Wayne Loses to West Point in Hoop Finals

Pointers Nose Out Locals 19 to 18; Winnebago Beats Wakefield.

West Point and Wayne high school basketball teams offered a thrilling finish to the regional hoop tournament Saturday evening, when West Point nosed out the locals by a score of 19 to 18. It was anybody's game until the final gun, and the crowd that packed the college gymnasium was in a state of frenzied excitement.

Inability to sink long shots probably cost the Wayne team the game and the regional championship. The locals had possession of the ball more often than the West Pointers, but their long shot offensive was not working.

Both teams played well and hard. There was not a moment's letdown throughout the entire four quarters, with Schmidt leading the offensive for West Point and Sund heading the attack for Wayne.

Team Deadlock

At the end of the first quarter the two teams were deadlocked with a 7 to 7 count. Wayne took a three point lead during the second quarter, the half ending with a 10 to 7 tally in favor of Wayne.

West Point got under way in the third quarter and made the score 14 to 14 in their favor. In the fourth quarter, with the score 17 to 17, Schmidt of West Point got away for a long floor run and a field goal, making the count 19 to 17.

A personal foul, called in the last few seconds of the game, might have tied the score. The foul was good for two gift shots, but failure to make one of them put the Wayne team behind one point. That one point meant loss of the basketball game.

Winnebago Wins

Winnebago and Wakefield staged another close game in the consolation round, with Winnebago taking the long end of a 19 to 14 score. South Sioux defeated Emerson by a 20 to 13 count.

The scores of the first round were as follows:

Wakefield 15—South Sioux 22.
Randolph 33—Ponca 16.
Allen 16—West Point 43.
Waterbury 33—Wisner 20.
Winnebago 12—Emerson 18.
Laurel 38—Hartington 26.
Walthill 27—Newcastle 13.
Wayne 48—Pender 16.

Second Round

South 18—Randolph 17.
West Point 32—Waterbury 24.
Emerson 20—Laurel 8.
Walthill 16—Wayne 33.

The semi-final scores were:

South 19—West Point 32.
Emerson 15—Wayne 46.

The scores for the consolations were as follows:

First Round:

Wakefield 22—Ponca 12.
Allen 37—Wisner 29.

Winnebago 20—Hartington 13.
Newcastle 21—Pender 20.

Second Round:

Wakefield 25—Allen 13.
Winnebago 24—Newcastle 16.

Finals:

Wakefield 14—Winnebago 19.

Second Winside Store Robber Gets Sentence

Harry Gray, confessed partner of Ralph "Tommy" Frost in the Floor store holdup at Winside, pleaded guilty at a preliminary hearing in Judge J. M. Cherry's court last Thursday, March 5, and was bound over to district court.

He was taken to Norfolk Friday morning, and entered a plea of guilty in district court. Judge Stewart sentenced him to three years in the Nebraska state penitentiary.

Gray had denied his guilt previous to Frost's confession, but when Frost pleaded guilty, decided to do the same.

Sheriff A. W. Stephens plans to take the men to Lincoln to begin serving sentences today.

Frost and Gray had broken into the Floor general store at Winside on Saturday night, Feb. 21, and had stolen between $300 and $400 worth of merchandise.

Discuss Plans for Commercial Club

Members of the committee for the formation of a Wayne commercial club will meet tonight at 7:30 to hear a report from J. C. Nuss on the operation of the Seward, Neb., commercial club. Mr. Nuss conferred Tuesday with Seward commercial club officials, and secured information on the financing and operation of such organizations, which he will present to the local committee.

A list of prospective commercial club members has been prepared, in order to give the committee some idea of how much each club member would have to be assessed to insure the success of the project. This list will be discussed, and a committee will be appointed to interview Wayne business men and learn their attitude on a commercial organization.

WINSIDE COUPLE WED HERE FRIDAY

Miss Mamie Prince and Leo Jensen United in Matrimony.

Miss Mamie Prince of Winside became the bride of Leo Jensen on Friday evening, March 6, at the Baptist parsonage in Wayne. Rev. W. E. Braisted performed the ceremony. The young couple were attended by Mr. and Mrs. Gurney Prince.

The bride wore a rose and black ensemble suit and carried a shower bouquet of roses and lillies of the valley. Mrs. Jensen, the youngest daughter of John Prince, was born and raised in Wayne county. She is a graduate of Winside high school, attended Wayne State Teachers' college for one year, and studied one summer at the University of California. She has taught the primary room in the Winside school for the past seven years.

The bridegroom is the only son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Jensen.

The newly married couple will live on their farm five miles north of Winside where Mr. Jensen has built a new home. Mrs. Jensen will continue teaching the remainder of the school year.

Hoop Tournament Is Financially Successful

According to statistics received from Superintendent Best of the Wayne High School, the Regional Basketball tournament, at the Wayne State Teachers' college was successful. Total attendance was 2,112 persons. Total gate receipts amounted to $1,324. Of this amount 24 per cent goes to the State Athletic Association. Expenditures are as follows: $28.65 for trophies; $5.85 for buttons and clamps; $132.40 goes to school conducting tournament; $20 for officials; $20.15 for basketballs; $20 committee expenses; $1.50 for postage; the total expense amounting to $605.81.

A sum of $718.19 was left which paid actual expenses of all schools, leaving a small balance.

Wayne High Enters Debate Tournament

Wayne high school is entered in a District debate tournament to be held at Hartington on Wednesday, March 25. At the last meeting of the state debate association, a plan was adopted to use one judge only. It is believed that this district will use a similar plan.

Superintendent Brooks of the Hartington school has informed participating debate teams that the Hartington commercial club is donating a large loving cup. The cup would become a permanent possession of the school winning it three times.

REPLEVINS FINE

Hubert E. Rohrke of Hoskins, who was fined $200 and costs on Tuesday March 3, on charge of possession and sale of intoxicating liquor, replenished his fine Tuesday.

FARMER PAYS FINES OF $125 AND COSTS

Enters Plea of Guilty to Liquor and Assault Charges.

Nels Carlson, Wayne county farmer, had $125 in fines and $14.20 costs levied against him in Judge J. M. Cherry's court Monday, March 9, on charges of illegal possession of intoxicating liquor, intoxication, and assault. He pleaded guilty to all three charges and was assessed $100 on the possession count, $10 for intoxication, and $15 on the assault charge.

His housekeeper, Thelma DeVall, came to Wayne about 4 o'clock Monday morning and got Sheriff A. W. Stephens and Officer W. A. Stewart to accompany her back to the Carlson farm. She said that Carlson was in an intoxicated and belligerent condition.

The officers found a gallon jug part full of moonshine whiskey, a gallon jug part full of wine and four bottles of home brew beer. Carlson resisted arrest at first, but finally subsided and came back to town with the officers.

His housekeeper charged that Carlson assaulted her and threatened her in a menacing manner, struck her, and tore her dress.

Monday at his hearing in county court, Carlson could not remember anything that had happened the previous night, but pleaded guilty to all three charges and paid his fines.

MAGICIAN TO GIVE SHOW TOMORROW

Hi-Y Sponsors Appearance of Clifford in Two Hour Act.

Clifford, the magician, the suave young trickster who mystified an audience of more than 2,000 people on Wayne county's poultry day, will present an evening's entertainment of mystery at the high school auditorium tomorrow night.

The performance, given under the auspices of the Hi-Y organization, will be open to the general public, and Hi-Y members are endeavoring to sell as many tickets to the show as possible. Proceeds of the performance will be used to send the basketball team to the Sioux City tournament.

When the local Hi-Y organization discovered that it was possible to secure Clifford's services, they immediately closed a contract with the mystifier. Since Friday, March 13, was his only open date for some time, they had to get his performance for tomorrow night or not at all.

Clifford presents a two-hour performance embodying all phases of the magician's art. Comedy plays an important part in his show, and he guarantees to keep the audience in good humor. He has appeared on the Orpheum circuit, and has appeared under the auspices of various organizations throughout the middle west.

The performance will start promptly at eight o'clock. Tickets may be purchased from high school students or at the door.

Brahms Quartette to Give Program Here

An evening's entertainment will be presented by the Brahms quartette on Monday, March 23, in the Wayne State Teachers' college auditorium. The musical organization is composed of Lari Banks and Nadine Cox, sopranos, and Lydia Summers and Elinor Markey, contraltos.

The organization was one of the first groups to be presented by the National Music League of New York City, of which Mrs. Otto H. Kahn is president. The music league's endorsement of talent serves as recommendation of a high order. The musicians in the quartette are said to be nationally famous for their perfection in ensemble music.

The musical organization bears the distinction of being the only group of its kind which sings in all the languages from the original manuscripts.

Costumes to be worn by the members of the quartette will be of the 1860 period.

Better Homes Society Lists Group Heads

Organization to Sponsor Local Thrift Week Program.

Mrs. Perry Theobald, general chairman of the Wayne branch of the Better Homes in America organization, has announced the following committee chairman:

Home Economics ..... Miss Currier
Landscaping ..... C. H. Fisher
Flowers ..... Mrs. H. H. Hahn
Tour ..... Prof. Fred Dale
Carpentry and Manual Training... Prof. E. J. Huntmer
Publicity ..... Mrs. L. F. Perry

The Better Homes organization is planning a Thrift Week. To further the plan the Central Meat Market and Denbeck's Market have each agreed to release two ten-dollar checks to persons whom they owe, with the understanding that the receivers will immediately endorse the checks and pass them on in payment of their respective debts. The checks must not be issued to persons who will not agree to hand them over without cashing them, and neither must the checks go out of town. They are to be released on Thursday, March 19, and will be in circulation for five weeks. Persons holding them on Thursday, April 23, will endorse and cash them. It will then be possible to determine by the indorsements the amount of money the checks have paid.

The Better Homes organization asks the co-operation of persons receiving these checks in promptly endorsing them and passing them on. Mrs. Theobald says that it is possible for these four ten-dollar checks to pay hundreds of dollars in debts. The thrift idea, she says, is prompt payment, and each person must endorse his check and pay it out promptly if the campaign is to be successful.

The Flower committee plans to operate a seed and bulb exchange from Sunday, April 12, to Saturday, April 18.

The city council, in co-operation with the Better Homes movement, will exercise special diligence during Clean-up week this spring. Members of the Better Homes organization are urging local residents to look over their premises and begin their out-of-door spring house cleaning.

Wayne Cow Leads in Butter-Fat Production

High cow for the month of February in the Cumling-Wayne-Dixon Dairy Herd Improvement association belongs to Wm. Von Seggern of Wayne. She is a grade Holstein cow on twice a day milking, and was the only cow in the three counties which produced more than 60 pounds of fat for the month. She produced 1756 pounds of milk containing 61.5 pounds of fat, with a test of 3.5 percent.

The average butter-fat production was 24.8 pounds per cow. The average milk production was 724 pounds with a 3.44 percent fat for an average test. Fourteen and four-tenths percent of the cows on test were dry.

Owners of herds producing over 30 pounds of fat per cow for the month are: Arthur Page's of West Point; Chas. E. Barth of Pilger; Wm. Von Seggern of Wayne; McGuire and Res of Wisner, and Elmer A. Ackerman of West Point.

Klopping Presides at Session of House on Saturday Afternoon

State Representative Frank J. Klopping presided over the house at its Saturday afternoon session last week. A bill advocating that non-property owners should not be allowed to vote on bond issues was before the representatives.

Wm. Assenheimer, who was in Lincoln Saturday, heard the house discussion and says that Representative Klopping wielded a vicious gavel.

Many Think Civic Club Is Investment

Money spent for membership in a Wayne commercial club would not be a donation but an investment, according to J. C. Nuss, chairman of the committee for formation of such an organization.

Members of the committee believe that a commercial club could advertise the town and bring new families to the community. They believe that such an organization could secure reduced freight rates into Wayne. They believe that it could promote increased business for Wayne firms. They believe that it could create a closer spirit of harmony between the city and the trade territory. They believe that it could brighten up the every-day routine of the town. They believe that it could do away with "pan-handling." They believe that it could reduce the cost of civic projects. They believe that it could eliminate much delay on community propositions requiring unified action, and could constitute a permanent body to have charge of such affairs.

Commercial club advocates do not maintain that all this could be done in a day, a month, or even in a year's time, but they are convinced that much could be accomplished by a Wayne Commercial club.

Fire Damages Jeffries Shop Early Sunday

Owner Estimates Loss to Stock at from $12,000 to $13,000.

Fire of undetermined origin destroyed the Jeffries Style Shop stock early Sunday morning. When the blaze was discovered, about four o'clock in the morning, it had gained considerable headway, so that firemen experienced difficulty in subduing the flames. The alarm was sounded by the night clerk at the Ford hotel.

Fire Chief Martin Ringer estimates that the fire had been burning for four or five hours when the fire department was notified. Men in the Hiscox cigar store thought they smelled smoke at 11 o'clock Saturday evening.

Fire Chief Ringer believes that the fire started on the north wall of the basement, since the floor above that portion of the basement was the only part burned through. A hole about three feet wide and ten feet long was eaten away by flames.

Mrs. Alice Jeffries Cone, proprietor of the establishment and owner of the building, estimates that the loss on merchandise stock will be between $12,000 and $13,000. Damage to the building has been variously estimated at between $1,000 and $2,000.

Mrs. Cone does not know how the fire started but she believes that someone had broken into the store late Saturday night. One of the screens had been cut, she said, and there was evidence that somebody had gained forcible entrance to the building.

The adjustor for the insurance company arrived in Wayne Tuesday morning, and an invoice of the stock is being taken. When the invoice is completed, the damaged stock will be sold.

Mrs. Cone has run her store for more than 25 years, and considerable sympathy is being expressed for her loss by her many friends.

The Inquiring Reporter

(Every week a Democrat reporter will ask a question of five people, picked at random. If there's any question you would like to have asked, let us know about it.)

Do you think the public library should be enlarged?

Mrs. H. R. Best—"Yes, I do. Because it serves the people of the entire community. We get much more service out of the library than out of many other public institutions. However, we can get along with the old one, and I would not favor enlarging the number of books until after the period of financial depression is over."

Mrs. Norbert Brugger—"I think it should be enlarged by all means. It would relieve the crowded condition and thereby enable us to get more books."

Mrs. R. B. Judson—"I'm for that proposition—because they are overcrowding there and have books that they have no room for."

Mrs. Paul Mince—"Well, I think it is so pretty just as it is that I don't believe I'd enlarge it. I think we need something built onto the high school more than to the library. I would say no."

Mrs. P. A. Teobald—"I think perhaps we should have more assistants. Maybe the librarian would enjoy having a personal secretary a short time each week. Our librarian is quite up to the minute, attends the conventions, etc., and would like to bring in many things if she only had the time. We need more books and could use more money for this purpose to very good advantage."

Revive Chilled Lamb by Immersing in Hot Water

If, perchance, a new-born lamb becomes thoroughly chilled and even may appear to be almost lifeless, such a lamb may be placed in a tub of water, as warm as the shepherd can stand to keep his elbow in. This method is called the shepherd's "magic cure," and at times it really is amazing how an apparently lifeless lamb will, within 15 or 20 minutes, be decidedly alive and bleating for its mother.

Not only keep the lamb's nose out of the water, but its entire head as well, for the lamb's mother will recognize it not by sight or by sound, but by smell, and if the lamb's natural scent is entirely removed by being in the water, the ewe will likely disown the lamb when it is returned to her.

Use for Artichokes

The greatest usefulness of Jerusalem artichokes in the past has been as a stock feed. At present in France they are mostly used for sheep and cattle, and in this country they are most frequently grown for hogs. The crop has been highly recommended for this purpose, but has never superseded corn where that crop succeeds. The leaves and branches are also good stock feed and are extensively used abroad. The stalks may be cured in the same way as corn stover.

ANDY'S FEARS

Andy Mellon painted quite a lurid picture of the money difficulties which passage of the bonus bill would create, but Andy's picture was like most of the works of art that gentleman has painted—just a scare. If there's any difficulty, we'd like Andy to show us where it is.

The government is borrowing the money to finance the bonus loans at 3 3/8 per cent interest, the lowest rate the United States has ever paid on a large scale financing plan. The same government is charging the World War veterans 4 1/2 per cent interest, compounded annually and deducted from the matured value of the bonus certificates if it is not paid promptly. Director Hines of the veterans' bureau estimates that the government will make about $11,250,000 on the deal.

We'll give a fur-lined beer mug to anyone who can explain how a transaction like that can put the government treasury in the hole in any way.

And while we're on the subject, we don't mind telling you that Andy Mellon, one of the world's richest men and one of the fathers of the bootlegging industry, irritates us extremely. He's been the man who pulls the strings in this puppet show government for altogether too long.

SARCASM? OH, NO!

Mrs. Myrtle A. Bennett wasn't guilty of killing her husband in the Kansas City bridge game fight. At least, that's what the jury said.

This vindication of punishment for over-bidding is a great step forward for contract bridge. Of course, a few conservatives have felt that the death punishment was a little heavy for poor bridge players, but the more progressive card players will approve of Mrs. Bennett's victory.

Her future partners will be careful of how they play their hands. You won't see any careless bidding at the Bennett home! That's the fine thing about such action as she has taken to make bridge a better game—it's impressive.

Now that her murder has received the stamp of approval of the court, it seems to us that it would be wise to have a set of rules listing proper punishment for various offenses in contract bridge. Call us conservative if you like, but we DO think that the death penalty would be a little bit heavy for such a minor offense as, say, leading through your partner's king to your opponent's ace-queen.

The death penalty, it seems to us, should be reserved for trumping your partner's trick, over-bidding three or more tricks, and mis-leading your partner with an inadequate raise.

HEADIN' FOR THE FARM

It used to be the old song, "How you gonna keep 'em down on the farm?" but now it is something different, for strange as it may seem the farm population of the United States showed a gain during 1933, the first time this has been the case during the ten-year period thru which estimates have been made by the Bureau of Agricultural Economics.

According to the report, the actual gain in the farm population amounted to 298,000 persons. At the same time, it is reported that the movement from the farms to the city was the smallest since 1922. And all of this at a time when farm products have been reaching new low levels.

There are several reasons assigned for this "back to the farm" movement. The industrial employment situation is probably the greatest of all causes. The cities are filled with unemployed. Farm prices are lower than they have been for years, and even if the price of farm products is low, it is usually possible to make at least a living on the farm, which is more than a man can do in the city when he is out of a job. There are also some indications that the tide is turning for the better, and as the economic situation improves, farm prices will go higher, and it is possible that land prices will also go up. It's just another proof that buying on a low market will bring returns. There are other things about the farm that make it a much more appealing place than it used to be. The automobile has brought the farms close to towns, where markets and amusements are available. Radio roads have enabled the farmer to take his car, go places and do things. The farm has really turned out to be a mighty pleasant place in which to live, and a lot of people who left farms during the past decade to make their fortunes (?) in the city are now beginning to look back with longing to their former homes. Cedar County News

HE'S TOO VALUABLE

There's a move somewhere in the south to boom Will Rogers for president under the democratic banner in 1932. Some reports declare the suggestion is being given serious thought in higher-up party circles.

There's no doubt that Will Rogers would be a good president if he ever got to the White House. He has "horse sense" and good judgment, is known as a doer with a clear-thinking mind.

But Will Rogers is too valuable in other places to be stuck away in the White House where he'd be kept busy battling with the house and senate and the Norrises and the Borahs. He's needed outside to spread a philosophy that people read and understand.

If anyone deserves a congressional medal for drouth-relief work, it's Will Rogers. But as for the presidency—he's too good a man for that. —Nebraska City News-Press.

NEIGHBORS SURPRISE BAIRD'S WEDNESDAY

Honor Wayne Couple on Forty-Fifth Wedding Anniversary.

Mr. and Mrs. James Baird were surprised yesterday when 16 of their neighbors came to their home to honor them on their forty-fifth wedding anniversary. The guests brought baskets of food and served a covered-dish luncheon at one o'clock. The afternoon was spent socially.

Having been surprised once during the day Mr. and Mrs. Baird no doubt thought that they were immune from any further surprises. But shortly before six o'clock, their children and grandchildren, about 30 of them, came, and surprised them again, bringing baskets of food to be served at six o'clock. Those present for this event were George Baird of O'Neill, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Baird and family, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Baird and family, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Baird and family and Mr. and Mrs. John Brisben and family. There were 18 grandchildren present. After dinner, the time was spent visiting until about 8:00 o'clock when they went to the Brisben home.

Of course there could be no more surprises, for their neighbors and their children had already done their best. But at the Brisben home they were met by 28 other guests.

During the evening, the grandchildren presented a program and Mrs. Fred Baird read a paper telling of Mr. and Mrs. Baird in the years gone by—of their wedding, the home where they settled when married, and various incidents which took place during their married life. The paper was written by Mrs. Art Auker. At the close of the evening a two-course luncheon was served. There were about 60 persons present.

James Baird came to this county 48 years ago from Oakland, Iowa, where he worked on a farm. On March 11, 1886, forty-five years ago, he was united in marriage to Miss Jennie Reid of Wayne. The Rev. Lodge of the Presbyterian church performed the ceremony.

After their marriage, Mr. and Mrs. Baird made their home on a farm southwest of Wayne where their son, Harry, and his wife and family now live. Here they lived 33 years, or until 12 years ago, when they moved to Wayne.

Bergt Attends Meet of County Assessors

J. G. Bergt, Wayne county assessor, attended a convention of Nebraska County Assessors association in Lincoln on Thursday and Friday, March 5 and 6. The association will hold its 1932 convention in Omaha.

The assessors discussed proposals to reduce assessments on livestock and automobiles, and also discussed rates for power lines and pipe lines.

James A. Sheffield of Lincoln was elected president of the organization. J. W. Yockey of Broken Bow was elected vice president, and R. W. Daggert of Falls City, secretary and treasurer.

SCOTT SHOTS

by "SCOTTY"

Your head Scott Shot scooper just got a letter from a boy who is graduating from a school of journalism this spring. He says that he can get plenty of jobs on weekly newspapers, but he can't seem to locate a job on a big city daily, and he wants to know what I think he should do about it.

The thing to do, Walt, is to grab one of those weekly newspaper jobs before somebody gets in ahead of you. You'll find a satisfaction in your work on a weekly that you'll never even approximate in your work on a big city daily.

You don't know much about the newspaper business yet, Walt. Of course, your instructors have you kidded into believing that you're all ready to revolutionize the newspaper industry, but that's a lot of ga-ga.

You know enough about the newspaper business now to be a big bother on any city daily you may come in contact with. (Look—he's ending sentences with propositions.) And nobody on any city-daily is going to worry much about whether you ever amount to anything or not. They'll show you how to do something, because you'll be on the payroll, and newspapers are funny about wanting something in return for the money they spend.

So they'll probably make a good church reporter or a good commercial reporter out of you. You'll be able to stay with your daily for years and you'll be a good church reporter or a good commercial reporter, as the case may be. But you'll never be a good all-round newspaper man—that is, unless you're the exception.

You can't blame the newspaper management. Producing a daily newspaper is a highly specialized business. Once you get onto the ropes of your particular beat, you can't expect the management to break you in on something new.

But the fact remains, you'll be a one-job man. You'll be able to do one thing better than anyone else on the paper can do it, and everybody else will be able to do one thing better than you can do his particular line. That is, everybody will be in that predicament except the managing editor, who will be a small-town newspaper man imported to look after general supervision, because he knows something about every job in the plant.

Get yourself a job on a small-town weekly. You'll do everything under the sun, and maybe a few things you don't know that any newspaper editor has to do. You'll be pretty much your own boss, and you'll have to exercise all the initiative you can scare up.

You'll learn about humane treatment of news. You'll learn more about human interest in news stories than all the big city jobs in the world could give you. You'll learn what's news and what isn't news, because you'll get the honest reactions of your readers.

You won't have to write like a machine. You won't have to conform to any standards except those you set up for yourself. You won't have to write down to a level set by the city editor.

You'll learn to appreciate the problems of the advertising department, and you'll know how to work the two departments hand in hand for the good of the paper, without pro-elying your publication.

You'll love your work. You'll think there's no job in the world quite as fine and intensely interesting as yours. You'll get a keen delight out of a good job well done, and you'll learn plenty from your failures.

Grab that weekly job, Walt! Grab it quick!

Didja hear, the one about the local dentist that went out to the Country Club for a round of golf and told his office girl to tell patients that he was busy filling eighteen cavities?

School Made Simple

One of the students at Wayne State Teachers' college was doing nicely with an examination paper until he came to this question:

"Give for any one year, the total amount of money spent for education in Nebraska."

He was stumped. He scratched his head and toyed with his pencil and paper until a great light dawned. He wrote:

"In the year 1492—None."

There happens to be a 1924 magazine on the table in front of me. It has an ad on the back cover which reads:

"Here they are! The latest song and dance hits. Sixteen wonderful selections on eight double-face 10-inch records. These sparkling new hits:

Somebody Loves Me; Follow the Swallow; Charlie My Boy; I Can't Get the One I Want; He's a New Kind of Man; Some Day You'll Miss Me; Hard Hearted Hannah; Hinkey Dinkey Parley Voo; I Wonder What's Become of Sally; Put Away A Little Ray of Golden Sunshine."

Those songs have all been forgotten. The funnest part of it is that St. Louis Blues, still a popular number, was written in 1912. Its been the marathon champion of popular numbers.

Still funnier—think of all the classical music that has lived for a hundred years. Merit must have something to do with popularity after all.

All right, ladies and gentlemen, if you will stand by for a minute we will present a lecture, "Looking at Things from Different Angles," by Ben Turpin.

It's getting so some folks enjoy the radio as much as the party line telephone.

What a sensation it would create to use this sentence in a wedding report: "The bride wore a look of triumph."

"Well," Doc Emery said to his patient, "You have a Pullman mouth. No lowers and only a couple of uppers."

Old Habits

"Now," grumbled the side-show manager, "I don't so much mind the bearded lady smokin' cigarettes in public, but I don't like the place she scratches matches. It gets the crowd suspicious."

O. S. Roberts says that shower baths were invented by a plumber who got tired of being bawled out by his wife for leaving rings on the bathtub.

Vernon Castle says he can remember way back when you could kiss a girl and taste nothing but girl.

"Say!" the traveling man bellowed. "There's hair in the honey, in the ice cream and in the apple sauce."

"That's strange," C. E. Nicholson replied. "I can understand how it was in the honey—that came from the comb. And the ice cream is easy to explain, too, because we used shaved ice, but how that hair got in the apple sauce is beyond me, because I bought those apples myself, and Carroll Orr told me they were Baldwins."

"Hello, son!" the ice man said to the little boy.

It looks like Wayne's going to have a commercial club. There's been some criticism of such an organization, but Wayne citizens for the most part, realize that such a club would be of material benefit to the town.

Plans for the Golden Jubilee celebration progress. That's another thing that will add to the surrounding territory's estimation of Wayne.

Here's our parting shot—Have you heard the story about the Scotchman who was so closed he got slapped?

The Book Box

Tie a little string around your finger and remember to read Dorothy Parker's "Laments for the Living." It's her first venture in prose—it's a perfectly swell book—we've mentioned it before several times, but thought you might have neglected reading it, you'll enjoy it.

In the thirteen stories and sketches which make up the volume, laughs go hand in hand with infinite pity and understanding.

You've probably run across a copy of The Hobo's Hornbook, edited by George Milburn, long before this, but the Book Box clerk just discovered it. It is a robust collection of virile, red-blooded, satirical verse of the hobos—the last of the ballad makers. Rimes for the collection were gathered firsthand from jungle camp and freight car rendezvous, with music for many of the songs. If you liked "My Pious Friends and Drunken Companions" you'll like The Hobo's Hornbook.

The Saturday Review of Literature published a statement that "in rhyming... Massachusetts, Texas, Virginia, Mississippi, Connecticut are almost hopeless." The statement brought this rejoinder from Louis Untermyer:

No hope for a rhymed Massachusetts? The duce! It's the state where the metrical crew sits!

As for Connecticut, it's governed by rhythm and etiquette.

The Book Box has had a few inquiries on pronunciations of names of writers. So, consequently, here are a few answers:

Sah-kee is the pen name of the author of the peerless "Chronicles of Clovis" and other works that have brought about a Saki cult.

P. G. Wodehouse is really Woodhouse, if you pronounce it correctly.

Alec Waugh? His publishers have sent out a poem in which his name is incorrectly rhymed several times. It concludes:

There's much to be said if you know him (and how)
For calling him (though its not right) "Mr. Wow.

But this is correct, and the brilliant young author who created "Hot Countries" is Waw

Samuel Peeps called himself Peepiz, but the modern version is Peeps. Bayden Powell is BAYden POE-ell

And now that school is over, have you read Off the Arm, by Don Marquis? There's not much to be said about it, for everybody knows his Don Marquis, and you might as well try to say something new or different about Will Rogers and John D. Rockefeller.

What is Don Marquis? A humorist? Well, he is surely not a funny man primarily. A novelist? No, for telling stories is not necessary to his work. I guess he's a commentator with a grin.

Off the Arm is not a remarkable book of fiction, and nobody will read it twice. Don't say that the book box told you it was a great book. It isn't. But a great many people will read it with pleasure and profit, which is more than can be said of most novels that pull a long face and make great display of literary learning and longing.

It's just another comedy of lovers separated by human cussedness and coming together again through pure love. But its a good one, and you might enjoy it. The odds would be about five to one that you would.

You legionaires simply must get a copy of Eugene Lohrke's fine book, "Armageddon." It contains all the greatest literature that has been written about the world war. It possesses a surprising unity and integrity for an anthology. It portrays a sense of the kaleidoscopic immensity of the war and the inevitable logic of its movement. The book is a wise and impartial choice from the literature of all the nations involved in the war. If you've wanted to read war books, but have been bewildered by the flood of them on the market, here's the cream of it all.

There are selections from the works of Sidney B. Fay, Edith Wharton, Joseph Conrad, H. G. Wells, Romain Rolland, Richard Aldington, Robert Graves, Henry Barbusse, John Galsworthy, Arnold Bennett, Ford Madox Ford, John Masefield, Hugh Walpole, Ernest Hemingway, Remarque, E. E. Cummings, Arnold Bennett, Joseph Delteil, Maxim Gorky, Katherine Mansfield, Laurence Stallings, John Dos Passos, Georges Duhamel, John Maynard Keynes, Thomas Boyd, Lowell Thomas, and many others.

Lumber prices are revised—and downward, too! Maybe the men knew that, and just hadn't taken the trouble to tell you. Now take heart, sisters, and let's plan together on the new price basis.

We might just consider the very practical and necessary items—cellar steps, screened doors and porches, plain shelving and such. Then, if we have been careful in planning, there will perhaps be a chance for the extras. Cupboards, cabinets, built-in ironing boards, porch boxes, a rose trellis or garden seat. And after all, aren't they necessities, too? The work goes faster when things are convenient and pleasant, so it is really a saving to have them.

We will enjoy helping you with any idea you may have in mind.

WITH THE WAYNE CHURCHES

First Presbyterian Church
P. A. Davies, Pastor
We would remind all interested in worth while services, that our young people plan to put on the Pageant, "The Dream That Came True" a week from next Sunday night, March 22. With a cast of 35, this is one of the great Biblical Pageants. Those who have seen it will testify that it is out of the ordinary. The beauty and impressiveness of the pageant depends in great part upon the lighting, so we are asking the people of our morning congregation to plan to be in attendance at the evening hour a week from next Sunday night.

The Missionary society met Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. J. H. Kemp. From program announced Sunday, we know that this was one of their best meetings.

All services next Sunday are at the usual hours. Sunday school, 10:00; morning worship, 11:00; evening choir, 6:00; C. E. services, 7:30; and evening worship, 7:30.

The young people responded splendidly to the "challenge" for the evening service. We appreciate the fine co-operation of the teachers of these classes in this effort.

"The Sunday school is the best it has ever been," is the remark we hear most frequently. The reason is to be found in the teaching-faculty which Prof. Costerisan has secured. The services of this church will all be held at the usual hours next Sunday.

Report Shows Phone Business Increasing

There was a growth last year of 122,500 telephones in the Bell system in the United States, as compared with 821,400 in 1929, according to the 1930 annual report of the American Telephone and Telegraph company. There also was a slight increase in both the number of local and long distance calls.

At the end of 1930, there were 15,682,059 telephones owned by the Bell system in the United States and its lines connected with an additional 4,416,000 non-owned telephones.

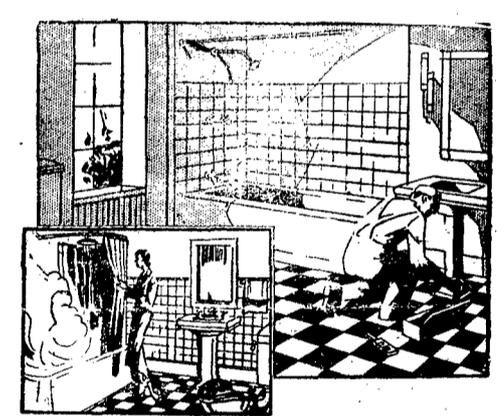

At the end of the year, the American Telephone and Telegraph company had 567,694 stockholders. The Bell system, including its various associated companies, such as the Northwestern Bell Telephone company, had a total of 394,460 employees.

Net earnings of the Bell system for the year amounted to 5.8 percent on the cost of plant and other assets which at the end of the year totaled $5,000,195,000.

With confidence in the continued economic growth of the country and in the even more rapid growth of the telephone business, $15,000,000 was spent during the year for development and research for future telephone improvements. This is somewhat larger than the amount so spent in any previous year.

Showing J. P. Morgan's Keen Business Instinct

Years ago a noted New York art dealer showed a little painting to J. Pierpont Morgan, the elder, saying that it was one of the finest examples of Vermeer.

"Who is Vermeer?" asked the financier.

The dealer briefly told Mr. Morgan a few facts concerning the Dutch painter, whose name was then practically unknown in the circles of American art collectors, whereupon he again looked at the picture carefully and asked the price. It was $100,000. "I'll take it," said Mr. Morgan.

The whole affair took only a few minutes, declares George S. Hellman, the art critic—quoted in "Morgan the Magnificent" by John K. Whisker—and no one but Morgan could have done this. He did it because his eye told him that he was in the presence of a consummate work of art, and his quickly working mind recognized that, as there were extant so few paintings by this consummate master, the price was moderate.

At least $250,000 could be obtained for that picture today, Mr. Hellman estimates.

How John Jacob Astor Put Over Shrewd Trick

In August, 1808, with not even an oyster boat stirring outside of Sandy Hook as the result of President Jefferson's embargo on United States shipping, New York was amazed to see in the Commercial Advertiser the laconic notice: "Yesterday the ship Beaver, Captain Galloway, sailed for China."

The whole town was aroused that one of John Jacob Astor's ships should be allowed to sail for the Far East when even coastwise shipping was tied up by government action.

It developed that Astor's excuse was that a Chinese mandarin must needs be transported home and that Presidential permission had been granted.

But the mandarin was only a Chinese picked up in City Hall park for the occasion and the net profits on the hoax were estimated at $200,000 despite that the Beaver was of only 400 tons. Such were the profits in the Chinese trade.—Detroit News.

Found There Was Limit to Customers' Patience

At the time of the rush into the Palmer gold field, in northern Queensland, Australia, justice was rough but fair, observes the Dunedin (N. Z.) Star, in quoting an incident of the day.

The one storekeeper there, when stocking, took up a barrel of horse-shoe nails, thinking that they would readily sell to diggers who, in loading their pack horses, eliminated to the last ounce everything of weight that was not eatable. As it chanced, however, there was no demand for the nails. Every man, who had a horse carried a few in his pocket. After the nails had been on his hands for a while he struck the brilliant idea that he would force sales by refusing to sell any flour or sugar or rice unless the buyer also purchased an equal weight of nails.

For a time the men grumbled, but bought and, not needing the nails, put them back in the barrel, so that they became to the storekeeper what the cruse was to the widow. Eventually the swindle got wind and a big rumpus ensued. About a hundred diggers assembled and took charge of the store. They weighed the nails, paid full price, chucked them into the creek, and on a signboard made of casement wood they notified all and sundry: "No more nails."

Old System of Timing Still in Use in Egypt

Before the advent of the modern clock, many towns and cities told the time to their people by firing a gun at noon. Rome was such a place, and sent to the daily firing of her veteran noon-gun on the Janiculum hill, which had been done so far back as human memory could go until a year or so ago.

Then she decided to replace this ancient form of time signaling by the most ultramodern system available. A master electric clock was installed in the city observatory, which controlled 300 other electric clocks placed in different quarters of the Eternal city on the Tiber. The 538,000 Romans are therefore exceptionally well catered for as regards the time.

What an amazing contrast is such a method as this to the manner in which parts of Egypt to this very day tell the time. There some of the natives still employ ancient shadow clocks. These consist of wooden boards with little "goal posts" in the middle of them, which measure by the shadows they throw the length of jobs which have to be performed by oxen or laborers.

These "clocks" have been in use for telling time for 4,000 years.

FRUITS THAT ARE FRUITFUL

HOUSEWIVES are more and more demanding to know what value they are receiving for the money they spend. They are looking for labels on food just as they look for labels on clothes. And every now and then the spotlight swings around and casts its illumination on a well-known object, showing it up as something vital to our welfare. Right now, the spotlight is on fruit.

America is a fruit-loving nation, and no longer are we content to have our fruit only when it is in season, or to have only the kind of fruit that grows in our neighboring orchards. If we live in Maine in the winter we are apt to want the kind of oranges that grow in California in the summer; if we live in the Southeast, we want apples from the Northwest.

This demand is due, somewhat to modern transportation, and also to the fact that canneries have made it possible for us to have sun-ripened fruit from anywhere at any time. Even those people who say, "Oh, I prefer fresh fruit to canned fruit," will admit that they prefer good sun-ripened canned fruit to worthless fresh fruit which has been picked green and ripened in transit or in warehouses.

Pampered Pineapple

Take pineapple, for instance. Over in Hawaii, they pamper pineapples. They provide them with the finest soil conditions and nurse them to perfect maturity. The pineapples refuse to be hurried—they just grow lazily along in the tropical sunshine. Those pineapples that are picked green to be sent north as fresh fruit have been denied their birthright—long weeks of sunshine and sea air. Also, pineapples refuse to be shipped when they are fully ripe—they bruise easily and become too ripe before they reach their far destinations.

So the canner has solved the pineapple problem by building the caninery right on the scene of action. The very moment when the particular pineapple has reached its stage of full sun-warmed maturity it is quickly picked and packed into cans, so that it comes to us with full quota of flavor and food value, and even its sun-glow color.

Other fruits are canned in the same manner. You can even get good orange juice in cans now—the juice of sun-ripened oranges. This, like canned grape-fruit juice, is still somewhat new to many people who buy canned peaches, pears and other fruits regularly. Yet people who try these juices like them, and they like also, the convenience of having them ready-squeezed and strained.

These Are Sun-Ripened Fruits

For the convenience of many housewives who do not have at hand the list of fruits available in cans, the following list is printed, with the suggestion that you post it on your kitchen bulletin board and try some of the more unusual delicacies available, as well as the tried-and-true ones:

Make a roux of one teaspoon of butter and one tablespoon flour and then thin with the juice of one lemon. Add the fruit juices and pour over the fruit. Bake in a hot oven, 400 degrees, for thirty minutes. Serve either warm or cold as a compote. This serves six persons.

Scandinavian Prune Pudding: Remove stones from a No. 3 can of prunes, cut in pieces and return to the syrup. Add one-third cup sugar, one-fourth teaspoon clove, one-fourth teaspoon cinnamon and simmer for five minutes. Mix one-third cup cornstarch with one-half cup orange juice, add to the hot mixture and cook in a double boiler, stirring constantly until the mixture is thick and smooth. Cool slightly, add one-half cup chopped nuts and fold in the stiffly-beaten whites of two eggs. Pour into wet molds and chill. Serve with whipped cream or custard sauce. This serves eight persons.*

Victory Made History on Plain of Marathon

The ancient Marathon was a small town on the eastern coast of Attica, about 20 miles northeast of Athens. There is a modern village of the name, but the site of the ancient Marathon is occupied now by a town called Vrana. Along with neighboring towns, the old Marathon belonged to an ancient Hænetic league called the Te-trapolis. This league claimed a very early origin, legend carrying it back to the time of Theseus, and it survived until after the Fourth century B. C.

The plain of Marathon is famous as the scene of the decisive battle in which Miltiades led the Athenians and Plateans to victory over the army of Darius under command of Datis and Artaphernes in B. C. 490. The Greeks numbered about 10,000, while the Persians had a much larger force. But the invaders were put utterly to rout with heavy loss, while the Greeks lost only 192 men. The great mound in which the remains of these dead were placed is still conspicuous on the plain. The battle turned back the eastern invasion of Europe and saved Athens; and, according to tradition, a Greek runner sped without stopping from Marathon to Athens bearing the tidings of victory.

India Leads the World in Racial Distinctions

There was, and is, immeasurably greater diversity of race in India than in Europe, even if we emphasize the Lapps and Finns, the Turks and Magyars, the Maltese and Basques.

The fundamental distinction of the "four colors" exists today as in the days of the great adjustment formalized in Manu's code. The Mahabharata describes the Brahmans as white, the Rajputs as red-limbed, the Vashyas as yellow, the Shudras as black.

And to this day the men of pure race in Rajputana are red, like the red granite statues of old Egypt; the Brahmans of pure race are white beneath their light coat of sunburn; the Santals and Savaras are yellow; the Dravidians of the south are black. There are also a great many intermediate shades, but these four primary elements remain.—Charles Johnston in the Atlantic Monthly.

A Dollar Dinner For Four

Food, February—and also for February, perhaps more than any other month is the time when nourishing foods are essential. Summer and sunshine are a long way back, and our resistance to colds is apt to be decreased by the sunless days of late winter.

It is for Housewife and likewise for Health. For it is the housewife who has in her keeping the health of the family. She should endeavor to provide meals which will be full of vitamin and iron content to build energy and resistance.

These meals need not be expensive, especially if one buys when sale prices are offered. Here is a delicious dinner that is dietetically excellent. It costs only one dollar and serves four persons generously.

LIVE STOCK

KILLING LICE ON STOCK IN WINTER

Great Problem Presented to Many Stockmen.

Lice on cattle in the winter present a great problem to many farmers, as the customary dipping of the summer months cannot be carried out without grave danger of pneumonia and colds. Prof. H. A. Hopper, Cornell University, recommends the use of powders or ointments.

Before applying these ointments hair should be clipped where the lice are most abundant, along the back, head, ears, neck and inside the flanks. Most dusting powders on the market are suitable to keep down lice infestation, but they are hardly able to eradicate the lice entirely. Applications of any of the lice killers should be made 16 days apart to get all the lice that hatch after the first application.

Arsenical dips are commonly used when dipping the cattle or an orchard sprayer may be used in applying the poison when the herd is small. Any of the common dips may be used if thoroughly applied. For hard applications the United States department recommends cottonseed oil and kerosene, equal parts; kerosene and lard mixed, one-half pint kerosene to a pound of lard; crude petroleum or any of the dips recommended for lice.

Some have had good results in using crankcase oil, by applying it lightly. There is danger in the use of oil if cattle are exposed to direct sunlight or chilling weather or rain. The oil should be lightly applied with a brush

Cattle Should Have All Oats They Will Clean Up

Cattle should have all of the oats they will clean up good in two feeds per day, after being gradually worked up to a full feed in about four weeks' time, and should have about one pound of linseed oilmeal per head per day. This can be fed right from the beginning. By feeding your steers oats in this way for a period of five to six months, especially if you have enough hay of fair quality to use along with the oats, you should have your cattle in pretty fat condition, fat enough to just about suit the packer buyers when they reach market.

Live Stock Facts

Skim milk, good quality alfalfa hay, or clover hay should be fed to furnish protein.

A hog can stand much abuse and neglect, but negligence and indifference do not make for profitable pork production.

It has been found that often sheep will drink very little water if they are on good soft green pasture that is very high in water content during the spring or fall months.

While the swine industry is on the decline in this country a larger number of hogs than a year ago is reported in most foreign producing countries, particularly in Europe.

It mangle breaks out in hogs, dip the hogs and clean up the quarters before the disease spreads through the herd.

Pumpkins are 90 per cent water, but in spite of that they are a very good feed, the dry matter running about 15 per cent protein.

A Million Dollar Kitchen

WOULD food taste better to you if you knew it was prepared in a million dollar kitchen? As a matter of fact, you eat food from a million dollar kitchen practically every day of your life—at a cost of a few cents to you.

Director G. H. Hecke, head of the California Department of Agriculture coined the "million dollar kitchen" phrase in speaking of canned foods. A recent editorial in the Los Angeles Times quotes Director Hecke's reference to canned foods as "prepared in a million dollar kitchen, under expert supervision with all the latest methods of testing, accompanied by the accuracy and skill of modern cooking and preparation."

Canner Aids Farmer and Housewife

The Times says, in part: "The canning industry has made tremendous progress in the past fifteen years, having grown to a point where today it represents an annual business of approximately $90,000,000 in California alone. It has become the right-hand man of agriculture, so to speak."

Look in the most particular housewife's pantry and, lo, her shelves are well filled with canned goods of many sorts. She will tell you that the canners have secured the choicest fruits and vegetables for their processing, that they have obviously used the utmost care in their preparation and that they have preserved beyond the scope of many a woman's kitchen equipment, the flavor and value of the foods.

"And from an economic standpoint, the canner saves agriculture from a heavy annual loss. The amount of fruit and vegetables which can be consumed during their periods of harvest is rarely equal to production, but the packer can preserve it for later use."
