College Comic Opera Played to Large House

Youthful Actors Do Fine Justice To Famous Operetta.

Settings Were Pleasing

"The Fortune Teller," a three act musical comedy, presented by students of Wayne Teachers College, under the direction of Miss Ardath Conn and W. C. Hunter, was given before a large audience at the college auditorium Tuesday evening.

Victor Herbert music, beautiful settings and costuming enhanced the efforts of the youthful artists and made the evening, especially delightful for those present. The cast, large in itself, was augmented by a ballet chorus and soldier groups, whose brilliant costuming, singing and maneuvering added much to the effectiveness of the play.

The play was of a light and airy nature with just enough of a plot to give it continuity and to give dramatic quality to some of the scenes.

Leading roles were carried by Martha Markatan, who represented two characters who bore such a marked resemblance to each other that hers was a case of mistaken identity throughout the play. Braden Carhart and John McEwen as the very mercenary dancing teacher and the impetuous Polish count made effective use of the droll characterizations these two parts called for.

Frederick Berry as a gypsy lover assumed well the swagger of an irresponsible nomad and assumed several solo numbers as well. Mildred Moses as Pompon made a very bewitching "vamp" and put a dramatic touch to her singing that had an especial appeal from the audience.

A dancing feature, by Miss Virginia Stoltenberg and Rudolph Lage was especially popular with the audience.

The musical accompaniment was furnished by the college orchestra under the direction of Prof. W. C. Hunter.

SHOP LIFTERS MAKE RAID ON STORES

Are Caught With Goods And Receive Stern Justice.

Fines of $100 each and costs amounting to $17 were assessed against three young women, who confessed before Judge J. M. Cherry in county court Thursday morning that they had stolen merchandise from Hoskins, Winside and Wayne stores while they were out on a shop-lifting expedition the day previous.

Two of the women were without funds sufficient to pay their fines and are serving sentence in the county jail, the other woman's fine was paid by her husband. A fourth woman, who was with the long fingered trio when they made their forays, is being sought by the police. She was arrested at her home in Norfolk but pleaded that she be allowed to make arrangements for the care of her year and a half old child before reporting at the station. The request was granted, but she failed to appear when the time for her hearing arrived. She has failed to put in an appearance since.

The women were arrested in Norfolk by Norfolk police on complaint of Dr. Brauer, of Hoskins, who on missing several articles in his drug store, immediately suspected the four women and took after them in his car, trailing them to Norfolk.

Further complaints of shoplifting activities coming from Wayne, and Winside placed the jurisdiction of the case in Wayne county and the arrested women were taken to Wayne for their hearing.

The contents of a suit case taken from the women revealed upon examination, property taken from the Hoskins Drug store, the stores of Otto Fleer at Winside, and of the Jeffries Style Shop, Larson & Larson, Minnie Kagy, J. C. Nuss and the Felter Pharmacy stores of Wayne. The articles varied from dresses, hosiery and underwear to vanity cases, purses, perfume and cigarette cases. Some

Fire Call Information Only For Firemen

Operators of the local telephone exchange have been instructed to ignore all queries of "Where's the Fire?" unless the inquirer accompanies the question with a pass word that is known only to central and to members of the fire department.

The policy has been adopted by the telephone company at the request of the fire department in order to avoid the confusion and congestion of calls, that arises every time the fire alarm is sounded.

That such a ruling is entirely reasonable is undisputed. Every time the fire alarm is sounded central is swamped with hundreds of calls from people whose motive for obtaining information is nothing more than to satisfy their curiosity. To answer all the calls would delay giving information to the firemen themselves and would also delay regular telephone business.

So don't accuse central of incivility if she doesn't answer your question. She is merely following instructions.

Louis Ulrich, Wayne Co. Pioneer Passes

Death Summons Follows An Extended Illness. Dies Fri., Apr. 4.

Louis Ulrich, a pioneer of Wayne County since 1886, passed away at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Otto Fleer, Friday, April 4th, having attained the age of 73 years, 9 months, and 8 days. Funeral services were held Monday afternoon, April 7th, from the Otto Fleer home at 1:30 o'clock and from the Evangelical Theophany church southwest of Wayne, at which he was a charter member, at 2:00 o'clock, the Rev. A. Jank officiating in the English language, and the Rev. W. Fischer officiating in the German language. Interment was made in the church cemetery.

The departed was born June 27th, 1856 at St. Charles county, Missouri. At the age of two years he went with his parents to Swiss, Missouri, coming to Nebraska in 1878, and locating on a farm near Nebraska City, where he worked for four years and returned to Missouri, where he was married Febr. 2, 1882 to Miss Charlotte Damme of Berger, Missouri. He then returned with his wife to Nebraska, remaining near Nebraska City until 1886, when they came to Wayne county and settled on a farm near Wayne. Four daughters, Mrs. Henry Lage and Mrs. Otto Fleer near Wayne, and Mrs. W. H. Brunz and Mrs. Henry Fleer of Winside, all of whom are living, were born to this union. Mrs. Ulrich preceded her husband in death 13 years ago, passing away in 1917, and Mr. Ulrich left the farm that same year, and made his home with his daughters until 1923. He then moved into Wayne, where he has since made his home.

The deceased leaves to mourn his departure his four daughters, four sons-in-law, ten grandchildren, four brothers, and three sisters, besides a host of friends, of whom the following came from a distance to attend—the funeral services: Henry Damme of Talmage; Ed Wittler and daughter, Miss Lydia of Cook; Mr. and Mrs. G. Ulrich and Erwin Ulrich, Ainsworth; Mr. and Mrs. Herman Damme and Mr. and Mrs. Boss and daughter of Silver Creek; Mrs. William Sellner, Henry Koehner, Mrs. Donald Sellner, and Miss Esther Sellner of Omaha; Mr. and Mrs. Henry Wittler and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Wittler and baby of Hartington.

HOSKIN CENSUS COMPLETED

Hoskins village was the first town in this area to report complete census returns. According to the report the population has shrunk somewhat in the last decade, the late enumeration reporting 251 whereas the 1920 census showed a population of 274. The late figures are of a preliminary report and are subject to correction.

Mr. and Mrs. Guy Root and daughters, Zoe and Doris of Randolph, and Mrs. Alice Gentleman of near Shoales were visitors in the J. M. Cherry home Monday.

CHARLES W. REYNOLDS IS SUDDENLY STRICKEN

Death Came To Popular County Official Following Short Illness.

Had Held Office 36 Years

Wayne county mourns the passing of one of its best known and most popular citizens—Charles Reynolds, 54, Wayne county clerk is dead, following an illness of but three days duration.

Mr. Reynolds was stricken at his home last Sunday afternoon following an attack of pneumonia which he contracted the previous Thursday. Although he had been in apparently good health immediately prior to that, he was not in robust condition to withstand the rigors of the ailment and it was apparent that the end was inevitable from the very outset.

Mr. Reynolds as a public servant, enjoyed a measure of public esteem and confidence seldom attained by the average man or woman seeking public office. For thirty years the voters of this county have been satisfied to retain him for positions of trust in the county and it has been long since that anyone has sought to oppose him for election to the office he has held.

As a young man, 24 years of age, he was elected to the office of clerk of court, which office he held for four years, switching his aspirations then to the office of county clerk which has occupied his time since then.

His long tenure of office gave him a familiarity with the affairs of the county that made him almost indispensable as an advisor and source of information on all matters pertaining to the county and its welfare. His wide acquaintance and sympathetic interest in the people he served also served to make his worth as a public servant all the more valuable. It is doubtful if there was another man in the county who enjoyed a wider circle of intimate acquaintances than did he—men whom he called by their first names and fraternized on a common basis.

Charles Ward Reynolds was born in Elkadar, Iowa, September 5, 1876, living there until he was about ten years of age when he moved with his parents to Wayne county, which has been his home since. He graduated from the local high school in 1896 and later from Wayne Normal (then Pile College) and also spent one year at the University of Nebraska where he studied law and journalism. He made his debut in politics in 1900.

In July 19, 1905, he was married at Minden, Iowa, to Miss Ida Linson, (continued on Editorial page)

Retailers to Wage Own Anti-Chain Fight

Independent merchants in bringing their cause before the public are not asking for charity from the buying public. They only ask for a square deal, asserted C. W. Watson, secretary of the Federation of Nebraska Retailers at a dinner at Hotel Stratton recently where he addressed local businessmen relative to a campaign against the chain store menace which the Association is soon to launch.

The chain store principle is directly opposed to the ideals of equal opportunity for all, upon which the very foundations of our government rest. Mr. Watson stated. Quoting an excerpt from President Hoover's acceptance speech: "As secretary of commerce I have been greatly impressed by the fact that the foundation of American business is the independent business man. We must maintain his opportunity and his individual service. He must be protected from unjust competition, from domination and from predatory ownership." It is these very principles which are at stake at the present time, in the advancement of the chain store, said Mr. Watson.

"Our Presidents from the late 60's to the present time," he said "have asserted that the conservation of the American ideals, of American principles rests upon a continuation of independence in the marts of trade.

Masked Men Rob Local Gas Station

Rifle Till, and Make Quick Getaway—Clues Are Meager.

Two masked men held up the Merchant & Strahan filling station at the corner of First and Pearl streets last Monday night, forcing Garfield Swanson, the attendant in charge into another room and rifling the till of its contents. They made their getaway but little by way of any clue as to their identity.

The holdup occurred about 9:30 when Swanson was alone in the station and the neighborhood was deserted. Swanson was sitting at the desk of the office when a car drove up. Taking it to be a customer, he got up and went to the door, where he was met by the two masked men who ordered him to throw up his hands, turn around and walk into the wash room, where he was ordered to remain. The men hastily scooped up the contents of the till, got into their car and were soon lost in the darkness.

Swanson immediately turned in the alarm, but at the same time the fire alarm was sounded and the resulting confusion of cars racing from all directions made it impossible for the authorities to check up on any of the cars passing at that time.

The station attendant got but a fleeting glance of the men and for that reason is unable to give a tangible description of them, other than that they were young men of average height and of no peculiarity of dress to distinguish them from others. They drove a Chevrolet coupe.

The loss consisted of the receipts of the station from four o'clock in the afternoon till then.

Mr. and Mrs. Don Fitch and their two younger children were callers at the home of Mrs. Fitch's uncle, Geo. Smith and family of Pender. They also visited Mrs. Fitch's father, G. H. Smith, who has been ill and is staying at the George Smith home at present. After calling at the Smith home, Mr. and Mrs. Fitch and children went to visit in the Theodore Kai home near Pender where they were entertained at supper.

Wayne to Be Mecca of Talented Students

Students From 27 Schools To Vie For Musical Supremacy.

Keen competition is promised in the district music contest at the Wayne Teachers College next Friday and Saturday in which high schools of the district will vie for musical supremacy.

A very imposing array of musical events has been mapped out by the program committee with activities beginning at one o'clock Friday afternoon.

Solo numbers will be held Friday afternoon and evening, the vocal being alternated with the instrumental. The small group numbers, both solo and instrumental, will be held Saturday forenoon. Saturday afternoon will be taken up with glee clubs, thirty in number, while the bands and orchestra will compete Saturday evening. Over six hundred pupils, from twenty-seven schools, will take part in the contest.

Ribbons will be given the winners of the first, second and third places in all events. These winners will be entitled to participate in the state contest which will be held in Hastings the first week in May.

Following is the program mapped out by the program committee:

and their "efficiency," methods it is possible for them to save you as they assert, "a lot of money."

Chains Do Not Save Customer Money "Buying Power," and "Low prices" have been the argument of the chain store in every town and city, said Mr. Watson, and so often that many people have been led to believe that it is the case while just a little thought in the matter will mark it as absurd. Local retailers through wholesale and jobbing houses have buying power as large or larger, with cost of distribution as low or lower. This has been demonstrated time and again.

Chains Interested Only In Profits!

The Chain store exists for the sole purpose of making profits, Mr. Watson went on to state. The chain store comes to your town to take advantage of the community building which has been done by you or your neighbor. It is interested only in the amount of money which it can siphon out of town with the least possible return of service. It remains in town just as long as you and your town will turn your flood of dollars its way. And when this flood ceases it packs up merchandise, sells or settles for its unexpired lease and moves to another town where the pastures seem greener.

"Considered from the standpoint of American ideals and community building, I believe it sound advice when I say—"Buy from your home-town merchant, not on any basis for charity, but as an act of good business for yourself. When trouble strikes you and you need a friend your home-own merchant is ever ready to offer aid; your chain store wants the cash. It is not that the manager of the local chain store unit is lacking in the milk of human kindness; but simply when all it said and done, he is generally nothing more than an automaton taking orders from headquarters, in some far distant city."

Two Serious Prairie Fires Past Week

Brush Fire At "Hermit's" Place Was Cause of Much Concern.

Prairie fires have added to the concern of the local fire department and on Saturday, while an unusually high wind was blowing, the department was called to help subdue two fires of a very serious nature.

The first call came to help fight the fire at the August Mueller place, nine miles south of town. Flames had got a good start in the dense growth of weeds and underbrush down near the creek bottom of the farm, and threatened to sweep over the entire 160 acres. In view of the fact that the place has not been farmed for ten years, the fire hazard was correspondingly more serious for the dry dense growth was rapidly lapped up by the flames and also impeded the effort of the firefighters.

The whole neighborhood turned out to fight the fire and finally after several tractors had been pressed into service and fireguards had been plowed, the flames were restricted to one area.

Mueller, who resides on the place, is a recluse, whose peculiar abhorrence to be left strictly alone, has caused him to leave the farm idle. For many years the farm has been overgrown with a dense growth of brush and rank weeds. During the world war he was required to farm the place, but since that time, he has reverted back to his old ways.

This undisturbed patch of ground, formed a natural haven for wild life, especially pheasants and rabbits and it is believed that dozens of them were destroyed in the flames.

People living in the neighborhood, were especially alarmed, lest the fire get beyond their control and spread to their farms, and consider themselves extremely fortunate that the flames were restricted to an area with in the hermit's farm. The loss was confined to the few fence posts that were destroyed.

The other prairie fire all was out to the Wm. Von Seggern ranch, north of town. The fire started in some cornhusks, along the roadside, and quickly spread over the field, and into a straw stack. No serious property damage was sustained, as the fire was restricted to a comparatively small area.

The Department was called out on two other occasions, one on Sunday morning to extinguish a blaze which had started on the roof of the Joe Baker residence and the other at the Frank Tillman Blacksmith shop, where a box came in contact with an exposed wire, caused a short circuit, and a small blaze that quickly was extinguished. In both instances the damage done was negligible.

Another farm fire, not as spectacular but much more serious in the loss entailed occurred at the John Reeg place Wednesday afternoon. A poultry house, sixty chickens, many of which were setting hens, and a smoke house full of meat were destroyed. The cause of the fire is unknown.

RUMANIAN FLOGGING LAW REDUCES "LOVE CRIMES"

The French press hailed the recent lashing in Romania of a woman sentenced to six years of forced labor having killed her rival as an admirable solution to the prevalent "love crimes." Madame Borugsch, convicted of having murdered Mlle. Anna Lowinal last October, was given 60 blows of the lash on her back not long ago. Various newspapers of Europe voiced an indignant protest that a woman should be so badly flogged that her back was made to resemble raw beefsteak, but not so with the Paris journals which are pointing the excellence of this phase of Romanian criminal procedure. They find that since the flogging law went into effect the so-called "love crimes" have been almost exterminated in Romania. In 1920, such crimes committed by women numbered 164; was reduced to 38 in 1922; to 26 in 1923; to 22 in 1924; and in 1925 dropped to 8, thanks to the rigid application of the law of the flog. Madame Dora Borugsch had had her back pounded into a jelly, but 156 persons who would normally be rotting in the cemeteries are now sleeping tranquilly in their beds. "Enough of sloppy sentimentality," say the French, "love crimes" are committed not for love or love lespied, but by assassins enraged by the poison of self-love. Who then will have the courage, demands one Parisian editor, to propose in the chamber of deputies a similar law designed to save 156 lives?

CONDITIONS FAVOR CHOLERA OUTBREAK

Conditions are favorable for a serious outbreak of hog cholera during 1930. The number of hogs vaccinated in 1929 was less than in either of the two preceding years and the number of herds susceptible to the disease is greater than usual. History shows that hog cholera epidemics run in cycles. After a year of much loss more hog producers will vaccinate and the plague will be checked. Gradually the precautionary measures diminish until many herds are unvaccinated and another serious outbreak occurs.

Owners who do not vaccinate every year are taking a risk. The risk probably will be greater this year than usual unless immunization is quite general. Of course, if a serious epidemic does occur, manufacturers are likely to be unable to supply serum in sufficient quantities to meet the demand. This will be true because serum production can not be stepped up fast enough to meet a suddenly increased demand. Furthermore, cholera outbreaks usually occur at a time of the year when most pigs are old enough to require much more serum for immunization than if they had been vaccinated when younger.

This is the time of year to think about vaccination for hog cholera. If the pigs are treated at about weaning time, the cost of vaccination will be much less than if treatment is delayed. Also, the pigs are much easier to handle when small and less labor is required for vaccinating. Hog cholera vaccination can always be considered cheap insurance against losses from this source.—The Nebraska Farmer.

This extra-thick paint is preferred by many people because its volume can be increased by the addition of linseed oil. There is no better paint for the moderate price we ask—and it is fully warranted.

DAKOTAN IS 55 YEARS IN RAILROADS-EMPLOY

Thos. Donegan, the station agent for the Burlington, started railroading with a broom and mop, 55 years ago in Keokuk, Iowa, as car cleaner for the Rock Island. He became eligible last October 14th for a pension; but thought 70 years too young to retire. When he started car cleaning for the road the passenger coaches were lighted with sperm candles fixed in a tube on the chandelier and forced up by a spring as they burned. "I remember," he said, "the first sleeping car on the old Des Moines Valley road, now a part of the Rock Island. It had stationary double deck bunks, with mattresses furnished by the railroad. Had to carry your own bedding. No porters to serve you, either. Had to help yourself, and help the railroad, too, for that matter, because the engines burned wood, and whenever a stop was made for fuel, the Conductor would call through the cars "Wood up," and the men passengers knew that meant to go outside and pile wood on the tender. There were not any dressing rooms in the cars and the only water supply was a bucket over whose edge hung two tin cups. This was carried up and down the aisle by the newsboy as he peddled papers and fruit."

Mr. Donegan began working for the Burlington in 1881. Before coming to Spearfish, he had been station agent in Ardmore, S. D. and in Seneca, Whitman, and Ellsworth, Nebraska, coming to Spearfish in 1905. In speaking of changes he has seen during his railroading he told this story:

"Shipment of corpses, before the introduction of embalming, was made by securing the box containing the casket, to the rear platform of the baggage car. This helped to keep the bodies cool. One night a box dropped off somewhere between Creston, Iowa and Burlington. When it was missed, the division superintendent wired the section bosses to be on the look out for the body and to report its condition. This answer came back:

"Mr. Supt. We found the corpse. It was dead."

Mr. Donegan was born in 1859 in St. Louis, where he caught the railroad "fever" from his father, a car inspector. "My father got only $40 a month," said Mr. Donegan, "but at that time a good chicken cost 25c, eggs were 8c a dozen, and butter ranged from 8 to 15c a pound. I know section men who brought up families and paid for a home on 90 cents a day."

FARMER LOSES HAND

Allen Wickett, well known young farmer living five miles north of Laurel had his hand badly mangled and crushed Monday morning last week while assisting in the operation of a feed grinder at his farm. In some manner he slipped as he turned to shut off the power, and fell naturally throwing out his hand to save himself from a fall his hand entered the grinder and was drawn into the machine. He was rushed to Laurel a doctor treated the hand for infection and rushed Mr. Wickett to a hospital in Sioux City where the middle fingers of the hand and part of the thumb were amputated. The hand was to be amputated at the wrist Wednesday afternoon last week. Mr. Wickett has been a successful farmer, being recognized as one of the progressive young farmers of the community. He has a large circle of friends and acquaintances who are extending him the deepest sympathy in his misfortune.

Only by the "2 Successive Suds" WASHING METHOD is it thoroughly convenient to keep "that all-over grayish tinge" out of clothes permanently. And only with the sensational new is it convenient to use the "two successive suds" method which is advocated above all others by Good Housekeeping Institute and other authorities.

- Even for a small washing the Dexter "Fastwin" saves handling at least one tub of water, and saves time and effort, as compared with any single-tub washer properly used.
- The Dexter "Fastwin" can wash properly at least twice as much clothing per hour (including all operations from hamper to line) as any single-tub washer made.
- Only by the "2 suds" washing method (which is thoroughly convenient only with the Dexter "Fastwin"), can that "grayish tinge" and that "harsh feel" be kept out of clothes month after month, without soaking or boiling.
- The Dexter "Fastwin" thus offers a very substantial and easily demonstrated advantage over any single-tub washer that is, or ever can be built—even though the Dexter Company builds the finest of single-tub washers, also.
- Builders of fine washers for more than a quarter century, the Dexter Company originated the double-tub type of washer 16 years ago, and the first one ever made is still in weekly use.
- More than 100,000 delighted users say they could never again be satisfied with any more single-tub washer.

It cannot be emphasized too strongly—be careful with discarded cigar and cigarette stubs.

The local fire department has been called out on several occasions to fight prairie fires. Departments from all parts of the state have had the same experience and in many cases the property losses have been severe.

The cause of these fires are as a general thing unknown, but it is very reasonable to assume that most of them have started from a smoldering cigarette or cigar stub carelessly thrown along the highway by some passing motorist.

It doesn't take much to start a blaze and the unusually dry spring has made the fire hazard an unusually severe one this year.

For that reason, a little extra care on the part of smokers should be practiced.

NEBRASKA MERCHANTS TO CONDUCT OWN CAMPAIGN

The Federation of Nebraska Retailers announces that it soon is to wage an aggressive campaign against the chain stores, acting as official representatives of independent retail merchants of the state.

This should be a matter of satisfaction to the merchants and to the public in general, for in the hazy haze and free for all campaign in the past, much that was said and done really did more harm than good.

With all due respect to the work of such men as W. K. Henderson of Shreveport, who have made the anti-chain sentiment a nation wide problem, they merely served to draw attention to the danger that confronts the small cities and towns of the country. Mr. Henderson was in a certain sense, a revivalist—a Billy Sunday—in the movement.

The work of Mr. Henderson is practically accomplished. It now behooves the merchants themselves to carry on the gospel of their cause in the tactful, common-sense way that is characteristic of them in their business.

As C. W. Watson, secretary of the Nebraska Retailers puts it: "The chief tactics used in the past have been largely destructive, or of the tearing down type. We are convinced that the thinking public, no doubt somewhat confused at times in a maze of charges and countercharges often made in the heat of debate enthusiasm and excitement is craving a sane and sensible exposition of the controversy. In making such an explanation the merchant is, himself, capable of presenting the facts and naturally the most dependable avenue for him is through his own association. The very fact that the merchants themselves, through their elected board of directors, control the association and all its activities is a safe guarantee that there will be no exploitation of funds for personal gain and that the information given out will be both sound and constructive."

farm on which to locate; there are certain advantages, or the lack of them, which you would take into consideration; You would want to know whether or not the farm is adjacent to a good town with schools for your children, places of amusement for yourself and your family, churches in which you can worship, and well-stocked stores in which you would be able to obtain the things which you wish to buy as well as facilities for disposing of live stock, poultry, eggs, dairy products, and any other items which you raise in such quantities that you have a surplus to dispose of. Farm values are dependent upon these factors and vice versa, town values are, to a large extent, dependent upon farm values. In other words, a mutuality of interests exists.

Chains Reduce Property Values

"Suppose the nearest town to your farm has two chain stores and twenty or so individually owned drygoods, grocery, drug, hardware, jewelry, and other stores. Suppose, because of a fancied saving, you, as a farmer, give your patronage to the chain stores to such a degree that eventually one independent store after another is forced to close its doors. The result must eventually be more vacant buildings in the town and lowered property values subject to taxation. Now it costs about so much money to run the local government. Business has always paid a large proportion of these taxes. If the property values of local business decrease, taxation values must decrease and a part of the revenue for the government which has formerly been paid by business must be shifted to other city and rural property.

"Let us suppose, and it is no idle supposition, that chain stores might chance to grow in size and number until eventually very few independent stores continue to exist in your town. Instead, there are many vacant buildings and many empty houses; and because the will to live is fundamental, and in order to attempt to live, these erst-while residents and independent sales-folks have moved away.

"What is the result? Your home banker will not have on deposit to loan to you the funds which were formerly provided through the business operations of these independent merchants. Instead, they will have but the small, daily balance which each of the chains will retain on deposit, for the chains, as you know, as a rule, use the local bank only as a convenience station and all but the small daily balance is forwarded regularly to chain headquarters in distant cities.

Association Will Conduct Constructive Campaign

During the past few months there have been various campaigns over the United States, Mr. Watson said, but it is the belief of the merchants themselves that they can be best served by their own organization, and the local campaign will be conducted over the radio and through newspaper advertising and publicity along lines as mapped out by the association.

SHOP LIFTERS MAKE RAID ON LOCAL STORES of the articles were already in use when the arrests were made.

The women arrested were Mrs. Petra Lauman, 23, Miss Ina Bowlin 17, and Miss Nellie Loomer, 17. The former lives with her husband at Norfolk and the two others were employed at a Norfolk restaurant. The fourth woman whom the authorities are searching for is Mrs. Esther Olson, known in Norfolk as Miss Esther Reichert. She is not living with her husband and according to report had recently brought suit against him for divorce. Evidence brought out in the hearing brought out the fact that Mrs. Olson was driver of the car in which they traveled about the country. The car it is reported belongs to Otto Kruese of Norfolk.

Later—Ina Bowlin was released after the fine and cost amounting to $111 were paid on her behalf by a young man from Norfolk.

to whom two children were born—Edward, who is teaching at Douglas, Wyoming; and Henry who resides at home.

Naturally public spirited he took an active interest in all affairs tending toward the advancement of the community and gave unstinted of time and effort in any local cause affecting public good. Especially was this true of his services during the World War, when in addition to the duties that multiplied in his office during that trying time, he served with distinction on the draft board—duties which he bore unflinchingly although it permanently undermined his health and finally contributed to his untimely death.

He was also an active member of the local Odd Fellows Lodge and of the Methodist church.

Funeral services were held at the Methodist church last Tuesday afternoon, where the officiating pastor, Rev. W. W. Whitman and Prof. O. R. Bowen paid beautiful tributes to the splendid life that had just gone out and the community mourned the passing of a trusted friend.

Besides the immediate family, he is survived by three sisters, Mrs. C. S. Beebe of Wakefield; Mrs. A. E. Gildersleeve and Mrs. H. B. Craven of this city; and two brothers, Delos, of Kearney, and Clyde of Atlanta, Georgia.

Services at the Greenwood Cemetery, where the body was laid to rest, were conducted by the Odd Fellows lodge.

Degree of Honor

The regular meeting of the Degree of Honor was held on last Thursday evening at the L. E. Panabaker home, the meeting being held one week earlier for the dent, who was present as honored guest at the meeting, and who also gave an interesting talk concerning the lodge.

When Is A Chain Not A Chain?

Now that the flames have leaped up and are still smoldering, we have had time to think—to judge the issue not from snap judgement. Retailers throughout the country are linking themselves together, concentrating purchases, cutting out factory costs, eliminating selling expenses—They all go under the same name but pay no premium for the privilege. Each maintains his own individuality—they are home owned stores but just banded together to give the public foods at lowest possible costs. Is that the chain idea? I believe that is the coming method of food distribution. Do You?

LOCAL AND PERSONAL

Happy Chick News

Another week has rolled around and we have had lots of excitement. Lots of wind, I mean that the wind has blown hard, several fires, around town and one filling station holdup. Business has been good however, the sales of brooder houses averaged better than a house a day.

George Wacker, northwest of here, purchased a 9x12 Happy Chick Brooder House complete with Simplex Stove.

Bilger Pearson bought a Simplex stove this week. People are just coming in and hauling these Simplex stoves out. We do not have to use any salesmanship on them any more. If it is a Simplex they know it will work, because their neighbor has one and it is working.

A parking space is where you leave the car to have those little dents put in the fenders.

Mr. and Mrs. Conrad Weiershauser came in last Saturday and purchased a 9x12 Happy Chick Brooder, then a little later in the afternoon Mrs. Conrad came back in and said "Be sure and include one of those Simplex stoves with the house."

Elmer Noakes had us fix him up a special brooder house out of one of our 2 pen hog houses. We put in two windows in the front in place of the doors, also a window in the roof, put a door in one end and used different material on the floor. This sure makes a very clever house and at a very reasonable cost for 84 feet of floor space.

There is a new one out about the Scotchman who sent his father-in-law the surgeon's bill when he learned that his wife's tonsils should have been taken out when she was a little girl.

Clerk in Five and Ten Cent Store: "You can have anything in the store for a dime."

Customer: "I'll take the little blonde behind the candy counter."

John Hanson, northwest of here, got a 9x12 Happy Chick Brooder with scratch shed this week.

Harvey Larson ordered a set of roosts for his house this week. We make our roosts according to the plans given us by the State Agricultural College at Lincoln using dropping boards and 1 inch poultry netting under the roost poles.

One reason we'll never see a saloon on every corner again is because the service stations own all the corners.

Smith (meeting Jones after many years) "yes our old friend Brown has gone to his everlasting rest!"

HOW THE

NEW

THE MODERN MOTOR OIL

BETTERS MOTOR PERFORMANCE

The effect of heat and cold on the body of an oil determines its "temperature-viscosity co-efficient."

In the new Polarine you get oil that varies less between zero and the operating heat of the motor than any old process oil.

This means that at all seasons of the year and under all operating conditions, the new Polarine gives more uniform and more dependable protection to your motor.

You get better motor performance and less motor wear. Because the new Polarine deposits less than half as much carbon as old process oils, compression varies less and the oil stays clean longer.

In every respect a premium quality oil—the new Polarine is sold at no advance in price.

TO IMPROVE LO-VAL LAKE

Laurel—A campaign for the beautification of the popular Lo-Val lake is now under way and will be a big success if everyone interested does his share. Walter Youngberg is in charge of the work, and in company with Robert Nunemaker made a trip to the Missouri river the first of the week to hunt trees for the project. He took a force of others with him this week to move them to the lake where they will be planted. It is suggested that anyone having shrubbery, trees, or flowers that they will donate and plant at the lake may bring them out any time before Arbor Day and they will be assisted in planting them so they will blend in with the regular scheme of the improvement. This is not much to ask of those who are interested and it is hoped there will be a ready response to the call. Arbor Day is on April 22nd, so there is not a great deal of time left.

You Must Plant It Right

and you will do so if you use

McCormick - Deering Corn Planters & Drills

This planter is the result of more than twenty years of actual planter building experience. In it are combined all the good features of McCormick-Deering planters of the past with many new and distinctive features added. In addition to the advantages which past performance has proven so favorably for McCormick-Deering planters, this particular type of planter was subjected to a five year period of trial before it was placed on the market.

As a result, the McCormick-Deering Two Row Corn planter while embodying no new and untried principles, combines proven principles in the simplest and most practical manner possible.

You can depend on this planter to do accurate and dependable service—to put the seed in the ground as much or as little as you want to plant, accurately spaced whether checked or drilled.
