Strattons to Open Grand Island Hotel

C. D. Stratton to Manage Project; $50,000 Being Expended.

Who says depression? If there is any depression in business E. O. Stratton of Wayne and his brother, C. D. Stratton, know nothing about it.

They have leased the Y. M. C. A. building in Grand Island, Neb., and will operate it as a high-class, modern hotel. Fifty thousand dollars is being spent on rebuilding the structure and decorating it for hotel use.

When the rebuilding is completed, the hotel will have 85 rooms, a coffee shop, recreation rooms, and a swimming pool for guests. Every modern convenience is being installed, and Grand Island people are elated over the prospect of having a fine, up-to-date hotel.

C. D. Stratton will move to Grand Island to manage the newest addition to the Stratton hotels, and E. O. Stratton will remain in Wayne.

The brothers went to Chicago last Saturday, Jan. 17, to purchase furnishings for the new project, and E. O. Stratton returned to Wayne Tuesday evening filled with enthusiasm over the furniture and accessories which were purchased in that city.

E. O. Stratton said yesterday morning when interviewed, "I am going to stay in Wayne. The community has treated me well and I feel that the support of Wayne people has been responsible to a great degree for the success of our hotel operations. Our hotel in Wayne is a successful enterprise, and I feel that I prefer to remain here with my friends, whose support has been of material aid."

"We expect to open the Grand Island hotel about March 15, and it would give my brother and me a great deal of pleasure to have a representation of our Wayne friends at the Grand Island opening. We do not contemplate an elaborate opening, but will have a banquet to start the new hotel in business, and we would most assuredly appreciate the presence of any Wayne people who might care to attend."

Wayne business men say that Grand Island is fortunate in securing Stratton management for a hotel.

FAIR BOARD PICKS FREE ACTS FOR 1931

Attend State Meeting in Lincoln; Purchase Attractions.

Members of the Wayne county fair board attended a meeting of Nebraska county fair associations in Lincoln Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday of this week.

Wm. E. Von Seggern, Phil Damme, Walter Savidge and H. B. Craven represented Wayne county at the meeting. They report that the conclave was a successful one, with practically every fair association in the state represented. Plenty of entertainment was given to the fair representatives, they say, and there were plenty of attractions available for fair booking.

Free acts and entertainment features for the 1931 Wayne county fair were purchased at the meeting, and, in the opinion of the fair board, the attractions for the 1931 fair promise to be better than ever before.

The feature attraction contracted for at the meeting is an elaborate musical comedy review with high-class entertainers. The tabloid musical comedy company engaged to appear at the Wayne fair enjoys a splendid reputation in theatrical circles and was highly recommended.

A company of Japanese acrobats making their initial tour in America is another act scheduled for a Wayne engagement. The company of Japs had made a sensational hit in Europe and were brought to America at considerable cost.

A comicalian was engaged to keep the crowds in good humor, and a thrilling trapze and casting act presented from lofty heights completes the list of free attractions.

Councilmen Study Franchise Question

Mayor W. M. Orr, Councilmen J. G. W. Lewis, B. F. Stratton, C. E. Wright, and city attorney J. E. Brittain, went to Lincoln Wednesday morning to have a conference with the franchise attorney who prepared the Aurora, Neb., natural gas franchise.

The men plan on a thorough investigation of municipal franchise grants before voting a franchise to the Midwest natural gas company, and members of the council stated that they wanted to be certain of securing an equitable form of contract for citizens of Wayne.

Several council members said that, in their opinion, the form of franchise is the one vitally important thing in bringing natural gas into Wayne.

The men planned on conferring with officials of the gas company while in Lincoln.

PASS SIXTY YEARS OF MARRIED LIFE

Mr. and Mrs. John Gaebler of Winside are Wayne County Pioneers.

Mr. and Mrs. John Gaebler of Winside, pioneer settlers and residents of Wayne county for 50 years, passed the sixtieth anniversary of their wedding on Saturday, Jan. 17.

In consequence of Mrs. Gaebler's poor health following a critical illness early in December, no anniversary celebration was held this year. Mr. Gaebler, 87 years old, refused offers of help and cut down a large ash tree and cut it into stove lengths unassisted.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Gaebler are natives of Wurtenburg, Germany, and came to the United States to Peoria county, Illinois, in 1870 and 1889, respectively. They were married in Peoria county on Jan. 17, 1871.

After living ten years on a farm in Illinois, Mr. and Mrs. Gaebler and a daughter, Pauline, came to Nebraska via railway to Wisner and overland in a wagon from there to Mr. Gaebler's farm near Altona, Wayne county. They pioneered the farm in two-room sod house. At the end of the first year, Mr. Gaebler built a frame house and six years later sold the farm and moved west of Winside where he farmed for three more years.

In 1891, Mr. and Mrs. Gaebler and family moved to Winside, where he was employed by three successive lumber companies. Several years ago he retired, and his two sons, William and John, Jr., have continued to make their home with their parents.

Mrs. Gaebler was born in Obensfels, Wurtenburg, Germany, on April 17, 1845. Mr. Gabler was born in Oberlingen, Wurtenburg, on Jan. 14, 1844. After serving his time as a cavalry man in the German army, emigrated to the United States in December of 1893. She has resided in Wayne ever since.

For the last 19 years, Mrs. Leindecker has been an invalid, tenderly cared for by her husband.

Her departure is deeply mourned by her husband, her nieces, Mrs. George Denkinger of Wayne, Mrs. William Maerz of Boone, Iowa, Mrs. George Achermann of Boone, her nephew, Jacob Koch of Carroll, Iowa, and other relatives and friends.

She was 75 years of age at the time of her death.

The couple have lived a long, active, and useful pioneer life in the Winside community and are both members of St. Paul's Lutheran church. They have three sons and two daughters: Mrs. Pauline Rhenus, William P., George C. and Alex C. Gaebler, all of Winside, and Mrs. Forrest Curry, wife of Representative Curry of California. They also have five grandchildren and three great-grandchildren.

PRESENT PROGRAM
An Indian program was presented Tuesday evening, Jan. 20, at the college auditorium by members of the girls' glee club.

Wayne Laundries Enter Into Merger

A. L. Jacobson to Manage Business of Combined Establishments.

Merger of the Wayne Laundry, owned and operated by A. L. Jacobson and Coleson's Careful laundry, owned by Myron Colson, was announced yesterday morning. The consolidation is said to have taken place Monday, Jan. 19.

The firm will be known as the Wayne laundry, and will be operated from the Wayne laundry establishment at 114 West First street. A. L. Jacobson, an experienced laundryman, will be manager of the business, and the firm of Jacobson and Coleson will be owners.

Mr. Jacobson and Mr. Coleson say that the consolidation will enable the laundry firm to take care of Wayne people's work far better than before. They state that additional equipment is being installed immediately to take care of laundry work more efficiently.

Owners of the new firm say that they decided that too much money was being spent unnecessarily in conducting two laundry establishments in Wayne, and that the work could be done better from one place of business.

They cite the trend of laundry businesses all over the United States to consolidate for the purpose of greater efficiency and lower overhead.

RITES FOR WAYNE WOMAN TUESDAY

Mrs. Maria L. Leindecker Passes Away Last Saturday.

Services were held Tuesday afternoon, Jan. 20, at two o'clock at the German Lutheran church for Mrs. Maria Luise Leindecker, who passed away on Saturday, Jan. 17. The funeral services were read by Rev. H. A. Teckhaus. Interment was in Greenwood cemetery.

Maria Luise Leindecker, nee Hildebrandt, was born on June 10, 1855, at Neustadt von der Rhoen, Bavaria, where she was baptized and later confirmed in the Lutheran faith.

She was married to Jacob Adam Kugler on April 17, 1880, and her husband departed this life in 1887. Two years later the widow became the wife of Leonhard Leindecker, with whom she emigrated to America in December of 1893. She has resided in Wayne ever since.

In 1891, Mr. and Mrs. Leindecker and family moved to Winside, where he was employed by three successive lumber companies. Several years ago he retired, and his two sons, William and John, Jr., have continued to make their home with their parents.

Mrs. Gaebler was born in Obensfels, Wurtenburg, Germany, on April 17, 1845. Mr. Gabler was born in Oberlingen, Wurtenburg, on Jan. 14, 1844. After serving his time as a cavalry man in the German army, emigrated to the United States in December of 1893. She has resided in Wayne ever since.

Her departure is deeply mourned by her husband, her nieces, Mrs. George Denkinger of Wayne, Mrs. William Maerz of Boone, Iowa, Mrs. George Achermann of Boone, her nephew, Jacob Koch of Carroll, Iowa, and other relatives and friends.

She was 75 years of age at the time of her death.

BACK FROM WYOMING

Sheriff Takes Andrew to Penitentiary Saturday

Sheriff Archie W. Stephens left Wayne Saturday, Jan. 17 to take Wallace A. Andrew, confessed automobile thief, to Lincoln and the state penitentiary. Just a few short weeks ago, the gates of the Oklahoma state penitentiary had swung open on Andrew, and Saturday the state of Nebraska claimed justice from him. He had pleaded guilty to the automobile theft charge before District Judge Charles H. Stewart at Norfolk last week, and the court had sentenced him to two years in prison.

The celebration, an annual anniversary affair, will be featured by the appearance of an out-of-town entertainer.

PRESENT PROGRAM
An Indian program was presented Tuesday evening, Jan. 20, at the college auditorium by members of the girls' glee club.

Andrew was in an optimistic mood. Two years in the state prison faced him. Well, what was two years?

Laurels for the hunt undoubtedly go to E. E. "Bunt" Fleetwood. "Bunt" went out with three other hunters and the quartette came in with 22 rabbits. He claims that he bagged 20 and the three men with him got two. The hunters who went with him deny the story and say that in reality it was the other way around but "Bunt" tells his story convincingly, and adds that if someone had been along to holler "Pull" for him, he could have gotten more rabbits.

Charlie Martin says that the term, "22 rabbits" was incorrect, as what the four men really brought back was 20 rabbits and two cats. Instinct was made by some of the hunters that the rabbits in question had been shot previously and cached to be brought forth at the proper time to make a good showing. "Bunt," however, says that these charges are all the result of jealousy at his remarkable marksmanship.

The standard alibi presented by most of the hunters was that rabbits were scarce.

WAYNE FOLKS GO TO LEGION CONVENTION

Men and Women Report Successful Meeting at Walthill.

Wayne Legionnaires and Legion auxiliary members who found it possible to attend the third district Legion convention at Walthill, Neb., yesterday, say that they were well repaid for making the trip.

The talks, according to those who attended, were full of worthwhile and inspirational material, worthy of consideration by everyone connected with the Legion organization.

Walthill Legionnaires, they say, had outdone themselves to make the banquet last night a success from every standpoint. Wayne folks who attended the banquet said it was one of the best Legion affairs they had ever been fortunate enough to take part in.

Among the Legionnaires who went to Walthill are A. L. Swan, John Brisben, E. R. Love, Dr. Wm. Hawkins, Paul Mines, and Ed. Parhorst.

The list of Legion auxiliary members who made the trip includes Mrs. Fontenelle Smith, Mrs. L. W. McNatt, Mrs. Harry McMillan, Mrs. J. H. Pile, and Mrs. W. H. Phillips.

Do you think the Nebraska state boxing law should be repealed?

Pete Peterson, Peterson's billiard parlor: "I think Nebraska should have a 15 round boxing law. Illinois has it and finds it successful. The present law is all right aside from the ten round limit."

Dallas B. Gifford, barber: "I believe Nebraska's round limit is too low. 15 round fights are almost necessary for championships. Nebraska's ten round limit really means no championship fights in this state."

C. S. Kopp, Wayne: "No."

W. S. Miller, Central garage: "I think it should be repealed."

Fred Ellis, Ellis billiard parlor: "I think the law is all right. Boxing offers good entertainment to those who enjoy it, and people who want to see boxing exhibitions should not be deprived of the right."

Irate Bull Injures Man Here Monday

James Grier, Jr., is not applying for any job as matador in the bull fighting arenas of Spain. His experience leads him to believe that even with proper implements of warfare a combat with a bull is highly undesirable.

He sustained severe body bruises at about four o'clock Monday afternoon at the James Grier, Sr., home when an enraged bull got him down in the cattle yard. The animal had never been known to attack anyone before, and its sudden attack came as a complete and unpleasant surprise to Mr. Grier.

He managed to get away from the irate animal, and was taken immediately to the Wayne hospital, where it was found that no bones had been broken. He is doing nicely.

WAYNE HUNTSMEN BAG 102 RABBITS

Weather Keeps Many at Home; "Bunt" Wins Ananias Medal.

Chilly blasts of winter weather proved too much for most of Wayne's dead-eye Dicks last Sunday, Jan. 18, but 15 rabbit hunters braved the elements and came back with 102 rabbits.

The rabbits were loaded into trucks and sent to Sioux City, Iowa, to be used in feeding unemployed people in that city.

The shoot was sponsored by the fire department and the Wayne gun club, but participants did not divide up into teams as had been planned, since there were not enough hunters present to make it interesting. Those who took part in the hunt met at the city hall at 11 o'clock in the morning and checked in at four o'clock in the afternoon.

Laurels for the hunt undoubtedly go to E. E. "Bunt" Fleetwood. "Bunt" went out with three other hunters and the quartette came in with 22 rabbits. He claims that he bagged 20 and the three men with him got two. The hunters who went with him deny the story and say that in reality it was the other way around but "Bunt" tells his story convincingly, and adds that if someone had been along to holler "Pull" for him, he could have gotten more rabbits.

Charlie Martin says that the term, "22 rabbits" was incorrect, as what the four men really brought back was 20 rabbits and two cats. Instinct was made by some of the hunters that the rabbits in question had been shot previously and cached to be brought forth at the proper time to make a good showing. "Bunt," however, says that these charges are all the result of jealousy at his remarkable marksmanship.

Darwin's Life and Work

Charles Robert Darwin was born at Shrewsbury, England, February 12, 1809. He was the grandson of Erasmus Darwin. He studied at Edinburgh and Cambridge, was naturalist to H. M. S. Beagle on a voyage of exploration around the world—1831-36. On his return he took up residence in a secluded village in Kent where he devoted himself to scientific research. He published in 1859 his chief work, "On the Origin of Species by Means of Natural Selection," in which he propounded his theory of biological evolution. This was followed by a number of other scientific publications. He died at Down, Kent, April 19, 1882.

British Monarch's Position

The king, to the people of Great Britain, is the embodiment and symbol of the unity and permanence of the British empire. Although the power of the king is less than that of the President of many countries, his activities are not confined to the sphere of politics. He is the social head of the country, the patron of religion, charities, science, agriculture and other enterprises, also the encourager of sports. The king remains aloof from party politics, therefore he is not held responsible for acts of his ministers.

Banned Book in Thatch

In one of the old houses in course of reconstruction at Cumbernauld, Dunbartonshire, Scotland, an old copy of Thomas Paine's "Rights of Man" was found hidden in the thatch. The date on the volume is 1792, and it is probable that it was in the possession of one of the "rebel" weavers of that day. It gives a glimpse of the time when anyone found in possession of Paine's book was liable to transportation to the plantations. Hardie, the Chartist weaver, may have been a tenant of the house at one time.

Oh, to Be Young!

Herbert had just come in before school time with a rip in his overcoat, but mamma kept him home long enough to mend it. At noon he went back to school, but returned quickly with a note from his teacher which read: "I've sent Herbert home because of his throat."

"Why, Herbie, nothing was wrong with your throat, I hope," his mother exclaimed. "Tell mamma what you said to your teacher." To which Herbert replied: "I told her my tote was tore." Brooklyn Eagle.

Accident Casualties

Higher Than in 1930

Evidently Nebraska citizens did not make resolutions for accident prevention in the new year as casualties for the first two weeks of 1931 show an increase of 25 percent over those for the same period in 1930.

There were 353 accidents 139 being motor vehicle accidents. Of 264 injuries, 156 were caused by automobile accidents. Only seven people were permanently disabled. There were 19 deaths.

The wood cutting season brings in a new cause of accidents to farmers resulting in ten injuries, one disability and one death.

"HE PROFITS MOST"

Newspapers that make the most money are not always the best papers, according to Gayle Walker, head of the school of journalism at the University of Nebraska.

Mr. Walker, in his talk "The Newspaper at the Crossroads," at the Northeast Nebraska editorial association meeting last Friday, said that it was sometimes easy for a newspaper to build up considerable profit by supporting causes that worked against community welfare.

He said, however, that he believed the editor who conscientiously followed the dictates of his heart would eventually profit more substantially than the editor who was guided solely by revenue to be derived from the publication of anything.

Mr. Walker said community newspapers should devote more of their space to support of home institutions, and The Democrat feels that his advice is good.

We feel that acceptance of advertising from city department stores or from out-of-town business places in direct competition with Wayne firms is bad business for our community. The Democrat believes that the purpose of a community newspaper should be to do as much as possible for Wayne rather than to publish advertising which will encourage people to trade elsewhere.

We do not believe in soliciting special pages from business firms in nearby towns. True, the newspaper can profit by such policy, but stop and think what the newspaper is doing:

It is encouraging farmers in the surrounding trade territory to trade in other towns than Wayne. It is incurring hostility of newspapers in surrounding towns.

A newspaper publisher who is honest must admit that our policy is right. Any paper which is honestly working for the betterment of its community can follow no other policy than refusal of such advertising.

Sometimes, however, the heart and the pocket book get mixed up.

EX-IT

Once upon a time there was a moving picture actress that got a large following by means of sensational publicity. She was advertised as the "It" girl, and her engagements and amours made good front-page fodder for the American appetite.

Clara Bow began getting into trouble, however. She lost heavily at the gaming tables and refused to pay her gambling debts. And then what had been rumors concerning her character were given strength by trial of her secretary, Daisy DeVoe, on a grand theft charge. It seems that Daisy told, and told a little more than was safe.

Now we read that Clara Bow is going to have a vacation. The strain of the trial, according to moving picture producers, was too much for the "It" girl and she is to be given a rest. It looks like the movie Sheba is in for a long, long rest from screen work. Producers know their public, and they know that people will not pay to see actors and actresses whose private reputations are badly blemished.

We confess ignorance of just what anybody ever saw in Clara Bow's alleged acting, anyway. Countless screen stars had more ability but less box-office draw. Now Clara is paying for her indiscretions. The public will stand so much, but enough's enough.

E. O. Stratton told us the Manana (Mexican for "tomorrow") story the other day. If there is much more delay in getting the national public building program off the ground, we suggest that the present national regime should be known as the Manana (Tomorrow) administration.

Mr. Hoover speaks of the "exhibiting sense of power" derived from the automobile. Why blame it all on the automobile.

THEY ADVERTISED

When the automobile manufacturers of America had produced enough cars so that there was one to nearly every family that could buy a car, they did not stop making cars or advertising them. Rather they got together and said, "Now we will proceed to sell each family another car." They might have saved their money and said, "Everybody knows our car and all about it. Why advertise?" But they didn't. They advertised all the more.

Oftentimes a merchant thinks, "Why should I advertise? Everybody here knows me. I get their trade."

If this sort of policy had prevailed with the manufacturers of automobiles when they had sold everyone a car they would have quit.

A merchant, even though he is the only merchant in his locality, can make money by advertising, because by advertising he can increase his sales. He can lead his customers to buy more, to buy the new things that come on the market. He can stimulate desire and create demand and thus increase his sales and his profits. It is the modern merchandising way. It is good business.

Star City, Arkansas, Ledger.

A NEW ADMINISTRATION

Nebraska has a change in its state administration. This was not done by unanimous consent at the polls, but it is our opinion that it is the unanimous duty of the people of the state to give each new administration its whole-hearted support to the end that the interests of the state may be best served. This is not to say that the people or the state legislature shall waive their opinions or their views on important questions and issues. It is to say that the head of the government, whether state or national, cannot progress very far if we press our political opinions and prejudices beyond the time of expressing them at the polls.

There is an open season and a closed season for politics. The former is during the campaign, the latter is after the votes have been cast. If executive officials insist on promoting purely political activity to the injury of good administration, it is sufficient to discipline them when the time rolls around to cast another ballot.

What we want most is the best administration of our public affairs with the minimum of politics out of season. Let those in office who believe to the contrary bear the responsibility and abide the results when the proper time comes.—Nebraska Farmer.

FINAL GOT HIM

After several years of unsuccessful effort to get a local hardware merchant to advertise, the publisher of a Kansas weekly newspaper was surprised to receive an order for a full page from the former non-advertiser.

Glancing at the copy, the publisher discovered that it announced a "closing out sale." The hardware man was going out of business. His advertising competitors had taken his trade and there was nothing left for him to do. So the newspaper man had landed his prospect at last.

The merchant recognized the power of advertising to help him to get out of business, but had failed to recognize its power to help him stay in business. —Nellie News.

OPEN SEASON

There should be an open season declared on cars and trucks traveling the public highways at night with one light only. The trucks are especially dangerous as you never can tell how much of the road they are taking or which side of the truck the light is on. We made a journey to Hartington the other evening and passed eight or ten of the large trucks out of that city. And there were only two of them that had the regulation two lights. Whether or not they do it on purpose we do not know but it seems to us that there are entirely too many of them on the roads showing only one light. —Laurel Advocate.

By a ruling of the census bureau, as announced in the press, all persons who have been selling apples on the streets will be listed as "employed" in the special census now being taken on the unemployed. It is hard to understand the census bureau figures on unemployment as it is to grasp the new system of mathematics used by Prof. Einstein in his relativity theory.

The good talker and the good listener are usually two different persons.

Wheat consumption has declined in America. Conditions have evidently gone against the grain.

What if a dollar did go farther in the old days? It didn't go any where near as fast.

SCOTT SHOTS

by

"SCOTTY"

Prof. E. G. Trotzig, head of the school of journalism at the University of South Dakota, is a dandy fellow who has had real, practical experience in the newspaper business. He opened up a red-hot argument at the Northeast Nebraska editorial association convention last Friday afternoon when he suggested university trained men for weekly newspapers.

The old-school printers flared up and said that there wouldn't be any journalism school graduates in THEIR places of business. Journalism students, they contended loudly, were so-and-sos and such-and-suchs. "I never got past the seventh grade in school and I wouldn't be any more successful if I'd taken a journalism course," one editor proclaimed.

Those on the other side of the fence were just as firm in their convictions, and the argument waged long and loud with no decision in sight when the meeting adjourned.

It seemed to this writer that the printers were talking about the printing business and those who favored college trained men were talking about the newspaper business. The men who did no work in the shop invariably favored the trained reporter.

F. H. Price of Newman Grove told a story about the depression current in the east. It seems that a bond salesman, out of a job, applied to circus impresario Ringling for a job.

"I'm sorry, I have plenty of men, the circus man said. "And I have trouble of my own. A $15,000 gorilla just died."

"Let me take its place," suggested the bond salesman. Ringling thought well of the idea, so the bond salesman was rigged out in a gorilla skin and went into the arena to perform.

Everything went beautifully until, in his excitement, the bond salesman backed into the lion's cage. The lion started toward him.

"Help, help!" shrieked the bond salesman-gorilla.

"Shut up, you damn fool—you're not the only bond salesman out of a job," replied the lion.

In Sioux City last week, Dave Davidson of the department store firm committed suicide. His life had been an honorable and an apparently enviable one. He had been at the bottom and the top of the commercial and financial pile. He had been an untiring civic worker. Many throughout Sioux City's trade territory knew and admired him.

He committed suicide! What an ignoble finish to a fine life of worthful activity.

I confess. I've often seen him getting out of his car across the street from The Sioux City Tribune where I worked, and I've envied him. It looks like maybe Dave Davidson was the one who had a right to be envied of people like us.

It reminds me of Edward Arlington Robinson's poem, "Richard Carvel." The poem tells of a rich man who apparently had everything anyone could want. As I remember, the words of the last verse went something like this:

"We cursed him for his wine
While we ate bread.
And Richard Carvel, one calm summer's morn,
Went home and put a bullet in his head."

Until 1927 women were not allowed in the gambling rooms at Deauville, and prior to that time they told a story about an unlucky player who refused to leave the room when his wife sent for him. She sent note after note to her gambling husband, but he ignored them all. Finally she changed her tactics and wrote, in desperation:

"Sir: If you wish to know where your wife is at this moment, go to the Royal hotel to the room of the Count de Kay.—A Friend."

The husband read the note and scowled. He started to get up, and then settled back again. "Lucky in love, unlucky at cards." He had been unlucky at cards all night. Perhaps now—

He doubled his betting and won a million. Next morning he said nothing to his wife, who was inwardly boiling mad. And that afternoon the Count de Kay, who had never met the wife, received a great bouquet of flowers from an anonymous admirer. The puzzled count found a card attached to the roses. It said:

"Thanks."

We will now rise and sing the instalment song, "Little by Little."

More Scotch

to have his tooth extracted.

"Hoo much'll it cost," he asked. "My price is $2," replied the dentist. (This didn't happen in Wayne.)

And the Scotchman, after pondering a while, asked, "Er—an' hoo much'll it cost just to loosen it a little?"

In these days of pessimism, we are reminded of Ben King's little poem

The Pessimist

Nothing to do but work,
Nothing to eat but food,
Nothing to wear but clothes
To keep one from going nude.

Nothing to breathe but air,
Quick as a flash 'tis gone;
Nowhere to fall but off,
Nowhere to stand but on.

Nothing to sing but songs,
Ah, well, alas alas!
Nowhere to go but out,
Nowhere to come but back,

The number of square people, not the number of square miles, make a country great.

Two Scandinavians went fishing and found a spot in the river where they had unusual luck. They had filled the boat with fish.

"By ye, dis fine fishing hole," said Lars. "Let's mark dis place and comb back tomorrow."

They agreed. They had reached shore when Ole asked, "Did you mark das place vare we caught dose fish?"

"You bet," Lars replied. "Ay poot cross mark on das side of boat."

"You dang fool," snorted Ole. "How you ban know we'll get his same boat tomorrow?"

Samuel Hoffenstein, in his "Poems in Praise of Practically Nothing," says,

I have only a bicycle,
And you have a motor car;
But your wife's a regular icicle
And as blue as the bluest star.

I have only a room and a bath
And you have a swell chateau;
But you're a case for a psychopath
And an allopath or so.

I have only one suit in sooth,
And you have a couple of score;
But you have only a part of a tooth
Where a whole tooth grew before.

I have little of skittles and gin
And you have scuttles of wine
But your troubles from women to insin
Are nothing compared to mine.

Over the river!

Find Mammoth Tusk of Prehistoric Beast

What is believed to be the largest mammoth tusk ever unearthed in the central west was recently removed from the Fred Krell gravel pit near Deweese by the director of the Hastings museum. Workmen at the pit found what they supposed to be a large petrified tree trunk protruding from the soil. They called the museum men who discovered on arrival that instead of a petrified tree trunk the find was a tusk of a prehistoric Imperial mammoth, measuring almost ten feet in length with a circumference of 22 inches. A few days later what was supposed to be a similar tusk was found nearby. It was not so large as the first, and when the two were placed together in the Hastings museum it was found that they were not two tusks but one, the two fitting together and making a tusk almost 14 feet long.

When the entire specimen is fully restored, another foot will be added to the point, which was broken off, and several inches to the base, which was badly weathered. In life the great beast must have had a pair of tusks almost 16 feet in length, weighing over 600 pounds.

The Book Box

"A Cultural History of the Modern Age," by Egon Friedell, is published by Knopf and sells for $5.

Herr Friedell professes to write no more than "today's legend of modern history." The new science of psychiatry supplies a major premise for Friedell's first volume, which tells the story of European civilization from the Black Death to the Thirty Years War.

The plague was a physical expression of mortal sickness that affected the spirit of the fourteenth century.

Far more pestilential, however, was the germ of nominalism in an age that had lived at peace with its universals.

Nebraska is Rich in Recreation Properties

Public properties of the state whose control is vested in the Nebraska Game, Forestry & Parks Commission now number 35. Included in the list are fish hatcheries, parks, recreation grounds, fishing lakes, two game reserves and one tract on which is a monument to mark an Indian battleground.

With the exception of the fish hatchery at Gretna, which was purchased with legislative appropriations all these properties were acquired either by gifts or with funds derived from the sale of fishing and hunting licenses. The Commission is one state body that pays as it goes and the burden of expense falls on fishermen and hunters. The total value of all properties is estimated at $578,132.70.

The accompanying map shows the location of these properties. The figures on the map correspond with the numbers of the property in the appended list. They are well scattered over the state to afford the pleasures of the great out-of-doors to the most people with the least inconvenience. By acquiring these properties early the Commission has not only purchased many valuable lakes and recreation grounds for a small price, but they have saved some of them for public use that were certain to be destroyed or used for private purposes.

The Commission is a non-political body of five members, the Governor being by law the ex-officio chairman. Members serve six years and are appointed by the Governor, and serve without compensation except a per diem allowance for time actually given. A salaried secretary is employed who is also state game warden.

A great work is being done by the Commission in saving Nebraska beauty spots, creating new ones and assuring to this and succeeding generations that the outdoor delights and recreations of the common people will be continued and increased.

The holdings of the Commission are: 1. Arbor Lodge state. 2. Chadron state park. 3. Victoria Springs state park. 4. Stolley state park. 5. Goose Lake recreation grounds. 6. Rat and Beaver Lake recreation grounds. 7. Walgreen Lake recreation grounds.

Rich Level Tracts in the Scottish Highlands

The region known to the world as the Highlands of Scotland has no political or civil boundary. Separated by only a vague line of demarcation from the division called the Lowlands, the Scottish Highlands may be briefly described as that portion of the north and northwest of Scotland in which the Celtic language and manners have less or more lingered until modern times. The "Highlands," as it is usually called, extends diagonally across Scotland from Nairn on the Moray firth to Dumbarton on the Clyde; but the mountainous part of the counties of Banff, Moray, Aberdeen, Kincardine, and Perth, are also understood to be included in the designation "Highlands." Caithness might be excluded as being a generally level country, but throughout the Highlands there are rich level tracts, none being more so than the eastern division of Ross-shire. The Hebrides or Western Isles are included in the Highlands, but the isles of Orkney and Shetland, though to the north, are distinctly excluded, by reason of the Norse origin of their inhabitants.

Fifty Centuries Ago

One-way traffic was in use nearly 4,000 years ago in the Neolithic, or Stone age, camp on the famous Trundle hill overlooking Goodwood race course, in Sussex, England. Dr. Cecil Curwen, the archeologist, who has been conducting excavations on the site, states, "It is certain that one way into the camp was used only as an entrance and the other as an exit. These camps are extremely rare; there are only a dozen in the whole of England; the date of this camp is approximately 2000 B. C. The most interesting Neolithic find was that of a large semi-circular block of stone with a hole being worked up into a ridge with sharp flint marks radiating from it; possibly an early method of making fire."

Charleston "Sugar House"

The old Sugar house at Charleston, S. C., was the name given to the workhouse, a place of detention for fugitive slaves and the punishment of slaves and free negroes. It was here that the lashes were applied, and hence the name Sugar house. The workhouse was under the care of a commission of five citizens, with a master or keeper. It was a city institution and was conducted under the ordinances, with prescribed rates for the care of the inmates—diluting, lodging, number of lashes, etc. The building stood on the corner of what is now known as Logan and Magazine streets and was destroyed by fire in the conflagration of 1861.
