H. Hinnerich Dies Following Stroke Attack

Rites for Pioneer Farmer Held Wednesday Afternoon.

Funeral services were held yesterday afternoon at 2:30 at the home and at 3:00 at the Immanuel Lutheran church for Henry Hinnerichs, pioneer farmer living northeast of Wayne, who passed away Saturday, June 6, from a stroke. He had been suffering from it since Saturday, May 30. Funeral services were in charge of Rev. S. C. Doctor and Rev. H. Hopmann. Burial was in the Immanuel Lutheran cemetery.

Henry Hinnerichs was born at Hannover, Germany, on May 26, 1849. He came to America in 1869 and lived at Matteson, Ill. He was married there on Feb. 14, 1875, to Miss Carolina Oehlerking. In the spring of 1875 he moved to Hooper, Neb. In 1882 he came to Wayne and settled on the farm where he lived until the time of his death.

Mr. Hinnerichs was a faithful and active member of the Immanuel Lutheran church of which he was a charter member.

Twelve children were born to Mr. and Mrs. Hinnerichs, six of whom preceded Mr. Hinnerichs in death. Those surviving him are: Mrs. L. H. Echtenkamp of Arlington; Henry and Herbert Hinnerichs of Wayne; Mrs. Frank Kopping of Laurel; Mrs. R. Gelirke of Carroll, and Mrs. Ernest Gieselman of Arlington. He is survived by 19 grandchildren and one great-grandchild.

Mr. Hinnerichs was a respected member of the community and his passing will be keenly felt by his host of friends. He had been a resident of the county for 49 years, and had seen Wayne grow from a spot on the prairie to a thriving community.

JUDGE DISMISSES WIRE TAPPING CASE

Leslie Precinct Farmer Wins Preliminary Hearing.

John D. Claussen, Leslie precinct farmer, was found not guilty of a charge of telephone wire tapping, after preliminary hearing in County Judge J. M. Cherry's court Thursday afternoon, June 4.

The case hinged on the defendant's father's right to transfer a share of stock in the Farmers' Mutual Home telephone company to the defendant. Gearhardt Claussen, the defendant's father had been one of the original stockholders in the company and had paid $100 for a share of stock. The share of stock was transferred to John D. Claussen, and the younger Mr. Claussen had paid assessments on it and been allowed to vote on it for a number of years, until the last annual meeting of the company.

At that time, he was told that it would be necessary for him to purchase a $100 share of stock if he wished to participate in the service of the phone company. This he refused to do, contending that he already had the share of stock which his father had originally purchased.

When Mr. Claussen refused to pay $100 into the company, phone wires leading from the main line to his house were cut by company workmen. Mr. Claussen connected the wires back up again, and contended in court that he had a right to do so.

Judge Cherry dismissed the case after preliminary hearing, and assessed the costs of the action against the complainant.

Several men brought into court on the same charge by the telephone company in Thurston county have been bound over to the district court.

900 Enroll for Summer School

Approximately 900 students have enrolled for the summer session at Wayne State Teachers' college, according to an estimate given to The Democrat by the registrar's office Wednesday afternoon. An official check of registration statistics had not yet been made and registrations were still coming in. The estimate of 900 students does not include registration for the training school.

No check on the number of out-of-state students had been made late yesterday afternoon.

With registration at summer schools all over the United States showing decided declines over previous years, faculty members of the local teachers' college feel highly gratified at the healthy enrollment.

Summer school classes for the first six-week period started Tuesday morning, with a faculty augmented by several instructors from other schools. Most of the registration work was completed Saturday and Monday.

NEW PARTNERSHIP IN WAYNE LAUNDRY

D. S. DeWolf Buys Half Interest with A. L. Jacobson.

D. S. DeWolf, formerly of Clinton, Iowa, has purchased a half interest in the Wayne Laundry and will operate the firm in partnership with A. L. Jacobson. The transaction, completed Monday, puts Mr. DeWolf in charge of all inside work. Mr. Jacobson will be in charge of sales and general outside work.

Mr. DeWolf has been in the laundry business for a number of years, and worked his way from the bottom to the superintendency of two Mid-Continent laundry plants. He comes to Wayne from the management of the Excelsior laundry at Clinton, Iowa. Mr. Jacobson says that his new partner knows the laundry business thoroughly and will be able to give customers workmanship of the highest quality. Mr. DeWolf's wife has come here with him and they are making their home at the Boyce apartments.

Business of the Wayne laundry has been expanding rapidly, and the firm is calling regularly on nine towns in the surrounding territory. Twelve people are employed in the plant, and Mr. DeWolf and Mr. Jacobson state that they hope to make the Wayne Laundry the best firm of its kind in this territory.

Mr. DeWolf had been looking for a place to locate, and says that Wayne pleased him more than any place he inspected. "Wayne's business prospects are bright," Mr. DeWolf says, "and I feel that this is an excellent location. The Wayne laundry will try to merit your patronage."

Early Wayne County Paper Published Novel Advertising

Newspaper advertising was a known quantity in Wayne county way back in 1876, when C. E. Hunter published the Wayne County Review at La Porte. The Wayne County Review carried a good supply of advertisements, but derived little revenue from them.

Mr. Hunter's largest source of income was from publication of county reports, for which he received the magnificent sum of $200. The law stipulated that, in case there was no newspaper to publish the reports or in case the newspaper should for any reason refuse to publish them, the county treasurer should post the notices and receive the $200.

The county treasurer made an attempt to get the desirable revenue for posting the notices one year and bribed Mr. Hunter's printer to faupear with the machinery. The Wayne County Review was unable to issue a paper for that week, and the Treasurer posted the notices. He took the $200 fee, but Hunter took the matter to court and won the case.

While advertising was common, specialization seems not to have been so prevalent. The axiom about specialization being the secret of success seems to have been unknown to Wayne county residents of the 1876 era, who were "Jacks of all trades."

Witness the advertisement which the versatile R. B. Crawford published

School Budget to Be Same as Last Year

Wayne public schools' budget will remain approximately the same as last year, although there may be a slight cut, according to Superintendent of Schools H. R. Best.

Little work will be done on the school building this summer. There will be some necessary painting, including painting of the science laboratory. Principal work will consist of repairing of rain gutter and spouts on the building. Superintendent Best has urged this work for some time, deeming it absolutely necessary to save later more expensive repairs.

The girls' shower room is being rebuilt to meet needs which have made the present one obsolete.

School will open Monday, Sept. 7, next fall.

BRITAIN SPEAKS ON STRICKLAND'S LIFE

Pays Tribute to Memory of Pioneer Aviation Enthusiast.

Attorney James E. Brittain paid tribute to the memory of the late Guy R. Strickland at the regular meeting of the Wayne Kiwanis club Monday noon. Mr. Strickland was an active member of the Kiwanis organization.

Mr. Brittain stressed the fact that Mr. Strickland came from a line of adventurous men. His grandfather, Mr. Brittain said, had been a Civil War veteran and Mr. Strickland, imbued with the pioneer's spirit of adventure had gone to the canal zone in his youth as an engineer. Later he had journeyed into the Spanish Honduras territory in the employ of the United Fruit company.

That Mr. Strickland was a courageous man, Mr. Brittain pointed out, is shown by the fact that he pioneered aviation in this territory. He was, the speaker said, always willing to face danger.

Mr. Strickland probably died instantly when his plane crashed, Mr. Brittain said, and observed that such a death was a pleasant way of leaving this world. He cited John G. Neihardt's poem, "Let me live out my life in heat of blood."

Wm. Beckenhauer reviewed his trip to the Kiwanis convention at Miami, Fla.

TEACHER TO RETURN

Miss Florence Peterson, instructor in the Wayne public schools this last year, is to return for the next term. She resigned, but reconsidered and will fill the place of Mrs. Walter Albert, nee Miss Marjorie Pease. Mrs. Albert was released from her contract.

Attempt to Wreck Train Is Probed

Railroad company officials were in town Thursday and Friday investigating the placing of three pieces of iron on the rails a mile and a half east of town on Memorial Day.

The pieces of iron were put on the rails shortly before time for train No. 11 to pass that place, and the railroad detectives say that it was only by a miracle that the iron was shaken off of the track. Had the iron stayed on the rails, it is certain, the detectives assert, that a serious wreck would have resulted.

The detectives obtained the names of a number of boys who were in the vicinity of the tracks on Memorial Day, and made a report of the affair to county and city officials. They plan to trace down the parties responsible for attempting to wreck the train, and say that an example will be made of them.

Services for Mrs. Henry Suehl Today

Winside Woman's Funeral to Be at Farm Home This Afternoon.

Funeral services will be held from the home at one o'clock this afternoon for Mrs. Harry Suehl, 35, who langed herself in the barn at her farm home five miles south and three miles east of Winside early Monday morning. Rev. H. A. Teckhaus of Wayne will be in charge. Interment will be in Pleasant View cemetery at Winside.

Mrs. Suehl had done her work as usual early Monday morning and had seemed in good spirits. Her brother, Ben Damme, found her body about 8:30. She is said to have been brooding over the death of her six-year-old daughter, Goldie, last January. Mrs. Suehl had been in poor health for some time.

Clara Damme was born in Wayne county on Dec. 7, 1896 to Mr. and Mrs. William Damme. She was educated in the schools of the county. She was married to Harry Suehl at Wayne on Dec. 17, 1919, by Rev. Teckhaus. To this union two daughters were born, Pearl, 8, and Goldie.

She is survived by her husband and daughter, Pearl; five brothers: Fred, Ben, Ed, and Carl Damme of Wayne county and John Damme of Gurley, Neb.; and two sisters: Mrs. Lottie Schroeder of Wayne and Mrs. Hans Hendrickson of Vivian, S. D. She was preceded in death by her parents, her daughter Goldie, two brothers, Herman and William Damme and one sister, Mrs. Mary Baker.

She was a member of Trinity Lutheran church of Winside.

Wayne Gets 1 3-4 Inches of Rainfall This Week

Hail caused considerable damage to the small grain and set back the corn crop Saturday afternoon in a limited territory about three miles northwest of town. Wind blew down a corner on the farm occupied by L. W. Powers, and broke off numerous tree branches southwest of town. The wind and hail were accompanied by a short torrential downpour.

Wayne has been visited by spasmodic rains since last Thursday, June 4, with the total rainfall from that date until this morning amounting to 1 3-4 inches. A slow drizzling rain yesterday afternoon followed a sultry morning.

Wayne Girls Leave on European Tour

Miss Frances Erleben and Miss Beryle McClure sailed from Quebec, Canada, last Saturday, June 6, bound for Europe on board the Empress of Brittain. They plan to tour various points of interest in England and on the Continent. The girls left Wayne Wednesday, June 3.

Jubilee to Be Presented at Fair Grounds

Business Men Decide on Location at Meeting Thursday.

Wayne's Golden Jubilee celebration will be held at the fair grounds, as result of decision made Thursday night, June 4, at an open meeting of the jubilee board of directors. Opinion of approximately 40 business men present at the meeting was practically unanimous.

General chairman Martin L. Ringer explained to those in attendance at the meeting that the entertainment engaged for the celebration was of such magnitude that it would be practically impossible to present it on the downtown streets.

The Shrine mounted patrol's performance, in which drill work is done with 32 white horses, could not be presented as well on the street as at the fair grounds, Mr. Ringer explained, and added that the Dutton circus performance, intended for presentation before grandstands, would be seen by far more people at the fair grounds.

By holding the celebration at the fair grounds, Mr. Ringer told the men at the meeting, it will be possible to have all events take place within a small area. If the celebration were held down town, the ball games could not be easily accessible to the crowds and the balloon ascensions would have to be given away from the rest of the attractions.

Many of those at the meeting expressed themselves as being in favor of holding the celebration at the fair grounds because of the seating facilities for the crowds. Had the free attraction performances been held down town, anyone wishing to see them would have had to stand up for two hours.

At a meeting of the fair board Saturday evening it was decided to grant the Golden Jubilee committee permission to use the fair grounds.

College Student Gets Broken Collar Bone

Violet Jacobs of Akron, Iowa, here to enroll for the summer session at the Wayne State Teachers' college, was run into by an out-of-town car at 8:45 Monday morning, and her collar bone was fractured. Miss Jacobs was crossing the street at Tenth and Logan when the car, coming from the east on the narrow street, hit her.

A. L. Jacobson took her to the Wayne hospital, where she is being cared for by Dr. Paul Stman.

The Inquiring Reporter

This Week's Question
Do you think the amount of advertising broadcast from radio stations should be limited?

C. M. Craven: "I don't think they should allow anything to be sold over the radio. Radio advertising, in my opinion, constitutes unfair competition."

E. E. Fleetwood: "It certainly should. Such stations as the Henry Field organization, which broadcasts a large percentage of advertising, should be put off the air."

L. A. Fenske: "Yes, it certainly should be. It's getting so you can't hear anything over the radio except 'Ladies Are Kind to Your Throat.'"

F. E. Gamble: "Yes, it should be limited. A man can make any extravagant statement over the radio and not be held accountable, while if he made the same statement in a newspaper he would be liable to prosecution."

Carroll Orr: "Yes, I think it should be restricted. Some radio advertising is not objectionable, but a man should be restrained to tell the truth. There seems to be inadequate supervision over the veracity of statements made over the air."

LOTS A STATIC

Radio advertising is going through a stage that newspaper advertising passed out of fifty years ago, and the radios are overrun with advertising that could not possibly go through the United States mails. Many radio programs from the better stations are meritorious, but practically every program on the air is burdened with an over-supply of advertising.

Sime Silverman, editor of the theatrical publication, Variety, comments on one of the radio "rackets": "Softest racket for heavy sugar is the radio fortune telling, sex secret racket, with more than 100 stations in the country innocent promoters of a gimmick that is illegal if worked through mail solicitation. "Seems harmless enough to a radio station to allow one of the gimmick operators an hour a day telling fortunes free for the listeners-in. But the station operators never take a tumble to the sideline, or if they do they wink. Today the gag is growing from the racket stage to a business—and a sweet one at that.

"Racket centers around a chap in Chicago who sells the rackets to one grand a year for horoscopes. With more than a hundred subscribers, this is business a plenty for him. "As Prince This, Doctor That or Professor So-and-So, the gimmickers travel all over the country. The fortune telling come-on will always try a new one—hence the migration. One chap is credited with a hundred grand in six months in this town. A real home near L. A. while he was here and flock of seven femme secretaries, one of whom is now filling in since the storm and strife left the bed and board.

"Racket is to call for question over the radio that the professor will answer at a later date. At one station here 100,000 requests were received in 14 weeks. Then the secretary gets to work mauling the come-ons, offering four answers for a dollar—and a dream book for a dollar—horoscope for a dollar—sex secrets for a dollar.

"Thirty per cent of those solicited come across with one to four dollars. Ten per cent of that number went for the whole $4. Most of the market were women, with the femme element going heavy for the sex secret stuff.

"These books are supplied by the same gunk in Chicago who supplies the horoscopes. Cost to the racketeers is three cents in quantities. And they sell for a dollar."

Sime Silverman, in the language of Broadway, exposes one of the radio tricks. Here in Nebraska we are being hit in the ear-drums every day by another racket of the air.

Marie Weekes, in her Norfolk Press, says: "A woman from a neighboring town called the other day and was much disappointed, because she couldn't find her dream of a gown at a price considerably below $10. She admitted she could find some very lovely dresses at prices she regarded as too high but the kind of dress she wanted and the kind offered at lower prices didn't correspond. In other words, she had gotten the idea while listening to the voice on the air that Norfolk was selling $10 dresses at $6.75 or thereabouts and because she couldn't make her sight justify her hearing she felt her trip was a dead loss. But my friend, you know and I know and every one knows that we have no right to expect miracles in merchandising. There is a price and a value to everything and we must realize that values do control prices and prices should indicate values. I am suspicious of things that have to be sold. High-pressure selling to me suggests short values."

There's no question but what the air is over-loaded with selling static.

BUSINESS AND BASEBALL

Just why baseball should be so popular with the American people is more or less of a mystery to at least one Hartington man, who can't see anything in the game. Admitting that he has never played baseball, he still fails to see why anyone should want to spend time watching the sport.

There is a lot more to baseball than just watching some men throw and hit the ball. It has become one of the big business institutions of the country, as well as a favorite sport. The big salaries paid the best known stars show how big the game really is. The tremendous crowds that attend important games and the world series, the money spent in spring training trips and many other factors put the game in the big business class.

There is even something more to baseball than that. Right now business can learn a lot from baseball, for the two are a lot alike. Anyone who has followed baseball during the past few years knows that there was an epidemic of home runs in the big leagues. Players would go up to the plate, "cowtail" their bats and drive the ball over the center field fence until home runs were as common as singles. People began to get weary of seeing the cover knocked off the ball.

Last winter the baseball magnates got together to devise some means of tightening up the game. They brought out a new ball which is being used this season. The cover is thicker and the seams are raised, giving the pitcher a better grip and enabling him to throw a sharper curve. Players who used to park the ball out of the lot found they weren't hitting it so far. Then they began to recall the styles used by some old time hitters. Ty Cobb, one of the greatest hitters of all time, used to choke his bat short, crouch over the plate and get lots of hits. There weren't many home runs, but he got to first base more often than any other player of his time, and the shorter hits he made counted just as much in the batting average as the longer home runs. So the players this year are choking up on their bats, instead of hitting high, wide and handsome, and are trying for base hits instead of getting so many home runs.

Business can learn a lesson from that. Two or three years ago, everyone in business was hitting home runs. There was a lot of free swinging, the same as in baseball. Then somebody threw a new kind of ball into the business game. Now the fellow who swings a heavy "wagon tongue" and keeps trying for home runs isn't getting to first base. The wise business men are trying for a steady run of hits instead of the occasional sensational home run, and are holding their averages up just as well. The ones who haven't found that the new ball is harder to hit are the ones who are doing most of the heaving about hard times and blaming their troubles on everyone but themselves. Adopting ideas and business methods to the changed conditions of the business game will help the business men just as shortening the grip on the bat has helped the modern baseball player.—Cedar County News.

LAW IN ENGLAND

England has just closed the famous Pontonville prison of London. This marks the twenty-first major penitentiary she has sold or closed since the war because there are no criminals to put into the cells. Lord Byng, commissioner of police, has issued a statement which is almost an apology because of the 10 murders committed last year in larger London (population 9,000,000), two of the culprits escaped conviction. And the London press solemnly comments on this laxity as such things do not ordinarily happen. This same London has only one criminal court, Old Bailey, and that has so little to do sessions are only held two or three times a week.

We like to say here that the war and the motor car are the cause of our crime situation. England had the war in her arms for four years, and automobiles are almost as common there as they are here. So that's out.

But nobody there is allowed to carry a revolver. If he does the law presumes he is carrying it for just one purpose—to kill somebody—and the penalty is certain and severe. No policeman in England carries a gun and only a few of them carry rifles.

Being a judge over there is an honor—and not a political sinecure. Judges are chosen for life and only after they have so long and honorably served at the bar that their qualifications are known. A judge is paid something like $25,000 a year—and often sacrifices twice that much yearly income because of the honor, and to round out his career.

The police department is devoid of politics and the responsibility for maintaining law and order regardless of whether the offender be a lord or cockney coster, is held as sacred as a call to the cloth or to medicine. What change has a crook or gangster when he cannot show controlled predicaments to win favor with the police, the prosecutor, or the bench? Spend the day when the United States approaches England's success in law enforcement.—Yeoman Shield.

UNITED AGRICULTURE

Disagreement among farm cooperative associations sometimes suggests that farm groups themselves set the poorest example of cooperation. In fact, there is an urgent need for these agricultural agencies to learn and practice the lessons of loyalty, teamwork and tolerance among themselves. They should all strive for the sound, constructive development of agriculture as a whole, rather than for selfish advancement. A lack of unity in the past has already caused serious delay to cooperative progress, and general agricultural welfare.

The voice of agriculture carries much more weight when it speaks for the great majority of its individual units. There is need now for organized agriculture to assert itself. Ever since the Agricultural Marketing Act was put into operation, various business interests have violently opposed its policies and attempted to alienate farmers' support of it. Many are curious to know why these business groups should object so forcefully unless there is evidence that the Agricultural Marketing Act is really making progress in the interest of farmers, for whom it was intended. It is their opinion that if such legislation does aid agriculture, it might naturally cause readjustment in some other groups. This has been a frequent necessity in many industries during the rapid changing industrial development of the past generation or two. It is one of the penalties of progress.

To head off unfair attacks on cooperative marketing a meeting was called in Chicago recently by the American Farm Bureau Federation, for the purpose of correlating all organized agricultural forces in a determined effort to preserve the Agricultural Marketing Act for the benefit of agriculture. The spirit of the meeting was voiced by C. E. Huff, president of the Farmers National Grain Corporation when he declared, "You can't save agriculture in sections."

The conference unanimously agreed that cooperative activity is the first and fundamental step toward securing economic equality for agriculture and that its development depends upon acceptance by the farm people themselves of cooperative principles. It recommended that a national campaign be launched by the various cooperative groups to sell the Agricultural Marketing Act to agriculture, and that from this a comprehensive national program for agriculture be developed.

The plan is a commendable one. Agriculture will never make progress except through organization. Working in individual units or through small groups with varying objectives places agriculture at the mercy of organized industry and labor. We believe it is high time for farmers to wake up to the realization of these facts and lay plans for their own safety.—Nebraska Farmer.

ROCKET POWER

German inventors who are devoting their time and money to the development of rocket power are confident that eventually they will succeed in establishing it as a practical means of propulsion. They repeat their assertions that the time is not far distant when mail will come to America from Germany by rocket in about 24 minutes.

This has seemed from the first to be a fanciful, impossible theory. But today public opinion is careful. It has learned to hold criticism in abeyance as scientists and inventors undertake to create new contrivances and apply newly discovered principles. As for the men interested in rocket power development they are just as enthusiastic about it as ever, even more so.

They are working constantly to improve the rocket motor, which already has been demonstrated as to its ability on short runs with a motor car and in propelling a rocket tub for a considerable distance.

The air mail rocket that will cross the Atlantic in 34 minutes if the claims of the inventors are borne out will be controlled and steered by radio. It will be sent into the stratosphere 10 or 15 miles above the earth's surface and brought down within a short distance of the intended destination thousands of miles away. It will be lowered gently by an automobile parachute. It will send out radio signals that will make it possible to find it easily. Possibly a fantastic dream, so to be true, but one no more fantastic than radio and the telephone and telegraph and electric light and power would have been just a few generations ago.—Sioux City Journal.

BONUS LOANS

Applications for bonus loans have now been made by nearly 2,000,000 veterans. This is approximately 57 per cent of the total number to whom adjusted service certificates have been issued, and new applications are being received at the veterans' bureau at the rate of about 35,000 a week. The $700,000,000 redemption fund accumulation held in the United States treasury, has been exhausted, the loans already made totaling more than a billion dollars. If the applications approved and pending represent the average face value of the certificates it will take $2,000,000,000 to finance them.

Obviously this borrowing has gone far beyond all possible estimate of unemployment distress among veterans. A fraction is undoubtedly necessary borrowing, but the major portion represents apparently merely a veteran preference for the cash over a credit with the government.

Under the present situation this hardly constitutes a treasury raid, inasmuch as the veteran is charged 4.5 per cent on his loan for which the face value of his certificate remaining with the government is security. The last long term bonds issued by the government were at 3.375 per cent which leaves a margin of governmental profit on the loans of more than 1 per cent.

But it is also obvious that strong pressure will be brought to bear on congress to alter the present situation. Those veterans who have borrowed with no intention of liquidating their loans will not be content to see the remaining half of their certificates very nearly wiped out by the interest charge as they will be. Abolition of the interest charge and payment of the bonus in full are next on the program.—Omaha World-Herald.

THE TEACHING PROFESSION

The history of most teachers is as follows: When first elected things run fairly smooth. Pupils respond to instruction and progress is made. Then a little insurgency crops out and discipline must be measured out if the welfare of the school is to be considered. Perhaps it is the child of some prominent family. The child complains at home or else the parents learn of the discipline and are displeased. They know little or nothing of the school routine but are the furors of the court at which only one side is represented in the case. Of course the teacher is wrong and perhaps complaint is laid with some member of the board. Stories and rumors spread and grow like a prairie fire on the frontier that started from only a tiny blaze, and at the end of the year the board hires up this teacher with the rest. They know little of the faithful work all during the year for no one has told them. They recall the rumors and stories that started perhaps from the immature judgement of a child who naturally presented only his side of the case. The chances are ten to one that this teacher must seek another location for next year. Such is the system that started years ago and is continued year after year by only its own momentum.—Newman Grove Reporter.

Rebekahs to Randolph for District Meeting

Several members of the local Rebekah lodge went to Randolph last Friday, June 5, to attend the annual meeting of the Rebekah lodges of District No. 20, which includes lodges in Belden, Carroll, Crofton, Bloomfield, Magnet, Laurel, Winslow, Wayne, Coleridge and Randolph.

Registration began at 1:30 o'clock Friday afternoon after which the regular session took place. Assembly President, Thoms, gave the address of the afternoon.

At 6:00 o'clock, the ladies of the Presbyterian church served supper for the delegates in the church parlors. The evening session began at 8:00 o'clock, the Randolph lodge in charge of the opening of the session. Winslow conducted the seating of the district officers and Layrel had charge of the Memorial service. Thad Black gave a cornet solo. The Belden delegation conducted the conferring of the degree after which the regular business was taken up. The election of officers resulted as follows: Miss Mamie Nelson, president; Mrs. Edna Bell of Laurel, vice president; Miss Ethel McCartney of Bloomfield, warden; and Miss Whitney of Hartington, secretary-treasurer.

Those who attended from Wayne were Mesdames C. C. Kilborn, Ed Ellis, C. E. Peterson, Ed Miller, E. B. Fleetwood, M. V. Crawford, A. D. Lewis, and P. L. Mabbott.

Next year the annual district meeting will be held in Laurel. Miss Effie Hall of Cushing, Iowa, is spending two weeks with Mrs. R. H. Hansen.

SCOTT SHOTS

"SCOTTY"

Well, now that the carnival has "come and went" the next thing on the program is the Golden Jubilee celebration. It was Walter Savidge's twenty-fifth annual tour, and the Jubilee will be Wayne's fiftieth anniversary. This seems to be a year of anniversary events.

Waldo, the printer's devil, suggests that the Golden Jubilee should have as one of its attractions a five-mile bicycle race for boys 16 years of age and under. The matter has been taken up with Martin Ringer, and if the event can be arranged for it will be held.

Fifty years ago . . . Gosh! That's a long time. "Why don't you write a few 'Do you remember way back when' items for the Scott Shots colyum this week?" the boss asked me. Alas and alack—the head Scott Shot scooper's memory doesn't even date back to the first appearance in Wayne of the Walter Savidge amusement company. As a matter of fact (wisper it gently) the old Scott Shotter had not as yet made his debut in this vale of tears way back in 1906 when Walter Savidge started to entertain people.

I wonder if times and ideas change much? On my desk there is a copy of a book. It has a paragraph in it which says:

"There is one satisfaction comes from the recent depression. We hit the bottom. We are now on the climb and good times are ahead of us to profit by our past experience. Let's not do a dollar's worth of business on six cents. Let's swallow what we chew before we take another bite."

The book was published in 1910—just 21 years ago—and it could be published again as a "hot off the press" publication and no one would be any the wiser.

Billy Patterson, manager of the Scott Shot horseshoe pitching department, reports that there has not as yet been any formal acceptance to the horse shoe challenge.

However, an anonymous letter has come to the desk. Here 'tis:

"In reply to Scott Shot's challenge to the barnyard golf club for a match it would seem that Scott ought to be able to show something more to his credit than such an elegant flow of vocabulary. Sure we will give you a chance if you deliver the goods, but I would like to call your attention to the fact that putting a necktie on a stake 40 ft. away is something like going over the Niagara Falls. It looks easy but isn't as easy as it looks. A Golf Club Member."

Glenn Bunnell and the Scott Shotter went out to pitch horseshoes the other night, and I'm certainly glad that I wasn't pitching against any of the Barnyard Golf Club members. Both of us were "off form"—and believe it or not—we only got 80 rings out of the first 100 shoes we pitched. "Gee whiz," Glen said, "we'd better quit. Both of us are getting rotten."

"Yeah," I replied. "First thing you know we'll be falling back into the class of them fellers in the Barnyard Golf Club."

Anger wrecks nerves and later becomes a chronic disease.

A good rest has no substitute. Medicine is a makeshift, while braces and tonics are temporary. Get plenty of sleep and spend more evenings at home, surrounded by quiet influences. The man who works hard all day and continually seeks excitement in the evening soon finds there's something wrong, and he is lagging behind in the procession. He gets a cheaper job and it has been. The young man who passes him at the half-mile post, observation has shown, is the man who rests and takes care of his health.

Some famous philosopher has said, "Beware of the man who does not like children, dogs, music and laughter." And what that philosopher said years ago, still goes.

The big circus that's coming to Wayne for the Golden Jubilee celebration got a tough break in Sioux City. Mrs. Dutton, owner of the Sioux act organization, had a contract with one Harry Valois (alas, I knew him well) which guaranteed her $1,250. In the contract, Valois said he was the agent for the Odd Fellows lodge. The Odd Fellows lodge had a contract with the versatile Mr. Valois guaranteeing them 25 per cent of the gate receipts. On the last night of the circus' appearance in Sioux City, Mr. Valois decided to take a trip. He took it, and when the circus and the lodge officials compared contracts, they discovered that both were "out." Mrs. Dutton said she would charge the three day engagement of the circus up to "experience."

Valois was a little ex-showman who ran a little paper-back magazine, "Sense—Horse and Non," in Sioux City. He had big ideas but never managed to make much money. He wrote all the copy for his magazine, sold all the ads, and even delivered his publication in person. Since Mr. Calois has disappeared from Sioux City I imagine that the magazine will suspend publication. It had no reason for existence, anyway.

The old order changeth. Radio Station KTNT at Muscatine, Iowa, has been ruled off the air. The mystery to this writer is that the federal radio commission ever let KTNT stay on the air this long. Norman Baker the man who ran it, was an erratic, egomaniacal fraud if there ever was one.

While we're talking about radio stations, can anybody tell me why a few more haven't been taken off the air? If some of our Nebraska, Iowa, and South Dakota radio stations can qualify as purveyors of high-grade entertainment, then I'm an Australian whizzletiff.

"Is your wife entertaining this season?"
"Not very."

Costumes some women wear testify to their bravery.

"Had your body greased lately?" the filling station attendant asked.

Old fashioned kids used to do "button, button" fortune telling in this manner: "Rich man, poor man, beggar man, thief. Doctor, lawyer, merchant, chief." Modern kids do it this way: "Bootlegger, motorist, headwaiter, cop. Psychologist, alienist, Babbitt, flop."

Lincoln freed the slaves, but it took Hoover to free the workmen.

S. O. S.—This colyum would like to receive a copy of the Farm Page published in the Waterloo (Iowa) Courier by that grand old hog caller, M. S. G.

Our Philosopher Friend says, "It's too much to ask one to love his enemy. Compromise on forgetting him."

A letter came to this desk the other day with the words "Rush—Important" written in the lower left-hand corner of the envelope. I'll bet the carrier who picked up that letter ran all the way to the postoffice. I'll bet the postmaster chased to the train with it. The engineer must have opened the throttle a little wider. I'll bet the whole postal department was jiggered up by that "Rush—Important" on that envelope. (That's supposed to be sarcasm.)

To leave your umbrella in the church vestibule is a sure sign of Christian faith.

It's raining outside while this colyum is being written. And that brings to mind the old wheeze about "It isn't raining rain, you know—it's raining violets."

—And corn and wheat and oats and crops worth millions of dollars.
—But it's rain, no matter how you look at it.

Former Wayne Boy Wed in Montana

Paul Byerly Bowen, son of Prof. and Mrs. O. R. Bowen of Wayne, and until recently of Billings, Montana, and Miss Opal Hughes, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wesley S. Hughes of Billings, were married at 7:00 o'clock Monday evening, June 1, at the home of the bride's parents in the presence of about 100 relatives and friends. A reception followed.

After the wedding ceremony and reception, the young couple left Billings for Spokane, Washington, where Mr. Bowen is taking up his work as attorney for the Federal Land Bank. However, he is retaining his law partnership at Billings. Enroute to Spokane, Mr. Bowen and his bride visited Missoula, Mont., and Glacier National park. They arrived at their home in Spokane the latter part of last week.

Mr. Bowen is a graduate of the University of Nebraska College of Law, having been graduated with the class of 1925, and is a member of the Alpha Tau Omega fraternity. During the past three years he has been practicing law in Billings. He is remembered by his many friends here as an industrious and very promising young man.

Radio advertising is going through a stage that newspaper advertising passed out of fifty years ago, and the radios are overrun with advertising that could not possibly go through the United States mails.

Some Silverman, editor of the theatrical publication, Variety, comments on one of the radio "rackets": "Softest racket for heavy sugar, is the radio fortune telling, sex secret racket, with more than 100 stations in the country innocent promoters of a gimmick that is illegal if worked through mail solicitation."

"Seems harmless enough to a radio station to allow one of the gimmick operators an hour a day telling fortunes free for the listeners-in. But the station operators never take a tumble to the sideline, or if they do they wink. Today the gag is growing from the racket stage to a business—and a sweet one at that."

"Racket centers around a chap in Chicago who nickes the racketeers one grand a year for horoscopes. With more than a hundred subscribers, this is business a plenty for him."

"As Prince This, Doctor That or Professor So-and-So, the gimmickers travel all over the country. The fortune telling come-on will always try a new one—hence the migration. One chap is credited with a hundred grand in six months in this town. A real home near L. A. while he was here and flock of seven femme secretaries, one of whom is now filling in since the storm and strife left the bed and board."

"Racket is to call for question over the radio that the professor will answer at a later date. At one station here 100,000 requests were received in 11 weeks. Then the secretary gets to work mailing the come-ons, offering four answers for a dollar—and a dream book for a dollar—horoscope for a dollar—sex secrets for a dollar."

"Thirty per cent of those solicited come across with one to four dollars. Ten per cent of that number went for the whole $4. Most of the males were women, with the femme element going heavy for the sex secret stuff."

"These books are supplied by the same gink in Chicago who supplies the horoscopes. Cost to the racketeers is three cents in quantities. And they sell for a dollar."

Some Silverman, in the language of Broadway, exposes one of the radio tricks. Here in Nebraska we are being hit in the ear-drums every day by another racket of the air."

Marlo Weekes, in her Norfolk Press, says: "A woman from a neighboring town called the other day and was much disappointed because she couldn't find her dream of a gown at a price considerably below $10. She admitted she could find some very lovely dresses at prices she regarded as too high but the kind of dress she wanted and the kind offered at lower prices didn't correspond. In other words, she had gotten the idea while listening to the voice of the air that Norfolk was selling $40 dresses at $8.75 or thereabouts and because she couldn't make her sight justify her hearing she felt her trip was a dead loss. But my friend, you know and I know and every one knows that we have no right to expect miracles in merchandising. There is a price and a value to everything and we must realize that values do control prices and prices should indicate values. I am suspicious of things that have to be sold. High-pressure selling to me suggests short values."

BUSINESS AND BASEBALL

Just why baseball should be so popular with the American people, is more or less of a mystery to at least one Hartington man, who can't see anything to the game. Admitting that he has never played baseball, he still fails to see why anyone should want to spend time watching the sport.

There is a lot more to baseball than just watching some men throw and hit the ball. It has become one of the big business institutions of the country, as well as a favorite sport. The big salaries paid the best known stars show how big the game really is. The tremendous crowds that attend important games and the world series, the money spent in spinning training trips and many other factors put the game in the big business class.

There is even something more to baseball than that. Right now, business can learn a lot from baseball, for the two are a lot alike. Anyone who has followed baseball during the past few years knows that there was an epidemic of home runs in the big leagues. Players would go up to the plate, "cogtail" their bats and drive the ball over the center field fence until home runs were as common as singles. People began to get weary of seeing the cover knocked off the ball.

Last winter the baseball magnates got together to devise some means of tightening up the game. They brought out a new ball which is being used this season. The cover is thicker and the seams are raised, giving the pitcher a better grip and enabling him to throw a sharper curve. Players who used to park the ball out of the lot found they weren't hitting it so far. Then they began to recall the styles used by some old time batters. Ty Cobb, one of the greatest hitters of all time, used to choke his bat short, crouch over the plate and get lots of hits. There weren't many home runs, but he got to first base more often than any other player of his time, and the shorter hits he made counted just as much in the batting average as the longer home runs. So the players this year are choking up on their bats, instead of hitting high, wide and handsome, and are trying for base hits instead of getting so many home runs.

Business can learn a lesson from that. Two or three years ago, every one in business was hitting home runs. There was a lot of free swinging, the same as in baseball. Then somebody threw a new kind of ball into the business game. Now the fellow who swings a heavy "wagon tongue" and keeps trying for home runs isn't getting to first base. The wise business men are trying for a steady run of hits instead of the occasional sensational home run, and are holding their averages up just as well. The ones who haven't found that the new ball is harder to hit are the ones who are doing most of the weeping about hard times and blaming their troubles on everyone but themselves. Adopting ideas and business methods to the changed conditions of the business game will help the business men just as shortening the grip on the bat has helped the modern baseball player. —Cedar County News.

England has just closed the famous Pentonville prison of London. This makes the twenty-first major penitentiary she has sold or closed since the war because there are no criminals to put into the cells. Lord Byng, commissioner of police, has issued a statement which is almost an apology because of the 10 murders committed last year in larger London (population 3,000,000), two of the culprits escaped conviction. And the London press solemnly comments on this laxity as such things do not ordinarily happen. This same London has only one criminal court, Old Bailey, and that has so little to do sessions are only held two or three times a week.

We like to say here that the war and the motor car are the cause of our crime situation. England had the war in her arms for four years, and automobiles are almost as common there as they are here. So that's out.

But nobody there is allowed to carry a revolver. If he does the law presumes he is carrying it for just one purpose—to kill somebody—and the penalty is certain and severe. No policeman in England carries a gun and only a few of them carry knives.

Being a judge over there is an honor and not a political sinecure. Judges are chosen for life and only after they have so long and honorably served at the bar that their qualifications are known. A judge is paid something like $25,000 a year—and often sacrifices twice that much yearly income because of the honor and to round out his career.

The police department is devoid of politics and the responsibility for maintaining law and order regardless of whether the offender be a lord or cockney coster, is held as sacred as a call to the cloth or to medicine.

What chance has a crook or gangster when he cannot show controlled precincts to win favor with the police, the prosecutor, or the bench? Speed the day when the United States approaches England's success in law enforcement. —Yeoman Shield.

Disagreement among farm cooperative associations sometimes suggests that farm groups themselves set the poorest example of cooperation. In fact, there is an urgent need for these agricultural agencies to learn and practice the lessons of loyalty, teamwork and tolerance among themselves. They should all strive for the sound, constructive development of agriculture as a whole, rather than for selfish advancement. A lack of unity in the past has already caused serious delay to cooperative progress, and general agricultural welfare.

The voice of agriculture carries much more weight when it speaks for the great majority of its individual units. There is need now for organized agriculture to assert itself. Ever since the Agricultural Marketing Act was put into operation, various business interests have violently opposed its policies and attempted to alienate farmers' support of it. Many are curious to know why these business groups should object so forcefully unless there is evidence that the Agricultural Marketing Act is really making progress in the interest of farmers, for whom it was intended. It is their opinion that if such legislation does aid agriculture, it might naturally cause readjustment in some other groups. This has been a frequent necessity in many industries during the rapid changing industrial development of the past generation or two. It is one of the penalties of progress.

To head off unfair attacks on cooperative marketing a meeting was called in Chicago recently by the American Farm Bureau Federation, for the purpose of correlating all organized agricultural forces in a determined effort to preserve the Agricultural Marketing Act for the benefit of agriculture. The spirit of the meeting was voiced by C. E. Huff, president of the Farmers National Grain Corporation when he declared, "You can't save agriculture in sections."

The conference unanimously agreed that cooperative activity is the first and fundamental step toward securing economic equality for agriculture and that its development depends upon acceptance by the farm people themselves of cooperative principles. It recommended that a national campaign be launched by the various cooperative groups to sell the Agricultural Marketing Act to agriculture, and that from this a comprehensive national program for agriculture be developed.

The plan is a commendable one. Agriculture will never make progress except through organization. Working in individual units or through small groups with varying objective places agriculture at the mercy of organized industry and labor. We believe it is high time for farmers to wake up to the realization of these facts and lay plans for their own safety. —Nebraska Farmer.

It looks easy but isn't as easy as it looks. A Golf Club Member."

Glenn Bunnell and the Scott Shotter went out to pitch horseshoes the other night, and I'm certainly glad that I wasn't pitching against any of the Barnyard Golf Club members. Both of us were "off form" and—beieve it or not—we only got 80 rings out of the first 100 shoes we pitched. "Gee whiz," Glen said, "we'd better quit. Both of us are getting rotten."

"Yeah," I replied. "First thing you know we'll be falling back into the class of them fellers in the Barnyard Golf Club."

Anger wrecks nerves and later becomes a chronic disease.

A good rest has no substitute. Medicine is a makeshift, while bracers and tonics are temporary. Get plenty of sleep and spend more evenings at home, surrounded by quiet influences. The man who works hard all day and continually seeks excitement in the evening soon finds there's something wrong, and he is lagging behind in the procession. He gets a cheaper job and is a has-been. The young man who passes him at the half-mile post, observation has shown, is the man who rests and takes care of his health.

Some famous philosopher has said, "Beware of the man who does not like children, dogs, music and laughter." And what that philosopher said years ago, still goes.

The big circus that's coming to Wayne for the Golden Jubilee celebration got a tough break in Sioux City. Mrs. Dutton, owner of the free act organization, had a contract with one Harry Valois (alas, I knew him well) which guaranteed her $1,250.

In the contract, Valois said he was the agent for the Odd Fellows lodge. The Odd Fellows lodge had a contract with the versatile Mr. Valois guaranteeing them 25 per cent of the gate receipts. On the last night of the circus' appearance in Sioux City, Mr. Valois decided to take a trip. He took it, and when the circus and the lodge officials compared contracts, they discovered that both were "out." Mrs. Dutton said she would charge the three day engagement of the circus up to "experience."

Valois was a little ex-showman who ran a little paper-back magazine, "Sense—Horse and Non," in Sioux City. He had big ideas but never managed to make much money. He wrote all the copy for his magazine, sold all the ads, and even delivered his publication in person. Since Mr. Calois has disappeared from Sioux City I imagine that the magazine will suspend publication. It had no reason for existence, anyway.

The old order changeth. Radio Station KTNT at Muscatine, Iowa, has been ruled off the air. The mystery to this writer is that the federal radio commission ever let KTNT stay on the air this long. Norman Baker the man who ran it, was an erratic, egomaniacal fraud if there ever was one.

While we're talking about radio stations, can anybody tell me why a few more haven't been taken off the air? If some of our Nebraska, Iowa, and South Dakota radio stations can qualify as purveyors of high-grade entertainment, then I'm an Australian whizzletiff.

"Is your wife entertaining this season?"

"Not very."

Costumes some women wear testify to their bravery.

"Had your body greased lately?" the filling station attendant asked.

Old fashioned kids used to do "button, button" fortune telling in this manner: "Rich man, poor man, baggar man, thief. Doctor, lawyer, merchant, chief." Modern kids do it this way: "Bootlegger, motorist, headwaiter, cop. Psychologist, alienist, Babbitt, flop."

Lincoln freed the slaves, but it took Hoover to free the workmen.

Our Philosopher Friend says, "It's too much to ask one to love his enemy. Compromise on forgetting him."

A letter came to this desk the other day with the words "Rush—Important" written in the lower left-hand corner of the envelope. I'll bet the carrier who picked up that letter ran all the way to the postoffice. I'll bet the postmaster chased to the train with it. The engineer must have opened the throttle a little wider. I'll bet the whole postal department was jiggered up by that "Rush—Important" on that envelope. (That's supposed to be sarcasm.)

To leave your umbrella in the church vestibule is a sure sign of Christian faith.

It's raining outside while this colyum is being written. And that brings to mind the old wheeze about "It isn't raining rain, you know—it's raining violets."

—And corn and wheat and oats and crops worth millions of dollars.

—But it's rain, no matter how you look at it.

Consider your Adam's Apple!!*
Don't Rasp Your Throat With Harsh Irritants

"Reach for a LUCKY instead"

Place your finger on your Adam's Apple. You are actually touching your larynx—it contains your vocal chords. When you consider your Adam's Apple, you are considering your throat—your vocal chords.

What is the effect of modern Ultra Violet Rays upon tobacco? Dr. E. E. Free, one of America's well-known scientists, who was retained by us to study Lucky Strike's manufacturing process, addressing the Illuminating Engineering Society, said:

"The essential effect of the Ultra Violet is the production of better tobacco and of cigarettes regarded by virtually all smokers who have tested them as milder and with a lesser tendency to cause throat irritation."

Here in America LUCKY STRIKE is the only cigarette that employs Ultra Violet Rays in connection with its exclusive "TOASTING" Process—the only cigarette that brings you the benefits of the exclusive "TOASTING" Process which expels certain harsh irritants present in all raw tobaccos.

WITH THE WAYNE CHURCHES

Presbyterian Church
P. A. Davies, Pastor
 Next Sunday morning we are to have our Children's Day program. Classes will meet in their various departments at the usual hour of ten o'clock and will assemble in the Auditorium at ten-thirty a. m. for the program. Each department having a part in the service. The offering to be taken will be in the interest of children's work in needy fields, and it is our hope that it may be as large this time as it has been in other years, between fifty and seventy dollars.

In the evening the young people will meet in their services at six-thirty o'clock. We would urge them to be prompt so that they might attend the services at the Methodist church at 7:30 p. m. Last Sunday evening the Methodists were our guests and we appreciated their fine spirit and attendance. Next Sunday we are to be their guests. May we be there in numbers.

We can make these evening services worth while if as individuals we remember our responsibility.

It was a pleasure to have Brother Simpson, pastor of the Methodist church at Carroll, deliver the message last Sunday night. We want him to come again. We were also happy to have the Male quartette, consisting of Gulliver, Gamble, Blair and Lewis sing for us.

Our young people received the honor banner for attendance at the C. E. convention at Emerson.

We are sorry to hear that our friend Rev. Larson, who has been doing a worthy work at Emerson has resigned.

We are grateful to Mrs. A. R. Davis for the beautiful Solo at the morning hour. It added much to the service.

The Missionary society held their Guest Day service at the church Wednesday afternoon.

 Golden text: Psalms 121:8.
 The subject for the Lesson-Sermon read at all Christian Science churches and societies on Sunday, June 7, was "God the Only Cause and Creator." The lesson was intended to show that God, good, is the source of all that is real and eternal that anything unlike God is without a real cause and that its seeming existence rests on belief only; also that unreality vanishes before divine reality. One citation read from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy (p. 207), is as follows: "There is but one primal cause. Therefore there can be no effect from any other cause, and there can be no reality in aught which does not proceed from this great and only cause. Sin, sickness, disease, and death belong not to the science of being." One of the Biblical citations is, "Thou art worthy, O Lord, to receive glory and honor and power: for thou hast created all things, and for thy pleasure they are and were created."

Bohemians Dedicate New Chapel at Dodge

In the National Bohemian cemetery, two and a half miles northeast of Dodge, on Decoration Day was dedicated with appropriate ceremonies a beautiful chapel that has been erected to the Czech pioneers.

The Czechs, or Bohemians, as they are generally called, are second in numbers of the people of foreign lands who chose Nebraska as the land of their adoption. They came across the sea in response to an urge to take the great fertile lands of a new country that were waiting to be peopled with settlers of industry and perseverance. The railroads, granted large areas of Nebraska land to induce them to build, sought buyers of their acres among the people of northern Europe. In response to that appeal colonies of people of strange tongues, but of common purpose, began to land on the Atlantic seaboard and make their way to the great plains of Nebraska and other middle-western states. Filled with the thirst for land and homes and assured by the promise of freedom and liberty from the long European rule, they viewed the land of America as a new promised land of rich opportunity.

In Dodge county, they met at the rural post office on the Anton Bartosh farm, two miles from Dodge. In 1883 it was voted to erect a community hall. Anton Bartosh donated two and a half acres of ground, one half for a hall and the other half for a burial ground. The burial ground is known as the National Bohemian cemetery.

The chapel is a handsome brick structure 34 feet long by 22 feet wide of Gothic architecture. On the interior walls are pictures of George Washington, Abraham Lincoln, T. G. Masaryk, president of Czechoslovakia, and a large American flag. Near the chapel is a large tablet on which is inscribed in Bohemian words that mean: "Erected in Memory of the Czech Pioneers, 1930."

circus style—in the open and as a complete unit. As you perhaps know, our show is arranged especially to appeal to fair managers for presentation on race tracks in front of grandstands during fair week and therefore your placing your show there allows us to present our performances to the very best advantage for your audiences.

The Dutton circus is appearing at Yankton this week, and is attracting highly favorable comment on the calibre of entertainment provided. The show which is to be presented at Wayne as the free attraction at the celebration is not a second unit of the "big-time" Dutton show, but is the same troupe which has appeared in all the larger cities of the United States. The local committee's contract names each of the 15 headline acts and specified that all must appear at Wayne. The Dutton show's running time is approximately two hours.
