ESTABLISHED 1884 WAYNE, WAYNE COUNTY, NEBRASKA, THURSDAY, JUNE 27, 1929. $1.50 PER YEAR

MRS. BERTHA BICHEL COUNTY PIONEER IS CALLED BY REAPER

Passes at Her Home Here Following Paralytic Stroke She Suffered Recently.

RESIDENT OF COUNTY 46 YEARS
Following a stroke of paralysis which she suffered about two weeks ago, Mrs. Bertha Bichel, 71, who for 46 years was a resident of the county, passed at her home here Saturday afternoon. The pioneer of Wayne county had not been in good health for more than a year having suffered serious attacks at other times but death was attributed to the stroke which she recently suffered.

The pastor of her church, the Evangelical Lutheran of which she has been a faithful member for many years, referred to her life as having been an inspiration to her acquaintances—a woman of good education and friendly disposition who had a large host of friends.

Bertha nee Chrestin was born April 2, 1858, at Sulfeld Mecklenberg, Germany, where she was baptized and later confirmed in the Evangelical Lutheran faith.

She emigrated to America in 1880, and the following year at Mineola, Iowa, she was united in marriage to Frederick Bichel with whom in 1883 she moved to Wayne county where the pioneer couple settled on a farm at La Porte, when the town of Wayne was in its beginning.

To this couple, who lived on their farm near La Porte until 1923, were born eight children all of whom survive their mother. The husband died in 1926, three years after he retired from his farm.

Funeral services were held from her home here Tuesday afternoon with Rev. H. A. Teckhaus, pastor of the church, in charge of the final rites. Burial was in the Greenwood cemetery in the family lot beside the body of her husband.

The surviving children are four daughters; Mrs. Henry Kay, Mrs. William Baker, Mrs. Bernhard Meyer of Wayne and Mrs. Grover Larson of Sidney and four sons; Ernest, Albert and Karl of Wayne and Adolph of Wakefield, all of whom were here for the final rites for their mother.

She also leaves one brother-in-law and 20 grandchildren and two nephews and two nieces.

Cooper of Hastings, Nebraska, District Superintendent of the Church of the Nazarene in this state, and Prof. Kirby Fields, song director of Anderson, Ind., are conducting special revival services under the Gospel tent located at the corner of 7th and Walnut streets. The services are being well attended, and the evangelists are well pleased with the hearty reception given them by the people of Wayne. Services will continue each evening at 7:45 except Saturday, with an afternoon service Sunday at 2:30.

To assist the citizens of Wayne in their contemplated celebration, Rev. Cooper and his party have arranged a special program for the Fourth. Services will be conducted throughout the day. Representatives are expected from Omaha, Fremont, Sioux City, Newman Grove, Norfolk and from many other nearby towns.

A cordial invitation is extended to the public to take part in celebrating our National Independence, with services of thanksgiving to God for both our civic and spiritual freedom.

WAYNE GOLFERS WILL ATTEND MADISON MEET

A number of the local golfers are planning to attend the second annual invitation meet at Madison next Sunday, including Fred G. Dale who won the championship of last year's competition with fifty entered.

Last year, all contestants were in the same flight. To give the more inexperienced players a chance to win prizes, the club this year decided to classify the contestants in four flights with prizes in each.

The entry books will close at 11 o'clock in the morning. The first nine holes have been designated as the qualifying round, and the golfers will be classified according to their scores. The score made in the qualifying round will be counted as a part of the day's play.

The contestants will be entertained at a banquet in the evening.

KENT PELLET WEDS MASS. GIRL SUNDAY

Wayne Man Is Married to Marie Summerbell With Father of Bride Officiating.

At the First Unitarian church of Roslindale, Massachusetts, with the father of the bride performing the nuptial rites Kent L. Pellet of Wayne and Miss Marie Summerbell, of Roslindale, were married, following the church services, Sunday.

The bride, a daughter of Rev. and Mrs. Carlyle Summerbell, has been teaching in the Beaver County Day School and also was a student of the New England conservatory of music. Her father is pastor of the First Unitarian church of Roslindale, where the wedding was solemnized.

Mr. Pellet, a son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank C. Pellet of Hamilton, Illinois, is a graduate of the Iowa State college with the 1928 class. He has been employed on the Democrat for about six weeks and is quite well known here.

Following a few days wedding trip spent in the East and with relatives in Chicago and other parts of Illinois, the young couple will arrive in Wayne the last of the week, where they will make their home.

Narrowly Escape Injury When Car Skids In Gravel

When her coupe skidded in loose gravel as she turned out to pass another machine Miss Esther Christensen, who was driving on the highway north of Wayne, lost control of the car which struck the railing of a bridge before it could be brought to a stop and almost toppled down a six foot embankment.

Although the car was considerably damaged, none of the occupants including two daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Albin Carlson, were injured other than to receive minor scratches and bruises.

They were driving at a rather fast rate of speed and when the car skidded in the loose gravel Miss Christensen who was driving applied her brakes, it was reported, which apparently caused the machine to swing with the rear end crashing into the bridge railing.

The damage to the car was estimated at about $50.

Wakefield Road Will Not Be Graveled Soon

There is no foundation for the rumor circulated here during the past few days that the highway number 35 from Wayne to Wakefield will be graveled during this year, according to local officials.

This eight mile stretch will have to be graded and brought up to state and federal specifications before it can be graveled, it is said here, and the possibility of it being graveled this year is very remote.

NOTICE

All those who have not filed their intangible tax report are hereby notified that they still have an opportunity to do so. This will be the last notice in regard to this matter as the law requires that action be filed against those who fail to make their returns. I have orders from the state tax commissioner to proceed with the enforcement of the law.

About 200 plates were reserved for the alumni banquet given at the Presbyterian church in the evening. The evening was followed by an evening of dancing and games in the college gymnasium.

"Don't Sell Citizenship"

None of us have a right to sell our citizenship, Dr. House stated in his address, in which he pointed out that the success of leadership can not be measured in dollars and cents.

Whether one's trust is being served in the classroom, in the pulpit or some other channel it is not well filled unless it is inductive to thought, he intimated.

Students, regardless of what their problem might be, Dr. House suggested, should be taught to find their own solutions or their minds will cease functioning, and any teacher or leader who does not strive toward that end is not worthy of his trust.

Henry Foltz Truck Struck By Freight

Early Saturday morning while driving west on Main street the large truck belonging to Henry Foltz, and which Mr. Foltz was driving, was struck by a night freight which was doing some switching and was going west on the side track at the Madson grain elevator.

The occupants of the truck escaped injuries and little damage was done to the truck which was loaded with merchandise, as the engine was moving very slowly and was stopped after upsetting the truck, which was hit squarely.

All damages were fully covered by insurance which Mr. Foltz carries both on the truck and merchandise he transports.

If the whistle was blown, Mr. Foltz stated, he did not hear it.

MAKING ELABORATE PLANS TO OBSERVE JULY FOURTH HERE

Two Ballgames, Fireworks Display, Dancing and Beauty Contests Feature Festivities.

TO BE HELD AT KAY PAVILION

One of the most complete programs of entertainment ever scheduled for Independence day has been arranged for the celebration at the Kay pavilion July Fourth, when one of the largest attendances ever to visit the Park grounds are expected to attend.

According to announcements of plans recently completed the day will be filled with various entertainments including two ballgames; with Pilger and the Kay All-Stars of Sioux City a headliner.

These two teams have played one 11 inning one-to-nothing game this year, Pilger winning the contest. Mahon, who tried out with the Western league this spring, will do the mound work for Pilger and a close tussle will undoubtedly result.

Fireworks Display

In the evening an hour of entertainment will be put on by the company that displayed at the Wayne fair last fall. This program will be worth going many miles to see, the management believe. It will begin about nine o'clock in the evening.

Three big free acts each of which is said to be very high class and one that everyone will greatly enjoy will be staged during the day.

Vernon McDonald's ten piece orchestra will furnish music for the dancing during the afternoon and evening. This orchestra and the Kay dancing pavilion need no introduction to dancers, who are planning on coming from all parts of this territory.

Beauty Contest

Another feature is the bathing beauty contest, which will be staged during the afternoon. The committee in charge of this part of the program are looking for judges. The only qualification is that they must be over forty years old. Only one applicant has qualified, it is said.

Novelty races, foot races and swimming races and a diving contest and exhibition is also scheduled. The day's entertainment is scheduled to start at 10 o'clock in the morning with something doing all day from then on except during the noon hour when visitors will have access to the grounds for a picnic dinner.

The Wayne band will furnish music during the day. This band is regarded as one of the finest in the state and has been engaged to play at other celebrations during the next several weeks.

Crop Conditions Are Better Than Year Ago

The heavy spring rainfall, which retarded corn planting and necessitated some replanting particularly in the southeast counties, has given Nebraska a good reserve of moisture, placed winter wheat in a condition 4.5 points above June 15th last year, and promised good yields of other small grains and hays. The forecast of wheat yield, as reported by bankers to the State and Federal Division of Agricultural Statistics, in their Mid-Month report, is 3 bushels per acre higher than the forecast of this date last year.

The weather has been favorable to wheat and small grains with a resulting heavy growth and perhaps a later maturity and harvest date than last year. Bankers give the condition of winter wheat at 87.8% of normal as compared with 83.2% last June and 86% reported by farmers on June 1, this year.

Corn is slower and has not grown as rapidly as last year but almost as large a proportion of total acreage was planted on June 1 as a year ago. Rains have held up the cultivation and replanting in many counties and considerable replanting has been done but, generally, the color is good and no setback, appreciable at harvest time, has yet been experienced. Bankers give the condition of corn as 88% of normal.

Prices of both corn and wheat are given lower than a year ago and stocks of grain on farms are liberally estimated. According to bankers' estimates, 11.9% of last year's corn crop, 12% of the oats and 9.6% of the wheat produced was still in the hands of farmers, on June 15th.

The estimate that this year's corn crop is nearly 10% short of last year is probably too severe a reduction because we have not been maintaining our horse population for some years.

Robber Gets Cold Feet But Makes Escape Good

Enters Bank While Force Were at Dinner and Awaits Return.

While the officers of a Foster bank were at dinner one day last week the building was entered through a rear window, and finding that all cash had been put into the vault the intruder awaited their return.

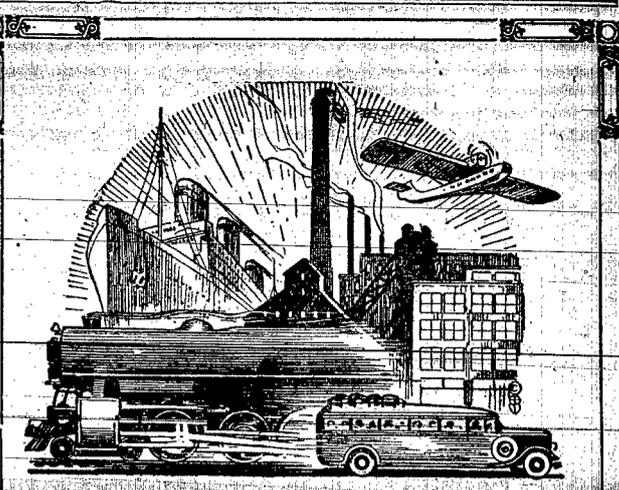

At the point of a gun the vault was opened by the assistant cashier, who was first to get back from dinner, but while he was executing the demands customers walked in and discovered what was going on and caused so much commotion in their exit that the robber left without any loot, fearing that he would be caught.

He was successful in his escape in a car said to carry a Pierce county license, but clues that might lead to arrests are, it is reported, being investigated.

Costs Hunter $30.35 To Shoot Little Blackbird

Seward County Visited by Game Warden (Who Make Arrests).

It cost a Seward county man $30.35 in county court Monday for shooting a blackbird. Another man paid $40.35 for catching a catfish under twelve inches in length, and two others paid fines and costs totaling $40.35 for fishing without a license. S. E. Ling and C. E. Hasberger, two deputy state game wardens, made the arrests, according to a news dispatches in the Seward paper.

Joe Schlegel, Jr., of Milford was the man who shot the blackbird. His fine was $15, the penalty imposed under a new law was $5, this presumably representing the value of the bird, while the costs were $10.35, making the total $30.35.

Wm. F. Ostrander of Lincoln was fined $25 for catching the catfish, and paid $5 penalty, plus costs of $10.35.

Frank Capek and Frank Capek, Jr., were each fined $15 for fishing without a license, plus costs of $10.35.

Wild Driver Is Blamed For Many of Accidents

Many Fatal Accidents Happen in Homes Report Shows.

Automobile accidents which can be traced directly to careless or wild driving caused 80 accidents in Nebraska during the past two weeks, 142 people being injured in these mishaps. There were a total of 216 accidents reported, in the state during that period, 109 of them being caused by autos.

Speeding and reckless driving accounted for most of the accidents where cars were involved, the reports indicated. Loose gravel skids, drivers asleep or intoxicated, collisions on hilltops or corners and when passing cars, losing control of cars for various reasons, striking bridges, speeding and failure to observe signals caused most of the accidents. Common sense or observance of ordinary road courtesy would have prevented these mishaps.

In the 216 accidents which occurred, 31 people were killed and 268 were injured. Drowning caused more deaths than any other class of casualty, 12 persons losing their lives in that way. Of these, 5 were fishing accidents, 4 were from floods and 3 were children who fell into tanks.

Home Not Yet Safe
The home is still a comparatively dangerous place to be. There were 39 injuries resulting from home accidents, 15 being from falls, 19 injuries to children, 4 involving eyesights, 4 from serious cuts, 4 from farm animals, 4 from agricultural machinery and 3 from power wringers. Of the 20 people permanently disabled, ten were injured by farm machinery and 4 by farm animals.

The following tables show why the mishap occurred, the first column of figures showing the number of accidents from that cause, the second the number of people killed in each accident, and the third the number of injuries.

"DOC" COMES HOME

Were the rising sun of Montgomery, West Virginia, a mind to do so it might tell an unique tale of two gentlemen of letters trudging up a rocky incline, the one with a shovel over his back the other gingerly swinging the carcass of a cat whose ninth life had recently been dispatched. They were, in fact, searching for a suitable burial spot, not so easily found in that rocky domain. At last the quest was over and the shovel began energetically scooping out a grave. Suddenly out of the silence J. G. W. spoke. "Has it occurred to you, Dr. House, that this ungrateful cat is having a most distinguished burial? Here it is Independence morning and two doctors of philosophy are acting as masters of ceremony."

It was June 21st 1929—Homecoming day at the Wayne State college. For days a hushed expectancy reigned. His own word verified the announcement—Dr. House was coming home.

Would he still be an independent thinker? Would he tell his, Helen of Troy?

Here he comes now, his shovel over his back, ready for rapid action. Out of his path must go all lingering superstitions, all piteous lazy acceptance of unproven statements. Into the discard with them all. Enlightenment must prevail.

Dr. House is a delightful combination of an intellectual aristocrat, a crusader, and a frankish boy. Take it or leave it, the imps fairly dance

In one undisciplined eye, which winks in regal defiance of the conventional straightjacket of the present trend of thought activity. He believes that a superior mind is the jewel of life.

To him a spade is a spade, then why call it a shovel?

His host of friends were again swept off their feet by his irresistible fund of humor, his philosophy of mental emancipation, and his embracing sympathies for the problems of progress.

So enthralling was his crusade against mental laziness and inhibitions, and his plea for truth above all, that even the most placid mind was compelled to think a think.

The flood of "wonderful, great, same old Doc," which permeated the consciousness seemed ridiculously inadequate. It seemed better expressed by Johnny when his teacher asked him how much is two times three?

"Six," was the prompt rejoinder. "Good, Johnny." "Good, hell—that aint good, it's perfect."

HELLO, CHICAGO

About the only consolation in the fact that Pingrey C. Hughes, (or however he spells it) came all the way from his "dear" Chicago out here to the "sticks" and the "hicks" to unburden himself to such an extent that we believe no one could have done worse, is that he is not a graduate of the State college. While it would be no discredit to the state school were he listed in its fold, there surely would be little satisfaction in knowing that he was one of them.

A little egoism is at times invaluable but too much of it, Mr. Hughes effectively demonstrated, is a handicap rather than an asset. We don't know that that was his purpose in his self-styled generous visitation, but unless it was he might well have stayed in his "dear" Chicago which he "loves" noise, smoke, murder and all.

Perhaps, after all, he is the thinker he tried to picture and perhaps his lecture was supposed to be an illustrated demonstration of nothing, if so it certainly served its purpose, and served it well.

We are not speaking for anyone but ourselves and neither are we attempting to criticize anyone for any influence they may have had in Mr. Hughes appearing on the Homecoming program. We believe, whether anticipated or not, it did serve a purpose. Among other things we were complacently satisfied that the environment of Chicago with its "noise, smoke, murders and all" isn't all there is to development.

As a friend of ours once said, "you can't make a whistle out of a pig's tail."

However: The reminiscences by Herman Siems of a few years back, the reminiscences by Miss Beechel of a few more years back, and the forward step as observed by Dr. House (by the way Miss Beechel and Mr. Siems now, too, are doctors but they'll always be "German") and Miss Beechel to the writer, were inspiring and full of wholesome mirth and sound inspiration.

One who couldn't see the sunblushed maiden of a quarter century ago as she left the Dakota prairies behind her to begin the march to success, to begin unwinding the dim trail leading to the fountain of perpetual youth, Dr. Beechel has discovered, certainly is deficient in imaginative facilities.

Most of us can share with Dr. Beechel in the modest introduction, and from her we get a renewed inspiration to keep plodding with that far-off goal in view. We're coming, too.

Dr. Beechel and we'll give you some of the credit when we get there.

And the royal welcomes by President Conn and Prof. Huntemer they were so wholehearted that for the moment we forgot that we had ever been away. We, too, were home.

AN IDEALIST IN EARNEST

(Springfield Republican)

Premier MacDonald aims to make his second ministry memorable in history for its contribution to world peace. In one of his speeches during the recent election campaign for the control of the government he emphasized the fact that "the lives of our people are darkened by another possibility—the constant fear of war."

"What a disgrace it is to all our Christian professions that, even to this day, nations are spending more in paying for past wars and preparing for future ones than in training the young generation in virtue, in protecting our mothers and fathers from poverty, and in smoothing and soothing the last years of our aged!"

"The next war, of which people are already talking so lightly, and for which governments are so blindly preparing, will leave civilization a smoking ruin and a putrefying charnel house. No man, woman or child will be immune. Destruction will rise from the sea and fall from the air and people will drop mysteriously where they stand, touched by the invisible breath of poison."

"There must be no next war. By using the League of Nations, by entering a bond of mutual security, by disarmament and arbitration, Labor can herald the endless reign of peace."

The British premier is an idealist, yet he is in deadly earnest—and he is in power. A wonderful opportunity may present itself. The president, we may be confident, supported by public sentiment, will welcome Mr. MacDonald with deep sympathy and will do honest business with him in the same aspiring spirit that drives him overseas.

NORRIS MAKES IT PLAIN

(World Herald)

Senator Norris proposing again to offer the debenture plan to the senate, this time as an amendment to the tariff boosting bill, shows the full courage of his convictions. He amends the plan to provide for a direct payment out of the United States treasury to the exporter of tariff-protected farm products.

The purpose of the debenture advocates is to make the tariff on farm products effective. Since this cannot be accomplished directly, in the case of surplus crops, they resort to an indirect method. They provide, for example, that the wheat exporter shall receive from the government a debenture certificate equal to half the tariff rate on imported wheat, which certificate shall be receivable in payment of customs duties. That would amount to 21 cents a bushel. A shipment of 100,000 bushels for sale abroad would be encouraged, or "protected," by a debenture certificate for $21,000 from Uncle Sam. The shipper could then sell his certificate to anyone desiring to import dutiable goods, who could use it at face value to pay the tariff tax.

Critics of the plan protested that the farmer would be exploited when he offered his certificate for sale; that he would be forced to discount it heavily. To meet this objection the Nebraska senator now provides that debenture certificates shall be cashed by the treasury at 98 cents on the dollar. This makes the debenture frankly a subsidy or bounty. By the same token it insures that it will be 98 per cent effective.

From the viewpoint of the protective tariff school it will be difficult effectively to assail the Norris plan. There is a tariff of 42 cents on wheat, designed to increase the price of wheat on the domestic market. It "doesn't work" because of the normal production of a wheat surplus. The farmer can't get, from the rest of the people, the additional price the government is anxious to afford him. Too bad, says Senator Norris, but we can fix that. We'll get him half the benefit, anyhow. Only, instead of taking the money out of the people's pockets, and turning it over to the farmer, we'll take it out of the people's pockets, put it in the United States treasury, and let the treasury pay it to the farmer.

Why not, if the purpose is beneficent, the method legal, and the protective theory sound? If Andrew Mellon can get a full 100 per cent tariff benefit on his products, why shouldn't the farmer be permitted at least a modest 50 per cent benefit on products just as respectable, and quite as necessary, as Mellon's? Is not the need of agriculture as great, and as pressing, as Mellon's? If it is wise and ethical for the government to compel the people to pay more for steel and aluminum to make Mellon rich, isn't it just as wise and ethical to collect money from the people to make farming a bit more profitable? Senator Norris is performing a public service. He is making the protective theory so plain that anybody can understand it. And he is exposing at the same time the hypocrisy of those who demand its benefits for Pennsylvania, as sound economics, and denounce as "socialism" the extension of its benefits to Kansas and Nebraska and the Dakotas.

REASON, NOT THREATS

(Lincoln Journal)

A French writer has interpreted Ambassador Dawes' speech as being a threat in that he reminded the English that if they do not come to an understanding, America will start cruiser building with an $1,170,800,000 outlay. This interpretation is hardly fair. If threats prove necessary the United States government may use them, but at this time there is no indication that such a course of action is needed. The Dawes speech was an appeal to reason. The administration would rather attain disarmament on a reasonable basis.

The situation as Ambassador Dawes speaking for the administration, sees it, is this: The world has progressed, since the war, to a point where nations can negotiate in a reasonable manner. There is a world-wide sentiment for peace as indicated by the popularity of the Kellogg pact. The world has made amazing strides. It is now economically necessary that it proceed further. The next step is disarmament.

American leaders recognize the fact that there is a tendency for each country to distrust the motives of the other. As a result it is practically impossible to proceed entirely according to reason. This human element must be considered. Mr. Dawes recognized this when he quoted Edmund Burke as saying: "Politics ought to be adjusted not to human nature, of which the reason is but a part, and by no means the greatest part." Therefore he does not recommend total disarmament.

What he does demand is a substantial reduction of the economic burden placed on taxpayers by the unproductive investment of huge sums in armaments. The demand is reasonable and takes into consideration the frailties of human nature. Premier MacDonald appears to be in accord with the American view. He asks no alliance, only understanding and good will.

Kiwanians Hear

Lowden Speak on Farm Conditions

Frank O. Lowden, ex-governor of Illinois, discussing the agricultural situation before 6,000 delegates and visitors attending the 13th annual convention of Kiwanis International at Milwaukee yesterday, stated that innumerable ways to restore the proper balance between agriculture and industry could be found if people in general would take a new attitude toward agriculture.

C. M. Craven is the Wayne delegate at the national convention which convened yesterday and which will close today with an election of officers and members of the board of trustees, scheduled for this morning.

"No advocate of legislation has believed that any one measure could secure economic justice for the farmer," said Mr. Lowden in his talk. "There is a growing consciousness on the part of all classes that the problem is in no sense the concern of the farmer alone, but involves our whole complicated social fabric. This is one of the most promising signs of the times."

"There has been an immense amount of discussion over the problem in recent years. In the earlier stages of that discussion it was denied by many that there was an agricultural problem; or, if there was, they insisted that it was gradually solving itself under the operation of economic laws. This view is no longer tenable," he said.

Farm organizations, Mr. Lowden went on to explain, were early thought to be excellent associations whereby farmers could assist themselves. "Organizations for this purpose have made considerable progress," he declared, "for it gives farmers a bargaining power something like the power of those with whom they have to deal. However cooperative agencies entail expense, and those producers who are not members of the cooperative organizations have, of course, received the benefit of the higher prices, but have been exempt from the added costs incurred by the organizations. While the members of the cooperative have received higher prices than they would have received without such organization, it has been found difficult, if not impossible, to maintain the morale of an organization where the non-members profit more than the members do themselves."

"Population is increasing rapidly throughout the earth, largely owing to the discoveries of medical and sanitary science. The problem of the future is to feed these multiplying millions. I am wondering if the time isn't fast approaching when the world will have to give a better way to live to those who supply them with their daily needs. Real wages in industry, not only in this country, but generally, are higher than they ever were before. And, contrary to their expectations, industrial leaders are attributing in part the prosperity they have enjoyed in recent years to the more generous wages labor is receiving."

"Population is increasing rapidly throughout the earth, largely owing to the discoveries of medical and sanitary science. The problem of the future is to feed these multiplying millions. I am wondering if the time isn't fast approaching when the world will have to give a better way to live to those who supply them with their daily needs. Real wages in industry, not only in this country, but generally, are higher than they ever were before. And, contrary to their expectations, industrial leaders are attributing in part the prosperity they have enjoyed in recent years to the more generous wages labor is receiving."

Isn't it possible that a similar revolution is pending in agriculture? Isn't it possible too that if agriculture were prosperous throughout the world, it would enhance the prosperity of all other classes?"

Accident Jinx Is Keeping Up Work Of Annihilation

The campaign of the accident jinx toward the mutilation and annihilation of Nebraska's population during the last two-week period met with splendid success. A total of 263 persons were temporarily or totally and permanently eliminated from productive enterprise, according to a report compiled by the Nebraska Press association.

Though General Jinx varied his attack somewhat, the previous classification of accidents still holds. Motor vehicles still lead with 134 accidents, striking down 157 persons. Home is still the second most hazardous place to be with 33 accidents. Other public accidents follow closely with an unusually high quota of deaths by drowning while swimming or fishing (7).

Agriculture carried on a great offensive injuring, disabling or killing more than twice as many workers, for the two week period, as all other industries combined. Farm machinery was the cause of 14 and farm animals of 11 accidents.

We note great versatility in the employment of the chief weapon of the jinx—the motor vehicle. Fate was kind to occupants who escaped without injury from cars involved in 37 bad wrecks.

The number injured in loose gravel skids almost doubled over the last report.

Motorist's Aim Better
Seventeen accidents accounted for 18 pedestrians being struck down. This is also double the quota for the last period. Pedestrians are possibly getting tired of dodging or perhaps the motorist's aim is improving.

Airplane accidents are responsible for twice as many deaths as for the last period.

The following table is a summary of accident results compiled by the Nebraska Press Association in cooperation with the Rehabilitation Division of the State Department of Vocational Education.

Motor vehicle accidents	375	15	29
Other public accidents	29	12	17
Employment agricultural	43	17	8
Employment industrial	43	14	3

Weekly Market Report

(Furnished by Steele-Siman Com. Co.)
Sioux City Stock Yards.—Cattle receipts were too heavy for the good of the trade on the initial session of the week and the market slumped. However, better activity was noted on the second day when receipts were lighter.

Beef steers and yearlings of good and choice quality held close to steady while plainer grades eased off weak to a quarter. Quality was not very good on the opening day but showed improvement on Tuesday.

Shippers took a few of the well finished kinds and packers were good buyers on this class but trade dragged on the less attractive kinds. Some cattle showing grass were offered and they were hard to clear.

Numerous sales were made on light, medium and heavy weight steers at $15.00 to $15.25 with a large showing at $14.50 to $15.00. The big bulk sold at $13.24 to $14.50 with plain grades down to $12.00 and commons at less money.

The butcher stock market was uneven. Drylot material of good and choice caliber found a fairly ready outlet on about a steady basis while the in-between grades slumped weak to a quarter and plain lots and grassers showed the loss and more in some instances. Grass material is starting to come in larger numbers right along.

Choice fed heifers topped the market at $14.40 but few sales were made above $13.50 and the bulk ranged downward from that mark. Choice fed cows and koshers ranged well above $11.00 with bulk of the butcher cows at $8.75 to $10.75. Plain lots and grassers sold down to $7.75 and under. Cutters and low cutters brought $6.00 to $7.25, mostly.

The bull market dropped a quarter with bulk of the medium holoagnas at $8.75 to $9.25 and light weights down to $8.00. A few beef grades sold up around $10.00. Veals advanced 50c with the extreme top on light weights at $15.50.

Stockers and feeders sold on a weak to quarter lower basis with the plainer lots showing the most decline. Several sales were made at $11.00 to $12.25 with more desirable kinds to $13.00 and plain grades under $10.50. Heifers sold mostly at $10.00 to $10.75 and cows from $8.00 down.

Hog receipts have been moderate to fair sized this week. Demands have been broad for sows and for light weight butchers as shippers have been active on these classes. However, medium to heavy butchers have been slow and lower to the packers.

Sows and light hogs have held firm with last week while the general run of butchers dropped 15 to 25c. On Tuesday, the top was $10.90, even with the highest of the season. Bulk of the lights sold at $10.60 to $10.85 with medium to strong weights at $10.25 to $10.75 and heavies mostly from $10.25 down with occasional sales higher. Light sows sold at $9.60 to $9.85 with heavies down to $9.35. Stags brought $9.75 to $10.00. Pigs advanced a quarter with the best westerns at $11.00.

A number of new biographical reference books of American writers have just been accessioned at the Wayne library. They are:

Our American Humorists, by Thomas L. Mason.

The Women Who Make Our Novels, by Grant Overton.

Our Poets of Today, by Howard Wildard Clark.

Our Short Story Writers, by Blanche Colton Williams.

American Playwrights of Today, by Burns Mantle.

All of them are published by Dodd, Mead & Company.

"The Art of Thinking," by Ernest Dimmet, Simon & Schuster, which has been recently accessioned at the Wayne library, is worth looking over.

Dimmet does not consider the art of thinking a magical hokus-pokus, nor does he indulge in any high-flown language in describing the workings of the mind.

His book, he says, is not for the genius, who can take care of himself, or a certain amount of brains, and who are often bothered with their personal problems.

A thinker, the writer says, is just as apt to be found in a garage or a workshop as in the so-called mental jobs.

Thinking is largely the process of systematizing one's mind and clearing it of the complexes and doubts that harass most of us—thus leaving it free for the essentials. Dimmet says that we can settle the most important questions in a few minutes—those that the average individual puzzles over for weeks—by merely taking a piece of paper and setting down the arguments pro and con in two separate columns. With the points at issue in front of us, it is relatively easy to weigh the importance of the points at issue.

The reason why some of us are slow at our work while others are speedy is because the slower ones take longer to make up their minds. Thinking then, by Dimmet's definition is being able to add 2 and 2 to make 4; and the more rapidly and accurately one can add his twos to fours, the better a thinker he is.

Richard Laukhuff, who keeps a little book shop tucked away in the center of Cleveland somewhere, never has heard such modern phrases as "efficiency," "selling appeal," or "getter"; or if he has, he merely thumbed his German nose at them and continued doing things his own way.

Laukhuff sells every week a few books, classical and highbrow stuff that delights his old-world soul, and he is satisfied. There are no popular or sensational publications in his store. Friends urge him to get rid of his accumulated out-of-date stock, to accommodate people by offering some works more popular, and to advertise.

"Advertise! Ach, nein!" he exclaims. "Why, if I advertised in the paper a lot of people would come crowding in here."

If college students buy too many books he scolds them. "You can't afford it," he will say. "You mustn't come here so much."

Once he did buy some popular books by mistake. A customer wanted the poems of Will Carleton, and Laukhuff ordered several copies of them. On their arrival he opened one and started to read. Before he had covered a page he threw them into a drawer. "Mein Gott!" he groaned, "I am ruined!" The books still are hidden away in that drawer.

At the annual convention of American Booksellers, held recently in Boston, the question of the menace of the book clubs to the book selling trade and the public was aired thoroughly, with speeches on the subject by such men as Robert E. Rogers, professor of English at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, and John Macrae, president of E. P. Dutton Company, who already had made an open attack on the book clubs. The speeches of these men, together with a paper of the president of the Stokes Publishing company—were published in the May 13 issue of the Publishers Weekly. None of them paid any compliments to the book clubs.

As if the publishers of Joan Lowell's "Cradle of the Deep", and the Book of the Month club, which endorsed the book, were not already enough uncomfortable at the expose by the New York Evening Post that Joan's adventures were all pretty lies, and at the resulting national publicity Corey Cord has written a book, "Salt Water Taffy", for no other purpose than that of making fun of Joan and her attempt as an author. Lord excels in finding the absurdities in the works of other authors, and this book is a rich parody on Joan's imaginative little tale.

In the meanwhile, Miss Lowell contemplates her mounting tide of royalties.

Now William S. Hart has written an autobiography, called, "My Life, East and West." Houghton, Mifflin Company are the publishers. He tells a number of good stories about the movie world. If he is a bit struck with his own achievements—well, you know that these cowboy movie stars receive a lot of mail from admiring girls, and they believe their flattery after a while.

Friends of birdlife, sportsmen, and nature lovers in all walks of life, will be given an opportunity to contribute to the Sandy Griswold Memorial fund, for the erection of a suitable monument in commemoration of the wonderful conservation work carried on by the late Omaha newspaper man during the past forty-five years in Nebraska.

Sandy loved the birds, the trees, the flowers and the streams for the great out-of-doors was his home—in common with thousands of others who followed his "Field and Stream" column with interest.

When Carter Lake was set aside as a nesting place and feeding grounds for migratory birds—a federal game refuge—it was christened the Sandy Griswold Bird Sanctuary. The plans of the committee are to erect a life-size statue of Sandy, probably in bronze, overlooking Carter Lake, now filled with wild ducks, feeding in peace the year round—unmolested by the guns of hunters.

Contributions may be mailed to George Brandels, treasurer of the Sandy Griswold Memorial Fund, care of Brandels Stores, Omaha Nebraska, and they will be acknowledged in the Omaha newspapers. A copy of a photograph of Sandy, along with an appropriate original verse from Sandy's versatile pen, will be sent to all who contribute.

Plan Your Picnics Now

How's the old car? Or perhaps you have a new one this summer. At any rate do you remember what a good time you had motoring last year, and how it enabled you to keep the children out of doors practically all the time? You can repeat this summer, and build up on last year's experience.

Sure Fire Sandwiches

How's the vacuum bottle? In good condition? Fine! Was it big enough last summer, or would you have liked to be able to have twice the quantity of cold drinks? And the lunch kit? A bit rusty? Why not polish it up now and not wait for that first summer day when you just can't stay indoors, but simply have to go and eat somewhere outside?

Here are some unusual sandwich spreads.

Tongue and Mushroom Sandwich Shred a can of cooked tongue and add half a can of chopped canned mushrooms, two tablespoons of chopped dill pickles and three tablespoons of Thousand Island Dressing. This mixture can be used between either white or whole wheat bread.

Salmon and Egg Sandwich Chop two hard cooked eggs and add to the minced contents of one small can of salmon. Add one tablespoon of anchovy paste, one-eighth teaspoon lemon juice and four tablespoons mayonnaise. Chill and spread on sliced and buttered white bread.

The "Perfect Retention Shields" hold the rupture perfectly, no matter what position the body assumes or how heavy a weight you lift. They give instant relief, contract the opening in a remarkably short time and strengthen the weak tissues (the real cause of rupture) so that they frequently recover their previous natural retaining power, needing no further outside support. Stomach trouble, backache and constipation often caused by Rupture promptly disappear.
Truly remarkable and prompt results have been obtained not only with recent but also with old, long neglected ones.
Ingenious, recently perfected devices are now holding ruptures firmly which heretofore never had been retained.
No elastic belts nor filthy legstraps are used.
I guarantee the durability of my absolutely sweat and moisture proof, sanitary appliances.

How Much Water Should Baby Get?
A Famous Authority's Rule
By Ruth Brittain

Baby specialists agree nowadays, that during the first six months, babies must have three ounces of fluid per pound of body weight daily. An eight pound baby for instance, needs twenty-four ounces of fluid. Later on the rule is two ounces of fluid per pound of body weight. The amount of fluid absorbed by a breast fed baby is best determined by weighing him before and after feeding for the whole day; and it is easily calculated for the bottle fed one. Then make up any deficiency with water.
Giving baby sufficient water often relieves his feverish, crying, upset and rest less spells. If it doesn't, give him a few drops of Fletcher's Castoria. For these and other ills of babies and children such as colic, cholera, diarrhea, gas on stomach and bowels, constipation, sour stomach, loss of sleep, underweight, etc. leading physicians say there's nothing so effective. It is purely vegetable—the recipe is on the wrapper—and millions of mothers have depended on it in over thirty years of ever increasing use. It regulates baby's bowels, makes him sleep and eat right, enables him to get full nourishment from his food, so he increases in weight as he should. With each package you get a book on Motherhood worth its weight in gold.
Just a word of caution. Look for the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher on the package so you'll be sure to get the genuine. The forty cent bottles contain fifty-five doses.

Ginkgo Tree Only One

That Has No Enemies

Only one species of plant life now growing in the United States is without an enemy trying to take its life, Dr. William A. Taylor, chief of the bureau of plant industry, reported to the house appropriations committee during hearings in Washington.

"This unmolested tree is the Japanese ginkgo tree," Doctor Taylor stated. "So far as we know this tree has no insect or fungus enemy at the present time."

On a driveway leading to the United States Department of Agriculture buildings the street is lined on both sides with the ginkgo trees. In the fall they present a striking appearance, for as the yellow leaves fall they heap up on the sidewalks like piles of gold.

The ginkgo tree has a fruit, but one which the white man scorns. The nut inside is rather tasty, but as Doctor Taylor said, "It is surrounded by a most abominable smelling and tasting pulp. It smells more like salt-rising bread in the process of fermentation than any other thing. Chinese laundrymen pick up the fruits, take them home, clean them and eat the kernels."—Kansas City Star's Science Service.

Last British Invasion

French Practical Joke?

The last invasion of England by an armed enemy force was on February 22, 1797, when a French army of 1,400 men, under General Tate, landed at Fishguard with an idea apparently of conquering Wales. The whole affair proved farcical. Lord Cawdor hastily gathered together the local militia, and hundreds of women, dressed in the national costume, red mantles and beaver hats, accompanied their menfolk, whereupon the invaders, concluding that large reinforcements had reached Fishguard, hastened to make unconditional surrender. Tate was an American, many of his officers were Irish, and more than half his men were convicts released to help to equip the expedition. There were not wanting cynics, who declared that the French government had planned the whole affair with the sole idea of getting 1,400 incorrigible ruffians boarded and lodged at the expense of the British.

Great Forests on Pacific

Nowhere in the world are there such magnificent forests as those found along the immediate coast north of San Francisco, says the American Tree association. West of the Cascade and coast ranges the mild climate, heavy rainfall and generally humid atmospheric conditions have resulted in the production of a forest that is more wonderful in the density of its growth and the majesty of its development than is to be found anywhere else. The sequoias of California are the giants of the vegetable kingdom. The Douglas firs, Sitka spruces and the giant arbor vitae (western red cedars) of Oregon and Washington are second in size only to the sequoias.

Fish-Oil Ice Cream

Ice cream made from fish oil, snow and sugar recently was an unexpected winter dish of Eskimos of Alaska. The odor was strong but the dish is said to have tasted better than it smelt. Eskimos caught great numbers of eulachon, a species of smelt which is sometimes called the candlefish because it contains so much oil. These they placed in holes lined with heated rocks, and after the fish were cooked they were placed in covered baskets on which the women trod with bare feet to extract the oil. During cold weather the oil has much the consistency of butter. To make the ice cream, the oil was melted and sugar and snow were added, then stirred in.

Why Borah Couldn't Come

The Golden Book recounts the story of how Mrs. William Borah, wife of the senator, arrived alone at a diplomatic breakfast in Washington during the late days of the Coolidge administration when the Kellogg anti-war treaty was still in process of negotiation. Asked by Secretary of State Kellogg what had become of her husband, the gentle and literal Mrs. Borah replied:

"He said that if you asked for him, Mr. Kellogg, I was to say that he is at home working on your d-d treaty."

One Thing Certain

Some questions will forever remain unsolved. A back East physician once told a colored woman who had called to consult him in regard to an ailment, that her vitality was much run down. "Suppose," said he, brightly, using one of Doctor Holmes' questions for the purpose, "you were packed in a barrel of snow. How much of it could you melt?" The lady shivered. "Ah, dunno," she replied fervently, "an' what's mo', Ah ain't never goin' to find out."—Portland Oregonian.

Hernandez Found Dahlia

It was in 1570 that Phillip II of Spain sent Francisco Hernandez to Mexico to compile an official report of the flora and plant life of New Spain. He sent seeds to the director of the Royal Botanic gardens in Madrid, who, says Nature Magazine, disseminated the dahlia throughout Europe. Hernandez found the dahlia, not as a wild flower, but in the cultivated gardens of the Aztecs.

A FULL LIST OF FOODS

Ask for the canned foods you like at your favorite chain or grocery store. If it hasn't them the first time, ask again, and it will soon stock the foods that are in demand. In order to facilitate your doing this we are appending hereto a full list of the principal foods that come in cans. Those put up in the sanitary enamel lined cans which have become so popular with the housewife are marked with an E. There are a few other canned foods specialties produced in small amounts, in addition to those listed below, but this list illustrates the amazing variety of pure, safe foods now available in cans.

Lo-Val Lake Club Will Be A Live Attraction

Plans are being worked out to make the Lo-Val lake club of near Laurel a live attraction for the balance of the summer, according to Cedar-county papers.

A petition is being circulated among members of the club asking for a $25 fee to be used in financing necessary improvements and other expenses. Those who are behind in dues are also asked to pay these in addition to the $25.

Dr. F. J. Emblick, of Laurel, is president of the club and Albert Felber is secretary and August Paulsen is treasurer.

An admission charge will be made at the gate when the grounds are opened, it is reported.

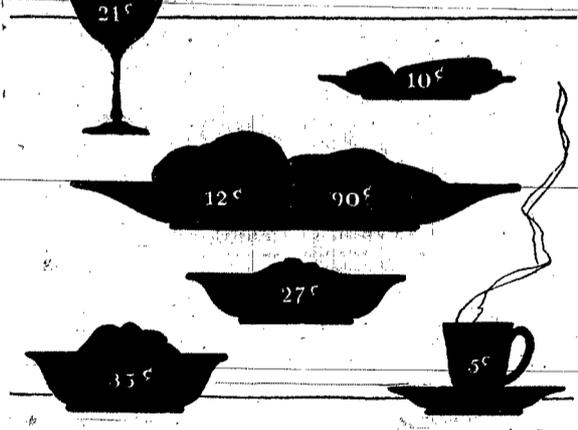

Raising Turkeys

A summary of the experiences of the University of Nebraska college of agriculture in raising turkeys in yards is contained in the revised edition of Station Circular 34, Turkey Production. For several years now, the college poultrymen have raised from 300 to 500 turkeys in comparatively small yards within the city limits of Lincoln. Progressive poultrymen have been copying the methods during the past three years, and have been successful.

Turkeys were common years ago on Nebraska farms but "poor luck" with them has reduced the number raised to almost nothing. Turkey is the national Holiday bird, and the demand is good at that season of the year. Those who are able to raise the poulters have been making good money during the past few years.

The new bulletin outlining the methods used by the college is available for the asking at offices of county extension agents and at the agricultural college in Lincoln.

Two-Dollar Dinner for Six

- Orange & Tomato Juice Cocktail—21¢
- Fried Butter Fish—9¢
- Lettuce and Peas—27¢
- Cottage Pudding with Fruit Sauce—35¢
- Demi-tasse—5¢
- Total cost—$2.00
- Baked Potatoes—12¢
- Bread and Butter—10¢

FOR the orange and tomato juice cocktail you will need one No. 2 can of tomatoes which costs 13 cents, two oranges costing 8 cents, two teaspoons sugar and a few grains of salt. Strain the tomatoes, but do not press the pulp, or the juice will be cloudy. Add the juice of the oranges, the sugar and salt, and serve ice cold in small glasses.

For the lettuce and peas you will need two tablespoons butter, one medium onion, one No. 2 can of peas, two tablespoons chopped parsley, two cups shredded lettuce (about half a head) and one-fourth teaspoon salt. The peas cost 15 cents and the other ingredients 12 cents. Sauté the chopped onion in butter, then add the peas, lettuce, parsley and salt, and cook until the liquor from the peas is almost cooked away.

To make the cottage pudding, cream three tablespoons shortening with one-third cup sugar, and add one well-beaten egg. Add one-third cup milk alternately with one cup flour, two tablespoons baking powder and one-fourth teaspoon salt sifted together. The ingredients will cost 11 cents. Bake in a buttered flat cake pan in a moderate oven, 350°, for about 30 minutes. Cut in squares while still warm and serve with the following sauce:

Mix one and one-half teaspoons cornstarch with one-half cup water, add to the contents of one 8-ounce can of pineapple tidbits (10 cents) and cook in a double-boiler until slightly thickened. Cool. Cut half a pint box of strawberries (13 cents) in halves, add one-third cup sugar and let stand until sugar is melted and berries juicy. Add to the pineapple and serve on the cottage pudding.

The above prices are, of course, approximate, and will vary slightly in different localities.

Six Reasons Offered For Filling The Silo

1. Corn yields greater returns per acre as silage than in any other form.
2. A crop in the silo will support more livestock per acre.
3. Silage is worth from two-fifths to one-half as much per ton as a good legume hay. It yields from three to seven times as many tons per acre.
4. Cows fed silage produce more milk at lower cost.
5. Tests show that silage saves $1 or more a hundred in the cost of producing beef.
6. With modern equipment and labor saving methods, the cost of silo filling is practically the same as other methods of harvesting.

Bloomfield Will Buy A New Diesel Engine

Because of the increased demand for power and lights the city council of Bloomfield has asked bids for a new Diesel engine at the city light plant. The total cost, with installation, will be about $32,000. Since the opening of the new plant a little over two years ago the plant has paid off $30,000 from the original cost of $66,000. The new engine will be paid from the earnings of the plant and not by increased taxation.

The cost per kilowatt hour has been reduced from 15 cents to 12 cents by the recent action of the city board.

The demand for lights and power has increased over 100 per cent during the past two years, making the present engines inadequate to handle the increased demand.

Meow! Meow! Pussy Purrs Where's My Bunnies?

A resourceful Dixon county cat that lost four of her five kittens began bringing in baby rabbits to mother and now her family includes one kitten and twelve of the little bunnies.

The cat is owned by Mattis Johnson, prominent Dixon county farmer who lives near Allen, who will vouch for the authenticity of the story according to the Allen paper.

The cat is very devoted to her large cosmopolitan family, it is claimed, and brings them food as if they were her own.

G. A. Gansko Did Not Sell Madison Hotel

G. A. Gansko did not sell his Madison hotel and buy one in Gordon, as was reported here a couple of weeks ago by traveling salesmen and which was mentioned in the Democrat at that time. At least Mr. Gansko knows nothing of any such change having been made.

Mr. Zilmer, who bought the Gansko interests in the Boyd Hotel, Mr. Gansko stated, has purchased the Gordon hotel, and he is of the opinion that this was misconstrued in some way.

Mr. Gansko is always glad to have Wayne friends visit him at his Madison location, he said, adding that he often sees some of them.

Foreign consular offices are maintained in Nebraska, all at Omaha, by Belgium, Czechoslovakia, Denmark, Great Britain, Italy, Norway, and Sweden.

POP! CRACK! BANG!

AND how hungry you are after the fireworks are finished! This is what we would suggest you should serve for a bang-up Fourth of July luncheon:

- Melon and Pineapple Cup
- Cream of Fresh Asparagus Soup
- Cheese Crackers
- Shell Fish Mayonnaise
- Potatoes on the Half Shell
- Hot Cloverdale Rolls
- Apricot and Lemon Sherbet
- Cakes
- Coffee

And here are the recipes for the dishes which you probably don't know how to make already. Each of these recipes will serve eight.

Recipes for Menu

Melon and Pineapple Cup: Have one cup of watermelon balls, one cup of cantaloupe balls, one cup of diced pineapple, one-half cup of orange juice and two tablespoons of lemon juice well chilled, and arrange the fruit in glasses. Mix the fruit juices with sugar to taste, pour over the fruit, and serve ice cold.

Cream of Fresh Asparagus Soup: Add two cups of water to two 13-ounce cans of chicken broth and one teaspoon salt, and bring to boiling. Add the tender tops of half a bunch of fresh asparagus cut in small pieces (about two cups), and boil until tender. Meanwhile cut or grind the lower, tougher parts of the asparagus stalks in fine pieces, add to two cups of boiling water. Cook about thirty minutes, and then press through a colander. Sauté one small minced onion in two tablespoons of butter, add two tablespoons of flour and then, gradually, the stock pressed from the asparagus. Cook five minutes, then add to the broth and asparagus mixture. Just before serving add one cup of hot cream. Serve with butter thins spread with grated cheese and browned under the broiler.

Potatoes on the half shell are simply potatoes baked for a while, and cut in two. Then the potato is cut out of the skin, mashed and stuffed back into the "shells" which the baking has hardened, and put into the oven for a few minutes, to brown on top.

Shell Fish Mayonnaise is the piece de resistance of this nourishing luncheon. To make it mix together one 6-ounce can of lobster, one-half cup of diced cucumbers and some French dressing. Mix one 5 1/2-ounce can of shrimp, one tablespoon of capers, four tablespoons of thinly sliced radishes and some French dressing. Mix one 6 1/2-ounce can of crabmeat and one-half cup of diced celery with two tablespoons of lemon juice. Chill these three mixtures separately. Just before serving moisten each slightly with mayonnaise. On each large serving plate arrange lettuce, place a large spoonful of mayonnaise in center of each, and then put a large spoonful of each salad mixture around this mayonnaise, and garnish with strips of pimiento, ripe olives and sweet pickle fans. Serve the potato on the half shell on the same plate.

Plenty of Dessert

Apricot and Lemon Sherbert: Dissolve one package of lemon flavored gelatin in two cups of boiling water, add one and one-fourth cups of sugar, and cool. Add one cup of cold water, the contents of one No. 2 can of apricots pressed through a sieve and one cup of heavy cream. Freeze and serve. This recipe will serve eight people liberally.

Facts About Nebr.

(From Bulletin of Nebr. Utilities Information Bureau)

Nebraska's use of electric energy increased 16 per cent in April over that of the same month in 1928, as against a national increase of 15 per cent. Nearly nine per cent of the electricity generated came from water power in the state and 41 per cent in the United States.

When the Knox county seat was moved from Niobrara to Center, after several unsuccessful efforts, the county clerk set up a temporary office in a box stall of Farmer Wisendoff's barn.

Almost 200,000 hunting and fishing licenses were issued in Nebraska in 1928. More than a half-million of black bass were planted and more than three million other fish. There are 15,000 acres of planted trees on national forest reserves at Halsey and Niobrara.

Industrial Notes

The Nebraska Electric Power company and the Western Public Service company, both under the same general ownership but operating in different sections of the state, have consolidated under the latter name to simplify the business and save overhead operating expenses.

Money coming into the city treasury of Pawnee City last year amounted to $198,786, of which $130,000 was received for the sale of the municipal electric plant to the Iowa-Nebraska Light & Power company. The city is appropriating $3,750 for street lighting for the current year.

The St. Joseph Gas Company is planning to extend a natural gas main from Atchison through Horton and Hiawatha and has lately been talking with Falls City people about a franchise there. No Nebraska city has ever enjoyed natural gas service as yet.

The McCook gas plant has been sold to an Iowa company headed by John A. Reed of Cedar Rapids, a brother of Senator Jim Reed of Missouri. The plant will be overhauled and improved.

There will be no fishing at Lake Ericson for a month while the Western Public Service company is building a new dam as a part of the $125,000 hydro-electric plant on the Cedar river close to the village of Ericson.

TRANSCONTINENTAL OIL CO. GENERAL OFFICES: Ritz Building, TULSA, OKLA.

John Phipps, Agent, Wayne, Nebr.

People of today go places and do things. Naturally they need cars. They buy snooty sedans and ritzy roadsters. They have bought and are buying the new Fords in great numbers. Price still functions as a factor. But pride of ownership, something hitherto held sacred to the expensive car, has entered into the Ford equation.
