Blinding Lights of Approaching Car Blind Driver, Car Hits Bridge Guard Rail.

AUTO OVERTURNS, CATCHES FIRE

One of the most horrible auto accidents that have happened in this section of the state, recently, occurred Monday night about 8 o'clock two miles west of Pilger.

Dr. G. H. Seavers, 35, and Miss Eunice Meyers, 26, both of Pilger, were on their way to a holiday party. Dr. Seavers who was driving the car was apparently blinded by the glaring lights of an approaching car just as they reached the bridge. His car care away about 20 feet of the bridge rail and one post to which the fence was attached thrust through a front wheel of the car and they drag the fence about a hundred feet down the road before the car was overturned and crashed into an embankment and caught fire.

The bodies were burned beyond recognition, being almost entirely consumed by the flames.

Dr. Seavers was a veterinary surgeon and had lived at Pilger for about four years. He was a veteran of the World war. It is believed that his father and sister live at Genoa.

Arthur Shultheis, Former Resident Here, Passes Away In South Dakota Thursday

Death Is Caused by Injuries Received About Four Weeks Ago When Kicked By A Colt.

BURIAL MADE AT WESSINGTON

Arthur Shultheis of Wessington, South Dakota, formerly of this city and well known here, passed away at the Wessington hospital, Dec. 28, 1930 at 11:50 a. m., just four weeks and two days following the injuries received when kicked in the pit of his stomach by a colt at his farm about sixteen miles from Wessington. All possible means to save his life were tried and hope was held for his recovery up until only a day or two before his death. He underwent an operation the day following his injury and had been given special care during his illness. However, Mr. Shultheis' injury was such as few ever survive and his constitution was not strong enough to bear the strain.

Arthur Frank Shultheis was born on a farm seven and one-half miles northwest of Wayne, January 7, 1891, and passed away December 28, 1930, at the Wessington hospital at Wessington, S. D., having attained the age of 38 years, 11 months, and 19 days. At the age of 14 years, he moved with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Shultheis, to Wayne, where he attended high school. He later attended the School of Pharmacy at Creighton University. On returning from school, he worked with his brother, Warren Shultheis, in a drug store at Wayne, moving to South Dakota fifteen years ago this coming March. Here he settled on a farm about sixteen miles southwest of Wessington, building up one of the finest and best equipped stock farms in the vicinity, and making his home there until the time of his death. On March 17, 1925, he was married to Miss Helen Gehring, who, with his mother, Mrs. Charles Shultheis, his brother, Warren Shultheis, and his sister, Mrs. A. N. Lamb of Albion, formerly Miss Hattie Shultheis, now survives him.

Mr. Shultheis was a member of the Presbyterian church and was a 32nd degree Mason belonging to the Wessington A. F. and A. M., to the Oriental Consistory of Yankton, and to the Shrine at Aberdeen.

The last rites were held for Mr. Shultheis at 2:00 o'clock last Saturday, Dec. 28, at a Masonic funeral at the Presbyterian church at Wessington. Interment was made at the Wessington cemetery. Those from Wayne who attended the funeral were Wm. Mellor, Stanley Huffman, D. H. Cunningham, Leslie Ellis, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Denbeck, Elmer and Willis Noakes, Ernest Paulsen, and James and Ed Grier.

Warren Shultheis of this city has been with his brother all during his illness and death and Mrs. Warren Shultheis and Mrs. Charles Shultheis made a second trip to Wessington early Thursday.

The departed has many friends in this community who remember him well as a lad and saw him grow to manhood. He was a man of integrity and a highly respected citizen, loved and esteemed by those who knew him. Sincere sympathy is extended to the bereaved, especially to his wife whose mother so recently was taken away also.

HENDRICKSON IS SPEAKER OF DAY FOR KIWANIS

Alfr. Hendrickson Attributes 75 Per Cent of Law Violations to Desire For Money.

NEW TAX SYSTEM ADVOCATED

County Atty. C. H. Hendrickson, was the speaker of the day at the Kiwanis luncheon hour, at Hotel Stratton, last Monday.

He chose for his topic of discussion "What's wrong with the world today." Atty. Hendrickson says "that a check back of law violations for the past twenty years shows that conditions were never better in the past twenty years than at present; that laws were violated in the same proportion twenty years ago as they are today." He says "the only difference if any is that we have many more laws today than we had then, therefore, more opportunities to violate the laws of our country." Atty. Hendrickson stated that "seventy-five percent of law violations of today are due to desire for money; the financial requirements of the present day are greater than ever before, and it is this desire for money to meet the increased demands for money that is causing a large percent of law violation today." He says that "statistics show that thirty-one percent of the people of the United States support not only themselves but the other sixty-nine percent of the people. He advocates Benjamin Franklin clubs in every county to preach economy. He says state tax levies are wrong; that no man should be penalized for owning property. According to our present system of taxation, if you own $1,000 in gold you pay $2.50 in taxes, if you own $2,000 book account or notes, you pay $8.00 in taxes, if you own your home, business, stock of merchandise or washing machines you pay $34.40 taxes. He advocates publicity for every department of our government. The tax payers should know what the government officials are doing with the money they are paying in taxes, that the people should have reports at regular intervals from the cities, schools and all public institutions that are financed by taxation.

FORMER WAYNE PASTOR PASSES

Rev. E. M. Owing, Former Pastor of Baptist Church Here, Dies at His Home Near Tekamah.

The Rev. E. M. Owing, former pastor of the First Baptist church here, passed away at his home near Tekamah Wednesday afternoon, Dec. 18, 1929, after a short illness. His health has been gradually failing during the past two years but he was not seriously ill and preached at the morning service at his church the Sunday previous to his death.

Mr. Owing was for many years engaged in state work, going about from place to place helping churches in need of pastors. He was very well liked and successful in this work and though he resigned to take a charge his labors were so valuable in the late work that he was called back to his duties in the state department of the church. However, he resigned again later, and at the time of his death was in charge of two rural churches near Tekamah, one of them being known as the Riverside church.

Funeral services were conducted at the Riverside church Saturday, December 21, the Rev. Sharp officiating.

POSTOFFICE HAS PROFITABLE YEAR

A Nice Increase Shown In Every Department, Air Mail Shows Large Increase.

One of the surest signs available of the prosperity of this community during the past year is a report we recently received from our local Postmaster, Mr. Mears.

This system of obtaining conditions in any particular locality is used by all the large manufacturers and other business interests who desire reliable information regarding the territory.

The business at the local postoffice has shown a good healthy increase in gross receipts of all departments during the past year. Postmaster, Grant S. Mears says, the postal department shows a big increase in receipts during the past year; the parcel post department shows a nice increase, the money order and C. O. D. has done a good business. There has been a large increase in local advertising and permit matter, also, air mail. The great increase in air mail attributed to the fifty per cent reduction in postage on ordinary letters by mail; where the postage formerly was 10 cents for an ordinary letter it is only 5 cent at present, only three cents more than regular mail, and business houses especially, all over the country are turning to air mail with all rush mail. The local postoffice is well equipped to accommodate the trade with air mail stamps and special air mail stamped envelopes.

Perhaps, very few of us realize the immense volume of business that is handled by the employes at the local postoffice, especially during the Christmas rush. For instance their cancelling machine shows that between December 16 and 24, forty-two thousand, one hundred and seventy-nine pieces of mail went through the cancelling machine, mostly greeting cards; in the six days between Dec. 21 and 24 there were 32 thousand pieces of mail passed through their cancelling machine, and this is only the outgoing mail and mostly postcards.

In the past it had been the custom in the rush season such as in the Christmas rush in receiving packages at the local postoffice where the package was insured, to mail a receipt for the insurance money at a later date. Postmaster Mears made a new ruling this season, that receipts for insurance must be made out and given to the sender of the package at the time the package was received.

Driver Loses Control; Mrs. Eddie Is Injured

Mrs. James Eddie of Carroll was painfully injured when struck by an auto last Saturday morning in front of Martin Ringer's insurance office on main street. The auto was driven by Frank Peterson; the car being a new one and Peterson who had previously been driving an older model Ford became confused with the gear shift, and in attempting to back out from the curb he bumped into another car standing alongside his. He reversed his car and started forward to release it from the one which he had bumped into; when released his car shot forward onto the pavement striking Mrs. Eddie knocking her down and striking the door facing of Mr. Ringer's office.

Luckily for Mrs. Eddie the car struck the door facing at an angle, otherwise she would have been crushed between the car and wall of Mr. Ringer's office. Mrs. Eddie was carried to Dr. Ingham's office for an x-ray examination, which revealed that she had two small bones of her ankle broken. After treatment by Dr. Ingham she was taken to her home at Carroll.

A NEW YEAR RESOLUTION

As the old year dies and we welcome the birth of the new it is time to take stock again. We want to thank our friends for their liberal patronage during 1929, for their confidence in our ability to serve. That confidence means much to the community, and to each individual in the community. Money that is spent here will be respent and by its circulation from neighbor to neighbor adds to the community's prosperity. You help yourself as well as each other when you patronize home town merchants. You make your work and your pay more secure. Make your purchases from your home merchants, and guarantee your prosperity for the New Year.

We are all proud of our home town and want to see it prosper. Each of us can add materially to its prosperity by patronizing the merchants of our city who own their stores, for a certain portion of their profits go to pay local taxes; these taxes help to support our schools, improve our streets and all the other numerous expenses necessary in making this a better town to live in. We are too much inclined to seek the special bates offered by the city stores, and mail order houses who contribute nothing toward the taxes which are so essential to the prosperity of our fair city, and a dollar spent with them is gone forever. The dollar spent with your hometown merchant continues in circulation in your community and you have an opportunity of regaining at least a portion of it. To your New Year resolutions add this one. I resolve to patronize the hometown merchant in 1930 whenever possible, as I am convinced that by so doing I become a better citizen.

We want this community to enjoy prosperity. We thank you for your patronage and will strive to deserve your confidence, and to each and every one of you we sincerely wish a Healthy, Prosperous and Happy New Year.

The case of A. R. Olson of Wisner, who has been trying to force the state department to grant a driver's license to his daughter, who is under sixteen years of age, is attracting wide attention.

Mr. Olson lost the case in court in Cumington county recently, but he has appealed the case to supreme court.

There are a number of boys and girls who live on farms, and have been accustomed to driving cars to town in order to attend school, but if they are under sixteen a driver's license cannot be issued.

Mr. Olson says "this is a matter that interests parents of children of the state in general, in seeking education for their children in nearby schools by means of the automobile. The age question should not enter into the law, the only question which should be considered is that relative to the competency of the driver regardless of age."

Mystery Surrounds Norfolk Youths Death

Considerable mystery surrounds the accident that caused the death of Lester Salzwedel, 16-year old son of Herman Salzwedel, who died in a Norfolk hospital last Monday afternoon.

Details of the accident are unknown, as young Salzwedel was alone in his car and when found was lying unconscious beneath the overturned machine in a ditch beside the road. He did not regain consciousness. It is believed, however, that the young man was the victim of a crash with a hit-and-run driver. Evidence gathered from the way the road was struck by another, had then turned over about twice and landed upside down in the ditch pinning young Salzwedel beneath the car.

The boy was picked up by a Norfolk salesman and taken to Stanton, and later was returned to Norfolk where he died.

Carroll Citizen Dies
Friday, December 20

J. V. Zimmer, highly respected citizen of Carroll, Nebraska, passed away Friday, December 20. Mr. Zimmer had undergone a minor operation on Thanksgiving day and five days after his return from the hospital, had complained somewhat of pleurisy which later developed into pneumonia, causing his death.

John Valentine Zimmer was born at Gravit, Iowa, on February 21, 1866, and died Dec. 20, 1929 at the age of 63 years, 9 months, and 29 days. He was a pioneer of covered wagon days, coming to Brown county, Nebraska in 1887. In 1889 he was married to Miss Ida B. Burress at Breyster, Nebraska and moved to Carroll county, Iowa in 1891. In 1913 they came to Carroll where they have since resided.

The deceased was a member of the Methodist church, having joined in 1911. Besides his wife the departed leaves one daughter, Mrs. Cora B. Imlay of Scholler, Iowa; two sisters, Mrs. Jennie Rich and Mrs. Ella Cox, both of Colorado; and two grandchildren. Funeral services were held Sunday afternoon, Dec. 22, at the M. E. church, the Rev. Rominger in charge. Burial was made at Deadham, Iowa, former home of the deceased.

Wakefield Folk In An Auto Crash Friday Eve.

Mrs. L. L. Lewellen and two daughters, Mary Ellen and Dorothy Frances, of Wakefield narrowly escaped serious injury Friday evening, December 20, when the car in which they were riding collided with a hay rack near Lincoln. The driver, Herbert H. Bradley, 59, of Lincoln, was killed and the car badly damaged.

Mr. and Mrs. Lewellen had planned on spending Christmas with relatives in Lincoln, and Mrs. Lewellen and daughters had taken the advantage of the ride offered to them by Mr. Bradley, a drug salesman of that place. Mr. Lewellen, employed at the Ekeroth & Sar store in Wakefield, planned to go to Lincoln later. When the coupe in which the four were riding, neared Havelock, they met two hay racks headed north. The teams and racks had no lights and Mr. Bradley had to drive close to the ditch to miss them. The second rack was so close that Mr. Bradley could not avoid hitting the team. The wagon tongue smashed through the windshield but hit no one. Mr. Bradley went through the windshield and fell beside one of the horses. One horse was killed and the other fell on him, killing him almost instantly.

Mrs. Lewellen suffered a scalp wound, which needed the attention of a physician, and also suffered from shock. The two escaped injury.

They picked the little pet up from a street here and made away with it, taking it with them on the train to Bloomfield. They tried to return to through Wayne to Emerson on the train with it Sunday evening, but Sheriff Stephens, who had been notified of the matter, arrested them at the train, recovering the dog and bringing the offenders before Justice of the Peace, James Brittain, who fined them $15 and costs and let them go.

Mrs. Alice Miller, mother of Barney and John Miller of Winside, was found dead in bed recently at her home in Dewey. The cause of her death was ascribed to heart failure.

The proceeds from the sale of box supper, coffee, and doughnuts at the box social at Dist. 63 amounted to $33.50.

Otto Schneider of Winside left Wednesday, Dec. 25, for Waterloo, Iowa to attend the funeral services, Thursday afternoon, of his sister, Mrs. Charles Colleas who died Sunday morning, Dec. 22.

Nick Hansen, leader of the local band at Winside, has resigned, his resignation becoming effective January 1st. The services of Erick Ecklund, band leader at Wakefield, have been secured. As a cornet player, he is said to be a match for the best of them.

Nebraska City—Mrs. William Lutjemeier, Oloee, though born in Otoe county and always a resident here, is found not to be a citizen of the United States. She married Lutjemeier, a native of Germany, who was not at the time naturalized. He now is a citizen, but his wife, whom he married before 1922, must go through the formality of acquiring citizenship. —Sioux City Journal.

The wealth of Dawes and Sioux counties has been increased between $150,000 and $200,000 in the past three months by shipments of alfalfa seed. This is the estimation of Wes Williams, representative of an eastern concern. Mr. Williams has handled nine carloads of seeds, loaded at Chadron and raised in that vicinity. The balance of the estimated shipments from that section of Nebraska was handled by a Nebraska alfalfa seed association.

A large truck enroute from Laurel to Omaha with a load of sheep, was damaged by fire at the Texaco filling station in Scribner shortly after midnight Monday last week when a match used to light a cigar by the driver's companion ignited some gasoline which had been spilled. The attendant at the station spilled a little of the fluid when refilling the gasoline tank just in front of the cab of the truck. The match caused ignition and set the interior of the cab alaze, the flames soon enveloping the entire motor and burning furiously, being fed by the gasoline tank on the truck. Firemen were unable to extinguish the flames with chemicals and found it necessary to use the city water pressure before the flames were subdued. Flames were confined to the front end of the truck and most of the damage was done to the motor and cab. The sheep were unharmed at the outset and driven to safety so that there was no loss among them.

MANY STATES TO ELECT GOVERNORS

Thirty-four Senators and Entire House Membership of 435 Face Election in 1930.

Starting with the primary election in Illinois in April, 1930 will be a very busy year politically.

There will be thirty-four senators and the entire house membership of 435 face election in 1930. 33 states will choose Governors. There will be five state primaries in May, in three of which nominations will be made for senators. In June seven state primaries will be held, senatorial nominees being in field of them. There will be two primaries held in July in which senatorial nominees will be named.

In August there will be primaries in fourteen states, in twelve of them senators will be nominated. In September there will be primaries held in twelve states with senatorial contests in four of them.

Georgia will hold a primary but the date is not fixed by law. Six states will make their nominations by conventions, most of those are scheduled for August or September.

The thirty-four senators and the entire house membership of 435 will be elected Nov. 4, 1930.

Ordinarily there would be only thirty-two seats to fill in 1930, however, there are two extra seats to be filled, the Curtis seat in Kansas, now being held by Senator Henry J. Allen (Rep.), and the Burton seat in Ohio, now held by Senator Roscoe McCullough (Rep.). Senator Allen was appointed following the resignation of Vice President Curtis, and Senator McCullough was appointed after the death of Theodore E. Burton.

The death of Senator Francis E. Warren of Wyoming does not require the election of an extra senator in November, as he would have been up for re-election if he had lived. Senator J. Thomas Heflin (Dem.) of Alabama comes up for renomination in May, and his party has threatened to kick him out because he did not support the democratic nominee in the last presidential election, in which case he threatens to run on an independent ticket.

The six states which will make nominations in convention are Idaho, Connecticut, Delaware, New Mexico, Rhode Island and Utah.

Hunting License Blanks Changed

The Nebraska 1930 hunting and fishing license will be different in design and will also have a more personal description of the holder of the license. His age and weight was all that was required on the old license, but the new ones will also require the color of his hair and eyes. This will make it more difficult for one hunter or fisherman to borrow another's license and get away with the goods if he is caught using it.

The fees are $1.00 each for hunting and fishing license to persons living in Nebraska and $40.00 each for non-resident. Persons from outside the state who desire to fish here, but not to hunt, may obtain permits of that kind at $2.00 a piece. Trappers' permits will cost $2.00 each for Nebraska citizens, but outsiders are taxed $50.00 for the same privilege.

Another Reduction in Long Distance Rates

On January 1 another reduction was placed in effect on various long distance telephone rates.

This is the fourth reduction in long distance charges in a little more than three years and will result in a substantial saving to telephone users.

The reductions made the first of the year are, in brief, as follows:

- Day station-to-station calls (when you ask to talk with anyone available) for which the former rates were from 34 cents to $1.00 were reduced 5 or 10 cents.
- Overnight charges on person-to-person calls when you ask to talk with a specified person are reduced substantially for conversations of more than 10 minutes in length.
- The repeat charge on most calls over distances of more than 100 miles was reduced all the way from 5 to 40 cents.
- A few person-to-person rates which formerly were 70 cents to $1.00 and a few evening rates which formerly were 50 cents to $1.00 were reduced 5 cents.

Following are representative new and old rates for three-minute day station-to-station calls.

From	To	Old Day Station-to-Station	New Day Station-to-Station

	Columbus, Neb.	.50	.45

HOW WEATHER CONDITION REPORTS ARE COLLECTED ON COMMERCIAL AIR ROUTES AND RADIO TO FLYERS.

The future of commercial flying will depend largely upon the air furnished through the scientific development of system of communication by which the aviator will be kept informed of weather condition along the scheduled route of his flight.

Such systems have been established in this country and are now operating to make commercial flying along prescribed routes a practical commercial success. In all these networks of communication the telephone typewriter circuits are the nerves that connect the vital centers for collecting and distributing the information so essential to the flyers.

The layout for Transcontinental Air Transport is the most extensive communication system of this kind yet undertaken by an airway operating company. This company operates a train-plain service from coast to coast. The trip from New York is made over the Pennsylvania Railroad as far as Columbus, O. Here a plane takes off for Waynoka, Okla., where connection is made with Santa Fe train. This train, in turn, connects with a plain at Clovis, N. M., that completes the trip to Los Angeles.

A telephone typewriter circuit connects Columbus and Waynoka and intermediate points, at each of which are weather observing stations. These points are also collecting stations for information obtained by meteorological stations off the main route, their report being sent in over the telegraph lines of the railroads by telephone. Thus the flyer along this airway has full information on conditions over a wide strip on each side of his course. At various points along the route, Department of Commerce and Transcontinental Air Transport radio telephone stations transmit the information to planes in flight. A similar system is in operation between Waynoka and Los Angeles.

The principal purpose of the telephone typewriter circuits in these networks is, of course, the exchange of meteorological data. As the transmission of this information consumes only a part of the time, the circuit is available for many other uses. It handles rapidly the innumerable administrative matters of the organizations concerned with the airway maintenance. It gives the transport company the same close control of operations that it would have if they were all conducted at a single airport. It expedites handling of mails and express by transmitting information in advance of arrival, as to quantity, weight and distribution of shipments.

The important part that Bell System Telephone Typewriter Service plays in air transport operations can scarcely be overestimated.

WISNER YOUNG FOLK MARRIED DEC. 22ND

The marriage of Miss Margaret Meyer to Otto Luther, both of Wisner, was solemnized at a pretty wedding which took place at the St. Paul's Lutheran church in Wisner Sunday afternoon, December 22, 1929, at three o'clock, the bride's pastor, the Rev. J. H. Tegeler officiating at a double ring ceremony. Miss Irene Raabe played the wedding march. The bride's father gave the bride away.

The bride was lovely in a gown of white satin applied on white tulle and of uneven hemline. Her veil fell gracefully from a pearl headpiece to the floor. She wore silver slippers, and carried a shower bouquet of cream colored bride's roses and lilies of the valley. The maid of honor, Mrs. Tad Koopman, sister of the bride, wore a dress of yellow moire, black moire slippers, and carried a bouquet of yellow roses. The little flower girl, Fannell Koopman, niece of the bride, was dressed in white ruffled organdie trimmed in yellow and carried a basket of sweet peas. The bride's brother, Delmar Meyer, acted as best man.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the bride's home and a two-course dinner was served at five o'clock to about fifty guests. The home was beautified with decorations of yellow and white, the chosen colors of the bride.

The bride is the youngest daughter of Charles H. Meyer of Wisner. She is a graduate of the Wisner high school and has taught successfully in the rural schools of the community the past five years. The bridegroom is the youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. George Luther. He is a young man of thrifty habits who has assisted his father farming.

Mr. and Mrs. Luther left by auto on a two weeks' honeymoon trip to Chicago where they will be guests of the bride's sister, Mrs. Gurney Laase and family, and of her brother, Herman Meyer. They will make their home on a farm northwest of Wisner belonging to the bridegroom's father.

Shipping Fever of Cattle Is Prevented

Protective Agent Quite Efficacious Against Disease
(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)
Hemorrhagic-septicemia aggrassin is a recently discovered protective agent against the disease known as hemorrhagic septicemia, which is so highly infectious among farm animals, particularly cattle and sheep. The bureau of animal industry of the United States Department of Agriculture developed this aggrassin. In a revised edition of Farmers' Bulletin 1018-F, Hemorrhagic Septicemia, "Shipping Fever" of Cattle, just published, Henry J. Washburn says, "Numerous experimental animals were vaccinated with this material and subsequently were given a severe artificial exposure together with some unvaccinated control animals. In these experiments all the vaccinated animals remained healthy, while the unvaccinated ones developed fatal hemorrhagic-septicemia infections. This aggrassin is a germ-free, sterile product. It is now manufactured under commercial conditions and is proving to be quite as efficacious in practice as it has proved experimentally."
The disease is known popularly as "shipping fever" of cattle. The bulletin describes the bacterium causing the disease, the symptoms and anatomical changes produced, and gives suggestions for diagnosis and for distinguishing the disease from other malignant maladies. It also gives directions for prevention and for the care of animals and premises during and after outbreaks of the disease. No effective medicinal treatment for infected animals is known. If the presence of the disease is suspected, the owner should call a competent veterinarian, who will advise as to protective measures and preventive treatment.
The revised edition of Farmers' Bulletin 1018-F may be obtained free on application to the United States Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C.

Storing Green Alfalfa to Secure Best Results

"Brown hay" from alfalfa results when the alfalfa is put into the mow so green and tough that it heats and drives off the surplus water. At the same time it is discolored. During the process of fermentation the moisture driven off will condense on the top layer of hay and will spoil it as the top layer of silage is spoiled.
The top of such a mow may steam for three weeks or more after the hay is put in. Below the spoiled top layer, if the hay has been properly stored, there will be no mold. This brown hay is very palatable to stock and while there is a certain amount of loss from the fermentation, it is not serious if the hay has not been badly discolored.
When first-cutting alfalfa is nearly cured, but tough, and is likely to be rained on if not taken in, it is far better to take it in and make brown hay of it, than to leave it in the field to be damaged by rain. If put in this way, the hay should be exceptionally well stacked back into the hay mow, to break up the green bunches sometimes found. It should be packed and not left loose, unless there is space enough to spread a thin layer of the tough hay all over the mow. After fermentation starts, do not put other hay on top of it, or disturb it in any way. The use of salt on tough hay is often recommended and should be of value in reducing fermentation and mold.—C. J. Willard, Ohio State University.

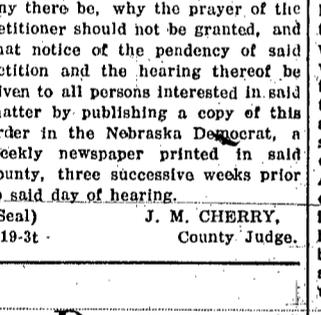

Farm Notes

Warm dry weather is important when a good paint job is wanted.
Soy beans and cowpeas are legumes and will benefit soil some by raising them.
Alfalfa is a high profit crop. It ranks at the top of the list for meat and milk production.
A good, clean quality of alfalfa hay can be used quite satisfactorily for feeding work horses.
Alfalfa used as the roughage for work horses sometimes has a tendency to make them over laxative and soft in their muscles.
The outstanding advantage of the combined harvester-thresher is that it saves time and labor and so considerably reduces the cost of harvesting the crop.
Wheat that is high in protein content is worth more than low protein wheat. Good farming is more certain to produce high protein wheat than poor farming.
Knowledge of the protein and the moisture content of wheat aids in determining the wheat to store. Wheat containing less than 13 per cent moisture can be stored safely.
The beneficial effects of early listing and plowing may be destroyed by permitting weeds and volunteer grain to grow on the land. The destruction of weeds and volunteer grain is frequently just as important as early plowing or listing.

Apricots for Desserts

WHEN you cast around in your mind for a new dessert, why not include the aristocratic apricot in your survey? For the apricot is capable of as many uses as the peach and is less often used only because its capabilities are less familiar.
All Year Use
Of course, the fresh apricot can't be bought all year around, but the canned fruit, which is put up in factories near the orchards when the golden apricot is meltingly ripe, can be obtained any time. Some recipes which are new and have been tested by a trained dietitian are here given. Don't they sound tempting?
Apricot Cranberry Tarts: Cook together until creamy and rather thick the following ingredients: one cup of canned cranberry sauce, one cup of apricot pulp (made by pressing apricots through a sieve) and four teaspoons of sugar mixed with one teaspoon of flour. Cool and put in previously-baked tart shells. Top with whipped cream. This makes ten to twelve tarts.

Peach and Apricot Filling: Whip one cup of cream, and add six tablespoons of confectioner's sugar. Cut one-half cup of canned peaches, one-half cup of canned apricots and one-half cup of candied cherries into small pieces and drain well. Fold into the whipped cream. Use the filling in cream puffs, between layers of cake or as a garnish on a simple cornstarch or rice pudding.
To lend variety to tapioca and cornstarch puddings for the children, put an apricot half in the bottom of the individual mold and fill with the pudding; top with another apricot half.

Many Are Grateful To Wayne's Good Fellows

Dear Editor:—On behalf of many mothers who have expressed to me their appreciation for the unselfish manner in which the business and professional men of Wayne showed forth the spirit of peace and goodwill to the people of this vicinity in the pre-Christmas season that has just gone, and in behalf of those who voiced a wish that some one would make their gratitude known to those responsible, I wish to thank those who gave so generously of their time and money to make the Christmas season that has just passed the happiest we have known. It is very hard for one not closely associated with children to know what it means to a little tot to be told Santa has invited him to a party. To go to Santa's house and be told how he wants them to be good obedient children, kind and helpful, and to tell Santa what they crave for Christmas and be told they should have it because they have been good. This has a marked effect upon the conduct of little four-year-olds. He will anticipate his parents wishes, spring to their assistance then ask "Is that what Santa likes?" Our Santa was especially good this year I thought. I believe that even omitting the treat, that a display could be made on Main street that would have a permanent effect upon the character of the child, and give a passing happiness too. Let us show appreciation to, and co-operate with those who are striving toward this ideal.

Mrs. E. M. Laughlin.

Accident Report Of Past Six Months

The following compilation is for the first 6 months period of the accident survey and covers motor vehicle accidents only. Willful traffic law violations have been responsible for 25% of the accidents, resulting in 24.7% of the deaths and 25.2% of the injuries. They include excessive speed, reckless driving, jaywalking, intoxicated drivers, passing of highway stop signs and disregard of markers and driving with blinding or defective lights.

Blind driving or driving where one cannot see ahead in time to stop if the way is not clear, was responsible for 44% of the accidents, 47% of the deaths and 43% of the injuries. This heading includes, passing car struck car passed, passing car struck oncoming car, ditched by passing car, collision, many cases of pedestrians struck, striking obstructions and railroad crossings and miscellaneous accidents. Speed and confused drivers unable to handle a car in emergencies were contributory factors in this classification.

Careful inspection of cars and closer supervision of highways would have prevented most of the remaining 29% of the accidents, resulting in 22.5% of the deaths and 31% of the injuries, listed under: skids in loose gravel, tire blowouts, mechanical defects and lost control, the excessive speed again enters into many of such cases. Aviation with but 1% of motor vehicle accidents caused 5.5% of the deaths.

Of the more than 2000 motor vehicle accidents reported in 6 months, causing 236 deaths, 79 permanent disabilities and 2345 injuries at least 98% were entirely preventable. Many of those now reported as injured will become disabled or die as a result of someone's carelessness. On a basis of the above figures when the Christmas season of 1930 rolls around of Nebraska's citizens who enjoy the present holiday season, 574 persons will have seen their last Yuletide, 180 more will watch the festivities from wheel chairs or beds from which they will never rise. In all more than 4000 present happy Nebraska families will be saddened and desolated by the manias of speed and carelessness of the highways and city streets, if such things are not curbed and prevented.

Community Scheme Fizzle

The Brook farm was a community organized in 1841 near Roxbury, Mass., by George Ripley and his wife. An association was formed with a few stockholders, and a farm of 200 acres purchased. The object was to promote the benefits of society according to the principle of co-operation. The life led was very simple, and every one had a share of the work, receiving a certain rate of pay. The products of the farm were sold. A school was maintained for the children. A number of prominent people were in the scheme, among them Nathaniel Hawthorne, Charles A. Dana, John S. Dwight, George P. Bradford, Ralph Waldo Emerson, Amos B. Alcott, Theodore Parker, George W. Curtis and Margaret Fuller. After a time, however, enthusiasm waned, and as a result of financial loss the scheme was dissolved in 1847.

Ostentation

Peter Gaskell, millionaire socialist, said in a lecture in Boston: "Wealth, after all, is chiefly prized for the ostentation and display it lends itself to. Wealthy people in their hearts are very much like Newrich." Newrich attended a wedding breakfast with an enormous new diamond in his necktie. Nobody complimented him on the beauty of the stone; though he kept adjusting his necktie nobody appeared even to notice it; so finally he rose from his chair and addressed the bride and groom in loud tones. "May your wedded life," he said, "be as bright and pure as this." "And he tapped the diamond with his forefinger."

What Do You Say To Yourself?

We ALL talk to ourselves. Each of us is not one, but two "I" and "Me" and with endless persistence these two confer. Repeatedly in my confessional confessions, for example, I run upon the results of talking to oneself cynically. What's the use? What does life amount to, anyway? Everyone knows how easy it is to drop into this sort of self communion. A man who allows himself to do this thinks he is "only talking to himself." As a matter of fact, he is fairly murdering himself.

People confuse being cynical with being philosophical. They mistake their emotional discouragements for wisdom, and they say to themselves, "Life is a bad joke," they suppose they are being hardheaded philosophers. There is no shorter road to an inner hell than cynical conversation with oneself.

The influential power of inward talk is illustrated by the way popular catchwords, repeated constantly in the privacy of the mind, affect the life of a generation. "I can get away with it," "It will get me by." In consequence of such an attitude, wretched students in our schools contend merely to pass, business employes satisfied barely to hold their positions, ministers going into their pulpits half prepared and trusting to gusto to get away with it, and all that sorry degeneration of craftsmanship in labor, described by Kipling as "All along o' doin' things rather more or less."

This sort of thing would not be possible if, in the intimacy of the mind where men talk to themselves, shoddy words like "I can get by" were not prevalent. For some words that men use to themselves are tonic, while others sap energy, undermine moral, and end in spiritual anemia.

Many persons habitually talk about their lives in terms of obligation and necessity instead of in terms of privilege. They say to themselves, "I must," in a driven tone of voice, instead of saying "I may."

In the late war a young French soldier, very white and weak, lay on a hospital cot. The surgeon who had just amputated his arm looked at his drawn face and said, "I am very sorry you had to lose your arm." Then the soldier's eyes opened, and with an accent of protest he said, "I did not lose it, I gave it." He was wise enough to see that his whole attitude toward the necessity that confronted him depended on what word he used.

To be sure, compulsion, necessity are real facts in life. But we have a choice as to how we shall talk about these things to ourselves. There lies the secret of the free soul whom life has never been able to reduce to slavery.

Necessity says to a child, You must get an education; and a wise child answers, What a privilege. Necessity says, you must earn your livelihood at such and such a trade; and a wise man replies, A most interesting trade let me at it! Necessity says to all of us, You must grow old; and instead of making fools of ourselves trying to seem sixteen, the wise man or woman says that life's autumn can be made lovelier than its spring.

Of all the ruinous ways of misusing this power of inward conversation non is more prevalent than the habit of breaking down one's own courage by defeatist words: "I cannot," "I am whipped," what an endless amount of such anxious and enfeebling talk is going on!

I do not mean that every problem can be solved by talking rightly to oneself. There are situations where our plans inevitably fail, disaster befalls us, and we face that most difficult of necessities not to do, but to endure. Nevertheless, some of the finest work accomplished on this earth has been done by handicapped men who never could have done it if they had talked to themselves with defeatist words.

Did not Bethoven go deaf? He tells us, however, just what he said to himself: "I will seize fate by the throat; it shall certainly never wholly overcome me." Whenever I listen to glorious music of the Ninth Symphony, I always see deaf Bethoven writing it.

One of the commonest keys of inward conversation is quarrelsomeness. Some people's minds are metal cockpits and there is always a fight on. Forever to be engaged in an inward conflict, writing imaginary letters attacking somebody, constructing imaginary conversation berating somebody or pummeling our own selves with wordy bludgeons, is utterly disruptive to personality. Anxious self-communion is bad enough; probably angry self-communion is worse. Inward conversation pitched in the key of cynicism, shoddiness, discouragement, cowardice, anxiety, defeat, quarrelsomeness, and smut, is doing more to wreck human life than pestilence and war.

Traditions of Sheep Disproved

Coverings of Wool Over the Face Does Not Indicate Its Quality.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)
Traditionally shepherds have believed that the best sheep have coverings of wool over their faces. Another common belief was that folds around the neck and shoulders of a sheep was an indication of a fleece of superior quality and value. Another idea commonly held was that the weather exercised a controlling influence in the quality and quantity of wool.

Bring Out Facts.
Research work by the United States Department of Agriculture has disproved two of these ideas and confirmed the other, but with a highly important modification. To bring out the facts, the department workers have for years carried on painstaking investigations, using methods which they admit seem wasteful and useless until the methods and results are understood.

The bureau of animal industry maintains a flock of sheep in eastern Idaho. Each June at shearing time each sheep is identified, weighed, and sheared. The staple is measured. The fleece is weighed. A sample is inclosed in a tin container and sent to the United States Experiment farm, Beltsville, Md. In the wool laboratory skilled workers dry the samples in an electric conditioning oven and get the moisture-free weight. They remove grease with carbon tetrachloride and the dirt by a special scouring process. Another drying makes possible a determination of the weight of clean wool and of dirt. Thus it is possible to compile a complete record of each sheep's production each year and for successive years.

Constant Culling Wise.
These records have disproved the first two ideas which were widely believed. Weather does make some difference in wool production, but there is much more difference between individual sheep in one season than there is between flocks in different seasons. This points the wisdom of constant culling of low-yielding ewes and selective breeding for heavy fleece production. Application of these facts on the sheep ranges is returning to shepherds each year many times the cost of the research, says E. W. Sheets, who is in charge of the animal husbandry work of the Department of Agriculture.

Swine Having Constant Access to Water Thrive

It has been demonstrated many times by experiment stations as well as by thousands of producers that hogs do better and make larger gains from a given amount of feed when they have constant access to water. Normally a hog drinks only small quantities at a time, but it likes to drink often. It will drink several times during one feeding period when it can run to a self-feeder at will. When the feed is thrown on the ground or on a feeding floor where the individual hog must eat in competition with a large group, it is not likely to stop for water so long as there is grain to eat. But when it can run to a self-feeder it soon learns that there will be plenty of feed left when it returns. Then it begins to eat more deliberately and to drink several times before it has satisfied its hunger.

Feed Market Chickens as Much as Possible

All chickens intended for the early market should receive as much food as they will consume four times daily. Under good management it is possible to add half a pound weekly to the weight of birds which have been specially bred for the table. Of course, in every flock there will always be a few birds with a tendency to put on very little flesh—in fact, there is often some difficulty in maintaining their weight. Such birds should be marketed without delay. If kept for special fattening they frequently drift into an unmarketable condition.

Farm Notes

Cut a poor tree when it is young to permit a good one to replace it.
A good draft horse is a ready and willing worker and is neither irritable nor nervous.
Pullets and cockerels should be kept in separate flocks if they are to develop as they should.
When raspberries and blackberries have been harvested, cut out and burn the old fruiting canes. This will help hold disease and insect injury in check.
Good pasture for growing pigs, brood sows, and all classes of swine is so valuable that it often makes the difference between profit and loss in the hog business.
Fewer mistakes in culling hens will be made when the flock has been properly fed and the hens given a chance to lay as many eggs as they are capable of producing.
