Wm. Woehler Dies Sunday Of Apoplexy

Services to Be Held This Afternoon at Lutheran Church in Pilger.

Last rites for William Woehler, respected Wayne county farmer, will be held this afternoon, Aug. 27, at the Lutheran church at Pilger with Rev. Jensen in charge. Interment will be in the Pilger cemetery. Mr. Woehler succumbed to apoplexy Sunday, Aug. 22, at his home. Had he lived, he would have been 57 years old today.

William Woehler was born on Aug. 27, 1874, in Cuming county. His parents were Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Woehler.

He was married on Oct. 29, 1900, and six children were born to this union. The children, Ernest, Lela, Martin, Bertha, Henry and Viola, all live on the home place.

Besides his loving wife, Mrs. Viola Woehler, and his children, he is survived by four brothers: Carl of Pilger, Frank and Fred of Wayne, and Herman, who lives in South Dakota. Two sisters preceded him in death.

While Mr. Woehler was born in Cuming county, he had lived in Wayne county nearly all his life. He was known to his friends as an industrious, successful farmer, and was admired by all his neighbors. He had built up extensive farm holdings, and took an intense interest in the civic welfare of the farming community in which he lived. At the time of his death, he had been school moderator in his district for seven years.

He was a member of the Lutheran church, and belonged to the sons of Herman lodge.

Local Swimmers Take Swimming Examination

Miss Marie Denlinger, Wilbur Porterfield, Charles Berry, Miss Katherine Berry, James Morris, Robert Theobald, Leland Laase and Miss Alice Berry drove to Blair the latter part of the week to take swimming lessons and tests. Charles and Miss Alice Berry passed the final test and are now authorized to examine swimming students for both Junior and Senior life saving.

Miss Katherine Berry passed the Junior Life Saving test.

James Morris and Robert Theobald began their tests and will complete them later under the supervision of Miss Berry and Charles Berry.

Walter Hausknight of St. Louis, Mo., who is sent out as representative of the Red Cross in the northwestern states, and Stewart Fowler of Blair had charge of the swimming lessons and examinations conducted at Blair the past week.

Wayne Band to Play at Sioux City Sunday

Wayne's municipal band will be the feature musical attraction Sunday at Riverview Park in Sioux City. Sunday has been designated by the park management as "Nebraska Day."

The local band's concert, given under the direction of Prof. F. C. Reed, will start at three o'clock. Many Wayne people are planning to accompany members of the band to Sioux City.

The local musical organization has been engaged as the "Nebraska Day" feature of the Sioux City park for several years. The park management thought that the Wayne band wanted too much money for a concert this year, but finally agreed to pay the local group's price because of the band's recognized drawing power.

Winside Girl Scouts to Get New Uniforms

The Winside Girl Scout troop, under the supervision of Mrs. Frank Wilson, will have the honor of being the only completely uniformed Girl Scout troop in Wayne county, as a result of initiative displayed by the girls at the Winside Old Settlers' picnic on Thursday, Aug. 20.

The girls, with Mrs. Wilson's help and advice, ran a refreshment stand and made enough profit to buy complete outfits for every member.

Liquor Made Him Forget His Name

"Do you want a story about a Wayne man being caught in a liquor resort raid by Federal agents?" a Sioux City reporter queried The Democrat editor several nights ago.

"What's his name?" The Democrat editor countered.

"He gave a fictitious name, but he has letters and identification with a Wayne name and address," the Sioux City reporter replied. "The judge fined him a five-spot and costs and turned him loose without questioning his nom de plume."

"Then wouldn't it be dangerous to use the Wayne man's right name in a liquor resort story?" The Democrat editor asked.

"Yeah, maybe it would," the Sioux City reporter answered. "Tell the rest of your Wayne boys to keep their noses dry when they come over here. These federal men are making the liquor joints bad places to hang around."

City Schools Classes Start on Labor Day

Registration to Be Held on Friday and Saturday, Sept. 4 and 5.

"School days, school days, Dear old Golden Rule days. Reading and writing and arithmetic—"

But they aren't taught to the tune of a hickory stick in Wayne's public school system where the most modern methods are used. Registration will take place on Friday and Saturday, Sept. 4 and 5, and classes are scheduled to start on Monday, Sept. 7.

Superintendent of Schools H. R. Best cautions prospective students to take care of their registration on Friday and Saturday, and says that all rural pupils must have tuition cards signed by the county superintendents.

Mr. Best asks that any Wayne families desirous of having a student work for her room and board get in touch with his office. All people having rooms for rent for teachers are asked to call the superintendent's office, so that the new teachers may be given a complete list of rooming.

WILL MORRIS ACT TO SHOW AT FAIR

Bicycle Comedian Keeps His Audiences in Good Humor.

One of the grandstand features which should meet with the hearty approval of visitors to the Wayne County Fair, to be held Wednesday, Thursday, Friday and Saturday, Sept. 16, 17, 18 and 19, is the appearance of Will Morris, international comedian.

If there is a bicycle act in the country that creates more laughter than that of Will Morris, it has not appeared on the theatrical horizon in late years. Morris' comedy was so sure-fire that the larger vaudeville circuits signed him up year after year to keep him away from any other form of entertainment. Only after he had played the same strings of theatres for the third and fourth consecutive seasons were they willing to let him seek other fields.

His first appearance before a grandstand audience at a fair was a "howling success," for the people at those shows gave vent to their feelings with howls of laughter.

Some of his stunts put his contemporaries in the shade, the one where he jumps a distance of ten feet from a table to the seat of his bicycle having never been accomplished by any other performer.

Morris returned this summer from his third winter tour in Europe, where theatre managers featured him heavily, putting his name on the program in large type and in big letters in front of their variety houses.

CHICKEN THIEVES GET THIRTY DAYS

Dick LaCroix and Lavern Frink Plead Guilty to Poultry Theft.

Speedy justice was meted out Monday morning in County Judge J. M. Cherry's court, when Lavern Frink and Dick LaCroix, farmers living between Randolph and Sholes, were sentenced to 30 days in the county jail and payment of court costs on charges of chicken stealing.

Frink was brought into court at 10 a. m., pleaded guilty, and was sentenced to a month in the county bastille and half the court costs.

LaCroix came into court at 10:15 a. m. and entered a plea of not guilty. He was allowed to change his plea to guilty and was given the same sentence as that levied against Frink.

Complaint was filed by W. J. May, farmer living southwest of Sholes. May charged that the men stole 12 of his chickens, valued at approximately $9.00, on the night of Saturday, Aug. 22.

Warrants were drawn on Sunday, Aug. 23, and Sheriff A. W. Stephens brought the chicken thieves to Wayne the same day. One of the men was lodged in the city jail and the other in the county jail, so that they would have no opportunity to discuss the case.

ANTHRAX FOUND ON WAYNE COUNTY FARM

Stock Purchased in Drouth Areas Should Be Vaccinated.

Anthrax infested cattle have been found in Wayne county.

The outbreak came to the attention of the state department of agriculture late Friday following the sudden death of three head of cattle on a farm near Wakefield in Wayne county. Dr. C. E. Parrish, state field veterinarian, was assigned to the case.

Deputy Secretary of Agriculture Dwight Felton said reports reaching his office indicated the cattle were shipped from the drouth stricken area of Boyd county to graze in Wayne county. It was the first case reported in this locality.

As a result of the outbreak, Felton said that even more rigid precautions were being taken along the Nebraska-South Dakota border, particularly with respect to truck shipments from drouth areas in the north state.

Felton urges all Nebraska farmers purchasing stock from drouth areas to vaccinate them against anthrax.

Council to Buy New Oil Generating Unit

Wayne's city council meeting in regular session Tuesday night, voted to receive bids for the furnishing and erection of an oil engine generating unit. Bids will be received up to Tuesday, Sept. 15, at 7:30 p. m., and must be for a complete unit, including foundation, circulating pump, and all necessary auxiliaries.

Nixon and Reynolds, city consulting engineers, estimate the cost at $40,000. The city engineers reported that the paving of alleys in Paving District No. 10 has been completed by the Booth and Olson company of Sioux City in accordance with the provisions of the contract, and the council decided to hold a special meeting on Tuesday, Oct. 13, for the purpose of determining benefits and levying special assessments upon real estate in Paving District No. 10 to pay paving expenses.

The council voted to set aside from the light fund a revolving fund of $500 for the City Attorney's use in payment of court costs.

Postoffice Inspector Inspects Local Office

A. E. Gustafson, state inspector, was here Tuesday and inspected the Wayne postoffice. He was a guest of Postmaster Grant S. Mears, while here.

Yesterday morning, Mr. Mears took him to the Altona vicinity on business and yesterday afternoon to Carroll.

Cuban Team Arouses Ire of Winsiders

Annual Old Settlers' Picnic Draws Crowd of 2,500 People.

They may be a fancy baseball team to some people, but to those who saw the Cuban House of Davids play ball at Winside on Thursday, Aug. 20, the boys from the land of the Rumba are just a pain in the neck.

What was scheduled to have been the feature attraction of the Wayne County Old Settlers' picnic, a ball game between the Sioux Falls, S. D., Canaries and the Cubans, turned out to be practically no game at all, with the Canaries on the decidedly long end of an 11 to 3 score.

Many who saw the game charge that the Cubans laid down and failed to give their best efforts. If the brand of baseball that the Cubans displayed at Winside is their best, then their best is not good enough, in the opinion of many fans.

The committee in charge of the game did not settle in full with the team that plays the Rumba on the tuba down in Cuba, acting on the assumption that the Cuban longbeards' poor baseball playing was prompted by charitable motives.

It seems that the Sioux Falls club was working on a win or lose contract, with a $100 bonus if they won the game. The Cuban team was working on a flat rate contract, and many believed that they threw the game. A number, however, were inclined to be charitable and expressed the opinion that the Cubans had all the breaks against them.

The picnic drew a crowd estimated at between 2,000 and 2,500 people, all of whom were loud in their acclaim of Winside hospitality.

In the morning baseball game, the Winside Junior Legion team defeated the Pierce Junior Legion team by a score of 16 to 4.

The free dance in the evening was attended by a crowd of at least 1,000 people.

FAMILY GATHERING HELD HERE SUNDAY

Fifty-Three Attend Worth, Bonawitz Reunion in City Park.

Mrs. E. H. Bonawitz of Wayne and her brother, H. J. Worth of Emerson, with Mr. Bonawitz and Mrs. Worth, acted as hosts and hostesses at a family reunion held in the city park Sunday. Fifty-three of Mrs. Bonawitz and Mr. Worth's relatives were present.

The relatives came for dinner, spent the afternoon visiting and reminiscing, and left after supper had been served.

Those present were Mr. and Mrs. Roy Worth and sons of Wakefield; Mr. and Mrs. George Worth and daughters of Dalton; Mr. and Mrs. Otto Bossow and children of West Point; Mr. and Mrs. Roy Karr of O'Neill; Audrey and Ardyece Worth of O'Neill; Mrs. Clarence Gelster and sons of West Point; Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Worth and children of Emerson; Mrs. Wayne Crowley and daughter of Sioux City; Mr. and Mrs. Harry Anderson and family of Wakefield; Mrs. Ella Karr of O'Neill, and Mr. and Mrs. E. ## Teachers' Meeting to Be Held Here Saturday

Meeting of all teachers of Wayne county is scheduled to be held at the Wayne county court house on Saturday, Aug. 29, despite the illness of Miss Pearl E. Sewell, county superintendent.

Miss Sewell, who recently underwent a tonsil operation, was still in a Sioux City hospital Wednesday, but insisted to her friends that she would be on hand at the teachers' meeting Saturday if she had to attend on a stretcher.

Her many friends are hoping for her speedy recovery.

Football Soon to Occupy Spotlight

Pigskin days will soon be here again, and Wayne, with three football teams on the field, will have plenty of opportunity to witness gridiron prowess.

City high school coach Ray K. Holder, whose last year's football warriors were claimants for the championship of northeast Nebraska, lost seven letter men by graduation but will try to build another championship team around a nucleus of 11 letter men. He will have practically all new material. The city high school's first game will take place the last Friday of September, on the home field with Allen as the opposition.

Wayne State Teachers' college boosters are expecting better teams than last year, although College coach Hickman and Training School coach Dale are bothered by a lack of heavy, experienced men.

Bresslers Hold Tenth Annual Family Picnic

Eighty-Five Attend Picnic at Bressler Park Wednesday.

The Bresslers, 85 of them, held their tenth annual family reunion at Bressler Park yesterday, Aug. 26, with the Jerome Bressler orchestra, composed of members of the Frank Bressler family of Belgrade, furnishing the principle entertainment attraction.

The family orchestra, which has broadcast over radio station WJAG, is composed of Frank K., Mrs. Nellie, Esther, Marjorie, Doris, Jerome and Lois Bressler.

Comics Are New Feature In Democrat

Local Firms' Cooperation Makes Laugh Section Possible.

This week's Democrat contains a feature new to Wayne county newspapers—a four page four-color comic section. It is the most expensive feature ever carried by any Wayne county newspaper, and is being made a regular part of The Democrat because this newspaper wants to keep faith with its ever-growing army of readers.

The management of this paper knows of only two other weekly papers in the state of Nebraska that are carrying a similar feature.

The comic section in The Democrat is made possible by the cooperation of twelve Wayne business firms, whose ads will appear regularly on the first page of the colored section.

Candy Bill's Candy Kitchen, Foltz Motor Express, Kugler Electric Co., Sala's Service Station, the Gem Cafe, the Smart Style Dress Shop, Denbeck's Meat Market, Sorensen Radiator and Welding Shop, the Wayne Monument Works, the Boyd Coffee Shop, O. S. Roberts and the Student's Supply Store are the firms whose regular advertising is making our new feature a reality.

The Democrat wishes to thank these advertisers for their cooperation in bringing the four-color comic section to our readers. Without their support, the "funny paper" could not have been made a part of your paper.

The Democrat is proud of its newest improvement and hopes to be able to give you, week after week, a better newspaper.

Heavy Rainfall Visits Wayne Early Tuesday

A heavy rain visited Wayne early Tuesday morning, with the rain gauge showing a rainfall of .91 inches.

Most Wayne county farmers believed that the rain came too late to be of any material aid to the corn crop.

Weather forecast for Nebraska was mostly fair Thursday, with not much change in temperature.

ARRIVE HOME FROM ILLINOIS

Mr. and Mrs. L. B. McClure and daughter, Carolyn, arrived home Tuesday noon from about a week's visit at Downers Grove, Illinois, where they visited Mrs. Bertha Carpenter, Robert and Miss Irene Carpenter, and Mr. and Mrs. Ward Hufford. Enroute home, they drove through Wisconsin and Iowa. They were away ten days.

The Inquiring Reporter

This Week's Question

Do you think the present governmental administration has anything to do with the depression the United States is undergoing?

Wm. Assenheimer: "To some extent. Excessive high protective tariff and squandering of money abroad that should have been used at home have been bad for internal prosperity. The present administration seems to be more interested in the welfare of foreign people than that of our own."

W. H. Gildersleeve: "No, I don't think the present administration is responsible for it. The present depression began during war times when we paid excessive prices for everything, war materials especially."

John Soules: "Yes. I think Congress should get together and agree on something besides drawing their salaries. If they can settle the farm relief question, other things will all come back to normal."

Ernest Bichel: "No, I don't think so. I believe it's just a condition that exists and can't be avoided."

H. L. Atkins: "I don't believe the present administration is responsible for it. I really believe they could help work the country out of it, though."

IN AMERICA your friends have telephones. Telephone service is part of the American Standard of Living. The Cost is Low.

CAMEL POWER makes the wheels go round in Arabia

If you were a native of Aden, Arabia, you would be familiar with camel carts . . . conveyances that are common there. You probably would know little about automobiles, telephones and other modern conveniences common in America.

What we call the standard of living varies in different countries. A camel cart would be out of place in our midwestern cities . . . an average native with a telephone would be an oddity in Arabia . . . and his telephone would not be worth much to him because none of his friends, relatives or business associates would have telephones.

In America, there are more than 20,000,000 telephones; one for each six persons. Telephones are so common that it is the usual thing to look in the telephone directory to find where someone lives or where a business is located. Most of the persons you know have telephones and use them several times daily, whenever they want to talk with anyone either blocks or miles away. Telephone service enters into every phase of American life.

People in the United States have telephone service because with it they can talk with almost anyone at any time . . . because with it they can call help instantly in any emergency . . . because their friends and relatives have telephones . . . because it is worth so much more to them than the few cents a day it costs.

This Company's desire is to provide telephone service which is satisfactory to its customers in every way . . . its aim is to continually make service better and more valuable, to each person who uses it.

NORTHWESTERN BELL TELEPHONE COMPANY

McKELVIE'S IDEA
 Sam McKelvie evidently thinks he has had an original idea. He comes forth with the suggestion that the stabilization supplies of wheat should be given to the needy. The stabilization supplies of wheat are partly responsible for the fact that we have needy people in the United States. Mr. McKelvie's ideas would look better to this writer had he not been a member of the Federal Farm Board. Membership in that organization, in this writer's opinion, entitles any man to membership in the Dippy club. Mr. McKelvie should try again. His idea is not original and it is not new. Thousands of less publicized people have suggested the same thing and nothing has been done about it. Evidently there is something about the idea that does not appeal to the farm board.

It would not be surprising for the Farm Board to decide soon that the logical solution to the problem lies in burning up or otherwise destroying the stabilization wheat supply. Stabilization wheat supply! There's a laugh, isn't it? Never have farm prices been any worse than since the blundering Farm Board undertook the job of stabilizing prices. Nope, Mr. McKelvie, your idea is up the wrong alley. The present administration does not believe in helping the needy. Give 'em the Stabilization (?) wheat? What? Why, that would be a DOLE! Don't bother the administration with such ideas, Mr. McKelvie. They're busy with war debt moratoriums and Hoover dam projects, or sump'n.

If there isn't any hell, then where have our prices gone?

CON GUYS
 In the old days, when a con man sold you a gold brick he made the job tougher for himself by letting you see it before you bought it. If it was a good imitation of gold bullion, you sometimes fell for it hard enough to wake up the next morning with a bad headache and the realization that you had been buncoed. The modern gold brick merchant doesn't have to let you see what you are getting. He can sell it to you over the radio. His smooth oratory is not impeded by the actual product—because you don't see the product until you've put your money on the line.

Radio direct merchandising is the modern con game. Radio salesmen are apparently governed by no restrictions as to what they can say or do. Misrepresentation of goods is common. Garbling of facts and figures is the usual thing. Utter disregard of business ethics is common. Crude innuendoes are thrust at the local legitimate merchants. The public loves to be swindled. The boobus Americanus has proved that fact time after time. "Gyp 'em once and they'll come back for more" seems to be the credo of the average radio merchandiser. His programs are usually as shoddy as his merchandise. But everything is designed for one purpose—to bait the sucker. And the radio merchandiser must be given credit for accomplishing that remarkably well. When suckers have been stung often enough, they start to holler. Those who have been bitten more times than they like to admit are already starting to whimper about what the radio slickers have done to them. It looks like the racket may be playing out.

CASES OF THAT TYPE
 To comprehend the full measure of the farm board's aberration in this cotton matter, it is only necessary to note that it calls for some two million cotton farmers to march into their fields and destroy a third of their growing crop. And with what inducement? A hunch by the farm board, which has thus far been almost completely and uniformly mistaken in its calculations, that the destruction will result in a total price for what is left exceeding that for a bumper crop. For those who find it possible to believe that two million American farmers, or any major fraction of them, would fall for that scheme there are only two places. One is the farm board. The other, the nearest institution where they care for cases of that type.—Baltimore Sun.

Hope springs eternal in the human breast. Witness the republican party discussing the republican nominee for the presidency in 1932.

ATTABOY, WINSIDE
 Our good neighbors at Winside are to be congratulated on the action they have taken in regard to the Cuban House of David-St. Louis Falls Canaries baseball game—if their charges that the Cubans laid down and threw the game are founded upon reliable evidence.

Winside had an Old Settlers' Picnic last Thursday and the big event of the day was to have been the baseball game. The game was an expensive attraction, with the Cubans playing on a flat guarantee basis and the Canaries playing under a contract whereby they received a bonus if they won. Winside charges that the Cubans gave a listless exhibition that could hardly be called baseball playing. They committed many fielding errors and fanned the air carelessly when at bat. Many Winsiders say that they apparently did not care whether they played ball or not. The Winside men who had backed the ball game believe that the Cubans threw the game away. With that belief, they withheld the Cuban's part of the purse.

Athletic contests must be conducted on the "up and up." The Cuban ball team, no doubt, left Winside with lots of respect for the acumen of what they probably had regarded as a "hick town." As a matter of fact the Cuban club was dealing with a group of men who know their baseball and who would be just as hard to fool as any big-city group they'll ever come in contact with. If more towns would follow Winside's example when they were imposed upon, there would be less trickery about athletic contests. Professional sports participants should learn that a contest is a contest and must be a legitimate one, regardless of where it is played.

The German war-debt moratorium is just another argument in favor of World Peace. Lick 'em and then put 'em back on their feet again.

SLANG
 Use of slang is generally criticized without thought. Many people believe that use of slang words and phrases constitutes a serious grammatical offense. Too much slang is, admittedly, a bad thing. But good slang, well used, is in this writer's opinion no offense. Good, up-to-date slang is as fresh as today. It is live. It often tells the story better and far more tersely than five times the number of words could tell it in legitimate, dictionary-approved English. Many of our accepted words started out as slang. They filled a need in the English vocabulary and they have come to be recognized as perfectly acceptable. The person who uses slang well in his talk is an entertaining speaker. His conversation is easy to listen to. When a slang word or phrase is vivid, when it fills the place better than another word, when it is fresh and vibrant and lends force to what you have to say—by all means, use slang.

If the farmers should suddenly become prosperous they probably would have to undergo a congressional investigation.—Scribner Rustler.

The Old Man on the Corner was talking the other day, spitting out an occasional gush of tobacco juice between philosophic utterances. "The country has gone plumb to the dogs," he said. "Look at this Farm Board. A few weeks ago it refused to sell cotton to Russia; and now it ups and tells the cotton growers to destroy every third row of their crop. If that's logic I'm a striped-backed hinkajou."

"And another thing," he continued. "Look at this Hoover dam proposition. Go ahead and look at it. I don't want to. I read in the papers that men working there are dying like flies from bad food and accidents. The men work in temperatures of 120 to 140 degrees. Damn the dam."

"It offers employment," I suggested timidly. "Employment," snorted the O. M. on the C. "There's another thing. There IS something. That's what's wrong with the country today. No employment. Everything's being done by machinery. Wages ain't high enough. There ain't enough work. Prices are too low. The country's gone to pot."

"What would you do about it?" I asked him. "Put a Democrat in office," he replied. "The republicans have made a big enough mess of things. Get a Democratic president into office, elect democrats to fill the other offices, and just see how quick they straighten things out. One thing, there won't be any farm board very long, I'll tell you, if you get us a democratic president."

Throughout newspaper columns up and down the land, the pajama has been maligned long enough. Old-fashioned columnists have poked fun at pajamas week after week. Men are supposed to wear pants. Tradition has established it that man is the pants-wearer. When anyone wants to signify that a husband is henpecked, they say that his wife "wears the pants in that family." Just why, all you old-fogy night-shirt boys, should a man suddenly go pansy when he gets ready for bed? Would you doddering old birds who have been shouting so loudly for the nightshirt want to let any of your business associates see you in one of the dainty feminine contraptions? Maybe you've grown so sloppy that you wouldn't mind, but I'll bet you a good five-cent cigar that you look like nothing outside of the funny papers. At that, you probably give your wife a good laugh.

What's the matter with you that you stand up so staunchly for night-shirts? Do you have a feminine complex? Are you afflicted with a mother-urge? You'd better have yourself psycho-analyzed. Trim lamp-shades if you want to. Take up needlework. But, for the luvapet preserve the time honored "Men wear the pants" idea 24 hours a day. Get in line with modern ideas. You'll find that pajamas will make you feel like a man.

J. M. Roberts Farm is Going Thru Bad Year

J. M. Roberts, who has a quarter section located a mile and a half northwest of town, is having a bad year. He doubts if his corn will go 10 bushels to the acre, and his alfalfa has been ruined by grasshoppers. While the grasshoppers did some damage to the corn, he feels that his poor corn was caused largely by dry weather.

Mr. Roberts took the reporter to an 18-acre alfalfa field which was a veritable sea of grasshoppers. The alfalfa in that field would not have been worth fifty cents. Whenever the reporter took a step into the alfalfa, grasshoppers sprung up in a black fountain all around him.

Don't let anybody tell you that grasshoppers cannot be a menace. While they have not been prevalent around this territory, on this one farm they have done a terrific amount of damage, giving adequate proof that drastic measures must be taken to keep the hordes from spreading to other farms next year.

The first five or six rows of the corn field adjoining the alfalfa field have been literally hacked to the ground by the voracious 'hoppers.

They struck four acres of one of Mr. Roberts' oat fields. He didn't even bother to cut the crop on that plot of ground, because the oats were a total loss.

He knows the seriousness of the situation, and he knows that the 'hoppers must not be allowed to breed more young and spread to larger fields. His farm is one of two that has been hurt by the 'hopper invasion around Wayne. The situation has not been alarming to other farmers who have not seen the havoc which the little insects could accomplish. Other farmers should pay a visit to the Roberts farm, see the havoc which the 'hoppers can cause, and immediately start action to see that the same thing does not happen again on a larger scale next year.

Mr. Roberts says that his crops and the condition of his farm this year are the worst he has seen in 20 years. However, he is not bemoaning his misfortune, but is going about the work of salvaging his crops the best he can.

On his quarter section, 80 acres are in corn, 18 acres in alfalfa, 30 acres in small grain and the rest in pasture and lots.

There are 15 buildings on the place occupying a space of approximately 12,500 square feet. The buildings were all newly painted last year, and the yard and lots are as neat as it is humanly possible to make them. Mr. Roberts believes that painting farm buildings regularly is economy. When you do the job yourself, he says, it is not expensive and will greatly prolong the life of the buildings, as well as enhance the beauty of the place.

A novel, ingenious building is the giant self-feeder, which holds 6,000 bushels of corn and can feed 100 head of cattle at once. This cleverly constructed self-feeder is 64 feet long and 16 feet wide, with a cement platform eight feet wide running all around it. The construction of this building is entirely Mr. Roberts' own idea, and there is not another building like it in this territory. Cattle feeders could get some good pointers by paying the Roberts farm a visit and inspecting the feeding arrangement. It is clean, quick and economical. Mr. Roberts is not feeding cattle this year, but in the days when he fed a lot, he found the feeder a great asset. He had it built as soon as he bought the farm, and says that it has paid for itself many times over.

The home on the Roberts place is an eight-room house, all modern, with bathroom, furnace, hot and cold running water and a gas lighting system. It is large, pleasant and beautifully located, with plenty of shade around it.

Mr. Roberts believes that a good water system is an important thing on any farm, and he has a supply tank arrangement, with running water piped to strategic points all over the farm. The water is good, and there is plenty of it. The pressure supply system insures a good flow of water from the pipes at all times.

Mr. Roberts has been a big cattle feeder in past years, but this year, with such a poor crop, he has abandoned the idea of feeding. He has 125 pigs and 10 milk cows. Mrs. Roberts is raising about 400 chickens and believes that she will be able to show a profit with them. She believes that chickens are the farmer's best bet under present conditions. While chickens are not as high priced as they might be, they are higher than they were last year at this time, and feed is cheap.

Mr. and Mrs. Roberts have been on their present farm for 11 years. Back in 1921, Mr. Roberts paid $250 an acre for the farm, although he doesn't like to admit it now. One cannot blame him at feeling chagrined when one sees the damage that has been done his crops this year. He bought the place from J. C. Forbes, who now lives in California, and paid a record price for it. Had farm prices continued where they were when he bought the land, Mr. Roberts believes that $350 an acre would not have been too high. The way the bottom has fallen out of the market, he believes that he paid a good deal too much money.

Mr. and Mrs. Roberts have two sons, one of whom is married and has a home of his own. The other son helps Mr. Roberts run the place.

The father and son use horses and a tractor in working the farm. Mr. Roberts has nothing but praise for the tractor, and says that he doesn't believe he could farm any more without it. He says the tractor is the finest piece of machinery that ever was offered to the farmer. It takes the really heavy work off of the horses, and means that they can be used for longer periods and more economically. In the days before the popularity of the tractor, he says, you had to quit work when your horses were tired out. Nowadays, he says, you can work until you're ready to quit yourself. A tractor doesn't get tired out.

He believes that the tractor is a big money saver. It cuts down working hours and farming costs, giving higher production per acre, he believes.

Mr. Roberts says that the farmer must learn to live more cheaply, cutting down every place he can. "We'll have to save every penny that it's possible to save if we're going to buck up against present price conditions much longer. The farmer has to save, save, save, getting rid of everything that is cutting down on his profits. That's about the only salvation."

OUR QUIXOTIC FARM BOARD

"If you will let every fourth acre of wheat land lie idle, the farm board can raise the price of wheat," the wheat grower was told a year ago.

"If you will plow under every third row of cotton, the farm board can raise the price of cotton," the southern cotton planter is now told.

But the wheat grower didn't consign a fourth of his acreage to idleness and the cotton planter won't plow under a third of the cotton crop. Naturally. The conditions under which the farm board makes these mass appeals represent a perfect application of the old adage, "What's everybody's business is nobody's business." Whether it is limitation of wheat acreage or sabotage of a cotton crop, nearly made, the board's proposals are of a nature which cannot possibly be expected to save by the application of force.

Leaving aside the questionable morals and questionable economics of the only plan which has occurred to the farm board in two years for relieving the condition of American agriculture, there remains the fact of its perfect futility from a practical standpoint.

Why does the board persist in its ridiculous course? Its members are men whose conduct of their own private affairs seems to have been managed with hard-headed common sense. It is incredible that they should not be fully aware of the utter impossibility of accomplishing the thing which they advise.

Even when we were laboring under the emotional stress of a great war the mass appeals made to the people, the drives for this and that, were accomplished through organization which began in Washington and was carried clear down to the precinct.

In the last analysis it was a combination of patriotism and pressure which made it possible to "go over the top" with so many war enterprises. No such pressure can be applied to the farmer to limit or control his crops save by gross violation of his rights and liberties. It has been tried in limited areas with deplorable and disorderly, not to say riotous, results.

In short, there is no kind of force which the board can apply save that of mob law. While the former chairman of the board once made a cryptic statement which seemed guardedly to approve this kind of application of force, the board hasn't as a matter of fact influence enough even to inflame a mob. It is as helpless as it is futile. It is persistence in urging limitation and sabotage remedies won't even serve it as a good alibi. —Omaha World-Herald.

Advices Horse Bots Should Be Destroyed

Horse bots can be controlled by destroying the eggs or nits found on the horse's legs and throat at this time of year and early fall, according to George D. Jones of the Missouri College of Agriculture. The parasites sometimes cause horses to winter badly and be in a weakened condition in the spring.

A solution of carbolic acid containing two per cent phenol in water, or a two per cent solution of coal tar creosote dip is recommended to horse owners for destroying the eggs or nits. A pint of the solution should be sufficient to treat about 10 horses for two or three times, and should be applied with a dampened cloth, sponging the legs with the solution where the eggs are found. Application should be made every five or six days.

The eggs seen on the legs of the horses are deposited by a wasp like fly. As soon as the eggs are hatched the bot works its way into the skin and eventually to the stomach. The parasite attaches itself to the lining of the stomach and progressively weakens the vitality of the animal.

Merits of Wheat and Corn as Feed Tested

Two new wheat feeding experiments have been started at the University of Nebraska Agricultural college to determine further facts about the value of feeding the grain to cattle and sheep.

Prof. A. R. Thalman of the animal husbandry department, is conducting the test on cattle to determine the relative value of corn and wheat when fed alone and in mixtures. Other tests conducted at the college, however, have showed that corn and wheat are practically equal in value as feed for hogs and cattle.

In the sheep feeding test which Prof. Martin A. Alexander is conducting three lots of blackfaced lambs are being fed. The third lot is receiving both the ground shelled corn and the ground wheat from self-feeders. The animals used in the test will be on exhibition at the annual Rooter's Day to be held at the college in October.

Potato Bin Disinfection Will Prevent Disease

All bins and storage houses should be thoroughly cleaned and disinfected before potatoes are put in, as a means of preventing dry rot of potatoes, says the division of plant pathology at the University of Minnesota farm. The floors and walls of the storage house should be thoroughly disinfected by a copper sulphate wash made with 1 pound of copper sulphate and 10 gallons of water.

Dry rot is caused by a fungus which gets into the tubers through bruises. Careful handling of potatoes to avoid bruising will reduce the losses from this disease. As the fungus develops best at a fairly high temperature, keeping potatoes in a cool place, between 35 and 40 degrees Fahrenheit, is also advised. Sorting out and destroying any tubers that show signs of rot will also help keep down the disease.

Grain Stabilizers Trade Wheat Surplus for Coffee

An agreement was signed Friday between the Brazilian government and the Federal Grain Stabilization corporation for the exchange of a million bags of coffee for 25,000,000 bushels of surplus wheat.

An additional amount of coffee is to be used in paying a New York firm for grading and grainery services. The coffee is to be released to consumption channels in monthly allotments, not to start until a year has elapsed.

The Brazil coffee trade follows announcement that the grain stabilization corporation has been authorized to enter into negotiations with the Chinese government for purchase of 15,000,000 bushels of wheat for Chinese flood sufferers.

Revival of Ranching Is Foreseen in Nebraska

News dispatches from O'Neill indicate that the present sag in the farming industry is causing many northwestern Nebraska farmers to examine the possibilities of ranching on a compact scale suitable for one man to handle.

Advantages of the ranch plan over farming are many, some farmers say. Cheaper land results in lower taxes. Cattle, sheep or hogs on the ranch do most of the harvesting. High priced machinery is not necessary. The rancher may have chickens, fresh eggs, milk, butter, fresh pork and beef and garden stuff. Hogs are claimed to bring more profit raised to 200 pounds each on alfalfa than at any later time and are said to be easily cared for. Some farmers plan on entering cattle, sheep, poultry, hogs, truck gardening and horse branches of ranching.

Power and transportation for a ranch may be cared for by a few cheap teams of mules. Some farmers assert that the northwestern Nebraska region is ideally suited to ranching and not at all to straight farming.
