Wisner Boy Auto Crash Victim Sunday

Slamming On Brakes At Full Speed Causes Fatal Mishap.

Companion Slightly Hurt

Hugo L. Werk, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Werk of Wisner, is dead following an automobile accident on the road four miles east of Stanton last Sunday morning.

The young man died from severe injuries to his chest caused when the car he was driving turned turtle and fell on him.

The accident occurred about one o'clock that morning when Hugo and Dan Chalmers were hurrying to Pitter to meet another friend. They were going at a good rate of speed and did not notice until too late that they had driven on to a side road. The brakes were jammed on before the car had slackened in its speed and the car got beyond the control of the driver and turned completely over. Chalmers received only a few minor cuts and bruises and was able to extricate himself from the wreckage and summon help from a passing motorist.

The two were taken to the Norfolk hospital where first aid was given, but Wert failed to regain consciousness and passed away the following morning about 9 o'clock.

Hugo was 18 years of age, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Werk of Wisner.

LAUREL GIRL IS VICTIM OF ASSAULT

Found In Pasture Near Town By Searching Party.

Considerable interest has been accorded this case of Miss Opal Snyder, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Snyder, who was found unconscious in a pasture near Laurel Thursday, a week ago. She was bound and gagged when found and her bruised and disheveled condition showed that she had been accorded rough treatment.

On being brought to consciousness the girl told of having been accosted by a man and woman driving a touring car bearing a Colorado license. The woman asked the girl the way to Wayne, and while they were talking the man came up behind her and pushed her into the car and drove away. They wanted the key to her father's truck, the young girl told County Attorney Haley, of Cedar county and when she could not comply with their demands they bound her and left her in the condition she was in when found.

The parents of the sixteen-year-old girl became alarmed when she did not return home Wednesday night and, spreading the alarm, a searching party was organized which continued its efforts throughout the day, finding her the next morning.

Weather Moderated First Of The Week

Delightfully cool weather arrived Sunday as a relief from the torrid spell of last week. Saturday's 103 degrees was supplanted by 60 degrees the following day. But the dry weather still continues and the hot weather is beginning to assert itself again with the thermometer hovering around the 100 mark again Wednesday.

Corn is bearing up well under the protracted drought, but small grain has suffered and the oat and barley crop which is being harvested at this time, is reported to be unusually light and short.

RETURN FROM CONVENTION

Joe Smolski, Miss Vivian Scott and Mrs. Harley Spraker, the staff of the French Beauty Parlor returned home Wednesday from Omaha, where they spent the first of the week attending the annual convention of beauty parlor specialists in session at that time. Joe announces many new ideas that were presented at the gathering which his establishment is going to incorporate in their work.

Set Your Alarm Clock--Siren Silent

Have you missed the seven o'clock siren?

It has been taken off the daily schedule of regular soundings and those who have relied upon it to arouse them from their nightly slumbers had better go back to the old alarm clock.

To many people it has been a convenience and to many others it has been a decided pest. If others it has been a decided pest. It has been especially annoying to the traveling public stopping at the hotels near by and on their behalf the seven o'clock siren has been silenced.

Circus Didn't Pan Out As Scheduled

Show Given Was Not The Show Promised Says Sponsors.

Circus day failed to materialize. F. J. Taylor's Great American three ringed circus, billed here for Thursday and Friday of last week found numerous obstacles to make it impossible for them to make their scheduled performances and after camping on the ground several days they assembled their motley assortment of paraphernalia and moved on to their next place of schedule.

The circus, which has its headquarters in Omaha, made arrangements to show here under the auspices of American Legion. The prospectus given the local Legion post gave the impression of a complete and up-to-date circus, which would compare favorably with any of the smaller types of circuses on the road.

When a broken down caravan arrived in town Thursday morning and announced that it was the circus, the Legion committee registered dispair and promptly "washed it hands" of the whole affair.

Mr. Taylor, owner of the concern appeared on the scene late Friday and attempted to bring order out of the chaos existing but too many obstacles beset the running of the show and the management decided to camp on show grounds until reasonably good sailing was assured.

The circus, according to members of the company, relies chiefly for its support from fairs which book it as their free attraction. Between the time intervening between early summer and the fair season they book dates such as the local one with the sponsorship of local organizations.

According to the committee of the American Legion, the show did not come up to what was promised when the booking was made and they refused to have anything to do with it when it arrived on the scene. The tickets sold in advance have been returned to the purchasers.

CHARGED WITH ROUGH TREATMENT

Charges of assault and battery were brought against Russell Likes in county court last Monday which cost him $100 and costs when he pleaded guilty to having meted unusually rough treatment to a nineteen year old girl while the two were out for a ride in his car the evening previous. The complaint alleged that young Likes had made advances which the young girl resented and she got out of the car and started to run away. Likes gave chase and catching up to her, the girl claimed he struck her in the back of her head with his fist. This according to testimony, he followed by slapping. The fine and costs were paid by the defendant.

PIERCE HAS CHAMP LE-GION KID NINE OF DIST.

Winner In Three Day Tournament Here Last Week.

To Try For State Title

Baseball as sizzling hot as the weather—that prevailed while it was being played, featured the tournament of the American Legion sponsored "Kid" nines of Northeast Nebraska, held at the Fair ground Wednesday, Thursday and Friday afternoon of last week.

The title went to the crafty Pierce aggregation following their four to five win over the West Point nine which seemed to have matters cinched until the eighth inning. Up to that time West Point had maintained a lead from the first of the game of three to four. Then, with two men on bases and two strikes on the batter the West Point pitcher heaved a wild one which the batter had presence to mind enough to strike at. This brought in two runs and cinched the title for Pierce.

In the opening tilt on Wednesday, West Point shut out Craig in a thrilling game. Pierce bested Emerson in a one sided game by a score of 14 to 2. On Thursday Pierce beat Norfolk by a 20 to 9 score and West Point also had the best of it in one-sided tilt with Winside.

In addition to the championship tilt on Friday, the Wayne Legion kids defeated a similar team from Wisner by a 9 to 5 score. This game had no bearing on the championship, as neither team had qualified to participate in the tournament.

By virtue of the success, the Pierce team is now entitled to compete in the state championship tournament and, if successful there, in the national tournament. These events are a part of the national program of the American Legion organization.

Lutherans Observe Church Festival Here

Two Thousand People Attend 400 Anniversary Of Church.

Held At Fair Grounds

Observance of the four hundredth anniversary of the Augsburg Confession at the fair grounds last Sunday morning and afternoon drew one of the largest gatherings of a religious nature ever assembled in Wayne.

More than two thousand people were present to hear re-enacted the most important highlight in Lutheran church history, the event commemorating the publication of certain religious tenets that marked the separation of the adherents of Luther from the Roman Catholic church.

The gathering was given under the auspices of the Missouri Lutheran synod of its churches in Cedar, Dixon and Wayne counties and partook largely of the nature of a celebration. The morning address was delivered in the German language by Rev. Hellmann of Hastings and the afternoon address by Rev. E. Oelschlaeger of West Point who spoke in English. A choir from West Point and a band from a country congregation furnished music throughout the day. Picnic lunches were served at noon hour.

MINIATURE GOLF COURSE IS BEING INSTALLED

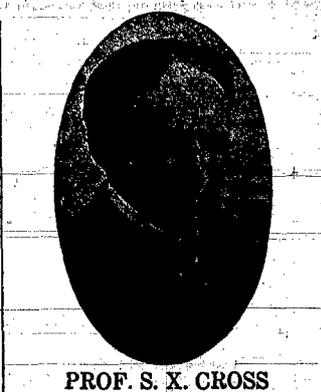

A miniature golf course is in the making at the present time. E. E. Galley has leased the vacant lot on Main street between the Standard Oil Station and the Sala Service station and will transform it into a miniature course along the same idea as those being in numerous towns and cities all over the country at present.

The course will be provided with greens and numerous hazards and traps similar to the artificial hazards provided for the most modern types of courses. The ground at present is being leveled off and the necessary equipment will be here in the course of a few days.

Residents of the neighborhood are expressing gratification in the fact that an unsightly lot is being made into a thing of beauty and put to what golf minded people would call—a practical use.

RETURN FROM TRIP IN BLACK HILLS MONDAY

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Mildner and family of South Sioux City and Herman Mildner of this city returned Monday from a 10 days' motor trip through the Black Hills. The weather was hot and dry during their trip and the crops in that country were spotted and partly dried. Traveling through the Bad Lands one day, the party found the temperature to have reached the blistering height of 123 degrees. Trout fishing was fair, and all in all, the vacationists had a nice time in spite of the intense heat during the daylight hours.

PROF. S. X. CROSS

Sholes People Seeking Estate

Unusual Probate Case Is Being Brought Before Supreme Court.

Should the supreme court of Nebraska decide that their claim is a valid one, several members of the Mattingly family of Sholes, Nebr., may soon be in possession of a legacy of $10,000 from the estate of the late George W. Mattingly, of David City, a negro veteran of the Civil war and a pioneer settler of Butler county.

The Sholes Mattingly's, asserting that they were relatives of the deceased, laid claim to a portion of the estate. This claim has been the subject of controversy in court every term for the past six years. The probate court has allowed the claim and the trustees of the estate have rejected it. The matter is now to be settled by the state supreme court.

The Sholes Mattingly's claim that they are heirs to a portion of the estate by virtue of a stipulation in the will which provides a bequest to a son of Mattingly's half brother (white). They assert that this half brother is their father.

Dr. Mettlen, Former Wayne Resident Dead

Was Prominent Knight Templar and Ex-Service Man.

Funeral services were conducted Monday at Bloomfield, for Dr. J. H. Mettlen, prominent in medical and Masonic circles of the state, who passed away at his home in Bloomfield last Friday. His death was caused by heart failure augmented by the severe heat prevailing at that time.

Dr. Mettlen has long been prominent in Masonic activities, especially in the Knight Templars and was at the head of that organization at the time of his death. He was also an ex-service man, enlisting during the World War and serving as an army surgeon in a hospital in England during the entire period of the war.

He spent his early manhood in Wayne, coming to Wayne county as a boy with his parents. He had been a resident of Bloomfield for thirty-five years. He is survived by his wife and a daughter, and a brother residing at Omaha.

Mrs. Silas Melick Dies This Morning

Death came this morning, July 17, to Mrs. Silas Melick at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Ed Miller, after about a month's illness. She would have attained the age of 84 years the coming fall.

Funeral services will be held Saturday afternoon, July 19, and interment will be made in the Greenwood cemetery. Further arrangements are as yet incomplete.

WAYNE IN THE MOVIES

Hollywood has a rival. Main street provided the setting for the filming of a two reel comedy soon to be shown at the Crystal theatre. The comedy, entitled "Two Troublesome Tramps," is a strictly home town product, enacted by local talent. With the exception of the two tramps, around whom the comedy is staged, the actors are all without makeup and in their conventional poses. It should be an interesting picture to see.

Prof. S. X. Cross Passes Away After Long Illness

Death Comes To Beloved Educator At Home Sunday.

Funeral Services Tuesday

S. X. Cross, for many years instructor in the Department of English in the Wayne Teachers College, and prior to that, pastor of the First Presbyterian church of this city, died at his home in Wayne last Sunday following an illness of long standing.

Although he had been in failing health for a long time and his friends knew that the end was fast approaching, his death came as a distinct shock for Prof. Cross had been engaged with his duties at the college up to three weeks ago and only desisted when his illness made it impossible for him to carry on further.

Early last winter he went to Rochester, Minnesota for consultation at the Mayo Clinic, but the malady had advanced too far to warrant an operation and it was known then that the end was near. The final turn for the worse came a few days ago.

Samuel Xenophon Cross was born in Tuscarawas County, Ohio, September 28, 1875. He moved to Iowa in the fall of 1882, and to Nebraska in 1904. He joined the Presbyterian church in 1887. In 1905 he was married to Sarah Myrtle Gregoire. To this union were born three sons, Samuel Xenophon, Albert John Foy, and Allan Gregoire, who with his wife survive him.

He was graduated from Shellsburg high school in 1896, Tilford College Academy in 1898, Coe College, Cedar Rapids, Iowa in 1904, and the Omaha Theological Seminary in 1911. His whole life was spent as a teacher and a minister of the gospel, serving in both capacities in several fields.

He moved to Wayne, January 1, 1914, and became pastor of the Presbyterian church. In 1918 he resigned his pastorate to accept a position on the faculty of the Wayne State Teachers college. For a number of years he served part of each year as field representative of the college. In this capacity he became widely and favorably known to the school men, high school students and teachers of Northeast Nebraska.

Mr. Cross was a man whom the college, the church, the community, and Nebraska can ill afford to lose. He was endowed with a keen mind and a sympathetic heart, both of which he retained to the end. His kindly nature and his willingness to confer and advise with students and friends endeared him to all who knew him. He was always willing to do his share of whatever task was at hand. Serving his friends and associates, the community, the church and the college was his delight. He was a man who worked industriously at whatever task was before him, always giving his best. He not only believed in the principles of Christianity but practiced them as well. In the death of Professor Cross his family have lost a loving husband and father, his students a worthy adviser and friend, his faculty associates an industrious and congenial co-worker, the community an honorable, upright, worthy citizen.

Funeral services were conducted at the Presbyterian church Tuesday morning with Rev. P. A. Davies, pastor of the First Methodist church delivering the funeral address. The body was laid to rest in the Greenwood cemetery.

Among friends from out of town who attended the funeral were Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Thurber and Mrs. L. V. Gregoire, of Craig; and Mr. and Mrs. M. F. Gregoire and family, Mr. and Mrs. D. G. Crinklau and family and Mrs. Ed Schler, all of Omaha.

Harvesting is in progress. The oats do not promise a good yield. It would take a yield of 50 bushels to the acre at present prices to pay cost of production alone, with no allowance for wages. The yield will probably average half of that.

Many horses were killed by the unusual heat of last week. The corn and oat crop both needed attention and in trying to keep his work ahead many a man overworked a horse in the intense heat. A large number of hogs which had improper shade and wallows were overcome, entailing a real loss to the owner.

HITCHHIKERS VISIT LAUREL

Laurel—Two fair young ladies from Omaha who did not under any circumstances want their names to get into print visited Laurel the first of last week. They were on their way from Omaha to the Black Hills, So. Dakota to spend their vacation. They carried their knapsacks on their backs as all good hitchhikers do and were having the time of their young lives. They had been assisted on their way to this city by passing motorists and entertained no fears but that they would ride most of the way to the Hills.

A Tribute

(From the Goldenrod)

In the death of Professor Cross the Teachers college has suffered a very great loss. During the past twelve years he has served in the capacity of Registrar for one year, field representative about two years and the remainder of the time in the department of English. His fine spirit of cooperation, his cheery greeting for everyone and friendly attitude have endeared him to students and faculty alike. He was always interested, not only in the success of the school but the personal welfare of the students. He enjoyed his class work, enjoyed his association with his students and has a host of admirers and personal friends, among the students and especially those under his instruction.

About two years ago there seemed to be evidence that he was not in his usual good health although there were never any complaints heard from him. It was not until about the beginning of the present school year that his physician began to suspect the thing which later examination proved to be the difficulty, a cancer of the stomach. An operation proved of no avail. It served only as temporary relief. Although Professor Cross knew there could be but one outcome to his ailment this did not seem to affect him in the least in his optimism and cheery attitude toward those about him. He attended his classes and conducted them regularly until about three weeks ago when he was forced to relinquish the work which he loved so much, to others.

The value of a teacher like Professor Cross does not depend so much upon his skill in teaching nor the things which he teaches as it does upon his evident good will toward those with whom he is working and his hopeful optimistic outlook upon life. No school can well afford to lose such a member from its faculty. He will long be remembered by his associates and students as a real friend to man.

YOUNG TOUGHS OBNOXIOUS

Laurel—There is a gang of young would-be toughs making themselves obnoxious in the city by watching out for parties and social events and then sneaking in and making away with the refreshments and raising Cain in general. It is high time these fellows were taken into custody and made to give an account of themselves.

SERVICE CAN'T BE SHIPPED!

What buyer can place a value on SERVICE he receives? Consider a few examples taken for granted every day. How much are these services worth to you?

When the teakettle leaks, you know who'll fix it. When you drop your watch the repair man is handy. Every tire wherever bought, will welcome "free air". A suit isn't easily pressed or repaired by mail.

If the battery goes dead, the oil needs changing or the radiator thawing out, there's service at hand.

When needing a hat, suit, dress, coat or shoes, - it's the trying-on and careful fitting that gives you the assurance of comfort and becoming style.

Food ordered by phone and delivered; the radio fixed when it balks; sickness checked by a prescription quickly filled at your druggist's. You CAN'T buy these services over "long distance".

You really need your stores. They will continue to serve cheerfully and willingly, for that is one way of MERITING your trade. In fairness, use their goods as well as their services.

RED PROPAGANDA

A BOOMERANG

The case of Thomas J. Mooney and Warren J. Billings, convicted perpetrators of the Preparedness day bombing in San Francisco fourteen years ago, has again come into the limelight by the recent refusal of the California governor to extend executive clemency to the pair.

The case is undoubtedly the most sensational one of its kind in the world. The pair, being radicals, have been regarded as objects of political persecution by radicals all over the world. Millions of dollars have been raised for their defense and some very plausible evidence has been submitted to show that a miscarriage of justice has placed them behind prison bars.

But the California governor's decision has thrown into the discard the imposing array of propaganda designed to free them. Whether or not the governor is due for censure for his action we have no way of telling. It is hard to conceive of the idea that the chief executive of a state would be so blind to human justice that he would wilfully allow a man to remain in prison whom he thought was innocent of crime.

It is easier to believe that when the sensational radical propaganda designed to free the men was sifted down it was so much like all other red propaganda that it simply could not be relied upon.

If this be true, the radicals have, as they have so often done in the past, defeated their own ends. Causes like these have had to suffer because of the persistent and sensational efforts on the part of the reds to defeat justice every time one of their number becomes involved.

Every time some half-crazy radical goes off the tangent and runs amuck, there is a hue and cry of political persecution when he is jailed. It makes no difference whether the party arrested is guilty or not, the cry of persecution persists. In due course of time the authorities become enloused to the red hysteria and refuse to be bulldozed.

Such may be the case in California. The governor may have been guided, in making his decision, by the facts of the case and may have totally ignored the fact that millions of communists are clamoring for their release.

The governor may have harkened back to the days about twenty years ago when the McNamara brothers were arrested for bombing a Los Angeles newspaper office—an atrocity that had cost more than a score of lives. Reds of every hue raised a cry about political persecution. Every governmental agency that had anything to do with the case was accused of corruption, of being a "tool of the capitalist system," of railroading innocent men to the gallows, etc. but in spite of the fact that Clarence E. Darrow had been employed to defend them and had fought every legal move to bring them to justice—the pair pleaded guilty to the crime.

Thus it may be that red propaganda has come to serve as a boomerang against the agitators who have employed neither honesty nor common sense in their use of it.

REPEAL THE PRIMARY?

The primary election law has been the subject of more than its usual quota of criticism in Nebraska following the recent filing of a George W. Norris of Broken Bow, against our present United States senator bearing the identical cognomen.

The situation obviates a glaring shortcoming in the law. There are other far more serious weaknesses in the law, plainly shown in some of the recent senatorial primaries throughout the nation—Pennsylvania and Illinois, for instance.

Nevertheless, with all its glaring imperfections, the primary election system is a vast improvement over the old convention method.

The old convention system has been tried out and has been found sadly deficient. In the old convention days the placing of a candidate before the public was vested in a few shrewd and not always scrupulous politicians. A man's fitness for office was usually gauged by his loyalty to the party with which he was identified rather than any real ability to serve. Men politically ambitious had to receive the official sanction of some political sanction of some part. Of cynical boss before he dared to expect any consideration in the conventions. If the boss didn't look with favor upon his candidacy, chances were ten to one, that he didn't have a look in.

Of course, there were exceptions, and the old convention system turned out some great statesmen. Through it we got our Websters, Clays, Lincolns, Garfields, Cleveland and Bryans. But we also got a lot of politicians by the same route which the world has mercifully forgot.

It is within the memory of men far from old how some big corporation bought sufficient legislative votes to insure the election to the United States Senate of some politician who could never have been elected by popular vote.

Yet we see the present day election methods discussed as a step backward. Whenever we see designing politicians take advantage of any weakness in the primary system, we hear a clamor for the return of the good old convention days. We have forgotten all about the glaring abuses of the old system that brought about its removal.

BEAST, BIRD OR FISH?

"The democrats in opposition were Black, Copeland, George, Harris, Walsh (Montana,) and Wheeler. The republicans were Johnson, La Follette, Borah, Nye, Frazier, Brookhart and Norris."

The above is a recent record of votes in the United States Senate. It is an authentic vote.—On what measure, however, is not particular for the above recorded vote has been verbatim on dozens of matters up for consideration. It matters little what measure is sponsored or who sponsored it, it can always be depended upon that this coterie is against it. The public has come to take their attitude for granted but one thing is still unexplained and that is the question as to what shade of political opinion causes one group to be listed as democrats and the other republicans.

Conditions Changed In Our Barber Shops

Not the least among the noticeable changes that have become effective in business institutions of the country, are the remarkable changes that have taken place in the barber shops in the last five or six years.

The women folks are generally given credit of this phenomena—for phenomena it is—and no one can deny that they are entitled to a major portion of credit. But the fact cannot be lost sight of that a large measure of credit is also due the barbers who had the foresight and ambition to conform to the requirements that the "bobbed hair regime" demanded.

Thanks to an organization known as Master Barbers, the barber shop has become one of the neatest and most attractive business places along Main street. Master barbers, in order to acquire the title must conform to rules of the craft that are strict in requirements of sanitation, equipment and service. Hence the dingy old barber shop that reeked of stale tobacco smoke and formed a haven for the male fraternity that made women reluctant to pass the shop, has become neat, refined and far more efficient.

Miss Hove Writes Of Trip To Europe

(From the Goldenrod)
Miss Marie Hove—who is touring Europe with her sister this summer writes to Wayne friends of her trip, sending a letter while still on the boat, the steamship Littlia.

The ship is a Scotch liner. Miss Hove wrote appreciatively of the service and courtesy of the employees. "On Sunday," she said, "we got into the fog—it was so thick that one couldn't see the length of the boat. The fog horn blew almost continually until about 10 o'clock Monday. At midnight Sunday we just stopped and stood still for ten hours due to the fog and the nearness of icebergs. When the fog lifted Monday A. M. there, was another ship just a short distance from us and at right angles to us. Guess it was the safest to stop, but it did seem like a waste of time.

"Monday evening we ran into a storm, and did we rock for two days and two nights? We still are rocking considerably, but it is much calmer today. On our tables we had 9 in. sideboards and the tablecloth dampened to hold the dishes. Even then they slipped away. More good food has gone on the floor the last two days. All of the desks, bridge tables, etc. in the lounge have been stacked and roped down. The only way to stay put was to sit down in a chair and hang on to a post—otherwise you would find yourself at the opposite end of the lounge. Even in my childhood days my mother did not rock me to sleep as I have been rocked the past two nights."

She expected to stop at Belfast on the morning of the twenty-first of June and arrive at Liverpool the evening of the following day.

Already her faith in humanity was being tried in the exchange of money.

Miss Hove plans to return to Wayne for the opening of school in September.

UNHAMMERED IN ITS GROWTH

It was a very warm afternoon and the train was crowded. I selected a seat hurriedly and glanced casually at my fellow passenger across the aisle.

There was something peculiar about that man! I removed my glasses and gazed frankly at his profile. It was his nose! It was a good enough nose to be sure, but large, long, protruding, prominent—certainly an outstanding nose.

I fell to musing—how had that man—? A harsh voice interrupted my thoughts.

"I'll bet five dollars it's natural." Three men directly ahead of me were gazing at The Nose with unconcealed interest.

"Ah, Harry, that ain't natural! That fellow was in an accident of some kind."

Accident nothing! Don't blame everything on to football. He was born with it. I'll bet—?"

I turned my eyes discreetly towards the object of conversation. I knew instantly that he was aware of the comments directed at him. His ears were fiery red and a look of mingled disgust and anger was distorting his countenance partially concealed behind his newspaper.

I felt my own anger rising as the voices of the men rose with their interest in the bets.

"I'll bet ten dollars Harry that that fellow's been in an accident."

The third man finally rose slowly. "Stop your betting! Maybe it's natural and maybe it ain't. I'm gonna find out. I'm gonna ask him."

The big fellow cleared his throat slightly and tapped the man with the big nose on the shoulder.

"Beg pardon—ahem—but me an' my friends have been talkin' about your nose. Harry—here, says it's natural; Jim says you've had an accident of some kind. Now, would you mind tellin' us—?"

The little man with the big nose folded his paper, and looking squarely in the eyes of his questioner, replied,

"My good man, I don't mind tellin' you about my nose, and you may tell your friends. I used to have a very small nose, but by keeping it out of other people's business, it grew."

INSTALLING EQUIPMENT FOR NIGHT FOOTBALL

(From the Goldenrod)

Equipment for the lighting of the football field has arrived but the work of installing is delayed because the posts have not arrived. As soon as these come the field will be put in order for night playing.

The equipment is from the General Electric system, the headlight type of projector with polished mirror and stippled lens. There are 34 units, each 1000 watt bulb mounted on 60-ft. steel posts. Thirty of the units will be turned on the playing field and four will be arranged for the high balls.

Because of the plans for night football the schedule arranged has had to be readjusted. The schedule will be published as soon as the games have been definitely dated. In order to take advantage of the new night equipment Coach Hickman is trying to arrange for three games at home during the month of October. The Homecoming game will be November first with Peru, and will be a night game.

Prospects for the coming season are better than they have been for several years. Every man for the line will weigh 185 pounds or more. The line will include McKinley at center; Bunny Hunt, Kiefer, Richley, and Newton as guards; Hanson and Holtoff as tackles; Evans and Lindamood as ends; and the back field will have Captain Dennis, Loren Andrews, and Swede Anderson. The freshman class gives promise of very good material this year also.

Miss La Vern Stamm spent the Fourth in the C. W. Reissen home at Osmond.

WAYNE DEFEATS OSMOND 10-7
Duplicating last Sunday's game of ball, the local team defeated Osmond there 10-7. Both teams enjoyed a scoring spree in the early innings of the game and the score stood 5-4 for Wayne, until the seventh, when Ron Reed hit a home run with Groger, Lerner and Collins on the bases. Reed's heavy hitting has been a deciding factor in Wayne's last two wins. Lou Sund pitched four innings for Wayne, and then "Chuck" Collins took up the mound duty pitching good ball, and holding the Osmond sluggers to five hits and three runs. Sellery's, Osmond pitcher allowed Wayne ten hits and found fifteen, but timely hitting by the locals won the game.

The Osmond team previous to Sunday's game boasted of four continuous wins. Batteries: Osmond, Sellery and Roach; Wayne: Sund, Collins and Kroger. July 20th Wayne meets Randolph, and a good game can be expected as Randolph won from Carroll Sunday 8-7 in ten innings.

FARM STOCK

BEEF CATTLE ARE FEWER ON FARMS

Increase Seen as Prices for Meat Are Higher.

The beginning of this year found fewer beef cattle on farms and ranges in the United States than at any previous time for half a century. There were then only about 24,000,000 head in the country. Under the influence of higher prices for beef, the number is now beginning to increase, according to figures collected by C. R. Arnold of the rural economics department of the Ohio State university.

In summarizing the history of the beef cycle in the United States Arnold has found that in 1895 more than 40,000,000 beef cattle were on the farms and ranges of the country. This number declined to about 33,000,000 animals in 1904, and then started up again under the influence of strengthening prices. By 1907 the number had again risen to about 38,000,000 head. Low prices again caused a drop to about 27,000,000 head in 1914. War demands raised prices and the herds increased to a total of about 36,000,000 head in 1919. Sudden cessation of the war time demand dropped the price, and numbers and prices declined together until they were exceptionally low from 1920 to 1926.

The beef cattle cycle extends over a long period of years, Arnold points out, because the number of cattle cannot be increased as rapidly as the number of hogs or sheep.

"It seems evident that we will have a larger number of cattle within the next few years, but it seems doubtful that we can expect low prices for beef cattle for at least two or three years, because the number which we have at the present time on ranges is so exceptionally low," says Arnold.

Pure-Bred Ram Adds Pounds to Lamb Crop

An interesting experiment has been conducted by the Oklahoma experiment station.

A pure-bred ram was placed with one group of ewes averaging in weight 104 pounds. Ewes were all on the same kind of pasture and fed the same kind of feeds in the same quantities. When the lambs were born from the pure-bred they averaged 8.9 pounds.

The scrub ram was placed with the second group of ewes of the same quality and age as the first group, their weights being an average of 104.7 pounds each. These were given the same care as the first group. The lambs when born weighed only 8.1 pounds.

Although the lambs sired by the pure-bred ate no more than those sired by the scrub ram, the lambs from the pure-bred ram gained faster and weighed 103.2 pounds when sold and the lambs from the scrub weighed only 95 pounds.

The difference in dollars and cents was that the lambs from the pure-bred ram brought $1.98 more, with no extra cost for feed or care.

All Barns Need Plenty of Air and Sunlight

All barns should have an abundance of ventilation, sunlight and drainage. Beware of drainage toward or into the barn or yards from premises previously occupied by diseased animals of any kind. Old barns are more apt to be troublesome. Basement barns, particularly if built years ago, are likely to have floors at a level below that of the outside ground levels. This is dangerous, as it keeps such barns damp and full of bad air. Basements require a larger amount of drainage and ventilation than barns built wholly above ground and on high ground, with ample natural drainage of the surroundings. A low basement barn may easily drain an area of two or three hundred feet around it.

Live Stock Hints

Feed only what the animals will clean up.

Avoid extremes in the condition of breeding stock.

By following the plan of creep feeding, lambs may be marketed earlier at a higher price.

Avoid digestive and intestinal troubles in winter by using well-cured green-cut roughage and succulents.

If the lambs are to be born strong and vigorous, a moderate amount of exercise is necessary for the ewes during the winter.

Experiments at the University of Illinois have proved ear corn ensilage to be an economical and profitable feed for beef cattle.

Exercise for brood sows should not be overlooked. Feeding them some distance from the sleeping quarters will help to provide it.

From every angle in the cattle production business, a good sire is a necessity and a good cow herd is a great help in the production of beef that will return a profit.

Commuter Ready Victim of Star Salesmanship

There is an art in salesmanship. This has been observed before, but it was made plain to the commuter when he bought for the princely sum of $20 a dilapidated car minus paint and with all the fenders buckled.

Knowing nothing about cars, as soon as trouble developed, and it wasn't very long before it did, the commuter hauled the wreck to the garage. The garage man was a salesman. He looked the car over and he didn't even smile. He handled it like a high-priced purchase. Then he turned to the commuter.

"Been driving long?" he asked.

"No," the commuter admitted.

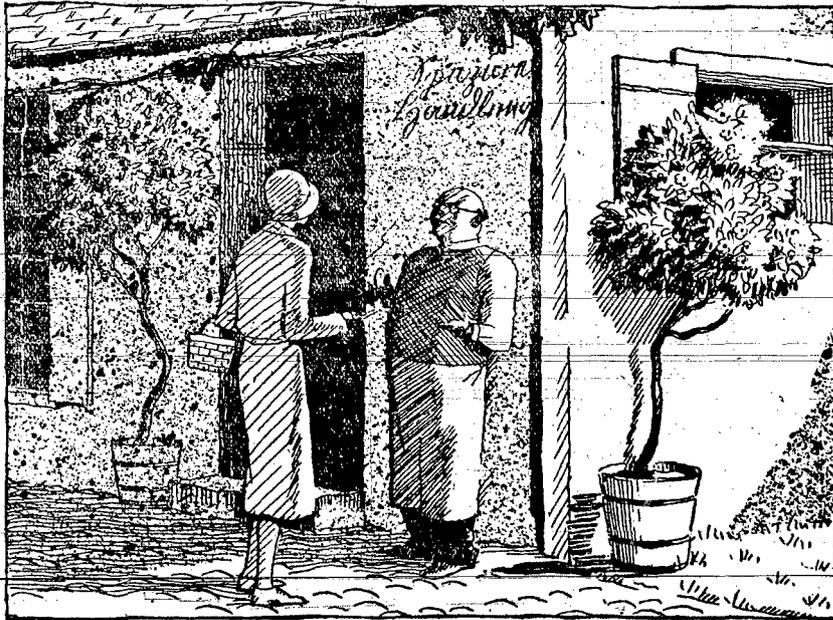

"Well," responded the garage man in a confidential manner, "I'll give you a tip. There are a lot of car thieves around. When you leave your car even for a few minutes, turn the ignition key and take it with you. To make doubly sure that nobody steals the car, turn off the gas."

The commuter's opinion of the car soared high. He hadn't considered the probability that any thief would waste his time on the wreck that he owned. If the garage man thought enough of it to warn him then it must be a good car. Probably a high-grade engine he mused. In fact, he was so impressed that when the garage man handed him a bill for $75 for 30 minutes' work he didn't even feel annoyed.—New York Sun.

Zinc Causes Paint to Show Color Variation

A man's puzzlement over a fence post which he had painted black, but which turned white every night, was the starting point of a program of research which has culminated in the

VITAMINS WERE VITAL

There are many records of canned foods which have been kept for decades and found to be in perfect condition when opened, and, although in the following account by Prudence Penny of the New York American, of how the life of an aged German invalid was saved by means of canned foods that were kept for less than a decade, it furnishes a vivid illustration of what modern scientific methods of canning mean to our civilization. This story, which appeared in a recent issue of this newspaper, reads as follows:

"I was in Germany—Leipzig to be exact—in 1923, during those wild days when the value of the mark sunk to depths unheard of, poverty and all its attendant ills were the order of the day, and it was difficult for the vast majority of the Germans to buy enough food to sustain the spark of life in them.

"I, with my American dollars, was by way of being a millionaire! And when I found that I had a dear old penniless invalid lady for a neighbor, I was enchanted at the prospect of spending some of my wealth to win her back to health.

"I searched the markets for the vegetables that she needed, and that I wanted; and found, to my dismay, that turnips and potatoes were all that I could get. No fresh peas, or string beans, or lettuce, or squash; no cabbage, no eggplant, or tomatoes or any one of the delicious vegetables without a couple of which no meal could be complete, to me. And I had an invalid to provide for, too—an invalid who needed those vitamin-filled vegetables!

"I was in a quandary. Some happy chance took me into a little grocery store, and there on a shelf, way out of reach, I saw row upon row of cans—cans of vegetables, all of them bearing familiar American trade-marks. There were all the ones I wanted most, and my heart was gladdened at the very sight of them. I told the grocer to give me a dozen cans to start with; but he looked at me, sadness in his eye at the thought of losing the sale, and said:

"No, lady, you don't want those cans. I have to tell you the truth—they've been on that shelf since 1914. Those cans are nine years old! We Germans don't eat many vegetables, you know; and for nine years I've been waiting for an American to come along and buy them. But I just can't sell them to you; it wouldn't be right."

"It was enough to take the joy

right out of life! But I looked again at the cans—there wasn't a bulge to be seen in any one of them; and I did want vegetables! I assured the grocer I was grateful for his honesty, but I'd have a dozen cans anyway. And the poor man, putting me down, I feel sure as a lunatic bent on suicide, sold me the cans.

"When I got them home, I examined them carefully for signs of deterioration of the product each contained. But not a sign could I find. The contents of every one of those cans was as fresh and good as the day they were sealed in the can—and for nine long months my invalid, my guests and I lived on canned vegetables. Not the original dozen cans, of course. I went back to that little shop and bought up the whole supply of the nine-year-old canned goods!

"To me, that was a remarkable demonstration of the quality of the vegetables and fruits that are canned. I am a staunch advocate of Can-Opener Housekeeping, when time is at a premium. And, despite all the gibes that are flung at the housekeepers whose kitchen shelves boast rows of canned goods, I want to assure you that excellent, dietetically correct meals can be prepared with the aid of a can-opener."

Discovery of a Number of Chemicals

having this remarkable chameleon-like property, scientifically termed phototropy. Information regarding these chemicals has now been made public by the American Chemical Society. The famous fence post was painted with a "pigment having a zinc basis." It would turn black soon after sunrise each morning, only to turn white again when darkness came. Many explanations have been given for the phenomenon, but scientists are not yet agreed as to the cause of it. They have, however, found several other substances besides the zinc sulfide, which was in the paint on the post, that will also change color with the light. Most of the known phototropic liquids are solutions of colorless derivatives of certain dyes. The solutions are practically colorless in the dark, but turn the color of the parent dye when exposed to light.

Cat's Horny Tongue

Have you ever seen a cat draw blood from a baby's hand by merely licking it? In his article on anatomy in the Hygeia Magazine, Dr. B. C. H. Harvey explains how this is possible. The tongue of any animal is covered with thousands of tiny projections called papillae. One kind of papillae is horny and this is why the tongue can lick substances off a smooth surface. In cats this horny surface is especially thick and tough and is rigid like spines. Thus cats can rasp off with their tongues the last bit of meat from a bone and can draw blood by licking a child's hand.

War-time "Discipline"

Wilhelm's "Military Dictionary and Gazetteer" says: "In military and naval affairs discipline is a general name for the rules and regulations prescribed and enforced for the proper conduct and subordination of the soldiers, etc. This is the technical meaning. In a higher sense discipline is the habit of obedience. The soldier acquires the habit of subordinating his own will, pleasure and inclinations to those of his superior. When the habit has become so strong that it is second nature, the soldier is disciplined."

Culture

A bird's shadow is enough to be happy with, if a man is educated, or the flicker of light on a leaf, and when a song is being lived in a man, all nature plays its accompaniment. To possess one's own sense, to know how to conduct one's self, is to be the conductor of orchestras in the clouds and in the grass. The trained man is not dependent on having the thing itself. He borrows the boom of the sea to live with, anywhere, and the gladness of continents.—Gerald Stanley Lee, in "The Child and the Book."

Humble Ax Revealed as Instrument of Romance

The ax is a tool of romance. In almost every age it has played a major part in man's struggle for existence.

From earliest history, on down through the Stone age, the Bronze age and the Iron age, and more especially during the time of America's early pioneers—the ax has been the indispensable friend of man.

With the building of primitive log cabins went the building, too, of strong characters and stout muscles. Washington, Boone, Lincoln, Roosevelt, Gladstone of England, and many other great names in history are associated with the ax.

No other tool promotes the same kinship of man with nature. Through its medium one captures the spirit of the forest, one senses that feeling of satisfaction which comes through aiding the growth of majestic trees, by the removal of deformities, weak specimens and fire hazards.—Peter McLaren, America's champion chopper, in the Ax Manual.

Smoke and Sight

It probably has never occurred to many smokers that much of the pleasure in the habit is derived from seeing the smoke curl up from one's cigar, cigarette or pipe. It had never occurred to the Sun's Rays reporter either until recently when he offered a cigarette to a blind man, who had once been an inveterate smoker.

"No, thank you," the sightless man replied. "I have never smoked since I became blind, although I once thought I could not do without my tobacco. I don't care anything about it now because I can't see the smoke."

"As a general rule, if you'll notice, you'll find that very few blind persons smoke. After all," he added philosophically, "smoking is a negative pleasure, anyway."—New York Sun.

Diet and Character

Doctor Flessinger, a French physician, states that national diet largely determines national temperament. The French character has been influenced by wine, women and a high culinary art. The German character, on the other hand, has been influenced by beer and coarser and more homely diet. Women in Germany are regarded more in the light of toilers. Americans, says the doctor, have assimilated characteristics of all the nationalities from which they sprang and have discarded both traditions and foods which might stand in the way of their progress.

TUBERCULOSIS IS RESULT OF FILTH

Can Be Prevented if Proper Steps Are Taken.

That most dreaded disease of live stock, tuberculosis, is largely a filth-born infection. It can be prevented if proper measures are taken.

"Experimental evidence seems to prove that very few animals of any of the species are born infected with tuberculosis," says J. W. Lumb, extension veterinarian, Kansas State Agricultural college, in telling of the scientific findings. "Animals can be prevented from acquiring the disease if proper measures are taken. The organisms are usually taken in by way of the mouth with feed and water, occasionally with the air, or by way of mucous membranes."

Available experimental records indicate that hogs acquire tuberculosis mainly through the mouth with feed and water and sometimes by way of the nostrils, according to the specialist. In the case of cattle it is acquired largely through the mouth, with feed and water, or licking each other while in contact. There is a possibility, most rarely, for the animal to acquire the disease through the nose, mucous membranes of the eyes, and through the skin.

Cattle Are Wintered on Mixture of Grass

J. Sotola, State college of Washington, reports that there is little if any commercial production of beef on alfalfa in that state. But the college, which is in the southeastern section of the state, maintains a herd of 80 pure-bred beef cattle and for nine years the herd was pastured on straight alfalfa all through the summer, approximately 220 days.

"Our cattle are wintered on a mixture of one part cut alfalfa and three parts sunflower silage," said Professor Sotola. "The last part of April, when the alfalfa pasture is ready, we give the cattle a good feed of roughage and then immediately turn them out on this pasture, but we choose periods of clear weather so as to avoid having the cattle on wet alfalfa. During the period of nine years that we have done this we have not had a single case of bloat or digestive disturbance. The first few weeks that cattle are on green feed, they may scour slightly but soon get over the exceedingly laxative effect of succulent feed."

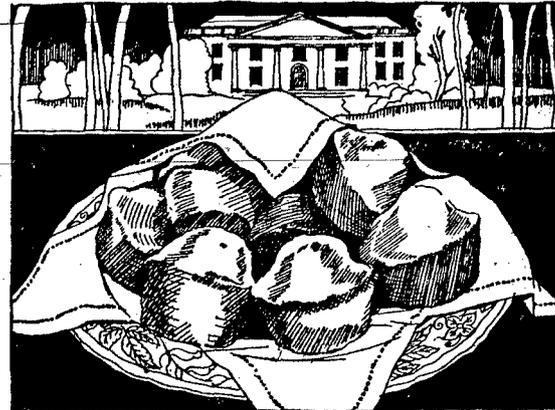

Another practice that may be followed is pasturing the alfalfa after one or more cuttings of hay have been taken. Professor Sotola reports that the college has harvested 1½ tons of alfalfa an acre from a single cutting and then obtained 85 mature cowdays of pasture on the aftermath. By a mature cowday of pasture is meant the green feed consumed by a mature beef cow in 24 hours.

Muffins With a Past

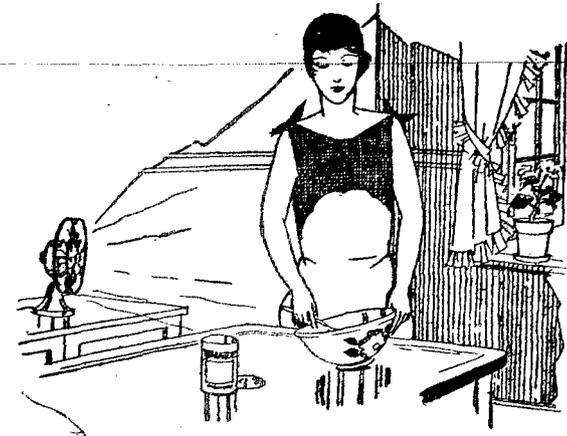

WHAT would you give for some real old-fashioned corn muffins such as your grandmother used to make—crisp and golden-brown without; light, fluffy and golden-yellow within? They came to the table, you remember, tucked under a napkin so that not a breath of goodness could escape until they were quickly split, buttered and ready to be devoured with home-made peach marmalade or spiced gooseberries.

Cost Only Fifteen Cents

Well, you need give only fifteen cents for eighteen of these golden treasures, that melt in your mouth and linger in your memory. For here is the old recipe with canned corn substituted for the fresh, because they had loads of time, but less canned foods in those days. The cost is counted for you to the very penny.

One-half of an 11-ounce can of corn	15c
One egg yolk	15c
One-fourth cup of milk	15c
Three-fourths cup of flour	15c
One and one-half teaspoons of baking powder	15c
Three-eighths teaspoon salt	15c
One and one-half tablespoons melted butter	15c
One egg white	15c
Total	15c

Add the well-beaten egg yolk to the corn; add milk and then add the sifted dry ingredients. Add melted butter and fold in the stiffly-beaten egg white. Bake in small muffin pans, in a moderate oven, 375 degrees, for twenty to twenty-five minutes. This makes about eighteen small muffins.

Keep Cool in the Kitchen

"THAT'S all very well," you may say, "but just how is it done? I never have found it very cool working over a hot cooking stove, and I don't believe anyone else has either. Well, you might try such labor-saving devices as an electric drink mixer, a gas or electric ice box, an electric washing machine, toaster, percolator, iron and fan, such cool looking surroundings as cottage curtain sets of bright colored washable gingham or chintz, and such cool clothes as a low back frock and an apron. Not enough? Then try keeping cool in your kitchen by using commercially canned foods.

and placed attractively on a dish. When they are to be served hot, a brief heating is all that is necessary, because the food in the can has been thoroughly cooked already.

Always Ready—Little Labor

When you use these ready-to-serve foods there is no peeling or seeding to be done of fruits or vegetables, no skinning or cleaning of chicken or fish. All these unpleasant preliminaries have been done for you, and by machinery which you know does a thorough job. You are saved all that work, and, in addition, spared the necessity of standing over a hot stove for long periods. Canned foods save time as well as labor, and give you every opportunity to keep cool."
