Band Concert Down Town Thurs. Night

To Put Pre-Holiday Shoppers In Festive Mood

The Wayne Municipal Legion Band will deviate from its usual practice and hold its Thursday evening concert down town instead of at Bressler Park.

This change has been made because of the fact that business places will be kept open on that evening to accommodate those who wish to do their shopping before the Fourth.

The program will be a miscellaneous one with no definite selections made at this time. It should furnish just the proper incentive to put the crowds in a holiday mood.

Drunken Driver Serving Sentence

"Bud" Baird and three companions fell afoul of the law last Saturday evening when they took so much more their share of the road as they passed a car driven by Mike Lower that their car knocked off a hub cap on the Lower car and almost drove it into the ditch. Mr. Lower filed a complaint and Officer Wm. Stewart placed the quartette under arrest.

On their appearance before Justice James Brittain, Monday afternoon, Baird pleaded guilty to a charge of driving a car while intoxicated and was given a fine of $50 and costs and enjoined from driving a car for a year.

His companion, Richard Smith of Sioux City, pleaded guilty to having liquor in his possession and was assessed $100 and costs, the two others were released. Baird and Smith have been unable to raise the amount of their fines and are confined in the county jail until the money is paid or until a jail sentence commensurate to their fine has been served. Their car, it is reported was borrowed from a Sioux City resident and is being reclaimed by a finance company.

Father Kearns Winner At O'Neill Turney

New honors have been accorded Father Kearns—he's a golfer. He was the only one of the Wayne delegation of golfers at the O'Neill tournament last week to come home with a prize. He won four golf balls—new ones. He was runner up in the final consolation match. Three golfers seeded the game to him by default but they have a brave sheriff up that way who took him on for a round and beat him by a close margin. "The rest was easy," Father Kearns said. "The next fellow had played his first game of golf a week ago and the last guy knew just a little bit less about golf than I did, so I got the prize."

C. L. REINDOLLAR

Mr. C. L. Reindollar of Baltimore, Md., who arrived this week to begin his work in the commercial department, taking the place of Professor Walter Lowrie. Mr. Reindollar will teach in summer school for the remaining part of the term and will teach here again in the fall.

Lower Court Is Sustained

Robert Fenske Must Remain Under Guardianship Says Court.

An appeal for release from guardianship was denied Robert Fenske of Hoskins in a case tried in a special session of district court last Friday and Saturday. The case was a confirmation of the ruling made by Judge Cherry in county court early last spring when Fenske brought action to be relieved from a guardianship appointed over him on request of members of his family. The request was denied and counsel for the petitioner carried the matter before district court with the indicated result.

Fenske, it is alleged by members of his family, is entirely incapable of handling his affairs, due to his advanced age and intemperate habits. Evidence supporting this contention was introduced in court and the court, at the conclusion of the case, immediately rendered its decision in favor of the guardianship.

The case has created much interest as Mr. Fenske is well known throughout the county and also by reason of a bit of indirect notoriety accorded him last spring, when a suicide at Norfolk was identified as him.

Bible Lecturer To Speak Here Sunday

H. V. Johnson, Bible lecturer from Norfolk, will speak at the local Church of Christ next Sunday morning, July 7th, at the morning service at 11:00 o'clock. Mr. Johnson gave a series of five illustrated Eyeograph Bible lectures at the M. E. church here last spring and people came from miles around to attend them: Mr. Johnson is an excellent speaker and those who heard him need no second invitation to hear him again. You are invited.

Approaching Marriage of Wayne Couple Announced

At the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Beckenhauer, Miss Florence Beckenhauer entertained about 40 friends at an afternoon bridge party at which her approaching marriage to Willard Wiltse was announced. As the party was about to draw to a close, Little Miss Betty Blair brought in a Wishing Well on a tea table. Ribbons of various rainbow pastel shades were attached to hearts within the well, each heart bearing the announcement message. These hearts were drawn by the guests who thus received word of the approaching wedding which is to take place this month! The element of surprise added pleasure to the already happy event.

The rooms of the home were beautifully decorated for the occasion with decorations and flowers in pastel shades, the color scheme being carried out throughout the home, and in the ice cream served with cake and coffee at the close of the afternoon.

HAPPY MEMORIES REVIVED AT ANNUAL HOMECOMING

Many Improvements In Institution Noted By Visitors.

Ed Reynolds, '27, Presided

About two hundred graduates gathered for the annual homecoming day celebration.

Just a grand chance to "be your self" meet your old school chums, be entertained, and have a good time! Not too much formality, long speeches, or other baring accompaniments. Just a grand and glorious Alumni reunion.

Those of you who were far away missed a good time, and those who were here missed you. We know that every one here had a jolly time because it was all an endless stream of pep, enthusiasm and good fellowship.

It all started in the auditorium with singing of Alma Mater by the entire assembly and played by an Alumni orchestra.

In the absence of the president of the association, Miss Louise Wendt, who is completing work for her master's degree at Ames this summer, Mr. Ed Reynolds, A. B. '27, acted as chairman.

Mr. Britell read the Scripture from the 25th chapter of Matthew. Ed Reynolds spoke a few words of welcome to the Alumni and then introduced Dr. Conn, President Conn spoke of the improvement he could see in the alumni and expressed hope that the alumni would be pleased with the improvements in their school. He urged that every one try to make the days as friendly and happy as possible and extended an invitation to all to review the new buildings especially Neihardt hall, Ronald Reed welcomed the Class of '30, and Miss Dorothy McCandlish responded. Miss Sulerud sang two vocal solos, which received much applause.

MILLER-STRICKLAND PLANE HOME SATURDAY

The Miller-Strickland plane arrived in Wayne Saturday evening after flying in Nebraska State Air tour with about forty other planes. The plane was piloted by Pilot Ralph Robertson, and Mrs. Guy Strickland rode as a passenger. Starting out from Lincoln Monday morning they flew to Niobrara and to Norfolk, from whence they went to Long Pine and other towns and cities in the western part of the state. About 18 hours flying time was required for the trip covering 1400 miles.

Eighteen towns and cities were visited or passed over during the trip. High winds during the first part of the tour made "rough flying" but the trip was on the whole very enjoyable.

Golf enthusiasts of this vicinity are looking forward to four big days at the local course at the annual tournament of the Northeast Nebraska Golf Association, which begins Sunday for a four days session.

Address all entries and communications to F. S. Morgan, Secretary of N. E. Nebraska Golf Association, Wayne, Nebraska.

Out Ahead Of Schedule

The Democrat comes to its rural and out-of-town readers a day ahead of schedule, the publication having been made on Wednesday evening instead of Thursday as is the usual custom. This was done, because people living on rural routes who ordinarily get the Democrat on Fridays would not receive it this coming Friday because the mail carriers are taking a day off the same as the rest of us.

The hurry up process has cost us a bit in the number of advertising and also has reflected somewhat on the quality of the paper. We trust this will be overlooked by our readers.

TRAINING SCHOOL TERM WILL END JULY THIRD

The regular ten months term of the Training School will close Thursday, July the third probably with picnics for the different departments.

This closing will bring about the end of practice teaching which an unusually large number of students have been doing this summer. Due to Dean Hahn's excellent administration thirty-eight students have been doing double periods which would ordinarily mean seventy-six teachers. This is almost the maximum number which have ever taught in the training school at one time.

LIVESTOCK SHIPMENTS

Cattle shipments have been spasmodic in the past week, but the average has been somewhat higher, there having been seventeen cars shipped during the past eight days. Following are the shipments:

June 25—Geo. Hofeldt, car of cattle to South Omaha.

June 30—Louis Dinklage, two cars of cattle to Chicago.

Stores Open Thurs.

Eve. Closed the 4th

Of course, Wayne business places will be closed all day the Fourth of July.

Although there will be no local celebration in Wayne this year, it is generally understood and taken for granted that all business houses will be closed on that day.

The public in general is requested to see to their needs for the day on the day previous. In order to accommodate those who might not be able to be in town for their shopping on the day previous, business places will be kept open on Thursday evening.

So help make this Fourth of July a real celebration by taking care of your needs before hand thus making it unnecessary for any local business house to open up to accommodate some shopper caught unprepared.

10-Inning Game Goes to Carroll

Good Form Shown By Local Team In First Game Of Season.

A ten inning game, lost to Carroll, started out the season for the newly-organized Wayne baseball aggregation. At that, Wayne had the best of the deal up to the fifth inning when Carroll tied the score and from then on the game was nip and tuck until the tenth inning when Carroll managed to make the circuit and the locals were out of luck.

The Wayne organization was some what of an impromptu affair, started a few days ago. They have had very little practice and were so short of equipment that their batting layout consisted of but four bats, one of them broken. They went to Carroll not expecting to win, and their showing was even a surprise to themselves.

Wayne was the first to score, garnering in three tallies before Carroll even got started. The fifth inning proved rather expensive to them as an error by the short stop brought in two runs. Carroll scored another in the sixth, evening the score. Each side scored one run in the eighth and one each in the ninth and then lady luck deserted the locals in favor of Carroll.

Sundt did the twirling for Wayne, allowing nine hits and striking out five men. The Carroll pitcher allowed seven hits and struck out four men. Both of the teams were strictly all-home organizations.

Next Sunday Wayne plays Wisner at the Wisner field. With such a good start against the strong Carroll team, it is only reasonable that Sunday's game will be an interesting one and worthy of the support of local fans.

Faculty Reception A Pleasing Social Event

One of the most pleasant social events of the summer term was the reception given Tuesday evening, June 15. By way of innovation it was held in the formal garden and on the surrounding lawns. The line was formed on the west side of the garden in the shade of Connell, President and Mrs. Conn standing near the rose arbor at the north. Mr. Roy Langfeldt, A. B. '30, introduced the students.

After each student was introduced to the faculty members and their wives, who were present, the remainder of the evening was spent in dancing and games. Tables were arranged on the lawn. The dance was held on the pavement between Dr. Conn and Mrs. Conn standing near the rose arbor at the north. Mr. Roy Langfeldt, A. B. '30, introduced the students.

McCormick-Deering.

The difference between the price of poor twine and good twine varies from three to six cents per acre. The difference between the COST of poor twine and good twine cannot be measured by such small change as pennies and nickles. Out in the harvest fields where time is money this difference must be figured in dollars.

McCormick-Deering Twine has quality woven into it. Uniformity in length means uniformity in thickness; there are no extremely light or heavy places to cross in the knotter. The twine is correctly twisted so that it will not kink and snarl when running from the ball. See now about your twine requirements for the harvest. Rely on McCormick-Deering Twine.

$300 Per Acre

Every now and then a news item appears stating that a certain man's farm was sold for $300 or more per acre.

Just what are the reasons why any farm should be so highly valued? Good land? Sure! Good Buildings? Certainly! Well cared for? Of course! The answer to these questions is granted, but lots of farms fulfill these requirements and yet do not bring such a price.

How is the farm located? Ah! There's the answer.

It is on a good highway. It enjoys exceptionally good schools, supported by a prosperous community. It has convenient banking facilities. There is a nearby market where all farm products can be sold at good prices.

There are progressive stores well stocked with good merchandise in all lines, and easily accessible.

Since the town makes the farm valuable, then isn't it good business sense that the farmer exert every possible effort to improve the town?

LET THE EAGLE SCREAM

Tomorrow we celebrate the one hundred and thirty-fourth anniversary of the signing of the Declaration of Independence. Few of us will give that impressive matter more than a fleeting thought. And it's just as well.

There are three hundred and sixty-four other days of the year when we can dwell on the imposing and solemn thoughts relative to wars and heroic sacrifice. We should celebrate our nation's birthday in the sheer joy of being alive and being able to enjoy to the fullest extent the privilege of citizenship in this great and wonderful country of ours.

So celebrate—forget dull care and make it a glad day for yourself and for others.

But watch your step.

BEAMS AND NOTES

It is easy to see the mite in your neighbor's eye, but not so easy to make mention of it without calling attention to the beam in your own optic. We noted a striking instance of this truth in the editorial comment of an exchange a week or so ago in which the editor made a somewhat disparaging comparison of the circulation of his competitor's newspaper with that of his own. Like the Pharisee of old he sort of thanked the Lord that he was not like other editors. As a matter of fact what prompted the editorial was not much his elation over his supposed superiority over his competitor, but the fact that his competitor was making a stronger than usual bid for local advertising and was getting it.

REAPING THE WHIRLWIND

The Chicago Tribune is reaping a part of the whirlwind that it has been sowing for some years, when its prize reporter in the gangland district was slain by a gunman in the heart of the city during a busy hour, a gesture of derision toward the authorities. Thousands of dollars in rewards are offered, and the police are reported to be very active, but law officers say they really have no clue. The Tribune, which is one of the franky wet organs of the middle west boldly advise its readers as long ago as 1922 that if they did not believe in the Volstead law to violate it. Common sense ought to have told the author of that advice that when he advised one group who didn't like a law to violate it, he was giving encouragement to every man who did not believe in any other law to go ahead and break it.—Harry Dobbs in Evening State Journal.

THE FALLEN IDOL

A. C. Townley, once idol of the revolting farmers of North Dakota, seems to have fallen from grace. In a recent North Dakota primary election, his bid for congressional nomination from the third district of that state was flatly turned down.

The rejection is all the more significant in view of the fact that the Third Congressional district of North Dakota is still in sympathy with the movement Townley started years ago. Candidates with Nonpartisan League endorsement are still given preference.

It's a

B pleasure to lease the particular

Logan Valley Dairy

over candidates not thus favored. The "League Ticket" is voted as a matter of habit.

But Townley was rejected—he was in fact a very poor third in a three-cornered race. His downfall, however, isn't so strange when one stops to consider it. His fate is the fate of most political opportunists. When he headed the Nonpartisan League movement he guessed correctly. When he headed a fantastic temperance reform movement, he guessed wrong.

About a year ago an editor of a Communist newspaper in the northeast corner of Montana in casting about for some means to bolster up his declining political fortunes organized what is known as "The American Temperance League." The idea was to create sentiment in favor of the modification of the Eighteenth Amendment along the lines in vogue in Saskatchewan, Canada, where liquor is sold in liquor stores operated by the government.

In order to give the movement notoriety, Townley, who had been promoting an oil well promotion scheme that had just about played itself out, was induced to come to northeastern Montana and identify himself with the cause.

This action on Townley's part had the desired effect for the time being. News of the forming of the organization got into Associate Press channels and many of Townley's followers not in sympathy with the present prohibition laws, eagerly sought his views on the subject. High pressure organizers appeared on the scene—many of them old time $16 membership men—and scoured the country for joiners to the cause.

The American Temperance League prospered for a time, but not for long. The radicals began to quarrel among themselves about how the membership fees should be divided. A few of them "swarmed" and started a temperance league of their own and the cause finally fizzled out.

Townley sensing that the organization was on its last legs resorted to his old time expedient of staging a series of joint debates. A one-time temperance lecturer who had lost his standing after being convicted of drunk and disorderly conduct was secured to debate the temperance issue with him. They toured North Dakota and Montana charging admission to all who desired to hear them.

Townley, in this way, prepared the basis for his campaign. He figured that the Russian-Sherman element of Western North Dakota, which is decidedly anti-Villard in its sentiment and which had always been a mainstay of his support in the past, would rally to his cause. He told them that Sinclair, the present congressman from that district, had sold out to "big biz" and that he was a prohibitionist besides. But they evidently didn't believe him.

Townley was once the idol of the revolting farmers of North Dakota. They actually did worship him. When he came to visit them in his airplane they regarded his approach with reverential awe. Some even crowded near him to touch his garments as though some mystic power emanated from him. Times have changed. As one North Dakota farmer put it: "He was an 'idol' all right, with plenty of brass in his makeup. But his feet were of clay and damned poor clay at that."

OUT OF TOWN ADVERTISING

The Democrat has on various occasions, received orders for advertising from retail establishments of larger trading centers such as Norfolk, Sioux City, and Omaha.

In some instances, where the lines were not represented in the city, we have complied with the request but where it has interfered with local business, we have invariably turned it down.

We hold no brief against the news paper whose policy differs with us on the proposition, for, like most any other question, there are two sides to it. If local business firms are not averse to the opportunities at their disposal through advertising, there is nothing like a good stiff jolt in the form of foreign advertising and competition to bring them to their senses.

As to our reason for turning down this foreign advertising, we will freely confess that our attitude is not purely an altruistic one. It doesn't have to be. We intend to be here for many years to come. If we are a party to the influence attracting business away from town that really belongs to Wayne, we are hurting the town just that much.

But we own up to the human failing of being sorely tempted to cuss when we turn down a large Sioux City, Omaha or Yankton ad in favor of the home merchant whose advertising usually amounts to a couple of lines of locals three or four times a year.

CONGRESSMAN HOWARD ON CHAIN STORES

During recent weeks all members of the congress have received requests from many sources to state their attitude with reference to the chain store problem. I never pay any attention to such requests from people living outside Nebraska but now I have been asked by one of my own constituents to give him for publication a 100-word statement of my position on that big question. Not a minute did I hesitate in making reply to that request. The request came from one of my fine newspaper fraters, Mr. H. J. Whitacre, editor of the Lindsay Post, and my reply was as follows:

The chain store problem is one of the big problems of the hour. The merging craze is in the air. Railroad systems are being merged into fewer systems. Railroad division towns are being wiped off the map, and thousands of employees taken off the payroll.

Like result must follow as to employees in retail stores if chain store programme shall be carried to legitimate conclusion. How can chain store programme be checked? No acceptable federal legislation has been proposed. Perhaps necessary legislation must be enacted by the several states. Kentucky has levied a special tax against chain stores. I shall favor such a law in Nebraska if the Kentucky statute shall be upheld by the courts.

EDGAR HOWARD.

I discussed the question with several of my colleagues who had received like requests for a statement of their attitude on the chain store problem.

They all said they had refused to make a positive statement, and urged me to keep still on the subject.

I guess I am not built on the "keep still" plan. Seems to me than any citizen in my district has good right to ask my stand on any pending public problem.

Frankly I say that I do not know how legislation can be enacted here in Washington to check the chain store craze, the rather believing that it is a problem which must be solved by the states, and not by the federal government. Perhaps tomorrow I shall have a chance to vote for the Couzens bill to forbid further chain-store of the American railroads, and I shall certainly vote for that resolution. Such legislation belongs to the federal question because the railroads transact inter-state business.

The business of the chain stores is confined to the localities where the stores are located, and once again I state the view that the chain stores cannot be placed under supervision of federal law, but only under supervision of state laws.

Fred Heier And Miss Lena Bartling Wed

Wedding Takes Place In Coleridge Thursday Afternoon, June 26. Will Reside Near Wayne.

Fred Heier of this vicinity and Miss Lena Bartling of Coleridge were married at the Lutheran church in Coleridge last Thursday afternoon, June 26, the Rev. H. Nelderwimmer, pastor, performing a double ring ceremony at 2:00 o'clock, in the presence of a number of relatives and friends.

They were attended by Miss Emma Bartling and William Heier, sister of the bride and brother of the bridegroom respectively. Little Mildred Jaussan and Elvow Hefner, niece and nephew of the bride, acted as flower girl and ring bearer. The bride's sister, Mrs. Herman Papenhausen played the wedding march and the choir furnished other music.

The bride was gowned in lovely shell pink crepe and lace with a white embroidered veil of tulle and accessories of white. She carried an arm bouquet of white roses. The bridesmaid wore nile green and carried a bouquet of pink carnations.

The flower girl and ring bearer wore white and light respectively, and carried a pink and green basket filled with roses with the rings attached to the handle. The church and the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Bartling, were decorated in the bridal colors of shell pink and nile green.

Following the ceremony a two course wedding dinner was served at the Bartling home, about 45 guests being present. A beautiful wedding cake formed the center piece of the bridal table. Miss Lydia Bartling and Miss Martha Heier acted as waitresses.

After a wedding trip to Burke, South Dakota the young couple will reside on a farm near Wayne. The bridegroom is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Heier of the Wayne locality.

Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Southwell of Gering are expected to arrive here tomorrow evening for a week's visit at the R. B. Judson home.

Gus Hanson Horseshoe Champ Of Wayne County

Four plusses are taboo, the club house facilities are far from modern and the vista presented is not as alluring as that boasted of by most golf courses, but nowhere in this wide land is there keener competition nor greater enthusiasm shown than at the course of the Wayne Barnyard Golf Club.

There is no official membership to the club, no dues charged and no one to take official charge of its activities, but it gets along just the same and the 1930 tournament, which began last April has been continued daily ever since with prospects of continuing on until the snow flies.

Thus far, according to unofficial records submitted by Carl Matson, owner of the club house and course, Gus Hansen has a slight lead over Charles Ulrich with 786 games to his credit to 779 on the part of Mr. Ulrich. They have pooled their interests and issued a defy to horseshoe pitchers of Wayne county, bar none, to meet them under any conditions.

Wm. Watson another member of the club vehemently disputes the prowess of the pair, stating that while he has not won as many games as either of the pair, his percentage of winnings is much larger—and there is much truth to what he says but Gus Hansen states by way of report that Watson will only play from the shady side of the club house and that isn't fair.

There are others of the coterie who pitch a mean horseshoe, among them John Bannister, Frank Griffith, Ole Olson, S. E. Auker, L. C. Gildersleeve and Albert Mau who claim that their "more uck than sense" to the Hansen-Ulrich team and before the season is over they will be left far in the lurch.

OUR FRIEND, THE CATBIRD
How many of us like grasshoppers? None of us. Our friend, the Catbird, will eat 30 grasshoppers for each meal. He has a keen appetite for so many pests of the garden and orchard—moths, grasshoppers, beetles, caterpillars, spiders, flies and other insects—that his friendship is well worth cultivating. How many people abuse the Catbird, ignorantly too! Because he has the good taste to like strawberries and cherries as well as we do, should we condemn him on that account? The ox that treadeth out the corn is not to be muzzled; a workman is worthy of his hire. Plant a red mulberry in your chicken yard or some other nearby place. The catbird and the robin as well will leave the cherries to eat the mulberries.

COMMUNICATION WHY NOT?

Many of the local enthusiasts of the national sport, baseball, have been wondering just why Wayne, a leading city of Northeast Nebraska does not support a baseball nine. Perhaps there are too many other activities conflicting with baseball, but never the less one must admit that a baseball team is one of the cities best advertisements, and surely Wayne with its size should be able to support a club. There is an abundance of playing material, but at present the perplexity is a financial one as suits and equipment are badly needed. Good gate receipts and support tendered by all is the remedy for this burden.

Among the local men offering their services are: Reed, Kroger, Sund, Andresen, Hansen, Simpson, Lerner, Collins, Kinney and Koch, the last two named are former Bloomfield salaried players.

Lets see these boys in action at Wisner July 6th and give them loyal support during the season.

Insecticides Do Not Kill Insects

Certain Types of "Trick" Preparations Should Be Guarded Against.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Thousands of pounds of insecticides, fungicides and disinfectants are sold annually in complete harmony with the insecticide act as enforced by the food, drug and insecticide administration, United States Department of Agriculture, but certain types of "trick" preparations are also being offered for sale and should be guarded against, say federal officials.

Many Are Warned.

Farmers, suburban dwellers, housewives, and others, are warned by the administration against buying preparations to be added to feed and drinking water which their makers say will control external parasites on poultry and other animals consuming them still.—From "Porcelain Pagodas and Palaces of Jade," by A. E. Grant-ham.

Take Us or Leave Us, Says Ed. Howe to Women

Women know perfectly well what they are getting into when they marry. All their lives they have heard the subject discussed, and witnessed over and over all its phases. They know precisely what men are; they know they cannot be anything else. They may say they do not, but they do; they cannot help learning a lesson presented without variation for thousands of years; therefore I object to their threshing the same old straw over and over, in finding fault with men. Let them take us as we are, or let us alone. Every month, every day, every hour, I hear of marriages failing, and women chattering that wives always get the worst of it. Why do they not talk this way to brides, instead of acting as marriage agents? Women get precisely what Nature provides, and they know it before they make the contract.—E. W. Howe in Howe's Monthly.

Impossible

A certain celebrated actor was stopped as he left the theater one evening and a pretty girl pinned a crimson carnation in his buttonhole.

The actor was very pleased with himself and thought no more about it. On the following morning he received a note from the girl asking him to send her a couple of seats.

With a grim smile the actor wrote to the pretty girl:

"I should be delighted," he said, "but on personal investigation I find all the seats screwed down."

Where There's Smoke

Junior was out walking with his mother one of the first cold mornings of the winter. He looked in amazement at what appeared to him to be smoke coming from his mother's mouth when she spoke.

"Look at the smoke coming out of your mouth," exclaimed the little two-year-old. "You must have swallowed a little piece of fire."

From early spring to the latter part of May is the best time to seed sweet clover. Weeds are less troublesome with the later seeding.

When planting seed in the garden care should be taken not to get the seed too thick since this will increase the amount of thinning necessary.

Magic Power Ascribed to Mirrors, Long Ago

Mirrors in ancient times were not as nowadays dedicated exclusively to the service of vanity, but also largely to that of magic.

Their power of reflecting real things in vague silvery depths bred an awed wonder which echoed down the centuries in mystic rites wherein they played an important part. A mirror was used to focus the scattered beams of midday heat in one dazzling point of flame, drawing the pure fire of heaven down to the altars of this earth. Or hung up at evening dusk in the foliage of high trees, it was left to gather dewdrops from the cool radiance of the moon. For the dew gathering on objects, as it were out of infinite space, seemed full of sacred significance.

Han Wu Ti, much given to belief in the occult, erected a pillar of bronze on the Terrace of Fragrant Cedar Beams. On the summit of its 200 feet a spirit with outstretched hands held a shallow dish, to receive the precious moisture. And there were psychic mirrors for evoking apparitions, for reflecting shadows from the events to come. Often they were buried with the dead, to dispel the gloom of the grave, for the light they had so faithfully reflected on earth was by some weird process supposed to dwell in them still.—From "Porcelain Pagodas and Palaces of Jade," by A. E. Grant-ham.

Neither should anyone be misled by the theoretically plausible claims made for preparations designed to be absorbed by the sap of trees to control fungous diseases and to kill insects on and in the trees.

Preparations to be hung in the home to drive away all household pests, purify the air and to prevent disease are also branded as useless by the officials.

One of the misbranded preparations sold to control lice, mites, ticks and fleas on poultry and other animals by being taken into the system with the food and drinking water, officials of the administration found could be bought for 18 cents a gallon. This preparation, retailed in small containers, netted the producer $64 a gallon. Neither this mixture nor any of the many similar mixtures could produce the results claimed for them.

Control Diseases.

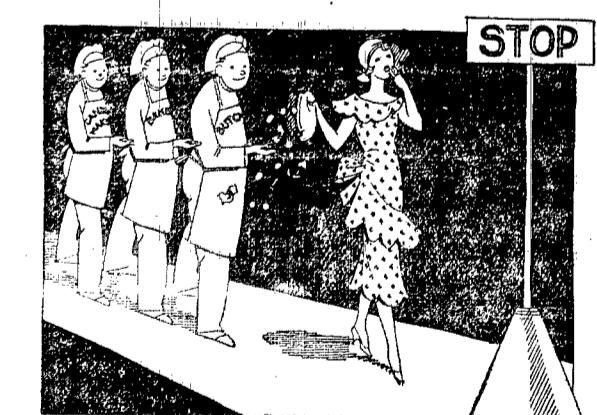

Liquids, powders, and capsules to be placed in a hole in the tree, under the bark, or in the soil, and paints to be applied to the trunk of the tree, have been examined for their alleged powers to control fungous diseases and to kill insects when, according to the advertising literature, the substances are taken up by the sap and carried to all parts of the tree.

Not only is the value of these "remedies" very questionable, the administration reports, but many of them actually harm the trees. They may cause serious damage to shade and orchard trees, and in case of the latter, endanger the crop through failure to control insects and diseases.

Housewives are especially cautioned not to believe the glittering promises made for attractive little cases containing a chemical, which, when merely hung in a room, will drive away or kill moths, ants, roaches, flies, and mosquitoes, and at the same time disinfect the room, purify the air, and prevent disease.

From early spring to the latter part of May is the best time to seed sweet clover. Weeds are less troublesome with the later seeding.

When planting seed in the garden care should be taken not to get the seed too thick since this will increase the amount of thinning necessary.

A Dollar Dinner for Four

Curried Beef	$0.60
Mashed Potatoes	.06
Lettuce with French Dressing	.10
Bread and Butter	.08
Cranberry Foam—Crackers	.16
Total	$1.00

Do you ever get tired handing out dollars to the butcher, the baker and the candlestick maker? Then try holding on to a dollar long enough to give it a chance. It will buy sufficient food to serve a very delightful dinner to four persons, if you will think ahead and count the pennies of which it is composed. Here, for example, is a dinner which costs only a dollar, and is not only sufficient for four persons but sufficiently good for any four persons. Try such a dollar dinner each week, and watch the dollars pile up.

Curried Beef: Cut one pound of round steak in inch squares.

Fry one sliced onion in the drippings for a few minutes. Mix one-fourth cup flour with one tea-spoon salt, one and one-half tea-spoons curry powder and roll the meat in it. Then add to the fat and onion, and cook until the meat is well browned. Add one cup of water and one No. 2 can of tomatoes, and boil a few minutes. Bake in a slow oven for one and one-half hours, or until tender.

Orangeberry Eggs: Beat the whites of two eggs until very stiff. Mash cranberries from a 9-ounce can with a fork and fold into the egg. Pile lightly in dessert dishes and chill thoroughly. Serve with plain crackers.*

MODERN SHOWERS

PRIL showers bring May close of the luncheon, the roof is four cups of milk, two teaspoons salt and a little cayenne pepper.

And the buds of May are soon to blossom out into brides in June, so showers, it seems, are very much in order this month. Linen showers, lingerie showers, boudoir showers, kitchen showers—there are a whole cloudburst of showers which modern maids have invented for the bride-to-be.

A Handkerchief-and-Hose Shower is the very newest on the list. And what bride ever has enough of either?—however vast her stores. The guests give their tissue-wrapped packages to the hostess, on arriving, and she shows them away to be drawn out at the close of the luncheon. A Bungalow Luncheon is clever, different and most appropriate for the prospective bride. A green cloth may be used for the table, and in the center a bungalow, contrived from a bandbox, looks out over a bed of asparagus ferns which form the yard. From the ferns, gay little spring flowers of every color pop their heads—daffodils, Jonquils, tulips and narcissus.

Flowers for Favors

For favors, a tiny growing flower, each in different colored pottery, will be in keeping. Hanging over the center of the table is a sprinkling-can which showers streamers of narrow white satin ribbons to the flower-pot of the bride-to-be—and hers is the only white flower. White streamers also attach the flower pots to the packages concealed under the bungalow roof, and when at the

Rubber Is Not Elastic

Rubber is one of the most inelastic of substances, points out "Time, the Newsmagazine." The extensibility of rubber is usually confused with its elasticity. An absolutely elastic substance is one which returns to its original size and shape after stretching. Rubber does not do that. Pull a piece of rubber, release it, measure it. It is deformed. Old rubbers are bigger than new ones. Steel is far more elastic than rubber, but of course much less stretchable. Glass is probably more elastic than steel. Quartz is an almost perfect elastic. Hence its use in nice measuring instruments such as telescopes.

Bay Rum

The original bay rum is made by distilling the juice of the leaves of the bayberry, a tree which grows extensively in the West Indies. No particular attention is given to the cultivation of the tree. The making of bay rum was formerly chiefly a seasonal, local industry in the islands like the preparation of maple syrup in this country.

The distilled oil of the bay, however, is only one ingredient of the commercial bay rum of the present day. It includes also alcohol, water, oil of orange peel and oil of pimento. Most of that sold in the United States is mixed in this country by drug firms, hair tonic manufacturers, etc.

"Love Apple"

Thomas Jefferson recorded the growing of tomatoes in Virginia in 1781, yet it is said that an Italian could not persuade the people of Salem, Mass., to taste the tomato in 1802.

But the "love apple" or "gold apple" of the herbalists soon after began to appear as a market vegetable. In the early part of the Eighteenth century the tomato was a subject of general field culture in Italy and it is to the people of that country that we must accord its highest and earliest appreciation.

Heron Honest Fisherman

If a vote was ever taken among trout fishermen there would be a continuous open season on great blue herons for this brigand of the trout streams (so named for the reason that fishermen won't become convinced the heron eats anything but small trout), annoys the fly casting and plunker by its mere presence on a trout stream. As a patient, honest fisherman, however, the heron has it all over his human competitors and it fishes for food alone, not sport.

Early News Transmission: In the days before railways and telegraphy many ingenious methods were devised for the rapid transmission of "all the winners at Doncaster" during St. Leger week. In 1825 specially trained dogs were dispatched with the news to several of the big Midland towns, and in the following year carrier pigeons conveyed the results to London, arriving in the early morning of the day following the race.

Quantities of Amber

Found in Baltic Basin

Amber has been mined for hundreds of years in the so-called blue earth of the Baltic basin. It is classified as a fossil resin and geologists believe that several species of pines have had a part in the formation of the amber of the Baltic basin.

Pieces of amber are torn from the sea floor and cast up by the waves. They are collected at ebb tide by searchers who sometimes wade into the sea and with nets attached to long poles drag to the beach the seaweed containing entangled masses of amber. Dredges have also been used.

Lithuanian raw amber is the property of the government. Each finder has to deliver the pieces to administrators of the state's central depots of amber. Failure to do so leads to a charge of embezzlement.

Amber has found its greatest use in the fashioning of ornaments. Artisans who make necklaces, bracelets and brooches turn the amber on a lathe and polish it with whiting and water, or with stone and oil, the final luster being imparted by friction with flannel.—New York Times.

Scottish Abbey Holds

Relics of Robert Bruce

Subject to the fulfillment of certain conditions, the trustees of Professor Noel Paton handed over the following articles to the Kirk-session of Dunfermline abbey: 1. A portion of the skeleton of King Robert the Bruce, namely, the metatarsal or bone of the great toe. 2. A small portion of the outer leaden shroud of King Robert the Bruce. 3. A small portion of the tole d'or in which the body of King Robert the Bruce was wrapped. 4. The remains of one of the iron nails which were found among the remains of the coffin in which the body was deposited. 5. The remains of one of the six iron rings, or rather handles, which had been filled in with lead into the largest of two stones protecting the vault of the Bruce when first discovered on February 17, 1818. 6. Twelve fragments of white marble and calm stone—"believed to be portions of the magnificent monument of King Robert the Bruce at Dunfermline destroyed by the Lords of the Congregation." The relics are preserved in an oak glass-fronted cabinet placed alongside of the abbey pulpit erected immediately above the vault of the Bruce.—London Mail.

Increased Production

With Egg Prices High

Poultrymen, by careful attention to the breeding and management of their laying flocks, have effected a definite change in the egg market. According to H. L. Shrader of the United States Department of Agriculture, this is evident as to both seasonal and annual production.

"The market receipts of fresh laid eggs during the late summer and fall months have been increasing the last few years," he comments. "This means that the pullets are being hatched and are maturing earlier, but it also denotes improved efficiency, because the birds are laying more eggs when prices are highest."

From the standpoint of the consumer this tendency is of definite value. "Already we have noticed," Mr. Shrader says, "that the increased production in the season when eggs were formerly scarce has prevented prices from soaring to extremely high levels."

Supers Should Be Added Often as Bees Require

Supers should be added just as often as the bees require—extra storage space for honey. Usually the beekeepers find it necessary to add the first super during the latter part of June. The second super is usually added along about the end of the first week in July. From then on till the end of the season the supers should be added rather frequently. If it is a poor season for honey production, then it may not be necessary to add any supers.

A Fruit Dessert for Spring

France Knows Tree Values

France

Knows Tree Values

In France, not so long ago stretched a region of over 12,000,000 acres of marsh and shifting sands where only a few useless shrubs were able to make a bare living. It had been completely deforested. It was adding nothing to the wealth of France, says Forests and Mankind. Finally the government planted trees throughout the region, put them in care of their foresters, and today, this once worthless, abandoned piece of land, is worth over $100,000,000 and supports prosperous communities.

Food for Queens

But the Queen, who should have been the gladdest of the throng, was sad indeed. A problem presented itself. Only a moment before, a page bowed low before her throne, sought to learn what desire in all the wide world, lay closest to her heart. Now ephedrae and chocolate drops and coconut kisses are good enough for just ordinary mortals, but Her Majesty could think of nought fit for a queen! Around and around the May-pole decked with garlands, her courtiers danced the morris dance—faster and faster! And more and more puckered grew the Queen's fair brow.

Then "Halt!" came the quick command. The music stopped. The Queen lifted her sceptre.

"A Pineapple Butterscotch Parfait—and stop on it!"

All the king's men and a cook were pressed into service, and this is the recipe by which they produced.

Her Majesty's Parfait—an excellent dish for May-parties. Melt three tablespoons of butter and one and one-half cups of brown sugar in a skillet. Let the butter and sugar simmer a few minutes, but avoid burning. Add three-fourths cup of pineapple syrup from a can of crushed pineapple, and let boil to the soft ball stage. Pour over the slightly beaten yolks of three eggs and cook gently until thickened. Cool, then fold in the stiffly-beaten egg whites, one and one-half cups of heavy cream, whipped, and one and one-half cups of crushed pineapple. Pack in individual molds or in paper cases and pack in salt and ice for four hours. This made sufficient for the Queen and seven courtiers.
