Sam Davies Services Are Held Tuesday

Pioneer Good Fellow Dies Saturday Night After Short Illness.

Funeral services for Sam Davies, beloved pioneer resident of Wayne, were conducted from the home of his sister, Mrs. A. A. Welch, at ten o'clock Tuesday morning, Nov. 3, with Rev. P. A. Davies of the First Presbyterian church in charge. Interment was in the Wayne cemetery. He died Saturday evening, Oct. 31, after a short illness. He had suffered from pneumonia last spring and had been in poor health for some time.

Samuel Davies was born 77 years ago near Cardiff, South Wales. When he was ten years old, his family came to America and established a home in Pennsylvania. While liv-

Hallowe'en Elves Take Two Cars

"The goblins 'll get your car if you don't watch out."

Maybe you don't believe in goblins or witches, but Frank Morgan and Herbert Perry know that mysterious spirits are abroad—at least on Hallowe'en.

Both men had their cars stolen Saturday night. Both thought their cars had really been stolen. Both instituted searches.

Both men found their automobiles, little the worse for experience with goblins. It was only then that the car owners realized that Saturday night was Hallowe'en and that the disappearance was not due to any earthly cause.

Hereafter, the two men were agreed, their cars will be securely locked up on Hallowe'en. Not that locks would make any difference to ghosts—but the car owners have a feeling that the spiriting away of their automobiles was due to earthly emulators of Hallowe'en sprites.

COLLEGE PLAYERS PLAN THREE PLAYS

To Present Group of One Act Productions on November 17.

Students in the dramatics class at Wayne State Teachers college are rehearsing for a second program of one-act plays to be given Tuesday evening, Nov. 17, at the college auditorium. The program, which will start at eight o'clock, is open to the public.

"Thursday Enemy", by Christopher Morley, is under the direction of Marlin Borin. It is styled as a human, domestic comedy (even including 'in laws' and a garbage pail) about a young married couple who find in the second year of married life that the "wise adjectives" are omitted.

"Jazz and Minuet," the second play of the series, is being directed by Mrs. Nina Pierson. This romantic comedy deals with a girl who, while waiting for a date with a young man of doubtful character, begins to read the diary of her great aunt. A dream and the diary blend in her mind until she re-lives the tragedy of her aunt.

The third play is Austin Strong's "The Drums of Ovide," a melodrama laid in India during an uprising of the natives. It is said to be full of atmosphere and the highest sort of dramatic suspense. Miss Barbara Seabury is directing this play, which presents an ambitious production problem for amateurs.

Miss Luree Snider heads the production staff as producing manager. Members of the class are making all necessary preparations for the plays, including redecoration of the scenery.

High School Debaters to Meet Norfolk Teams

Wayne high school's debate teams will have a pre-season debate with Norfolk high school on Thursday, Nov. 19. The subject of the discussion will be "Resolved, that the several states should enact legislation to provide for compulsory unemployment insurance."

Wayne's affirmative team will consist of Stanley Davis, James Davies and William Studley. The local negative team will be composed of Richard Moses, Jeanne Wright and Lucille Wright. A. W. Behl is the debate coach.

WILLIAM OWEN DIES

Mr. William Owen, brother of the late Edward and Lou Owen of Wayne, died Sunday, Nov. 1, at his home in Riverton, Wyo.

Mr. Owen visited here last November in the Mrs. Anna Owen home.

Services For George Bush Held Monday

Accident Takes Pioneer Resident of Wayne County.

Funeral services were held from the Presbyterian church Monday afternoon, Nov. 2, for George D. Bush, who died at Wayne Friday evening, Oct. 30, from injuries suffered in a fall from the roof of his house. Services were in charge of Rev. P. A. Davies, and interment was in the Wayne cemetery. Mr. Bush was 76 years, 11 months and 24 days old at the time of his death.

He had been getting along satisfactorily, following his accident on Tuesday, Oct. 6, but suffered a relapse last Wednesday.

George Dewitt Bush was born at Orland, Ill., on Nov. 6, 1854. He grew to manhood in that town and took an active part in the activities of the young people of the community.

He was united in marriage to Miss Susan Daley at Lockport, Ill., on April 7, 1886. The young people moved from Illinois to Nebraska in 1889, taking a farm some 11 miles northwest of Wayne. They moved to their farm east of Wayne in 1898, and lived there for about 20 years. Twelve years ago, in 1919, the family moved to their present home in Wayne.

Mr. Bush's wife preceded him in death four years ago. He is survived by three daughters, Mrs. C. R. Glenn, Mrs. Ray Perdue and Miss Lottie Bush; one son, John Bush; five grandchildren, Allen Perdue, Marilyn Glenn and Joy, Joseph and James Bush; two brothers, Henry Bush of Wayne and Lincoln Bush of East Orange, N. J., and two sisters, Mrs. Wm. McCauley of Orland, Ill., and Mrs. Walter Patrick of Kansas City, Mo.

Mr. Bush had always been an energetic and upright citizen, honored and loved by all who knew him.

Wayne Man Appeals Fine For Speeding

Gene Steiner was fined $10 and costs of $8.90 in Police Judge J. M. Cherry's court Monday. The fine was levied on a charge of speeding, on complaint of C. W. Burnham of Winslow. The case was the result of an automobile accident which occurred Wednesday, Oct. 21, in which the Burnham car and Steiner car collided.

Steiner gave notice of an appeal.

Arctic Explorer Agrees to Bring Santa Claus to Wayne

Here's good news for Wayne county youngsters—

Santa Claus is coming to town! He'll be here on Friday, Dec. 4, from 11 o'clock in the morning until 3:30 o'clock in the afternoon, with a live reindeer team and two dog teams.

Assurance of his visit was gained by Wayne business men last Thursday night, when a contract was signed with Earl F. Hammond, Alaskan explorer. Under the terms of the contract, Mr. Hammond agrees to make a trip to Toyland and bring Santa Claus back with him for a pre-Christmas visit to Wayne.

Mr. Hammond has a "pull" with Santa Claus, and has promised to get the old codger to bring Prancer and Vixen, his two best faun reindeer. But here, kids, is the best treat of all: Santa will have 20 dogs—a team of 10 Huskies driven Siwash, and a team of 10 Siberian dogs from the Siberian district of Russia, around the Lena and Kelema rivers. Besides the dog teams, he will bring some Eskimo puppies.

Then he's going to have a portable igloo or Eskimo village, as well as a gorgeous Santa Claus float. There will be an exhibit of Alaskan archeological (get Dad to tell you what that means) material, and a display of Eskimo and fur clothing.

In fact there'll be an entire parade, with Santa Claus' arrival heralded by trumpeters.

The city has given Santa Claus permission to set up his village in the lot adjoining the City Hall. Youngsters will be permitted to ride on the dog sleds if they have the written permission of their parents.

Mr. Hammond says he is certain that Santa Claus will make the trip to Wayne. Mr. Hammond was affiliated with Sir Hubert Wilkins in the Detroit Arctic expedition and with Roald Amundsen in the salvaging of the dirigible, Norg. He has been in Alaska for eight and a half of the last 11 years, and as a special added feature will give a special lecture on Alaska.

Remember the date—Friday, Dec. 4. And be sure to be on Main street at 11 a. m., the time of Santa's arrival. His parade into town with dog teams, reindeer, floats and Eskimo exhibits will be one of the high spots of the day.

Start working on Dad and Mother right now, so that you'll be sure of getting to see Santa and his Alaskan village. And if Dad's stubborn, tell him that even he is not so smart but what he can learn a lot from the many Alaskan educational features which will be shown.

Armistice Day to Be Remembered

"... If you lose faith with us who die We shall not sleep,
Though poppies grow
In Flanders' field."

Eleven a. m. on Wednesday, Nov. 11, will be the signal for "Faces East" and one minute of silent prayer for the boys who gave their all in the World War. Armistice day will be observed at Wayne State Teachers' college this year with an armistice day talk by Prof. C. R. Chinn at the regular Wednesday morning chapel. Local Legionnaires are invited to attend.

Special Armistice Sunday services will be held at the Methodist church on Sunday evening, Nov. 8, with the American Legion and the Legion Auxiliary attending.

Rev. H. C. Capsey, Legion chaplain, will have as his subject, "The Road to Peace." Special music will be presented.

Mrs. W. K. Smith Rites Held Tuesday

Prominent Wayne Woman Dies Saturday After Long Illness.

Funeral services were held from the Presbyterian church Tuesday afternoon, Nov. 3, for Mrs. W. K. Smith, who died at her home at Wayne Saturday morning, Oct. 31, after an illness of several months. Services were in charge of her pastor, Rev. P. A. Davies, and interment was in the Wayne cemetery.

Amanda Ida Fiedler was born in Whitewater, Wisc., on Dec. 13, 1879. She was 51 years, 10 months and 18 days old at the time of her death.

She went to make her home in Milwaukee, Wisc., in 1893, and graduated from the normal college there in 1879, four years afterward. She was at once accepted into the Milwaukee system of schools as a teacher and was given charge in a settlement school among Polish people. She had 72 students, only two of whom could understand and speak the English language. She taught in Milwaukee until 1922.

In her early life, Mrs. Smith had been confirmed in the Episcopal faith and had become a member of the St. James Episcopal church of Milwaukee. She had been identified with the Girls' Friendly society of that church and was prominent in the organization as a leader in welfare work among working girls. As a member of the Milwaukee City Club of Civic Affairs she took a prominent part in the civic affairs of the city.

During the war she had charge of a Better Citizens night school among foreign born, some of whom were 60.

NATURAL GAS WILL BE AVAILABLE SOON

Court House Main to Be in Operation Within Next Few Days.

Officials of the People's Natural Gas company are making plans to have natural gas available for the Wayne county court house at an early date, probably within the next few days. Gas will be turned into the mains at Wakefield within a short time, and Wayne will follow shortly afterwards.

The main pipe line, company officials stated yesterday, is practically completed, and optimism is expressed by attaches of the company regarding prospects of having gas available to Wayne consumers by the time of the franchise expiration, November 15.

Announcement of the opening of the gas company's offices will be made through Wayne newspapers within the next two weeks, although a definite date has not yet been decided upon.

Dorm Bids to Be Accepted Next Monday

Number of Bidders Points to Intense Competition for College Job.

Bids on the $150,000 dormitory for Wayne State Teachers' college will be opened Monday morning, Nov. 9, at 10:30 a. m., when the Wayne State Teachers' college Dormitory Corporation board and the Board of Education of State Normal Schools meet in the administration building for the purpose of determining the contracting awards on the building.

Mrs. Elva Brockway, secretary of the dormitory corporation, said yesterday that there would be 31 bids on the general contract, 31 bids on plumbing and heating, and 11 bids on the electric contract. She said that contracts would probably be let in the afternoon.

The dormitory corporation board consists of J. J. Aherm, president; C. M. Craven, vice-president; Mrs. Brockway, secretary; Rollie W. Ley, treasurer, and Fred S. Berry.

The state board of education, which will convene with the dormitory board, consists of Col. T. J. Majors of Peru, F. S. Knapp of Omaha, Fred M. Anderson of Cozad, W. H. Thompson of Grand Island, Edgar Ferneau of Auburn, Edmund Crites of Chadron and Charles W. Taylor of Lincoln.

Plans and specifications for the building are available at Mrs. Brockway's office. The dormitory is to be a three-story fireproof building of dark pressed brick construction, with Bedford stone pilasters from ground to roof. Its arrangement will be somewhat similar to that of Nehardt hall. The dormitory will be 160 feet long, with two wings projecting 80 feet.

It will face the south, on the spot where Kingsbury Hall formerly stood. The grandstand and athletic field will be moved in the spring to the plot of ground further north which was recently purchased.

Only the east end of the basement will be finished. The basement will contain a large recreation room, a kitchen, laundry room and storage room.

The first floor plans call for an office, an apartment for the preceptors and a large reception room. Rooms in the dormitory will all be equipped with lavatory with hot and cold running water. A clothes closet in each room will be next to the door instead of between rooms as in Nehardt hall.

Floors in the rooms will be of oak, while the floors in corridors and reception room will be of terrazo.

LEGION HAS GUESTS

Tom Walcott, adjutant, William Paradise, past commander, and Mr. Aldrich, vice-commander of Monahan post of the American Legion at Sioux City, were guests at a meeting of Erwin Sears Legion post Wednesday night. All three of them gave short talks.

After the meeting, about 40 local Legionnaires and the Sioux City guests adjourned to the Palace cafe for an oyster stew supper.

The Inquiring Reporter

THIS WEEK'S QUESTION
Do you think the tariff should be an issue in the 1932 presidential campaign?

F. S. Berry: "Certainly. The tariff is always an issue and probably always will be."

Don P. Miller: "It will be."
Martin L. Ringer: "I certainly do. I believe if the Democrats stress the tariff they have a good chance of winning. I don't see how it can be kept out of the important issues."

H. D. Addison: "Absolutely."
George Patterson: "Yes, I do. I think the Smoot-Hawley tariff is too high and that drastic changes should be made."

Sam Davies

RED CROSS STARTS ROLL CALL NOV. 11

Wayne County Is Zoned for Membership Solicitation.

Red Cross roll call for Wayne county will begin on Wednesday, Nov. 11, and continue for two weeks, according to H. R. West, roll call chairman of the Wayne county Red Cross chapter.

Wayne has been plotted into sections and various individuals will be given divisions of the community which they are to solicit for membership in the Red Cross organization. Rural districts have been divided into school districts.

Memberships will be sold for one dollar. The fact that unemployment and poor crops have made relief more necessary this year than is usually the case is being stressed by Red Cross officials, who urge everyone to contribute one dollar for a year's membership.

Father-Son Banquet to Be Held Tuesday

Dad and lad will get together at a Father and Son banquet to be held in the Presbyterian church dining room Tuesday evening, Nov. 16, at 6:30 o'clock. The dinner is being sponsored by the Hi-Y club of the Wayne high school and is under the supervision of A. W. Behl, Hi-Y advisor.

Rev. H. C. Capsey will be the principal speaker and will use the father and son relationship as his theme. Special musical entertainment will be provided.

Wayne Wins Homecoming Grid Battle

Wildcats Defeat Chadron by 3-0 Score in Last Minute of Game.

Wayne State Teachers' college Wildcat football team put on a Homecoming show last Friday night with the collaboration of the Chadron Eagles that, despite a soggy field, can go down in the annals as a really great football game. The final score, 3 to 0 in favor of the locals, sent everyone home satisfied. In fact, the spectators had been hoping for a tie at the start of the second half when Chadron staged a threatening drive goalward.

Faye Evans, left end, who made the place-kick for three points in the last minute of play, is of course the white-headed boy and favorite son at the Wildcat institution—but Ray Hickman, Wildcat coach, also got pretty much smeared up with praise for his truly brilliant coaching strategy.

Wayne had advanced the ball from mid-field to the 20-yard marker late in the last quarter. At the 20-yard line, the Chadron defense stiffened and in three downs the Wildcats got a little less than no place. Hickman rushed in a substitute for Manzer, the substitute called signals, and the perfect kick from placement was effected.

Coach Ray-Hickman has no illusions concerning the praise which is being heaped upon him. "The kick was good," he told this reporter, "so I'm a great coach. If the kick had failed, the crowd would have thought I was the rottenest coach in the world. They'd have said we should have tried a pass or that we should have sent Copeland around end."

Both teams played fine defensive football. Hansen and Paul for Wayne and Beguin and Miller for Chadron broke up play after play. Copeland, previously Wayne's strongest scoring threat, found it difficult to get under way on the soggy field, and Grubb, fullback, could do little better. They accounted for most of Wayne's yardage. Montague and Minnick were the best ground gainers for Chadron.

Wayne was competing against the smoothest-working football team that the locals have encountered all season. The flashy Red Devil Chadron aggregation worked with precision, and they had a bag of tricks that was difficult to fathom.

The game, the last home engagement of the season, was a fitting climax to a series of fine grid battles. The victory assured Wayne of an N. T. A. A. conference championship, although the Wildcats have another conference game with Omaha university.

Wayne journeys to Rapid City, S. D., for the next game, to be played against the South Dakota School of Mines.

Pointers for Work Around Farm Homes

This is the time of year to watch out for trichinosis, the disease caused by small parasites known as trichinae which may occur in pork and pork products. Cook pork thoroughly. Don't eat it raw.

Some beef-cattle breeders think too much silage harms the breeding qualities of a bull. A bull weighing about 1,400 pounds should keep in excellent breeding condition during winter if fed a ration of about 30 pounds of silage, 10 pounds of good quality alfalfa and 12 pounds of grain mixture.

It is a good plan to whitewash the dairy barns once or twice a year. To make a disinfectant whitewash, dilute 1 1/2 quarts of commercial lime-sulphur with about three gallons of water, and add three tablespoons of common salt, previously dissolved in a pint of water. To this solution add while stirring constantly, a lime cream made by mixing a heaping quart of good hydrated lime with water, or by slaking 2 1/2 pounds of fresh quicklime and straining through a wire fly screen.

Stock Tanks Should Be Readied for Winter

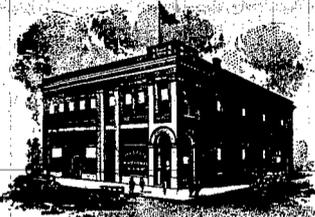

During the next few weeks stock tanks should be banked and covered, in preparation for winter use. It is also recommended that gravel or cinders be placed around both the tanks and waterers to prevent accidents due to slipping on icy yards. Where the drinking water is tempered with a tank heater, faster gains and more economical production will result during cold weather.

Nearly everyone has seen dairy cows hump up their backs and shiver on a cold day after drinking icy water from a stock tank and it is not to be expected that such an experience is conducive to profitable production. At the Iowa experiment station it was found that fall pigs given water from an automatic waterer, kept from freezing with a kerosene lamp, showed an increase of 17 percent over pigs given water in open troughs.

GET RESULTS

The constant spitting of a machine gun does more execution than the occasional boom of a Big Bertha. Its spat-spat shots get results. So it is with advertising; the small ad run every week is better for results than the large ad run hit or miss. Consecutive advertising gets the business. If you had a whole bushel of chain links it would not pull a load. Put them together in a continuous chain and you have a strong and powerful thing. So it is with advertising. # ARMISTICE

LIKE the rainbow that follows the storm . . . have been the thirteen years of glorious Peace and Progress this world has enjoyed since the termination of the great conflict overseas. Mankind is carrying on with Good Will in its heart . . . old enmities forgotten . . . striving, to achieve greater blessings for Humanity.

Yet, in the hustle and throb of everyday life, let us not forget those brave lads to whom we're indebted . . . and will be for all time . . . for our present Happiness and Contentment. Those heroes of Belleau Wood, Chateau Thierry, the Argonne and other Allied battlefronts, who so unselfishly made the Supreme Sacrifice for Humanity and the advancement of Civilization!

Their deeds live on. To them, and to the boys who came back, our homage . . . a Silent Prayer of Thankfulness as we face the east at that memorable hour of 11 A. M., ARMISTICE DAY!

WHEN IS A JOKE?

When is a joke not a joke?
The answer to that question probably would be, "When it is carried too far."

Certainly, the Halloween prank mentioned in news dispatches throughout the country in which a young lady was killed when the car in which she was riding hit a wire stretched across the road would not come under any humor classification.

And we wonder if the three cases in which Wayne-owned automobiles were stolen last Saturday night could possibly be classed as jokes?

The cars were taken in fun, but had an officer come upon the prank-sters while they were in possession of any one of the cars the evidence would have pointed indisputably to automobile theft. Being found guilty of stealing an automobile wouldn't be so funny, would it?

Fortunately, the cars were not damaged. But they might have been. No person has any right to drive an automobile belonging to an other person without the owner's permission. Driving a car which does not belong to you is no joke.

Halloween pranks are all right when a little judgment is used. Soap-ing the windows of a car or letting the air out of the tires does damage to nothing except the car owner's temper. But the theft of a car entails danger of damage to the automobile. It is no joke and is not considered as such by any court in the country.

Don't stop the youngsters from having their Halloween jokes, but insist that they use a little common sense in the concoction of their per-petrations.

DEMOCRATIC PLATFORMS!

Suggestions for a Democratic platform for 1932, started by JoVett Shouse, chairman of the Democratic National Executive Committee, continue in the current issue of the "Democratic Bulletin," issued by the Women's National Democratic Club.
The following are extracts from suggestions made by prominent Democrats:

George Gordon Battle (New York Attorney): In my opinion the platform should declare in favor of national referendum to ascertain the views of the voters of this country upon prohibition. "Those tariff rates which promote monopoly and injustice should be lowered. The Wagner bill (for the establishment of an unemployment service) should be enacted into law. The public utilities should be subjected to local regulation with every safeguard to provide that they may earn a fair and proper return."

Senator C. C. Dill (Washington): Economic questions should be the dominating issues in the coming campaign. Revision of the tariff downward. A law that will protect the people in the issuance of watered stock in large organizations engaged in interstate business.

Senator M. M. Logan (Kentucky): I favor an immediate reduction in nearly all the rates in the present tariff bill. Establishment of a more elastic currency. Repeal of the Federal Farm Board act.

Congressman M. C. Tarver (Georgia): Prohibition should be eschewed. The primary issue is the tariff and the party should promise a constructive and intelligent revision thereof.

Congressman Robert Ramspeck (Georgia): Reduction of the tariff to a competitive basis, raising the income taxes in the higher brackets, increase the inheritance taxes and provide a gift tax.

DECLARE A MORATORIUM

American public opinion may have at one of the most critical times in the republic's history its greatest opportunity to make itself felt in the interest of national progress. If it now asserts itself it will accomplish more than it ever achieved before. For never in American history has the need for this been more pressing, never an objective so greatly desired.

The American people surely have been thinking hard for the last two years. Confidence in their ability to think straight is not misplaced. Statesmen, themselves, readily admit that mass thinking and mass conclusions are dependable. Let it be hoped that this always will be true with reference to the American people.

If, then, the people have been thinking hard and straight for the past two years they cannot have failed to reach some definite conclusion as to the present conditions and as to what is needed for improvement and progress. And the first thing they would be bound to hit upon as an obstacle to be removed would be politics. If they have thought hard and straight about their business affairs, they are in a mood to demand an embargo on politics until something in their interest has been achieved.

What is needed at this time is a moratorium on politics. Let the American people with their great influence wielded as public opinion demand it and let it cover the entire country. Let them demand of their public officials in every direction their best efforts toward constructive programs leading to economic recovery. Let them pursue a definite course, one of rewarding those public officials who respond to the demand and let them impose punishment upon those who refuse.

President Hoover is now undertaking to improve economic conditions.
To that end he has called upon leaders of both parties to help him. The men of both parties who are patriotic citizens before they are politicians will aid him. Let public opinion demand such help of every man in high position in the people's pay and service.

The Journal does not suggest that the presidential campaign of next year be forgotten or ignored. Let the democrats take advantage of every opportunity to win that may be theirs.
But—and here's the important thing on which public opinion ought to concentrate now—condemn one and all the politicians who dare to put obstructions in the way as this nationwide movement for economic recovery is launched.—Sioux City Journal.

THE MAN FROM ILLINOIS

Len Small served twice as governor of Illinois. And now he is endeavoring to stage a comeback as governor, for he has entered the contest, through the medium of the republican primary.

No man in political life in the United States has had a more colorful career than Len Small—and escaped the penitentiary. As state treasurer he is alleged to have manipulated state funds to the extent that he reaped a vast fortune. At any rate, when the law was turned loose on his trail he finally settled with the state for $600,000—and avoided further prosecution. Then, in the face of this, he became a candidate for governor, and was twice elected, but defeated for the third nomination in 1928. How he was able to sell himself to people of Illinois in the face of his record, those outside of Illinois cannot understand.

As a candidate for governor again Small is said to now have the support of "Big Bill" Thompson, former mayor of Chicago, and of Frank L. Smith, who was twice denied a seat in the United States senate, by the senate itself.

Illinois is staggering under a burden of bonded indebtedness, an indebtedness that was incurred during the period Small was governor. The people perhaps didn't mind it so much while times were flush, but it is different now. Sometimes the people forget. They have occasion to remember Len Small, though.—Seward Independent-Democrat.

AFTER SIXTY

After sixty, what? All around the country, banks have been popping like firecrackers. Stock brokers have watched the bottom drop out of everything. A lot of things some of us thought were going to take care of us in our old age proved as worthless as Russian Ruble Bonds.

How would you like to have about five hundred dollars a month guaranteed you as soon as you reach sixty, and paid to you on the nail the first day of every month? How would you like an absolute guarantee that if you happened to shuffle off around that time, your wife would have three hundred a month as long as she survived?

After sixty is when you are going to have time to read all those interesting books you have always wanted to read. It will be then you will want to make that trip to California or Florida in the winter and drift up to Canada or New England in summer. There are a lot of fish to be caught by men over sixty, and a lot of wonderful golf courses to be played around that time of life.

Have you ever made that trip to Europe or Hawaii? Those are nice places to go when you have all that leisure after sixty. It can all be so easily arranged, now when you are so prosperous, that it's a shame to take the money.

Hundreds of old fellows who have had bad luck with their investments are dependent on relatives or institutions because they didn't take the trouble to make guaranteed provisions for that after-sixty day. Sixty-five per cent of all men are dependent on others for their daily bread after that age. Most of that sixty-five per cent could easily have been sitting on the sunny side of easy street with five hundred dollar checks dropping in on the first of the month, if they cared to.

How can it be done? Just call up the greatest benefactor that the human race has ever known—the life insurance man. Not any particular man or company—just any of them!
They can fix it up for you in a jiffy.
I think they call them "annuities," and you can buy them more ways than a woman can fix lettuce in a salad.—Roe Fulkerson in the Kiwanis Magazine.

A CIRCUS

The row between Governor Long and Lieutenant Governor Cyr of Louisiana has reached a point where blows are being struck. After long and patient waiting for a chance to usurp the throne while Governor Long was out of the state, the lieutenant governor has tired and took the oath of office without further ado. He contends that Long vacated his office when he certified his election to the United States senate last November.

Of course if Long vacated his office, as Cyr contends, the lieutenant governor should have succeeded him last November. The reason he did not is because Long would not let him. Long is determined to finish out his term as governor before taking his senate seat. Cyr has long waited a chance to perch on the governor's chair. He hoped that the governor would leave the state so that he could legally take charge. Once in the office he hoped to keep Long out.
But Long has taken no chances.

Time has been growing short so Cyr decided to act regardless of Long's whereabouts and took the oath of office. When the word reached the governor he started for the capitol, he had been in New Orleans, and ordered out the guard to keep Cyr out of the state house. Cyr has also been issuing orders but with less success.

The governor has responded to Cyr's move by contending that Cyr automatically threw himself out of office by taking the oath as governor and that Senator King succeeds him as lieutenant governor. New developments are awaited with interest, even though most of the gestures made thus far are meaningless.

The heads of the Louisiana government are very free with each other's offices. They, without a moment's hesitation, toss each other from office to office and out in the street; figuratively speaking, of course, since all this tossing is confined to statements made to the press. The whole business is better than a circus when viewed from the outside. Louisiana is now the sawdust circle in which two top hatted ringmasters are cracking whips at each other, much to the delight of the audience.—Lincoln State Journal.

GENERALS TALK LIKE THAT

"We don't want any more wars, but a man is a damn fool to think that there won't be any more of them.
I am a peace-loving Quaker, but when war breaks out every damn man in my family goes. If we're ready, nobody will tackle us. Give us a club and we will face them all. None of us would walk out and sock Jack Dempsey on the nose if we didn't know how to fight" and both hands were crippled. Well, we won't go out to anybody else unless we've got the goods and produce them. There is no use talking about abolishing war; that's damn foolishness. Take the guns away from men and they will fight just the same. . . . It takes a hell of a lot of abuse to get us riled up, but once we get going, look out for us. In the Spanish-American War we didn't have any bullets to shoot, and if we had not had a war with a nation that was already licked and looking for an excuse to quit, we would have had hell licked out of us.
No pacifists or communists are going to govern this country. If they try it there will be seven million men like you rise up and strangle them. Pacifists? Hell! I'm a pacifist, but I always have a club behind my back." General Smedley D. Butler, as reported in the New York Times.

SPORTSMANSHIP

Over at Plainview last Friday afternoon we witnessed an exhibition of sportsmanship that left a deep impression on our mind. The local football team was battling hard against the Plainview team. It was one of those fine, clean exhibitions of a great game, with two teams about as evenly matched as possible. Both were fighting for every inch of ground. Both were strong on defense but weak on offense. And in one of the plays a certain Laurel player hit the man he was playing against plenty hard. In fact, he put him on the ground full length in a beautiful blocking play.
The Plainview man was evidently jarred up with his impact with the ground, but the moment the referee's whistle sounded the Laurel player jumped to his assistance, helped him to his feet and slapped him on the back in true sportsman style. And it was only a few plays later that the same thing happened over again, this time the Laurel man biting the dust and the Plainview man doing the courtesies. And we thought to ourselves as we watched this exhibition of the splendid training both these boys were receiving: They were learning to give and take, to keep their heads in the heat of the fray and to find time to be a gentleman although the battle raged fiercely with no quarter asked or given. It's that spirit that is going to follow these boys the rest of their lives and when they get out in the world, battling against odds, it will be this spirit that will carry them on to victory against seemingly impossible odds. No one could witness this exhibition of sportsmanship without sensing the value of athletics to the men of tomorrow.—Laurel Advocate.

THE COMMANDMENTS

A. C. Hudnutt, publisher of the Elyria, Ohio, Chronicle-Telegram, was told by a reader of his paper recently that he ought to print the Ten Commandments. Mr. Hudnutt thereupon did an unusual thing; he printed the Commandments on page one—without comment.

On the editorial page, however, he explained that this reader had made a convincing argument that if every publisher in the country would print the Commandments it would do some good. The reader said he hadn't read them them himself for at least 20 years.

With charges flying around promiscuously that our city daily papers are paying too much attention to crime news, it is refreshing to hear of one editor who will give front page space to something that he hopes will do some good. Maybe it did and maybe it didn't—but it is a certainty that it had a better effect upon the paper's readers than have all the "sacred head" stories about Mrs. Ruth Judd's murder.

Economist Plead for Lower Production Costs

Farmers can offset to some extent the effects of the economic depression by using good business and farming methods, according to Dr. W. I.
Myers of Cornell university.

"Since present troubles are primarily monetary," he said, "the farmer needs to cut production costs for the future as well as for the present."

Two main ways of obtaining a reasonable price for products are to decrease production costs and to decrease total production to the point where demand will force the price up, he said.

"If prices of only one commodity were low, decreasing production would work," Dr. Myers explained, "but with prices of all commodities low reducing costs of production to leave a higher margin of profit even at present prices is the main remedy."

Agriculture as a whole, he said, cannot shut down like other business. Watching outlook reports, following a steady production program instead of "jumping in and out," and reducing production costs were recommended by him. A more stable standard of value, adjustment of taxation and other legislative aids are needed, but while the farmer is waiting for these he should remember that he has his own individual ways of helping himself.

The business depression is due to the scarcity of gold and its increased value rather than to overproduction of farm products and other commodities. D. Myers said.

"The fact that three pounds of butter exchange for 23.32 grains of gold, $1. does not necessarily mean that butter is plentiful; it means this year that gold is scarcer," he said.
"Gold mining has decreased and search for new gold has been neglected because in recent years its value had decreased. Now gold is in demand again and its price is high."

Homer streets have been graveled.

Add Press Breaks

"The body lay in state at the family home here today, while his many friends passed the beer."—Garvanti (Iowa News).

Maybe you haven't heard the one about the traveling man who suddenly decided to spend a week-end at home, boarded a train and sent a telegram to his wife. Upon his arrival he found her in the loving embrace of a boy friend. He stormed out of the house, took a room at a hotel, and applied for a divorce.

The father-in-law tried to placate him. "Mary has always been a good wife to you, Henry," the old man protested. "There's probably some explanation for her action."

"Nope, I'm all through," the traveling man replied.

"Meet me at lunch tomorrow and we'll talk it over," the father-in-law begged. "In the meantime I'll see Mary again."

They agreed, and the next day the two met at a cafe.

"Henry," the father-in-law exulted, "Everything is all right. I knew Mary had a good reason. She didn't get your telegram."

Higher Education

The teacher was testing the general knowledge of her kindergarten pupils. Slapping a half dollar on the desk, she said, "What's that?"

"Tails," a voice piped up from the back row.

Slightly Hushed Dirt

There's the Wayne clubwoman who went to a convention and heard a speaker deliver a tirade against "the filth of that horrid, trashy magazine, Ballyhoo." The convention town's magazine stand was all sold out, she complained. Milo has her order for the next Ballyhoo issue.

Pity the poor fellow who is having wife trouble. One wife too many.
Believe it or not—but it's true—and right here in Wayne.

A library board member confides that the people who grab the slightly spicy books first are the people you'd think would leave 'em alone.
Oh! Oh! Did you hear about the Laurel Advocate's sharp reprimand to the Wayne girls who smoked cigarets on Laurel's main street? It seems that the local gals went to Laurel to see a football game—and thought it their duty to put on a little show of their own. The reprimand was a burner—and quite rightly given.

You don't have to believe that a local fellow lost eight hundred—hard, round silver dollars at a Sioux City gambling joint recently. It DOES seem almost impossible to believe that a Wayne fellow HAD eight hundred dollars.

Anyone who thinks that the political situation is quiet in Wayne is crazy. It's a positive hurricane—but is being discussed on the q. t.
Our secret operatives report four different political plots.

A Wayne young fellow had to have his stomach pumped out last week to get rid of some very, very bad liquor.
The process was accomplished by means of an emetic.

A certain Wayne business man is,
by shrewd maneuverings, going to secure his competitor's place of business: Remember this forecast, and you'll be able to figure it out when it happens.

'Tis whispered by Operative 247 that a prominent Wayne man is going to marry a charming Wayne woman within the next week.

It is learned from an outside source that a certain chain organization is seriously contemplating the opening of a store here.

Operative 621 reports that a certain Wayne business man can neither read nor write well enough to trust himself to do work involving ether, but that he has managed to keep his lack of education hidden.

A certain Wayne woman bears no amazingly strong grudge against the Democrat. The story which incurred her flaming enmity was, in The Democrat's opinion, a tribute to a pioneer. But it carried the facts, and that is what she will not forgive.

A Wayne woman, the supposed friend of a certain Wayne girl, tried to get me to run a malicious piece of gossip in this column concerning the girl. Investigation proved that the story had no foundation.

There is foundation, however, to a story that a certain verreh, verreh nice Wayne gal is engaged to a just as dandeh Wayne fellow.

Efforts will be made to get a certain Wayne county man who has no interests outside of self to enter an Old People's home.

"Weren't you afraid he'd be mad?"
a friend asked me, relative to a joke published about a certain collich professor last week. "No," I replied, "It's not the big men who get mad at jokes. It's the little fellows who get peevish. And you can mark that fellow down as a good scout."

If a certain wise bird, identity unknown, doesn't quit annoying me with anonymous telephone calls concerning this here Scott Shot gossiping, I'm going to be forced to have my telephone taken out. And that would add to the depression.

Pity the poor husbands whose wives played bridge until nearly 6:30 one afternoon last week.

And, while we're talking about it, pity the poor wives whose husbands played poker one night last week until 3:30 in the morning. But don't waste much pity on the wife of the Wayne business man who won a flock of bucks on the game.

The Wayne county farmer who filed a complaint against all of his neighbers would have found himself in a tough spot if he hadn't been talked out of it.

There's a reason, it develops, why no complaint was ever filed by the victim of a Wayne holdup case.

"What's wrong with these eggs?"
a customer stormed at John Gustaf one day last week.

"Don't ask me," John replied. "I only laid the table."

"Did you take your husband's temperature as I told you?" Doc Jamieson asked.

"Yes, doctor," the Wayne wife replied. "I borrowed a barometer and placed it on his chest; it said 'very dry,' so I bought him a quart of home brew and he's gone back to work."

"Are you in favor of women taking part in public affairs?" a reporter asked Attorney James E. Brittain.

"It's all right if you really want the affairs public," he replied.

What most increases anger is the feeling that one is in the wrong.— Richter.

And now it's time for our weekly session with Fred Howard, stellar columnist of the Clay County Sun:

A local stenographer says that her boss is so dumb that he couldn't see a joke without an appointment.

Having a Heinz kiss is said to account for the popularity of a Fryar avenue girl. Fifty-seven varieties and every one good.

One of the mysteries which old men sometimes ponder over is how in thunder the community has stood for them so long.

Long before woman began entering the professions she laid down the law with no other warrant for authority than a marriage certificate.

Talk about being between the devil and the deep sea! If a lot of us don't go to spend the winter with relatives they will be dropping in to spend the winter with us.

A catalog outfit solicits my order for clothing with the argument that their clothes are cut clear to the bottom. So are mine, and in one of two instances the bottom is gone completely.

A lot of us guys who complain about home expenses would be flat failures if we were not spurred on by wife's demands for ohjennies and silk Sox. Of course it would never do to let her know about this matter for it might occur to her that she could make us even more successful by increasing her demands.

A business acquaintance of mine trying to convince me of the propriety of a questionable enterprise, closed his argument in these words:
"You know that business today is all graft and rackets." No, emphatic-ly, no. I don't know any such a thing. I do know that legitimate business is being hampered and disgraced by grafters and racketeers who, in a fleeting period of social degeneracy, are able to make money to take the place of decency—prosperity substitute for respectability. I also know that legitimate business will again push its way back to commercial supremacy and that graft and racketeers will go the way of all things not founded on honesty.

Rain last Thursday in no way dampened the enthusiasm of our Young People's Rally. 156 sat down in a beautifully decorated dining hall to a banquet that they will long remember. What a banquet it was! Fun, fellowship and good eats, at the close of which Dr. Dickey of Norfolk and Miss Julius from one of our Mission Schools in West Virginia brought the more serious messages. Friday morning also was well spent with messages from the young people and the organization of the Presbytery into two districts, each with its own set of officers and sponsors. Miss Jean Davies was made president of the eastern district and Mrs. John H. Owens of Carroll, vice-president. It is the purpose of these districts to have one or more such conferences each year.

The Lord's Supper will be celebrated at the morning service next Sunday. The services for the day are as follows: Sunday school, 10 a. m.; morning worship, 11 a. m.; evening choir, 6 p. m.; C. E. service, 6:30 p. m.; evening worship, 7:30.

Our ladies have been asked to serve the Father and Son banquet to be put on by the H-Y about the 10th of the month.

The Ladies Aid met in the church for one of its regular sessions Wednesday afternoon.

The young married people's class, under the leadership of Mr. Hook, had a goodly number present last Sunday. We are looking for it to grow in interest and numbers from Sunday to Sunday. If you are not in Sunday school, why not start next Sunday?

HOG SITUATION

Can I Afford to Finish My Pigs for Market?

This is a problem every hog raiser is confronted with at the present time. Many farmers are forced to sell their pigs because of lack of feed or finance to buy the feed. The hog raiser should use the old standard of corn and hog ratio to decide this question. The corn and hog ratio of 10:1 means 10 bushels of corn equal to 100 pounds of pork. Example: 10 cent corn would equal $4 cwt. hogs. With corn at 40 cents and 200 pound pigs bringing $5 cwt., we have a corn and hog ratio of 12 1/2 to 1. When the ratio reaches 10 to 1 or below, there will be a loss in the average feeding operation with the average hogs. At the present time feeding prices are favorable for feeding.

Many hogs have been forced out of drouth areas into sections where feed is plentiful. In general market prices of feeder pigs have risen the general hog situation and have been fairly attractive for feeding. The low feeder price for pigs should also be considered before the spring pigs are sold at a sacrifice before they are finished for market.

The National Livestock Marketing Association feel that this winter will offer a very good opportunity to feed hogs for the late winter market. Feed prices will continue relatively cheap, but excessive weight will likely be heavily penalized. An over-fat hog carries a large quantity of lard and yields a high proportion of fat cuts, both of which will have a very slack demand as the result of low buying power in the south and the reduced demand abroad.

Hog production is about average at present, so any increased breeding this winter will mean overproduction, and increased marketings a year from this winter. We all know what increased production will do to the price and profits.—The Allen News

George P. Berres Farm Is Run on Systematic Basis

"There are farms and then there are FARMS," a wise old retired farmer once remarked to this reporter—and the George P. Berres place seven miles southeast of Wayne has a rightful place in the group that is spelled with capital letters. It's the kind of a place that anyone would be proud to own, and Mr. Berres' son-in-law, H. W. Bergt, who is in charge of its operation is seeing that it stays that way. It becomes immediately evident to the visitor to this place that here is a farm which is run on a systematic, business basis. You can almost see that every piece of machinery will be in its proper place, that the hay yards will be clean, that the barn will be in splendid shape. The farm, viewed as a whole, gives the immediate impression that detail work has never been passed over lightly.

Mr. and Mrs. Berres moved from the farm into town in 1923. Mr. and Mrs. Bergt have been in charge of the place ever since.

The Berres farm consists of 320 acres, but 80 acres additional is being rented, so that 400 acres are being farmed. This year 120 acres was planted to corn, 30 acres to small grain and 50 acres of alfalfa. The rest of the place is in pasture, hay land, and lots.

The corn is better than in much of this territory, going about 25 bushels to the acre. The small grain averaged 30 bushels to the acre.

Mr. Berres has owned the place since 1900. He first came to Wayne county in 1879, but could not find work and left. He came back again in 1891, and has lived in this community ever since. In 1891 he bought a farm four miles south of Wayne, which he traded in when he bought his present splendid place.

During the war-time boom period, a man came from Norfolk upon three different occasions to try to induce Mr. Berres to sell. The price the man offered was $400 per acre.

That the land is good goes without saying, when one compares the crop yield to that of other places in the Wayne territory. But it is the buildings and lots which bring forth the expressions of real appreciation from the visitor to this place.

There are 18 buildings on the farm, and all of them are good ones. They are well constructed, well kept up, give the appearance of having been recently painted and are, all in all, about as neat a set of farm buildings as you'll see any place in the country.

The largest hog house is an example of the farming methods at this farm. It is a solidly constructed, substantial building with a cement floor. The remarkable part about it is that the floor is clean. It must take work to keep it that way, but when you look at the pigs, you realize that the results are well worth the effort.

If anyone wants to see a fine lot of really healthy looking pigs, the reporter couldn't give a better suggestion than to visit the Berres farm. They have between 175 and 200 at present, and will have between 300 and 400 when fully stocked.

The hog yards are kept in the way that you read about in farm magazines but seldom see. The pigs are fed on a diet of corn, tankage, ground barley, oats and bran, with the food dispensed from large, clean patent hog feeders. That they thrive on their diet is very apparent.

The Berres farm goes in for cattle feeding on a scale in keeping with the amount of land farmed. The last of 229 head were shipped to Sioux City and were on the market Tuesday, Oct. 27, bringing a price of ten cents. A picture of an earlier shipment to Omaha was on the Burlington railroad page of the Omaha Stockman-Journal last week as an illustration of the high quality cattle shipped to the Omaha market.

When the reporter visited the farm last Friday, Mr. Bergt said that he intended to go out west Saturday to see about getting from 150 to 200 calves. These calves will probably be put on the market a year from now.

Mr. Bergt and Mr. Berres say that their reason for handling a slightly smaller number of cattle this fall is the smaller amount of feed available.

Their formula for cattle feeding is corn, alfalfa and cotton cake. The concentrated cotton cake, Mr. Berres says, gets better results and makes a cheaper feed.

There are nine head of horses on the place. The farm is equipped with two tractors, a Farmall and a 15-30. Mr. Bergt likes both horses and tractors and thinks that any large farm should have both. The tractors, he says, take a lot of the grief out of farming. The light tractor is used for the lighter work, with the heavier one doing all the plowing.

A fine corn crib with built-in elevator is one of the features of the farm. The elevator is run by an old model-T Ford motor. Seven or eight different built-in elevators were inspected and then this one was built in a manner that incorporated the best points of all. The elevator is arranged so that a truck or wagon can drive onto a runway. The runway is so constructed that it tilts, dumping the corn. Then the elevator does the rest of the work, taking the corn to lofty, hopper-shaped bins.

The crib holds 4,000 bushels of ear corn. When the crib gets full, the rest of it sprouts out of the cupola into pockets, equipped with cement floors.

The farm is equipped with a machine grinder and an ensilage cutter. There is also a steel granary.

Mrs. Bergt has charge of the poultry department, and has between 400 and 500 Rhode Island Reds. Mr. Bergt confided to the reporter that most of the chickens ended up at the dinner table instead of at the produce house.

There must be a tremendous amount of work on such a farm as this, and Mr. Bergt is assisted by a hired man whom he keeps all the year round. Mr. Berres is supposed to be retired, but he likes farm life and farm work too much, and he manages to be on the job pretty regularly.

The home on this farm is one that would add to the appearance of any city. It is a splendid nine-room house, with bath. It is supplied with running water from the farm water system. Electric lights are furnished by a built in light plant. The home was farmed in 1914.

People who manage farms the way the Bergt family and the Berres family manage them don't talk much about "hard times." They're too busy getting their work done. Their efficient methods should mean a maximum return on labor and investment.

Drafts Expose Calves to Pneumonia Danger

Prof. E. N. Hansen of the animal husbandry department of Iowa State college warns against exposing calves to pneumonia through damp or poorly ventilated barns. He points out that there is danger that the large number of calves born during October and November will contract pneumonia if proper precautions are not taken.

"Plenty of fresh air and sunlight are essential to the calves' health and there is nothing so apt to cause pneumonia as dampness, poor ventilation and draftiness in barns," he says.

He reports that during a recent trip he observed many barns which had broken windows and loose boards which, if properly repaired, would eliminate drafty conditions in the barn and insure the farmers' herd from disease from that source.

He also recommends that dairy farmers keep milk pails clean and exercise caution against overfeeding calves. It is a good plan, he says, to leave the calf a little hungry after the feeding. His experiences lead him to believe that it is best to feed the calf three times daily on milk that approximates body temperature.

A satisfactory feeding practice, he says, is to give the calf one pound of whole milk for each 10 pounds of body weight for the first two weeks after birth and then change to skim milk.

Good Farms Will Not Cease to Have Value

Although the buying power of farm products is now at the lowest point since the 90s, there is no danger of good farm land ceasing to have value, according to O. R. Johnson, chairman of the agricultural economics department of the Missouri College of Agriculture. Even with no improvement in prices probable for several years, we may still expect fair returns from a conservative

Joe Cappo's Egyptian Entertainers

The passion for jazz continues unabated, and the dance still remains supreme in popularity everywhere. In an endeavor to supply patrons with the best in modern melodies and syncopation, the Wayne Municipal Band has engaged the sensational musical entertainers, Joe Cappo's Egyptian Entertainers, to appear at the Armistice and Carnival dance at the Colonial Pavilion, Tuesday, Nov. 10.

This novelty orchestra is renowned for other attributes than that of being merely a dance aggregation. The Serenaders present that rare phenomena of a jazz band which is as humorous and entertaining as a comedy show. In between their dance compelling melodies, they insert a medley of original specialties, tricks with popular tunes, staging and elaborating a number so that it becomes a joy not only to the dancer but broad, hilarious fun appreciated by everyone.

Originating in that sunny southern Illinois clime known as Little Egypt, the Egyptian Serenaders have now become a nationally known and popular musical organization.

As a special feature of the Armistice and Carnival dance, a $25 cash prize is being offered by the Wayne band to the best dancing couple, with Wayne couples eliminated.

most productive live stock and utilizing our best fields.

A greater degree of self sufficiency will probably go with such a system. We already have many farmers who have adjusted their operations and their living standards to the present level. These are looking forward with assurance that under present prices they can combine hay, grass and grain with milk cows, hens, brood sows or calves and make a fair wage for their year's effort.

The low price level is making necessary readjustment in ideas of property values in cities and in the stock market as well as on farms. It is also causing readjustments in our ideas of what constitutes a reasonable living. Adjustments still needed should include costs of distribution, costs for medical and legal services, costs of highly skilled labor, adjustments of principle in the case of money mortgages, and adjustments in tax rates and rental values of city property.

Farm production costs must be pushed still lower. The easiest way to accomplish this will be by farming only the best fields, and milking only the best cows. This will leave some fields idle and push others into less expensive uses, and is an effective means of reducing production costs.

A CHANGE

We aim to please! The Democrat's four-color comic section has met with the approval of practically all subscribers, and has been instrumental in adding a good many new readers to our constantly growing list. That this feature, the highest priced one ever carried by any Wayne county newspaper, is appreciated has been shown plainly by our subscribers.

We have received a few criticisms, however. A few subscribers have told us that "Yarns of Bos'n Bill" was not their idea of a good comic. They have objected that it does not have an appeal to adults and that its juvenile appeal is doubtful. They have said that they could not read and enjoy it as much as the other comics.

So we have arranged for a new comic feature to supplant "Bos'n Bill." The new comic, "Betty," is as snappy as a fresh rubber band. This comic of the co-ed type will have continuity and will, we think, have more of an appeal to the adult group of readers than any cartoon feature we are now carrying.

"Betty" is a live-wire American girl. We're almost certain that you'll like her, and we hope that you'll follow her adventures from week to week in The Democrat's four page comic section.

We want to thank the people who tipped us off to the fact that "Bos'n Bill" is not as much appreciated by our readers as are "Slim Jim," "The Kelly Kids," and "The Outline of Oscar." Sincere criticism is always welcomed by The Democrat. We're trying to give you a good newspaper and if we know what you want we'll try our best to give it to you.

Poor Potatoes Can Be Used as Stock Feed

Second grade potatoes, very low priced, may be used as a feed for hogs and also in limited amounts for cattle, sheep and horses as a substitute for grain, according to W. E. Morris, extension live stock specialist at the University of Minnesota.

For pigs, the potatoes should be boiled, mixed with the grain and fed with other concentrates. A protein supplement needs to be fed with this.

Experiments indicate that it takes about 420 pounds of potatoes, fed after cooking, to equal 100 pounds of corn or barley. For the best results in swine feeding, the proportion of potatoes in the ration should not be greater than four pounds to one of concentrates. Potatoes are worth only about two-thirds as much when fed raw as when cooked.

Potatoes may furnish half of the dry matter in the ration for cattle and sheep, and one-fourth for horses. Dairy cows should not receive more than about 35 pounds per day as larger amounts may impair the quality of butter produced. For fattening sheep, from two to three pounds daily may be fed with the grain. For cattle and sheep feeding, the potatoes should be chopped and mixed with the grain.

Mining operations are being planned on the Fred Swartz farm near Trenton.

State Representative Speaks to Kiwanians

State Representative A. G. Burke of Bancroft, chairman of the finance committee at the last session of the state legislature, spoke to Wayne Kiwanians at that organization's regular meeting Monday noon on the problems which confront the state legislative body.

It would be impossible, he said, to reduce taxes without seriously damaging the functions of our various state institutions. While we hear much talk in favor of tax reduction, he maintained that when it came to an actual showdown a small minority would actually favor tax reduction which would necessarily curtail the activities and efficiency of the various institutions of the state.

Representative Burke said that the state legislature has been blamed unjustly for many things and added that every organization in the state government seemed to think it the proper thing to saddle any unsatisfactory governmental workings upon the state legislature.

YOUNG PEOPLE HOLD CHURCH RALLY HERE

Presbyterian Meetings Are Attended by 156 Delegates.

One hundred and fifty-six young people, representing all but two churches of this presbytery, attended the banquet which formally opened the young people's rally for Niobrara presbytery, held at the local Presbyterian church Thursday night, Oct. 29. Representatives who came the greatest distance were six young people from Valentine.

Pastors from various churches in the Presbytery said that the rally was the most successful ever held in this district, and gave much credit to Rev. P. A. Davies, pastor of the Wayne Presbyterian church, for his capable management of the conference.

Rev. T. Raymond Allston of Omaha, who was to have been the principal speaker, was unable to attend, so his place was filled by Rev. D. A. Dicke of Norfolk and Miss Helen Julius of the Pattie Stockdale school at Colcord, W. Va.

Organization of the presbytery into two districts was accomplished at the Friday morning session. The Niobrara presbytery extends from Valentine to the Missouri river, and it was thought that a division into two districts would permit greater attendance from each town at young people's conferences.

Jean Davies, daughter of Rev. P. A. Davies, was elected president of this district and Mrs. John H. Owens of Carroll was chosen vice-president.

was a little strenuous for a man 69 years old, he sold his business.

Sam was better known to the citizens of Wayne and surrounding territory than the majority of her people. He was greatly liked and popular with all. His cheery daily greeting had come to be a part of many Wayne business men's lives. His genial good nature and his inexhaustible fund of information made him a pleasant companion.

He was an ardent sports enthusiast, with particular interest in baseball and basketball. He attended all local games and, whenever opportunity presented itself, traveled with Wayne teams to out-of-town games.

His was a fraternal spirit. He liked, and won, comradeship. He was a member of the Elks, Knights of Pythias, Woodmen of the World and Modern Woodmen lodges, and always took an active interest in their affairs. He maintained an active interest in the civic progress of the community, and could always be counted upon to contribute to any charitable or civic cause.

He leaves to mourn his going two sisters, Mrs. C. J. Harris of Long Beach, Calif., and Mrs. A. A. Welch of Wayne, and one brother, John Davies of Sacramento, Calif., as well as a host of friends.

years old. She was married to Mr. Wilford Knox Smith of Wayne on July 8, 1922, at Sheboygan, Wisc. They came immediately to establish their home in Wayne where she at once joined the Presbyterian church, in which she took an active part until her illness. She was the president of the Ladies Aid society for one year. Much of her energy and interest were given to the Girl Scout movement and until two years ago, when ill health compelled her to relax, she was a captain. Since that time she had been one of the advisors.

She was a member of the U. D. club, the Country club, and the Eastern Star.

She leaves to mourn her death a loving husband, three sisters and three brothers. The sisters are Mrs. George A. Cowles of Whitewater, Wisc., Mrs. George A. Spencer of Madison, Wisc., and Mrs. W. L. Hollingsworth of West Allis, Wisc. The brothers are E. F. Fiedler of Janesville, Wisc., Wm. Fiedler of Waupaca, Wisc., and Dr. Otto Fiedler of Sheboygan, Wisc. Among the nieces and nephews living is Miss Helen Hollingsworth, who has made her home with her uncle and aunt in Wayne for the last four years.

Besides these relatives there are a host of friends who will mourn her going, for hers was a life of many lasting and true friendships.

Contract has been let for the construction of a $49,336 girls' dormitory at the Beatrice Institute for feeble-minded.

Russell W. Bartels, of Wayne, a student in the college of law at the University of Nebraska, Lincoln, has been granted a tuition scholarship for the current semester. This year is the first time that law scholarships have been awarded.

Mr. Bartels is one of 12 students who have applied for the two Rhodes scholarships awarded to this district this year. He has attended the state university for the past two years, and was admitted to the state bar after taking the state law examination this summer. He will receive his Bachelor of Laws degree from the university next spring.

Better Breakfasts

MANY schools serve their pupils milk or chocolate in the middle of the morning. They do it, because the average child, regardless of family circumstances, does not have a nourishing breakfast at home. That ought to make mothers stop and think. The truth is that every child, and every adult as well, ought to have a good substantial breakfast before he leaves the house. Here is a better breakfast that will make breakfast planning easy.

Grapefruit and Apricot Compote
Hot or Cold-Breakfast Cereal Bacon with Fried Bananas Popovers Hot Beverage

This breakfast contains plenty of fruit, as it should be dietetically correct and start the day right, and it is quite simple to prepare. But perhaps you don't know how to make the compote, so here's the recipe.

Chill one No. 2 can of grapefruit and one 8-ounce can of apricots separately in the ice box overnight. In the morning combine them, and serve in glass fruit dishes. You may add a sprig of fresh mint, for an additional touch, and fresh grapefruit may be used in place of the canned, but in that case you must add sugar to taste. This recipe will serve six people.

Good Coffee

Coffee is the almost universal American breakfast beverage. Good coffee means coffee that has retained all of its flavor and aroma, and that means any of the brands of coffee that come in "vacuum packed" cans.
