

Rev. Davies Is Memorial Day Speaker

Says Future Will Bring Peace Among All Nations.

Memorial Day services were given at the Gay theatre at 10 o'clock Saturday morning, with Rev. P. A. Davies delivering the principal address. Rev. Davies stressed the idea that, while the chief glory of America has been in building a nation with liberty and equal rights for all, America is now going out into the world with a program of peace.

He brought out the idea that there is no sense in a future war. "There is some talk," he said, "of a future war's taking care of the weak and needy. But when we consider that the World War left nine million widows and orphans, we know that war will not minister to the needy."

"The spirit of decoration day," he said, "should not be spasmodic, but should go through the entire year. I have heard of an automobile that is propelled by the explosion of gun powder. It pops along the way with the explosion of 22 cartridges, but when they are all fired, the car stops. So it is with the patriotism of some Americans: just for the moment they are embued with great enthusiasm—and then it's all over. We want patriotism throughout the entire year."

"Upon this Memorial Day we wish to thank our heroic men who took such a part in giving us our country in the beginning, the men of '61 and '65 who did so much, the men of the Spanish American war who did so much for an oppressed people, and then the men of the World War who crossed the seas and stood by the side of Lafayette's grave, saying, 'Just as you in the interest of a greater humanity crossed the seas to us, so we in the interest of humanity have returned. Lafayette, we are here.'"

"Yes, we would say to each one of these who have made sacrifice, 'We thank you for what you have done for country and humanity and our thanks will not be a spasmodic offer, for as we remember their service, we shall stand for the things they stood for and complete the task that they began.'"

"I am a pacifist," he continued, "but I am not such a one that I cannot see the worth of the noble deeds and sacrifices of the past. To me, nations as well as individuals have their definite work to perform. The Israelites were a peculiar people getting the world ready for the Christ. Who knows but what in all the years—(continued on page five)

Thompson and Ullrich Are Paroled from Jail

Chelsea Thompson, sentenced on Tuesday, May 26, to serve 60 days in the county jail and serve out the 53-day balance of an earlier sentence from which he had been paroled, was given a parole reinstatement Saturday in County Judge J. M. Cherry's court.

County Judge Cherry advised Thompson that violation of the parole would mean service of 195 days in jail remaining on the two sentences. "Molly" Ullrich, who had been confined to the county bastille as a result of attempt to demonstrate his pugilistic prowess, was paroled Saturday from service of the few days remaining on his 90-day sentence.

Shrine Patrol to Appear at Jubilee

Wayne's Golden Jubilee celebration has secured a feature which committee members say is worth coming miles to see. Word was received this week by Don C. Ingham, chairman of the Parades committee, that the Shrine Mounted Patrol will be here to take part in the entertainment on Friday, July 3.

Thirty-two white thoroughbred horses will be put through intricate drills by the Sioux City Shrine patrol, which has gained international fame. The horses are all rated as high-class thoroughbred stock. They have been inspected and praised by thousands of 'horse flesh' critics all over the United States.

Members of the Shrine mounted patrol, attired in gorgeous costumes of brilliant hue, will lead the parade Friday. They will put on a drill performance in the afternoon. Their drill routine lasts from an hour to an hour and 20 minutes.

2,500 Attend Altona Church Anniversary

Trinity Lutheran Group Observes Completion of 50 Years.

Celebration of the fiftieth anniversary of the founding of Trinity Lutheran church at Altona on Sunday, May 31, was attended by approximately 2,500 people.

Rev. W. C. Rehwaldt of Norfolk spoke in the German language in the forenoon, and former pastors of the church gave five minute speeches.

Dr. Walter Maier of Concordia seminary, St. Louis, Mo., radio speaker over the Columbia network Lutheran hour, delivered the chief address of the afternoon.

St. Paul's choir from Omaha, under the direction of Prof. E. Scheer, presented a musical program and gave a sacred pipe organ concert in the evening.

A new schoolhouse which will provide for the employment of two teachers is being constructed, to take care of the increased needs of the community. Ground for the basement is being broken this week, the work being donated by members of the congregation.

Collection at the morning meeting of the Golden Jubilee service was donated to missions, while the offering in the afternoon and evening went into the church treasury.

Patterson Finds Car Stolen at West Point

Officer George Patterson discovered an abandoned 1928 Chevrolet coach, bearing a Cuming county license, at the north end of Main street Monday. He thought the car had been stolen, and found upon investigation that it belonged to Harold Miller of West Point and had been taken from his garage.

The rear axle had been torn but when Mr. Patterson found the car, he assumed that the thieves had left it rather than run any chance of being caught which would be incurred if they tried to get the automobile fixed.

Funeral Rites Sunday for Mrs. H. S. DeBow

Funeral services for Mrs. H. S. DeBow of Coleridge were held Sunday afternoon at Coleridge. Mrs. DeBow passed away Wednesday evening, May 27, as a result of injuries sustained in a fall Monday evening when she sustained a broken hip and wrist fracture.

She had been visiting her husband, who had been confined to a local hospital since April 10, when he had fallen and broken his hip. Mrs. DeBow was 81 years old at the time of her death.

Free Circus to Feature Golden Jubilee Program

Many celebrations have had free acts, but Wayne's Golden Jubilee celebration promises to outclass them all with the signing Friday of the Dutton circus to appear afternoon and evening on July 2, 3 and 4. All performances will be given absolutely free of charge.

The Dutton circus is the organization which appeared in Sioux City under the auspices of the Odd Fellows lodge last week. They appeared at the Stock Yard baseball park on Thursday, Friday and Saturday, and

Jubilee Meeting

Martin Ringer, chairman of the board of directors of the Golden Jubilee celebration, has called a meeting of the board for this evening at eight o'clock. The meeting will be held at the City Hall. Reports of the various committees will be given.

"This is an open meeting," Mr. Ringer says, "and anyone having any suggestions or complaints to register is requested to be present."

played to immense crowds.

The show is a complete two-hour performance, presenting 15 "big time" circus acts, and is without question the most expensive free attraction ever booked into this territory. It is the organization which appeared as the Shrine circus at Omaha, the Shrine circus at Sioux Falls, S. D., and the Shrine circus at Pittsburgh, Pa.

H. E. Stahler general representative of the troupe, arrived in Wayne Friday and closed contracts for the attraction. Members of the committee in charge of attractions feel proud of the contract they made in securing this complete circus performance for the entertainment of the large crowds that are assured of attending.

Each one of the 15 acts presented by the circus is a feature. The equestrian revue of five white horses and the white buggy with three riders is considered by the circus world as being the most elaborate and gor-

MEMORIAL CONCERT PLEASES LISTENERS

Municipal Band Entertains Crowd of 2,000 People Sunday Evening.

About 2,000 people heard the Memorial concert given by the Wayne Municipal band at Bressler Park Sunday evening at eight o'clock. The band, under the direction of Prof. F. C. Reed, gave a concert which was acclaimed the "best ever" by the enthusiastic crowd.

Augmented by several musicians from the Walter Savidge band, the musical organization had 50 pieces taking part.

An outstanding feature of the concert was a baritone solo by Herman Eickhoff. A descriptive overture, "The Battle for Democracy," was another number which was regarded as a special treat by the listeners. Mrs. Edna Davis, Miss Kathryn Lou Davis and Miss Gretchen Techhaus won the acclaim of the crowd when they sang a number of war-time songs.

Tentative plans call for concerts every Thursday evening during the summer, although there is some discussion of changing the evening of the week on which the concerts will be held. There will be no concert this week, because of the appearance of the Walter Savidge concert band.

Natural gas has been turned into the mains at Scribner.

Norfolk Man Had Reason for Grin

Earl Manzer, Norfolk grocery salesman who calls on several stores in Wayne, was in town Monday, with a grin spread from ear to ear. He was working, but it was easy to see that his mind was far from his work.

Mr. Manzer had just received a cablegram from England that he would profit at least $15,000 from a ticket held by him on the English derby. He had drawn one of the starters. The horse is Jacco, owned by Marshall Field of Chicago, one of 29 entered in the annual derby held at Epsom Downs.

If Mr. Manzer's horse wins the race, he will receive a million dollars. In that case, Mr. Manzer told Wayne friends that the grocery business would have to dis-pense with his services.

Members of the team, selected from more than 30 boys who tried out, are Richard Moses, William Ahern, Hazen Bressler, Franklin Henke, Marion Jones, Ronald Young, Ernest Splittgerber, Stanley Norton, Robert Ross, Kenneth Dowling, Keith Cartwright, Hershell Baird, Bob Cunningham, Don Lutt, William Luders, and John Meyer.

Kenneth Dowling is slated for duty behind the bat, and either Don Lutt or Ernest Splittgerber will be given the mound assignment.

The local team will meet Wisner at Wisner next Wednesday, June 10. Paul Mines, manager of the local team, does not know yet whether or not any other games will be played before the county championship event with the Winside junior team.

LOCAL COUPLE ARE MARRIED MONDAY

Walter Albert Weds Miss Marjorie Pease at Fremont.

Walter D. Albert, son of Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Albert of near Wayne, and Miss Marjorie D. Pease, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Pease of Calhoun, Neb., were married Monday afternoon, June 1, at 4:00 o'clock at a pretty wedding in the church parlors of the First Methodist church in Fremont. Rev. W. W. Whitman, pastor of the First Methodist church at Wayne, read the marriage vows, using the single ring ceremony. Miss Mary Tyrrell of Lincoln and Earl Albert of near Wayne, brother of the bridegroom, acted as the young couple.

Only immediate relatives were present at the wedding.

The bride was lovely in a navy blue georgette ensemble suit with cream lace trim and hat to match. She carried a bouquet of pink rosebuds. The bridesmaid also wore navy blue georgette and carried a bouquet of rosebuds.

Mrs. Albert is a graduate of the Wayne State Teachers' college, having received her B. A. degree during the past four years, she has taught school in the local city schools. The bridegroom is also a graduate from the four-year course at the Wayne State Teachers' college. He has taught in the local high school during the past three years, and has attended school at the University of Nebraska the past two summers working toward his masters degree.

After a brief wedding trip, Mr. and Mrs. Albert will make their home in Lincoln where they both will attend school at the University this summer and next year, working for their masters degrees.

Expect 1,000 for Summer Session Here

College Registration Will Begin Saturday Morning.

Desire for further education will bring approximately 1,000 men and women to Wayne for the summer to take work at Wayne State Teachers' college, according to estimates advanced by the registrar's office. Last year's summer school enrollment came close to the 1,000 mark, and college officials are hopeful that the 1,000 mark can be passed this year.

Registration for the summer session will begin Saturday morning, June 6, at nine o'clock, and will continue through the afternoon until five o'clock. Late comers will be given an opportunity to register Monday morning, beginning at eight o'clock. Classes begin at 7:30 o'clock Tuesday morning. The curriculum for this summer's college session is said to be a splendid one, and work is offered in every branch.

In schedule arrangement, late afternoon classes have been avoided, because college officials feel that the hot weather prevalent late in the afternoons would not be conducive to the best work.

A large part of the enrollment will be made up of college graduates, many of them teachers in various schools throughout the state, who are working for advanced degrees.

Wayne State Teachers' college summer school enrollment has increased steadily since the inception of the 12-month school year plan, until at the present time the Wayne summer school is the envy of many other teachers' colleges.

Training school will be in session the first four weeks of the summer term, and will commence Monday morning at nine o'clock.

ATTENDS CONVENTION

Win. Beckenhauer went to Omaha Tuesday to attend an undertakers' convention. He will be back in Wayne today, and planned to bring back a new hearse.

The Inquiring Reporter

Do you think Wayne's Golden Jubilee celebration should be held on the streets of Wayne or at the fair grounds?

John T. Bressler, Sr.—"I think it should be held at the fair grounds. If it were held downtown, there would be inadequate facilities for the crowds of women and children. Celebration at the fair grounds would be more pleasant for everyone."

W. A. Hiseox—"The fair grounds is the logical place for the celebration. Everyone could see the various attractions without inconvenience."

J. J. Ahern—"The fairgrounds would provide a more comfortable place for 10,000 people to be entertained than would the hot pavement of the downtown districts. Also, it is almost impossible, with the main streets filled with concessions, for people to even see, let alone enjoy the various entertainments and shows which will be here."

Mrs. G. J. Hess—"I believe the Golden Jubilee would be better at the fair grounds. There would be more shade and far more chance for people to be comfortable. Holding it at the fair grounds would avoid cluttering up the city, and would be more sanitary. The fair grounds is the better location in every way."

Ernest Bichel—"At the fair grounds, by all means, Wayne is going to entertain the public at this celebration, and we want to do a royal job of entertaining. At the fairgrounds, we have the facilities to make folks comfortable and let them see the various attractions."

POOR TEX, HA HA.

It is difficult to whip up for Tex Guinan and her gang, isolated in an immigration detention camp in France, that degree of sympathy which the sight of beauty in distress customarily arouses.

For a number of years Tex has been featured in the news as a sort of super gimme girl, a specialist at extracting sugar from big butter and egg men, an expert at trimming suckers. Now she is in a position to learn if she has the wit with which she is credited, that the sucker isn't always the fly that is caught in her net. It may be the woman who has let her-

France and England welcomed Tex with her own famous phrase and for the first time in her life she had no wise crack handy. If she has thought up one during the agonizing days of her immigrant detention it does her no good, because she can't get the opportunity to spring it.

During the easy money days the night club queens were accepted with amused tolerance. Now with factories idle or running part time and the blight of unemployment over all the country, the sordidness of the night club racket with its feminine bait is more apparent. WAYNE MARKET REPORTS

Following are the market prices quoted us up to the time of going to press Thursday:

Table with market prices for Corn, Oats, Butter Fat, Eggs, Hens, Roosters, and Hogs.

IT ALL DEPENDS ON YOU

Insurance companies paid out $300,000,000 as a result of automobile accidents during 1930—only a trifle less than was paid out for fire loss.

Casualty insurance rates are a direct reflection of accident statistics. In both waste of life and cost to the public.

The mechanism of the automobile has been made practically foolproof, but no one yet has invented a fool-proof driver.

At one time, people thought that safety could be brought almost to perfection with improved roads, better machinery, and more safely designed cars.

A famous air-mail pilot has said that, in aviation, one must never lose his fear of the plane.

Safety authorities recognize that the important factors are not roads and automobiles, at all—but the driver and the pedestrian.

It is an established fact that the person who would exercise utmost caution in an airplane, because of fear and respect for that machine, will get into an automobile and drive like "nobody's business."

Too many people are driving "any way they please." There is too little observance of speed laws.

LIVESTOCK PRICES

Secretary of agriculture Arthur M. Hyde was called upon by the Omaha Livestock exchange last week to "bring pressure on the retailers, hotel and restaurant men of the country to reduce their prices on meat products in line with the decline of the cost of the live animal."

The letter in which the request was made reads as follows: "As market representatives of the majority of the livestock growers and feeders of the country, we want to call your attention to the wide discrepancy existing between the wholesale and retail prices of meat and meat products, especially beef and pork."

Prices of livestock have declined sharply during the last two months without the consuming public getting much, if any, benefit from the decline. This restricts consumption and is causing the grower and feeder heavy losses. Beef cattle are selling the lowest, for the month of May, since 1911 with hogs correspondingly low.

"Will you please through your channel of publications and newspapers bring pressure on the retailers, hotel and restaurant men of the country to reduce their prices on meat products in line with the decline of the cost of live animal?"

"This would increase consumption and relieve the present demoralized condition for fat livestock."

This letter may not do any good. As a matter of fact, publication of it may cause people who had not thought of meat price comparisons before to buy less.

It is assumed that the meat markets are not receiving an excessive profit. It is evidently the packers that are making more money than they are entitled to.

SCIENCE GAMBLES

Stunt flyers were given something to think about last Thursday, when Prof. August Piccard and his assistant, Dr. Charles Kipfer, were rescued unconscious after a climb to an altitude of 52,500 feet.

But there was a dangerous undertaking—a feat which meant real risk of life. However, it differed from stunt flying in that the men were making the trip, taking the great risk, for a purpose.

Piccard and Kipfer were not after the plaudits of a crazed and crazy public. They were after information.

Foolhardy risk of life, such as exhibited by "daredevil stunt flyers" gets little sympathy for us. If the men are killed in their stunting escapades—well, they knew they were taking that chance.

However, when a man is willing to undergo great danger in an effort to benefit mankind, then we take off our hat to that individual and call him great.

Many stunt flyers have won great acclaim,—most of it undeserved. People want to be hero-worshippers, and the spectacular, whether it is worth while or not, gets the applause of the grandstand.

The man who takes a risk for science is a greater man by far than the man who plays for the crowd.

READJUSTMENT WITH WHEAT

Central and western Kansas, one of the country's largest winter wheat growers, is sensibly planning a readjustment in its farming program.

This will center around a reduction in the wheat acreage, an increase in the production of feed crops and a more extensive use of summer fallow in the rotation. The program is suggested and endorsed by the Kansas Agricultural college.

A summary of the results from the Kansas five-year wheat program is indeed enlightening. For example, there has been a tremendous increase in the buying of wheat on a quality and grade basis.

All of this could scarcely be accomplished without the active interest and cooperation of a large number of wheat growers.

Kansas as the leading winter wheat growing state, was tardy in sensing the urgent need of acute readjustment in the wheat belt.

The present program holds much promise for the future and should be studied for whatever phases are applicable to other wheat growing sections.

Nebraska, with twelve per cent decrease in wheat acreage last fall, is setting a very good example, and, according to the recent survey by the state and federal division of agricultural statistics, Nebraska farmers are planning a more diversified farming program for this year. This is indicated in the fifteen per cent increase in cattle feeding, a larger corn acreage and in increased acreage of barley and other feed crops.—Nebraska Farmer.

KNOW YOUR BEANS

There are still those housewives who insist that they simply cannot use beet sugar successfully in canning, preserving and jellifying.

It is assumed that the meat markets are not receiving an excessive profit. It is evidently the packers that are making more money than they are entitled to.

That's why you find the shelves of so many Nebraska groceries filled with vegetables canned in Maryland, Wisconsin, Ohio and Maine instead of being filled with vegetables raised and canned in Nebraska.

Learn to "know your beans." In other words, learn to know Nebraska better, and stand by her industries more faithfully.—Omaha World-Herald.

THE HORSE COMES BACK

The day of the horse as motive power on the farm is far from being over. Some recent figures, compiled by the Minnesota agricultural authorities, show that for a great many kinds of farm work, which used to be done by horses but lately have been done by motors, the horse is again the cheaper motive power.

On the other hand race horses and riding horses are more expensive than ever before. The United States Army is finding it difficult to get enough high-grade horses, part thoroughbred, for cavalry remounts.

There is still money in the horse. There is money for the breeder of thoroughbreds and saddle stock, and there is profit for the farmer who can utilize horses instead of motors.

PAYING THE DEFICIT

Uncle Sam still has excellent credit, but he's short of ready cash. Congress wrote too many checks last winter.

President Hoover has set about slashing budgets to make up part of the deficit. That will help, but he can't pare the budgets enough to meet the shortage and still pay current expenses.

Who is going to make up the deficit? Well, it is going to be passed along to everybody. The rich could be made to pay it, but the administration can't see it that way.

"Uncle" Andy Mellon intimated the other day what will happen. Income taxes should not be increased, he said. The only alternative is to tax something else.

Paying taxes is always painful. Maybe the rich shouldn't pay all the taxes, despite what a certain school of American statesmanship thinks about it.

The main thing right now, however is to keep Congress from writing so many checks. If everybody has to help pay the existing overdraft maybe the voters will pay a little more attention to what Congress does next winter.

DOCTOR OF APPLAUSE

Will Rogers has a homely way of mixing humor with common sense, and his refusal to accept an honorary degree from an Oklahoma college will have the effect of calling attention to one of the abuses of the day.

It would be drawing the line too closely to say that degrees should only be given for academic excellence. The dignity of a man's office often justifies it; for instance, it is perfectly fitting that a president of the United States should be honored regardless of his collegiate standing.

CO-OPERATIVE MARKETING

In the first year of its operations the Farmers' West-Central Grain company, regional cooperative affiliated with the Farmers' National grain corporation under the provisions of the Agricultural Marketing Act, became the largest grain concern in Nebraska.

This large volume of grain is made possible through the patronage of local farmers' elevators and their members, which in turn are affiliated with the Farmers' West-central. In a year of fluctuating and greatly depressed markets for grain, the West-central was able to realize a profit of $43,265.65 on its own operations.

The individual farmer who is a member of a co-operative elevator affiliated with the Farmers' West-central receives direct benefits through patronage and stock dividends from his local elevator.

The operations of the Farmers' West-central Gain company the past year is the first successful attempt in Nebraska of farmers to extend their co-operative grain marketing activities into the terminal markets in any considerable degree.

The future of the Farmer's West-central and of similar co-operatives depends upon what farmers and their co-operative elevators make of it. Through an efficient business set up, ample credit facilities and reliable management, the co-operative grain marketing program offers to farmers means for merchandising their product direct from producer to consuming channels of the trade.

Construction work on a $125,000 high school building at Tekamah will start soon.

SCOTT SHOTS

by "SCOTTY"

M. S. G., Columnist on the Waterloo (Iowa) Courier-Tribune, is the Scott Shot scooper's best friend, and the Scott Shot troupe journeyed to Waterloo over Memorial Day for one of those intellectual banquets of repartee which columnists indulge in when they get together.

M. S. G. has annexed a bull dog since the last time I saw him, and the infant pooch has somewhat altered the routin of affairs in the Gaffney domicile. Only a dog could pull the stunts essayed by Squib, the Gaffney bull dog, and get away with them.

It's funny what a dog can do to you. The more vicious side of M. S. G.'s nature is disappearing almost visibly. It is indeed a rare and impressive sight to see a big six-foot-two husky saying "nice old poochy-woochy" and talking in terms of endearment to a dog.

Because of "the depression," M. S. G. has achieved new honors and new distinctions. Only this last week he was appointed to the office of farm editor of The Courier. Many of his friends who had never gained a true insight into his character thought that Farm Editor was the wrong position for Merrill.

Early last spring, M. S. G. had told me at great length of the beautiful garden he was planning.

Now, we'll call on Fred Howard of the Clay County Sun to entertain you with a few smart cracks: Remember, you will not get your name into the scoring column if you do not get further than his base.

Not very many of us thank anyone for trying to keep us from making dampshoots of ourselves on occasions. A lot of folks who are afraid to go home in the dark will drive over the crown of a hill on the wrong side of the road.

Some bright guy has noticed that it is always easy to tell an American at a bull fight. He is the bird who is cheering for the bull.

The fog-folks say that one's voice box is in one's throat. If you are a radio fan you will be able to make oath that the voice box of most "talent" is situated somewhere in the nose.

"A Fool Got What Was Coming to Him" is the startlingly caption carried over the story of an automobile tragedy recently by an Iowa paper. I am wondering just what happened to that truthful the tactless writer.

We will have taken a long step toward the end of an orgy of crime when newspapers stop referring to "Jimmy" and "Johnnie" and "the beautiful girl" and "the modishly dressed young woman" and begin describing thieves and prostitutes without hint of maudlin sentiment.

It sometimes happens that a man who could increase the profits and prestige of an organization is without employment because the organization thinks it could not afford to pay him the salary demanded. Another who is without ambition, initiative or talent—who could not produce a profit if he would—is employed because "he don't cost much."

All right, Mr. Howard, you can go to the head-of-the-class.

Godness gracious! Another Scotch story. It seems a Scotchman called his girl up and asked her what night she would be free.

Ryckman's prize-winning editorial on Senator Norris has brought on so much political comment and discussion of Norris and other politicians' virtues that it seems like good time to revive Samuel Hoffenstein's poem, "Litany Before Election." Here

Oh, Lord, Who knowest the human heart,
(A thousand other things apart)
Whose constant purpose is the good
Of all the human brotherhood—
Look down (accept this humble rhyme)
And guard us in election time!
Oh, let the people vote for Biggs,
And not for Jiggs, or Squiggs, or Riggs,
Or Kelly, Cohen, Bing or Brown,
Or Toohy, Thompson, Tubbs or Towne!

When sorrow has no more surprise,
And stars look down like Borgia's eyes;
When hope and hair and teeth are gone,
And trucks and I awake the dawn,
How good, in this abyss of care
To know that Biggs is in the chair!
We do so much, perforce, by rote,
And often know not how we vote;
We stumble through the dark below,
But Thou canst see what way we go—
Thy castle on the Upper Rhine
Commands a prospect extra fine—
So lend thy vision to our souls,
And leave it with us at the polls,
That we may see the name of Biggs,
And not of Jiggs or Squiggs or Riggs,
With Biggs-elected, what are then
The ninety million plagues of men?
What wretch who would not be content
Whose heart would break at last, if
Brown
Achieved the goal, or Tubbs or Towne.

This troubled world would be so bright,
If people did but vote aright;
Would be so free of grief and sin
If only men like Biggs were in;
If men like Biggs were coroner,
Or alderman or Treasurer.
So, Lord, who missest not a chance
To make the world like Paris,
France;

Whose constant purpose is the good
Of all the human brotherhood,
When next election comes to town
(The view is excellent) look down,
Erase the names of Squiggs and Jiggs
And cast a million votes for Biggs!

Well, everything has its bright side. If you're color blind, you can't see your tooth brush getting pink.

Ho hum! Lazy weather—

SAVIDGE COMPANY PLEASES CROWDS Varied Repertoire Wins Approval of Wayne Audiences.

Walter Savidge's repertoire company has been delighting Wayne audiences this week with a supply of entertainment that is rated "top-notch" by those who have visited the Savidge tent theatre.

Monday evening's play, "For Crying Out-Loud," was a domestic comedy of life in the Kelly household. Tuesday evening, the Savidge company presented "The Family Sap," another light comedy piece.

The company will be here for the remainder of the week, presenting a three act play under the big top each evening.

Several members of the company are old-timers with the Savidge troupe, but the majority are newcomers.

The crowds which have visited the tent every evening of the show's appearance in Wayne are evidence of the esteem which the Savidge company enjoys here.

A new feature of the Savidge amusements this year is the Converse circus side show, which came here from Florida.

REV. DAVIES MAKES MEMORIAL DAY SPEECH

of preparing the services and sacrifices of tens of thousands at home and on the battle field. He hath brought the United States to the Kingdom for such a time as this? Who knows but what today we hold our leading place among the nations, that we might establish the Brotherhood of Men and the Fatherhood of God among all people?

"After all, we are what our heroes make us. This has been most beautifully stated by Hawthorne in the 'Great Stone Face.' Think of the ideals for which our men fought. In the Revolutionary war, they fought in order that we might be free to worship God according to the dictates of our conscience. In the Civil war, they fought in order that a mighty multitude of slaves might be free. In the Spanish-American war, they fought in order that an oppressed people might be set free. In the great World War, not as an old Indian used to say, 'To make the whole world the Democratic party,' but to make the world safe for democracy. It was a war to end war.

"We have been going forward to that which is embodied in the teaching of that greatest of all heroes—the Brotherhood of Men and the Fatherhood of God. And so we move on out of the past and look into the future with its great hopes. We dare not stand still. You don't mind how many of your men are shot," said an old soldier, "when you are charging forward."

"So it is in life, when you are making progress or helping the community forward in all that makes for the best in life, you don't stop to worry. The greatest pessimists are the men who are not doing anything. They sit on the street corners and talk about how our country is going to the bow-wows, about how there is no hope. What calamity howlers some of these good-for-nothings have become!

"But men who are moving forward are the men who have studied the heroism of the past in its relationship to the future. Like the soldier on the battle field of France—he was bending over a wounded comrade who had received his death wound and whose mind was wandering. His attention was caught by a little flag pinned on the breast of his chum. 'Old Glory,' he murmured. The man above him said, 'Yes, Bill, but it is new Glory now.'

"So in our progress, we are not to live in thoughts of old glory, but it is a new glory now.

"Realization of the Fatherhood of God and the Brotherhood of Men means peace, a fulfillment of prophecy: 'Nations shall beat their swords into plowshares and their spears into pruning hooks.' Is there any lack of patriotism in such a program?

"How can a man be a believer in the teachings of the greatest teacher of all and still care not for the people outside of his own nation?"

A contract is to be let soon for construction of a new school building at Cedar Creek, Neb.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE

The subject of the Lesson-Sermon read at all Christian Science churches and societies on Sunday, May 31, was "Ancient and modern Necromancy, alias Mesmerism and Hypnotism; Denounced." A part of one of the citations read from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy (p. 103), is as follows: "As named in Christian Science, animal magnetism or hypnotism is the specific term for error, or mortal mind. It is the false belief that mind is in-matter, and is both evil and good; that evil is as good and more powerful." The lesson is intended to show that ancient necromancy is quite similar to modern attempts to heal through the action of the so-called human mind, and that through Christ, Truth, we have the proper way for overcoming all erroneous beliefs. One selection read from the Bible is in part. "Let us therefore cast off the works of darkness, and let us put on the armour of light."

LOYALTY

Sometimes business men in a smaller town are continually preaching loyalty to the town in which they do business, and then when they make purchases, go to the city for them. It is not always the rural trade that turns traitor to the home town, but business men themselves forget for a moment and make purchases in the city which can be made in the home town. Of course, excuses could be made that might sound well, but on the other hand these merchants forget what makes up a small community and do themselves more harm than good. There is no business man in the smaller towns who can afford to jeopardize his own business by making purchases out of town and then wonder why local trade does not patronize his business. It is best to remember the golden rule in business and then the small town will survive. The dictionary defines a community as an association of persons living under the same rules and regulations.—Bloomfield Monitor.

TRUCK LAW RAISES LEGAL QUESTIONS

Efficacy of Petition for Referendum Said to Be Doubtful.

With decision of truckers to contest in court the constitutionality of the new truck license law, made at a meeting in Wayne on Saturday, May 23, another group of truckers has advocated a petition for a referendum.

Referendum advocates have urged signatures on the ground that if a sufficient number are obtained it will stay the operation of the act until a referendum vote can be taken. Some attorneys, however, state that this is not a fact, but that the act became a law of the state on May 2 and that the license fees due thereunder will become payable on August 2, regardless of whether or not sufficient signers are obtained to a referendum petition.

Section 3, Article III, is pointed out as saying that "when the referendum is invoked, as to any act or part of act, other than emergency acts or those for the immediate preservation of the public peace, health or safety . . . it shall suspend the taking effect of such act . . . until the same has been approved by the electors of the state."

The new truck law contains a number of provisions for the immediate preservation of safety. Among these new safety measures is one which provides that "it shall be unlawful for the driver of any vehicle towing a trailer or semi-trailer, or of a freight carrying vehicle if the gross weight of said freight carrying vehicle towing a trailer or semi-trailer and any load thereon is more than five tons, to drive the same at a speed exceeding 35 miles per hour."

Another of the safety provisions of the act states that "no vehicle shall be operated or moved upon any public highway when the length thereof exceeds 35 feet, and no combination of vehicles, including load and coupling, shall be operated where the length thereof exceeds 50 feet, but this provision shall not apply to the temporary moving of farm machinery, or to towing for repair purposes vehicles that have been disabled upon the highway, or to vehicles transporting construction material which must of necessity be handled upon the highways . . . and it shall be unlawful to operate any truck or trailer or semi-trailer of more than 16,000 pounds net load on any public highway in this state."

Some lawyers contend that, in view of these safety provisions, a referendum petition will not suspend the taking effect of the act and that it will become effective August 2, 1931, even though a referendum petition is signed by less than 10 per cent of the electors of the state.

At the truckers meeting in Wayne, truckmen decided that, rather than work for a petition for a referendum, they would contest the constitutionality of the law. They agreed to give a legal fund of 25 per cent of the difference between present fees and fees under the new law. Half the money was paid at the meeting and half will be paid when the test case is filed.

Pointers for Work Around Farm Homes

Federal law requires that in labeling livestock feeds, "the net weight of contents must be printed on the label of the container in a plain and conspicuous manner." Some state laws also require a statement of the analysis and a list of the ingredients.

Cows that produce not more than 20 pounds of milk a day do fairly well on good pasture with no additional feed. However, the cows producing more than 20 lbs. of milk need 1 pound of grain to each 4 to 6 pounds of milk produced. Always grind the grain.

Many farmers overcome the difficulty of curing the heavy green stems of sweetclover by cutting the hay with a binder. They set up the bound bundles in cut shocks and let them cure for several days. The quality of hay made in this way is good and the expense is little more than for hay cocked by hand.

Chemists of the U. S. Department of Agriculture have found that the proteins in sweet potatoes are a good source of some of the amino acids which are essential for the growth and nutrition of animals and which are lacking or deficient in the proteins of certain seeds and grains. Sweet potatoes should be a valuable supplement to correct the deficiencies of proteins of corn, wheat, and grains in general and some of the legume seeds such as the navy bean, lima bean, cowpea, and lentil.

THE CITY OF WAYNE, NEBRASKA, Plaintiff,

BRAVERY doesn't belong to the breakfast table. History bears us out in this statement. Deeds of daring have been done, battles have been won—but after breakfast. Don Quixote braved windmills and Napoleon armies—after breakfast.

Perhaps that is the reason why, although we will venture into a French restaurant at noon and try sandabs, or into a Russian dining-room at six—and calmly order zakouska—for breakfast, we stick to such reliables as ham and eggs, or bacon and toast.

The solution of the problem of getting new foods for breakfast is to make your menus at night, when courage is high. Plan a breakfast of Boston baked beans and brown bread, piping hot, fruit, and of course, a steaming cup. Yes, it's different—but it's delicious. Dare it, just once, and the energy it provides will make it a once-a-week breakfast treat.

Economical Soups

SOUPS that save money are those which make use of leftovers. A Congressman's wife, in discussing "The Making of Stock for Soups" in The Congressional Cook Book, says, "The average chef and housewife throw into the garbage pail potato peelings, celery tops, outside leaves of lettuce and cabbage, water in which onions, carrots and spinach have been boiled, steak, roast beef and veal bones; that, if boiled down and properly flavored, make an excellent stock as a basis for soups and gravies of all kinds.

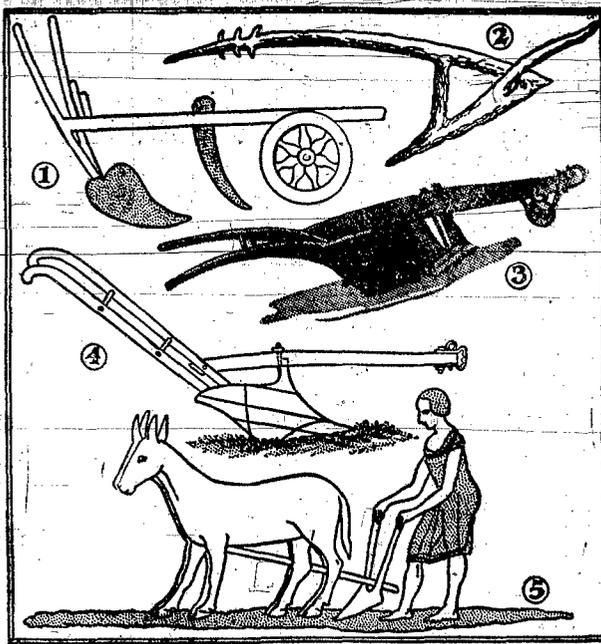

"Remember that the base of your stock is the water in which you are cooking the vegetables for your dinner. Add all or such part of the following as may be in season or may suit your individual taste: veal, beef and steak bones, potatoes with peel, carrots with peel, onion (if white, use skins), parsley, celery, outside leaves ac-ording to taste, okra, barley, rice and condiments—salt, pepper and paprika. Simmer slowly for at least four hours. Strain through fine sieve and you will have foundation for any soup or gravy you wish to make."

For the woman whose time is worth money, canned soups are a boon, because the canner has provided perfectly blended and nutritious stocks from which these soups are made. Following is a recipe for delicious and healthful quickly-made soup.

Cream of Tomato Soup: Heat one 10½-ounce can of tomato soup to boiling. Add two-thirds cup water to one 6-ounce can of evaporated milk and scald. Pour the hot soup, slowly into the scalded milk, stirring all the time. Do not boil. Season to taste with a little salt and pepper. This serves four persons.

Wonderful Evolution of the Homely Plow

Progress of the Plow: 1—Pliny's Plow, 70 A. D.; 2—The Syrian Plow, Known as Job's Plow; 3—Daniel Webster's Plow; 4—Jethro Wood's Plow, 1819; 5—The Egyptian Plow.

No agricultural implement has improved more through a long series of inventions down through the ages than has the plow, declares Clarence A. O'Brien, Washington patent attorney. While many farm implements were originally conceived in a somewhat advanced stage, the plow started from "scratch," literally.

The original plow, according to Mr. O'Brien, was a forked stick or limb of a tree with a projecting point. With this implement the ground was broken by dragging the fork or projecting point of the stick through the ground, forming a contiguous furrow. Thus the fork of the stick was the share, while the main part of the stick was the beam.

One of the first improvements, as shown in plows of this kind pictured on Syrian monuments, was a brace between the share and the beam to hold the tree limbs more firmly together. While the earlier model was operated by one man, it is apparent that two or more men were required to handle the Syrian plow.

First Home of the Plow.

Upon a very old monument of ancient Egypt, the country which seems to have been the first home of the plow, Mr. O'Brien says, a picture shows a number of men dragging a plow by means of a rope.

Another Egyptian monument of a later date shows a plowing scene with animals drawing the plow. The Egyptian plow shows an improvement over the crooked stick of the Syrians, in that it had a broader share, thus making a wider furrow that would break more ground. It also had two handles instead of one and was apparently a fairly effective implement.

Vergil, in his "Georgics," a writing which formed part of a back-to-the-land movement in the first century B. C., showed little improvement over the Egyptian plow. Pliny, a Roman writer of the first century A. D., refers to a plow that had wheels to regulate the depth. It also had a coulter, or knife, fixed in front of the share to make the first cut of the sod. Mr. O'Brien intimates, however, that such a plow was not in general use in Pliny's time.

Plow With Wheels.

A thousand years later, however, a plow with wheels and coulter was doubtless in common use. It had evidently spread up into England, since extant drawings show Anglo-Saxons of the Eleventh century using plows of this description. One of these shows a plow with two wheels pulled by four oxen.

Five hundred years later, at the time Columbus discovered America, the plow showed little further improvement. It was still the clumsy wooden contraption of earlier ages.

The next improvement of record, Mr. O'Brien says, is found in an old book published in 1652—a double plow that would cut two furrows at one time. In the early seventeenth century, Dutch plow makers began to put moldboards on their plows to lift up and turn over the slice of sod cut by the share. Prior to that time the plow simply ran through the ground and stirred it up. This improvement was quickly copied by other nations, with the moldboard later cased with plates of iron.

It was not until about 1800 that the share was made of iron with a hardened-steel point. The coulter was also of iron with a straight stick for the beam.

First Moldboard Plow.

In the United States in the latter part of the eighteenth century, decided improvements began to appear in plows. While traveling in France, Thomas Jefferson noted in his diary, "The awkward figure of their moldboard leads one to consider what should be its form." By 1793 Jefferson had determined what the proper form of the moldboard should be and had in use on his large estate in Virginia several plows with moldboards of small resistance. While subsequent improvements have been made, Jefferson has the distinction of having invented the first moldboard constructed according to scientific and mathematical principles.

Plow of Cast Iron.

Charles Newbold, a farmer near Burlington, N. J., in 1796 made a plow of cast iron with the point, share and moldboard all cast in one piece. The New Jersey farmers, however, did not accept this innovation. In 1810 Jethro Wood, of Scipio, took out a patent for a plow made of cast iron and combining the best features of those designed by Jefferson and by Newbold. His plow had the point, share and moldboard fastened together so that worn parts could be replaced. By 1825 it had practically replaced the half-wooden, half-iron plows of earlier days. While the United States patent office lists many later improvements, in the main the best plows today closely resemble in design that patented by Jethro Wood in 1819.

The gang plow appeared about the middle of the Nineteenth century in order to take care of the needs of the farmer in the vast prairie, and while originally drawn by horses, they were later drawn by steam. John Fowler, about 1835, introduced steam plowing in England, drawing two sets of plows. And today it is not uncommon to find tractors drawing a number of plows turning a breadth of many feet at one time.

Five Cents a Portion

PORTERHOUSE steak costs about thirty-five cents a portion. For as little as five cents a portion, one can eat one of the sea's greatest delicacies, and one of Nature's best health foods—canned salmon. You see the familiar can so often, because it is so much in demand and every grocer carries it—that it is only occasionally that you think of the distant land from which this fish comes to you at so slight a cost.

The salmon is a dweller in deep seas that murmur up long inland passages which extend for thousands of miles bearing millions upon millions of homing salmon in their fathomless, icy waters. Outside these passages miles of netting looped into huge traps await them; fleets of ships and tenders, hurrying to and fro with tackle, workers and supplies await them; huge buildings, vibrating with the whirl of machinery to pack the rich catch with incredible speed await them; and ships and trains carry the canned product to all parts of the world.

Serve Salmon Often

When you open the can, the firm pink fish with the clean inviting smell tempts you to use it just as it is—and it is delicious in just this refreshing form. But housewives who know the food value of the fish have devised many salmon dishes, soups, salad, creamed salmon on toast, salmon loaf and salmon combination main dishes.

Salmon is particularly rich in protein and fish oils. Dr. E. V. McCollum, states that many foods are lacking in Vitamin D, important to insure the normal development of bones and to prevent rickets. This vitamin is comparatively abundant in fish oils.

Augsburg and Fugger Family

A visit to Augsburg in Germany is not complete without making some acquaintance with the Fuggers. This was a Swabian family of ennobled merchants, famous in the sixteenth century. It traced its descent to John Fugger, a weaver, who lived at Graben, near Augsburg, early in the fourteenth century. The tourist today will stand in admiration before the old home of these merchant princes. The town house is adorned with frescoes by F. Wagner, while the hotel, near by, known as Die Drei Mohren, was another Fugger town house. The Fugger museum is installed in the so-called Fugger bath rooms, which are decorated in the style of the Italian Renaissance. It contains the art treasures of the family, weapons, coins, medals and golden vessels. The splendid Fugger chapel can be seen in the Catholic church of St. Ulrich.

country more than half the great pines are scarred by lightning, but no wood from them is used.

"Cooper," Not "Cowper"

Few names in English literature are more commonly mispronounced than that of the English poet William Cowper (1731-1800), says an article in Pathfinder Magazine. There is conclusive evidence that the poet and members of his family, as well as his contemporaries, always pronounced the name "koop-er," of which it is merely a variant form. Cowper's ancestors spelled the name "Cooper." John Cooper, who was an alderman of London and who died in 1609, changed the spelling to "Cowper" and that spelling was followed by his descendants. But the pronunciation did not change with the spelling.

Ground Hog Superstition

The Scotch say, "If Candlemas is fair and clear, there'll be two winters in the year." There is a Latin proverb of the same import. The French have a similar rhyme and so have the Germans, and peoples of other European countries, for according to the superstition, the ground hog, or some of his kind, performs on this day. In Germany it is the badger whose shadow portends cold weather; in France, the marmot; in England, the hedgehog; and elsewhere the bear. American pioneers merely fastened upon the ground hog an idea brought from abroad.

Indians Fear Lightning

No Navajo Indian will ever make a campfire of wood from a tree that has been struck by lightning or that he thinks may have been. If such a fire is made by the irreverent white man, the Indian will retire to a distance, where he can neither feel the heat nor smell the smoke, and will go to sleep in his blanket, fireless and suppers, rather than eat of food prepared on that kind of tree. The Navajo believes that if he comes within the influence of the flame he will absorb some of the essence of the lightning which will sooner or later kill him. In the mountains of the Navajo

Time to Play

"SOME people have all the luck!" Mrs. Workaday, from her kitchen window, where she sat stringing beans, watched Mrs. Playwhile jump into the road with her husband and young son-off for a Sunday morning spin.

"Where DOES she find the time?" With another sigh Mrs. Workaday turned to her next job—preparing the chicken.

We gather from this domestic scene that Mrs. Workaday is going to have chicken and green beans for dinner. Right. Also that her dinner will be punctually served and dietetically correct. Right again. Whereas Mrs. Playwhile, according to the rules of this yarn, should dash home belated and toss a better-skillet dinner to a disgruntled family. So far, not so good.

As a Matter of Fact

Let us look in on Mrs. Playwhile. She has just returned from her drive and calls back towards the garage. "Dinner at one!" The kitchen clock registers twenty-two minutes to one.

She places a can of flavor-sealed chicken in a pan of boiling water—government-inspected chicken, scientifically cooked. It takes twenty minutes to heat piping-hot. Then she opens a can of stringless beans. What was it that efficiency expert said at the cooking lecture—"Three quarters of an hour saved by using stringless beans; multiply by 24,000,000 families and the nation would save 18,000,000 hours—at no additional cost?" The beans simmer slowly; the chicken heats in its own rich juices; our heroine arranges crisp Romaine leaves with Roquefort cheese dressing. A parting peek at that puffy pumpkin pie she baked Saturday and then—"Dinner's ready!"

Mrs. Playwhile sits down to dinner, glowing from the crisp morning air, feeling altogether fresh and fine; whereas if we looked in on Mrs. Workaday— But it isn't nice to make a habit of looking in people's windows.

Farm Hints

Pruning should be done in the fall, winter or early spring.

An attractive sign at the farm entrance helps in advertising the farm and its products.

Plant only the best. It does not require more space or effort to grow a good plant or flower than a poor one.

Size or volume of business as measured by cash receipts is a better index of farm labor income than is the number of acres in the farm.

The best land for seeding to pasture is usually that which has grown a cultivated crop for one or more years and has been kept free from weeds.

When raised for seed, the soybean crop can be harvested with a combine or binder the same as wheat. The mower or binder can be used to harvest the hay crop.

Pastures need fertilizing and liming after years of use, the same as other fields. Improvement of old pastures will provide a large amount of feed and better quality grass.

Limestone is beneficial to pasture land.

Sudan grass was introduced in this country in 1909 by the United States Department of Agriculture.

Weakened fruit buds will be aided by application of a fertilizer high in quickly available nitrogen, say Penn State fruit specialists.

Newly planted nursery stock should be watered twice weekly in the season is dry. Cultivate to maintain loose surface free of weeds.

The common brown rat breeds six to eight times a year and produces an average of 10 young at a litter. Young females breed when only three or four months old.

Efficient potato growers have found it helpful to have a sufficient supply of lime and blue stone on hand before the spraying season opens. Plan to have a surplus instead of a shortage.

The black locust, planted by early settlers for the fragrance of its blossoms, and improperly called honey locust on that account, is now recommended by the New York College of Agriculture to plant for future fence posts.

Couldn't "See" Early Rising

It is said that Marshal Soult (who has lately become minister of war in France) has strange hours for transacting business, and we have no doubt his habits must prove rather annoying to place hunters. The marshal makes appointments for four o'clock in the morning with those who request to have audiences, said an article in a Paris paper a century ago, on which the London Times commented: "The marshal has more than once shown a weak subservience to public opinion, but he is not a fool nor a coxcomb, and the regulation here alluded to would imply that he was both. We are great advocates for early rising, but we never knew a very early riser who was not asleep, either physically or mentally, half the day."

Old Historical Records

According to Larned's "Seventy Centuries," the oldest historical records that have been found are inscriptions in the tombs of Egyptian kings belonging to the first dynasty, dating back to about 4,700 years B. C. Other historians have traced a recorded history of Babylonia to a point before 4,500 B. C. It is believed that the sale of Joseph to the Egyptians occurred while the Hyksos or "Shepherd kings" were rulers of Egypt, somewhere between 2000 and 1800 B. C., though no definite date can be given. The period of the pharaohs extends from the time of Menes, the first king of united Egypt, who reigned possibly as early as 4770 B. C., down to the conquest of Egypt by Alexander the Great, in 333 B. C.

Gigantic Grapevines

Those whose knowledge of the grapevine is limited to the often retweeted, or at least seldom aged orchards of this continent, may perhaps wonder at its being included among trees. In older countries than any in America, however, where the vine has been an object of cultivation for hundreds or thousands of years, the trunk of a grapevine grows to quite a large size, and is in some eastern lands trained to grow as a standard for some twenty or more feet in height.

She'd Better Ditch Him

A story coming from Nebraska by way of the Atchison Globe tells of a man who failed to arrive in time for his wedding and left the bride-to-be waiting at the church. Another day was set. The guests assembled, the preacher was ready, the wedding music was played. Again the bride waited at the church. And again the man did not come! Finally the bride-to-be said, fiercely, "Well, tain't the pants this time, 'cause I bought him a new pair."

Face the Truth

Fooling yourself doesn't pay. Analyze the mistakes and see if most of them are not the result of your own self-deception. Somehow or other we have to come out into the open and face the truth—especially regarding ourselves.—Grit.

Week-end Camping

A BRAND new business has grown up in the last few years—one which, in turn, has stimulated other branches of industry. The business of renting out camp sites to tourists has become a popular and lucrative industry, swelling the sales of camp accessories as well as camp food supplies.

As you motor along the highways from California to Maine and see the myriad signs "Camp Sites" with their backgrounds of khaki tents and campfires, you verily believe that the whole world is camping. Not only vacationists, but also those out only for the week-end, seem to have succumbed to the charm of broiling bacon over the open blaze and sleeping under summer skies. And why not, since the new equipment makes this the simple life indeed!

Equipment and Food

The ideal equipment for the motor trip is a small grub box

cook kit, collapsible grill, water canteen, and collapsible canvas water bucket which fits easily into the car or canoe. Aluminum is perhaps the handiest material for utensils; it is light to carry and can be bought in "nests"—small utensils packing into large ones—to save the precious inch of space.

And what foods tempt the hungry camper? Canned foods provide the most perfect camp eats since they are safeguarded against weather or insects until needed. Even frankfurters and bacon are available in cans and there are oven-baked beans, ready to be heated, as well as corn on the cob—tender and more juicy than that dried out on the market shelves. "What shall we have for dessert?"—the camp cook's problem is answered by an endless number of luscious canned fruits and berries which have only to be poured into dishes and served with tempting cookies.

PENNSYLVANIA MAN BECOMES WINNEBAGO

Joseph W. Parks Initiated into Thunder Clan Saturday.

Joseph W. Parks of Altoona, Pa., nephew of Mrs. S. C. Bressler, was adopted as a son of Chief Roaring Thunder of the Winnebagos on Saturday, May 30, at Chief Roaring Thunder's ranch near Winnebago, Neb. The ceremony took place on Mr. Parks' fiftieth birthday.

The Indian name given him is Wa Jon Ka Pingo, meaning Good Thunder.

Representatives of the government from Washington, D. C., included Dr. Berry B. Cortwright and Miss Sallie Jeffries, a welfare worker. Mr. Zerbeck, agent of the Winnebago, also attended the ceremonies.

Tribes which had representatives in attendance were the Omaha, Sioux, Second Red Fox, Osage, Iowa of Oklahoma, and Winnebago from Wisconsin.

They staged nearly all of their dances, such as the snake dance, forty-nine dance (49 warriors returning from battle), stump dance, green corn dance, buffalo dance, war dance, and friendly dance. Mr. Parks was the first white man ever adopted into the Thunder clan, the group from which the chiefs are selected. He was dressed in his buckskin suit, made from skins of his own killing and trimmed with bead work made for the occasion by the women of the tribe.

Mr. Parks was the recipient of many gifts, the handiwork of the tribal women and braves.

The Indians furnished all entertainment, and had six hogs and 56 chickens cooked. They had made a large birthday cake with 50 candles on it. The cake bore the inscription, "J. W. Parks, Altoona, Pa."

Only two white men a year are ever initiated into the Winnebago tribe. Mr. Parks was selected for membership several years ago, but asked that he be permitted to wait until his fiftieth birthday. This permission was granted.

Mr. Parks is considerable of a world traveler, and has made a study of Indian customs. Big game hunting has long been a hobby of his and the suit which he wore was made of skins of his own killing.

Ex-president Calvin Coolidge is a member of the Winnebago tribe, having been taken into the group while he was president of the United States.

The Indians say that, in order to be a truly 100 per cent American, one must be an Indian.

Mr. Parks made most of the trip from Altoona to Winnebago by airplane. At the last stop on his flight, Omaha, he was met by a delegation of Indians from Winnebago and taken to the Thunder home by automobile.

Nebraska Tenth State in Milling of Wheat

Milling has steadily developed in Nebraska during the last 25 years. During the month of March 43,000,000 bushels of wheat into 228,337 barrels of flour and 19,053,293 pounds of other milling products. This output of Nebraska mills gave the state tenth place in milling in the United States.

Nebraska's average of 276.6 pounds per barrel is slightly higher than the average for the country as a whole, which was 276.1. It's average of 83.4 pounds of offal per barrel of flour is higher than the country's average of 81.9. The daily 24-hour capacity of wheat flour in Nebraska mills in March was 17,090.

The states that outdistanced Nebraska in milling for March are, in order of their total output: Minnesota, Kansas, New York, Missouri, Texas, Illinois, Washington, Oklahoma and Ohio.

Nebraska's milling industry is a gradual evolution from the grist mill days when water mills were located on every stream to provide a near place where the settler might take his wheat and have it turned into flour. Many of those mills yet remain in the state and are performing an important neighborhood service. But in such cities as Omaha, Lincoln, Beatrice, Hastings, Crete, Lexington, Schuyler and other milling centers immense milling plants have been created to manufacture Nebraska wheat, high in protein, into flour at the place of production.

Rural School Districts Hold Annual Meetings

Annual meetings for all rural school districts will be held on Monday, June 8. Miss Pearl E. Sewell, county superintendent, says that the three members of the school board in each district should have their books in order so that the business of the district can be transacted without waste of time.

Miss Sewell points out that the order of business for the annual school meetings is given in the tablet of supplies sent to each director. The moderator presides at the meetings. The director is the secretary of all school meetings. Newly elected school officers take their office on the second Monday of July following their election.

Other rulings which Miss Sewell points out are as follows:

Only citizens of the United States are entitled to vote or hold school office.

The census should be taken within 10 days previous to the annual district meeting.

A letter from State Superintendent Taylor says that under the new transfers now in for cannot be renewed but must be applied for as original transfers. The transfer should come in not later than the second Monday in June.

Rural pupils who wish to have their tuition paid by the county must make application for such before the first day of July each year.

Every rural school should have an up-to-date set of wall maps and a globe.

Sixty-one of the 80 schools of the county have caves, and only about 26 have wells. A few have cisterns, in some of which the water is good to use.

KEEPING FIT FOR SUCCESS

By Dr. V. E. Levine, professor of bio-chemistry and nutrition, the Creighton University School of Medicine

"THE GAME OF LIFE"

In our last article we laid down some of the fundamental rules of efficient living. We shall now continue to give a few more.

Rule 11. Learn to be happy with what you have, while you are working towards something better. Have your eyes upon heaven while your feet are on the earth. Hitch your wagon to a star, but let the wheels remain on the ground.

Rule 12. Learn to accept contentedly what you can reasonably obtain by the exercise of your best energies. The neuroathletic and the psychathletic pine for the things they cannot get. We must face reality. We cannot live like children in a wish-world. Children get what they want by crying for it, adults by working for it.

Rule 13. Get interested in people outside yourself. Get married and raise a family. Divide your tangible gains and intangible treasures to multiply happiness for yourself and for others.

Rule 14. Change with the changing world. Do not drive in a horse and buggy, while the rest of the world is riding around in an automobile.

Rule 15. Play a little every day. All work and no play makes for physical fatigue and mental dullness. Take your work playfully, but do not play with the serious things of life.

Rule 16. Get plenty of rest every day. Relax now and then during the course of your work. Learn to ease up and to let up. Whenever you feel fatigued or whenever you get the blues, relax for 15 or 20 minutes and then go back to work. Spend the greater part of your Sunday in the quiet of your home. Far too many people nowadays flit and hurry by, and never once possess their soul before they die.

Rule 17. Get eight hours of sleep every night. Success does not come from being up all night. It comes from being awake all day.

Rev. Wm. Fischer and Wife Return Tuesday

Rev. and Mrs. Wm. Fischer returned home Tuesday from Talmage, Neb. where Rev. Fischer attended the conference of the Evangelical Synod of the Nebraska District. There were 30 ministers present for the meeting and about as many delegates. Mrs. Fischer visited relatives while there. They report plenty of rain in that vicinity, so much in fact, that the opening session of the conference which was to have been held Thursday evening in a church a few miles out in the country from Talmage had to be postponed on account of the mud.
