City Expects Big Saving on Paving Bonds Gas Company Is Refused Permission to Cut Pavement.

Saving of at least 25 percent on interest paid by taxpayers on intersection paving bonds is expected by the city council as a result of that body's instructions to the city clerk to advertise for the re-funding of $200,000 bonds now bearing six percent interest.

The bonds are optional after Jan. 2, and the council believes that a considerably lower rate of interest can be secured.

A representative of the natural gas pipe line company appeared before the council Tuesday night and said that his company wanted to cut the pavement from the Corvill garage south of the tracks to the alley north of The Democrat and leave it open for approximately three weeks.

Council members objected, and said that the gas company would either have to reroute their pipes or lay their lines under the sidewalks.

The gas company also asked permission to cut the paving from a half a block west of Main on Third street. The council asked the company to reroute this line a block north, and the superintendent of construction said he would take the matter up with the engineering department.

The council listened to a discussion of the creation of a public improvement district for the graveling of Window street from Seventh to Tenth streets. Council members said that if a petition were brought in with a sufficient number of names on it, they would take action.

A bond absolving the city from liability in connection with any damages which might be sought as a result of the gas company's operations was set at $25,000. This bond is to be furnished by the gas company.

The council voted favorably on a motion to purchase 300 feet of 2 1/2 fire hose and 200 feet of 1 1/2 fire hose.

FORMER WAYNE MAN FILES DAMAGE SUIT

Asks $1250 as Result of Injuries from Auto Accident.

Chris Lueders, former Wayne resident and at present employed in a Bloomfield grocery store, filed a petition in district court on Saturday, Sept. 26, asking $1250 damages from Henry Rohde, Wayne county farmer.

Lueders charges that on the evening of June 28 he was driving his car on Federal Highway No. 81 in Knox county, in a northerly direction. He alleges that Henry Rohde was proceeding along the same highway in a southerly direction and that the defendant was reckless, careless and negligent in failing to have his car under proper control.

He charges that the defendant drove his car to the left of the center of the highway in such a manner as to collide with the plaintiff. He further charges that the defendant could have avoided the accident.

Lueders says that he was badly cut and injured; that he suffered a fracture of the right collar bone, torn ligaments and muscles and severe nervous shock. He says that he has spent $100 in doctors' bills and that he suffered great physical pain and still suffers from the effects of the accident. He charges that he was compelled to be absent from his work at Bloomfield for one month, and was thus further damaged to the extent of $110 wages.

He says that he is also entitled to $107 for repairs on his car, and asks total damages of 1250.

Nearly one-third of the students at Wayne State Teachers' college are members of or have preference for the Methodist church, it was found in a survey of religious affiliations made at the local college. The number of Presbyterians and Lutherans are about equal and together comprise about one-third of the total enrollment.

All other denominations, including 23 students who have no preference, comprise the remaining one-third.

Different religious denominations named by the students are as follows: Methodist, Presbyterian, Lutheran, Catholic, Congregational, Baptist, Christian, Episcopal, Swedish Mission, Christian Science, Latter Day Saint, Friends, United Brethren and Evangelical.

Death Takes C. C. Bastian September 30

Last Rites for Pioneer to Be Held Saturday Afternoon.

Christ C. Bastian, 77-year old Wayne county pioneer, died Wednesday morning, Sept. 30, after a four year illness following a paralytic stroke. Funeral services will be held Saturday afternoon, Oct. 3, at two o'clock at the Evangelical Lutheran church, with Rev. H. A. Teckhaus officiating. Interment will be in the Wayne cemetery.

Christ C. Bastian was born on May 24, 1854, at Verona, Oneida county, New York. While still an infant, he was taken by his parents to Pekin, Ill., where he was raised and educated. On January 16, 1876, he was married in Pekin to Miss Mary Elizabeth Schreck. Soon after their marriage, Mr. and Mrs. Bastian set their faces west, coming to Wayne county March 2, 1876, and locating on a quarter section 10 miles southeast of Wayne. They succeeded a Mr. Rutledge, who had taken the claim two years before and who wanted to go on to the newer west.

Here they began their pioneer life in a dugout. The railroad ended at Wisner at that time. Chas. Erxleben, a relative of the Bastians, was located here and had helped direct their attention to the fertile land.

The Bastians moved into Wayne in 1913, after living on their homestead for 36 years. Mr. Bastian had his first paralytic stroke in 1923.

He and his wife celebrated their golden wedding anniversary in 1926. A reception was held in the Evangelical Lutheran church parlors, and an anniversary dinner was held at the home.

He was a member of the Evangelical Lutheran church. Since August, 1927, when he suffered another stroke, Mr. Bastian has been practically helpless, having lost his ability to speak and walk. His faithful wife cared for him almost constantly during his long years of illness. On Jan. 16, 1931, Mr. and Mrs. Bastian celebrated their fifty-fifth wedding anniversary.

Besides his wife, he leaves to mourn his passing one daughter, Mrs. Anna Cowan of Gardner, Mont.; four sons, Albert and Martin Bastian of Wayne and Adam and Leonard Bastian of Chance, S. D.; 13 grandchildren and two great-grandchildren; two brothers Benjamin Bastian of Huron, S. D., and Paul Bastian of Pekin, Ill., and three sisters.

He was preceded in death by a daughter, Mrs. Otilie Gildersleeve, and a son, Anton Bastian, who was killed in action in France and buried here.

SMALL FIRE AT BOYD

Wayne's volunteer fire department answered a call at 8:10 this morning to the Boyd Hotel. Slight damage was caused from a fire caused by a gasoline water heater. The flames were subdued before they had advanced far enough to cause any serious loss.

"No Hunting" Placards to Be Distributed Free

A number of public-spirited Wayne business and professional men are participating in a movement sponsored by The Nebraska Democrat whereby "No Hunting or Trespassing" signs will be given without charge to farmers in the Wayne territory, for use during the open pheasant season.

The signs will be ready for distribution Saturday, and may be obtained absolutely free. There are no strings to this offer. It will not be necessary for any farmer desirous of securing the signs to spend a cent.

The Democrat is printing the signs in large black type on attractive, colored card-board.

Business firms and professional men paying for the cost of printing the free "No Hunting" placards are: Orr and Orr.

- Thompson and Bichel.
- W. A. Hiscox Hardware.
- L. W. McNatt Hardware.
- State National Bank.
- Fisher-Wright Lumber Co.
- Martin L. Ringer.
- Miller and Shitz.
- Craven Hardware.
- Dr. T. T. Jones.
- Jacques Cleaning Plant.
- Dr. L. W. Jamieson.
- Electric Shoe Shop.
- Dr. W. A. Emery.

Denbeck's Market. Johnson and Hawkins. First National Bank. Wayne Creamery. Merchant and Strahan. Theobald Lumber Co. Wayne Grain and Coal Co. The Nebraska Democrat.

Farmers may secure free signs simply by asking for them at any of the places listed above.

Free "No Hunting" placards were printed by The Democrat and distributed by local merchants last year immediately prior to the open season on pheasant, and more than 3,000 were given out.

Farmers came after the signs last year from as far as Pileger and Hartington, and all were loud in their praise of the idea. Many Wayne business men who participated in the distribution last year said that it was one of the best good will boosting stunts they had ever taken part in.

Quite a few of the farmers who take the signs do not wish to completely ban hunting on their places, but want to post the signs so that hunters will get permission from them before they start on their quest for pheasants. Irresponsible parties are thus kept away.

SHERIFF RECEIVES REPORT OF HOLDUPS

Alleged Robbery Attempts Said to Have Been Unsuccessful

F. L. Rowley, Wakefield blacksmith, reported to Sheriff A. W. Stephens that a holdup man jumped out into the middle of the road on the Wakefield corner two miles north of town Tuesday night and brandished a gun at him, ordering him to halt. He said the man's face was masked. Mr. Rowley told the sheriff that he told his wife and two children to duck their heads, and increased the speed of his car.

Sheriff Stephens drove half way back to Wakefield ahead of the Rowley car.

Ernest Voget reported to the sheriff that he and his driver, Lote Mitchell, were held up by two men on the same corner Tuesday night. Voget said that Mitchell got out of the car and whipped the two men to within an inch of their lives. The two alleged holdup men are said to have come to Wayne following the fight, and are said to be known to Wayne authorities. Neither Voget nor Mitchell would prefer charges against them.

One of the two alleged holdup men reported at the court house Wednesday afternoon. He said he had heard he was alleged to have participated in a holdup, but vigorously denied it. He said that he had stopped his truck and stopped a car to ask for a match. One of the occupants of the car, he said, shot his fist out in a hard blow, and the battle ensued.

The two men who were whipped are said to be considerably larger than Mitchell.

District Court in Equity Session Here Sept. 25

District court met in equity session at the Wayne county court house last Friday, Sept. 25, with Judge Charles H. Stewart presiding. Much of the time was taken up with approval of the City of Wayne's actions to foreclose tax sale certificates and tax liens.

In the case of Mable Clark Wilhelm vs. Margaret E. Clark, the action was dismissed with prejudice. In the matter of the estate of Aaron B. Clark, the appeal of the contestant was dismissed, with taxation of costs continued for further hearing.

Burglars Rob Seven Carroll Firms Friday

Break-Ins Net $200 Cash and Large Quantity of Merchandise.

Burglars visited Carroll Friday night, Sept. 25, and got about $200 in cash, a quantity of silks, some blank cream checks and a supply of cigarettes, after breaking into seven places. Entrance was made into all the places by jimmying a door or window.

The victimized business houses were Bredemeyer's grocery, Nate Stirling's general store, Bellows and Davis general store, Cook's restaurant, Christensen's filling station, a pool hall and a cream station.

About $200 in currency was taken from the safe at Bredemeyer's store; Nate Stirling lost a quantity of silks; Cook's restaurant and the pool hall both lost a large quantity of cigarettes, and a bunch of blank checks and a small amount of money were taken from the cream station.

County Will Enforce Pool Hall Regulation

Immediately following the hearing of a delinquent minor case in county court Tuesday morning, Judge J. M. Cherry sent a notice to each of Wayne's three pool halls notifying the managers that they would be prosecuted if they permitted minors to frequent their places.

County Attorney H. D. Addison and Sheriff A. W. Stephens say that any violations of pool hall regulations which come to their attention will be vigorously prosecuted.

It is understood that county officials are also planning rigid enforcement of the law which forbids the sale of cigarettes to minors.

Pipe Line Company Gets Right of Way

H. Paul Olsen was awarded damages of $80 in county court last Saturday, Sept. 26, when the petition of the Missouri Valley Pipe Line company to condemn right of way and easements across Mr. Olson's property was heard. The gas company asked the condemnation in order that pipe lines might be put across the land.

George Berres, Martin L. Ringer and Herman Midler acted as commissioners to determine the extent of damages to the land. The gas company had purchased right of way from all other properties that their pipe line is to cross, but had been unable to reach an agreement with Mr. Olson.

Midland Next On Wildcat Schedule

Wayne's Wildcat football team will try to hold its winning stride tomorrow night when the locals meet the Midland college gristers at the college field at eight o'clock.

Midland, with a loss to Norfolk Junior college by a narrow margin, chalked up against them have been going through strenuous drills this week, with much attention being given to forward pass defense. Coach Ray Hickman has been polishing the Wildcats' running attack and smoothing out weak spots in the line defense. New additions to the local squad are Brodhagen of Pierce, 235 lb. guard, and Sherry of York, an end.

Six full teams were working out on the Wildcat practice field Monday and Tuesday night. Scrimmage was curtailed Wednesday because of inclement weather.

Wildcats Win First Tilt By 9 to 7 Count

Long Runs Thrill Crowd at College Grid Game Saturday Night.

The dope bucket was not only upset but was just about kicked to pieces Saturday night when the Wayne State Teachers' college Wildcat football team eked out a 9 to 7 win over the reputedly fast Morningside college team.

Advance dope had given the locals little chance to cope with the Morningside eleven, said to be the best that the Sioux City Methodist school has had in years.

Both teams got their touchdowns on long runs. Wayne's came in the first quarter when Grubb got away for a beautiful 65-yard run, eluding two Morningside tacklers who got hold of him. Morningside scored in the second quarter when Laurence "Mitty" Smith, speedy halfback got away for an 80-yard canter down the field. Both teams made good on their kick for point after touchdown.

Wayne's winning tally came late in the second quarter when a beautiful punt left Morningside with their backs to their own goal line. Rasmussen, Morningside center, made a bad pass to Smith, who recovered the ball behind his own goal line, giving Wayne at safety and two points.

The second half was scoreless. Smith in the backfield and Koberg in the line were the outstanding performers for the visitors, while Grubb turned in the best backfield performance for the Wildcats, with Paul, Ambrose and Hansen scintillating in the line.

The Wayne line played a defensive game that was superior to Morningside's bit looked slightly weaker on the offensive.

Line-up were as follows:

WAYNE	MORNINGSIDE
Evans	L. E. Wyant
Paul	L. T. Nash
Dodge	L. G. Lewis
Ambrose	C. Assussen
Hunt	R. G. Gottlob
Hanson	R. T. Koberg
Lindamood	R. E. Hall
Andrews	Q. Sherwood
Copeland	L. H. Smith
Manser	R. H. Bones
Grubb	F. Hoesner

Score By Quarters
Wayne 7 2 0 0-9
Morningside 0 7 0 0-7
Substitutions—Wayne: Sund for Copeland, D. Evans for F. Evans, Moulter for F. Evans. Morningside: Perry for Wendt. Referee, King of Norfolk.

The Inquiring Reporter

This Week's Question

Who do you think will be elected president of the United States in 1932?

Wm. Assenhetmer: "I think Senator James Reed of Missouri will be elected to fill the presidency in 1932."

John Soules: "There isn't any doubt but what Franklin D. Roosevelt will be our next president."

Milo Kremke: "One guess is as good as another. The present outlook would lead me to believe that Franklin Roosevelt will be nominated by the Democrats and elected by the Democrats and Republicans."

George Patterson: "It will be a Democrat, but I couldn't name him. I think probably that Franklin Roosevelt will be the man."

Edw. Seymour: "I don't know who will be elected, but I would just as soon see Hoover re-elected. I think present conditions are the fault of the people and not of the president."

Winsider in Jail for Possession of Alcohol

Sheriff A. W. Stephens searched an automobile Monday night. He found two cans of alcohol in the car, which belonged to Paul Wills of Winside, who as a result is a temporary guest in the county jail.

A charge of possession of intoxicating liquor was entered against Wills immediately after the sheriff's discovery of the alcohol. The case came up for trial in County Judge J. M. Cherry's court Tuesday morning at 10 o'clock, and Wills pleaded guilty to the possession count.

He was fined $100 and costs of $12.55, and upon failure to pay was sent to the county jail with the understanding that he was to receive one cooked meal a day and bread and water for the other meals.

IMPROVES ON NATURE!

NO one can change the character of coal as it lies in the ground... Nature attended to that ages ago...

But scientists have found a way of treating coal to make it burn better... give more heat. This is called "Chemacool Processing".

Chemacool Processing gives each piece of coal an extra supply of oxygen to aid combustion. The result: more heat released in the fire-box, less unburned gases up the chimney, less smoke and soot... greater heating efficiency.

Try Cavalier coal — Chemacool Processed. You'll find it the most satisfactory fuel you ever used. Dustless — with practically all of the objectionable features of smoke and soot eliminated. And economical. All of it burns — all of it heats.

Avoid using too heavy oil

Heavier oil is not higher quality oil. It can be used instead of a lighter oil which is better suited to the cylinder and bearing clearances of your motor. But you'll get less power and less protection against wear.

You get less power because the heavier oil has higher friction and requires more energy to overcome "the drag" of the heavier oil. In high speed automobile motors this causes a noticeable loss of power.

Using heavier oil than your motor requires gives inferior lubrication because the oil flows more slowly into close-fitting bearings and oils them less perfectly. Too heavy oil is frequently the cause of "dry spots" and burned out bearings.

Consult the Polarine Chart and use the grade of thoroughly dewaxed new POLARINE which tests by experts have proved gives maximum power and maximum protection against wear—25¢ a quart for every grade.

BOOH!

The Sioux City Journal laid itself open to a charge of being unsportsmanlike in its handling of the Wayne State Teachers' college-Morningside football game played here last Saturday night. Dan Desmond, Journal sports editor, had asked for press passes and is said to have had reporters on the ground covering the gridiron conflict.

The issue of The Journal which was sold in Wayne Sunday morning carried not the slightest reference to the Wayne-Morningside game.

If all Sunday editions omitted the story of the game, then The Journal was guilty of mighty poor sportsmanship. If the story was carried in some editions, then The Journal was guilty of sloppy news coverage. Wayne people who bought the Sunday paper had every right to expect to read a story of the Wayne-Morningside game. Several people were heard to remark that their only reason for buying a Sunday Journal was to read about the Wayne-Morningside grid mele. We have no way of knowing whether the story got into a later edition or not. If it did, then that edition should have been sent to Wayne even at increased expense.

Wayne people suspect that if Morningside had won that football game The Journal would have had a streamer line on the story and would have played it up as heavily as possible. Wayne won and Wayne people resent the way in which the local team was deprived of credit.

The Sioux City Tribune carried little on the game, but is to be excused on the ground that by Monday, the first chance The Tribune had to publish Saturday night game results, the affair had become rather old news. The Tribune's story was fair, and commented on the brilliant play of several Waynemen.

But The Journal's coverage of the game didn't help to maintain good will between Sioux City and the Wayne territory.

MACHINE AGE AND MORALS

We are told now that the machine age is rapidly altering moral standards and that in a few years the change may be so noticeable that the world at large will wonder at our transformation. Mechanized industry has less to do with the change than many see in the making than mechanized agriculture. It is the flow of voters from the farm to the city that is changing moral levels.

In the past the farm vote was a factor in legislation. With the movement now under way farm people soon become city people, take on city ways and ideas. The claim is made that the leavening influence of the agricultural vote is lost. Those who would change constitutional amendments and prohibitory laws see in this transplanting one great hope.

"America," says the North American Review, "has had a number of tabus wished upon it by farmers. They are most of them in harmony with the farmer's moral code."

In one Nebraska township nineteen abandoned farm houses are reported. That doesn't mean that the land has been abandoned. It is still farmed, but nineteen of the township's farms have no resident farmers. The vote of that township has been reduced and the nearby urban vote has been enlarged to the extent of the loss. There is the proof that the farm vote is decreasing. Machinery makes it possible for fewer men to till more land. Excess population of the farms does not spread to newly developed farm lands because of lack of demand for agricultural products. The machine age with fewer workers has added to total production.

The farm voter transplanted soon becomes the city voter. The city resident's view of moral problems is taken on. His inhibitions and prohibitions gradually lessen. In the urban fight for existence he no longer regards himself as his brother's keeper. That is the argument. Possibly the analysts have overlooked the possibility that the transplanted farm vote may have its effect on the city vote. The farm voter may find more help from the cities.—Lincoln State Journal.

SIGNS OF LIFE

The newspapers this morning carried two news stories, each of which dealt with a scheme for ameliorating the effects of the depression. One was the movement inaugurated by the federal reserve system to extend quick credits to closed banks, so as to release a part of the depositors' money and in other ways to use the resources of the system to liquidate frozen assets. The other was the program advanced by Gerard Swope, president of General Electric, for distributing the risks of hard times more equitably among all the elements of industry.

Each of these is a specific concrete suggestion, involving certain definite steps. We are not prepared to say off hand that either of them is a good suggestion; but at any rate they are subject to argument, and it is something new to have under consideration a plan definite enough to be open to argument.—We have had conferences, contracts and constitutions galore. We have had graphs, charts and statistical tables, learned-sounding discussions of peak loads and plating curves. We have had fact-finding commissions, co-ordinating commissions and assorted commissions. We have listened to praise of rugged individualism and to assurance that "conditions are fundamentally sound." But we haven't had a plan of which anyone could say that it is good or bad.

But when the reserve board undertakes to release the assets of closed banks it is doing something other than fact-finding, consulting and reacting. Whether the outcome is good or bad, something will result. And when a big business man comes forward with eight specific things to be done within the next three years—not such vague generalities as "maintaining the American standard" or "redistributing the risks of industry" but clear definite acts to be performed in a clear, definite way—he is putting forward something on which it may be possible for the country to form an intelligent judgment.

We repeat, neither plan may work. It is much too early yet to know how good they are. But in view of the hopeless fatuousness of our leadership up to date, when a single day produces two plans, each of which is proof that somebody has at least been trying to think clearly, it is a red-letter day. It leads to the comforting thought that perhaps it is only a temporary paralysis, not death, that has struck the business brains of the country.—Baltimore Evening Sun.

LEGION AND BONUS

The leadership in the American Legion has, from its inception, been conservative in the matter of asking cash dispensations from the nation.

But that leadership has been forced, from time to time, to take advanced positions, in order to keep the loyalty of the rank and file. From an early resistance to any form of bonus, for example, the Legion heads were finally forced to fight for "adjusted compensation," because that was what the average Legionaire wanted.

In the months that preceded the convention at Detroit, now ended, the Legion was torn by the demand of many of its members, that the remaining half of the bonus, due in 1945, be lent or paid at once. A rival organization has declared for that payment. There was a widespread belief that the Legion would likewise declare. The result of the vote at Detroit Thursday, in which the proposal was defeated, will prove as welcome to the country as it is surprising.

Once again the more conservative forces in the Legion have gained control. Aided in large measure by the courageous action of President Hoover in appearing before the convention to warn the members against new treasury demands, the vote was decisive, 902 to 607. Insofar as the Legion can speak for the service men—and no other veterans' group has nearly so many members—it now sets its face against further gratuities for able-bodied men.

It is an important victory for those who have sought to stem the tide of "treasury raiding." In a day in which the administration and big business alike are too readily alarmed and made panicky it will reassure and hearten both. It is a victory for the self-respect of the service men themselves. It is a victory for Mr. Hoover and suggests that if he would more often and vigorously display a fighting spirit, he might win more victories.—Omaha World-Herald.

RACKETEERS

Rackets and racketeers are numerous all over the country. Prosperous times when it was easy to make money developed an unusual number of good spenders. When the depression came and money was harder to get, the easy spenders found it was more difficult to satisfy their extravagant habits. Hence they began to scheme some way of getting money from those who have it. These schemes are rackets and those who work them are racketeers. Others are huge frauds that rob innocent people out of their hard earned savings. Invariably they are organized by men who have plunged too deep in the financial game and lost and must find some way to retrieve what they have lost. These men have lost the sense of common honesty or honor and work any way they can to accomplish their designs.

Recently Attorney General Sorenson nipped in the bud some of these racketeers and put them out of business. They had a scheme whereby they sold stock that promised to yield 30 per cent on the investment. Now most anyone would know that such returns are impossible but these racketeers were smooth and some people are easy marks for them. Nebraska is fortunate in having a man like Sorenson who is not afraid to enforce the law against racketeers. Such people should be dealt with without gloves. They should be placed where they will have time to reflect on their acts till they realize that other people have rights that should be respected. The wealth of this world was not made for a few to monopolize and unless it can be acquired honestly it is of no real value to the one acquiring it. Racketeers should be placed on the rock pile till they realize the value of honest labor.—Newman Grove Reporter.

BETTER FESS UP

Up to very recently the worst that has been charged against the farm board is muddling, misunderstanding and general incompetence to deal with the problems it was created to solve.

Now, however, graver charges are being leveled against it. Governor Murray of Oklahoma gives publicity to rumors that the board lent wheat to millers, when the price was eighty cents, and is accepting repayment in wheat worth less than half that price. The effect, he charges, was to depress prices when they most needed to be maintained, and the motive the discouragement of farmers from planting a new crop. He asks the farm board for a plain statement of fact of its relationship with the millers and demands that it tell just where its "stabilized" wheat is stored that the truth of its huge deals with public money may be known.

The president of the Iowa Farmers' union charges that a representative of the farm board asked him to have the union give a blanket indorsement to the board's policies, censor Milo Reno's editorials in the union paper and cease opposing President Hoover. In return the board would make generous Iowa loans.

The inferences contained in both these charges are considerably more serious than the accusation of mere incompetency.

The suspicions that are piling up against the board are due in part no doubt to its secretiveness. It has steadfastly, from the beginning, adopted the policy of telling as little of its business as it was able to get away with. Some day it is probable the whole story of the farm board's generations will out. It would much better tell the story itself than to find itself some day the subject of an embarrassing congressional investigation.—Omaha World-Herald.

REALLY HIGH TAXES

When Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch wanted to forget her own unhappy lot she thought of the woman with the hare lip and was duly grateful.

American taxpayers, by using the same philosophy might find a little comfort just now in thinking about the lot of the harrassed Britisher. When it comes to taxes, he's the one whose right to complain cannot be denied.

For under the newly adopted revenue measure he is compelled to pay in income taxes $5 out of every $125 or 25 percent with exemptions for married men cut to $750 and for single men to $500. In addition the surtax is increased 10 percent on incomes above $10,000.

This hits the man of ordinary means hard enough. What it does to the wealthy is told by Chancellor Snowden: "A man 45 years old, with three children, who is drawing an income of $250,000 from invested capital of $5,000,000 must pay taxes of $131,825. "If this man wants to insure his capital against estate duty payment on his death, he must pay a premium of $125,700 a year. The premium, added to the tax, is $267,525 or $17,424 more than the man's income.

"In case the taxpayer did not insure his capital against the estate duty, the government would take more than half his total holdings on his death."

Even death offers no refuge for the British taxpayer. The rate gatherer follows him to the grave and then exacts an additional penalty for dying.—Norfolk Daily News.

JUSTICE

Lawyers, it is understood, represent a client for the purpose of winning his case in court. They are permitted to use all in their means, within ethical bounds, of securing a judge's or jury's verdict in favor of their client.

But ethical bounds are not necessarily just ones. It is possible that a lawyer may keep well within the confines of accepted practice and still employ arguments calculated to defeat or at least alter the ends of justice in order to secure a favorable verdict.

To be more specific, in a damage suit lawyers for the defendant have been known to appeal to the jury on the grounds that if the verdict is given to the plaintiff, the damages must be paid by an insurance company under which the defendant is being protected. The lawyer argues that it is unfair and unjust to require a company which has had nothing to do with the matter to stand good for the negligence of the defendant.

Such an appeal is no doubt ethical, according to juristic conceptions, but it certainly is not logical and is unfair to the damaged person. As a matter of fact, the companies themselves are not suffering the loss of this judgment against the insured defendant—it is the people who pay premiums to the company who make it possible. And it is the very purpose of the insurance company to do this.

Furthermore, it is illogical to expect the plaintiff to go without recompense for his injuries or damages simply because the person who caused the damage happens to be insured. The plaintiff is concerned only with getting damages, and justice is done when it is decided whether he is entitled to them.

Justice cannot be fairly meted out if the damaged person is forgotten while lawyers argue whether an insurance company should foot the bill.—Cedar County News.

BENEFITS OF DEPRESSION

We met a man the other day that was selling caskets. A remark was made that there was one business that the depression did not hurt. To our surprise he remarked that depression has hit his line the hardest. He said that during depression periods people did not die as readily as when times were prosperous. When asked why, he said, "People stay home more, not as many are killed, contagious diseases are less, people do not eat the richer foods and as a result stay more healthy and live longer." A few days later we read this paragraph in one of our exchanges: "Contagious diseases in Nebraska have been very light during the last two months according to the state health superintendent. Only one case of infantile paralysis has been reported whereas a year ago 12 were reported for August. There have been only 13 cases of measles in August with a total of 1,135 this year. This compares to the 10,195 cases in the first eight months of 1930. Tuberculosis is more prevalent now than in 1930." There you are. The depression even has affected the undertaking business. Well, one consolation, if the depression continues any length of time we will be able to live longer and enjoy the ups and downs of life.—Homer Star.

Committee to Handle College Athletic Affairs

The Athletic committee of Wayne State Teachers' college met Tuesday with President U. S. Conn and decided to relieve Athletic Coach Ray Hickman of all burdens connected with the business management end of the football schedule, so that he may devote all of his time to coaching. A general business policy was decided upon.

The committee is composed of Fred G. Dale, E. J. Huntemer and C. R. Chinn. Mr. Chinn, the treasurer, is to be assisted in his duties by C. E. Wilson and Kenneth N. Parke.

Due to an oversight, season tickets were not printed and sold for the first football game. The original price of season tickets was $2.50, but tickets good for the remaining three home games will be sold for $1.75. Each ticket may be used for admission to all three games or may be used as general admission for three people to one game.

He and his twin sister used to be the same age.

The dog has his day and the cat has his night, but the roadhog has all Sunday afternoon.

There's a story going the rounds about the host at a recent luncheon singling out a pious solemn-looking man in a black coat and tie, with a religious appearance, to pronounce a blessing.

The gentleman, after being addressed, put his hand to his ear and craned forward intently.

"I can tell you're talking to me, sir," he said loudly. "But I'm so damn deaf I can't tell what in hell you're saying."

Ed Townsend says, in his Blue-Rock County Star, "A disgruntled wife asked us recently how she could make her husband stay home nights. We jokingly suggested knockout drops in his coffee at supper time. This week her husband complained he went to sleep every night right after eating. Now do you suppose—but surely she knew we were joking."

"My girl always holds my hand when we're out on a date," one of Wayne's young gallants bragged the other day.

"I don't blame her," one of his friends replied. "I wouldn't trust you, either."

Which brings to mind the story about the girl who said that her fellow started out holding her hand and pretty soon was trying to shuffle the whole deck.

They've nicknamed one Wayne fellow "Label" because he sticks so close to a bottle.

"I'm having terrible luck trying to raise chickens. They are all dying," a Wayne newlywed said to a farmer woman.

"What kind of feed are you giving them?" the helpful farmer woman asked.

"Feed?" the puzzled newlywed asked. "Why, none. I supposed the old hen gave enough milk or them."

A teacher had been explaining the difference in meanings of words.

"Now, Willie, (why are they always named Willie in jokes?) she said, "Do you understand the difference between 'liking' and 'loving'?"

"Yes, teacher," Willie replied, "I like my mother and father, but I love pie."

A Sunday school may not afford a thrill, says a wise Wayne dad, but you never read about a girl being strangled in one.

The prize pun of the week: "Every single man makes a false step sooner or later. Thereafter, of course, he is known as a married man."

Do you read Ballyhoo magazine? If you don't, you're missing some simply grand laughs. It's quite the funniest thing I've run across in so these many moons, but I don't see how some of its somewhat objectionable whizzes get past the postal authorities.

Ray Hickman is living proof of the axiom that a football coach is a great man when his team is winning but is a bum to the crowd when his team happens to lose a game. Last year the Wildcats carded fewer losses than they would have taken with a less clever coach—but the games were lost and a great many Wayne people who knew absolutely nothing about the problems that Hickman was up against were loud in their denunciation of his coaching ability.

Last Saturday advance press dope gave the Wildcats only an outside chance to beat Morningside. Hickman's team turned in a 9 to 7 victory. Now the same folks who were complaining last year are loud in their praise of Hickman's ability. My suspicion that the fans would set up a cateall if the Wildcats were to lose a game now is a sad commentary on human nature.

It looks like the Wildcats are due for a great year. The boys like Hickman will work hard for him. He has about 70 men out for football—and a great many of them are out on the field for grid practice every night because they think Ray's a good guy. He has more reserve material this year than ever before, and he's getting a chance to build for next year and the year after. A good football team at the college means more to Wayne business men than Wayne business men realize.

WAYNE HIGH WINS FIRST GRID GAME

Allen Takes Short End of 7-0 Score Monday Night.

Wayne high school won its opening football game of the season Monday night at the college field when the locals defeated Allen by a count of 7 to 0. The game, scheduled for last Thursday night, was postponed on account of rain.

A fluke kick by Allen paved the way for Wayne's touchdown in the fourth quarter. Wayne lost the ball to Allen on downs at the ten yard marker after a steady march down the field. Allen's punt traveled 15 yards with the receiver bringing the ball to the 20-yard line. Hughes and Brown used power plays to advance the ball and Hughes took it across the end-zone for the only touchdown of the game. A pass, Hughes to Brown, was responsible for the extra point.

Allen staged a last minute rally following Wayne's touchdown, and marched down the field making three first downs in the last three minutes of play and getting the ball to about the 10 yard line where they lost the ball on a fumble.

Hughes and Brown were Wayne's yardage threats. They advanced the ball largely by means of hard smashing line plays. Wayne's line was not so good on offensive, and the backfield's interference was ragged.

Statistics of the game give Wayne a more decided edge than the score would indicate. Wayne made 14 first downs to Allen's five; Wayne punted four times for an average of 38 yards and Allen punted nine times for an average of 35 yards; Wayne made 117 yards from scrimmage and lost none, while Allen made 107 yards and lost 61; Wayne lost 60 yards by penalties and Allen lost 15; Wayne completed two passes out of seven attempts, while Allen tried only one which was incomplete. Allen intercepted one pass.

GOOD PUBLICITY, ANYHOW

Iowa farmers should not be discouraged over failure of the Federal Farm board to come to their assistance in financing their corn holding operations. In fact, they may be better off for not having received financial aid.

Governor Turner and his committee had no very definite plan for federal aid and the farm board seemingly hadn't heard about the plight of the corn farmer. At least the farm board had even less definite ideas about the question of finance than the governor had.

The Washington visit was a worthwhile gesture, anyhow. It has centered the attention of the business and political worlds upon the plight of the farmer. To that extent it was good propaganda.

If the influence of the Federal Farm board, which couldn't help in an emergency, were entirely removed from the commodity markets, speculative interest would be quick to capitalize the situation.

Unless all the statisticians are liars there is no great surplus of wheat, corn, livestock or any other farm commodity. In an open market such conditions tend to promote higher prices.

Governmental interference simply has served to suspend the operations of the natural law of supply and demand. Until that interference is removed farm commodity markets are pretty apt to remain flat.—Sioux City Tribune.

MONARCH-BUILT

GAS RANGES

Enamel Finishes

A modern line of Gas Ranges Enameled inside and out... Assured cleanliness satisfaction in operation and in care.... All enameled parts easily cleaned and always protected from rust.

Protecting the vital parts of the stove is most important, but in addition, this scientifically designed oven protects your food from irregular heat and direct fumes of the burning gas.

The baking compartment is heated by pure air which is drawn from the outside, heated and superheated as it passes through a series of flues before it enters the oven proper. The products of combustion from the gas burner do not enter the oven but rise up through an entirely separate set of flues on each side of the oven and pass out through the vent pipe. Baking and roasting are done in air as clean and pure as that in your kitchen, thus drying out of baked foods is prevented, meat shrinking is greatly reduced and uniform results are assured.

Asbestos cell insulation in the oven walls and tops prevents heat loss and waste of fuel.

The use of a thoroughly dependable type of oven heat control assures a saving in fuel. Only the amount of gas is used as is required for each individual roasting and baking period.

Now that Natural Gas is coming to Wayne, you owe it to yourself to inspect these stoves.

The Democrat's Farm News Page

Beautiful Home is Feature Of Adolph Meyers' Farm

The beautiful home is one of the outstanding features of the Adolph Meyers farm 10 miles northwest of Wayne. The house is a fine 10-room one, with bath. It is supplied with electricity from Mr. Meyers' own electric light plant and has running water. The home would be a credit to any city. It is painted white and is situated some distance back from the road in a big, pleasant yard, presenting an altogether highly attractive appearance. It is well kept up and is as neat as it could possibly be made.

That old question of "How you gonna keep 'em down on the farm?" wouldn't be half so hard to solve if every farmer had the same type of home that the Meyers have. One can imagine that Mr. and Mrs. Meyers' children are not any too eager to get away from their comfortable, attractive home.

The house has a full basement, all cement, with running water and a furnace. It has a fine big porch. In fact, it's the kind of home that anyone could look at and want to own. There's nothing fold-over or gimcrack about it, and its very appearance announces that it is a substantial place that was built to live in rather than to look at.

Mr. Meyers did not want to give the reporter any story about his place, and it was with some difficulty that I found what little information that is set down here. Adolph Meyers is a modest man, and he thought that publication of a description of his place in The Democrat would look as if he were bragging. Only after I had explained to him that the story was printed as news and that it was written from my viewpoint, not his, did he reluctantly consent to give me the slightest information about the farm. I told him that I wanted the facts concerning his farm; that these facts would be news to other farmers. He saw the point to my side of the argument, but it was easy to see that he was still reluctant about having the story published. There's not a doubt but what there's a better, more complete story concerning the Adolph Meyers farm than the one I got.

One thing Mr. Meyers was quite emphatic about—He is disappointed in the price of corn, and he should be, for practically all of his 240 acre farm was planted to corn this year. He says that while he cannot make an accurate estimate of the yield, he thinks his corn will run from 20 to 25 bushels to the acre.

Mr. Meyers should have as much corn as anyone in this territory this year. He has 135 acres of it. Sixty acres is in pasture, 25 in hay meadow and the rest in farm yards.

The drought damaged his crop considerably. He has already cut 15 acres of corn, and may cut more.

He had planned on doing considerable cattle feeding this fall, but says that he is not quite so sure about it now. The chances are, however, that he will be feeding a large number of cattle for market.

Mr. Meyers and his son, Elmer, fact that corn is down in price with little chance of any heavy increase, he is glad that he devoted his farm almost entirely to corn instead of small grain.

Mr. Meyer and his son, Elmer, 18, work the entire 240 acre place themselves, without the aid of a tractor. They have eight good head of horses and find that they can handle the work around the farm without any extra help.

There are six buildings on the place. Mr. Meyers says that they are not as good as he would like to have them and that if farm prices ever get better he is going to do some building and improving of present structures.

He has 30 head of hogs at the present time, only a few head of cattle and several hundred chickens. The Meyers family finds poultry raising a profitable sideline and have selected the White Orplington breed. They have lived on the present place for 16 years. Mr. Meyers voiced one complaint that the reporter has heard from practically every farmer he has visited. Taxes are too high! He says that something will have to be done about the high tax demands or farmers will rise up in arms.

Any politician who would get out into the country and visit with the farmers of Nebraska would be quick to figure out why Charlie Bryan was elected governor. His promise to lower state taxes was the finest vote-getting platform he could possibly have had. Bryan has tried to back up his campaign promise, and this reporter has found that the farmers in this territory are almost 100 percent behind him.

Mr. Meyers told the whole story when he said that farmers are not making any money but are being asked to pay just as much in taxes as they had to pay when they were showing a good profit.

He isn't worried about the future of the farm, however. He says that he believes all this talk about a heavy surplus is largely imaginary, and that the farm is important enough so that the world will have to recognize its importance and give it rewards commensurate with its service.

Experts Devise Cattle Rations for This Winter

Stockmen who are planning to carry herds of cattle through the winter are busy cleaning all available roughage. Stubble fields have been mowed, Russian thistles have been cut and stacked, and hay and straw are being conserved.

As a maintenance feed for wintering cattle it may be possible to get along with whatever roughage is available. At the Ardmore experiment station in South Dakota it was found that yearling steers made an average gain of 75 pounds of oat straw and 5 pounds of alfalfa hay.

Stockmen who have no alfalfa or clover hay to mix in with their poor quality roughage and who are in position to supplement their roughage with protein feeds would do well to consider the use of cottonseed cake at present prices being asked for protein feeds. Breeding stock will stay in better condition and a more economical ration may be made by the use of small quantities of such feeds along with poor quality roughage. Cottonseed cake may be fed at the rate of one pound per head daily to mature cattle and half as much to steers being maintained.

At one of the western sub-stations one pound of cottonseed cake fed daily per cow plus all the straw they would eat maintained the weight of the cows and a healthy crop of calves was produced the following spring. One ton of alfalfa hay can be replaced by 430 to 500 pounds of cottonseed cake when fed with straw to mature cattle. Cottonseed cake, however, should not be fed to young calves, hogs or horses. Linseed oil meal can be used for such classes.—Rock County Star.

GRASSHOPPER PREVENTION

To prevent another serious outbreak of grasshoppers next summer, Cedar county farmers have available a number of measures calculated to destroy hopper eggs. Careful and persistent disking or shallow plowing of the sod around the edges of cultivated fields, along roadsides, in lanes and in headlands near cultivated fields is one activity which may be carried on at odd moments.

State entomologists who recently investigated conditions in those parts of the state which suffered serious hopper damage this year have found that the eggs are concentrated in the relatively small area, in sod land in the places mentioned above.

Indications are that eggs have already collected in numbers large enough to cause an outbreak of the insects next year just as serious as the one experienced this year unless weather conditions during the hatching period are unfavorable to the hoppers or unless farmers, through community effort, take measures to destroy as many of the eggs as possible this fall. In places the eggs were estimated to be as numerous as 12,000 to 16,000 per square foot. If hoppers will continue to lay eggs until a hard frost comes.

Grasshoppers of the variety which cause the most damage in the region lay their eggs in pods deposited in sod roots just under the surface of the ground, each pod containing from 75 to 100 eggs. By disking these, farmers can expose these pods to the sun and air, causing the eggs to dry up and die.

In order for this control measure to be a success it will be necessary to secure concerted effort by all farmers in each community. By taking a spade and digging into the sod each man can determine for himself where the egg pods are thickest. This sod should be disked or shallow-plowed and harrowed every week or ten days until the ground freezes. The first disking should be delayed until after the first hard frost when the grasshoppers will have finished their egg-laying.—Cedar County News.

Pointers for Work Around Farm Homes

Do not let a young calf have milk containing too much butterfat. It may cause digestive trouble. If the milk tests more than 4 percent butterfat, dilute it with skim milk or water.

Milk dealers of the United States spend about $15,000,000 a year to replace lost or broken milk and cream bottles. Some cities have what are known as milk-bottle exchanges. These exchanges receive bottles from milkmen who have collected bottles belonging to other milkmen and from various places where bottles have been mislaid or lost.

Soybeans spoil rather easily in storage if not properly handled. After threshing, watch the beans to prevent heating and molding. Be sure they are thoroughly dry before storing. Store them in a dry place, piling the sacks so the air will circulate freely around them. Soybeans unlike most peas and beans are rarely attacked by weevils or other grain insects.

Agriculture. This means there will be about 20,000,000 fewer chickens in the nation's poultry flocks this fall. In terms of probable reduction in eggs laid, this should result in over 1,000,000,000 fewer eggs produced this winter compared with last.

Prices for winter eggs should not farmers a good profit. With feed costs down about 40 per cent, and other costs correspondingly lower, good egg production will pay.—Rock County Star.

OIL DRILLERS HIT GUMBO

Oil drillers on the Ed Alberts farm 12 miles east of Madison have struck heavy gumbo. This is said to be a good indication of gas or oil. The well has reached a depth of 300 feet, and abundant supply of water has been found. The well is being sunk in about the same place where a well was dug in 1886. Drillers then were searching for water. They found none, but noted signs of gas.

FRUIT COCKTAILS FINE

THE modern hostess has discovered that there is no more tempting way of beginning a luncheon or dinner than by serving a cool delicious fruit cocktail. But she does not confine cocktails to these hours, by any means. Frequently she serves them to guests for tea, or at an evening party, arranging the colorful fruit in crystal clear glasses, which she places on a dainty tray, spread with gay linen.

The variety of fruits at the disposal of the housewife today is so great that there is no danger of monotony. She might easily serve a different cocktail every day. Canned fruits come to her from the ends of the earth, and new combinations and new flavors are constantly being introduced.

A Real Treat
If you have not formed the fruit cocktail habit, you have a treat in store for you. You will find the fresh tart fruit juices a real appetizer for the hot days of late summer. Here are a number of recent recipes including many favorite fruits.

Blueberry Cocktail: Combine contents of a No. 2 can blueberries and three tablespoons lemon juice, arrange in glasses and chill. Just before serving, slice two bananas, and place a circle of banana rings upright around edge of glasses. Serve immediately. This serves eight.

Pear Cocktail: Cube and divide into six cocktail glasses contents of a No. 2 can of pears, and pour over them the pear syrup. Add one tablespoon grenadine syrup to each glass, and chill well. This serves six and costs about thirty-seven cents.

Orange and Tomato Juice Cocktail: Strain a No. 2 can of tomatoes, not pressing the pulp or the juice will be cloudy. Add the juice of two oranges, two teaspoons sugar and a few grains of salt, and serve, ice cold, in small glasses. Cost twenty-one cents. This serves six.

Waikiki Cocktail: Arrange two eight-ounce cans of figs, cut in suitable pieces and two eight-ounce cans of grapes in cocktail glasses. To the fig and grape syrup add the juice of two lemons and the juice of one orange, and pour over the fruit. Garnish on top with tiny cubes of guava and mint jelly. This serves eight.

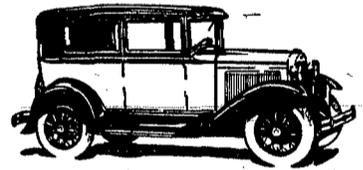

More Cocktails
Ginger Cocktail: Drain and dice a No. 1 can apricots and arrange in glasses with one cup diced sliced pineapple. Place peeled sections of three oranges, petal fashion, around edges of glasses.

Decorate tops with three tablespoons of raspberries, strawberries or maraschino cherries. Sprinkle candied ginger over, and add one teaspoonful ginger syrup to each glass. Just before serving, pour over one-half cup ginger ale. This serves eight.

Macedoine Fruit Cocktail: Drain the syrup from a No. 2 1/2 can of fruits for salad. To it add four tablespoons sugar and one tablespoon preserved ginger syrup, and cook to a thick syrup. Cool. Cut fruit in small pieces, add the syrup and dispose in serving glasses. Just before serving, pour over some iced ginger ale, and decorate with bits of angelica. This serves six to eight.

Cherry and Almond Cocktail: Empty a No. 2 can Royal Ann cherries into a sauce pan, color a rich red, and simmer three minutes. Add one-fourth cup confectioner's sugar, one-fourth cup lemon juice and one-fourth cup maraschino cherry juice, and let cool. Then cut slits in each cherry and remove pits. Cut one cup almonds in half lengthwise and insert a piece in each cavity. Place cherries carefully in cocktail glasses with the nut ends protruding upward like acorns. Pour over the syrup, and chill in ice box. This serves eight to ten.

"Why
My Next Car
will be A FORD"

WHEN you buy a Ford there are two things you never have to worry about. One is reliability. The other is long life.

Here's an interesting letter from a Ford owner in North Carolina:

"My Ford was purchased May 8, 1926, and has been run 121,767 miles. It has never stopped on the road for repairs of any kind whatsoever except punctures.

"The brakes were relined at 101,000 miles. My gas mileage averaged 21 miles to the gallon, and on tires, 19,000 miles per tire. I travel over all kinds of road conditions—mountainous and flat.

"I consider this a wonderful record and I assure you my next car will also be a Ford."

This is just one of many tributes to the reliability and long life of the Ford. A Ford owner in Iowa tells of driving his Ford 73,000 miles in a single year. Another writes of 120,000 miles of good service.

Think ahead when you are considering the purchase of an automobile and consider what it will be like after thousands of miles of driving. Will you still be satisfied? Will you still say "it's a great car"?

If it's a Ford, you know everything will be O. K. It will be taking you there and back in good style, just as it has always done. And you will have saved many important, worthwhile dollars in cost of operation and up-keep and low yearly depreciation.

WITH THE WAYNE CHURCHES

Presbyterian Church

P. A. Davies, Pastor
Sunday was a beautiful day for a beautiful program, our Promotional and Rally Day service. With the organization of the classes at 10 a. m. the program itself began at 10:30 a. m. and went through the morning hour. It is at such services as these that we best sense that the teachers and they that have charge of the departments of our Sunday school are doing a stupendously great and worth while work. We wish to take this opportunity to thank all for their faithfulness and to congratulate them on their success.

The Special Rally Day Offering taken for the Board of Christian Education of our church amounted to about $32.

Many have told us how they enjoyed the Violin solo Sunday morning by Prof. Louis Gregory of the College. Mr. Gregory was accompanied on the piano by Prof. Carlson. Mr. Gregory has kindly consented to take charge of our Sunday school orchestra.

The Ladies Aid will have their Guest Day at the church next Wednesday afternoon, Oct. 7.

The Ladies Aid report that serving meals at the fair earned above expenses a little over $340. Later reports inform us that there is still some money to come in. Surely this is a fine report.

Prof. A. F. Gulliver was appointed by the Session to go as a delegate to the meeting of Synod which convenes at Aurora, Oct. 6.
