men.

"Weary River", Richard Barthelmess new First National picture, which is coming to the Gay theatre in the near future, is an example of the relative value of the players in the cast. There are two stars, Barthelmess and Betty Compson, which have superlative selling power, and five other players of minor value, but who are ranked among the 100 "box office" players, but of the 300 or so actors in the cast.

to continue thru high school and college. "The greatest danger that you face is that you will halt at this point," he said. When he asked for a show of hands of those who intended to go to high school, almost every hand was raised. He told them that they should overcome great obstacles if necessary, in order to complete their school work. He knew, he said, how hard it was to work one's way thru school, for he had done it by being a janitor, and he was proud of it. It was worth all the effort it had cost him.

The speaker told his audience that even if it were impossible for them to complete their education, that was no excuse for them to quit. If they would, they could study at home. "Do not say you haven't time," he said. "Gladstone and Lincoln found time." He urged them to look upon life as a great adventure, and quoted Theodore Roosevelt, who had said that life should be played like a football game, "by hitting the line hard."

"But do not sit up nights worrying what you are going to be," was his advice. "Sit up nights preparing yourself instead." He told them that they would know themselves better after they had more training, and then would be soon enough to choose a vocation.

Mr. Spillman closed his talk by explaining the deeper meaning of the words, "This is my own, my native land," and telling of the centuries of effort it had cost mankind to arrive at the place they are today. He urged the students to get a better understanding of the people about them, and told them that if their education made snobs of them, then they were failures.

Applications in by July 1—Miss Sewell, in a short talk, told the students that their high school application cards should be sent her by July 1, if they would avoid trouble in having their tuition allowed. She told of the new law in effect which requires school children to attend school 160 days a year instead of 120 days, the requirement of the old law, and lamented the fact that many parents are disposed to keep their children at home all the time the law allows.

Miss Sewell said that 161 had taken the eighth grade examinations and that 111 had passed, or 70 percent, a slightly smaller number than passed last year.

Kindergarten Band Plays
The twins and triplets of the county sang "America the Beautiful" during the exercises. There were four pairs of twins and one triplet in this group. The kindergarten band of Miss Will played three numbers and elicited the usual applause.

E. A. McGarraugh Talks To Kiwanis Club, Mon.

Growth of Ford Industry Is Subject of After Dinner Speech.

E. A. McGarraugh, Wayne Ford dealer, talked to the Kiwanians Monday noon on the growth of the Ford industries, and on the ideals behind the Ford organization. He said that Henry Ford had foreseen that a low priced car would make possible free intercourse between the people of the different sections of the country and would help greatly to make for a stronger national unity, and it had been one of his ambitions to bring this about.

To illustrate the growth of the Ford company, Mr. McGarraugh said that the company incorporated in 1903 for $100,000. At that time Senator C. W. Smith of Michigan invested $11,000 in stock. When the company was reorganized in 1919 Cousins received three millions, 100 thousand dollars for his stock.

Fifteen million Model T Fords were manufactured before the company made the model A. It took 20 years to turn out the first five million. The second five million were manufactured in three years, and the third five million in two years and 11 months. Now the organization is perfected to the point where they are turning out 8,900 cars per day.

The largest Ford plant now is at River Rouge, near Detroit, which covers over a thousand acres. The company have their own blast furnaces and glass factories there.

McGarraugh said that one of the largest factors that helped to make Ford's industry was the conveyor system that he established. He built extensive conveyers before other automobile manufacturers did. At present some of his conveyers are one and one-third miles in length.

McGarraugh told something of the working conditions in the Ford plant. He said that the best spirit exists thruout the plant, and that, although some minor abuses are certain to creep into an organization so large as Ford's, he had seen no indications that the men were ill treated. The minimum wage now in the Ford company is six dollars a day, Mr. McGarraugh said.

Romance In Canned Foods

WE are making canned soups in this country to save housewives trouble in Bilbao, Spain, and Addis Ababa in Ethiopia is asking for a supply of our canned fruits. This is on the authority of the United States Department of Commerce which constantly lists new foreign trade opportunities in its weekly publication entitled "Foodstuffs 'Round the World."

"Round the World is right according to these listings, and our export trade in canned foods has all the romance of the old trading days of sailing ships. Not all the capitals of Europe, but most of South America, China, Egypt, New Zealand, Canada and Czechoslovakia have been clamoring for our canned foods within the last few weeks.

A Potpourri of Demands
Canned peaches, apricots and pears, for instance, are wanted in Cardiff, Wales, and Bordeaux, France, and Strasbourg, France, is begging for both these and pineapple. Condensed and evaporated milk are in demand from Cardiff, Wales to Shanghai, China, and San Juan, Porto Rico is also seeking a supply. Prague, Czechoslovakia, is asking for canned tomato puree, lobster, crabs and Alaska salmon.

WAYNE MARKET REPORTS

Following are the market prices quoted us up to the time of going to press Thursday:

Table with market prices for Corn, Oats, Eggs, Butter Fat, Old Cocks, Hens, and Hogs.

Sunday is Dad's day, remember him in some appropriate manner. Don't say—Dad is a good sport and wont care. Of course he's a good sport, all dads are, and that's just the reason he'll appreciate being kidded along a little. Remember Dad Sunday.

The Wayne post of the American Legion are sponsoring a move to have an appropriate Memorial erected on a plot of ground in the local cemetery which was donated by the county for burial of deceased war veterans. The Legion seems to have a very conservative idea as to what such a Memorial should cost. While we do not advocate extravagance, it does seem that such a marker should be large enough so that it will not appear insignificant. If others feel as we do about it it would be well to make such thoughts known when you are approached for your opinions. Certainly $2,000 would be a conservative expenditure for so commendable an undertaking, and might even be inadequate.

Too many cooks may spoil the broth, but Mr. Stratton can tell you the result of having no cooks... and so can the Kiwanians, who had to look to other accommodations, Monday, when the dinner they were supposed to eat didn't materialize. Mr. Stratton discovered, just before the noon hour that his cook, waitress, and dishwasher had "vamosed" and that not a sign of a dinner had been prepared. He had a new force on the job before night, but was compelled to turn away his dinner hour customers. Mr. Stratton didn't seem to take the matter seriously, perhaps such pranks are not uncommon experiences for operators of eating houses, but the Kiwanians were more distressed. They however learned that other quarters had been provided and everything was lovely. The force that walked out should be treated to one of Judge Cherry's bread and water diets.

LIARS AND BEGGERS

We don't know whether or not other towns have fared similar experiences, but Wayne has been besieged with so systematic a schedule of pestering by beggars and solicitors of various kinds that one is inclined to believe they are quite generally employees of some well defined concourse.

Last Saturday a troop of young women, good-looking and otherwise, were turned loose in the business district employing an old gag about soliciting votes for college tuition, etc. The troop were brought into Wayne in a high powered seven passenger automobile, bearing a California license. The car was piloted by a young chick—with sideburns and other marks of distinction.

A few days before a couple of crippled men who gathered nickles, dimes and quarters by magnifying their maimed conditions were observed to leave the city in a fine sport coupe, also driven by a young man. This car carried a Madison county license plate.

Not many weeks ago a Salvation Army representative, who has obtained the endorsement of the American Legion, canvassed the city falsely representing the organization of veterans in obtaining funds. Perhaps some of these solicitors are worthy representatives of a commendable cause but evidently not many of them are.

The Legion endorsed the Salvation Army as they learned to know it during the World war... but apparently the control of the organization has been gained by enterprising individuals, who are creating for themselves high salaried jobs at the expense of the public. Certainly one who can't honestly employ an endorsement by a Legion of war veterans is not entitled to support.

In face of the many unjust causes being advanced one is not justified in supporting any other than those which are reasonably certain are on the square.

More Howies

"A schoolboy's essay on Henry VIII included in the sentence: 'At this time King Henry walked with great difficulty, having an abcess on his knee.'"

A business man says that a shortage in any commodity automatically raises its value.—This is doubtless the reason for the high price of evening gowns.

REIGN OF GOLD JEWELRY ENDED

Fashion Now Calls for Stones in Platinum.

Paris.—The French theory that a woman's jewelry definitely establishes her position in elegant and fashionable society has not been overlooked in the many transformations that have taken place in arts and crafts since the war. Jewelry itself has been modernized. Moreover, the flashing facets of cut jewels formed by prisms in all their angular and slanting reflections synchronize perfectly with the trends of modern art.

For a while, at least, the days of fancy filigreed gold and silver and gem-encrusted jewelry are over. Madame now must wear big clear stones set in cold platinum, rectangles, cubes, triangles, in amethyst, emerald, aquamarine, rubies and diamonds.

There are many points and acute angles in the new jewelry. There are flat surfaces that scintillate lights in the manner of a cubist painting. Sheer elegance calls for simplicity defined by clear-cut lines . . . a smooth sable manteeau, a neat felt hat with a triangular pin, a bracelet in alternating platinum and crystal rectangles, an emerald set lengthwise along two alternating semi-circles, and brooch of brilliants set in the form of a tiny sailing yacht or the helmet of a knight at arms . . . such is the modish Parisienne of today.

It was the Exposition of Decorative Arts in 1925 that brought about the transformation of jewelry. Modern art was followed in the same trends that we see in architecture, in interior decoration, and in furniture.

The new jewelry started with the Gitane or so-called gypsy bracelet. It was set with big stones, usually jade or semi-precious pieces, and anywhere from a half inch to two inches wide. Its success was immediate and now the Gitane is expressed in even bolder forms.

Modern jewelry, to quote a prominent Paris designer, is inspired by the exciting and rapidly moving pace of present-day life. He says, "Modern jewelry is inspired by our new enthusiasms, it has a certain coquetry with early arts, its inspiration is derived from cubism, and its manifestations are also affected by the marvelous technique realized by the Persians and the Chinese.

"The jewelry of today is nourished by the life we live, the automobile wheel, the airplane, the radio, sports and a thousand evidences of modern events."

Milo Kremke says that the so-called high brow magazines do not have much of a sale here in Wayne. He has a few copies each of such magazines as Forum, Scribners, American Mercury, the New Republic, and Plain Talk. Once in a while somebody buys a copy. But, generally speaking, that is not what Wayne goes in for.

The American Magazine seems to strike the general average pretty well for he sells a lot of them. And, of course, the Saturday Evening Post is a good standby. But, when it comes to sales, nothing can compare with the magazines of the True Story type. Say what you will, people will read nothing so quickly as sex stories.

The Wayne library has ordered a new batch of books, which should be ready for circulation within a few weeks. I do not know what has been ordered, but I believe there are some good ones in the lot.

One of the books that is exciting the book reviewers right now is "Hello Towns," by Sherwood Anderson, published by Horace Liveright. As it is the story of a novelist's adventures in running two weekly newspapers, I got interested and procured the book.

Sherwood Anderson's venture into the newspaper world, according to his telling, was on the spur of the moment. He wanted to get away from the ruck of the city. It seemed to be traditional that writers should seek solitude to do creative work. So he bought a farm in Virginia, built a study in a secluded place and moved into it.

He couldn't write. Things were so still. There was nothing doing, nothing to write about. He loafed, went to horse races, and looked for some way to occupy his time. Somebody suggested that he buy the two weekly newspapers in Marion, the nearby town.

He bought them, and by editing them, "got next" to the life of the community; and wrote his book, "Hello Towns" about what he felt and saw and did while running the papers. The book is a collection of news stories, editorials, and features taken from his papers, as well as magazine articles the town inspired him to write.

Every review I have read of the book says that Sherwood Anderson writes rather marvelous news stories, and laments the fact that there are not more country editors like him in the United States. My private opinion is that the reviewers have not read the book or else they never have paid much attention to news style. I did not find a single news story in the book. Sherwood Anderson can write the way he does—and it probably goes over big—because he is Sherwood Anderson. But if a reporter on any self-respecting paper tried to write like that he soon would be looking for another job.

Not that Sherwood Anderson does not write well. My admiration for him increased several hundred percent by the reading of this book. But his stories are reflections—and not news stories. But then, who wants to read a book of news stories? There are plenty of them in the newspapers. We want reflections in books. And Anderson finds much about which to reflect in Marion.

Marion seems to be—from his account of it—about the same sort as Wayne, except that it is some larger, and southern, with its negro problem and its mountain whites nearby. But it has its school board, its city council, its Kiwanis, its worrying about improvements, the reluctance of the people to undertake them, and even a band that the editor is trying to keep alive by strong editorials. Anderson tells about it all.

But he does not find news work the serious, strenuous occupation that most of us journalists do. He says, "I do not want to say definitely that I will ever stay anywhere, be anything. I am an author now, a newspaper man. Tomorrow I may be a soldier, a tramp. What does it matter?" It is purely an adventure with him. I think that is the attitude that most of us would like to take—if we had the nerve.

Lincoln Journal-Hauls By Auto To Get Here on Date of Publication

Daily newspaper readers will be pleased to know that the Lincoln Morning Journals are now being rushed by auto to Fremont and there put on the same early morning Northwestern train that the Omaha morning papers use.

This gives our community unexcelled service on a morning newspaper from the capital city, and one that is edited 100% for Nebraskans. All of the other big Nebraska morning dailies are printed on the Iowa line and edit for Iowa readers also. The Lincoln Journal's regular year subscription rate is from one to three dollars lower than that charged by the other big Morning and Sunday newspapers.

Nebraskans look to Lincoln, the Capital city, and the State Journal for the best state news.

Mail $1.00 to the Nebraska State Journal of Lincoln, and they will send you a trial subscription, or better yet order for a whole year. The regular year rate is $4.00 daily, $6.00 with Sunday. Don't give money to strangers, order direct or thru our office. —adv.

Visitors Unacquainted With Chicago's Subway

Freight Handled by System 40 Feet Below Street Level.

Not one Nebraskan in one-hundred who go to Chicago on business, visiting the stockyards, the stores, office buildings, hotels or theatres, knows that forty feet below the streets levels there exists an extensive system of freight tunnels which handle a great volume of merchandise between railroads, terminals, docks and commercial houses—thus relieving the streets in the Loop district of 5,000 motor truck movements per day. The Chicago Tunnel Terminal corporation, which owns this little-known subway, operates 62 miles of tunnels, 6x7½ feet, equipped with 2 feet gauge tracks. The rolling stock consists of 3300 cars of 4-ton capacity each, and 150 electric locomotives. During every 24 hours, about 300 trains of from 10 to 15 cars each are run.

An odd by-product of this system is the use of the air contained in these tunnels. Forty feet below the street, the temperature remains practically constant at 55 degrees throughout the year. The cool, pure, dry air is drawn up through shafts and used to ventilate and cool many buildings and theatres in the Loop district.

RELIEF WITH A VENGEANCE

Revision of the tariff by the special session of congress was supposed to be primarily in the interest of the farmer. This was one of the relief measures promised by Mr. Hoover during his campaign, and agriculturists, believing in his sincerity and his ability to bring about that which he set out to accomplish, gave him their votes in unprecedented numbers.

Well, the Hoover party, as represented in the house, has prepared a tariff bill, one item of which purports to be in the special interest of the livestock grower. It levies a duty of 10 per cent ad valorem on hides. Those having the bill in charge, however need not be greatly surprised if the announcement of this action upon their part does not result in expressions of great glee and gratification upon the part of the cattle growers.

The men who breed, feed and market livestock, for the most part sell their cattle on the hoof, and they know that this tariff upon hides will have little, if any, effect upon the price of the stock they sell. They could swallow their chagrin at being thus bamboozled, however, if the matter ended there. The new duty would not have benefited them appreciably, but it would not have damaged them. But the duty on hides was only the beginning, and the outcome shows more plainly than any other incident connected with the tariff bill how completely those in charge of it are dominated by the industrial interest of the east.

No sooner had it become known that hides were to pay a tariff of 10 per cent than the leather manufacturers demanded a duty upon their product and the committee gave them one of 15 per cent. This affects the farmer the other way, for it means an increase in the cost of harness, saddles, and everything else made of leather which he is compelled to buy. He will inevitably feel this increase, while that upon hides will be so infinitesimal as to be impalpable.

But the worst is yet to come. With a tariff upon leather the shoe manufacturer demanded his, and he got it. Shoes, heretofore on the free list, are to carry a tariff of 20 per cent. That means that the farmer with five children, buying fifteen pairs of shoes per year, is to pay at least $15 per annum more to keep the family shod than he did when hides, leather and shoes were admitted duty free. This is agricultural relief with a vengeance.

The duty on hides goes to the packer. Anyone with a grain of common sense knows that. It will have no more effect on the price of beef on the hoof than a duty on sausage casings would have upon the price of live pork. Then the leather manufacturer gets his and the shoe manufacturer profits still more. All in the name of agricultural relief.

Yet the four republican congressmen from this agricultural state voted for this bill. —Lincoln Star.

A Kitchen Convenience

NOW that the number of cans of food consumed in the United States has jumped another billion, annually, it is more necessary than ever to know just how to handle the many kinds of food that come in this form. It's the simplest food in the world to handle, but one of the problems which the housewife runs up against is to know just what size can of any particular food to buy. If your recipe calls for two cups, for instance, of any particular food, you want to know what size of can contains nearest to that amount. The contents of most cans are stated in ounces on the label, and the sizes run by numbers, so that's no help.

Here's the solution. Paste it up somewhere in your kitchen, and you'll find it a great convenience in planning your purchases of canned foods. The following table, based on tomatoes in all cases, gives the sizes of cans you ask for at the store, their net weight and their contents as measured by a standard eight-ounce measuring cup.

Contents of Cans

Can Size No.	Net Weight	Contents in Cups
" 1	1 lb. 10 oz.	1 1/4
" 2	1 lb. 3 oz.	1 1/2
" 3	1 lb. 12 oz.	1 3/4
" 4	2 lbs. 1 oz.	2 1/4
" 5	3 lbs. 8 oz.	4
" 10	6 lbs. 7 oz.	8 1/2

The use of this table will not only simplify your shopping, but enable you to buy more thriftily and have fewer left-overs. One good thing about left-over canned foods, however, is that they can always be combined with other foods in second day dishes, and they do not, therefore, represent waste. There are few other foods on the market, all of which can be used, except canned foods.

furnished by the state engineer of Lincoln, Nebraska, who will, upon request, furnish copies for the same.

All bids must be on completed work at so much per cubic foot in place as no extras will be allowed.

The board of county commissioners reserves the right to build or construct any other bridges, other than concrete arch or slabs, which bears on other plans and specifications furnished by the state engineer and adopted by the board.

The board of county commissioners reserves the right to reject any and all bids.

Dated at Wayne, Nebraska, this 4th day of June, A. D. 1929.

Golf Notes

Fred G. Dale opened up with his heavy artillery Sunday and for a time had a chance to tie the course record finally negotiating the nine holes with a round of 32, three below par and good enough to tie the season's record.

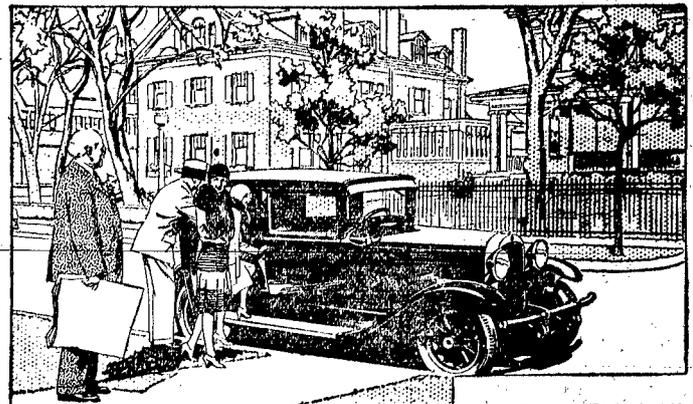

Several of the local club members are looking forward to some fun at O'Neil a couple of weeks hence, when their invitation tourney is scheduled from the 23rd to the 25th inclusive.

The Wayne shooters have found the going at O'Neil pretty tough in past years, but are hoping that they can solve the situation this year, and lug home a more liberal share of the silverware, or whatever the Irish put up to stimulate expectations.

One Lesson Saved Life; Girl Is Awarded Medal

Prone-Pressure System Revives Playmate given up for Dead.

Mary Laughter, a Rockport, Texas, high school girl has been awarded the highest medal issued by the National Safety Council for saving the life of a girl friend who was swimming with her.

After bringing the body to shore many futile efforts were made by the picnic party, to restore life to the drowned girl and all hope was abandoned until Mary asked to try a method she had seen demonstrated at school by an employe of a public utility company.

For 31 minutes she used the Schaefer prone-pressure method, as she remembered seeing it applied, before there were any signs of life. Verna Brundrett is now a happy, healthy little girl due to a life-saving lesson that Mary Laughter learned in a public school that believes in teaching practical lessons.

Nebraska Paper To Arrange Big Tour

The Nebraska Farmer is planning for the farmers of the state in August a two weeks vacation tour thru the American west and the Canadian Rockies. This tour will be managed by Francis A. Flood, staff writer on the Nebraska Farmer, who recently completed a tramp around the world. A special train will be run, called the "Cornhusker Vacation Special," and besides going thru the Rockies, will cross the prairie provinces of Saskatchewan and Manitoba.

Holdrege citizens raised $25,000 by subscription to be invested along with $75,000 of outside capital to erect a new hotel in the city.

Delightful Home of Frame and Brick Unusually Good Design

This brick and frame home will just suit those who want to build this type of house and want to do it economically. It has straight walls, which mean low construction cost. At the same time the entrance door and the windows, together with the roof, make it very attractive. As will be seen by the floor plan, the home contains six rooms, there being three bedrooms and bath on the second floor.

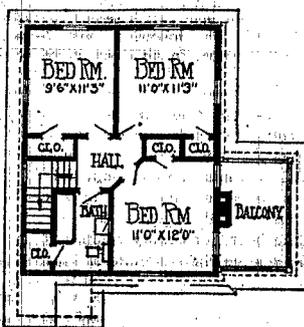

By W. A. RADFORD, Mr. William A. Radford will answer questions and give advice FREE OF COST on all subjects pertaining to practical home building, for the readers of this paper. On account of his wide experience as editor, author and manufacturer, he is, without doubt, the highest authority on all these subjects. Address all inquiries to William A. Radford, No. 1827 Prairie Avenue, Chicago, Ill., and only enclose two-cent stamp for reply.

Harmonious combinations of color and materials are the aim of many home builders. Brick in itself is excellent building material as also is wood. Combinations of these two, however, provide a contrast that is pleasant.

Shown in the illustration is a design of a home which utilizes a combination of brick and wood to an unusual good advantage. The lower half of the house is of brick while the upper half is of frame. The brick gives a substantial appearance to the lower part while the frame above the brick per-

It will be noted by an examination of the floor plans that each bedroom has a large closet off it as also has the bathroom.

Shellac Excellent to Preserve Floors

More often than not the floor goes shabby for want of time to refinish it. The same is true of woodwork and furniture that would look infinitely better for a fresh finish. Why not use shellac then? It makes a durable finish for all interior purposes and dries so rapidly that frequent re-coating is possible.

In fact, shellac competes with lacquer for fast-drying records, but it does not dry too fast. It is easy to work with and two coats can be put on an hour or two apart if necessary. As in the case with all paint and varnish materials, however, a better job results if more time between coats is allowed.

Since semi-luster finishes are so much more in favor than new, shiny surfaces, shellac has been very much in demand. It is one of the oldest finishes and one of the best materials to use for an unusually durable and velvety finish. In addition, where pure shellac is used the finish is sufficiently elastic so that it will not easily scratch or mar—a highly desirable feature for a furniture and woodwork finish.

There is both an orange and a white shellac—alike in characteristics and wearing body—but used for slightly different purposes. White shellac is made from bleached orange shellac gum, through an intricate process, and is used over light woods that are to retain their natural color, or over dark woods like ebony and mahogany to bring out the tone and richness of the wood. Orange shellac is transparent, too, but has staining properties besides. It is often used over white wood to give a dark wood finish, and after a parquet floor has become stained or darker with age, orange shellac can be used to cover the spots by giving the floor a clear, natural stain as well as the durable finish desired.

Shellac makes an excellent liquid filler for furniture and interior trim. For this purpose it may be used in a thin coat which penetrates deeply into the wood and dries quickly enough to permit further finishing within a couple of hours. Where varnish, enamel or lacquer is to be used as a finish, shellac is an especially good undercoat. It seals up any stain coats or filler coats which might be lifted by a subsequent finish or which might bleed through. And on new wood that is not sufficiently oiled, and where an unusually fine finish is desired, a shellac may be used advantageously.

Brushes to be used for the application of shellac should be the largest possible for the size of the surface being coated. This is in order that as few strokes as possible may be taken to cover the surface. For large areas a four-inch flat brush is about as large as can be handled, while for smaller surfaces the one and two-inch varnish brushes are about right.

Shellac should be brushed on rapidly and in one direction. It is best to do little brushing, as shellac sets rapidly and cannot be stretched out like paint and varnish. Shellac has many other interesting uses, but none more serviceable than for interior finishing. There is no easier way to keep a house looking clean and attractive than by the durable, quiet luster of this material—and no better way to protect good furniture from the inevitable hard knocks that come its way than by the protection of several coats.

As with all paint and varnish materials, only good products of reputable manufacturers are recommended. Shellac of an inferior grade, while momentarily serving the purpose, cannot give either the wear or the beauty of recognized pure material.

Sun Parlor Ideal for the Child's Playroom

A sleeping porch or a little sun parlor attached to the child's room is a welcome novelty. There is need furniture for it to choose from—chairs, rockers, tables, tea carts, sofas and chaise longue. A fern stand is indicated, or boxes for window gardening, for there is a secret bond between children and flowers. A canary in its cage makes a colorful spot, and surely the sunroom is the very place for a sand table. But do you know what the child would adore? A swing—a real porch swing, complete with bright striped awning and cushions, and no bigger than dad's chair.

Scottish Piper Idle During King's Illness

London.—The saddest man in Buckingham palace while King George of England lay ill was Private Macintosh, the Scottish piper attached to the royal household.

Each morning from 8 a. m. until 8:30 the royal piper plays Scottish airs beneath his majesty's window. But the king's illness became so serious that the shriek and drone of the bagpipes disturbed him. Macintosh therefore was ordered to fold up his beloved pipes until a brighter day.

It was Queen Victoria who first brought a piper from the Scottish highlands to the palace and ordered him to play each morning under the royal chambers, as is the custom when the royal family is in residence at Balmoral, their Scottish estate. The queen also had a favorite highland attendant, who, dressed in kilts and plaid, accompanied her on all her travels.

When King Edward VII came to the throne, he abolished the custom of a highlander as a personal attendant, but having the same love for the music of the bagpipes as his mother, he had a piper play to him each morning. King George continued the practice.

Woman, 80, Never Lived Outside of Poorhouse

Charlottesville, Va.—A lifetime spent with no other home than that provided by a charitable organization is the story of an eighty-year-old woman inmate of the District home, near Waynesboro.

The woman was born in the county almshouse and the records of her parents and her childhood are deep in the archives of the old institution, if they are preserved at all. She can neither read nor write; has never traveled more than to make the trip from the old almshouse to the splendid District home. She knows nothing of the world and, happily for her, she is contented in her ignorance. The District home is a much finer place than the old "po' house," and she has derived "a bit of living" from the change.

Lion Steaks Popular in London Cafes

London.—Lion steak is now the most fashionable dish in exclusive London restaurants. Enterprising restaurant managers have ordered from big game hunters in South Africa a couple of lions.

They are being sent to England in the same way that beef comes from Australia. This new fashion of eating lion has been established by the duke of Gloucester, who shot his first lion during his recent trip to central Africa.

Ancients Excelled in Art of Glass Staining

The medieval artists in stained glass tolled like jewelers setting diamonds and rubies. Their ideal was not a pretty picture made transparent, but a window made beautiful. Years of experimenting with various combinations of glass taught them secrets of design which resulted in windows that have never been surpassed.

Glass staining and glass painting are two quite different things. One method is to build up a mosaic of pieces of glass, colored not only on its surface but its very substance. The other is to paint the design upon white or colored glass.

It was in glass making that the ancients excelled. The blue of one school was so vibrant that the workers ground down sapphires to obtain their magic color. The fancy, although popular, is probably fallacious. Nevertheless, the colors of the ancients were so expertly compounded that they blended into a uniform whole in a completed window and never appeared flat or "raw."

The greens, for example, were not a straight mixture of blue and yellow, but a combination of blue and red and yellow in such proportions that they did not fuse into adjoining blues at a distance as do modern blue-and-yellow greens. The reds likewise were distinctive, as they contained alternating layers of red, and green-white gave a mellow softness to light before it reached the eye of the beholder.

Mendelssohn Hailed as Master of Philosophy

As a Jewish philosopher acting the part of a pioneer, Mendelssohn brought about the understanding of the beauty and humanism of the Bible, says a writer in the Boston Herald. He prepared a basis for the development of science and Judaism. His translation of the Pentateuch had inaugurated a new era in the education of the German Jews.

He gave to his brethren the German Bible, by which means he introduced them to the intellectual life of Germany, and thus through it once more into the civilization of the world at large. Mendelssohn has united Jewish and Hellenic life. He was the first to advocate the emancipation of the Jews. By his writings, he contributed to a great degree to the removal of the brutal prejudices against the German Jews.

Mendelssohn died on January 4, 1786, and was deeply mourned, not only by his coreligionists, but also by all the learned world. His memory was celebrated as that of a "Sage like Socrates." The greatest philosophers of the day exclaimed: "There was but one Mendelssohn."

May-Day Customs

As far back as the Medieval period in England, Chaucer says, it was customary to go out early on the morning of the first of May, "to fetch the flowers fresh." Hawthorne branches were carried home about sunset amid much merry-making. The name, The May, was given to the hawthorne, and the ceremony was called "the bringing home the May." A relic of the Roman custom when on May day the goddess Flora was especially honored is seen in the selection of a beautiful village maid to be crowned as queen of the May.

Theoretical Dollar

The term "compensated" or "stabilized dollar" was coined by Prof. Irving Fisher of Yale in his book, "Stabilizing the Dollar." It is a theoretical dollar having a constant purchasing power. The theory of the compensated dollar is to convert the present gold standard into a true commodity standard—that is, to standardize the dollar as a unit of purchasing power. Thus, there would be a gold dollar of constant purchasing power with varying weight instead of a gold dollar of standard weight and varying purchasing power.

What Is Poverty?

Franz Schubert died and left great riches to the world—the riches of beauty translated through the glorious medium of music. Those who came to look into the attic of Schubert declared that he had died in poverty. He was the poor figure of financial tragedy. Lately a bit of his manuscript sold for $5,000. But that does not establish his wealth. The great riches he left are for those who can appreciate them. Men may die without money, but they need not die in poverty in the larger sense.—Grove Patterson in the Mobile Register.

Slay Stone-Eating Germs

Chemical warfare is being waged on germs that are literally eating up big buildings. Scores of organisms that eat stone and other substances have been discovered. Chemicals are sought that will slay the germs without destroying the materials. The germs open the pores in the surface, exposing the material to the destructive influence of the weather. Some bacteria cause erosion in the hardest marble in three

Cute in a Baby—Awful at Three—and it's Dangerous

by Ruth Brittain

Thumb sucking does look sweet in a baby, but it is disgusting in the three-year-old and sometimes it hangs on until fifteen or sixteen! The habit may cause an ill-formed mouth or induce adenoids; and it always interferes with digestion. Pinning the sleeve over the hand, attaching mittens, or putting on cardboard cuffs, which prevent bending the arms at the elbows, are some of the ways to stop the habit.

Another bad habit—irregularity in bowel action—is responsible for weak bowels and constipation in babies. Give the tiny bowels an opportunity to act at regular periods each day. If they don't act at first, a little Fletcher's Castoria will soon regulate them. Every mother should keep a bottle of it handy to use in case of colic, cholera, diarrhea, gas on stomach and bowels, constipation, loss of sleep, or when baby is cross and feverish. Its gentle influence over baby's system enables him to get full nourishment from his food, helps him gain, strengthens his bowels.

Castoria is a purely vegetable and harmless—the recipe is on the wrapper. Physicians have prescribed it for over 30 years. With each package, you get a valuable book on Motherhood. Look for Chas. H. Fletcher's signature on the wrapper so you'll get the genuine.

FROM COLOR TO CONTOUR, HATS DISPLAY STRIKING ORIGINALITY

FROM color to contour this season's millinery, especially the new straws, are nothing less than stunning. At last the bondage of sameness has been broken. Not this summer will every hat look like every other hat. In fact, what with huge brims, medium brims, little brims and no brims at all, it becomes quite a bewildering yet most pleasing experience to choose one's headgear.

For every costume type the milliner creates a suitable hat. The trio of models pictured define three distinctly different silhouettes, varying from the snug cap-toque to brims of intriguing novelty and appreciable width.

Plaid straw woven in multi-colors is having a decided vogue in Paris and American women also are showing a keen interest in these novelty effects. Cerise dominates in the shapely little fancy straw toque or cap, as you choose to call it, shown at the top in the illustration.

In the fetching bakon straw centered to the right one foresees a promise of an era of picturesque brims. This model accents the long-at-one-side brim which rolls up gracefully at the opposite side. Its trimming of velvet ribbon is at once effective and in keeping with the latest dictates of the mode.

The very attractive model pictured last suggests the Dutch bonnet brim. These pointed-at-the-side flares occur repeatedly in the new shapes. A mod-ernized drape gives the brim as here shown an added touch of style. The intricate treatment as here indicated is characteristic of the general trend in millinery designing. Then, too, the fact that the black-and-white theme is adopted in the fashioning of this modish hat is also noteworthy in that black and white combinations are again keenly challenging the supremacy of bright colors.

With so great a variety of new types as is included in recent millinery collections, it follows that the scope of the summer hat wardrobe will necessarily have to be extended. Especially is this so since the mode calls in each instance for the hat to show relation to the costume with which it is worn.

For a fashionable clientele, milliners make it a point to design hats strictly of a sports character, also semi-sports effects, likewise tailored models for smart town wear. To which add varied formal types of millinery which this season especially show an inclination to take on more trimming and display captivating feminine touches beyond those of recent years.

Hope That Beams Will Divulge Historic Dates

With saws and drills and microscopes, the specialists engaged in the beam studies are digging from the heart of ancient logs and beams a more accurate calendar of happenings in the southwestern United States than that which we possess for the civilizations of the Egyptians or the Mayas.

The work is built on the fact that every growing tree leaves in its trunk a ring for each year; and on the further fact that each one of these rings has an individuality of its own—a different width, definiteness, or character resulting from different climatic or seasonal differences.

Furthermore, all trees in a given region show the same ring sequence; and some of the rings, deposited in an especially characteristic season of drought or moisture, stand out so plainly that it is almost as if Nature had rubber-stamped the ring: "This is the year 1398 A. D."

The work was undertaken after expeditions of the National Geographic society had uncovered the ruins of Pueblo Bonito in New Mexico, one of America's earliest "apartment houses." Many interesting things were learned about the customs and culture of the 2,500 people who once occupied the great structure; but the date at which they flourished remained a secret.

Some of the old beams used in supporting the roof were well preserved, and when sawed showed characteristic rings. The idea was conceived of tracing a tree-ring calendar back from the present to the days when Pueblo Bonito's beams were growing.

Wisest Men Have Ever Been Slow of Speech

People are likely to set too much store by "conversation." A very large proportion of it isn't worth 2 cents. It must be conceded that there is a kind of exhilaration in talking. One can even get headache by it; showing that it has a direct effect on the tempo of the heart and on the nervous system. The popular notion that one must talk "for the sake of relief" is probably bogus; because silence, once it is learned and practiced, gives a greater relief.

Keeping still is an interesting game, to the point of being, at times, delightful; especially when employed to keep out of a furious row under full headway. It is a difficult game, therefore the more inviting to play. One may suffer from the invidious implication that it is timidity instead of good sense that keeps him from participation, but let him remember that many of the wisest men within human knowledge were taciturn—"minded to their own business," and we don't know but that the slow to speech get along about as well as the wordy and impassionate; some think, better.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

Washington's Cherry Trees

Mrs. Taft shortly after going into the White House ordered 80 Japanese cherry trees to be sent to Washington and planted. She had seen and admired these trees while traveling in the East. A Japanese resident of New York made her a gift of 2,000 of these trees. When they reached America they contained an insect that was injurious to American plants. For that reason they were thrown overboard. The city of Tokio then gave the United States 3,000 of these trees. The water side around the Speedway and the Tidal basin in Washington have these trees in blossom during the early spring.

Honoring the Dead

Annual Decoration day is most enthusiastically observed by the Lower Yukon River Indians. Late last autumn fifteen families of Indians from Nulato and other villages met together to fulfill the custom of erecting houses over the graves of those who died during the year. The shelters of the old graves were given a fresh coat of brilliant paint.

Many of the unique mausoleums have windows and floors and contain rugs and other articles that were used by the departed ones.

Every western Alaska Indian tribe has a different method of protecting the spirit of departed ones.

Cumbersome Old Vessels

Galleon was a name formerly given to a large kind of vessel with three masts and three or four decks, such as those used by the Spaniards in their commerce with South America, to transport precious metals. They were large, clumsy, square-stemmed vessels, having bulwarks three or four feet thick, all of which were so encumbered with topmammer and so over-weighted in proportion to their draft of water that they could bear little canvas, even with smooth seas and light winds.

Serve Soup in Cups

THE Biblical reference to "blind guides, which strain at a gnat, and swallow a camel" (Matthew, xxiii, 24) is paralleled by the more modern problem of the housewife who will not serve soup because she has no soup plates. No one could reasonably ask her or her family to swallow camels—but why not serve the soup in cups?

Arthur Brisbane, famous editor, is responsible for this brilliant suggestion. He recently wrote: "I consider good soup to be the most important item of food on the whole list, and I suggest that housewives be reminded that for children, and for all purposes, the cup is the simplest, most easily handled receptacle for soup.

Every Household Has Them

"Every household has coffee cups or tea cups. They can be pushed aside on the table after the soup is finished, and the rest of the meal can go on the plate on which the cup rested being the dinner plate.

"I think it would be a good thing to let people realize that soup of itself, with bread added, in the soup, or vegetables, potatoes, or other things in the soup, constitutes a complete meal."

All Sorts of Soups

And what a variety of soups are available, already prepared—in cans. There are asparagus and beef soups, beef bouillon, chicken soup, clam broth, clam chowder, consommé, Julienne, mulligatawny, mutton broth, okra, onion, oxtail, oyster, pea, pepper pot, purées of beans and celery, plain soup stock, tomato cream, tomato purée, tomato-okra, green turtle, mock turtle, vegetable soup and vermicelli. Just get a can and fill your cups.
