Pioneer Dies Monday after 17 Day Illness

Rites for Mrs. Margaret E. Oman Held at Winside.

Winside (Special).—Funeral services were held Wednesday afternoon at two o'clock at the Winside Methodist church for Mrs. Margaret Elizabeth Oman who died at her home Monday, Aug. 31, at 2 p. m., following an illness of 17 days. Rev. W. A. Mansur was in charge of the services, and interment was in the Wayne cemetery.

Mrs. Oman was born near Orangeville, Pa., on July 21, 1850, and was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gabriel Everet. She was married to Peter W. Oman of Bloomsburg, Pa., on April 6, 1866, at Bloomsburg. This marriage was the result of a childhood romance which began when both Mr. and Mrs. Oman were children attending the same country school.

It was an ideally happy marriage, lasting for 62 years until Mr. Oman's death in 1928.

Mrs. Oman and her husband moved from Pennsylvania to Michigan in 1872, and to Malvern, Ia., in 1876. On February 17, 1882, they moved to a farm southwest of Wayne where they lived until the spring of 1915 when they moved to Winside.

During the early part of Mrs. Oman's 49 years as a pioneer resident of Wayne county she was active in the organization of the M. E. church at Wayne and entertained the first missionary, Rev. Carter, at her home as a guest, and later, Captain Davis, the first pastor of the Wayne church.

Mrs. Oman was preceded in death by her husband, Mr. P. W. Oman, in 1928, one son, Hiram, 1902, and a daughter, Mrs. William McMillan of Winside in 1924.

She is survived by Clyde Oman of Wayne, George Oman of Wakefield, Bert Oman of St. Lawrence, S. D., Mrs. Daisy Van Scoik of North Platte and Mrs. Pearl Jensen of Winside.

ANNUAL REUNION IS HELD BY PRESTONS

Twenty-Seven Relatives at Family Gathering Here Sunday.

Clarence Preston's Wayne home was the scene of a family reunion Sunday, Aug. 30, when 27 relatives gathered for the annual affair, and helped Mr. Preston celebrate his birthday.

Those present besides Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Preston, their son Jason and daughter Beatrice, were Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Preston of Wayne; Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Bull and children, Eldon, Henry, Waldron and Barbara of Belden; Earl Preston of Laurel, Harold and Kenneth Preston of Belden; Mr. and Mrs. George Lightner and sons Jack and Jerry of St. Edward; Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Weaver of Oakland; Mr. and Mrs. Albert Young of Oakland; Miss Clara Erickson of Oakland; and Miss Lois Ward and Miss Bernice August of Laurel.

City Standpipe Leaks Are Being Repaired

Repair work on the city water standpipe south of the college campus between Eighth and Ninth streets was started Friday by the Pittsburg-Des Moines company of Des Moines, Ia.

The standpipe had been leaking badly all summer, but during the dry weather it was deemed inadvisable by city council members to start repair work due to an insufficient supply of water to fill the city's needs. Immediately following the recent rains, word was sent to the Des Moines firm to start the repair work.

Wayne Weather

Wayne received .50 inches of rain Monday afternoon, Aug. 31, and early Monday evening. This brought the total rainfall for the month up to 2.22 inches. The weather report indicates fair and slightly warmer for today.

Wildcat Gridiron Outlook is Bright

While most football coaches are singing the blues, Ray Hickman, Wildcat grid mentor, is wearing a big grin caused by possibilities for a highly successful season on the pigskin battlefield.

Dennis, the Wildcats' big threat last year, will not be back again to harrass opponents from the halfback position and neither will Quarterback F. Anderson. In the line, he loses McKinley, Reichle and D. Anderson. But Hickman will have 10 veteran linemen and three backs as a nucleus to build his grid machine around. The line will average nearly 200 pounds per man, and should cause the Wildcat coach almost no worry at all.

The backfield, however, is something else again. Loren Andrews, Grubb and Copeland are the only letter men available for ball-carrying positions.

The first practice is scheduled for Monday, although new candidates are not expected to report until registration has been completed.

TEACHERS' COLLEGE TO OPEN SEPT. 16

Registration to Be Held on Monday and Tuesday, Sept. 14 and 15.

Registration of Wayne State Teachers' college students will take place on Monday afternoon, Sept. 14, and all day Tuesday, Sept. 15. Classes will start on Wednesday, Sept. 16.

Heavy correspondence indicates to college officials that the enrollment this year will be larger than usual. This is credited largely to the current depression, coupled with the fact that expenses at Wayne State Teachers' college are much lighter than at many other schools.

New Instructor
Miss Jessie Stephens has been engaged by Wayne State Teachers' college to act as a part time instructor in the art department and part time instructor in the commercial department. She received her M. A. degree from the University of Ohio.

HAPPY RAY REVUE TO SHOW AT FAIR

Musical Comedy Company Carries Cast of Seventeen.

In announcing the Happy Ray Revue as a feature entertainment at the Wayne County Fair, Sept. 16, 17, 18 and 19, Secretary W. E. Van Seggern says he is confident it will prove one of the outstanding events of the week. He adds that the Happy Ray show has caught the fancy of grandstand audiences at fairs and is having great success wherever it plays.

The Ray company, numbering 17 people, includes a swift-moving chorus of eight pretty girls who can really sing and dance. Happy Ray has spared neither time nor money to produce a colorful and entertaining show. Special scenery and numerous changes of bright, snappy costumes play an important part in making the performance attractive.

Hap Ray, known as "the boy with the 18 karat smile," is said to be one of the most versatile comedians in present day musical comedy. A former show of his holds the record for long runs, having remained at a theatre in Louisville for five consecutive seasons. Little Nellie Clark, a Ziegfeld Follies girl a season or so ago and comedienne of note, is a featured member of the company.

The Sunny Southern quartette, featured by Ray in vaudeville for a number of seasons, is one of the hit attractions of the show.

The flashy silk drapes that take the place of the old fashioned heavy painted sets add lustre and beauty to the scenes and make a pretty background for the company. Mr. Ray offers some of the comedy sketches that have made it popular in theatres throughout the country. In the past 10 years he has played more than 50 different character parts and will offer at least two of them white here.

BONDING COMPANY FILES SUIT HERE

Seeks $3,775.87 Lost in Citizens Bank Failure.

Petition filed in the district court of Wayne county this week by Davis, Hendrickson and Davis, attorneys for the Massachusetts Bonding and Insurance company, against James J. Steele, county treasurer, seeks judgment from Mr. Steele for $3,775.87 and interest and costs.

The plaintiff charges that Mr. Steele, acting as county treasurer, unlawfully deposited $37,758.67 in the Citizens National Bank of Wayne in such a manner as to breach his bond with the plaintiff company, that the bank failed and that the plaintiff had to make good to the extent of $37,758.67 on Mr. Steele's bond. The plaintiff company say they have received $33,982.80 from the failed bank and say that their loss is now permanently fixed at $3,775.87.

Mr. Steele says that investigation of county records will show that the county funds were over-deposited in all banks in the county at the time of the Citizens Bank failure, and says that the county commissioners had made no designation of depositories outside of the county as required by law when deposits are up to the limit as stated in Nebraska statutes. The amount the county treasurer could deposit legally was $200,000.00, and the county had $239,045.81 on hand at the time.

Heidenreich to Attend Anniversary Observance

Rev. W. C. Heidenreich and his daughters left Wednesday for Oshkosh and Lewellen, Neb., to take part in the observance of the twenty-fifth anniversary of the founding of the St. Paul's Lutheran churches in those two towns.

Twenty-five years ago, Rev. Heidenreich took charge of the churches in the two western towns. It was his first experience in the ministry, and was Oshkosh's and Lewellen's first experience with churches. Oshkosh was a town with about 80 inhabitants, and Lewellen had a still smaller population. Oshkosh now has about 900 population and Lewellen has about 600.

The first church in the community was built at Oshkosh under Rev. Heidenreich's direction and at his urging. Many of the people who were in the young minister's first congregation are still residents of the two towns.

Rev. Heidenreich went to his first charges in 1906, and left in 1910. He will preach the sermons at both the Oshkosh and Lewellen churches during the anniversary observance.

County Superintendent Holds Teacher Meeting

Miss Pearl E. Sewell, county superintendent of schools, held her pre-opening day session for teachers of the county on Saturday afternoon, Aug. 29, despite the fact that she was just recovering from the effects of a tonsil operation. She had returned home from Sioux City Wednesday evening, Aug. 26, and attended the teachers' meeting against the advice of her physician.

Teachers were instructed in routine matters and were given a schedule for the year. Many of the county schools opened on Monday, Aug. 31.

Wayne Farmer Has Eye Hurt Monday

Carlos Martin sustained a painful injury Monday when a stick struck him in the eye while he was driving hogs, puncturing the eyeball. He hurried to town to a doctor as soon as he was able to drive his car. It was at first thought that the sight of the eye would be destroyed, but the wound is healing nicely and it is believed the sight will not be impaired.

MOELLER-BOULTING

Miss Dorothy M. Moeller of Randolph was united in marriage to Robert J. Boulting of Randolph at one o'clock Tuesday afternoon at the St. Paul's Lutheran parsonage in Wayne. Rev. W. C. Heidenreich performed the double ring ceremony.

Last Rites for L. M. Woods Held Saturday

Pioneer Carroll Resident Dies in Sioux City Hospital.

Funeral services were held at the Methodist Episcopal church at Carroll at 2:30 p. m. Saturday, Aug. 29, for L. M. Woods who passed away about eight o'clock Wednesday evening, Aug. 26, at a Sioux City hospital. Interment was in the Carroll cemetery.

Thomas McAllen Woods, better known as Clel, who died in the M. E. hospital at Sioux City, Iowa, on Aug. 26, was a native of Pennsylvania and a son of the late James and Louisa Brickley Woods of Blain, Perry county, Pa. He was born in Blain on Jan. 16, 1854, and had reached the age of 77 years, 7 months and 9 days at the time of his death.

A born farmer, he remained on his father's farm until 1885, when he came west and took possession of land west of Carroll, brought for him by his brother, Wm. H. Woods, in the summer of 1884. From that day to this his address has been Carroll except previous to the time when there was a Carroll.

Descending from families of rugged people, six of whom passed the 80-year mark, two past 96, he should have lived much longer. He never returned to his home land on a visit. He lived a clean life. No strong drink or tobacco, no profane language had any place in his makeup. His failure was in acting as if he had been built of cast iron.

He married Miss Maggie Hill of Carroll and to them were born six children, two sons and four daughters, all of whom with the mother survive. They are Mrs. Ethel Baird of Wayne, Miss Gladys Woods of Chicago, Ill., Clarence, Thelma and Elmer at home, and Mrs. Hazel Parks of Lynch. He is also survived by nine grandchildren. Two sisters and one brother survive: one sister in Philadelphia, Pa., one in Lyons, and one brother in Woodhull, Ill.

Rev. Braisted Returns Monday from St. Paul

Rev. Wm. E. Braisted arrived home Monday from a St. Paul, Minn., hospital where he had undergone an operation and where he had spent about eight weeks. He is improved in health and friends here are rejoicing over his return.

His son, William Braisted, is expected to come this week from California to visit him.

Death Takes Mrs. J. M. Barrett Wednesday

Mrs. J. M. Barrett of Wayne died early yesterday morning, Sept. 2, 1931, in a Norfolk hospital, following a hip fracture about a month ago.

Margaret E. Barrett was preceded in death by her husband, J. M. Barrett, in 1924. One son, Walter C. Barrett, died overseas during the World War.

She is survived by two sons, Rayburn L. of Omaha and William R. of Node, Wyo., two daughters, Edith M. Barrett of Wayne and Mrs. Ruth Hatfield of Plainville, and a granddaughter, Maxine Barrett.

Mrs. Barrett was a long-time resident of Wayne county, having lived in this territory for nearly 40 years. She had lived in the city of Wayne for about half that time.

She was a member of the Presbyterian church and took an active part in the ladies' aid society of that group.

Severs Finger While Emptying Gravel Truck

Winside (Special).—Charles Lange employed in unloading gravel for G. H. Highway No. 35 had the end of one finger severed and another finger seriously cut Monday night. Mr. Lange had just emptied his scraper in a truck and in some manner his right hand was caught under the cable in a pulley. He will be unable to work for some time.

Board to Discuss Dormitory Plans

Plans for the new dormitory building at Wayne State Teachers' college will be taken up at a meeting of the State Normal Board Monday in Lincoln. Dr. Conn, who has been visiting relatives this week in Syracuse, Ind., will be back in time to attend the meeting and present recommendations for the building to the board.

The board voted several weeks ago to invest $150,000 of state school funds in bonds for construction of the building, which will probably be located just south of North Hall. North Hall and possibly Terrace Hall will be removed from the grounds because of fire hazard, as soon as the new dormitory is completed.

Fred M. Anderson of Cozad, secretary of the State Normal Board, Judge W. H. Thompson of Grand Island, a member of the board, and Mr. Baker, a Grand Island architect, visited the local college Wednesday and made an inspection tour of present buildings.

Public Schools Open Monday

Teachers' Meeting to Be Held on Saturday Afternoon.

Wayne high school will open on Monday, Sept. 7, with present indications pointing to an enrollment slightly in excess of that of last year. Many pupils have made inquiries for opportunities to earn their board and room for the coming school year. Any individuals interested in having a high school pupil stay with them during the year should get in touch with Superintendent of Schools H. R. Best.

Regular high school registration and issuance of registration cards will take place tomorrow and Saturday until 2 p. m. Pupils are urged by the faculty to make every effort to enroll on these days in order to prevent their missing a part of their classes on Monday. As far as is possible, all pupils are asked to register Friday.

A meeting of all teachers will be held Saturday afternoon at two o'clock and the general plan and organization of work for the school year will be discussed at that time. All teachers have indicated that they are planning to arrive in Wayne tomorrow.

Kindergarten will be organized the opening day of school. The present plan is to organize two groups as in the past. The morning group will be organized for older pupils. It is important that parents planning to send their children to kindergarten get in touch with the school in case they are not entering the child the first day.

Regular classes will be held with a full time schedule the first day. Present indications are for a successful school year, with a faculty fully as strong as in the past and with working conditions and teaching facilities considerably improved.

High school and Junior High will start at 8:45 a. m.; grade school will start at 8:55; All classes will dismiss at 11:50 and reconvene at 1 a. m.; dismissal for the day will be at 3:35. High school work will be conducted on a 60-minute directed study basis.

District Court Now in Session in Wayne

District Judge Clinton Chase opened District Court in Wayne Wednesday morning, Sept. 2.

Much of the first day's session was taken up with routine business relative to civil actions.

Opal Stevens was granted a divorce from Guy Stevens. The plaintiff was given custody of the minor child and $55-a-month alimony until further order of the court.

Thelma Devall was granted a divorce from Edgar Devall, with permanent alimony of $50. Costs were taxed to the defendant.

Natural gas is to be installed at Pender soon.

Gas Company to Open Local Offices Soon

Will Install Supply Lines Free for Limited Period.

F. B. Tracy, representative of the People's Natural Gas company, was in Wayne yesterday morning to start a crew of workmen on the job of re-decorating the Jeffries building preparatory to the building's occupancy by the gas firm. Work started yesterday.

Workmen are putting in a partition, changing the wiring, re-decorating the walls and woodwork, laying linoleum and doing everything possible to make the company's headquarters for this district attractive. The Wayne building will be not only a local office, but will constitute a headquarters for gas service for Wakefield, Emerson and other communities in this district.

The work is being rushed so that the company offices may be opened as soon as possible.

Mr. Tracy said that he could not say definitely how much local labor would be needed when work of laying gas mains starts, but stated that the construction company handling the work for the Omaha offices of the gas company adheres rigidly to a policy of using as much local labor as possible.

For a limited time, in order to encourage the sale of gas appliances, the company is offering to put a supply line from the property line to the appliance without any charge, regardless of whether the appliance is purchased from the gas company or from any local dealer. This offer applies to water heaters, gas ranges and any other major heating equipment. Mr. Tracy said that this offer is not a permanent one, but is subject to withdrawal after a reasonable notice has been given to prospective purchasers so that they may avail themselves of the offer.

Pipe line construction is to start at Winnebago, serving Emerson, Wakefield and Wayne.

Local Band Plays at Iowa Amusement Park

Thirty-five members of the Wayne municipal band went to Sioux City, Sunday, Aug. 30, to appear as the musical feature of the day at River-view Park's annual Nebraska Day. The band, under the direction of Prof. F. C. Reed, drew a crowd that Harry Jones, park manager, regarded as highly satisfactory.

Cars from all over Nebraska were registered into the amusement park, with Wayne leading the list. A number of Sioux City band men were on hand to hear the Wayne musical organization.

Little Miss Phyllis, the Wayne band's diminutive soloist, scored the big hit of the day when she sang several solos.

The Inquiring Reporter

This Week's Question
What moving picture show do you think is the best any you've seen this year?

A. L. Swan: "I regard Ruth Chatterton in 'The Magnificent Lie' as the best show I've seen this year."

R. H. Jacques: "Richard Dix in 'The Public Defender' was about the most enjoyable show of the year, to my way of thinking."

Wm. Stewart: "Buck Jones in 'The Fighting Sheriff' would be the one I'd pick."

Vernon Castle: "The American Tragedy," adapted from Theodore Dreiser's novel."

John Gustaf: "Cimarron," adapted from Edna Ferber's novel and starring Richard Dix and Irene Dunne, I regard as the best. 'Young Donovan's Kid' and 'The Public Defender' were both excellent."

Keep the repair man

Motor mechanics know what kills motors and motor power—lubrication neglect.

Burned bearings, worn piston rings, and a lazy, noisy motor tell the same story, lubrication neglect—low grade, dirty oil, oil of the wrong grade or running with insufficient oil.

Keep your crankcase supplied with thoroughly dewaxed, and tar-free new POLARINE. Use the grade recommended on the Polarine Chart.

Your motor will do better work, last longer and cost less for repairs, if kept correctly lubricated with new Polarine—25¢ a quart for every grade.

BOWDIO ADVERTISING

The Nebraska Democrat has been taken to task from some quarters for its stand on radio advertising. The Democrat has consistently preached that radio advertising should be governed by the same rules regarding misrepresentation, fraud and lottery that newspapers must follow.

If you think The Democrat's been raddled in its stand, listen to what Judge magazine has to say about it. "The last time we groused about radio advertising, we put most of the blame on the small local broadcasting stations and said that the big chains were not so bad. We take it back. On several recent evenings at the best entertainment hour we were twirling the dial through the whole range in the hope of finding something to listen to. Actually we heard more spoken words than music. Pausing briefly at each station, we found that all the words were of advertising import. Here and there we waited hopefully for the music to begin. But the dulcet solicitations ran on and on, for long minutes. It wasn't worth while to sit through the hokey in order to get to the entertainment. So we turned the whole thing off, took an aspirin and went to bed.

"Radio advertising has gone the limit, past the limit, past the stage for mild reform. At the risk of being jeered as a jealous competitor, we announce that we are against any and all advertising on the radio. Not that this defiance will get us anywhere. But maybe, in the long reaches of time, the blessed day will come when a way will be found to give the public the great boon of radio entertainment without commercialization. Until then, we go into the silences."

So you thought The Democrat was radical in its stand against present radio advertising conditions. Radical? Hmph! Why, we're downright conservative.

TRUTH OR HOKEY?

The Democrat has been criticized from certain sources for carrying adverse reports on agricultural conditions in this territory. Last week we carried a story of a farm that has been hard hit by grasshoppers and drouth. We painted the picture for our readers just as conditions existed, and didn't conjure up a rosy scene of optimistic bunk.

We carried another story to the effect that Anthrax had been found in cattle on a Wayne county farm. Another paper carried a story, "No Proof of Anthrax." There WAS proof of anthrax, a terribly serious cattle disease. Tests made by veterinarians showed plainly that Anthrax did exist. The Democrat feels sorry for the farmer whose cattle have been exposed to the dread disease, but sees no reason to blind our readers to the truth.

We feel that farmers who take this paper are entitled to know the facts of the news. We hope that you will learn to feel that The Democrat is telling you the true story, regardless of how the telling of that story may affect us.

If you'd rather have optimistic blab than the truth, we'll be glad to oblige you. But we feel that you want to know the right story, even if the truth is unpleasant.

BACK TO SCHOOL

School days are getting under way next Monday, with Wayne's public school system starting classes on that date. While the kids may complain about having to get back to work, the chances are that they're glad to have classes commence. It takes a vacation to show you how much fun your work really is.

The local school system has assembled an instructional staff of which the school board may be proud. Many of the teachers have shown their worth by work in past years. The new teachers come to Wayne with the best of recommendations. If you are out of touch with Wayne's public school system, you should get acquainted. You'll find the faculty members eager to show you around the school building and explain various interesting points to you. The chances are that you'll be amazed to discover just how splendid Wayne's school system really is.

PIGSKIN DAYS

Football days will be with us again before long, which makes this writer at least exceedingly happy. Maybe you don't care for football. If you don't, I'll bet a couple of rupees that it's because you don't understand the game.

Crisp, autumn days! A crowd assembled to see twenty-two young Americans do battle. The blare of band music. The cheers of the spectators. The game starts. There's the kick-off. Look, he's got the ball. See him dodge past that end. Oh! They got him.

Look at those boys fight. Don't tell me that the days of glorious physical combat are past.

No thrill? Huh! If you can't get a thrill out of that, there's something wrong with you.

LET THE PUBLIC KNOW

If a merchant has some new and important facts about his business that the public needs to know he advertises. A great and sovereign state under similar conditions, files the information away in its archives and lets the public depend upon stray bits that seep out. If a merchant's customers lose by his neglect they have effective means of showing their resentment. If residents of the state lose because of its negligence they can tell their troubles to the judge, and everyone knows how sympathetic he is likely to be. The new traffic law is a case in point. It prohibits or requires a lot of things. Severe penalties are provided. But how many know anything about them? Have many any chance to know except by reading stray bits that have gotten into the papers? But if you violate some of the provisions the judge doesn't let you off. He says you are supposed to know the law and there is nothing to do but walk up to the captain's office and settle. A supply of copies of the law in pamphlet form is promised, but you will have to go to the trouble of finding a copy. If this law were published in the newspapers every person in the state would have a chance to be informed about it. Scores of people might avoid paying fines for unintentional violations. How can anyone observe, or respect, a law that he knows nothing about?—Ole Buck.

Here's a tip. Take a dollar bill. Fold it up. Fold it again. Fold it still a third time. Now open it up. You'll find it in creases. There's positively no extra charge for this money making hint.

HE DOESN'T WANT WAR

The farmers of the United States can be counted upon to support all movements for disarmament. Never have farmers promoted a war. They are lovers of the homestead and the family circle, and all their tendencies are in the direction of peace and quietness. The farmer is no adventurer bent on plunder nor any conqueror bent on fame.

Furthermore, the typical farmer is a sober, honest man. He is left cold by the specious glamor of war, and in his heart he abhors the lying and chicanery which are necessarily characteristic of every war. Frugal, he hates the waste of war and the preparation for war.

More and more, too, the farmer is coming to realize that war is contrary to his best economic interests. There are industries which profit through war and which find it advantageous to promote huge armaments and vast military and naval expenditures. This is not true of agriculture. For agriculture needs most of all economic stabilization, ironing out the peaks of inflation and the valleys of depression. War is an enemy to any such process. Temporary profits may come to agriculture in wartime, but any benefits derived from them are sure to be more than wiped out by the losses that will inevitably follow. The situation in which agriculture finds itself today is traceable ultimately to a war that ended nearly thirteen years ago.

I have no doubt that the farmers of every other country hold substantially the same views on the subject. If the interests and the convictions of the farmers of the world were considered, there could never be a war. The farmers see no reason why the nations should not disarm, and disarm rapidly. —Senator Arthur Capper of Kansas.

THE FIRE MENACE

This country needs an intensive public movement against fire waste. It cannot too often be repeated that the individual is generally solely responsible for the gigantic annual fire toll in lives and property. The fire insurance industry, aided by various public and private organizations and groups, carries on an unceasing, year-round work in an effort to promote better understanding of fire hazards, fire-resistant building construction, more adequate fire fighting facilities, and building inspections. This work has certainly not failed—without it our fire waste would reach a far larger total than at present.

Fire prevention is mainly a matter of using one's eyes and one's common sense. If wiring is regularly inspected, corners kept free of accumulations and chimneys and heating plants cleaned and examined, the average chances of burning will be small.

Let's give fire the careful treatment it deserves—and by doing that, save the greater part of the half-billion dollars of property and the ten thousand lives that the "red menace" now destroys each year. —Madison Star-Mail.

Consolation—The Lord gave us our faces but we can all pick our own teeth.

MORBID EVANGELISM

One of the most extreme examples of morbid evangelism has been furnished by a preacher in Baltimore, who used a casket as a pulpit as he preached a sermon on death. Fortunately, although he might have selected a funeral chapel for his appeal, the sermon was preached in a vacant lot, so it is presumed that the fresh air of the outdoors alleviated somewhat the grewsomeness of the environment.

The setting was particularly designed for an extension of that old fashioned treatment of religious appeal, an attempt literally to scare human beings into the church. In this case the evangelist saw to it that those of tender years heard him talk of death, which as the law of averages goes, reasonably might be far distant from them. He grouped 50 children directly in front of the coffin, and, pounding it with his Bible, he shouted "some day you will lie in one of these!"

That was a true enough statement. Death at last will overtake every person who heard the voice of the evangelist, and burial in a casket awaits the majority. The only exceptions are cremation and death when the body is not recovered. However true the statement was, it may be criticized and condemned on the ground that it was unnecessary. No doubt it was impressive at the moment. Little children are easily awed by a big voice and sepulchral tones. They also are easily frightened by coffins and skeletons and the like, so this evangelist found it easy to play on their emotions as he sought to win converts in large numbers. The setting could have been made more lifelike (or deathlike) if the lid of the coffin had been removed and a wax figure had been placed in the casket. That would have impressed the children even more.

The suggestion is made herein that morbid evangelism hurts Christianity more than it helps it. If there is a thing of beauty to be enjoyed by human beings, portrayal and exploitation of its true values would be much more efficacious than deliberate attempts to instill into the minds of little children a deadly fear of another extreme. There is beauty in religion and there is substance in the Christian life. The preacher cannot hope to frighten converts into his church by shouting "Boo" at them.

A coffin as a pulpit simply does not appeal to anyone who has any sense of justice and fairness. Besides, does it not betray a weakness on the part of one who resorts to such morbid treatment of that which is divine? —Sioux City Journal.

AN ITEMIZED STATEMENT

What would you think if you ran a bill at the grocer's and at the end of the period he would submit a lump sum statement and request payment? You'd kick, wouldn't you? And demand an itemized statement.

Why shouldn't the same business care be employed in demanding itemized statements from tax-spending agencies? Why should not the school boards that spend the largest amount of tax money be compelled to make at least a yearly accounting to the people? Why should not village and town boards show in a very simple and concise manner how every dollar of public money is spent?

The policy of requiring all agencies spending public money to make an itemized report is sound and constantly grows in favor. Every good citizen should approve laws that would say to all public officials: "Now tell the people in a very simple and complete manner how you get the money and how you spent it. You have not discharged your public duty until you have done that."

If more publicity were employed in keeping the people informed, less would be needed in arousing interest in the formation of taxpayers' leagues and explaining to the public how the horse came to get away and where he went. —York Republican.

"Wed and End It All" Creed Is Modern Error

"When I am low in my mind," says Tallulah Bankhead, the actress, "I always think I'll end it all by getting married."

Which brave words place the lady plumb in this century where she belongs, for this sentiment is as certain proof of her contemporaneity as a vaccination mark on the thigh instead of the arm, writes Gretta Palmer. It expresses the mood of a generation of women who have passed through the stage of reckless jubilation of the Scott Fitzgerald flapper and carried their high spirits into adult life.

For the distinctive quality of the young woman of today is not her waning ability to cook nor her tendency to tussle with higher mathematics nor her gruesome habit of using cigarets and cocktails to keep going. It is her avidity for life. It is the fierce determination to squeeze experience out of every minute and to make of life a dangerous and foolhardy affair.

Adventures in the past were not for women; they were for men—and for men who took good care to remain footloose. Marriage to these men of earlier times meant a stowing up of the tempo of their life and a deadening of the possibilities of adventure. It was a confession that a man had reached the pantaloons and posset stage and that his days of intense living were at an end.

It is evident that this attitude toward marriage is no longer monopolized by the men. Women, too, want to have their fling before they settle down in the ingle-nook and eat their meals on time. They want to sow their spiritual wild oats and play with many brands of fire and they fiercely guard their freedom from the mole stations of the men who want to marry them and provide a home.

There is an apparent logic in the attitude of these ladies, who insist on taking their fun where they find it and who have a shrewd suspicion that they will never find it in a suburban home. But they err when they regard marriage to some high-spirited young suitor with the same eye to chary distrust with which the gay dog of the past looked upon his wedding to one of the prime ladies of his day.

Marriage got its bad name among the high-spirited in the old days when wives were apt to be prim and dull. If the buccaneering modern woman married young and had her adventures in the company of a man equally impatient of the fastness of the old-fashioned home the bugaboo of "setting down" need never overtake them.

Lessman Children Have Family Reunion Sunday

A family reunion, at which the seven daughters of Mrs. Minnie Lessman, together with their husbands and children and a few other relatives and friends, gathered to spend the day together, took place Sunday in the large grove on the F. R. Roggenbach farm home at Altona. The group came together for a family picnic at noon and a social afternoon. They also remained for a picnic supper.

Those present for the event were Mr. and Mrs. Carl Kophamer and Mrs. and Mrs. John Kophamer and children, of Sterling, Illinois; Mr. and Mrs. Henry Rewinkle and family of near Emerson; Mr. and Mrs. George Friedrich and family of Madison, Kansas; Mr. and Mrs. Charles Roggenbach and family, Mr. and Mrs. Anton Pfeuger and family, and Mr. and Mrs. Chauncey Agler. The Messdames Kophamer, Rewinkle, Friedrich, Roggenbach, Pfeuger and Agler are the seven daughters of Mrs. Minnie Lessman who was one of the honored guests at the picnic. Their one and only son and brother, Wilbur Lessman, of Pasadena, California, was not present being at present on a trip in Oregon.

Others who were present at the reunion were Mr. and Mrs. Henry Bartling and family of near Wakefield, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Pfeuger and family, the Misses Marion and Mildred Agler, Miss Lily Haber, and Mrs. Nau, the latter two of Madison, Kansas.

ARRIVE HOME SATURDAY NIGHT

Mrs. Carl E. Wright and children arrived home Saturday night from about a three weeks' motor trip and visit with relatives in Colorado and Wyoming. They visited Mrs. Wright's sister, Mrs. A. C. Dean, at Colorado Springs, the Ralph Rundell family at Denver and their son and brother, Maurice Wright, at Torrington, Wyoming.

Carroll Orr brought back a heckuva good story from the Fremont Legion convention. He told me if I used it, to leave his name out, so I won't say anything about him. When he told me he'd heard a good story at the Legion convention I was all prepared to blush, being of a highly sensitive nature and having heard that the Legionaires were rough fellows in the matter of stories. But I was disappointed. It wasn't that kind of a story at all.

Once upon a time, the tale goes, there was a fellow who was the Hero of the Johnstown Flood. He never forgot it, and all the rest of his life his friends listened to how he had been the Hero of the Johnstown Flood and the wonderful exploits he had performed in that crisis.

Finally he died and went to heaven. Even death failed to cool his ardor for retelling the tale of the Johnstown Flood and his valor. All the angels listened attentively except one little wizened, dried-up old man who snickered and sneered every time the Hero of the Johnstown Flood told his story. The Hero finally got tired of the little old man's disrespectful attitude and went to St. Peter.

"Everybody," he told St. Peter, "except one little old man listens to my story of the Johnstown Flood very respectfully, and that one little old man is positively insulting. Who is he, anyhow?"

"Him?" said St. Peter. "Why, that's Noah."

Appearance of the Ringling-Barnum circus in Sioux City Monday reminds me of one time I attended the show in Sioux City some few years ago and the tent nearly blew down. The wind roared, and the center poles of the big top danced up and down crazily. Four or five canvasmen grabbed hold of every pole to hold it in place, and they were lifted right off the ground.

The crowd got panicky, and started stampeding for the exits. Thousands of people were jamming their way for the open air, and many might have been killed.

The performers had all left the ring. At the height of the mad scramble, two performers, Con Colleano and Lillian Letzel, ran out into the arena and calmly started their acts. People turned around to look. The danger to the two brave performers must have been great with the tent jumping up and down in the wind, but their fearlessness averted a panic.

Lillian Letzel was killed this spring when a piece of her aerial rigging crystallized. Con Colleano, Letzel's husband in private life, is still carrying on the circus tradition.

An old circus advance man friend of mine has told me much of circus life in the early days. The circus back in the early part of this century was generally a hardboiled, rough place with swindlers galore. He told me that one circus he worked on was paid $5,000 a year for the ticket selling privilege. Walk-away money and short changing were the profit sources to the man who bought the right to sell tickets.

He told me that in the early days the ticket box top was always above the eye-level of the purchaser. The ticket seller kept up a steady patter "Have your correct change ready, please. Watch your change." A purchaser advanced to the ticket box. He laid a five dollar bill on the box and said "Two tickets, please." When his change was counted out to him he was given a short cut on both ends, "Two tickets are two dollars and one is three and here's your two one-dollar tickets."

As the purchaser reached up for his money he was crowded away from the box by canvasmen. By the time he had a chance to look at his money he was 15 feet away from the short-change artist, who was saying, "Have your correct change ready, please. Count your change before you get away from the ticket window."

My friend tells me that this is almost non-existent any more. He says the circuses have cleaned house.

Pointers for Work Around Farm Homes

Early seeding of winter oats is necessary to get good returns from the crop. Experiments show that late seeding is often responsible for the low yield of fall-sown oats in the South.

American consumers of meat are demanding pork products with more lean in proportion to fat than formerly. The present demand is for a hog with a slaughter weight of about 200 pounds, rather long, fairly deep, fairly well finished, and with a good proportion of lean meat.

Winter killing causes nearly as heavy losses to the winter wheat crop as all wheat diseases combined. Using hardy varieties, sowing in stubble or cornstalks, preparing a firm seed-bed on fallowed land by means of a disk-foot cultivator, sowing with furrow drills at proper rates and dates, and manuring with straw, reduce winter injury to wheat.

The Democrat's Farm News Page

Chas. Ash Farm Is One of Wayne County's Best

When Chas. Ash moved onto his farm a mile and a half south of Wayne 35 years ago he paid $35 per acre for it, and thought he was paying a fairly high price. During the boom period following the World War he was offered $400 an acre for it and refused to sell.

Besides his 160-acre farm south of Wayne, Mr. Ash has a 320-acre wheat farm in Colorado, which is farmed by one of Mr. and Mrs. Ash's sons, Chas. L. Ash. The son has informed his parents that the Colorado wheat crop is not so good this year.

The Ash farm has 16 fine buildings, occupying a floor space of approximately 12,300 square feet. When they moved onto the place, there was just a small part of the present house and a small part of one of the present barns. Mr. Ash has built the rest of the buildings, doing most of his own carpenter work and all of the painting.

The home is one which would be a credit to any city. It is a fine 12-room house, with bathroom, city electricity, running water and a hot air furnace. It has hardwood floors and woodwork and presents a highly attractive appearance.

Just outside the back-door is an ingenious icebox arrangement which Mr. Ash figured out himself. A neat little house has been built on top of a deep, brick-walled cistern. A dumb-waiter contrivance is attached to two sets of chain hoists which rise or lower it into the well. The dumb-waiter has plenty of shelf space to take care of icebox needs. Mrs. Ash says she has kept a thermometer in her icebox at times, and that the temperature is usually below 40 degrees.

Mr. Ash has been painting his buildings the last few weeks. He repaints them regularly, and uses the same colors every year. He has found that by using this method he can give each building a fresh coat of paint every year or so and keep his farm looking nice and span. He is a great believer in the "save the surface and you save all" idea.

Mr. Ash works the 160-acre farm himself, with the occasional help of an extra man. He is 75 years old, but is just as hard a worker as any frisky young farmer just starting to work. He is a living refutation of the theory that hard work will wear a man out—living proof of the idea that work and plenty of it is the best tonic in the world. You'd never guess to visit with him or see him doing his farm work that he was even close to 75 years old. His outlook on life is fresh and young.

This year he has 50 acres in oats, 55 acres in corn, 10 acres of native hay land and 15 acres of alfalfa. He says that in the 35 years he has been on the present place, this is the worst year he has ever encountered, and his wife agrees with him. Their corn crop, they say, is practically a failure. They have not been bothered with the grasshoppers, but say that the drouth has been responsible for their poor crop outlook.

The land is a splendidly situated tract, gently rolling and rich, located close to town.

Mr. Ash has a tractor for heavy plowing and running the binder. The tractor takes care of the real heavy work and eight head of horses do the other work around the place. He likes horses, and has had a hard time reconciling himself to the tractor, but admits that it accomplishes a lot of heavy work in a small time.

The Ashes have always raised calves and fed out a carload. They have found that method very satisfactory. They aim to ship out a carload of cattle and one or more carloads of hogs every year. They raise Polled Shorthorn cattle, and have Guernseys for milking. At present, they have 20 head of calves on pasture and 20 head of spring calves, besides 15 milk cows.

They are feeding 60 Hampshire pigs. Mr. Ash has been the recipient of much favorable comment from other farmers in regard to his hog-raising.

Mr. Ash loves good machinery, and he has most every kind of it on his place. The tractor, binder, corn sheller, and all other pieces of equipment are all taken care of by Mr. Ash, and are always kept in their sheds and kept up properly. He does all his own repair work, and believes that he saves many dollars by it.

The blacksmith shop is an interesting spot on the Ash farm. He has all necessary equipment to do his own work, and when he gets busy, the place looks like a real professional blacksmith shop.

The barns are buildings of which any farmer could be proud. They are kept clean and in good shape throughout. They are spacious, and are equipped with electric lights, as are all the other buildings.

One building on the farm is a farm museum. The reporter saw a buggy there that was over 50 years old, and saw all the other buggies that the Ashes have had for years, all neatly stored away. A plow that was over 40 years old was in this building. It was an interesting place to inspect, and it must hold many pleasant memories for the Ash family.

The Ashes have lived in Wayne county for over 40 years and have seen the country go through good times and bad, so they are not particularly worried over present conditions. There have been years when it has been a struggle for them, but things have always come out all right.

Mr. and Mrs. Ash say that farm taxes are too high, and that tax reduction is one thing which farmers are all especially interested in. They believe that some measure will have to be taken by farmers to insure lower tax levies in periods of depressions.

Mr. and Mrs. Ash have four children, all grown up and away from home. One son, Chas. R., has a farm between Wayne and Wakefield. Maxwell is on a farm in the same vicinity. Their daughter is the wife of Dr. P. A. Stevens of Oklahoma A. and M. college at Stillwater, Okla. The other son, Chas. L., operates their Colorado wheat farm.

It is easy to see how the children would love to come back home to this pleasant farm called Brookdale. It's a calm, restful place with plenty of trees, a good orchard, and an attractive yard. The yard is one of Mrs. Ash's hobbies.

Her real hobby, though, is the raising of white leghorn chickens. She has over 300, and has the remarkable record of having paid the household expenses this year and last year with the profits from her chickens. The eggs pay the bills, and she has found it more profitable, even with eggs at their current low prices, to sell eggs than to sell poultry. She knows just what it costs her to run her poultry business, and she knows just how much profit she is making when she sells a case of eggs.

Mr. and Mrs. Ash are old members of The Nebraska Democrat's family of readers, having taken the paper ever since they were married. The Chas. Ash subscription is one of the oldest ones on The Democrat list. They say that they have stuck to The Democrat through thick and thin, and The Democrat sincerely hopes that they'll enjoy the paper for many more years to come.

Butter, Eggs and Cattle May Increase in Price

Steady to firm cattle prices and seasonably higher butter and egg prices are seen for Nebraska farmers during the next 30 days by the Nebraska economic situation monthly report as made from the agricultural college by Prof. Harold Hedges.

Little or no improvement in wheat prices, lower corn prices, weak hog prices and lower poultry prices also are probable during the period. The progress of the corn crop is highly important as it will influence livestock operations, the report says.

Prof. Hedges reports that present conditions point toward an average corn crop in Nebraska but smaller than last year. He says rainfall must continue liberal in most sections of the state to maintain prospects for an average crop.

With normal progress of the growing corn crop, the college of agriculture professor believes lower prices for corn are probable in the next 30 days. The usual trend of prices is downward from August to September. With some indication that farmers have been holding their hogs from the market, Prof. Hedges says some weakening in hog price seems likely for Nebraska farmers. Shortage of corn and a tendency to hold fall pigs and feed out small grains along with the fact that hog prices rose sharply late in August last year may have a tendency to cause farmers to hold for that market this year, he reports.

The recent improvement in fat cattle prices and more definite evidence of available feed should improve the demand for stocker and feeder cattle in the weeks just ahead. The Aug. 1 report of cattle on feed indicates there were 13 per cent fewer cattle on feed in the state than last year.

Seasonal gains in butter are expected, higher egg prices and lower poultry prices.

Stunted Sudans Often Are Fatal to Cattle

South Dakota State college reports that investigation in various parts of the state reveals cases of live stock poisoning where stock has been pastured or had access to such forage plants as sorghums or sudan grass. When these plants are stunted by adverse conditions such as drouth, frost or by being trampled on in the course of grazing, prussic acid, a deadly poison, is apt to be formed in the plant tissues and may prove fatal to any live stock that is pastured on the crop.

Reports indicate that live stock has been poisoned by grazing on one portion of the field, while in grazing on other portions of the field no serious results have been noticed. Such a result may no doubt be due to the fact that the plants may be stunted in one part of the field and not in the other.

Some reports received at the college this year indicate losses of stock from feeding of the dry fodder. Possibly such losses from the eating of dry fodder are more apt to occur when the fodder has not been sufficiently cured. Some stock men believe that where the fodder is cured in the shock, later stacked, and permitted to go through the sweat, that no serious losses are experienced from poisoning.

Where farmers are planning to use sorghum or sudan grass, a good practice would be to first try out the forage on one or more animals of inferior value before risking the entire herd. Should nothing happen to these trial animals within a week or two, the forage may prove safe feed for stock.

Largest Steer Passes Thru Wayne Saturday

Pedro, said to be the world's largest beef steer, passed through Wayne enroute to West Point Saturday morning. The animal was to be exhibited at the county fair there.

Carl Danielson of Spencer, Nebr., owns the enormous steer, and is exhibiting him at county fairs throughout this section of the country. Mr. Danielson says that he makes very little money from exhibiting Pedro but he feels that it is good advertising.

Mr. Danielson has a sworn affidavit to the effect that the weight of Pedro was 3,080 pounds on August 11, 1931.

Pedro is a shorthorn-Herford, aged four years, with a girth of 10 feet, four inches, and a length from nose to root of tail of 10 feet, four inches. The mammoth steer is dark red, with white markings and brockie face.

ANTRAX KNOWN TO EXIST NEAR HERE

Seven Head of Cattle Die on Carl Leonard Farm.

Dr. J. D. Kopp of the bureau of animal industry told a Nebraska Democrat reporter Friday afternoon that Anthrax had been definitely located in cattle on the Carl Leonard farm 10 miles east and three miles south of Wayne.

The Bureau of Animal Industry representative said that positive diagnosis of anthrax had been received from the Dr. Norden Laboratories at Lincoln and from the Allied Laboratories at Sioux City.

The Leonard farm had lost seven head of cattle on Friday afternoon, including one that died Thursday. Dr. Kopp instructed Mr. Leonard to burn all carcasses of dead cattle.

He said that the only other cases of anthrax near here which had been reported to him were at Wynot and Niobrara, and said that he thought there was no danger of spread of the disease if the outbreak on the Leonard farm was closely watched.

Dr. Kopp's report was in direct contradiction to an item carried in another newspaper last week to the effect that presence of anthrax in this territory had not been proven.

Anthrax is a soil infection and is known to live for 10 years.

Nebraska State Fair Ready for Opening

Friday, Sept. 4, the opening gong will ring on the best state fair ever held in Nebraska, according to fair officials. That is a strong statement, for Nebraska has had some record-breaking fairs, but from the inquiries made, entries offered, space taken and interest shown, officials of the fair think the 1931 edition will be the greatest of all.

Live stock entries and agricultural exhibits are up to the usual quality and number. The new 4-H club building will be dedicated on Sunday, Sept. 6.

The entertainment will include five days of good harness and saddle races and three days of auto races. Circus and vaudeville acts will be given in front of the grandstand. The evening program will be given by Thavi's singers and players revue will be presented with elaborate scenic effects and by skillful performers. A fireworks display will conclude the evening performance.

The fair begins Friday, Sept. 4, and runs eight full days. There is no program the opening day.

Country Church Holds Golden Jubilee Sunday

Peace Reformed church three miles southwest of Hoskins celebrated its 50th anniversary last Sunday. It was established on August 30 just fifty years ago. Rev. A. Dumin is the pastor and there are about 80 members.

In honor of the occasion, services were held all day; morning, afternoon and evening, with special music by the Christian Endeavor and the male quartette. A large crowd, including all the former pastors except one, Rev. Emil Lehrer, of Oregon, was present. Dinner at noon and lunch were served between services by the ladies aid of the congregation.

Those from Wayne attending were Mr. and Mrs. Henry Frevert.

Grading of nine miles of Highway No. 20 west of Randolph has been completed.

Are You a TALKER or a DOER?

Do you merely TALK about patronizing home industry and home-town merchants or do you DO it? They don't rate a gun by the amount of noise it makes but by the work it does, and your talk about loyalty to Wayne won't help.

But if everybody in Wayne would decide to back up their talk with a resolution to trade with home-town merchants, Wayne could be made a bigger and better city.

Incidentally, if you have any body or fender repair work on your automobile, auto painting, polishing, top repairing or auto glass work, the home-town fixer is—

Wherever You Find a McCormick-Deering Tractor You'll Find a SATISFIED USER!

The man who owns a McCormick-Deering Tractor knows what low operating cost means. He knows the ease of doing heavy work with a minimum amount of labor. He knows how fast farm work can be accomplished. It's real economy to own a FARMALL.

Here's An Important Announcement

We have just received an announcement of the new McCormick-Deering Tractor, to be known as the F-30 Farmall. It will have a more powerful engine capable of producing more power, with the units of the machine made stronger to withstand the greater power output.

Four-speed transmission, with four point power take-off, is one of the features of this fine new machine. The engine has been increased to approximately 35 horsepower. Enclosed steering gear and reversible front wheels add to its practicability.

The new F-30 Farmall will meet the requirements of the three-plow tractor trade, and will find large favor wherever there is demand for larger tractors than the present 10-20.

Fall Terms on Tractors Are Now Available.

Winside News

Mr. and Mrs. William Peterson Jr. and daughter who have been visiting Mr. and Mrs. William Peterson, Sr., left Thursday for their home at Sterling, Colo.
 Miss Mary Frances Wilson was a guest of Margaret Moore Thursday and Friday.
 Mr. and Mrs. Bert Oman arrived Thursday from Miller, S. D., to see Mrs. Martha Oman, who is seriously ill.
 Miss Yleen Neely returned home Friday after spending the summer at San Bernardino, Calif., where she attended summer school.
 Mrs. Gurney Benshoof spent Friday as a guest of Miss Anna Scheurick at Hoskins.
 Dwight Pinion arrived Thursday from Washington, D. C., to spend a three weeks vacation with Mr. and Mrs. George Pinion. He has a position in the Veterans Bureau at Washington.
 Mrs. Herman Fleer entertained at a lawn party Thursday evening in honor of the birthday anniversary of her daughter Miss Dorothy Fleer.
 The evening was spent at cards at which the high score was made by Miss Helen Iversen and the consolation prize was received by Miss Elizabeth Johnson. A two-course luncheon was served at the close of the evening. There were 25 guests present and Hubert Pokrandt of Norfolk was an out of town guest.

 Needham Bros. of Winside have sold 21 carloads of old corn to livestock feeders near Winside. So far 5 carloads have been delivered with 16 cars yet to come. Mr. C. E. Needham thinks that this is merely a forerunner of what will be shipped in this fall and winter. From present indications the shipped in corn will over-run the corn sales of two years ago when over 100 cars of corn were bought by feeders here. Prices paid were around 48 cents on the track at Winside.
 Gordon Francis, 9 year old son of Mr. and Mrs. G. C. Francis, cut his left ankle severely, just above the instep on a pop case in his father's cafe Thursday evening. The wound bled so profusely that it was necessary to have surgical aid.
 Mrs. Mary Wingate of Hartington spent the week end as a guest of Mr. and Mrs. Ed Lindberg.
 The Carstensen Sand Co., who have the contract for graveling the 8 mile stretch of No. 35 from Winside to highway No. 15, have completed hauling gravel for the east 4 miles and are now completing the stretch near Winside. Gravel for the east end was hauled by truck from a pit at Pilger.

COUNTY FAIR READY FOR OPENING GONG

Oyamas Japs and Happy Ray Revue Are Headliners

Wayne county's fair is in readiness for the opening gong on Wednesday, Sept. 16, according to Fair Board officials. The fair will run for four days, Sept. 16, 17, 18 and 19, and is slated to be the best in the history of the association.

An unusually attractive assortment of entertainment has been lined up for the event, with the five Oyamas and the Happy Ray Revue heading the list. Will Morris and Carroll Bros. and Josephine are other stellar vaudeville acts which will delight fair patrons.

The Five Oyamas present two entirely different acts: one of hand-balancing, pyramiding, ground acrobatics, head jumping on steps and perch and risley work; the other of daring feats on a high perch, slack wire performance by a Japanese lady equilibrist and a two-men comedy barrel kicking number.

The Happy Ray Revue is a tabloid musical comedy company, which is said to have "special scenery, beautiful costumes and pretty girls." This company will present a change of program every evening.

Will Morris, just returned from his third consecutive European tour, is billed as "the merriest wag on wheels" and is a bicycle comedian of national reputation.

Carroll Bros. and Josephine present three acts: a performance on the triple bars, featuring a fast routine of double summersaulting, two-men passes and over-the-bar leaps; Miss Josephine in a high trapeze and loop-the-loop act, and a three people comedy acrobatic novelty.

Many other features of interest to amusement-seekers will be presented. H. J. Miner is president of the Wayne county Fair and Agricultural association, H. B. Craven is vice-president, Rollie W. Ley, is treasurer, and Wm. E. Von Seeger is secretary.

The board of directors consists of Phil Damme, Wayne; Wm. Biermann, Wisner; Dr. Wm. Hawkins, Wayne; Frank Erleben, Wayne; Siman Strate, Hoskins; Peter Ulrich, Winfield; C. H. Morris, Carroll; C. K. Corbit, and G. W. Albert, Wayne.
This will be the ninth annual Wayne county fair.

Auto Accidents Cause Fifteen Deaths in State

Two hundred and thirty-six motor vehicle accidents caused 302 injuries and 15 deaths in Nebraska during the two-week period ending Aug. 25. Collisions and struck pedestrians were each responsible for four deaths. There were 37 trucks involved in accidents. Outstanding causes of accidents were: 39 collisions; 35 skids; 19 reckless drivers; 18 drivers who lost control; 17 who struck pedestrians and drivers with no lights, blinding lights, speed and intoxication.

Of 616 persons injured in all accidents, 12 were permanently disabled, bringing the total number of persons disabled in Nebraska since Jan. 1, 1931, to 323.

Baseball was responsible for 11 of 18 sport accidents. Carelessness in the use of firearms caused 7 injuries and one death. Fifty-five other public accidents were as follows: falls, 18; horseback riding, 17; struck by lightning, 1; rattler bite, 1; runaway, 2; other, 16.

Runaways were responsible for 11 injuries in the farm accident class while nine persons were injured by kicks from horses or cows. Falls were responsible for seven injuries on farms, 12 in industry and 56 in home accidents, two of which caused disabilities. Farm machinery injured 19, disabled two and killed one.

WITH THE WAYNE CHURCHES

Christian Science Society
Beckenbauer Chapel
9:45—Sunday school.
11:00—Services. Subject: Man. Golden Text: Eccle. 7:29.
The public is cordially invited.
The subject of the Lesson-Sermon read at all Christian Science churches and societies on Sunday, August 30, was "Christ Jesus." The object of the citations read was to show what is the spiritual Christ, the image and likeness of divine Spirit, or Son of God, as exemplified in the works of the human Jesus. Also to show what are the good effects with mortals when they properly receive in consciousness, and live in all their acts, the true idea of God. One citation read from the Bible is as follows: "If I do not the works of my Father, believe me not. But if I do, though ye believe not me, believe the works: that ye may know, and believe, that the Father is in me, and I in him." (John 10:37,38). One selection read from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy (p. 332), is as follows: "Christ is the true idea voicing good, the divine message from God to men speaking to the human consciousness. The Christ is incorporeal, spiritual, —yes, the divine image and likeness, dispelling the illusions of the senses; the Way, the Truth, and the Life, healing the sick and casting out evils, destroying sin, disease, and death."

Presbyterian Church

P. A. Davies, Pastor
Next Sunday services are at the following hours: Sunday school, 10:00; Morning worship, 11:00; Young People and Intermediate C. E. services, 6:30; Evening service, 7:30.
After a vacation of four weeks it was a joy last Sunday to be in the pulpit once more. Mrs. A. R. Davis inspired us with another of her beautiful solos.

We were also glad Sunday to welcome into the membership of our church Mr. Ross Hanks, Mr. Clyde Anderson and Mrs. Austin Spahy.

The ladies of the church are planning to serve meals at the Fair. This is no small task. We would urge the men of the church as well as the women to make their plans to give their time to this important work.

Lazy Dollars or Busy Dollars? Asks Expert

By Robert R. Johnston
The difference between good business with everybody happy, and bad business with everybody sad is easily understood if we think about dollars as workers. When dollars work they produce—when they are idle they consume.

For instance, here is just a part of the work your dollars do when you make a purchase of a $20 suit or dress:

You pay the retail store $20.00. The merchant pays the manufacturer $12. For help, rent, light, heat and other expenses he also pays out $7. That leaves the merchant $1 for his own use, which he spends with the butcher, grocer and candle stick makers. So your $20 has gone right to work.

But it doesn't stop there. The manufacturer who receives $12 puts it to work by paying $4.50 for material, $4.50 for labor, $2 for overhead, and puts $1 in his pocket to be spent for food, clothing, shelter and his other needs.

Nor do your busy little dollars stop with the manufacturer. The retail help put their salaries to work, the laborer who made your suit puts his wages to work, and the landlords spend their rents, the lighting companies, food stores and all others who do business with the host of people who are able to spend a few dollars or a few cents because YOU have started the ball rolling—all these keep the ball rolling and rolling until its force is spent.

Let's foot it up and see about how much work these busy dollars of yours have done.

The clothes received and put to work

to work	$20.00
The manufacturer	12.00
Landlord	7.00
Retail help	6.00
Labor	3.00
Service Comp.	2.00
Other retailers	11.00

and start the whole thing over again.

Or, a total of money in trade and circulation due to your $20 purchase of $66.00.

There are about 30 million families in the United States. If each of these families should spend one dollar per day MORE than they are now spending, the daily turnover in trade and activity would be increased by 30 million dollars per day, over two hundred million dollars per week and over ten BILLION dollars per year. For every extra dollar that is put in useful work, three and a half to four dollars actually, go to work. And every dollar which fear keeps from going to work takes four dollars into hiding.

What can you and I do to help put American business back on its feet?

First, we must look into our own minds to see if we are really scared.

Second, we must find out what it is that is scaring us.

Third, we must convince ourselves that we are not children to be scared of the dark.

Fourth, we must get a firm grip on our individual courage.

Fifth, we must act with courage on our behalf in ourselves, our community, our country.

With courage and faith in our hearts we will refuse to live cramped lives, refuse to pinch and haggle, insist to ourselves better lives, insist on having the things and surroundings we want.

Method of Preserving Eggs for Future Use

With eggs low in price but showing signs of advancing later in the fall, many requests are coming in for information on how to preserve them for future use.

The following method, using water glass, is recommended by the U. S. department of Agriculture:

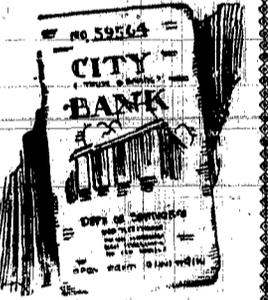

1. Scald, thoroughly clean and dry a five gallon crock.

2. Heat a quantity of water to the boiling point and allow it to cool. Measure out nine quarts of water, place it in the crock and add one quart of sodium silicate, stirring the mixture thoroughly.

3. Place the eggs in the solution. If sufficient eggs are not obtainable when the solution is first made, additional eggs may be added from time to time. This amount will be sufficient to preserve about 15 dozen eggs. Be very careful to allow at least two inches of the solution to cover the eggs at all times.

4. Place the crock containing the preserved eggs in a cool, dry place, well covered to prevent evaporation. Waxed paper covered over and tied around the top of the crock will answer the purpose.

If the cost of sodium silicate is about 30 cents per quart, eggs may be preserved at a cost of approximately two cents a dozen. It is not desirable to use the water glass solution a second time.

The Book of Success

A man's bank book is the best record of his progress. The figures on the pages, the total amount saved, and the regularity of deposits tell much of the man's character. Every dollar saved is a decisive step toward happiness and independence. Regularity in saving is most important, regardless of how little you put away each week. Drop in any time and let a savings officer outline our plan to you. You need only one dollar to start.

The Outline of Oscar

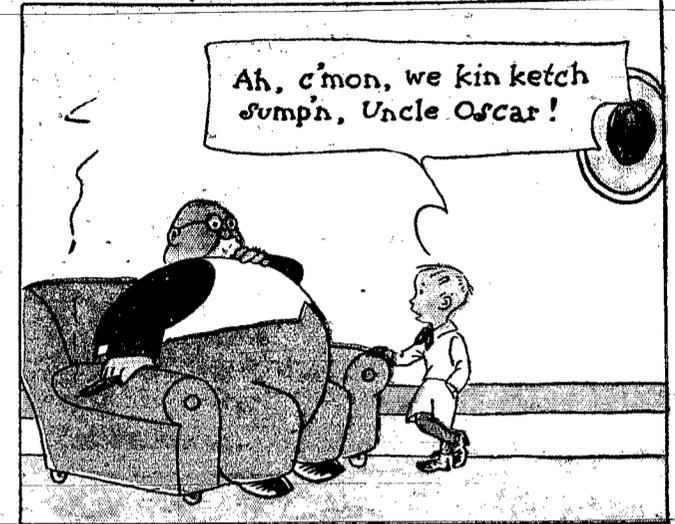

Hold it!

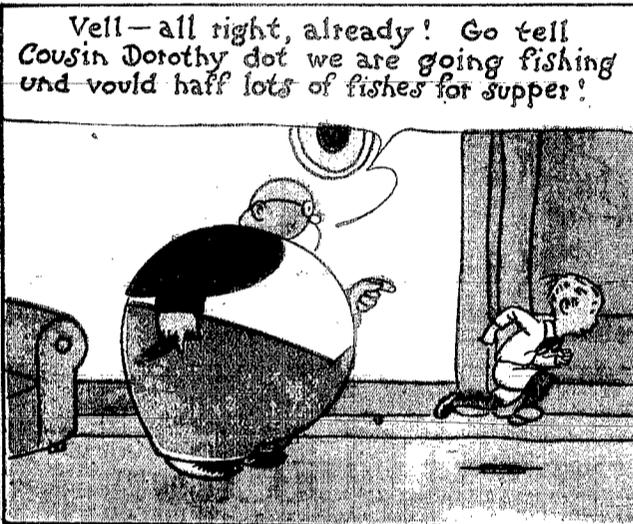

Kin we go fishin' t'day, Uncle Oscar? C'mon, Uncle Oscar, I wanna go fishin'!

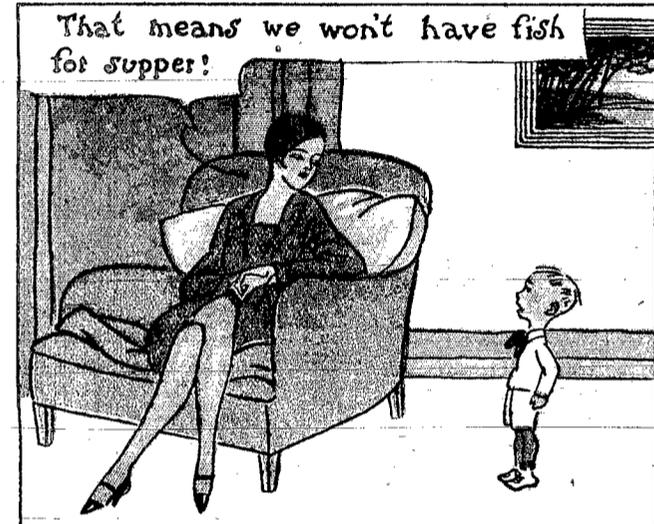

Dot vould be fine, Horace, but dere iss no fishes now in der pond, und —

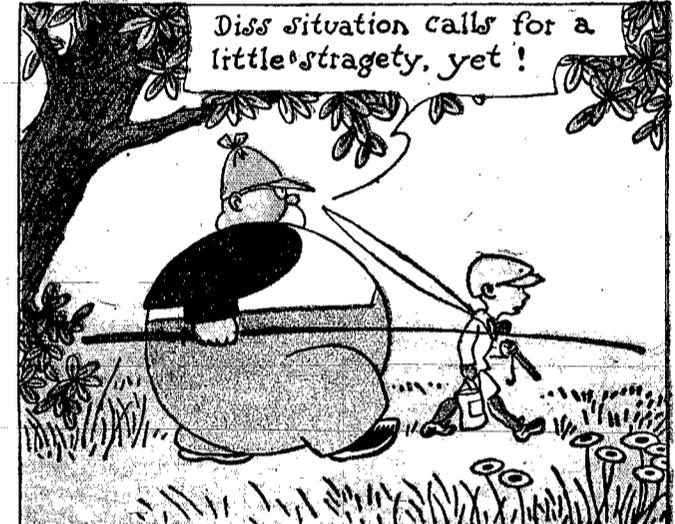

Ah, c'mon, we kin ketch sump'n, Uncle Oscar!

Vell — all right, already! Go tell Cousin Dorothy dot we are going fishing und vould ha'f lots of fishes for supper!

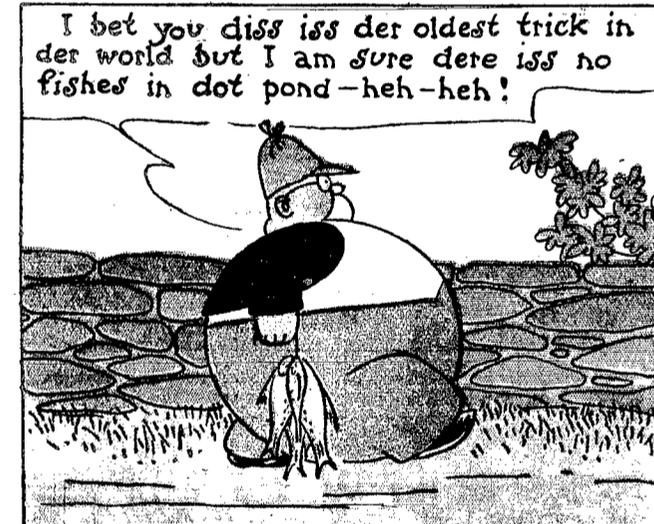

That means we wout have fish for supper!

Diss situation calls for a little stragety, yet!

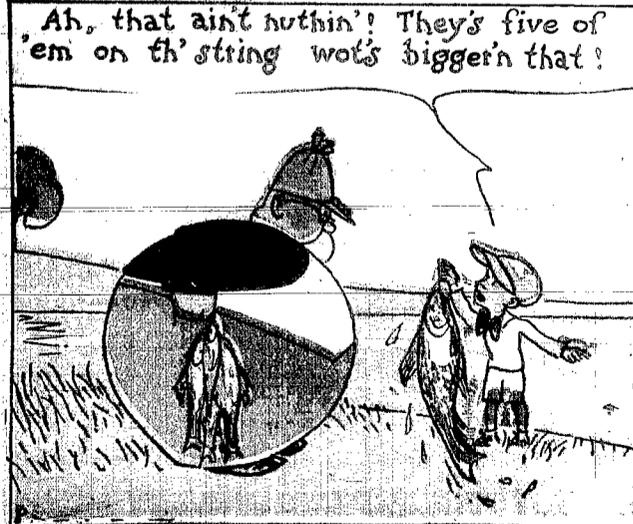

In der meantime, Horace, I vould go backwards to der fish market und buy some fishes So we could mebbe fool Cousin Dorothy!

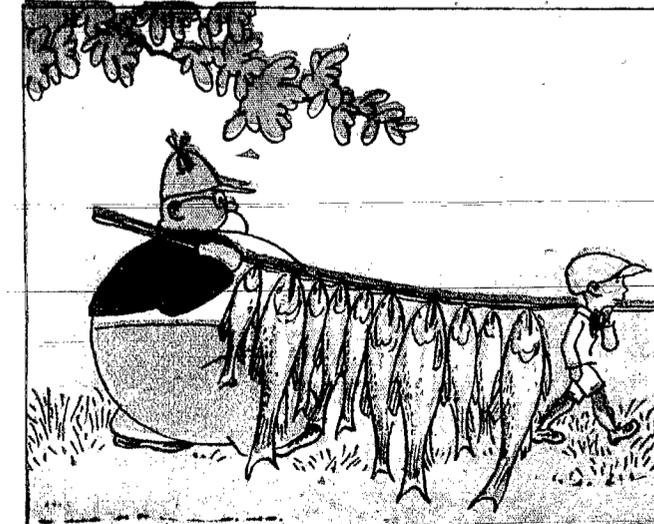

I bet you diss iss der oldest trick in der world but I am sure dere iss no fishes in dot pond — heh-heh!

Und we shouldn't go home mitout nothin' at all! Vot —!

Ah, that aint nuthin'! They's five of 'em on th' string wot's bigger'n that!

Good Heavens! And I bought enough fish for an army!

YES, IN A LARGE OFFICE.

DID YOU QUIT?

NO! I GOT FIRED.

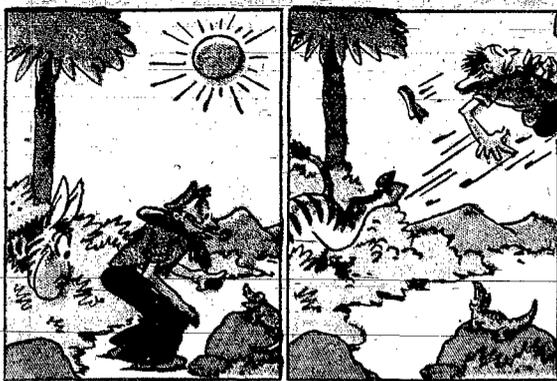

FIRED? WHAT FOR?

I WANTED TO GO HOME AN HOUR BEFORE QUITTING TIME.

YOU SHOULDN'T GET FIRED FOR THAT.

I TURNED THE OFFICE CLOCK AN HOUR FAST AND EVERYBODY LEFT EARLY.

THE ZEBRA

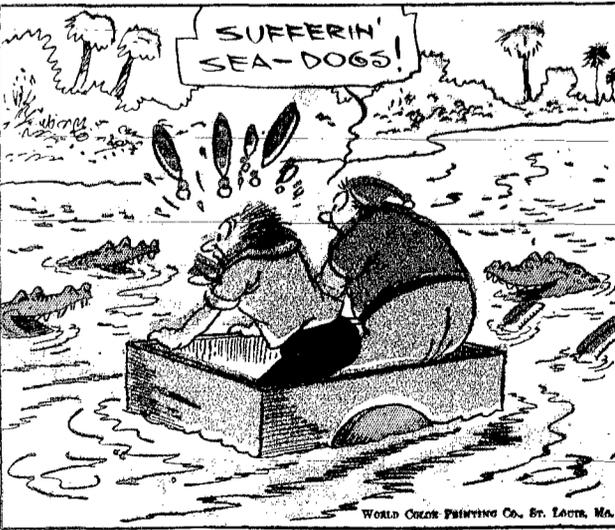

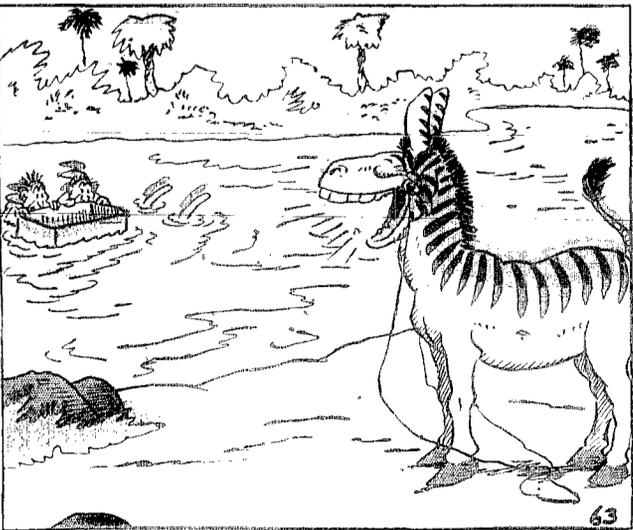

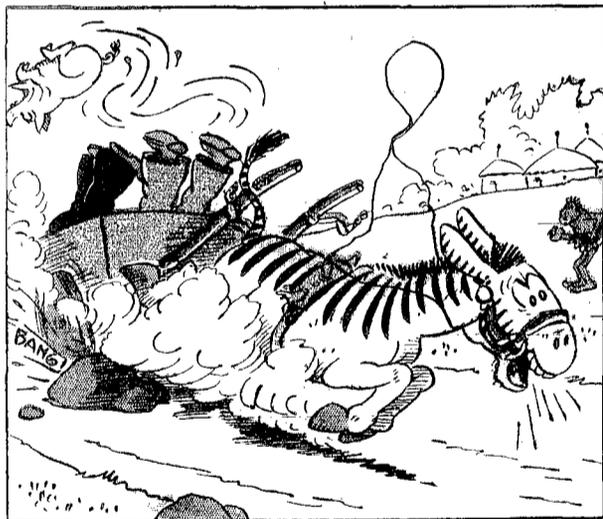

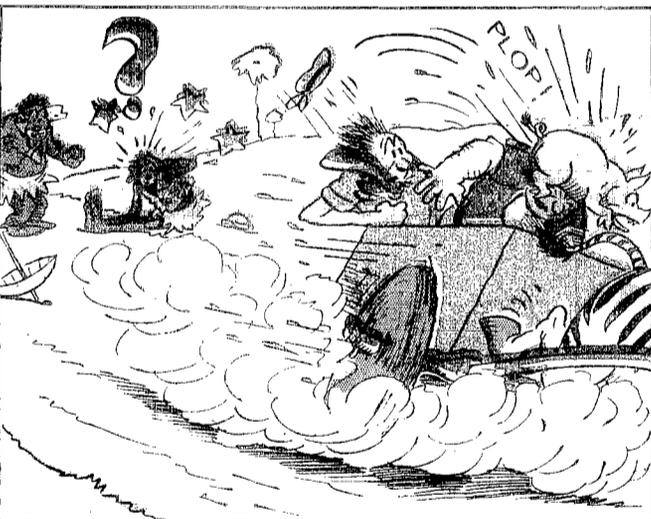

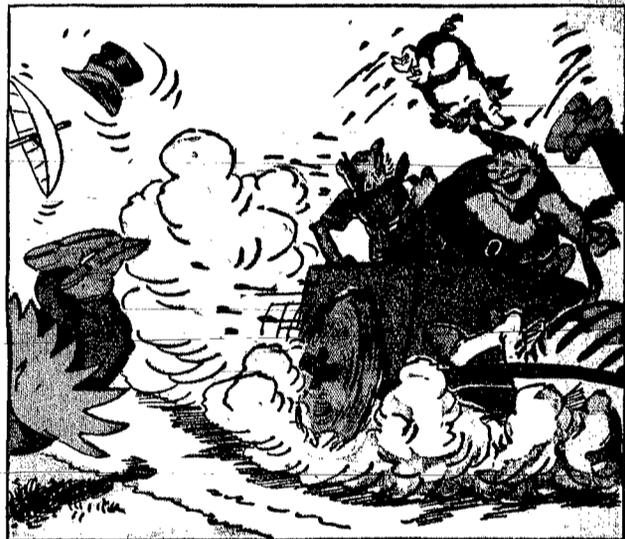

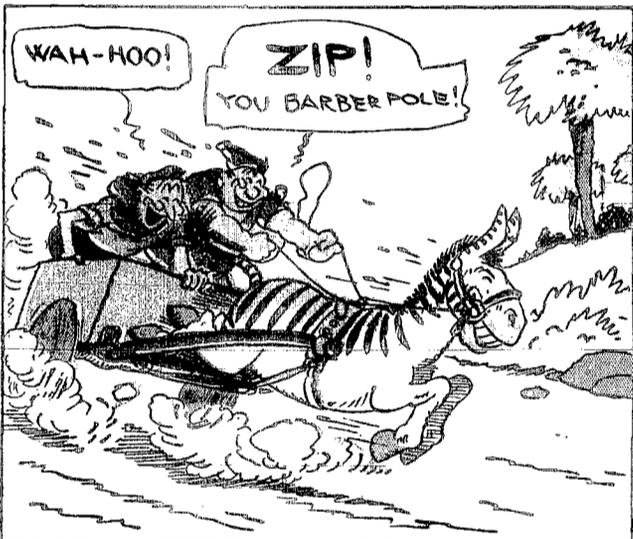

THE MAN OF DASH'N'BL

One time when I was on a cruise to th' west coast of Africa, Perky Swipes, a shipmate of mine, and I went ashore to stir things up a bit. Well s'r, we were wanderin' 'long a road when a native drivin' a zebra hitched to a cart hove alongside of us and asked us if we wouldn't like to drive it. We were willin' to try anything once so we piled into th' cart and he hopped out.

Then th' fun began. That zebra was full of dynamite. Down th' road we tore, with Perky hangin' onto th' lines and yellin' like a wild Indian. Two natives, a fat one carryin' a pig and a skinny one, were walkin' in th' road ahead of us.

After we'd passed 'em th' natives were turning somersaults in th' air and th' pig was hangin' 'round Perk's neck. Right after that a wheel of th' cart hit a rock in th' road. Bam! That made th' zebra mad. Up went his heels. Wham! Up went th' cart right into a nearby river. Th' zebra gave us th' laugh, kicked up his heels and lit out. And there we were, floatin' down th' river in a cart. Then, I'll be dingbusted if a few hours later we didn't drift out into th' ocean and almost alongside of our ship. We used our hands for paddles and were soon aboard. I've never liked zebras since.
