The immediate past president reviewed the accomplishments of the Kiwanis club during the past year. The new president outlined plans for the coming year.

The local Kiwanis club has done a great work for our city and community, their membership includes some of the most influential and loyal business men of our community, men that are really heart and soul for anything that is for the best interests of Wayne and Wayne county, and their accomplishments during the past year show they have a way of getting what they go after, and their program for this year shows they intend to rally their forces for even greater things for Wayne in 1930.

The officers elected and the committeemen appointed to serve during the coming year are well qualified for their duties and are sure to give a good account of their stewardship.

WAYNE STATE BANK IS NATIONALIZED

Received Charter as State Bank in 1892. Received National Charter Last Monday.

The State Bank of Wayne received a national charter, and in the future will be known as the State National Bank of Wayne, Nebraska.

President Rollie Ley says, that their business has grown to where he feels that he can render a better service to his patrons under a national charter, while a state bank charter is all right for a small bank, there is a certain advantage to be gained, after your business has grown to a certain volume, by operating under a national charter. The State National Bank of Wayne was established as a state bank in 1892, and received a charter to become a national bank last Monday, January 6.

The State National Bank is one of the strongest banks in Northeastern Nebraska. They went through the financial crisis after the World war at all times retaining the confidence of the public, as conservative and a reliable bank to deal with, and this confidence in the officials of the institution has been responsible for the steady growth of business to where they can render better service to their patrons by operating under a national charter.

Wayne Will Have Corps of American Air Cadets; Wayne County Boys Are Eligible

Wayne County Boys Under 20 Are Invited to Join National Group to Study Aviation.

WAYNE BOYS TO STUDY AVIATION

Arrangements for a chapter of the American Air Cadets of America have been launched in Wayne. The object of the American Air Cadets is to foster and help build up the character of the young American by instructing him in air-mindedness and by teaching him to build model air planes to prepare him for perfecting this new form of transportation.

The purpose of this organization is to co-ordinate the air craft model clubs of the nation in a practical manner for the benefit of all and the advancement of aviation. It is believed the aviation industry soon will be dependent upon the youth of the nation for ideas and inventions as well as to carry on the industry as a whole. Anyone who is under 20 years old may become a member. A membership fee of 50 cents is charged to help defray the expense of administration. Each member will be furnished a kit for use in building a model plane to scale, complete directions for constructing the planes, as well as materials.

The boys start with a simple model and are classed according to the progress they have made. Nearly all aircraft manufacturers endorse the American Air Cadet organization in the work it is doing for the American boy and will furnish blue prints of practically every model of plane manufactured and this will be given the boys for the purpose of building model type planes.

Classes which will signify the various insignia include "Grease Monkey," "Mechanics Plot" and "Ace Pin." Each successive model the boy builds is expected to be larger and to fly farther. The movement is to interest boys in aviation and is backed by a group of national figures prominent in aviation.

The American Air Cadets is local in its influence through its local chapter and national in its scope. The local advisory board consists of the following: Prof. E. J. Huntemer, R. R. Larson, Guy Strickland, Prof. A. F. Gulliver, R. B. Judson, Pilot, Ralph Robinson.

Many contests will be held during the coming months and the boys will have an opportunity to win trophies which will be furnished by Art Goebel Colonel Lindberg and other notables of aviation. There will be a contest, which in all probability will be held in Chicago, Illinois the coming year. The headquarters for the local chapter will be the boy's department of the Fred L. Blair Clothing store.

The national advisory board of the American Air Cadets consists of James J. Davis, secretary of labor; Congressman Clyde Kelly, author of air and mail legislation; Colonel Arthur C. Goebel, president Art Goebel Aviation company, winner Dole prize for first flight across Pacific ocean to Hawaii; Porter Adams, former president, National Aeronautical association, Washington, D. C.; Colonel W. E. Basterwood, Jr., pioneer in commercial aviation, Dallas, Texas; Arthur J. Lynch, chairman civic board, National Aeronautical association, Washington, D. C.; George Coe, general secretary, American Air Cadets, New York City; William H. Wishart, executive secretary and national organizer, American Air Cadets, Iowa City, Ia.

Nebraska Highway Program For 1930

The state road improvement program for 1930 includes at the present time 600 miles of grading, 550 miles of graveling, 100 miles of paving, the construction of about 100 bridges and the maintenance of the roads now completed. Roy Cochran, head of the state department of highways, announces:

Discussing the expenditures Mr. Cochran said that the state department of public works has state funds at its command amounting to approximately $7,250,000 yearly. These funds are derived from 3 cents of the 4 cents that is collected in gas tax and 30 per cent of the auto license fees. Forty per cent of the money is used for maintenance. The cost of keeping roads in condition continually mounts as the use of them increases. Especially is the cost of maintenance high on trunk lines where travel by truck and bus is great. New state highways have to be maintained as added by legislative enactment.

Increased traffic in Nebraska has been greater than the increase in car ownership and amounts to 100 per cent since 1925. The character of the traffic is changing. The increased volume of delivery of live stock to the Omaha market by trucks has created a condition of road wear that only paving can cure. Railroads have invested two million dollars in rolling stock to be used on the highways. In 1913 there were 25,000 cars and trucks owned in the state. Now in one county, Douglas, there are twice as many as that, and 400,000 in the state. Ten per cent of these are trucks.

Nebraska was late in starting her highway program. It was forthwith to adopt the gasoline tax. The first objective of the highway department was to get Nebraska out of the mud. Next to build the permanent roads of the state. Now there are 4400 miles of gravelled roads and 250 miles of pavement. This program has been consistently carried forward and with marked advance notwithstanding that Nebraska has spent a third of the sum her neighbor states have spent for road improvement.

MAGNET MAN HAS AN UNUSUAL SMASH-UP

Magnet Wednesday evening Dec. 25, Sherman Delozier, accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Charles La Croix, left for Sioux City with a truck load of hogs and cattle. When about one and one-half miles east of Martinsburg, several stray horses loomed up just as they were making a sharp turn in the road leading onto a bridge. Being unable to stop, Sherman aimed to drive between the two, but the stock caught the horse on the north side, causing the truck to sway across the bridge where the front end hit the railing, preventing it from going over the embankment. Neither of the three occupants was badly hurt, but the stock did not fare so well. The swaying overbalanced the rack, sliding it and the stock, except one hog, off and down a 30-foot embankment. One hog was killed, one of the cattle suffered a broken

Highway Patrol Insists Bright Lights Be Dimmed

State Engineer Roy Cochran reports that an intensive fight will be made by the state through his office against excessively bright headlights on automobiles.

It has been announced that all state highways will be patrolled in the near future, headed by Buck Taylor. The object of the statewide patrol is for the purpose of making it more safe to drive at night on public highways.

According to statistics the greatest percentage of accidents are the direct result of blinding lights. During the past week four deaths resulting from auto accidents in northeast Nebraska, in which the accidents were attributed to drivers of the wrecked cars being blinded by glaring headlights of approaching cars.

A large percent of cars of late manufacture are provided with dimmers, but the drivers are negligent in using them when they meet other cars. Some motorists state that if they show the courtesy of using their dimmers when they meet other cars, only about one out of fifty return the courtesy, and they are placed at the disadvantage of facing the glaring headlights of their car to protect them. There are many that would like to show the courtesy of dimming their lights when they meet other cars and would welcome enforcement of the law against glaring headlights.

The highway patrol insists that extremely bright lights be dimmed to afford ordinary safety on state highways at night.

State Engineer Cochran also announces that the new law that trucks operating in the state must carry a red reflector on the left rear side of the truck, and a green reflector on the left front side of the truck will be rigidly enforced in the future by the highway patrolmen.

Mrs. P. A. Nelson of Concord fell Tuesday morning, Dec. 24, and broke her hip just as she was getting up from her bed, her fall being caused by a fainting spell. She was taken in an ambulance to a Sioux City hospital.

EXPLODING AN EXTRAVAGANT CLAIM

Washington, D. C. The claim made in behalf of the American state department that it had helped substantially to avert hostilities in Manchuria by intervening under the Kellogg treaty is exploded by the New York World in an editorial reciting the history of the trouble there between Russia and China.

As the World points out, the necessary premise to a settlement of the status quo ante (the state of affairs prior to the dispute) is the first attempt of the State Department to invoke the Kellogg treaty was in July when both countries had moved troops to the border. The Stimson note, according to the World, merely established the academic point that both China and Russia remembered having signed the treaty. On Nov. 13, four later, the Russians made a raid into Manchuria in earnest. On Nov. 21 the Mukden government asked for Russia's terms and on Nov. 26 accepted them.

On Dec. 2, The World continues, "six days after the threat of war was averted by Mukden's complete capitulation, the American State Department once more intervened to remind Russia and China, just after they had agreed on peace, that under the Kellogg treaty they had promised not to go to war. Certainly it is obvious in the light of these circumstances that the Kellogg treaty did not avert a conflict in Manchuria. To claim that it did is to make an extravagant claim. For it was not the Kellogg treaty that established the status quo ante. That was the work of a Russian army.

"The Kellogg treaty has been put to a test. . . . But instead of demonstrating that the Kellogg treaty can avert a threatened war, the disclosure that the treaty is deficient in two chief respects and of little use in such a controversy as the last six months have witnessed in Manchuria."

Intervention in the Chinese-Russian dispute was the first essay in international diplomacy of the Hoover administration.

A recent decision of the supreme court of the United States is of more than passing interest to not only insurance companies but to the motorist in general.

The federal supreme court upheld the Connecticut statute which makes it impossible for a person riding in an automobile as a guest to sue his host if he is hurt. This decision opens the door to similar legislation in every state in the union.

The case involved is one in which a wife was hurt in an accident while riding with her husband. The lower court decided against her, because of the statute, and the supreme court affirmed the decision.

"We need not elaborate the rule,"

Court's opinion, "that the constitution does not forbid the creation of new rights and the abolition of old ones recognized by the common law to attain a permissible legislative objective."

"Granted that the liability to be impressed on those who operate any kind of vehicle for the benefit of a mere guest or license is an appropriate subject for legislative restriction there is no constitutional regulation, in other respects permissible, must reach every class to which it might be applied—that the legislature must be rigidly held to the choice of regulating all or more."

"In this day of almost universal highway transportation by motor car we cannot say that the abuses originating in the multiplicity of suits growing out of the gratuitous carriage of persons in automobiles do not present so conspicuous an example of what the legislature may regard as an evil, as not to justify legislation aimed at it, eventhough some abuse may not be hit. It is enough that the present statute strikes at the evil where it is felt and reaches the class of cars where it most frequently occurs."

NEBRASKA HAS HER OWN WOODEN SHOE FACTORY

One need not go clear to Holland to find a wooden shoe factory, for Nebraska has one of her own. It is located in Columbus and was established in 1885. It is the farthest west of any factory of the kind and makes a shoe which, though not like the wooden shoe of Holland, is nevertheless a "wooden shoe," for it has a wooden sole. Most of the wooden soles are manufactured for industrial workers and are worn for protection against heat, electricity, acids, and other similar hazards. They are waterproof and hence are useful in creameries, cheese factories, and the like where dampness is a danger to the health of the workers. Oil refineries, gas plants, foundries, packing houses, canneries, glass factories, iron works, acid and dye plants, paper and cotton mills, tube, tin, and steel mills are other places they are used.

200 DECREPIT CARS IN A NEW YEAR BONFIRE

Lincoln, Nebr., Jan. 2—Almost 200 "has-been" automobiles were burned in a huge New Year's night bonfire here last night in an effort to rid the city of many decrepit automobiles. Soaked with 900 gallons of gasoline and oil, to which old boxes and 2,000 Christmas trees had been added, the automobiles made a huge blaze that gave off such terrific heat that spectators were forced back. More than 5,000 motorists drove their cars to the burning grounds to watch the conflagration. Many had arrived there at 3:00 p. m. yesterday to gain the advantage of watching the blaze from advantageous points, although city firemen did not start the blaze until 7:00 p. m.—Columbus Daily Telegram.

HOLLOW TILE, FINE BASE FOR THE HOG HOUSE FLOOR

Hollow tile laid flatwise and covered with a coating of cement about one half inch thick makes a good floor for the farm hog house. The hollow spaces in the tile prevent the moisture from passing from the earth to the surface of the floor, and give the floor the added advantage of being warmer in the winter time than the floor that is laid directly on the ground. Also the smoother concrete surface can be kept sanitary much more easily than can a dirt floor.

More than 100 parcels for Christmas distribution arrived at the state penitentiary. Neckties and shirts predominated, and things to eat were numerous. The Christmas dinner consisted of baked chicken, mashed potatoes, baked chicken, mashed potatoes, pickled beets, celery, picallilli, catsup, grape butter, tomato preserves, pumpkin pie, bread, butter, coffee, oranges, candy and cigars. The inmates staged the annual Christmas entertainment for themselves in the morning, and for the public in the evening. However the chief of police at Lincoln is a hard boiled cuss, for he announced before Christmas that no Christmas dinner would be served in the city jail, and that beans would be served as usual. His statement was designed to head off any ambitions that might be harbored to get a short sentence, and a good dinner along with it. He had 25 guests, six of whom were women. Beans and bacon were served at noon, and ham sandwiches in the evening.

BROWN CHURCH IN VALE BREAKS WEDDING RECORD. Nashua, Ia.—The little brown church in the vale, "famed in song and midwest history, set a new record for itself in 1929. Matrimonial vows were taken in the little church by 640 couples during the last year, and all time record. Forty thousand visitors registered at the church, the custodian said. Winside—The big five-ton Hawkeye truck belonging to Wylie & Von Seggern upset and caught fire Christmas Day on the road between the Willers farm south of Winside and Pilger, resulting in the burning of the cab but no other damage. The truck was loaded with fat cattle belonging to Mr. Willers who was having them trucked to Pilger. Ice on the road caused the truck to skid into the ditch and upset. The driver, Mr. Wylie, and Von Seggern's little son who was with him escaped without injury and the cattle were thrown out unhurt. Mr. Wylie with the aid of others, fought the fire with snow from a nearby snowdrift, finally succeeding in getting the fire out, but not until the most of the cab had been burned away. Variety Adds Spice

DAVID GARRICK said: "Our first great passion is to eat," but he knew—and you know—that nothing is so deadly as the same old meals served in the same unchanging way. Mr. and Mrs. Jack Spratt's domestic arrangements were ideal—but are yours?

Just a Little Change

Do you change your menus with the seasons, adding heavier desserts in the fall as the children become more active and as the air becomes nipper? And do you take advantage of the colder weather to cook foods—which are impossible in the summer because they overheat the kitchen? If so, there is no doubt that your family and your friends will not only have a passion to eat, but also a passion to eat at your home, of your food.

Just in case, however, your inventiveness has suffered a temporary relapse, here is a suggestion for a dish which will make anyone ask for an encore:

Creamed Corned Beef in Sweet Potato Cases: Boil four large sweet potatoes in their skins, then remove the skins, cut the potatoes in halves lengthwise and scoop out the centers to form cases. Brush with melted butter, and brown in a hot oven or under a broiler flame. Meanwhile, make a white sauce of four tablespoons of butter, four tablespoons of flour, two and one-half cups of milk, salt and pepper, and one-fourth cup of cream. Add the contents of a twelve-ounce can of corned beef cut into small pieces; heat again, and then pour into and over the hot sweet potato cases.*

Two Million Farmers Demand Tariff Revision

Washington, January 9.—When congress reconvened January 6, the Democrats and progressive republicans of the senate found their position strengthened by the recent action of 2,000,000 farmers—one-third of the farmers of the country—who have signed an address to the Senate demanding tariff equality for agriculture. "We are exceedingly disappointed with the results and believe there is grave danger that party pledges to agriculture will not be kept and that the present disastrous condition will continue," the address states.

This statement is the reaction of the agriculturists to the efforts of Republican papers in the Northwest to rush the tariff bill through the Senate with the increases on committee amendments in the agricultural schedules, leaving the industrial rates as they are in the Fordney bill.

The Western agriculturists are opposed to rushing the tariff bill through the Senate; they make it clear that they want the rates carefully considered whatever time it takes, and they want the pledge of agricultural parity on the tariff kept.

The Democratic and Republican Senators have been working to establish agricultural parity in the tariff bill, but under the procedure so far they have been able to deal only with the Senate Finance Committee amendments. The real fight on rates will come when the bill gets out of Committee of the Whole and is taken up in the Senate.

What A Doctor Says About Long Skirts

Dr. Louis E. Bisch of New York, the noted neurologist, one of the most famous medical savants in the world, believes long skirts are all wrong. He says:

"They're all wrong!" "The new fashions are woman's worst enemy; tight fitting blouses and small waists bring on inevitable tendency toward the old fashioned corset which has several harmful effects. The corset restricts the waist and interferes with breathing. It cramps the abdomen and vital organs. It distorts the figure out of all natural proportions.

"From a medical viewpoint, all doctors approve of short skirts, with the weight of the clothing largely suspended from the shoulders, and we all feel, the generally exhilarating effect to the mind as well as the body.

There is no question that the skirt length affects the female mind.

Every woman will tell you that when she puts on a short skirt she not only looks younger, but—more important—feels younger.

When she lengthens her skirts, she immediately becomes more quiet, subdued and repressed. A woman acts up to her clothes. If she dresses demurely, she'll act that way. If she's wearing slinkily black, she'll try vamping him that night.

"Short skirts are best. By that, I mean skirts slightly below the knees. Knees are not pretty, and in spite of propaganda to the contrary they do invite licentious thinking."

This is the story—at least from the angle of one of our most brilliant medical men.

Get Good Meat

IN SOME places summer is a difficult season in which to get good meat. So, if you find you can't obtain the quality of fresh meat you want, try some of the many canned meats which are always good.

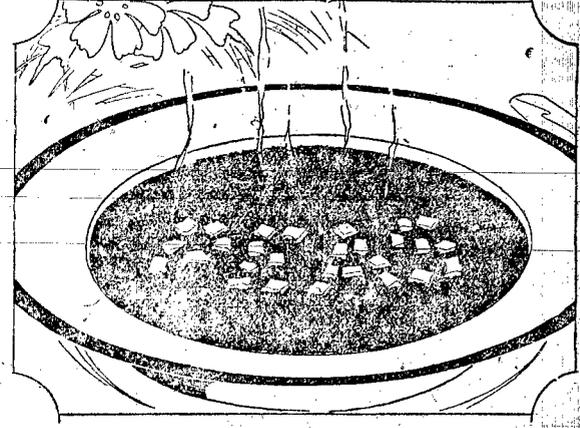

Two of the most justly popular are canned corned beef and canned ham. To make a delicious hash, mix canned corned beef, diced raw potatoes and butter. Put in a buttered baking dish and bake in a slow oven until the potatoes are thoroughly done—about 45 minutes probably. Some like to add a little minced onion or parsley to the hash before baking.

A jellied meat loaf may be made by running canned ham or corned beef through a coarse meat grinder until you have one and one-half cups. Dissolve half a package of lemon flavored gelatin in half a cup of boiling water and add one-half cup of canned bouillon, one-half tablespoon Worcestershire sauce and a dash of Tabasco. Chill until slightly thickened; then turn in the meat, one-half tablespoon grated onion, two tablespoons minced green pepper, and one-half tablespoon prepared mustard. Turn into a loaf pan and chill. Unmold, and serve sliced on lettuce. Garnish with sliced, hard-cooked eggs. This recipe will serve about four people.

Good Without Fail

Other canned meats are ready to serve as entrees. In this group come chicken à la king, Hungarian style goulash, stewed kidneys, liver with bacon or onions, curried chicken, chop suey, and many others. Wien loaf, Vienna sausages, boiled beef, tongue and similar meats can be served merely heated or may be used in combinations. As can the corned beef and ham. They will insure you anywhere a supply of delicious meat of the first quality—without fail!

Many Uses For Peas

PEAS are just peas to the inexperienced cook, but they're an inspiration to a housewife who likes to vary her menu and yet include plenty of health giving vitamins for her family. She can make soups and salads with them and also combine them with other vegetables in ways to make your mouth fairly water. She can make pea and tomato soup, either plain or a puree, cauliflower and pea salad, pea and apple salad, potato and pea salad, and pea, cheese and nut salad; and some of the vegetable combinations are asparagus and peas on toast, peas with fresh tomatoes, pea oysters, dumplings with peas and carrots, pea and walnut roast, potato marbles with peas, lettuce and peas, English peas, new peas au gratin in carrot-boats, parsley, peas and carrots, and potatoes creamed with peas.

There Are Others, Too
We know a lot of other ways to use them, too, such as curried pea omelet, pea waffles with bacon, round steak with peas and creamed chicken and peas, but we'll use the rest of our space telling you how to make:
Pea and Tomato Soup: Empty the contents of a No. 2 can of peas and a No. 2 can of tomatoes into a sauce pan and simmer ten minutes; then press through a sieve. Melt four tablespoons butter, add four tablespoons flour, and then add gradually one quart of soup stock, stirring till thickened. Add the strained vegetable pulp and season to taste. Serve with croutons. This serves six or eight.

PRODUCTION OF AVERAGE SHEEP

Wise Culling and Attention Bring Returns to Owner.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

How culling and wise attention to breeding of farm animals may be expected to produce returns for farmers is reflected in statistics gathered by the bureau of animal industry and published in the current Yearbook of the United States Department of Agriculture.

"In 1840," says E. W. Sheets, in charge of animal husbandry investigations, "the average weight of fleece sheared from American sheep was less than two pounds. By 1900 it had increased to nearly five and one-half pounds. Today it is approaching eight pounds. In other words, an average sheep today grows wool enough each year to make approximately one suit of clothes. In 1840 it took the wool of four sheep to make a suit of equal weight and quality."

Better breeding and more rigid culling of breeding flocks promise to raise this average still further. Wool production is similar to such qualities as heavy milk production in dairy cattle and heavy egg production in hens. The offspring of heavy producers are likely to be heavy producers and to transmit to their offspring the capacity for heavy production.

In the case of sheep, Mr. Sheets says: "There is still room for improvement. By 'weeding out' the poor producers and breeding from the heavily fleeced sheep, flock owners can raise the average."

Self-Feeders Produce Most Profitable Pork

The importance of self-feeders in producing profitable pork is rapidly increasing. The successful use of a self-feeder in making pork is well proven and every hog farm is now using them for feeding the growing shoats. This popularity of the self-feeder for producing pork has, as many other good things, its drawbacks. One of these is the ease with which rain and snow seeps in and dampens or wets the feed. Were it not for the delicate digestive system of the pig, this condition would pass unnoticed. However, the stomach of the growing pig is like that of a small child and eating wet or damp feed which has started to mold has about the same effect on it as green apples have on the child. The care and guidance of the mother removes the apples from the youngster, and it soon recovers. As in the case of the child, the thinking must be done by the man caring for the animals.

Minerals Necessary for Growing Animals

Producing animals, pregnant animals, and growing animals need large amounts of minerals, says J. C. Nisbet of the Kansas extension service. A cow puts 14 pounds of mineral in every ton of milk, 50 pounds in a normal production year. A large amount of minerals is needed for repair within the body. A growing calf needs 40 to 60 grams of mineral matter per day. Alfalfa hay contains the two minerals needed the most in animal nutrition—calcium and phosphorus. These minerals are available and in such abundance in alfalfa hay that there can be no deficiency when fed at the rate of one pound of hay for every 100 pounds live weight in a properly balanced ration. One pound of alfalfa hay contains more calcium than 100 pounds of corn. One ton of alfalfa contains 163 pounds of minerals.

Produce Ton Litters Without Feeding Corn

You can produce ton litters without corn. County Agent Svoboda, of Eddy county, North Dakota, tells of ten pigs, owned by Smith brothers and weighing 2,336 pounds at the age of six months. They were sired by a pure-bred Duroc boar and farrowed by a Chester White sow. After weaning, the pigs were on alfalfa pasture and were self-fed on ground barley at all times.

During the first four months these pigs were given a slop made of red dog and middlings, mixed with skim milk and water. The last two months the slop was made of ground hull-less oats. The owners believe the weight would have been increased had corn been available, but the experience shows that you can produce good pigs without corn.

Good Rams Needed

Those who have ewe flocks already established should by all means get good rams with which to mate them. Only by so doing can a product of good quality be secured. In some sheep-raising countries the practice is to buy rams for the production of commercial lambs at a cost equal to from five to ten times the value of the average ewe. When good rams are secured this is not an exorbitant price and might serve as a fair guide as to how much to pay.

It Didn't Work

A cable customer who wanted to send his message at a saving in cost resorted to the following words: "Asktosee th atletterit explains." This, in his home-made code. What he intended to convey to the recipient was: "Ask to see that letter, if it explains." The camouflaged message, had it not been detected in time by our eagle-eyed counter-clerk, would have gone through at a cost of 60 cents; in plain, unadulterated language the seven words would have amounted to $1.40. The saving by an "evader" of 80 cents was not effected.—International System News.

"Avocation" and "Calling"

A Dictionary of Modern English Usage says: "Avocation, originally a calling away, an interruption, a distraction, was for some time commonly used as a synonym for vocation, or calling, with which it is now less common and the word is generally used in the plural, a person's avocations being the things he devotes time to, his pursuits or engagements in general, the affairs he has to see to; his vocation as such is neither excluded nor necessarily included in his avocations."

Age of Superstition

It is told that during the Sixteenth century a Swiss naturalist and physician of the name of Thurneysser kept some scorpions in a bottle of olive oil and that these insects were feared by the people as diabolical beasts. This physician presented an elk to his native city, Basel, Switzerland, but the people of the city regarded the elk as a devil in disguise, and a pious old woman finally rid the town of the dreaded beast by feeding it with an apple stuck full of broken needles.

For Walkers Only

The first pedometer was invented by John Fischer, a London mechanic. His patent, sealed on June 17, 1783, was for "a geometrical and pedometrical watch which not only answers the purpose of a common watch, but is also distinguished by showing on the dial every step the walker makes and by measuring the distance." A combined pedometer and watch of this type made a few years later, but not by Fischer, is in the South Kensington museum, London.

Clare A. Briggs, 54, newspaper cartoonist who has endeared himself to the hearts of many thousands of newspaper readers, died late Friday afternoon at the Neurological institute at New York after a long illness. He was the creator of "When a Fellow Needs a Friend," "Ain't It a Grand and Glorious Feeling?" "How to Start the Day Wrong," "Somebody Is Always Taking the Joy Out of Life," "Mr. and Mrs." and several other cartoon series.

He was born in Reedsburg, Wis., August 5, 1875 and attended the University of Nebraska. He was married to Miss Ruth Owen of Lincoln July 18, 1900. Three children were born to this union. Mr. Briggs was employed at various times on newspapers in St. Louis, Chicago, and New York city. He was also the author and illustrator of several books. The Briggs home was Wykagyl Park, New Rochelle, N. Y.

How Much Water Should Baby Get? A Famous Authority's Rule

Baby specialists agree nowadays, that during the first six months, babies must have three ounces of fluid per pound of body weight daily. An eight-pound baby, for instance, needs twenty-four ounces of fluid. Later on the rule is two ounces of fluid per pound of body weight. The amount of fluid absorbed by a breast fed baby is best determined by weighing him before and after feeding for the whole day; and it is easily calculated for the bottle fed one. Then make up any deficiency with water.

Giving baby sufficient water often relieves his feverish, crying, upset and restless spells. If it doesn't give him a few drops of Fletcher's Castoria. For these and other ills of babies and children such as colic, cholera, diarrhea, gas on stomach and bowels, constipation, sour stomach, loss of sleep, underweight, etc., leading physicians say there's nothing so effective. It is purely vegetable—the recipe is on the wrapper and millions of mothers have depended on it in over thirty years of ever increasing use. It regulates baby's bowels, makes him sleep and eat right, enables him to get full nourishment from his food, so he increases in weight as he should. With each package you get a book on Motherhood worth its weight in gold.

Just a word of caution: Look for the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher on the package so you'll be sure to get the genuine. The forty-cent bottles contain thirty-five doses.

BLACK BEAR ROBS U. S. MAIL IN YELLOWSTONE

Yellowstone Park, Wyo.—Yellowstone park's "holdup bears" have developed a new line of desperado business. One of them recently robbed the U. S. mails. The season being closed and the regular delivery having ceased, Dick White, one of Park Naturalist-Dorr Yeager's colleagues, was obligingly carrying a bundle of mail with him for the members of the different road crews around the loop. He stopped at the West Thump road camp for lunch, leaving the mail in the car, and, after enjoying a good meal, returned to continue his journey. However, on his return to the car, he was very much surprised to find the package of mail not in the car, but between the paws of a black bear in a nearby tree.

Bruin was examining the packet intently, sniffing and turning it over in an inquisitive manner. Suddenly he began to tear it, and in spite of the shouts and threats of the man below, continued until he had extracted a box of candy. The tree was shaken, clubs hurled, and threats made, but the bear, utterly unmindful of it all, tore open the box and feasted happily on the contents.

Having thoroughly emptied the box he licked his paws and minutely inspected the remainder of the mail for more delicacies. Finding none more, he reluctantly dropped it into the arms of the waiting man below, and with a contented grunt, settled himself down on the limb until such time as his tormentor should retire.

Miss Harriet Sullivan of Laurel was painfully burned a week ago last Saturday while working about the home. She was cooking macaroni at the time and it boiled over on the stove. She took her dress to lift it from the stove and her dress caught afire. Grabbing a towel and wetting it, she wrapped it around her head, thus saving her hair, and proceeded to put out the fire on her dress. Her presence of mind saved her from serious injury although she was burned about her chest and arms. She was alone in the home at the time.
