

Carroll Pastor Gives Talk at Kiwanis Club

Rev. David Simpson Tells of Northwest Mounted Police Life.

Rev. David Simpson of Carroll, pastor of the Methodist church at Carroll, spoke to Wayne Kiwanians at their regular weekly meeting Monday noon at Hotel Stratton. His talk was concerning the Royal Northwest Mounted Police, and was of particular interest to men interested in glamorous, red-blooded living.

Rev. Simpson was a member of the Northwest Mounted for a number of years. He explained the efficiency of the organization to Kiwanians, and related a few of the daring exploits which members of the group have indulged in whenever it has been necessary. He brought out thrill of life in the great police organization, and depicted the glamorous lure of the Mounted Policeman's life. He said it was generally recognized that the Royal Northwest Mounted police are the most efficient organization of the kind in existence, and spoke of the old saying, "The Royal Northwest Mounted Police always get their man."

His speech was full of anecdotes relative to the police organization, and was replete with humor. In addition to explaining the ideals and aims of the Northwest Mounted, he gave Kiwanians an insight into the inside workings of the organization.

Rev. Simpson was born in Manchester, England. He went to Canada when he was a young man, and became a member of the Mounted soon after his arrival in that country. Later he came to America and became a clergyman.

He mentioned that Kiwanis is an international organization and said that in appearing at a Kiwanis meeting he got a chance to salute both the American and Canadian flags.

OFFICER CATCHES WRECK STRIPPERS

Three Boys Confess Guilt in Taking Automobile Accessories.

Friday the thirteenth was the wrong day to start a crime career, as three Wayne boys discovered, when Officer W. A. Stewart caught them stripping Edward Gurney's car late Friday night. The Gurney car had been involved in a wreck earlier in the evening.

The boys had taken five tires, the generator, the battery, spark plugs and coils from the automobile.

Two of the boys were under 18 years old, putting their cases into the juvenile court, and third was a minor.

Their cases were heard before County Judge J. M. Cherry on Saturday afternoon, March 14. The cases of the two boys under 18 years old were heard in juvenile court, with W. M. Orr, probation officer, representing the defendants. The other boy's case was heard in county court.

Lenience was shown to all three defendants, inasmuch as none of them had been in any trouble before and they were accompanied by an older man to whom it would be logical for them to look for guidance. This older man left the youths when they started stripping the car, but did not advise them against their actions.

The boy whose case was tried in county court was sentenced to pay a fine of $20.00 and costs. Judge Cherry arranged for him to pay his fine in $2 a week installments for 11 weeks.

The other boys were paroled for a six-month period. During that time they must be home every night by ten o'clock, must keep out of pool halls, and must report on their conduct every week.

Members of the Brahms quartette, which is to appear in Wayne at the college auditorium on Monday evening, March 23, are Lari Bank and Nadine Cox, sopranos, and Lydia Summers and Elmer Markey, contraltos.

Little Boy "Faw Down, Go Boom"

Little Carl Haas, nineteen months old son of Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Haas of near Wayne, caused considerable excitement at the Haas home several days ago when he fell from an upstairs window and escaped injury, not even so much as sustaining a bruise. How he escaped injury would be a mystery but for the fact that when he reached the ground, his strong overall rompers were found to be torn. Evidently he had caught on something that had broken the fall.

No one seems to know how the accident happened, except that the little fellow had gone upstairs with his Daddy and the next thing on the program was his unexpected exit out the window.

Former Wayne Folks Are United in Marriage Saturday.

Miss Amber James of Council Bluffs, Iowa, daughter of P. G. At present she is employed as secretary to the superintendent of the Iowa School for the Deaf where she is also teaching typing. Mrs. Hegenberger will continue her work.

Funeral Mass Held Saturday Morning

Funeral mass was held at 10:30 o'clock last Saturday morning, March 14, at the St. Mary's Catholic church here for Dorothy June Fox, 6, little daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Fox of near Wayne, who passed away at a Sioux City hospital Wednesday, March 11. Father Wm. Keams was in charge. Interment was made in the Greenwood cemetery.

Death came as a result of complications resulting from a serious kidney disorder. Dorothy June became ill about a week before her death and was taken immediately to the hospital where a blood transfusion was given her. All efforts to save her however were of no avail.

The little girl is survived by her parents and by a younger brother, Jimmie Fox.

Klopping Sponsors Bill to Raise Egg Standard

Rep. Frank J. Klopping of Wayne is sponsor of a bill providing for the licensing of all Nebraska egg buyers; for the payment by them of a $1 yearly fee; and for all-year-round candling of eggs. The bill passed the house by a vote of 61 to 22.

Representative Klopping expects his bill to raise the standard of Nebraska eggs to permit competition in the east with eggs from states where similar laws are in effect.

Group Makes Plans for Local Commercial Club

At a meeting Tuesday evening of the committee in charge of formulation of plans for a Wayne commercial club, definite steps were taken to organize the local group along lines tried and found highly satisfactory at Seward, Holdrege and other Nebraska towns.

Under the approved plan, the commercial club will be divided into two groups. The Greater Wayne division will be constituted of every one interested in the progress of the community. Operation of a business house is not a requisite to membership. Everyone who is interested in the future advancement of Wayne will be expected to belong. Desire for local improvement on the part of Wayne citizens is expected to be the prime factor in the successful organization of this group.

Money derived from this section of the club will be devoted to the civic advancement of the town. The purpose of the Greater Wayne division will be to make Wayne a better town in which to live.

The second group of the club will be the Retail Trades division. This group will be composed of Wayne business men, and will be devoted to the business progress of the community. Every business firm is eligible to membership in this group, and it is the Retail Trades division which will be relied upon to furnish the bulk of the finances.

Prospective members should consider payment of dues to the commercial club as an investment, it has been pointed out. Many believe it is logical that the value of a business

RINGER WILL HEAD JUBILEE DIRECTORS

P. A. Theobald Elected as Treasurer; Anderson to Be Secretary.

Martin L. Ringer was elected chairman of the Golden Jubilee board of directors by a unanimous vote at a meeting of that body Tuesday evening. George B. Anderson was elected secretary and P. A. Theobald was selected as treasurer.

Members of the board of directors present were Martin L. Ringer, C. M. Craven, P. A. Theobald, Don Cunningham, E. W. Huse, J. G. W. Lewis, and George B. Anderson.

Members of the group discussed the feasibility of raising funds for a three day celebration this summer and decided, after considerable debate, to await action of the commercial club.

No committees were appointed, but members of the board of directors were advised by Chairman Ringer to investigate entertainment possibilities. A suggestion made by Rev. W. E. Braisted that the Golden Jubilee celebration extend over Saturday to Sunday, with church observances, was discussed.

High School Discusses Junior-Senior Banquet

Members of the Junior class of Wayne high school held a meeting Monday to determine a date for the Junior-Senior banquet. Many in the class favored May 1, but no definite date was decided upon.

Commercial students are preparing for entrance in the District commercial contest to be held at Norfolk. Students who will probably represent Wayne high school are Flora Rhoades, advanced typist, who writes on an average of 63 words a minute, and Charlene Brown, beginning typist, whose speed average is approximately 50 words a minute.

The journalism class has just completed half of the semester course. For the past nine weeks, they have studied the news story. For the remainder of the school year, they will study the high school newspaper.

UNITED IN MARRIAGE

Evelyn Marquardt of Lyons, Neb., daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Emil Marquardt, was married to Elmer L. Dean of Walthill, Neb., son of Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Dean on Monday, March 16. The marriage ceremony was performed by Rev. L. Yost, Methodist pastor at Pender.

institution will increase correspondingly with the improvement of the community.

Present plans of the group are to hire a trained commercial club secretary to act as general supervisor of the organization's operations.

A budget is being prepared as a basis of operation. It estimates the amount of dues each person or firm should pay in order to carry on the work successfully. As soon as the budget is ready, which will be within the next few days, everyone will be asked to subscribe his share.

A preliminary survey of the financial part of the program suggests that if everyone co-operates, the dues will not be burdensome for anyone.

The approved plan is considered an ideal one for Wayne by members of the local committee, since it brings all parts of the community into the organization and welds the various interests of the town to a unified purpose of community advancement.

Members of the committee are convinced that a commercial club could advertise the town and bring new families to the community. Promotion of increased business for Wayne firms is a point that is being stressed. Civic improvement is another point which commercial club advocates wish to accomplish.

Action on the club was brought about largely by a belief on the part of many that a commercial club could eliminate much delay on community propositions requiring unified action and could constitute a permanent body to have charge of such affairs.

Thank You!

Circulation of The Nebraska Democrat has been growing steadily for the last few months. The fact that The Democrat's family of readers is increasing is gratifying, especially in view of the fact that this publication has made no aggressive effort to induce people to subscribe.

Democrat readers read the paper because they want to read it. Most of them have subscribed without any solicitation on the part of The Democrat staff. When a business firm's advertisement appears in The Democrat, the advertiser knows that his message will be read by those who receive the paper.

The Democrat does not try to cover the state of Nebraska from a news angle. Wayne's trade territory is a large enough area of news coverage. It is the area which can produce most returns on the advertising dollar.

The Democrat tries to be a friendly, newsy newspaper. It tries to be thoroughly readable and human.

The Democrat wants to be regarded as a friend. It never has been aggressive for its own personal interests, and will always, we hope, place the interest of its readers before any personal gain.

If you approve of The Democrat's policy—if you like to read the paper—if you want to see it grow "bigger and better"—we will appreciate your patronage.

High School Students Enter Declam Contest

Wm. Beckenhaver has been selected as delegate to the Kiwanis International at Miami, Fla., during the week beginning May 3. J. H. Kemp is alternate.

Norfolk Man Falls Asleep; Wrecks Car

Alfred Deitchler of Norfolk made a miraculous escape from injury Saturday night when his car went off of the road at the bridge just west of the railroad crossing four miles from Wayne on the Wakefield road.

The accident happened at about 11:30 at night, when Mr. Deitchler went to sleep while driving. The car went into a deep ditch, and it took three workmen four hours to get it back on the road again. The car was only slightly damaged, and Mr. Deitchler suffered only minor bruises.

THRIFT WEEK WILL START HERE TODAY

Better Homes Group Asks Co-operation on Bill Payment Plan.

Thrift Week starts today. As a feature of its observance, four ten dollar checks are being put into circulation by the two local meat markets, and people receiving the checks are requested to endorse them promptly and pass them on, so that as many bills as possible may be paid with them.

Thrift week is being sponsored by the Better Homes organization. Officials of the group are asking the co-operation of persons receiving the checks in promptly endorsing them and passing them on in payment of bills. The endorsements will make it possible to see how many bills the four checks pay. They stress the fact that each recipient of the Thrift Week checks must pay them out promptly if the campaign is to be successful.

The Nebraska Democrat was right last week when it printed a statement that four ten-dollar checks would be issued. The Better Homes organization officials say that, through error, statements were published elsewhere last week to the effect that only two ten-dollar checks would be released.

Railroad Engine Has Broken Main Journal

There might have been a wreck—but there wasn't. Tuesday afternoon at about 2:30 o'clock, train No. 10, going from Norfolk to Sioux City, broke a main journal about a mile west of Wayne. The engineer noticed it when the train was a short distance from Wayne, and averted a wreck by "limping" the engine into town.

The engine was pulled onto a siding here for repairs, and the engine was taken off of the Bloomfield train and sent to Wayne to take care of the No. 10 train's movement. Repairs for the broken down engine were sent into Wayne late Tuesday afternoon, and workmen had it fixed Wednesday.

Paulsen was heard at the Wayne county court house Saturday afternoon, and the motion was overruled. The court originally found in favor of the defendant. Since overruling of the motion for new trial Saturday, attorneys for the Dodge County Agricultural and Credit association have appealed to the supreme court.

Three People Suffer Injuries In Car Wreck

Automobiles Crash at Sixth and Main Friday Evening.

Injuries were sustained by three persons last Friday night at about 9 o'clock when two cars collided at the corner of Sixth and Main streets.

S. R. Hall of Sioux City was driving north along Main street and Edward Gurney of Carroll, Neb., was driving east along Sixth street. The Gurney boy failed to see the "Stop" sign, and the two cars met head-on.

Reo Mears, an occupant of the Gurney car, was injured and went to his parents' home in Omaha to recuperate.

Eli Hoshaw, another occupant of the Gurney car, had both bones broken in his left leg. The bones were shattered and stuck out through the flesh, even protruding through his pants leg. Official statement of his injuries says that he suffered a "compound comminuted fracture of the tibia and fibula in the middle third." He received minor flesh bruises as well. Mr. Hoshaw is confined to Benthack's hospital, and is getting along well.

Mr. Hall was alone in his car at the time of the accident. He suffered hip injuries.

Both cars were badly damaged.

The Inquiring Reporter

(Every week a Democrat reporter will ask a question of five people, picked at random. If there's any question you would like to have asked, let us know about it.)

Do you think Wayne should have an official town flower?

Mrs. Mary L. McMakin:—"I think that would be all right. I hardly know what flower I'd choose, but I'm pretty partial to Canterbury Bells."

D. Hall, Nurseryman:—"Well, it would be kind o' nice. As to the kind of flower, I think the Delphinium would be as good as any of them. They bloom all summer and anyone can raise them."

Mrs. J. Woodward Jones:—"I don't know—I had never thought of such a thing, but I think it would be very nice. I believe I would choose the Iris. Many people have them in their gardens and seem to be very fond of them."

Prof. C. R. Chinn:—"As to the choosing of a town flower, it would not make any particular difference whether one were chosen or not. If one were chosen, I think it should be a simple variety anyone could raise and not one requiring any technical training in the art of gardening. The Delphinium might be nice, or even the petunia for that matter."

Mrs. Fred L. Blair:—"That would be very nice. I have often thought it would be nice to have a town flower and plant it in profusion all over town. As to the flower, chosen I think it should be one with a long blooming season and one that is easy to raise. Fremont has chosen the Canna as its official flower and in the summer time one can see it nearly everywhere in that city. Just on the spur of the moment, I don't think of a better flower than the Canna for that purpose."

"LET MERCY SEASON"—NEWS.

Suppression of news is a difficult thing to figure out. It is the opinion of this writer that, when a case comes before the juvenile court, it is usually a humane act to suppress that case as much as possible, insofar as it affects participants in the crime.

Especially in the case of a first offender, it seems hard to give a youngster a black eye for the rest of his life, simply because he has made one mis-step. The manufacturers put erasers on lead pencils because people are human and because no one is infallible.

We do not condone criminal offenses. The Democrat believes that crime should have the searchlight of publicity turned upon it, and when criminal offenses are committed by matured individuals, those individuals are often not deserving of leniency.

But it does seem hard to make the going tougher for youngsters and their parents by giving publicity to a juvenile's first offense.

A second offense, however, would be a different matter, and anyone who gains leniency from this paper should bear that in mind. Second offenders' reputations will receive a scorching in The Democrat.

ANENT CALENDARS

Considerable publicity is being sent out by the World Calendar Association in furtherance of their campaign to have the world calendar adopted in place of the present calendar system.

It is a revised 12 month calendar in which the year would consist of equal halves and quarters containing the 364 days of the year. The quarters would consist of three months each, the first month having 31 days and the other two months 30 days each. In every quarter the first month would begin on the first day of the week, Sunday; the middle month would begin on the middle day of the week, Wednesday; and the last month would begin on the last day of the full working-week, Friday.

Each month would have 26 week days. The 365th day of the year would be called Year Day, while the 366th day of Leap Year, known as Leap Day, would be intercalated every four years between June and July. It is a multiple of halves and quarters. It conforms closely to the year with its four seasons. It is regular in its system. It is perpetual and stabilizes holidays.

Transition from the present calendar system to the World Calendar could be made with little confusion. It does have advantages and offers food for thought. It is doubtful if the present calendar will be changed for a long time to come, but the fact remains that the present calendar system is a confusing one.

OUCH! TAXES!

Present indications are that American taxpayers will have plenty to occupy their minds during the next year or so with efforts to keep taxes from soaring up into the air beyond all reasonable limits.

Taxation measures have been passed in many states which must inevitably place too big a burden on property-owners, business institutions, and workers. It is true, levies have been shifted—but shifted from one type of property to another, and politicians have tried to "kid" the general public into thinking that this constitutes tax relief. This is the age of invention, and invention in taxes has advanced absurdly, so that we now have state income taxes, intangible taxes, and forms of taxes which 25 years ago would have sounded unbelievable.

Too many departments of public works are after more money to spend and altogether too few public officials are conscientiously seeking ways to lower the admittedly too high cost of government.

It's just about time for over-burdened citizens to take the reins in their own hands and holler "Whoa!" to the gimme gang of government.

A PROFOUND STATEMENT

Senator Johnson of California made a profound statement Tuesday in a discussion of party politics and government when he said:

"There is something radically wrong somewhere. Somebody should ascertain what it is."

Of course that's a profound statement. Because that's just what we've thought all the time. And it makes us feel pretty smart to think that the eminent Senator Johnson has arrived at the same conclusion.

But—here's the rub. We're not in a position to do anything about it. Nobody from The Nebraska Democrat is serving in the senate. Senator Johnson is in a position to "do something."

But alas, and likewise, alack! It seems that the folks in position to "do something" are the ones who holler the loudest that "there's something wrong somewhere and somebody should find out what it is." American politicians are grand little buck passers.

If Senator Johnson's remark was intended to indicate that Herbert Hoover is the wrong man to run for republican presidential candidate in 1932, his statement remains a profound one, because we too, decided that a long time ago.

1932 looks like a democratic year.

SHAW VS. HOLLYWOOD

Things have happened in the literary world and in the cinema one closely related to it. One might not go so far as to suggest that for a time there were prospects of a dog fight, yet one could not possibly hold oneself down to a description of it as tea party repartee. The contretemps is one between George Bernard Shaw and Hollywood.

Well, the fleet arrow swinging from the mighty bow of the celebrated Irish playwright went all the way to the world's motion picture capital, a feat putting Hlawaitha to shame. But they were deftly turned by the shields of Hollywood assurance. One infers because one must that the Great G. B. will stand hitched now.

There had been some American criticism of the great man's talking picture, How He Lied to Her Husband. He did not like that. He drew on his bow and let Hollywood have it. And Hollywood replied. And now. This is what Joseph Von Sternberg, director of the successes, The Blue Angel and Morocco, said about him:

"George Bernard Shaw is antiquated. He is operating, thinking, talking and writing in terms of the last century. He emptied himself 20 years ago, and that also applies to many of the so-called literary giants—in particular Theodore Dreiser." Mr. Shaw said that American motion picture producers could do things "after they have been shown how." Naturally, the great one felt that the author had some kind of divine right to assume the position of teacher. But it seems that Hollywood has an entirely different idea about it. For example, Mr. Von Sternberg after admitting that he had seen portions of Mr. Shaw's talks, which were "pretty terrible," put a definite end to argument by declaring that "Hollywood has absolutely nothing to learn in motion pictures from any European country, neither from Russia nor Germany, and least of all from England."

Mr. Von Sternberg was not the only brave soldier in Hollywood who carried a shield to turn the Shavian arrows. Edwin Carewe said it all prowd again that "Mr. Shaw is the world's greatest jokester." Tod Browning, pointing to Hollywood's box-office successes, said that "if Hollywood pictures kept as many people out of theaters as do Shaw's pictures in the British empire, the entire industry would have to close in 30 days."—Slovak City Journal.

FIGURES IN FARMING

Farmers will be better able to stop the leaks from unprofitable production when they keep accurate cost accounts on every farming activity. If costs figures were kept by the majority of farmers, acreage readjustment to include only crops that are profitable would be achieved in a short time. Not only will cost accounting show profits and losses, but it will indicate clearly the influence of certain methods and equipment in crop production. It will show, for example, what direct big machinery may have in reducing man and machine hours per acre and their effect on production costs. Cost accounting is only modern business principles applied to farming. It is simply using heads and pencils to figure the dollars and cents profit or loss on farming activities.

The Nebraska corn yield contest of 1930 is a good example of the scientific nature of production costs. The farmers who competed in this contest kept detailed records on the cost of production; they knew accurately the cost of all work required per acre in planning, cultivating and harvesting the crop, and it is a very simple deduction to determine the cost per bushel of growing corn after the total expenses and yield are available.

How much more quickly will the farmer with these figures at his command either change his methods where costs are too high to make a profit, or devote his activities to other crops, compared to the farmer who is producing blindly and can only guess, mostly by the plus or minus of his bank account, whether he is making financial headway?—Nebraska Farmer.

GASOLINE TAX

Exemption of the tax on gasoline for everything except motor vehicles used on the highways which is asked by many farm organizations especially those in the western part of the state will, if passed, seriously cripple the state highway program. The Reporter is not opposed to any exemption that may, in the interest of justice, be asked for but does oppose anything that will cripple the building and extension of highways. Perhaps if the exemption is allowed an additional tax of one cent may be added to the four cent gasoline tax already being assessed for road purposes. This would not be a bad solution but there will no doubt be objections raised to this. The gasoline tax as is, has passed the test of criticism more successfully than most laws passed. Fought to a finish in the special session called in 1921 for the purpose of considering such a law, it became a law later with little opposition. It is doubtful if much opposition would have been made this year had the depression not been so serious and affected the farmers as it has.—Newman Grove Reporter.

The Book Box

Do you like to read biography? There seems to have been an increasing interest in biography along with the rise of the true confession type of magazine. And nobody can dispute the fact that the true confession line of magazines has had a terrific (that's the word I meant to use) popularity. H. L. Mencken predicted it several years ago, and proceeded to pep up his American Mercury with a few high-bat true confessions. Mr. Mencken wouldn't deny it—but if his memory should happen to be bad, I could point out a number of his publication's stories which have been about par with the true confession stories which the semi-literates read so avidly.

If I were asked to name the biography which appealed to me more than any other—I know nobody asked me, but what of it? I should probably name the Life of P. T. Barnum. I read it a long time ago, and my wretched memory has not retained the author's name. I'm too lazy to look it up, so it'll have to go into print as the Life of P. T. Barnum.

There were a book, though! It had more interesting anecdotes in it than Joe Miller's joke book. It had more philosophy than many of the present best-selling philosophy books. As for character portrayal, it was just about as near perfect as any book I ever read. I don't know how the book ranks with critics, but I do know that I enjoyed it thoroughly.

It was the romance of a great mountebank, and mountebanks have always appealed to me. If you like the glamour of the circus—and who doesn't?—you'll agree with me that the Life of P. T. Barnum is a dandy book.

"John Marsh, Pioneer," is the story of the life of a trail blazer on six frontiers. It was written by George D. Lyman, and published by Scribner. It is the story of a man of many professions and avocations. He acted as the first doctor in California. He married a beautiful half-breed. He read Catullus. He incited and abated Indian wars. He struck gold, amassed a fortune, and was murdered by vaqueros, leaving his wealth hidden. And—John Marsh's money is unfound to this day. Read the book and then try to find the money.

"John Marsh, Pioneer" is the story, not only of John Marsh, but of the spread of American empire into the west. It shows you what life was like in pioneer days. It is stranger and more thrilling than just lots and lots of fiction.

A book that I'd rate higher than the one just discussed is "Lone Cowboy," by Will James. It is the famous artist-writer's life story and it contains 60 illustrations by the author. You'll remember Will James as the man who wrote and sketched "Smoky." It's a grand book, well worth the $2.75 that Scribner asks for it.

If you're interested in diplomacy, you'll enjoy "Portrait of a Diplomatist," by Harold Nicolson. I didn't go for it at all, but then, I don't have much interest in diplomats. It's the story of the life of Sir Arthur Nicolson. It attempts to go into the study of the origin of the World War. I'll confess that I couldn't get much excited about it.

If you want a biography that has some real thrills in it, read "My Life" by Leon Trotsky. There aren't many records in history more dramatic than Trotsky's, and his story has more real, honest-to-gosh wallop to it than a detective mystery plot. The best part of it is that you get an added thrill from knowing that what you are reading is absolutely true.

A comparatively recent biography that I've never read, but which looks appealing is "The Madcap Queen," by Paul Rival. The press blurbs say of it—"A biography of mingled sparkle, wit and fact—the life story of Marguerite of Navarre, heiress to the two most brilliant courts of France, dauntless lady of many lovers."

All you Roosevelt fans have read "Roosevelt, The Story of a Friendship," by Owen Wister. You wouldn't miss it. Mr. Wister was just what you are—a Roosevelt admirer. The book is full of detail and anecdote. The book is the outgrowth of a 40 year friendship between Roosevelt and Wister, so the story is an intimate one. It is carried from the day Roosevelt fought for the light-weight sparring championship of Harvard to the final scenes at Sagamore Hill. The Roosevelt anecdotes are the best part of the book, although sketches of the men and events are well worth reading. You see Roosevelt's inner circle of friends and you see his enemies.

Sometimes it's hard to tell where biography ends and fiction starts. Particularly in this true of autobiographies. Men writing their memoirs are often inclined to remember things that never happened, or to magnify small events into major ones. I don't know that biography is as accurate as it is sometimes given credit for being. But we all like to read it, and we all like to think that maybe sometime somebody will write a biography of us. And I daresay a true, really true, biography of any person in the world could be made interesting, not to mention libelous.

Average Citizen Eats Own Weight in Month

Mr. Average Citizen eats his own weight in food once a month, 12 times a year or approximately 1,603 pounds of food from one January 1st to another. This 365 days' menu includes 529 pounds of dairy products, milk, butter, cheese and ice cream; 279 pounds of fresh vegetables; 225 pounds of cereals; 187 pounds of meat; 142 pounds of fresh fruit; 100 pounds of sugar; 47 pounds of eggs; 25 pounds of canned goods; 15 pounds of dried fruits and vegetables and 54 pounds of miscellaneous food items.

If Mr. Average happens to favor some particular item in this year's menu, he will have to slight some other food. The consuming capacity of human society is strictly limited.

"Rather than eat too much of any particular foods, nutrition scientists recommend an adequate diet well-rounded with the correct proportion of the different food elements," remarks Miss Agnes Grabel, a nutritionist of the National Dairy Council. Besides, the proteins, carbohydrates and fats, the human mechanism requires minerals—calcium, phosphorus, and iron are the most frequently lacking in the diet, and vitamins A, B, C, D, E, and Y. The use of plenty of dairy products, fresh fruits and vegetables is the best way of guaranteeing an adequate diet. "Plenty" in this case means at least two fruits and two vegetables, one of each in the raw state and a quart of whole milk daily.

SCOTT SHOTS

by "SCOTTY"

Here's a little poem that may appeal to you. The Scott Shotter liked it, so, tally-ho, lads and lassies—here 'tis:

A Man's Prayer

When I wake at the break of morning, Let me face the whole world with a smile, For the road stretches out in the distance And courage will shorten each mile.

Each day as I solve my life's problem, I pray that the chances I've had Have taught me to see in my neighbor All the good and far less of the bad. There are sights in a city that sicken, 'Tis my office and third story room, But I ask that you govern my vision So I see all the flowers in bloom. All friendships are not what they promise, And lips are oft twisted with lies, But I pray that my soul may distinguish

The good from the bad in their eyes. I ask for no place with the angels, Nor hope to cruise 'round on the wing,

When Gabriel blows his last trumpet And hosts in the highest sing. Let me look once again o'er the river From the place I have gone over there And see written plain on a tablet, "He played the whole game on the square."

Gosh, Mrs. Weeks! Honest, you floored us completely. I went down for a fourteen count when you published that editorial about the Democrat and this writer last week. I had to act modest about it and even had to blush prettily when they kidded me at the office. But you can bet your last cent that I was proud as a peacock, even if I didn't dare to show it.

The flowers showered down on The Democrat this last week. The Norfolk Press published some flattery that was so flowery I wouldn't dare to re-print it. The "Chaff for Dinner" column of the Waterloo (Iowa) Courier-Tribune devoted an entire column to a discussion Scott Shots started.

The Wausa Gazette has just started a column called "Mixed Pickles." That's a good heading, don't you think? In last week's column the writer re-prints some stuff we published and says, "We swiped these from 'Scott Shots' in the Nebraska Democrat; a column, incidentally, that we quite admire."

Now, there's a pal, as Amos 'n' Andy would say. And if future issues of "Mixed Pickles" are as good as the first attempt, people will eat their pickles with relish. (The pun being the feeblest form of wit, said he.)

"I hope you'll look at things in a different way," Doc Dotson said as he put a pair of glasses on the cross-eyed man.

No, Agnes, Ole Love says that noodle soup is not a shampoo.

Has heard the story they're telling on Reverend Davies? It seems that Reverend Davies saw a little boy trying to ring a door-bell that was out of the youth's reach. The minister obligingly rang the bell for the boy and said, "What now, my little man?"

"Run like hell," the precocious youth replied. "That's what I'm going to do."

Every man has his wife, but only the ice-man has his pick.

Judge Cherry's a fine guy. ('Tis a deep pun, indeed, mes enfants.)

Rudy Valee's been having nose trouble lately. His nose has been so sore he can hardly sing through it.

Clifford, the magician, came to town last Friday night and put on an evening's entertainment at the high school. How the kids did enjoy it! And if enjoying that show was a sign of youth, this writer confesses to being about six years old, because I certainly got a wallop out of it.

Shows come and go, but the good old-fashioned stage entertainment can't be replaced by anything under the sun.

We're proud of Clifford, and we like to think of him as sort of a protégé of ours. He's young—so young that I'd hate to embarrass him by letting you know how young he really is—but he's as clever as magic men come, and he gets a delight out of his work that is positively infectious.

And those of you who think that it would be impossible to do anything worth while in such a profession as magic should have been up at the high school auditorium last Friday evening and heard the shouts of high young laughter. You should have seen the sparkling eyes of happy boys and girls. It would have made you young again, too—and happy. And if that's not worth while, I don't know what is.

Maybe I'm wrong. If I am, sue me. But I think there are more ways of accomplishing noble work than the standard, tangible ones. I think that the entertainer who brings a smile to a face, the mountebank who brushes your cares away for a few short hours is doing a fine thing, and I believe the Higher Power will recognize the entertainer just as quickly as he will folks in other fields of endeavor.

Why, Scotty, shame on you—you're getting sentimental.

"Was down in the Lehigh valley Where me and my gal Lou Started a Tom Thumb golf course, And it was a good one, too.

Things were going quite nicely And the course was getting a play 'Til there came along a stranger— Oh, how I curse that day. He knew how to handle a putter Better than I, by far, And he played our tricky golf course In two strokes under par.

Lou saw that the guy was a slicker— He looked like a coming champ. So she skipped the country with him— The heartless little vamp. So give me a grub-stake, mister, And I'll be on my way. And I'll break the small golf record If it takes 'til judgement day.

—Scribbled by Scotty with tears in his eyes.

There, Jacques. Talk about cleaners—we certainly cleaned that one up, didn't we?

We call our canary Joe, but we don't know whether it stands for Joseph or Josephine.

Chicago may get excited over Big Bill Thompson, but like Postum, there's a reason. (Adv.) It's quite apparent that Wayne is entirely satisfied with the way the town's being run, because city election excitement is conspicuous only by its absence. After all, why should Wayne citizens get all stirred up about a city election? The city's been operated mightily darned well, and city officials have earned the vote of confidence of the entire community.

Wayne's Commercial club gets closer and closer. It's a pretty safe bet that the community will have such an organization before long. Then watch a mighty good town get still better. It stands to reason that united effort will be more effective in taking care of Wayne's civic program than a sincere but nevertheless disconnected effort.

No community is ever perfect. And when a town begins to think it needs no improvement, watch out! Wayne's business men are agreed that a commercial club would be an improvement—and that's a good sign for the future betterment of the community.

'Nuff!

MAGICIAN APPEARS ON HI-Y PROGRAM

Presents Two Hour Show at Local High School Auditorium.

Clifford, the magician, presented a two-hour performance of magical mysteries in the Wayne high school auditorium Friday evening to an audience of several hundred people. The program was given under the auspices of the Hi-Y organization, and profits of the show went to that group.

The magician kept his audience in good humor throughout the entire performance and his suave witticisms brought roars of laughter from the crowd.

His performance was divided into three parts. The first part consisted of standard magic effects, featuring a production of articles from a hat. From the start of the trick, when he poured raw eggs into a borrowed hat, held a match under it, and produced a cake, until the finish, with the stage covered with material taken from the headpiece, he kept the audience amazed.

The second part of his performance, a pseudo-spiritualistic séance, featured a mind-reading card effect which the audience pronounced nothing short of miraculous.

The third part of his performance consisted of escapes, and featured Clifford's liberation from 100 feet of rope. The trickster was bound up in the rope by five men and escaped in full view of the audience in less time than it took them to tie him.

The audience entered into the spirit of the performance and made audible comments of astonishment and incredulity throughout the entertainment.

Professor Protests at Revival of Thraldom

(By Prof. Charles F. Bongardt, Creighton University.)

Less than one year after the battle of Waterloo, a fiery apostle of Liberty, Lord Byron, flung out a question to the world. "Shall We," he asked, "who struck the lion down—shall we pay the wolf the homage?" The wolves he spoke of, curiously enough, were allies in a war of freedom, Austria, England, Russia, Prussia; and they deserved the rebuke they got.

Today, France and Italy, fifth rate naval powers, have reached an "understanding" that contains the "substance" of a "virtual agreement" to become parties to the Treaty of London, provided the United States, Great Britain, and Japan consent to "vital amendments" to the pact.

Today, France and Italy, the war against war, having been fought and won, still nurse and cherish the Prussian exotic of conscription, and maintain the largest military establishments on the globe.

Today, France and Italy, having learned the consequences of imperialism, of trade and political rivalry, are each straining every nerve to wrest from the other supreme control of the Mediterranean.

Today, France and Italy, the war having abolished forever the system of secret diplomacy, defensive alliances, and balance of power, have each by secret diplomacy created defensive alliances to establish again a balance of power. Europe, still smoking in ruins of war conflagration, already harbors two new sparks, an Italian-Greco-Turko-Bulgarian (and perhaps Russian) alliance, and a Franco-Czecho-Jugo-Polish - Rumanian one.

France and Italy were allies in the cause of freedom—a cause which promised much for the civilization of the world. But "shall reviving thraldom again be the patched-up idol of enlightened days?" If so, over one fallen despot, let us boast no more.

What a Chinese Doctor Thinks of Communism

Hamilton Fish, chairman of the committee investigating Communism in the United States, estimates that there are between three and four hundred thousand communist members and sympathizers in this country. Seventy per cent of these are aliens.

America fears Red propaganda, but China also feels the need of watchfulness. Dr. Ida Kahn, a Chinese lady who was educated in the United States and has now returned to her native land where she is one of the foremost physicians, states that the Red menace is creeping down upon China, and that Chinese agriculture, industry, commerce and education are all feeling the strangling effects of it.

In Moscow, says Dr. Kahn, there are 300 youths yearly being educated and grounded in the principles of communism. These, she adds, will drift into China, and atheistic, pitiless, and conscienceless, they will invade life everywhere. So subtle and insidious is their propaganda that no one realizes the damage it will do to national character until it is too late. America, England, and Germany are too engrossed in their own affairs to take much notice of the evil, and the game goes on.

But Ida Kahn is optimistic and has faith in the many Chinese youths, some 3000 of them, who are studying in America. Some of these will catch the spirit of Christ and will serve their country. In the Methodist missionary hospital at Nanchang, of which Dr. Kahn is in charge, some 15 to 20 thousand patients a year, including mothers and babies, are being helped, many of them saved from death. Not only do these receive treatment for their physical ills, but they see Christ lived in the lives of the workers. Christ's saving grace is preached to them and the mission hospitals and schools are beacons of light dotting the land. Christianity is the only weapon which can overcome communism in China. If Communism conquers China, it will overcome the world.

DEXTER TWIN-TEX

Half a million women are already using Twin washers and can never be switched back to a single tub washer. Twin washed clothes are truly white and fresh, because the dirty-gray soap curd is all washed out of the fabric.

Even for a small washing, Dexter Twin-Tex saves handling at least one tub of water. It will wash at least twice as many pounds of clothes per hour as any single tub washer made.

More than 73,000 miles in a New Ford

THE substantial worth of the new Ford is reflected in its good performance, economy and reliability. Its stamina and endurance are particularly apparent in sections where bad roads and severe weather put a heavy extra burden on the automobile.

In less than a year a new Ford Tudor Sedan was driven more than seventy-three thousand miles over a difficult route. The operating cost per mile was very low and practically the only expense for repairs was for new piston rings and a new bearing for the generator.

The car carried an average load of 1200 pounds of mail and was driven 250 miles daily. "The Ford has never failed to go when I was ready," writes one of the three mail carriers operating the car. "The starter did the trick last winter even at 34 degrees below zero. The gas runs about 20 miles per gallon. At times I pull a trailer whenever I have a bulky load."

Many other Ford owners report the same satisfactory performance. Every part has been made to endure — to serve you faithfully and well for many thousands of miles.

LOW PRICES OF FORD CARS $430 to $630

F. O. B. Detroit, plus freight and delivery. Bumpers and spare tire extra at small cost. You can buy a Ford for a small down payment on a convenient financing plan. See your Ford dealer for details.

FEATURES OF THE NEW FORD

Attractive lines and colors, rich, long-wearing upholstery, sturdy steel body construction, Triplex shatter-proof glass windshield, silent, fully enclosed four-wheel brakes, four Houdaille double-acting hydraulic shock absorbers, aluminum pistons, chrome silicon alloy valves, torque-tube drive, three-quarter floating rear axle, more than twenty ball and roller bearings, and bright, enduring Rustless Steel for many exterior metal parts. In addition, you save many dollars because of the low first cost of the Ford, low cost of operation and up-keep and low yearly depreciation.

Thirty-five of the young people of the church have been working for some time on the beautiful Play Pageant, "The Dream That Came True," and will present it Sunday evening at 7:30. A few months ago this pageant was presented in several of the leading churches of Chicago including the Fullerton church, the Third church and the great Fourth church, and outstanding pageants we have.

This is one of the most beautiful churches and always to capacity. We have presented it in other houses. Come early and get a good seat.

They are "Money Getters". If you have not yours, ask for it and have the fun of filling it up.

On account of the pageant Sunday night there will be no young peoples C. E. service. We are not sure as to the Intermediate C. E. If they are to have a service it will be announced Sunday Morning.
