Rites for Mrs. R. P. Williams Held Tuesday

Pioneer Wayne Woman Dies Saturday Morning

Mrs. R. P. Williams, resident of Wayne for the past 31 years, passed away at 2:45 a. m. on Saturday, July 11, following a gradual decline of several years. She was bed-ridden for eight weeks preceding her death.

Funeral services were held at the Christian Science church Tuesday, July 14, at 2:00 o'clock. Interment was made in the Greenwood cemetery at Wayne.

Mrs. Adeline Marquess Williams was born in New Richmond, West Virginia, Sept. 10, 1843, and died July 11, 1931, at the age of 87 years. She was the youngest of a family of six children. Her mother died when she was ten years old. She moved with her father to Iowa, where she entered a private school in Richland from which she graduated at the age of twenty. Following her graduation, she taught school for five years in Iowa, Missouri, and Illinois.

Two years after the close of the Civil War, she was united in marriage with R. P. Williams of Maryville, Iowa, the wedding taking place on August 9, 1868, at Macon City, Mo. To this union were born six children, the eldest, Etta, dying in infancy.

With her husband she moved to a farm near Waterbury, Neb., in 1881. Later the family came to Wayne, which has since been her home.

Besides her husband, the deceased leaves five children. They are Mrs. Louise Delaney, of Allen, Neb.; Mrs. Julia Timmer, of New Rockford, N. D.; Richard Williams of Neligh, Neb.; Guy Williams of Wayne; and Mrs. Eathyl Lutz, also of Wayne.

Mrs. Williams was a devoted wife and mother, having her family interests uppermost, whether they were at home or abroad. She was a thoughtful neighbor and friend and a loyal follower of the teachings of Christian Science, her chosen religious path.

She was unusually well read, especially along political lines. She could converse intelligently on any subject and kept up well with the times.

Her memory at her advanced age was wonderful, as she recalled dates and events accurately. She will not be soon forgotten by her many friends.

District Court Finds For Liquor Defendant

Decision of the Wayne county court was reversed in the case of Ben Schroeder of Wisner, at a hearing of the case in district court before Judge Clinton Chase on Friday, July 10. The lower court had held Schroeder guilty of transportation of liquor, and had ordered his car sold as a liquor nuisance. The case had been heard in the county court on June 15.

On Schroeder's appeal of $100 fine and confiscation of his car, Judge Chase ordered the car surrendered to Schroeder and found him not guilty on the transportation charge.

The case had been the outgrowth of a raid on the Bruse dance pavilion at Hoskins by Sheriff A. W. Stephens and officer Wm. Stewart.

Judge Hints He Will Rule Against Bliss in Bank Receiver Fight

Latest development in the Bryan Bliss bank receivership war came yesterday when District Judge J. T. Begley indicated that he would permit the transfers of receiverships of the six failed banks in his district from Clarence Bliss, discharged head of the state bank receivership department to E. H. Lulkhart, newly appointed receiver.

Judge Begley reserved his final decision upon request of Bliss' attorneys, until C. M. Skiles, member of Bliss' legal staff, is able to file his brief on the case.

Fake Check Put Tramp in Cooler

Penmanship ability got a Knight of the Open Road into trouble Sunday evening, when he tried to cash a check for $7.50, bearing Fred Otte's signature, at the Dew Drop Inn. He said that he had worked for Mr. Otte and had received the check in payment for his labor.

Mr. Berg, on duty at the restaurant at the time, said that he would take the check and find out if it was good. When he left the restaurant to ascertain the authenticity of the voucher, the would-be "slicker" made a hurried exit.

Officer George Patterson was notified, and a search for the check passer was started. He was discovered near the Colonial pavilion and brought back to town, where he was given lodging in the city jail over night. Monday morning he was told to "get moving" and not to head this way again.

Hopper War Is Closer to Wayne Area

Insects Damage Crops in Several Nearby Counties.

Repetition of the grasshopper plague of 1874-75 and '76 seems to be a possibility, with parts of Nebraska and much of South Dakota in the clutches of a grasshopper invasion. An appropriation of $500,000 has been asked by the 'hopper-struck territory for use in fighting the damage. The Sioux City Tribune for Tuesday evening, July 14, printed a front-page editorial recommending the use of tactics known as "cotton dusting," used in fighting the boll weevil in the southern states, and asked that "dusting" experts be sent to Nebraska and South Dakota.

In the Rosebud territory of South Dakota, federal assistance has been asked to fight the grasshopper outbreak and to provide farmers with wood and coal during the winter. The worst infestation in that territory is said to cover an area 100 by 125 (continued on last page)

HERNDON-DECKER WEDDING TUESDAY

Marriage Ceremony Takes Place in Fremont Church.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles C. Herndon of Wayne have announced the marriage of their daughter, Constance, to Mr. Freeman B. Decker, son of Mr. F. B. Decker of Arlington, Neb., on Tuesday, July 14, at Fremont, Neb. Rev. Deines of the Methodist-Episcopal church officiated at the ceremony, which took place at eight o'clock in the evening.

Mrs. Wilbur Britton of Sioux City, sister of the bride, and Mr. Otis Decker of Arlington, brother of the groom, were the attendants.

A dinner at the Hotel Pathfinder followed the ceremony.

Mrs. Decker was graduated from the Iowa City high school and attended the State University of Nebraska and the University of Iowa, receiving her B. A. degree from the latter school in 1929. She was chosen one of the seven Hawkeye Queens at the University of Iowa in 1928 and was affiliated with Delta Delta Delta sorority. Since her graduation she has been teaching mathematics in the high school at Carroll, Neb.

Mr. Decker was graduated from the Arlington high school and received his B. A. degree from the Wayne State Teachers' college in 1930. During the past year he has been principal of the Carroll high school.

The couple's new home will be made in Carroll, where they will resume their teaching positions this fall.

Mr. and Mrs. Decker, after spending a few days in Omaha, will accompany Mrs. Decker's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Herndon, to Detroit Lakes, Minn., for a two weeks' trip.

Is Woman Held in County Jail John Harder's Wife?

Who is Mrs. Den Herder? Is she John Harder's wife?

And who is John Harder? Is he John Harder or Den Herder? Was he ever married to a woman now in the Wayne county jail on a worthless check passing charge?

These are some of the questions to which County Judge J. M. Cherry must ascertain the answers in the case of State vs. Mrs. J. Harder, real and other name unknown.

The woman, brought back to Wayne from Burke, S. D., to answer bad check charges by County Sheriff A. W. Stephens on Tuesday, July 14, said yesterday that she is the wife of a man known locally as John Harder, who lives in a small house opposite the Savidge carnival grounds. She said that Harder's name used to be Den Herder, and that he changed it.

The woman said that she was married to John Harder on July 7, 1906, at Mitchell, S. D., by a Justice of the Peace, and that she has her marriage certificate to prove it.

Harder at first denied any knowledge of the woman. When confronted with her in County Judge Cherry's office yesterday, he said that he remembered her and that she had done his washing when he ran a livery barn. He finally admitted that the woman had worked for him since he had come to Wayne, staying at his home, but he denied being married to her and denied being a father of her three children, aged 9, 21 and 24. He said that he had offered to marry her at Sioux City at one time, but they had never been wedded.

The woman said she had her marriage certificate at a daughter's in Newcastle. She maintains that she had come to live with her husband in May and that he had told her to write checks on his account. Judge Cherry is holding four checks, totalling $10, all dated May 16.

She is being held in the county jail until her marriage certificate and further evidence can be secured. The woman said she had worked at both local hotels.

TRUCK DRIVER HURT IN AUTO SMASH-UP

Lee Caauwe Suffers Cuts and Bruises in Wreck at Jackson.

Lee Caauwe of Wayne was back at work Friday of last week, after suffering cuts and bruises in an accident at Jackson Wednesday evening, July 8. Mr. Caauwe was cut and bruised about the head as the result of crashing into a culvert and a parked automobile with a gravel truck which he was driving.

He was taken to the office of Dr. R. F. Magrill of Jackson, where his wounds were treated. The doctor at first thought his injuries were of a serious nature.

Mr. Caauwe told the physician that he had been driving along the street in Jackson and apparently fell asleep at the wheel of the truck. Before he realized what had happened, his truck had hit the culvert and swerved across the street where it crashed into a parked car.

Wayne Man Passes Ninety-Fourth Birthday

Alexander "Sandy" Scott passed his ninety-fourth birthday last Thursday, July 9. In commemoration of the event, a group of his relatives came to his home here Sunday and prepared for him a fine birthday dinner which all enjoyed together. His guests at the dinner were Mr. and Mrs. George Fox and son, Jimmy, of near Wayne, Mr. Fox's mother, Mrs. Katherine Fox, of this city, and Mrs. W. A. Hunter and her granddaughter, Romaine Zimmerman, also of this city. Mr. Scott's daughter, Mrs. M. E. Shurbahn of McCook, had planned to come but could not do so. His daughter-in-law, Mrs. Rose Wright, and husband and son, Russell, of Sioux City also were unable to get away to come, but plan to come in a week or two to pay him a visit.

Mr. Scott is a Scotch Canadian, the fourth son in a family of 12 children of whom eight were boys and four were girls. He was born in Canada. His father came to Canada in 1820 when he was 19 years old and worked as assistant to a merchant for several years.

Alexander Scott came to Wayne county in 1870 and took a homestead, he being a member of one of the 13 families who settled in the county that year. In about 1882, he traded his farm for a hotel in Wayne which he operated several years. He has made his home here since. His wife passed away about five years ago.

Local Lady Going To Estes Park

Mrs. A. McEachen went to Lincoln Tuesday morning to visit her son and wife, Mr. and Mrs. James A. McEachen, and family with whom she is leaving for a three weeks' outing to Estes Park, Colorado.

Agents Could Be Kept from Wayne

With reports from fraudulent agents and fake solicitors for funds current in this territory, many Wayne people are expressing the opinion that the door-to-door workers should be barred from the town.

When The Democrat asked City Attorney James E. Brittain whether or not the city would have power to pass and enforce an ordinance which would keep itinerant vendors and charity solicitors out of the city, Mr. Brittain replied that the city has such power except in cases where orders are taken and the goods delivered later from outside the state. Such transactions would come under the interstate commerce commission and would be governed by federal law. In most cases, however, the city council would have the power to restrict peddlers and beggars. If enough people express their desire for enforcement of an anti-peddler ordinance, the city council will undoubtedly be glad to see that something is done about it.

WORK ON CORYELL BUILDING TO START

Automobile Firm's Home to Be Completed in Sixty Days.

Work on the new Coryell Auto company building, to be located at 112-114 East Second street, will start in about a week and will be completed in about two months, according to W. C. Coryell, owner of the firm.

Gus Johnson of Wakefield, contractor in charge of building operations, has agreed to use Wayne labor in construction of the new Coryell headquarters. Insofar as possible, materials used in the building will be purchased in Wayne.

The building will have a 60 foot frontage and will be 150 feet deep, with showrooms and offices in the front, next to the alley. There will be a front entrance to the service department and a side exit to the alley. Latest approved construction for automobile repair shops will be used, so that the building can accommodate the latest repair features.

Steel, brick and tile will be used in the structure, and the show-room will be attractively decorated, with special lighting equipment.

Mr. Coryell says that his confidence in the future prosperity of Wayne brought his decision to secure new headquarters.

DECISION TO CLOSE HOSKINS PAVILION

District Court Judge Finds Against Dance Hall Proprietor.

There'll be no hot-cha or rumba at Hoskins—if the supreme court upholds the decision of District Court Judge Clinton Chase handed down Friday, July 10, after hearing of evidence at the Wayne county court house in the case of the State vs. John Bruse, proprietor of the Hoskins dance pavilion. Judge Chase's decision by which the dance hall would be closed for one year was made upon complaint of Sheriff A. W. Stephens. County Attorney H. D. Addison represented the state in the trial, and Attorney Hugh Boyle of Norfolk represented the defendant.

By the Judge's decision, the defendant, John Bruse, is permanently enjoined from operating a public dance hall either by himself, his agents, employees or lessees, except with local limitations of party dances or club dances, for a period of one year. The defendant excepted, and super-seedeas bond was set at $200.

The case arose from attempts of Sheriff Stephens to put the quietus on allegedly "rowdy" dances. The sheriff charged that the Hoskins pavilion was a nuisance and should be closed. Attorney Boyle, for the defendant, tried to get local authorities to postpone pressing of charges until after the new dance-licensing law goes into effect on July 15.

Mrs. James G. Miller Passes Away Tuesday

Last Rites to Be Held at Home Tomorrow Morning.

Mrs. James G. Miller, 52, for years one of Wayne's finest musicians, passed away at 10:30 o'clock Tuesday night in an Omaha hospital from complications following an operation on Tuesday, July 7. She had been getting along well until Sunday, July 12, when she suffered a relapse.

Funeral services for the deceased will be held at the home tomorrow morning at 10:30 o'clock. The services will be in charge of Rev. P. A. Davies, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, of which Mrs. Miller was a member. Interment will be in the Wayne cemetery.

Lorena Maude Brittain was born in LaPorte on Sept. 8, 1878, to Mr. and Mrs. James E. Brittain.

She was a graduate of the Wayne public schools, the Nebraska Normal college at Wayne, and a graduate of the music department of Augustana college at Rock Island, Ill. She was a music people of E. M. C. Baerman, and had one of the most complete musical libraries in this part of the county. She was organist at the local Presbyterian church for many years, but relinquished her position there several years ago because of failing health.

On June 16, 1902, she was united in marriage to James G. Miller. To this union a son, Donald F. Miller, was born.

Mrs. Miller had lived in LaPorte and Wayne all her life, coming to Wayne with her parents when the town first started.

She was prominent in the musical, social and civic activities of the community, and was an active member of the Eastern Star lodge, the P. E. O. society and the U. D. club. She was always an ardent worker for the best interests of Wayne, and will be greatly missed by her many friends.

She is survived by her husband, her son, her mother, Mary L. Brittain, two sisters, Mrs. A. W. Stewart of Minneapolis, Minn., and Faye Brittain of Omaha, a brother, James E. Brittain of Wayne, and many more distant relatives and a host of friends.

The Inquiring Reporter

This Week's Question
What do you think of this year's crop prospects in Wayne county?
L. C. Gildersleeve: "Corn prospects are good. Small grain is just fair. The hay crop is fair, and the potato crop is poor."
Carl Wright: "Mr. Gildersleeve expresses my judgment exactly. There's some complaint about the small grain, but it's not so bad."
Peter F. Nelson: "The corn is looking good at the present time. I don't think the small grain crop will be half bad, either. It looks good in our territory."
Martin L. Ringer: "Corn prospects are great. The corn has a good color and a good stand. I believe it will be one of the best crops in years. The small grain crops look about average."
Ralph Beckenhauer: "They're as good as I've ever seen them for this time of year. There's no better corn in the state than right here, and it's farther along than usual."

Golden Text: John 5:26.

The subject of the Lesson-Sermon

read at all Christian Science churches and societies on Sunday, July 12, was "Sacrament." The citations read are intended to show that Jesus' use of bread and wine at the last supper, when considered consistently with all his other works and deeds, was a concession made for that occasion to indicate and emphasize the necessity for his followers here to live or partake of the life of Christ, thus experiencing the baptism of divine Spirit, for which true spiritual purgation there can be no symbolical substitution. One of the citations read from

"Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy (p. 4), reads in part: "To keep the commandments of our Master and follow his example, is our proper debt to him and the only worthy evidence of our gratitude for all that he has done." A part of one Biblical selection is as follows:

"If ye be reproached for the name of Christ, happy are ye; for the spirit of glory and of God resteth upon you: on their part he is evil spoken of, but on your part he is glorified." (1 Peter 4:14)

Life of a Sponge

Sponges live their own lives and eat their own food as other animals do. The separate existence of a sponge begins when a tiny particle, after being whirled about for a time by ocean tides and currents, eventually attaches itself to a piece of rock, and from that home it seeks its own livelihood. The food of infant sponges consists of yolk cells, which contain a form of nourishment. Later, as the sponge grows, it requires something more solid, and this is brought in by the currents.

"Great Britain"

Britannia Major, meaning Great Britain, was the name formerly given to the whole island to distinguish it from Britannia Minor, which was the name given to Brittany. James I used the title king of Great Britain, but without the sanction of parliament. It was not officially adopted until after the union of England with Scotland in 1707. After the union with Ireland in 1800 the country became known as the Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland.

Don't Rasp Your Throat With Harsh Irritants

"Reach for a LUCKY instead"

LUCKIES are always kind to your throat

Everyone has an Adam's Apple—Every man—every woman has one. Touch your Adam's Apple with your finger. You are actually touching your larynx—this is your voice box—it contains your vocal chords. When you consider your Adam's Apple, you are considering your throat—your vocal chords.

"TOASTING" expels certain harsh irritants present in all raw tobaccos. These expelled irritants are not present in your LUCKY STRIKE—the modern cigarette. We sell these expelled irritants to manufacturers of chemical compounds. Everyone knows that sunshine mellows—that's why the "TOASTING" Process includes the use of Ultra Violet Rays. LUCKY STRIKE—made of the finest tobaccos—the Cream of the Crop—THEN—"IT'S TOASTED"—an extra, secret and exclusive heating process. It is this process that expels these harsh irritants. No wonder 20,679 American physicians have stated LUCKIES to be less irritating. No wonder LUCKIES are always kind to your throat. And so we say "Consider your Adam's Apple." Be careful in your choice of cigarettes.

WORLD DISARMAMENT

With the advent of President Hoover's war debt moratorium, much discussion concerning the possibility of world disarmament has arisen. Many are of the opinion that the United States can force disarmament by agreeing to cancel war debts if the debtor nations will disarm.

It seems, however, that certain of the debtor nations do not want to disarm. Not all countries are imbued with the anti-war spirit that has grown so strongly in America.

Today, as President Hoover pointed out in his speech to the International chamber of commerce, annual expenditures for past and possible future wars are nearly five billion dollars a year or 70 percent more than in 1913.

As long as nations pile up the instruments of war, the temptation to use them is strong. War is fed by competition in arms and nations go blindly on, increasing armaments and increasing the danger of war.

The younger generation today does not see any glory in war. International conflict is looked upon by the youth of America as a bad mess that should be avoided.

Young America is not a slacker—but he doesn't want to fight and he sees no reason why he should have to fight. College military training is looked on with apathy and where it is not compulsory the military department has a struggle to get enough boys out to keep the R. O. T. C. going.

The old story that war was a social blessing, in that it reduced world population, has been exploded. War has reduced population, but it has taken the finest physical stock. The infirm and the idiots have remained at home while the men whose descendants would make a virile nation have gone to the slaughter.

Armaments are eating up our taxes and preventing the return of prosperity. They are an incentive to war. Let us hope that the war debt moratorium will eventually lead to disarmament of nations.

TOO MUCH TALK

Charles M. Schwab, chairman of the board of the Bethlehem Steel corporation, told a Detroit audience that there was "too much talk already about hard times when good times are coming."

History repeats itself. No one is better aware of this than the rugged pioneer farmer who has lived through other times like the present.

No business in any town should allow a newspaper published in his town to go without his name and business being mentioned somewhere in its columns.

You can't advertise today and quit tomorrow. You're not talking to a mass meeting. You're talking to a parade.

Mr. Schwab may have the wrong view of this thing. The Journal believes he has. The fact is that the country is in an economic difficulty that is most distressing, discouraging and disappointing.

question. We all know there are millions of able, willing men and women out of jobs, a vast multitude without visible means of support.

A situation that involves the happiness, comfort and security of good American citizens is one that cannot and must not be ignored. It ought to be talked about. It ought to be discussed every day. It ought to be studied and analyzed and understood.

Mr. Schwab long has been considered an upstanding, representative American business man. Of course he would be glad if good times were here. But they are not, and that is what ought to be admitted instead of ignored.

History repeats itself. This editorial will be appreciated most by those who lived in Nebraska during the late eighties and nineties.

We saw a long string of white covered wagons pass westward through the state in the late eighties. Many had gone before and we saw large numbers of them return eastward in the early nineties.

In '94 we lost our corn crop with the single breath of a torrid wind on a summer day. In '95 wheat was so low in price that we fed it to the hogs.

The point is that between the two extremes farmers made and kept more money than they ever did in any other like period in the history of this state.

History repeats itself. No one is better aware of this than the rugged pioneer farmer who has lived through other times like the present.

MARKETS AND TARIFFS

Walter Lippman says that the one most certain fact in our economic existence is that the margin between prosperity and depression is in the area of our foreign trade.

Right now any reduction in tariffs would be slow to affect foreign demands. Foreign nations lack the capacity to buy and that affects foreign markets.

Blanketing fields under a green covering of seething bodies, the grasshopper pest is becoming more intense in Cedar county.

Conferences and appeals to state officials have revealed that there is little chance for immediate financial aid from this source.

As a last resort, farmers are practically forced to help themselves; each one must look to his own pocket-book in providing for this emergency.

At the same time, those that do use poison will only find themselves in the midst of a never-ending battle, for the insects will keep steadily moving upon them from the fields of these unable to buy the poison.

"SCOTTY"

AS A RADIO ANNOUNCER MIGHT RUN THIS COLUMN

Good afternoon, everybody, we're in the Democrat office now, all ready to start dishing out a few snappy jokes, through the courtesy of the Zilch school of cosmetology.

Well, here we'll be, ready to listen to some amusing quips. But before I start dishing the dirt, let me tell you that the experienced cosmetologists laugh all the time, without listening in to radio programs.

Now, we get down to the jokes, prepared by the publicity department of the Zilch School of Cosmetology.

And here we are, with the first Zilch joke of the afternoon: It seems that two men met on the street yesterday afternoon and the first said to the second, "Who was that lady I seen you with last night?"

If the man's wife had taken the Zilch School of Cosmetology course, such embarrassment would have been saved her husband.

Purely personal: One of my old collich chums got married the other day, and married to the girl he was dating five years ago.

By the way, Cyril, if you're saving gum coupons to turn in for furniture, I'll be glad to send you some that you mailed to me some time ago.

AFTER THE MORATORIUM

The few days that have followed the moratorium agreement are pregnant with meaning.

How to Become an Expert Bridge Player. 1. Pick up your cards as dealt. You will be ready to bid ahead of the others.

2. When you have a poor hand, signal immediately by saying, "Who the hell dealt this mess?"

3. If you get a poor partner, keep score yourself; you've got to have some advantage.

4. Lead from your own hand or dummy, as convenient.

5. Never hurry. Try several cards on a trick until you are sure which one you prefer.

6. Occasionally ask what is trump. It will show you are interested in the game.

7. Trump your partner's ace—and cinch the trick.

8. Walk around the table when you are dummy and look at the other hands. Tell them what cards are good and show many tricks they can take if they play right.

9. Always ask your partner why he didn't return your lead; this will remind him to lead it next time.

10. Don't try to remember the rules. It is too confusing.

Defective chimneys are one of the most frequent causes of fires in dwellings. All chimneys should be built with sound, thick walls and preferably lined with fire-clay flue lining.

Woodwork should not be built in or in direct contact with chimney masonry. Chimneys disintegrate most quickly at the top, owing to the action of the weather and hot gases.

Wide cracks may form or mortar joints open up through which sparks can pass. Sparks are particularly dangerous if the cracks are below the roof. Cracks and loose joints should be filled with mortar.

If the chimney is badly cracked or the bricks are eaten away, tear down the brickwork to solid construction and rebuild it with hard-burned brick laid in cement mortar.

Cracks may be located in a chimney by building a smudge fire in the furnace or fire place and covering the chimney with a board or wet sack so as to cause the smoke to filter through defects in the brick work.

Miss Laura Thompson Visits Friends Here

Miss Laura Thompson of Omaha, until recently of Africa, came Saturday evening to visit friends here a few days, being house guest while here in the E. B. Young home. She spent Sunday at Concord, returning Sunday evening and remaining here until yesterday when she left for Emerson enroute home.

Miss Thompson spoke to a large group who came to hear her at the Young home Saturday and Sunday evenings, at each meeting giving a clear exposition of Bible portions and telling something of her work in Africa.

Miss Thompson loves Africa and the Africans and plans to return to that land. She says that the people there look up to the white people and greatly desire to please them. Miss Thompson was stationed during her stay here at the Mission station in Tanganyika Territory, East Africa, formerly a German possession. Had she remained until September of this year, she would have completed six years of service there.

Her first task upon arrival there was to learn the native language. After a few weeks of study she was given the task of helping teach in the Mission school, though as yet she had not mastered the language. She found she had to practice on her pupils so far as language was concerned, and discovered too that her pupils learned to understand her sooner than she could learn to understand them. The following year, she was left in full charge of the school. However, during the past year or more, she was released from her duties at the school enough to visit the surrounding villages and carry the gospel of Christ to the natives.

These trips to the natives in the nearby villages were made by bicycle. Miss Thompson usually took with her on these trips, a tent, a food box, and sometimes a folding organ, and a native African whom she could use as an interpreter if necessary and who could pitch her tent for her, make her stove which consisted of three stones placed around a hole in which the fire was made over which the food was cooked, an do other services as needed. However, the African women would be highly displeased if they were not permitted to cook at least part of Miss Thompson's meals for her, so quite often she allowed them this pleasure. She has learned to like their food.

Unanimous in their enjoyment of music, the African natives greatly enjoy song services. Especially do they like the organ, for it, they say, has all the voices, those of men, of women, and of children. They are quick to learn and soon learn to sing the songs taught by the white folks. Upon coming into a village, Miss Thompson gathers the natives for a singing during which she also tells the story of the Gospel. Though her work was most of the time that of teaching in the station school, she liked this village work the best.

The people in the villages do their farm work with hoes. The natives go out to their fields in large groups to hoe together.

Each village is surrounded with a high hedge that serves as a protective wall. This is a sort of plant without leaves, but instead, full of twigs that branch out in such a manner as to interwine with other twigs so that the bush becomes well high impenetrable. These bushes may be trimmed low, or if allowed to grow, will grow taller than a person. The native huts are made of mud and straw. Some of the huts are made with an inner compartment in the center. In this center compartment, which is partitioned off from the outer circle of the hut, the goats are kept, as they must be especially protected from prowling animals such as hyenas. The people live in the outer circle of the hut, both the inner and the outer parts of the hut being under the same roof.

From the high cliff at the station, one can see the hedges in every direction. Some of them have perhaps 30 people in them, or 40, or perhaps a hundred.

The mission work at the station is done on the principle of expansion, branch stations being established at various distances from the main station as the number of workers will permit. More workers are needed there. Considerable medical work is also done for the natives at the station. The one big obstacle in Africa, as in America and other countries, is indifference.

FIRE DAMAGE IS SMALL

Dry Weather Injures Small Grain and Hay

All small grain and hay crops were injured by dry weather and high temperatures, according to the July crop report of the State and Federal Division of Agricultural Statistics. Corn is promising throughout the state. Some upward revisions in acreage to conform with the federal census were made by the crop reporting board at Washington.

Heavy yields of winter wheat in the eastern two-thirds of the state offset to a considerable extent the poor yields in western Nebraska. Eastern Nebraska wheat yields rank among the best, and little of the grain shrunk from the rapid ripening caused by the heat wave. Prospects for wheat in western Nebraska have been poor for the past two months and the yield are very low.

The revised estimate of winter wheat acreage is 3,265,000 acres for harvest and production of 55,505,000 bushels. Last year's acreage was revised to 3,710,000 acres and the production to 71,974,000 bushels.

Oats were injured badly throughout the state. The heat wave struck the oats at the time they were filling. In some places the earliest oats are fair and some of the latest oats may make fair yields. The acreage is estimated at 2,418,000 acres and the production of 63,868,000 bushels.

Barley was injured badly by the heat wave. The area for harvest is 899,000 acres and the production 18,879,000 bushels. The revised estimate for last year is 782,000 acres and the production 24,086,000 bushels.

There was a heavy increase in potatoes in western Nebraska this year. The preliminary estimate is 125,000 acres and 10,000,000 bushels. The revised estimate for last year is 99,000 acres and 9,900,000 bushels. The crop was injured by the heat wave in eastern and southern Nebraska. Prospects are still good in the commercial potato counties in western Nebraska but more moisture is needed.

The hay crop will be very light this year. First and second crops of alfalfa are unusually light. Wild hay was frozen down by the late freeze in the sandhills and dry weather until July has made marked reductions in the yields. There is a large supply of old hay left over which may come in handy. The estimate for tame hay is 3,002,000 tons.

A paving project to connect North Platte with Cozad is under way.

United States Close to War With Spain in 1873

The "Virginius affair" in 1873 almost caused war between the United States and Spain. The Virginius, ship of American registry as the property of an American citizen, was captured by a Spanish war vessel on the high seas and taken to Santiago. Cuba was then engaged in the ten years' war against Spain and the Spanish officials contended that the Virginius was about to land arms and men for the rebels. Spain was at that time a republic under President Castelar, and while the President was having an investigation made, pending his reply to the demand of this country that the Virginius be released, Spanish authorities in Cuba took matters into their own hands. On November 7, 1873, Capt. Joseph Fry of the Virginius and 36 members of his crew were shot, and the following day 12 of the passengers were similarly executed. Numerous indignation meetings were held in the United States, with loud demands for war if Spain did not make amends. It developed, however, that the Virginius really had no right to fly the American flag at the time of her capture. The vessel was turned over to the United States navy on December 16 and the surviving passengers and crew released. Spain was not required to salute the American flag and the incident was closed.

Eggleston's Fine Story First Printed Serially

In a copy of the first edition of "The Hoosier Schoolmaster" given to Hamlin Garland, the author inscribed these lines: "This story was published in Hearth and Home in October, November and December of 1871, and in book form December 15. It sold about 10,000 copies the first six months and about 10,000 in each of the two following half years. It was pirated and sold in England in an edition of 10,000 copies, and has since been reprinted there with no profit to the author. Madame Blanc rendered it into French for the Revue des Deux Mondes. It was published in book covers in French, German and Danish and perhaps other tongues. This copy has all the original crudities, exuberances and violations of artistic canons that have helped to give the book a sale of more than a hundred thousand in the United States. These facts are set down here for my good friend, Mr. Hamlin Garland, with the sincere regards of Edward Eggleston."

Few Without Some Sort of Covering for Body

Practically every primitive tribe dwelling in the tropics that has been studied by scientific observers has been found to wear some form of bodily covering of the loin region, either in the form of paints of various colors, tattoo marks, strands of beads of various materials, beaten bast or bark cloth, or of woven girdles or aprons of cotton or other vegetable or animal fibers. The inhabitants of the Nicobar Islands and of Central East Africa are apparently of all tribes the most free from loin coverings of all sorts. Reasons given for the wearing of loin coverings vary. Native modesty is usually present in some form, even apart from any influence that may be attributed to the whites. Tribal and ceremonial painting or tattooing is often a causative factor, and may supplement a woven girdle worn for entirely different purposes, namely, for the insertion of the hilt of a knife and as a place of attachment for burdens. Most primitive peoples are burden carriers. Protection against insect pests is often attempted through the agency of breech cloths. Tradition and native styles usually dictate the use of certain forms of loin covering, even to the minutest detail.

Alaska's Official Flag Designed by Schoolboy

A contest was held by the American Legion, Department of Alaska, in the public, private and native schools in the territory for the purpose of selecting an official flag for Alaska. A law passed by the legislature of the Department of Alaska on May 2, 1927, provided that the design of the official flag (the winning design) is eight gold stars in a field of blue, so selected for its simplicity, its originality and its symbolism. The blue, one of our national colors, typifies the evening sky, the blue of the sea and of mountain lakes and of wild flowers that grow in Alaskan soil, the gold being significant of the wealth that lies hidden in Alaska's hills and streams. And the law also provides that the governor shall cause the original design to be engraved properly and placed in the Alaska Historical museum, and that due credit be given to Benny Benson, aged thirteen years, a student in the seventh grade of the Mission Territorial school, near Seward, Alaska, the designer of the flag, herein described, and adopted as the official flag of Alaska.

Virgin Islands.
On March 31, 1917, the United States took possession of the former Danish West Indies, renamed the Virgin Islands of the United States. The ratifications of the treaty of sale took place on January 17, 1917, confirming the purchase by the United States of these islands from Denmark for $25,000,000. The first permanent settlement in the Virgin Islands was effected on the island of St. Thomas on May 25, 1672, by an expedition of the Danish West Indies company under Gov. Jorgen Iverson. From that time the islands were continuously owned by Denmark until their sale to the United States, with the exception of brief occupations by British warships.

Silent 30 Years

Samuel Frommer, a business man known as "the silent man," has died at the house of the "miracle rabbi" in Czortkow, Spain. Frommer had not spoken a single word in 30 years, but lived a most retired life and spent much of his time in prayer. He had confessed to a priest that he had hastily told his wife that he wished she was burnt to death, and shortly after that she met death in a blaze in a fire at his home. He made a vow to the priest that he would keep silence and spend his time in prayer.

Famous Gothenburg

Gothenburg, second largest city in Sweden, owes its eminent position to its illustrious founder, Gustavus Adolphus, who was one of history's most famous generals. In addition he wrote excellent prose and his "Speeches" hold an important place in the literature of the Seventeenth century. To visit Gothenburg without seeing its gardens is unthinkable. Students of medieval history, folklore and geology revel in Gothenburg as a storehouse of legend and history.

Millets Excellent Crop to Use for Green Feed

Millets may be planted for green feed. If land is in a good state of fertility, good yields of barnyard millet may be secured on lighter lands and for seeding, use one of the fextall millets, preferably the Hungarian. Millets are shallow rooted, therefore the seedbed should be well prepared. Complaints are often made that millet is an exhaustive crop. The millets cut for green feed remove practically the same amount of nitrogen and sulphuric acid, and from one-third to a half more potash, per 100 pounds than a crop of corn for green fodder.

Simplifying Picnics

PICNICS that are picnics — to prepare as well as to enjoy — are in sight this summer with the advent of prepared canned sandwich spreads which will not only prove a contribution to picnic provender, but will give their planners more hours in which to enjoy them, since the labor of preparation is reduced to a minimum.

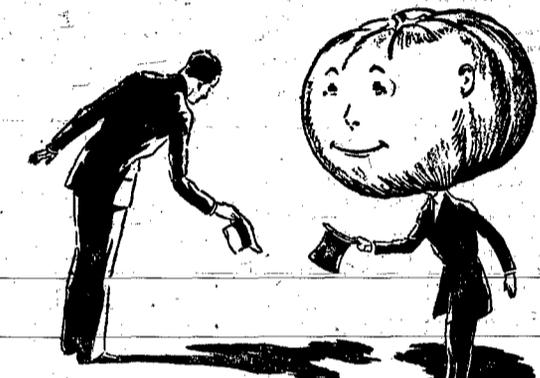

Variety of Spreads

There should be a variety of sandwiches at all picnics in order to appeal to the tastes of everyone, and these sandwich spreads were planned with that provision in mind. They include a ham, a tongue, a liver and a mixed meat spread which cover a wide range of tastes. The liver spread, for instance, suggests pâté de foie gras in its succulence, and every one of them is delicious and delicately prepared.

The making of sandwiches with these spreads is simplicity itself. Just slice your bread, open the cans, and smear them on, thick for the youngsters, and with a little more restraint for the older members of the party. They can be varied, if you like, with a little mayonnaise and chopped sweet pickle, but you will find that they are most acceptable just as they come from the can.

The cans in which these new spreads are put up contain three and a half ounces each, so that, with a little practice you can forecast just how many you will need. And think of the time saved which you can put in enjoying yourself now that picnics have been simplified.

Ever Meet A Pumpkin?

YOU may still occasionally meet a whole pumpkin in really rural districts, according to Dr. William A. Taylor, Chief of the U. S. Bureau of Plant Industry, but they are rapidly disappearing from the fresh vegetable markets, only to make their reappearance on grocers' shelves in cans.

There are several good reasons for this. The size of a whole pumpkin makes its use impractical for any one who has not a large family or is not going to enter a pie eating contest. Few housewives plan nowadays to make six pies at once. And then canned pumpkin is delicious and saves a whole lot of labor and time in the kitchen. Everyone knows how to make an ordinary pie with canned pumpkin, but here is an elaborate one which fairly

Makes Your Mouth Water

Pumpkin Pie with Honey Pecan Garnish: Add one-half teaspoon salt, three-fourths teaspoon ginger and one-half teaspoon cinnamon to two-thirds cup sugar. Add to one and one-eighth cups canned pumpkin. Add two slightly beaten eggs and one cup milk. Pour into pie tin lined with pastry and bake, having oven hot at first (450° for 15 minutes), then lower (325° for 30 minutes), or until set. Serve with unsweetened whipped cream dropped by spoonfuls over the top. Pour honey in little drops over the cream, and sprinkle the whole with pecan meats.*

News For Brides

IT has long since been proved that canned foods retain their vitamins, since these are destroyed only by heating in the presence of oxygen, and canned foods are all packed in hermetically sealed cans. But it has remained for Dr. Walter H. Eddy of Teachers College at Columbia University to specify a list of them on which present-day brides can rely to contain adequate amounts of vitamins A, B, C and G for health needs in her honeymoon "canned menu."

Here are the foods upon which Dr. Eddy stated in a recent address before the American Chemical Society that brides can rely. Canned meats: every day.

Choice of ten meats: Roast beef, corned beef, tongue, potted meat, chicken, lamb, ham, corned beef hash, sausage, veal loaf and chicken a la King.

Choice of seventeen vegetables: Spinach, peas, string beans, tomatoes, tomato juice, wax beans, baked beans, beets, corn, lima beans, sweet potatoes, hominy, carrots, okra, turnip greens, Brussels sprouts and mixed vegetables.

Choice of six fruits: Prunes, peaches, apricots, cherries, pineapples, apple sauce.

Canned brown bread and spaghetti.

Dessert: Canned plum pudding.

Based on Scientific Tests

The tests upon which these specific recommendations were made were based on rats. The rat experiments lasted for a year, which, Dr. Eddy said, was equivalent to about twenty-five years of human life. All the animals were used better in weight than those fed on a stock diet, he said.

GRASSHOPPER WAR MOVES CLOSER TO WAYNE AREA

With the 'hoppers doing serious damage in the vicinities of Hartington, Randolph and Bloomfield, word has been received of damage near Newman Grove, in Madison county.

Myriads of the insects are said to have advanced into an oats field from an adjacent pasture on a farm near Newman Grove. The 'hoppers are said to have begun eating the heads from the oats as it stands in the shocks. Other farmers in the neighborhood are reporting slight damage from the insects; and it is believed that the 'hoppers are getting ready for a concerted offensive.

Perhaps the "tallest" story told about the grasshopper infestation comes from Lincoln, where L. M. Gates, entomologist in the state department of agriculture, tells of grasshoppers with ravenous appetites in Dawson county.

A farmer in Dawson county, says Mr. Gates, left his cultivator in the field overnight, returned the next morning and found the tongue damaged beyond use by the 'hoppers.

Wayne county farmers have not yet made any complaints of grasshopper damage.

In "From Then to Now—A Story of Wayne," Attorney James E. Brittain tells of the grasshopper invasion in '74. He says, in part, "All witnesses say that their (the grasshoppers) first appearance resembled a light cloud. They would settle upon a cornfield or garden and demolish it in a short time. Some stories have it that they came in such clouds as to obscure the sun, and settled upon the Union Pacific tracks in such numbers as to stop the trains, but these stories are probably exaggerations. At any rate, in 1874 they destroyed the corn crop and a large part of the small grain. The calamity was general over the state and the next year the state furnished seed corn for the settlers. The plague was probably not so severe the next two years, but they were present in sufficient numbers to destroy gardens, and much of the corn and small grain."
