Retail Men Of State to Fight Chains

Will Conduct Publicity Campaign To Fight Evil.

Local Merchants Subscribe

Definite progress in the chain store menace in northeast Nebraska is seen in the campaign which is being launched at this time by the Federation of Nebraska Retailers.

At a banquet meeting at Hotel Stratton last night, C. W. Watson, secretary of the organization addressed the gathering and announced that the Federation is soon to launch a campaign over the radio and through newspaper advertising, to acquaint the public with the dangers that lie in the growth of the chain store system.

While numerous anti-chain store campaigns have been conducted from various sources, and in many ways have done much good in bringing people of the nation to realize the seriousness of the situation, the Federation felt that the merchants could be best served if the problem was handled by the merchants themselves.

At the recent state convention of retail merchants at Lincoln, the chain store situation was looked upon as the paramount issue affecting the merchants. Mr. Watson said, and the convention voted that the Federation take action in promoting a campaign to fight the encroaching evil. The Federation decided that the best means possible would be through the radio and newspaper advertising. The services of KFAB at Lincoln are to be engaged and programs treating on the subject will be given at frequent and regular intervals.

Newspaper advertising and publicity is to be prepared at the Lincoln office and sent communities where such publicity is desired.

The meeting last night was held for the purpose of acquainting local merchants with the campaign and to raise money to help finance it. Chain store operatives, Mr. Watson said, have raised a fund of more than eight million dollars to fight anti-chain store sentiment and in the course of a few weeks will open up their barrage of publicity. In view of that fact, the $50,000 fund which the Federation is raising, is more than justified. About $400 was subscribed by local merchants at the meeting.

The meeting was presided over by J. J. Ahern, who introduced the speaker and announced the objective of the local merchants in the cause. Mr. Watson's speech will be touched more fully in our next issue.

Auto Accident Brings Damage Suit

Suit for damages in the amount of $10,000 has been filed with the local district court against R. B. Smith of this city by legal representatives of Mrs. Jennie Bergstrom of Williams, Iowa, who, the complaint alleges was severely injured when the car belonging to Mr. Smith collided with the car in which the plaintiff was riding.

The accident responsible for the controversy happened near Williams, Iowa, last August when Mr. and Mrs. Smith were making an automobile journey in that part of the state. The complaint alleges that Mrs. Bergstrom sustained bruises and other injuries requiring medical attention and that she has not fully recovered from these injuries and will require further attention, which, together with mental affliction due to the shock constitute the injuries for which the huge damages are asked.

It is expected that the case will come up for hearing in the coming term of district court which will convene Monday, April 21.

'Snice to Up In the Mornin'--But

"I'll never forget the April fool joke pulled off in Wayne thirty years ago today," reminisced an old timer last Tuesday when the subject of April fool jokes was brought up for discussion. "One man fooled the whole town."

"It happened back in 1900 in the days when steam was used as the erated flour mill. In those days when steam was used as the motive power, it was the custom to furnish the morning, noon and evening whistle for the working populace.

"Anton Miller the engineer, on this particular day blew the morning whistle at 6:00 a. m. instead of 7:00 a. m. and the town came to life a whole hour ahead of time, and the villainous engineer corted in glee as he saw clerks, carpenters, and other wage earners rushing down the street for fear of being late.

"More than one fellow, I'll bet, rushed to work minus his breakfast all on account of John's April fool joke."

Caucus Ticket Victorious In City Election

Fair Vote Cast--Opposition To Ticket Voiced Only In "Fighting First"

The caucus ticket remains intact as the result of Tuesday's election. With the exception of the first ward where Ed Ellis met the opposition of voters favoring L. B. McClure, there was no opposition with the exception of the few dissuatory "joke" votes that are the features of any election.

The candidacy of McClure, gathered considerable strength in spite of the fact that his name was not on the official ballot and any campaigning on his behalf was of a quiet and last minute nature. Ed Ellis was victorious by a majority of 14 votes.

The following is the vote cast:

For Mayor—
William Orr	154
Bunt Fleetwood	1
Treasurer—
O. L. Randall	157
Clerk—
W. S. Bressler	159
Councilman First Ward—
Ed Ellis	49
L. B. McClure	35
Councilman Second Ward—
J. G. W. Lewis	47
Councilman Third Ward—
Carl Wright	34
Fred Blair	1
School Board—

Basket Ball Exhibit Placed In Randolph

Prof. and Mrs. K. N. Parke drove to Randolph Thursday morning and placed a very unique basketball exhibit in the show window of one of the stores there. The exhibit comprises large individual photographs of the college basketball boys and a large group picture of the team. These photos are about ten inches high, are cut out and mounted on wood so that they stand alone, and are very attractive. They were made by Al Helleberg who is employed at the Craven's studio. This exhibit will be removed from Randolph the latter part of the week and will be placed on exhibit in some other towns. Randolph has three men on the first team this year and this exhibit is no doubt of special interest there. The exhibit will be placed on exhibition in all the surrounding towns and cities in this territory.

WAYNE HIGH DEBATERS WIN DISTRICT HONORS

Local Debaters Won Signal Honors At Hartington Tournament.

Will Compete At Lincoln

Wayne High school debaters did themselves proud at the debate tournament at Hartington last Monday afternoon and evening. By reason of their splendid showing they won the Northeast Nebraska debating championship and the right to compete in the state finals at Lincoln on April 25th.

The honors at Hartington are all the more impressive because in both of the debates in which they participated they were awarded the unanimous decision of the judges and they had to argue both sides of the same question to attain their honors.

Five teams took part in the tournament representing the schools of Newcastle, Wakefield, Bloomfield, Hartington and Wayne.

Wayne was paired against Bloomfield in the afternoon session taking the affirmative side of the question: "Resolved, that the Jury System Should be Abolished." Hartington was lined up against Wakefield in the afternoon session and won over them by a close margin, the judges rendering a two to one decision in favor of the Hartington team.

In the evening Wayne had to about face in their attitude of the same question and argue it from the negative side against Hartington.

According to the judges, who have been called upon to decide numerous debating contests the past year, the final debate was one of the best they have listened to this year. Hartington had won the district tournament for two successive years previous and two of this year's team members took part in those events, and were generally conceded to be at the peak of their career, but the local school team, under the able coaching of Prof. Bahl, proved to be more than a match for them.

The team have every reason to feel proud of their success which has added another coveted trophy to the school. They will debate on the same question at the Lincoln tournament and are confident that their efforts will be crowned with success. Every good wish of the community goes with them to that end.

The members of the local team are: Margaret Fanske, Helen Hanson, James Morris and Mary Jane Morgan.

George Miner Visits Here For A Few Days

George Miner of Wessington, South Dakota, former resident of this city, spent a few days here last week calling on old friends and acquaintances. Mr. Miner served as marshal for a number of years here several years ago and moved in 1918 to his farm near Wessington where he has done well and been quite successful. He is looking fine although just recovering from a touch of flu, and says he believed he'd soon be feeling better again after getting back to work on the farm. He has many friends and old acquaintances here, and his visit was a most pleasant surprise.

The meeting will be made up of two sessions, the first being in the afternoon when several talks will be given followed by a round table discussion led by Superintendent Flake. ## FARM EQUIPMENT RAPIDLY IMPROVING

Urban ownership of automobiles and trucks slightly exceeded rural ownership of these motor vehicles in Wayne county, according to a report just released by the Federal Division of Agricultural Statistics. The records show that in Wayne county 1,696 cars are owned by people living on farms and 1,975 by people living in cities and towns. There are 152 trucks registered by town residents of the county and 139 by farmers.

The ratio favoring of town dwellers is greatly increased through the state where the proportion is almost two to one. Yet, this is not necessarily disadvantageous to the farm dwellers for the report shows that practically every farmer in the state owns a car.

Nebraska farmers substantially added to the efficiency of their farm equipment last year according to the report. There was very little gain in farm automobiles and there are fewer stationary engines, but mechanical power equipment continues to increase on the farms as economic demands make it more and more necessary to substitute mechanical means for man and horse power.

The largest gain in farm machinery is in grain threshers with an increase of 30.5 per cent over 1928. There were 12,483 grain threshers as compared with 9,565 the previous year. Grain combines totaled 2,777 against 2,303 of the previous year.

There are 96 grain threshers in Wayne county and eight combines.

A marked increase in the number of farm tractors is noted. A total of 33,475 tractors is shown against 21,442 of the preceding year. There is nearly one tractor for every four farms. Wayne county has 439 tractors.

There were 17,044 farm trucks against 15,078 in 1928, a gain of 13 per cent. This is nearly one truck for every seven farms. The total number of trucks in towns and cities is 25,404 or 30 per cent more than in 1928.

The record shows a marked increase in power farming. There are about three times as many farm trucks and nearly four times as many farm tractors as there were ten years ago. On the other hand horses have decreased every year since 1919, or nearly 28 per cent in 11 years.

There was a gain of 1,000 farm trucks last year. The total for 1929 was 17,989 against 17,031 in 1928. Nearly every farm has its automobile

Injured Bus Driver Rapidly Recovering

Millford Wright, who was seriously injured in the bus accident about four miles south of here Sunday afternoon, March 23rd, is much improved. He left the hospital last Sunday and is being cared for at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Claude L. Wright. He is considered out of danger and well on the road to recovery but is being given very special care to prevent his taking cold as he is feared he is susceptible to pneumonia on account of the weakened condition of his lungs which were injured in the accident.

3 New Business Houses Change Looks of Town

Three Splendid Fire Proof Structures Take Place of Old Frame Buildings.

Work On All Being Pushed

A new garage building, a new business block and a new filling station are three noteworthy changes in the contour of Waynes business section that are in the process of making at the present time.

The Hunterer block, which will house the Mabbott Barber shop and the Gamble clothing store, is well along in the process of construction. The basement has been excavated, the concrete foundation piers have been laid and work on the masonry of the superstructure is soon to begin.

Work on the final unit of the new Baker garage began last week and when finished will make the structure the largest and most modern equipped garage in the city. The structure will be 62x75 feet of fireproof construction, with an addition to the rear 40x15 which will be devoted for storage purposes. The building is planned along the most modern lines with every detail connected with a up to date sales and repair garage, carefully looked after. The sales room will be 30x35 feet.

The old livery barn building which has done service in the past as the garage storage and work room is being moved to the rear of the lot to take care of the repair and storage business of the company until the new unit is completed.

Although the company will be handicapped for the time being, there will be no let up in the sales or service activities of the garage, which is headquarters for the Whippet and Willys-Knight and the Nash line of cars.

The old community house on North Main street has been raised and it is expected that building operations on the new filling station which is to occupy the site, will commence in the course of a few weeks.

BIBLE HISTORY IN PICTURES MUCH ENJOYED

Bible history in graphic form has held the interest of many people of Wayne who have attended the Eye-Of-Graph lectures given under the direction of H. V. Johnson at the Methodist church each evening since Sunday.

The lectures each night treat of certain periods of Bible history, and are visualized by stereopticon views thrown on the screen. The views are made up of maps, geneology diagrams and reproductions of religious art in colors. The lectures give a very comprehensive version of the highlights of sacred history to which are added a religious discussion that is especially appropriate for the Lenten season.

The meetings are being sponsored by all of the Protestant church denominations of the city. Tonight's lecture, treating on the beginnings of the Christian church, dealing with the Acts of the Apostles, concludes the series.

The meeting, which begins at 8:00 o'clock, is open to all. No admission charge is made.

There are 257,736 autos in the towns and cities or over twice as many as on the farms. There is a gain of over 15,000 in towns and cities last year.

Local Legion Post Sponsors Many Activities

Circus, Junior Baseball and Cooperation With Boy Scouts Voted

Active Season Promised

"Hully Gee" There's a circus coming to town. F. J. Taylor's Circus, Museum, Monagerie and Wild West, a three ringed show with elephants, clowns, acrobats and everything will show here two days, July 10 and 11.

It is coming here under the sponsorship of the local post of the American Legion, who accepted the responsibility of having their name connected with the enterprise only after they were reliably informed that it was a show of merit which provided all of the bedazzling and bewildering entertainment features and none of the objectionable features often attendant to shows of this kind.

The decision to sponsor the enterprise was made at the post meeting held Wednesday evening. At this meeting, also, a junior baseball team was decided upon by the post. This is an activity which Legion posts all over the country are much interested in. Locally there will be several similar teams from neighboring towns banded together in a league. The champion team in this group will be privileged to meet the champion team of some other group with the national championship as the final goal sought. Coaches Dale and Hickman of the Teacher's college were named by the post to look after this activity. A Mr. Shellington of the Wakefield Legion post addressed the gathering in behalf of the movement.

The Legion will also actively cooperate with the Boy Scout movement, appointing Fred Dale to represent the post officially when the post acts on any matters pertaining to the organization.

Full cooperation with the Red Cross was also assured with Paul Mines named to represent the Legion when conferring with them.

April 9th Visitors Day At Creamery

Do you know that Wayne, Nebraska, has one of the neatest and most modernly equipped creameries in the state?

It's a fact. Since taking over the Wayne Creamery, Edw. Seymour, has added many new improvements and much new equipment to the establishment in order to make it comply with every requirement of what a strictly first class creamery should be.

Mr. Seymour is a creamery man of many years experience and has had charge of some of the finest creameries of the dairy regions of Minnesota and he is conducting the local enterprise along the lines adopted by some of these institutions. He is proud of the local enterprise and has set aside Wednesday, April 9, as a day when he cordially invites the public to visit the creamery and at the same time receive a free sample of ice cream manufactured by the plant.

The public should, by all means, accept the invitation.

THRIVING THIRTIES MAKE NEW NEBRASKA EPOCH

Nebraska history, like the history of all other states and countries, runs in epochs. This is disclosed by a study of economic conditions affecting the state undertaken by the students of the University of Nebraska.

The eighties were a period of settlement. Homeseekers from Iowa and Illinois and states farther east flocked across the Missouri in those days to make a home land out of a plain.

Then came the nineties. Who that went through those courage-trying days will ever forget them. Hot winds scoured pastures, parched corn, famished live stock, discouraged people, blasted hopes, hunger and poverty filled that decade with disasters that still haunt the memories of those who endured them.

But all the while, notwithstanding the reverses and discouragements, the spirit of Nebraska was being tried in the fires of affliction that it might come forth great and bold for the era of progress and development to follow.

The period which the state has just entered has been designated the Thriving Thirties and men and women of vision and judgment are expecting in the present decade to see Nebraska take an even higher place among the states in agricultural, industrial and commercial development. Here are the basic elements of a great state—soil, climate, a progressive people and a great opportunity.

Abstractors and attorneys declare that March first, 1930, opened a period of land sales represented by the transfer of titles and the making of legal documents that shows a fresh interest in the ownership of Nebraska land. There is no boom, no sudden activity, but a steady and growing demand for good land as a basis for a faith in the prosperity age of the Thriving Thirties.

Mrs. John Bloom Is Taken By Death Angel

Had Many Relatives and Friends in Vicinities of Concord, Wakefield, and Laurel.

Mrs. John Bloom of Oakland passed away at the hospital in Oakland on March 18, at the age of 71 years, having been ill about six months. Funeral services were held from the Swedish Mission church at Pender Friday afternoon March 21, the Revs. A. Jones of Cresco, C. O. Nelson of Oakland, and O. W. Bengtson officiating. Interment was made in the Swedish Mission church cemetery.

Clara Sophia Bloom was born in Westergotland, Sweden, September 17, 1858, and came to America in 1881, settling at Oakland. On January 11, 1887, she was united in marriage to John Bloom at West Point, and she and her husband made their home on a farm five miles south of Pender where she lived until the time of her death. Fifteen children were born to this union, six of whom passed away in infancy. Besides the bereaved husband, nine children survive. They are: David Bloom, Concord; Adolph Bloom, Laurel; Elinora, or Mrs. Axel Carlsson, Omaha; Esther or Mrs. Harry Malmberg, Wakefield; Aaron Bloom, Poplar, Wisconsin; Lilly, or Mrs. Elmer Malmberg, Pender; Martha, or Mrs. Henry Johnson, Oakland; Anna-Bloom of Pender; and Samuel Bloom, also of Pender. Fifteen grandchildren, a brother, Claus Swanson, of Pender; and a brother, August, and a sister, Mathilda Carlsson, of Sweden, also, survive. The four sons and Axel Carlsson and Harry Malmberg acted as pallbearers at the funeral at which the beautiful array of flowers gave expression to the love and sympathy of relatives and many friends. All the children were present for the last rites.

Mrs. Bloom passed away in the faith of her Master and has gone to her heavenly home. She was a most faithful worker in the Swedish Mission church and was loved and esteemed by all who knew her.

FIRST SCHOOL IN STATE OPENED 109 YEARS AGO

The first school in Nebraska was built 109 years ago at Fort Atkinson, the first army post in Nebraska built in 1819 on the site where Louis and Clark first held council with the Indians who inhabited Nebraska. It was a plain but sturdy parent of the great common school system that now makes this state noteworthy for its small percentage of illiteracy. The school was established to give educational opportunity to the children of the officers and soldiers at the fort. Thirteen years later, the Indian mission school was opened at Bellevue, and 20 years after that, in Cass county, the first common school to be supported by public funds, was instituted. In 1885, two years later, the first territorial legislature made provision for the establishment of a system of common schools and for their support by taxation.

These early schools were not housed in school buildings. Many of them were in private homes. The first school house was built in Omaha on Jefferson square in 1863, and the first high school opened in Nebraska City in 1866. By 1887 the interest in education had so far advanced that the legislature passed a compulsory school law, and in 1891, provided for free text books.

From these humble beginnings has grown Nebraska's great system of common school education, comprising 7,616 school buildings, many of them models of utility, convenience and comfort, housing Nebraska's 325,204 boys and girls, besides a fine rank of professional teachers.

160 GOLDEN WEDDINGS

One hundred sixty couples in Nebraska celebrated fifty or more years of wedded life during the months of January and February, 1930, 95 couples celebrating in February and 75 couples celebrating in January. The mark for February is ten higher than that of any other month since the recording of anniversaries was started several years ago by Henry Allen Brainerd, historian of the Nebraska State Press Association.

NEBRASKA'S FRUIT

Never did a state look less like a place for flourishing fruit trees than Nebraska did 50 years ago. Yet since the shipping season opened last fall and up to January 1, 105 cars of apples, 17 cars of pears and 53 cars of grapes were shipped from the state, proving to the outside world that besides being a national leader in alfalfa, beef production, corn and wheat, Nebraska deserves fame as a state where ruddy apples, luscious pears, and delicious grapes grow. Richardson, Nemaha and Otoe counties are the apple raising counties.

HALF MILLION WILD GEESSE NEAR TEKAMAH

Geese, said to number upwards of half a million, according to game wardens who are protecting them, are feeding east of Tekamah near the Missouri river. The geese leave their unprotected shelter at dawn and fly westward into the hills, returning late in the afternoon to their same location day after day. They will, some morning, take their departure for parts farther north. These birds present a spectacle worth seeing. They maneuver in perfect formation, the whir made by the flapping of countless wings, their glistening bodies in the sunlight reflecting color like silver, and their honking as they circle and recircle before coming to earth for the night makes the view worth going miles to see.—Randolph Times-Enterprise.

TO DEDICATE STATE PARK

The 160 acre tract of land 7 miles north of Tilden, recently purchased by the state park commission will be dedicated next Sunday, April 6, with appropriate ceremony, Governor Weaver to be the chief speaker. Arrangements are in charge of Tilden people.

This tract of sandy land on which Rowell Lake is situated is to be fenced dog tight, stocked with game, and the lake stocked with fish. This will be done probably next year. However, the state expects to start improvements this year by setting out 30,000 trees and putting down three wells to supplement the water from the springs. Later, the state expects to make it a reserve for wild life.

The state was able to purchase the land for $8.00 per acre, the land being mortgaged and the papers held by a failed bank at Tilden. It will take a number of years to develop this park, but in time it will be a beautiful place located so that people will be able to enjoy it.

SELS 470 DOZEN EGGS

Belden—Wm. Griggs, living south of here, is believed to be the champion of northeastern Nebraska in selling the most eggs at one time. On a recent Wednesday, he brought in 420 dozen or 14 cases of eggs, selling them to C. E. Montgomery who paid him 21 cents per dozen or a total of $88.20 for the lot. These eggs were all fresh, having been gathered within the last few days previous. Mr. Griggs has about 1,000 Leghorn pullets, and it is no small task to keep the eggs gathered. If any other buyer in these parts can beat this record let him make himself known.

Winside—County Commissioner David Koch, received a new road maintainer outfit Friday to be used exclusively in the district. The equipment includes a caterpillar 20 and a one-man maintainer. The outfit is new, and will be used especially to maintain the Winside-Carroll road.

PATRONIZE HOME INDUSTRY

The Democrat believes that when local industry produces a product of merit it should be given preference over an out-of-town competitor...

If the local establishments making these products produced an article of inferior quality, we would have little to say, for the customer under any circumstances is entitled to the best quality merchandise for the price he has to pay...

Our home owned industries should be given equal consideration with our home owned stores, but it is a policy which isn't adhered to as closely in this community as it should be.

GOOD CITIZENSHIP AND TAXES

Extravagance on the part of public officials, public waste, unnecessary and ill advised expenditures and dozens of other causes may be responsible for the high rate of taxation prevalent throughout this land of ours...

The matter of assessing property is largely conducted along the honor system. The assessor has to take the word of the assessed for granted when he propounds the customary questions on his annual visit...

Last year a taxpayer in a certain section of Chicago took the trouble to compare his real estate tax with that of a ward healer who occupied property next door to him identical in every way...

But is there any more lack of good citizenship on the part of the Chicago politician than there is on the part of the respectable Nebraska citizen who intentionally deceives the assessor?

Not a bit of it! Every taxable item intentionally left out adds to the amount of taxes someone else has to pay.

It may be clever to "slip something over" on the assessor, but the man who does is imposing on the public.

If every man paid his just taxes, taxes would be lower.

While the rank and file of the inmates of the Jefferson City penitentiary who mutilated the other day are unworthy of sympathy of the public, one can easily understand their rebellion at being rationed out a perpetual diet of stewed food...

NEW COMPETITION SUPPLANTING OLD BUSINESS METHODS

Interesting Article on Scientific Research From The Goldenrod.

THE NEW COMPETITION

On Saturday afternoon of March 15 a group of some 50 or 60 instructors and students of chemistry and industrial chemists assembled in Sioux City to hear one of the most interesting and instructive talks which it has been the writer's pleasure to hear. The occasion was a meeting of The Sioux Valley Chemists club held at Morningside college; the speaker was Dr. Harrison E. Howe of Washington D. C., editor of Industrial and Engineering Chemistry. Dr. Howe addressed the club on the subject: The New Competition. So new and so different was his address that those who attended from Wayne; Professor and Mrs. I. H. Britell and Dorothea, Dwayne Kneeland and Ray Dover felt that his message should be passed on to the student body at large.

The old competition said Dr. Howe was a struggle of salesman against salesman, manufacturer against manufacturer, producer against producer. It was a sort of a battle of diplomacy in merchandising.

The new is different. The determining factors lie outside the field of salesmanship. Years ago people had but one choice in refrigeration—ice. That was what is known as natural ice. The competition came between the producers, each striving to handle his goods at a lower cost. Now we have a choice of natural ice, artificial ice, Frigidaires and Dry ice. The competition comes, not in producing the same article at a lower cost, but between the various commodities, which serve the same purpose.

Another vivid picture of the "New Competition" is found in transportation. There was once a time when the only means of conveyance was a horse and buggy or "hack". Now we have a choice between going in a taxi, street car, bus, private car, railroad or aeroplane. That is competition in modes of travel.

What is responsible for this remarkable change of the last two decades? The answer is at once quite evident. Science and the new research laboratories are at the bottom of the new competition. We have registered in the United States today 999 research laboratories exclusive of those operated by the government and educational institutions. The results of research carried on in these laboratories has so undermined the old competition that an official of a large banking syndicate has said he does not care so much about the assets of a concern as its attitude toward chemical research. A large number of examples of the type of work done by the chemist were cited by Dr. Howe.

At the close of the war England owned the plantations which supplied the rubber for the world. They concluded that in order to help the financial status of their country they would place a heavy duty on all raw rubber for the export trade. This proved highly successful at first but the U. S. Research Laboratories found a method by which they could reclaim the old rubber. This broke the monopoly and as result England failed in her purpose. The reclaimed rubber may be substituted up to a certain extent for crude rubber. Thus by chemical methods our nation was able to compete with the English monopoly of raw rubber. Although raw rubber may now be obtained as cheaply as before the war reclaimed rubber still replaces it for many uses.

As a direct result of research Laboratories new methods of handling latex (milky juice of the rubber plants) has been introduced. For many years it was necessary to dry latex into a gum before shipping to prevent its souring. Now it is cured so as to be shipped as it is taken from the tree. In this form new uses have been found for latex. It is used for treating cloth for filtering and it is also used in making a substitute for leather. Although latex is a colloid a method of electrical deposition has been found by which we are able to coat metal and so protect it from rusting. Wire screens so coated are used in fisheries, to protect the fish from coming in contact with the metal.

A new type of rubber is being produced in this country from a plant which grows in California. This rubber may be produced in large enough quantities and cheaply enough to merit commercial production. The new product is said to be tear-proof. The Waldorf-Astoria Hotel in New York, an old hotel, representing the finest of its day was found to be in need of new plumbing. The old pipes had corroded until they were fairly eaten through. To replumb the old hotel was estimated to cost over a million dollars. The owners sold the

FRUITS FOR FROSTY DAYS

JUST in between the mid-winter desire for rich pastries, and the summer urge for fruit desserts, there come some frosty days when we don't know just what we do want for dessert. Try combining fruit and pastry, and make some of the newer pies and tarts and charlottes that are good both for your health and your pocket-book.

Did you ever go into the French bakery, just around the corner, to buy a little of this and a little of that, and find that your few pastries had cost more than your porterhouse steak? And the next day when you went into the kitchen and made your own pastries, did you discover that there was plenty for two pies instead of one and that the extra crust made a whole dozen of tiny little tarts to tuck away for luncheon another day? That's economy.

Economical and Good

If fresh fruits soar in price a bit beyond your budget, you will find canned fruits quite as delicious, with two real advantages—first, that the fruits are always healthful because they have been gathered at the correct degree of maturity, and second, that it's always strawberry time on the canned foods shelf.

Suppose we take advantage of the pep that's in the air these frosty days and see what we can do with a sack of flour, a few cans of fruit and the other "makings" of pastry goodies. We'll pass up grandmother's apple turn-overs and the old-fashioned pies, and try some brand new fruit pastries recently evolved by an expert dietitian. The first one that passed the test as 100 per cent O. K. is

Grape-fruit Pie: Scald one cup milk in a double boiler. Mix one cup sugar, one-eighth teaspoon salt and one-third cup flour; add to the scalded milk. Stir until thick and creamy. Cook ten minutes, covered. Add two slightly-beaten egg yolks and one tablespoon butter. Stir. Add one-half cup canned grapefruit syrup and one tablespoon lemon juice. Allow to thicken again, then cool and pour into previously baked crust. Cover with meringue made of the two egg whites, three tablespoons confectioner's sugar and one-half cup moist cocoanut. Brown in a slow oven, 300 degrees, for fifteen minutes.

Cranberry Ice Box Cake: Put the contents of a No. 2 can of cranberry sauce, one-half cup seedless raisins, one-third cup chopped nuts, ten chopped dates and one-third cup water in a sauce-pan, and heat slowly and carefully until the cranberry sauce is somewhat thick. Put alternate layers of sliced sponge cake and cranberry mixture in a buttered mold, finishing with cake. Pack down well and let stand overnight in the ice-box. Unmold and slice. Serve with cream or any desired sauce.

Attractive Desserts

Pear Pastries: Cut plain or sponge cake in squares and split in half-inch layers. Put two layers together with icing, jelly or jam. Cook contents of one can of pears in a thick syrup made of one-half cup pear syrup and one-third cup sugar, basing often as the pears cool, to glaze them. When cool, place a half pear on each piece of cake and pipe around edges and sides with whipped cream.

Apricot Raisin Charlotte: Remove crusts from eight slices of bread and spread liberally with butter. Crush the contents of a No. 2 can of apricots, retaining the syrup as well as the fruit. Add two tablespoons sugar, two tablespoons lemon juice and one slightly-beaten egg yolk. Bring to boiling, stirring constantly. Cook until slightly thickened. Then put alternate layers of bread and the hot fruit mixture in a deep dish. Press well and place something heavy on top. Let stand several hours in the ice-box. Unmold, cut in wedges, and serve with cream.

site and are now planning to build a modern hotel on a new site, in which they will use stainless steel pipes. This is malleable cobalt steel which does not rust. This so-called stainless steel is now used generally in silver-ware.

Another cobalt product known as carbaloy is being produced because of its hardness. This particular compound is worth $527 per ounce yet is found to be more economical than tool steel where an extremely hard cutting edge is needed. The needles on sewing machines are now chromium plated so as to prevent rust. Chromium plating is now put on steel dies used in printing our engraved currency. Prior to this the die could be used for about 40,000 impressions, with chromium plate it can be used for three times as many impressions. The steel dies can then be replated for further use. Ornamental trimmings for cars is frequently of chromium plate. It does not tarnish or peel off and remains bright during the life of the car.

The Chromium plate, unlike most of the new developments, is not a competitor with nickel but an addition to it. The metal to be chromium plated is first copper plated then nickled and then the chromium is added.

The duralumin, an alloy of aluminum, magnesium and copper, used in the construction of aircraft had the defect of crystallizing. The three components separated to a certain degree and the metal was weakened. This has been overcome by plating the duralumin with aluminum which by a new process can be produced 98.99% pure—much better than ivory soap.

A coal producer decided that there was too much mixing of the inexpensive and expensive coals and that there was no way for the consumer to identify them. He went to the laboratories and requested that they find some way to mark his coal. It must be something which would mark each piece, it must not interfere with the combustion, it must not cost over 25¢ a ton to treat the coal. In a short time the laboratories produced what is known as blue coal. Each piece, instead of black is a deep blue. All of the requirements were filled, he could now market his coal with full assurance that every purchaser would get his coal and only his. In addition the cost of marking is only a fraction of that specified. Today blue anthracite is perhaps the biggest selling coal in the east.

When arc lights were used for lighting streets, it was necessary to have a material which could stand sudden changes in temperature. The laboratories found that a form of glass, now known as Pyrex, would fill every requirement. A company organized and built a large factory costing millions of dollars. No sooner was this done than arc lights were abolished. That left them with a perfectly good glass factory and no demand for the product. By making a few variations they produced a glass which is used extensively in laboratories. It is used in homes as baking dishes and as an insulator in electrical work.

A product of the laboratories which is much used is Bakelite a plastic artificial resin, produced by combining carbolic acid and formaldehyde. It's unusual quality is that it can be pressed into forms or molds, where it hardens, taking the exact shape desired. It takes a high polish, looks like hard rubber, is non-conductor of electricity and is being used in the manufacture of thousands of articles in common use today. Especially fountain pens, cigarette and cigar holders and the like.

By a process of coagulating and pressing, milk is produced into a very hard substance, which is used in making buttons. They can be obtained in all colors and shapes desired. They can be coated with liquid fish scales to imitate pearls. They are not affected by light or heat and are not easily destroyed.

Cellophane is a new transparent material which is much used in wrapping candy, nuts, fruit, fish, meat and other products which must be seen but not handled. This material is made from cotton fiber, from wood, from the refuse of the cane sugar industry, the cane from which which the sugar has been extracted, from corn stalks or from grass.

A very special type of cellulose wrapping is now used for sausage casings. It has been said that the chemist has taken the cotton stockings from the girls and placed them on the "hot dog."

In the manufacture of automobiles the problem of delay in waiting for the paint to dry was very perplexing. A manufacturer of bodies for automobiles interviewed the president of a great paint corporation with the request that he produce a paint that would dry very quickly. The paint up the question of paint. He showed him several samples of paint and asked if he were to have his car painted what color he would choose. The paint man replied that he did not intend to have it done but that he had a preference and showed him which one it was. They went to lunch and when they returned the paint man's car stood at the curb all refinished in the color he desired.

Another product of cellulose which was discussed was artificial silk. This silk is made from the same materials as cellophane. It can now be produced of the same fine quality as real silk and almost as strong but the difference can still be detected with a microscope.

In closing Dr. Howe discussed the preparation of synthetic alcohol. There was a time when all wood alcohol was produced by the destructive distillation of wood. Its producer said it could never be produced in any other way but it was. Today synthetic wood alcohol, known as methanol, has replaced the old wood alcohol for every use except denaturing grain alcohol. The methanol is so very similar to grain alcohol in both color and odor that it would be dangerous to use as a denaturing agent.

Grain alcohol has also been produced by synthetic means from petroleum products. Considering the recent progress of science it seems that the time is not far off when man will not have to depend upon nature for his compounds but will produce them for himself from the raw materials which nature provides.

AUGUST RIECK DIES

Winside—August Rieck, who farmed in this community some years ago, passed away at the state hospital at Norfolk, Wednesday, March 19, at the age of 64 years, death being due to strangulated rupture. Mr. Rieck was born in Germany, and came to America in 1882, arriving at Omaha in June of that year. After working in and around Omaha for a number of years, he came to Wayne county in 1893, starting farming the following year on a farm three miles east and one mile south of Winside where he lived until 1910 when he entered the state hospital. He was married to Miss Theresa Moeding in 1895 at Wayne. Six children, three boys and three girls, were born to this union, all of whom together with the mother reside at Iroquois, S. D. Funeral services were held Saturday, March 22, at the Rieck home at Iroquois, the Rev. Israel, pastor of the Evangelical Lutheran church at Yale, S. D., in charge. Burial was made in the Iroquois cemetery.

WORLD'S BEST HAY GROWN IN NEBRASKA

There are millions of acres of hay in the world, but Nebraska hay from a forty-acre field of alfalfa in Nebraska's dry land region won the world's championship honors at the International Livestock Exposition in Chicago. The hay was grown by M. V. Gillette, a dryland farmer living near Lexington. He says the bale of alfalfa that won the honors for him is little different from thousands of others produced on his farm.

"I always have been very careful about the selection of my hay," he says. "I don't produce much—150 tons at the most. But I insist that any discolored or moldy hay be excluded, and so my hay brings about the average price."

Mr. Gillette cuts about 40 acres of hay each year which nets him about $35 an acre. He alternates alfalfa and corn, growing alfalfa chiefly as a fertility restorer to his corn land. It is grown entirely on "dry" or non-irrigated land.

Properly Fitted Collar for Horse

One Most Important Point Often Overlooked in Rush of Work.

No more inexcusable thing is to be seen on the farm than a horse working in the field with an improperly fitted collar. If the collar is too large, chafing and sores result and it is agony to the horse to be kept in harness. If, on the other hand, the collar is too short, the horse is choked down and cannot give satisfactory service.

A few points in selection of collars are well worth remembering.

Points on Selection.

If the horse is thick through the upper portion of the neck, he should be fitted with a "half" or full "sweeney" collar. The reason is that these collars are not so fully padded about the upper portion of the neck as they are farther down, where the neck of the horse is not so thick and needs heavier padding. A well-fitting collar results from a careful study of the animal's shoulder in these respects.

After the collar is selected, measure it on the neck. This is best done by pressing the collar back against the horse's shoulder and while so held, testing whether there is enough room between the neck and the sides of the collar to permit passage of the fingers up and down. If so, the collar is not too tight, and, yet is large enough, for anything roomier would probably cause chafing.

Next test for length by fitting the collar on the horse with hames and traces in place and arrange to have some pull exerted on the traces while the horse walks. If this is not possible, have a man on each side of the horse, pull down and press back on the collar in order to get it firmly placed against the shoulder. In this position there should be a space of one and one-half inches between the bottom of the collar and the neck of the horse. If the collar is too short, the horse will choke, as has been explained; if too long, the draught of the hames will be brought too low and improper balance will ensue.

Pulling Contests Help. "Horse-pulling contests," says the American Horse Breeders' association, in a recent pamphlet on "Horses and Males for Power and Profit," have been and are of immense value in demonstrating the proper fitting of collars.

Cost of Keeping Work Horse Varies Greatly

The cost per year for keeping a work horse and the cost per hour of work actually put in varies considerably in different sections depending on the types of farming carried on, and even more widely among individual farmers in the same locality depending on how carefully the farm operations are planned and carried on and on how closely the number of horses kept is held to the actual power needs. Costs also vary slightly from year to year, depending on prices of grain and hay.

Several of the agricultural colleges have been keeping farm cost records, some of them for several years on the same farms; and the average costs shown by these records in the corn belt run very closely within the limits of 13.5 to 16.5 cents per horse per hour of actual work. The general average one year with another is right around 15 cents per hour or $1.50 per day, and this is the figure most generally used.—The Farmer.

Flushing Ewes Before Breeding Fine Practice

Previous to the breeding season flush the ewe, or have her in rising condition. Clover aftermath or rape with grass are excellent.

A grain mixture of oats, three parts; bran, one part; may be fed, one-half to one pound per day as needed, provided ewes are not already fat.

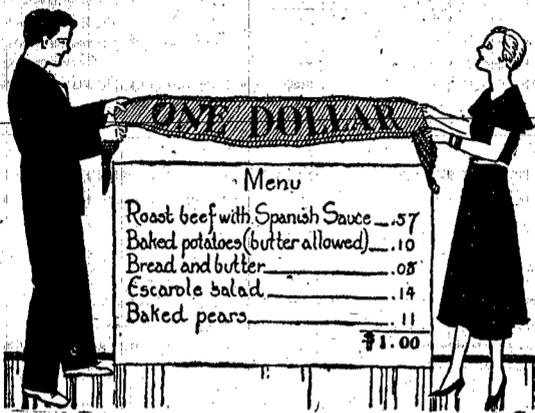

Usually light grain feeding at this time is decidedly economical practice. If the ewe is in low condition at breeding, single lambs, poor conditioned and weak, will be dropped, with low milk production by the ewe.

Result—a poor lamb under any subsequent treatment.

If too fat, the ewe is difficult to get with lamb and will usually give trouble at lambing time.

Steady Growth Needed for First-Class Beef

The progressive steps in growing a beef steer are first to develop by continuous growth a large frame well covered with muscle and never entirely denuded of fat; then to deposit on this frame the fat necessary to give the animal the desired finish. To achieve the first step requires a ration rich in bone and muscle-building feeds such as whole milk, skim milk, roots, ensilage, legume hays and grains, such as bran, oats and oil cake meal. To achieve the second step requires a somewhat similar ration at first, but this must be gradually changed to one containing a large proportion of the fat-producing carbonaceous foods, such as corn, barley, or peas.

A Dollar Dinner for Four

Who said money isn't elastic? Anyone who tries to take the joy out of life and tells you two people can't live as cheaply as one, isn't figuring on the fact that two people can stretch a dollar bill. It takes ingenuity, of course, and careful stocking up with canned foods and staples when the prices are low. Here are recipes for the dinner which the Newly-weds can serve to two friends and be sure it is correct both as to dietetics and taste.

Roast Beef with Spanish Sauce: Heat one 12-ounce can of roast beef in boiling water, open, slide out the meat and slice thin. Make a sauce by cooking one and one-half tablespoons of chopped onion and one and one-half tablespoons chopped green pepper in one and one-half tablespoons of butter for a few minutes. Add one 10-ounce can of tomatoes, one 8-ounce can of diced carrots, two teaspoons capers and one-half teaspoon prepared mustard. Stew till thick and pour over the beef.

Baked Pears: From a No. 2 can of pears, drain four halves and arrange them in a baking dish. Mix one-fourth cup brown sugar, one-half teaspoon cinnamon, one-eighth teaspoon cloves and three-eighths cup pear syrup (half the can), and pour over. Dot with one-half tablespoon of butter on top and bake in a moderate 375° oven for about 30 minutes.

Escarole Salad: Chill the escarole, arrange in salad bowl or individual salad plates and pour over a French dressing. The following recipe makes a delicious French dressing: put one-half teaspoon salt, one-fourth teaspoon pepper, two tablespoons vinegar, four tablespoons olive oil in glass jar; cover and shake thoroughly. Add a little onion juice if desired.*

How Much Water Should Baby Get? A Famous Authority's Rule

Baby specialists agree nowadays, that during the first six months, babies must have three ounces of fluid per pound of body weight daily. An eight-pound baby, for instance, needs twenty-four ounces of fluid. Later on the rule is two ounces of fluid per pound of body weight. The amount of fluid absorbed by a breast fed baby is best determined by weighing him before and after feeding for the whole day; and it is easily calculated for the bottle fed one. Then make up any deficiency with water.

Giving baby sufficient water often saves his feverish, crying, upset and rest less spells. If it doesn't, give him a few drops of Fletcher's Castoria. For these and other ills of babies and children such as colic, cholera, diarrhea, gas on stomach and bowels, constipation, sour stomach, loss of sleep, underweight, etc., leading physicians say there's nothing so effective. It is purely vegetable. The recipe is on the wrapper—and millions of mothers have depended on it in over thirty years of ever increasing use. It regulates baby's bowels, makes him sleep and eat right, enables him to get full nourishment from his food, so he increases in weight as he should. With each package you get a book on Motherhood worth its weight in gold. Just a word of caution. Look for the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher on the package so you'll be sure to get the genuine. The forty cent bottles contain thirty-five doses.

Corn Concoctions

CITY-BRED folks classify corn as something on the luncheon or dinner menu. But out on the farms they know better. Farmers like corn at any meal in the day, and farm wives have concocted some very delicious breakfast dishes out of this dietetically valuable grain which is good fresh, straight from the can, or in combination with other foods.

A delightful old hotel in South Carolina, famous for its breakfast corn cakes with maple syrup, serves another breakfast corn dish that makes you wonder why you stayed up North so long.

Some Southern Corn Combinations

Here are the directions for emulating:

Breakfast Corn: Chop two large cold boiled potatoes fine, and sauté brown in two tablespoons fat. Add one cup left-over canned corn, and brown again. Season well with salt and pepper. Break in two whole eggs, and scramble lightly together. Serve with broiled bacon.

Charleston Corn Cakes: Beat two eggs well, add one-half cup sour milk, one-fourth teaspoon soda and one cup of canned corn. Sift together one cup flour, one-half teaspoon salt, two teaspoons baking powder and add. Then add one tablespoon melted butter. Fry in small cakes on a hot griddle. Serve with maple syrup.

Corn Fritters: Make an egg batter as for pancakes, and stir in canned or fresh corn. Fry in butter and serve very hot with broiled breakfast bacon or fried ham.*

The Popular Pea

PEAS are almost universally popular. Some of us high-brow the odoriferous onion, others snub the simple spinach, while still others feel inferior in the company of the aristocratic artichoke. But whether we aspire to artichokes or cotton to cabbages, everyone seems to like the personality of peas.

Peas and their Pals

Incidentally peas are very good mixers, and in case you have been serving them in a solo dish, try these new orchestrations:

Peas with Fresh Tomatoes: Cut three or four firm tomatoes in sections and sauté gently in three tablespoons butter until soft. Season well, add contents of a medium-size can of peas. Heat and serve.

Pea and Walnut Roast: Mix lightly together one and one-half cups pea pulp (fresh or canned), one cup soft bread crumbs, one-half cup cho. ped walnuts, one-fourth cup butter, one beaten egg, a little salt, pepper and onion juice. Put into a buttered baking dish or loaf pan, and bake in moderate oven, 350 degrees, for 30 to 45 minutes until set and brown. Serve with two-thirds cup hot canned tomato soup, undiluted.

Dumplings with Peas: Sift two cups flour, one teaspoon salt, four teaspoons baking powder, and cut in one tablespoon fat. Add three-fourths cup milk, drop by spoonfuls on a greased steamer and steam twelve to fifteen minutes. Remove to a hot platter and surround with alternate piles of peas, using a No. 2 can of peas, in highly seasoned white sauce, and buttered carrots.*

Happy Chick News

April 1st, and the indications are very promising for some good weather, but do not forget those April showers. Come in and give us your order for that brooder house before the roads get bad.

H. J. Podoll received his 9x12 Happy Chick Brooder and Simplex stove Monday.

I am sure glad April Fool's day comes but once a year. It causes lots extra steps all for a bunch of foolishness. One of our men started home at noon smoking one of those stogies. Somehow a spike got on the inside of said stogie. He claimed this spike got red hot. All I got to say is that he must have had a right good grade of soft coal wrapped up in brown paper.

John Hessman, west of Winside, had his 9x16 Happy Chick Brooder delivered Monday.

Mrs. Lillie Morse bought a 9x12 Brooder and had it delivered out to Epi Beckenhauer's place. One thing nice about these Happy Chick Brooder houses you can take them apart and take them with you when you move.

Mrs. John Reog telephoned in yesterday telling us to be sure and have one of those Simplex stoves for her. Our supply sure is getting a hole cut in it so be on the safe side and order yours.

Brooder houses are not the only thing that we build. We have the reputation of being able to make anything that is made of wood. Trellis work, cupboards, parts for machinery, tongues, eveners, etc., are right in our line. Made a flag standard the other day for the Girl Scouts.

Art Olegard bought a 9x16 Happy Chick Brooder.

Those two-pen farrowing houses have been going good. Sent out three or four during the past week.

It seems that one of the employees of Henry Ford dreamed that Henry died. He dreamed that he saw the black casket being borne by six of Henry's oldest and most faithful employees. As the casket came by Henry raised up, looked around and offered the following suggestions: "If you would put rollers under the casket you could lay off five men."

One of those sun parlors out in front of your brooder house is a nice thing. This letting your chicks out on the ground and still keeping them in a good warm place is the proper way to care for them.

Remember we have all kinds of chicken fence. Any size to suit your particular needs. From baby chick wire up to the five foot garden fence.

"Rastus ketches him in Widow Smith's chicken coop."

"M--M boy! Don't Rastus feel 'shamed!'"

"Nossuh--De Parson am de one fell 'shamed. He katat splain bow' he come to be there hisself."

This is Happy Chick Brooder House factory station D-E-T-E signing off till next week.
