Bargain Day Brings Crowd of Shoppers

Wayne's Trade Territory Responds to Special Sale Offerings.

Shoppers started coming to Wayne early yesterday morning and stayed until late at night, with Wayne merchants co-operating on a bargain festival day. Firms taking part in the special bargain offering seem to be agreed that the affair was a success from every standpoint.

Out-of-town shoppers were unanimous in voicing the opinion that Wayne really was offering bargains yesterday. They were loud in their praise of Wayne hospitality. The Gay theatre, presenting three free shows through the courtesy of local merchants, had capacity audiences. A dance at the Corvill garage in the evening furnished additional entertainment.

Wayne's municipal band, under the direction of Prof. F. C. Reed, offered several concerts during the day and found the crowd of bargain hunters highly appreciative.

Merchants last night were of the opinion that there is no such thing as a depression. Present conditions, they said, merely call for better values and more economical merchandising. Continuation of a policy of giving the greatest values at the lowest possible price, they believe, will mean consistently increasing business.

The crowd of out-of-town visitors was estimated at from 3,000 to $5,000, although no accurate check could be made.

District Court Hears Evans Accident Case

Hearing of the damage case instituted by Recca Evans, administratrix of the estate of Elmer Evans of Pender, vs. Edward Kal, Wayne county farmer, started yesterday morning in district court.

The case is an outgrowth of an accident on highway No. 9, eight miles east and six miles south of Wayne, on Tuesday afternoon, July 21. Elmer Evans and his daughter-in-law, Mrs. Mabel Evans, were killed when a gasoline truck which Mr. Evans was driving collided with a light truck driven by Mr. Kai. Mrs. Recca Evans and Eunice Evans, a daughter of Mrs. Mabel Evans, were riding in the gasoline truck when the accident occurred.

H. D. Addison and Harry E. Sisman are attorneys for the defendant, and James Hanley of Omaha and Fred S. Berry of Wayne are attorneys for the plaintiff.

Wildcats Play Omaha Mun U. Tomorrow

Injuries will probably keep Sexton, D. Evans, Hill and Lindamood out of the starting lineup tomorrow night when the Wayne State Teachers' college Wildcats endeavor to make it a 100 percent season by defeating the strong Omaha Municipal university football team. The game, to be played at Omaha, will start at eight o'clock, and is regarded by Coach Ray Hickman as one of the locals' toughest assignments of the season.

Omaha Mun U. has lost but one game this year, taking the short end of a 13 to 8 count at Kearney. The Omaha team is said to be considerably stronger than it was at the time of the Kearney encounter, and is said to be keyed up for the Wayne grid engagement.

A win would give the Wildcats a record of eight straight victories and would give them undisputed claim to the N. I. A. A. conference championship. A large delegation of Wayne people plan to see the game.

FORMER WAYNE GIRL SPEAKS AT KIWANIS

Mrs. Arnold Karo Gives Descriptive Talk on Alaska.

Mrs. Arnold Karo, daughter of C. O. Mitchell, held members of the Wayne Kiwanis club spellbound Monday noon at that organization's regular weekly meeting when she gave her listeners a vivid talk on Alaska.

Mrs. Karo mentioned particularly of the country up to this time, and told of the wonderful resources which have practically been untouched. The opportunities for the future, she said, were greater than the average American can possibly realize.

The vastness of the country, hitherto unrealized by her listeners, was clearly brought out by the speaker. She stressed the importance of the fishing industry, but said that the almost untouched mining resources of Alaska could be made even more important.

Special clarinet music by Benny Kay was an added attraction at the meeting.

Rites for Mrs. Mary Fisher Held Monday

Pioneer Wayne Resident Dies Saturday at Omaha.

Funeral services for Mrs. Mary A. K. Fisher, who died Saturday, Nov. 14, at Omaha, were held Monday afternoon at two o'clock from the Harry Fisher residence, with Rev. H. C. In 47 years of life in this community she has seen the town grow from almost nothing and had played a prominent part in the advancement of the city. She was one of the early members of the Methodist Episcopal church of Wayne. Mrs. Fisher was admired and respected by all who knew her, and was one of the real pioneer residents of the county.

FORNEY GUILTY OF PROPERTY TRANSFER

Verdict Returned by Jury After Five Hours' Deliberation.

Claude Forney, charged with transferring mortgaged property, was found guilty on four counts in district court here Wednesday afternoon. The jury returned the verdict of guilty after having been out for five hours and 15 minutes. It was the first conviction returned here on a charge of that nature in several years. County Attorney H. D. Addison prosecuted the case.

Forney was found guilty on two counts of transferring a single steer to a man named "Wenzel" and a man named "Clymore." The state contended that "Wenzel" and "Clymore" were one and the same person. He was found guilty on another count of removing seven mortgaged steers from the county and a fourth count of removing three mortgaged steers from the county.

Forney has three days in which to file a motion for a new trial.

Natural Gas Turned into Local Mains

Mayor Wm. Orr Releases Valve That Starts Gas Service.

Natural gas made its official bow to Wayne on Friday, Nov. 13, at 11:45 a. m., when Mayor Wm. Orr opened a valve releasing the new fuel into Wayne's distribution system.

Wayne, for the first time in the community's history, will be served by gas and can offer to its citizens a service equal to that of any of the large cities.

Councilman J. G. W. Lewis, speaking for the city council, told about 40 Wayne business men assembled for the gas line opening that the city would expect the gas company to deliver maximum service at a minimum fair profit. On behalf of the city, he welcomed the gas company to Wayne and said that the city council hoped the relation between city and gas company would be mutually pleasant.

R. J. Reynolds, district superintendent of the People's Natural Gas company, expressed his organization's eagerness to serve the community, their gratitude for the way in which Wayne has co-operated and the company's realization of responsibility.

The gas supply comes to Wayne through a six-inch line taken from the large 16-inch line of the Northern Natural Gas company, serving Sioux City, Iowa, about 25 miles to the east, and will be distributed locally by a division of the pipe line company, the People's Natural Gas company, now serving a large number of Nebraska communities.

The Northern Natural Gas company is one of the largest in the country, with 1,597 miles of pipe line in operation and 458 miles under construction, serving a population of 291,000 in 85 municipalities. An ample supply of gas for years to come is assured by the extensive holdings of the company.

Three major fields, in Texas and Kansas, are tapped. The Northern Natural Gas company owns or controls over 400,000 proven acres in these fields, with a daily open flow of 3,000,000 cubic feet.

Pilger Defeats Wayne High Football Team

Pilger high school's football team took what seemed like an almost certain victory away from the Wayne high school gridsters Friday night at the college field. The final score was 10 to 6. Wayne lost a chance to win when, with the ball on about the one-foot line and three downs to go, a forward pass over the goal-line failed.

WHEAT FARMERS JUBILANT

Sixty-seven cent May wheat in Chicago did not look good to farmers a year ago but they rejoice at it now. It was at about this level or a little lower when the Grain Stabilization corporation went into the market last November to prevent what the country regarded an impending calamity. The difference between then and now is comparative. The present price is about 35 percent more than it was a month ago, whereas the same price a year ago was about 35 percent more than it was a month ago, whereas the same price a year ago was about 35 percent less than the market opened at in July, 1930. Declining prices destroy morale even when there is a margin of profit for the producer and the reverse is true of rising prices.

Contributing causes for the decline a year ago and the recent rise are easy to understand. A year ago, the greatly increased acreage in all of the principal export countries resulted in the largest world surplus ever known. Much of this was in the visible supply. Conditions have changed a lot during the last 12 months. The Farm Board has disposed of at least 50 million bushels of its supply, nearly all of which went out of the country. The balance is being held off the market or offered very carefully. Depressed prices brought acreage reduction in the surplus producing countries. In some of these countries such as Austria and Argentina the reduction was large. Weather conditions in Canada and the spring wheat area of the United States greatly reduced this year's crop. Russia planted more last spring and reaped less this autumn than a year ago. It appears that she is almost out of the world market after having exported about one half as much as last year. Continued wet weather in Germany and France has compelled these countries to greatly augment their imports. The world's visible supply of wheat is substantially less than it was a year ago.

The reflection of improved wheat prices to other grains is promising. This addition to the facts already enumerated it follows that wheat at a much higher price than corn will result in less wheat being fed to livestock. This should improve the demand and the price for all coarse grains and concentrates. All of which is in the realm of prophecy, a thing that every one is chary of following the optimistic prophecies that were all too many when the recent depression began.—Nebraska Farmer

ROOSEVELT IS RIGHT

Because of the fundamental difference in the viewpoint of the two men, Governor Roosevelt, of New York, and President Hoover have come to the clash of opinion that was inevitable. It grows out of the policy to be pursued on completion of the St. Lawrence waterway.

President Hoover is seeking to negotiate directly with Canada a treaty covering apportionment between the two governments of the costs of the improvements, to be made. It would leave to subsequent negotiations the matter of distribution of the electric power that would be generated along the St. Lawrence.

Governor Roosevelt insists that the matter of disposing of the power should be settled first. Hoover holds that navigation is the first purpose of the proposed improvement and that the power matter is only incidental. New York and the federal government can come to an agreement on that later, he thinks.

Recalling the difficulty growing out of Muscle Shoals, one cannot escape the conclusion that Governor Roosevelt is right. The matter of disposing of 1,000,000 horsepower of electrical energy is hardly an incidental question. It means a lot to the state of New York and it means a great deal to the utilities concerns serving New York.

Governor Roosevelt has evolved a comprehensive and beneficial plan for the use of this power, a plan that would enable rural communities to obtain power at the rate of $7 to $8 per horsepower as compared with upward of $150 they now pay.

Naturally the public utilities are fighting Governor Roosevelt's program and Mr. Roosevelt's strategy has put the president on the side of the big corporations.

In demanding an agreement on the disposition of the power from the St. Lawrence in advance of making the improvement, Governor Roosevelt simply is applying a common sense principle of business. No business man would erect a huge industrial plant without knowing in advance how and where he would dispose of his product. Mr. Hoover is trying to put the cart before the horse.

Judged from this distance, the issue is clearly one of the rights of the people of New York state versus the rights of capital which seeks to grab off this St. Lawrence power. Roosevelt, as befits him, has the people's side of the argument.—St. Louis City Tribune.

FARMER IS WORLD'S GREATEST OPTIMIST, DECLARES PROFESSOR

Lincoln, Nov. 9.—"A farmer is the world's greatest optimist," declared Prof. H. C. Filley, chairman of the department of rural economics at the University of Nebraska, in commenting on the farmer and the present business depression. "No one but an optimist would put in a crop in the spring with the fond hopes of a good yield and a good price in the fall. Why just the other day a farmer was telling me how he had planted six bushels of seed potatoes and harvested only four bushels, and he laughed about it."

The farmer of today is in a better condition than in previous depressions, according to Professor Filley, because he has more wealth to fall back upon than did the farmer of the earlier days. If the Nebraska farmer can keep down his overhead costs and pay his taxes he will come out of the present business depression with flying colors. He advises the farmers to stay on their farms and to maintain strict economy.

Commenting on the present agricultural outlook, Professor Filley pointed out that the farm price index for September stood at 72 per cent of pre-war levels, as compared with 75 per cent for August and 94 per cent for last January. While the October level has not been calculated, he estimated that it would not differ much from the September mark.

With the Nebraska corn crop apparently the smallest this year of any year since 1913, with the single exception of 1926, Professor Filley sees little, if any, movement of Nebraska corn to eastern markets this year. Nebraska corn production will probably not be equal to feed requirements of the state. A large amount of wheat is held on farms in the state, and since wheat has been found to have a slightly greater food value for hogs than corn, there seems to Professor Filley to be little reason that the local price of corn will rise materially above the local wheat price at most Nebraska shipping points, and it will probably be lower than wheat wherever a surplus of corn exists.

Commenting further upon price fixing of agricultural products, the university department head holds that agricultural products belong to that general class of commodities where production cannot be controlled. The number of farmers engaged in producing any particular product is so large, to say nothing of all the potential producers, that a rigid control of quantity production is apparently impossible. For that reason he does not look with favor upon arbitrary price fixing campaigns.

Professor Filley is in a position to know what he is talking about when he discusses Nebraska farm problems. He was raised on a farm in Gage county and knows intimately that side of the farmer's problems. He has been on the staff of the rural economics department of the state university since 1914, and has been head of that major department since 1914.—Neleigh News.

ECONOMIC SKIES ARE CLEARING

The economic skies, long darkened by the gloom of depression, are at last clearing for agriculture, if we interpret rightly some definite signs of business recovery of the last few weeks. At some point in that period the bottom of business inactivity was probably reached and from then on we have entered the upward swing of prices which has inevitably followed every depression in the history of the world. Fortunately, and as predicted, agriculture is the first industry in which improvement is noted. At the time this is written, wheat futures have advanced more than 15 cents a bushel from the low point of this fall. Corn, oats, rye, and cotton have made advances, but wheat is the outstanding one. Confidence appears to have found its way again into the grain trade, which has resulted in the bullish buying movement. The dairy industry became more prosperous late in the summer when advances in the price of butterfat and unusually low prices for feeds gave a very satisfactory margin of profit above the cost of production. Poultry products and beef cattle are also selling fairly well.

President Hoover's program for the restoration of credit and confidence in business and agriculture has had considerable influence in breathing new life into lethargic business, and liberating idle dollars for needed financing. His efforts to bring about adjustments in European war debts have made encouraging headway. Sales of wheat abroad have been a factor in the upward swing to wheat prices.

All of these definite indications of improvement are reason for confidence that will put new faith and activity into all industry. Such confidence backed by definite action in support of it will be death to depression. Farmers who have weathered the storm so far will likely see their ship on smoother waters from now on, and as agriculture revives so will all business and industries. The fall of 1931 may have put us around that elusive corner between depression and better times which has been so much a myth in the past two years. At least we hope we have turned the corner.—Nebraska Farmer.

WAYNE COUPLE SEES CHICAGO GANGSTERS

Wiltse "Stick 'Em Up" As Holdup Man Loots Grocery.

When in Chicago expect anything! At least that is the decision made by a prominent young Wayne couple.

Mr. and Mrs. Willard Wiltse, well known to Wayne residents, were doing their Sunday shopping around the loop of the Windy City, just as any other young couple might be doing Saturday night. Everything was running smoothly (perhaps WILLARD MAY have been complaining a little about the number of packages his wife imposed upon him, especially the carrot tops that insisted on tickling his chin) when just as the couple entered a grocery store to purchase the last few items on their list, the thing they had often read about, but never experienced, happened. A rough looking man ordered "Stick 'em up" in none too friendly tones.

The couple assure friends they forgot completely what the menu for Sunday dinner was to be, and promptly "stuck 'em up." However, this story ends happily—for the Wayne folks—because "Stick 'em up" was all that was required of them. They were permitted to watch a first-class hold-up, while the thieves ransacked the store and the cash register. In a letter to her mother, Mrs. William Beckenhauer, Mrs. Wiltse said, "Mother, to think he stood right by me and ordered me to stick 'em up, just like you read about in the papers."

Returns from the rest of the county have not been received yet, but local Red Cross officials are hopeful that receipts will be in the vicinity of those turned in last year.

by "SCOTTY"

GOSSIP? YEAH -- "If she thinks The Democrat is such a terrible newspaper, I believe your paper must be all right. Here's my subscription." Thanks for the knocks, lady.

What Wayne gal is dating three fellows and making them all think that they're the particular cream in her coffee?

It's better to give a little more than you promise than to give a little less, one local business man has discovered.

Didja know that there's a crap game being operated in Wayne?

One Wayne Frivolous Gal got put on the fire and burned to a crisp at one of the gals' meetings last week. She was not among those present, but how her ears must have burned.

One Wayne mother who devotes far less of her time to her children than to her bridge game probably does not realize the disrespect in which she is held by other members of her group.

She's a good sport, the lady this column kidded about Ballyhoo magazine a couple of weeks ago. She has been thoroughly razed about the deal, but she knows how to take a joke. As a matter of fact, Ballyhoo mag. presents the smartest humor of the year and is one publication this writer gets a huge guffaw out of. You oughta read it. Laughs are good for you.

One Wayne business man collects his bills easily because his customers think he is terrifically hard up. Because his buyers pay with such speed, he is not hard up at all.

Overdue bills, one business man confides, represent his profits.

Pity the poor gal who smokes only in the privacy of her own boudoir. The other day she happened to open her purse in public and, goodness gracious, a package of those "kind to your throat" ciggies were exposed to delighted bystanders.

Is there anyone around who still carries the old-fashioned idea that Scott Shot gossip is based upon imagination? If such there be, go mark him well—He may be next, you never can tell.

Milo told me I wouldn't dare to put this one in, so here 'tis. While I listened to the lady talking about Ballyhoo, I stood with three copies of Whiz Bang behind my back. That's telling on myself, isn't it?

One Wayne gal is said to get her spending money in this manner—it seems that her mother is poor at arithmetic. The gal always gets the groceries and pays for them by check. The bewildered mother can't figure how the grocers get away with their outrageous prices and she doesn't understand why her groceries cost so much more than her neighbors'.

One Wayne young fellow who is regarded by most local people as a ne'er-do-well is more intelligent than the people who feel superior to him. He doesn't believe that it's wicked to enjoy life.

A doctor pointed out a dope user to me the other day.

There's no need of your trying to guess the name of the local fellow who had a True Confession story accepted by a McFadden magazine. You'd never make a correct guess.

Something strongly resembling blackmail is being used as a means of extorting money from a certain Wayne man.

The Bloomfield Monitor usually has some clever ones in its column. Watching the Funny World Go By:

Heard a fellow bragging the other day that he went 26 miles on a gallon of gasoline. We know of a fellow who went to hell on a pint of whiskey.

The English flyers have succeeded in attaining a speed of 400 miles an hour, but for real speed a local mother tells us that we should see the rate at which her daughter travels when the right horn is honked at the curb.

Those English flyers should be able to overtake prosperity, which we were told some time ago was just around the corner.

Nothing will make a newspaper office ponder longer over the mystery of life than to have some fellow who isn't a subscriber raise the devil about something printed in the paper.

We are glad, among other things, that we do not have to worry about "keeping ourselves kissable."

A local girl says that the best way to keep kissable is to practice.

Jaypee O'Furey, in his Cedar County County News, always carries some smart cracks in his Chefs D'Oeuvres column: "My own flesh and blood!" exclaimed the doctor as he amputated his own finger.

A woman who drives from the back seat of a car is no worse than a man who cooks from the dining room table.

"Are you positive," demanded Lawyer George Ready, "that the prisoner is the man who stole your car?" "Well," answered the witness, "I was until you cross-examined me and now I'm not sure whether I ever had a car at all."

"I'm certainly getting a lot out of this course," exclaimed the chemistry student as he walked home with five bucks worth of laboratory equipment in his pocket.

The Scribner Rustler, in case you don't know it, always runs a column of terse, clever observations under the title of "Rustlings".

In the good old days a girl never had the bloom of youth higher on one side of her face than on the other.

The addition of the bar rail to the political fence has made it much harder for politicians to straddle.

Another thing America needs is a college that won't give a boy any more education than his head can stand.

Another thing this country needs is more bosses who can remember when they were out of work themselves.

Many a wife wouldn't mind letting her husband have a little authority around the house if he wouldn't soon get the idea he was boss.

Ed Spear declares that a lot of fellows who took-up golf-to-get-their mind off of their work now wish they had something to get their mind back onto.

Many a June bride who proudly swept the church aisles a few months ago is now sourly sweeping the kitchen floor.

The reason that a lot of fellows keep their word is simply because nobody will take it.

And here's our old friend, Fred Howard, with his weekly quips and observations from the Clay County Sun:

No reducing process has yet been discovered for a fat head.

Some women wear corsets and some look like a rotary plow on parade.

Many a poor devil who marries late in life discovers that he is in too great a hurry.

I have a feeling that most people who claim that there is no hell do it with their fingers crossed.

For the life of me I can't see why some country daily papers buy comic strips when their own editorial page is so much funnier than anything syndicated that there is no comparison.

I am quite a firm believer in the power of mind over matter, but have not reached that exalted stage attained by Charlie Brown of the Sutton Register, and his neighbor, Fred Hanke, Sutton's popular tailor. They each claim that they will be able to keep warm this winter by simply setting a thermometer in their homes at the degree of heat desired. I shall watch the experiment with interest.

It is just plumb disastrous to business to like the ladies, as well as I do. What chance has a guy who is obsessed with the GALLantry of a gentleman of the old school with a charming young woman who lays a $12.50 job on the desk and with a ravishing smile says, "We girls haven't much money and can only pay you $5 for this work." What chance? None, positively none, so the girls get their work for five dollars and I must make a bogus credit on the books to keep the office book-keeper from discovering what an easy mark I am!

Sympathizing with a father to whom had come as the starting of a new family a baby girl I said, "I presume you were hoping for a boy." He replied, "Not on your life. Look around you and see how girls are every day acquiring new privileges while men are being pushed further into the background. My girl will be able to smoke, pet, run stop signs, carry a flask, disguise herself in men's clothing, wear her night clothes on the street and paint her face like a Piute on the warpath—yes, even raise a family out of wedlock in which event she will get her name and picture on the front page and a very profitable contract with the Hollywood purists. And a boy—say, he gets the housework and bread and water if he is caught inhaling a glass of beer."

Spend Sunday next in church with the Thanksgiving spirit and you will get more out of the day next week.

Sunday morning the pastor will preach on the topic, "Hunters and Cooks." At the evening service at 7:30 the subject will be "The Price of the Soul." You will find here good music, good fellowship and a worshipful spirit.

Sunday school, 10:00; Morning worship, 11:00; Evening choir, 6:00; Christian Endeavor services, 6:30; Evening worship, 7:30. A committee, consisting of W. H.

Gildersleeve, F. G. Philleo, H. S. Ringland, Paul Mines and the Pastor, were appointed last Sunday to make plans for a fitting Fiftieth anniversary celebration the twentieth of December.

The beauty of the day last Sunday assisted in giving us two of our largest congregations. The pastor is happy to see increasing numbers in attendance at the evening hour. The loyalty of all the young people attending the C. E. services calls for the highest commendation.

The Presbyterian Aid met at the church Wednesday afternoon with Mrs. C. M. Craven, Mrs. C. C. Herndon, Mrs. F. E. Gamble, and Mrs. J. G. Mines as hostesses.

We do not know just when we shall start our School of Missions, but it is our hope to have at least one school this year. The books of study are most interesting and timely. They deal with the rural population of Mission Lands.

In the lesson-sermon for Sunday, Nov. 22nd, subject, "Soul and Body," there is given a part of Paul's great address to the Athenians which contains this statement of man's true being: "For in him we live, and have our being; as certain also of your own poets have said, 'For we are also His offspring.'" (Acts 17:28.) A correlative passage from the Christian Science textbook reads: "The chief stones in the temple of Christian Science are to be found in the following postulates: that Life is God, good, and not evil; that Soul is sinless, and not to be found in the body; that Spirit is not, and cannot be, materialized; that Life is not subject to death; that the spiritual real man has no birth, no material life, and no death." (Science and Health p. 288.)

Carlson Farm Is Result of Intelligent Management

Mr. and Mrs. Albin Carlson and their family have lived on their 148 acre farm a mile and a half north-east of Wayne for 12 years. Prior to that time they lived on a farm between Oakland and Ewing. Their present place is splendidly located, well kept up and "unusually" good land.

This year, the Carlsons had 70 acres of corn, 15 acres of their farm was planted to small grain and the rest is in hay land, pasture and lots. The corn crop this year was the poorest that it has ever been in Mr. and Mrs. Carlson's experience, with an average yield of about 20 bushels to the acre. One year, a piece of bottom land on their farm averaged 93 bushels of corn per acre. This same piece of bottom land has, in some unusually good years, yielded 400 bushels of potatoes per acre. The highest average corn yield the farm has ever had is 63 bushels per acre.

The small grain crop this year was quite satisfactory to the Carlsons. It ran about 40 bushels per acre.

When the family moved onto their present place in 1919, they paid $265 per acre for it. At one time during the boom period, they were offered $400 per acre but did not care to sell.

While the corn crop was not up to standard this season, the Carlsons believe that they will net a profit on it by means of feeding cattle. They have shipped 40 head to market this last summer, and have 26 head on the farm at present. They have had splendid success in the feeding line, and believe that it offers the farmer a good way of getting a satisfactory price for his corn. Mr. Carlson believes in planting listed corn.

Corn is the major part of the feed or cattle's diet. Carlsons are feeding snap corn now, and fed shelled-corn last summer. The silo is filled, and its contents are being fed to stock.

The Carlsons buy their hogs and feed them. They have 45 at the present time, which they are feeding shorts and ear corn. They find hog-feeding a profitable line of endeavor, but do not believe it is as successful a financial venture as cattle feeding.

Mrs. Carlson has charge of the poultry department, and is raising about 150 White Rock chickens. She usually has more than that. Her first year on the place, she raised about 400.

Horses are used exclusively in the farm work. They have nine good horses and find that they can do their work satisfactorily without a tractor.

There is no need for any hired help on the place, with five good, hard working, husky boys. Loren, Reuben, Ivan, Arthur and Harold do a good deal of the work. Each one of the sons has his particular chores and all the boys do their work well. The Carlsons have three daughters, Mrs. Harold Gunnarson, Eunice and Verna Carlson.

The farm presents an immaculate appearance. There are 10 buildings, all well painted and well kept up. A barn, chicken house and garage were built by the Carlsons after they moved onto the place. That they know how to keep their buildings in a good state of repair and take pride in doing it is obvious.

The buildings occupy a floor space of approximately 7,000 square feet. The barn is 40 by 40, the hog house is 32 by 32, the milk shed is 32 by 24, the corn crib is 28 by 32, the chicken house is 14 by 42, the garage is 20 by 24 and the house is 26 by 32. The Carlson home is an attractive 10 room house with bath. They have installed city electric lights and a water system. A cistern at the top of a nearby hill furnishes water for the supply system.

They have answered the question of "how ya gonna keep 'em down on the farm" quite adequately, by making the farm home an attractive place for their children. There are four automobiles, three of which belong to the boys.

The Carlson family should get a great deal of enjoyment out of their beautiful yard. When they moved to the place they planted 400 trees—black locust, elm and maple, north of the house. They also planted 15 fruit trees which bear fruit now.

They are progressive farmers and believe in using up-to-date methods. They threshed alfalfa seed this year, and got 18 bushels of clean seed off six acres. They try to work every angle of the farm that could possibly add to the income.

Their efficient methods should bring them success. That their efforts are rewarded is evidenced by the prosperous appearance of their farm.

Farm Chairman Thinks Surplus to Be Cleared

A factor in the world wheat situation which is bringing encouragement to Washington officials is the prospect that burdensome surpluses, long a demoralizing influence upon the market, will be cleared away.

Chairman James C. Stone of the federal farm board shares this optimism. He hopes that surpluses which have resulted from over-production may be absorbed by a market which suddenly has revived demands for American breadstuffs.

"There is still a good deal of wheat in the world," Stone said, "but these contributory factors (of foreign shortages) may take up that overproduction of last year and put the thing back on an even keel."

The chairman anticipates a reduction of 18 to 22 percent in the hard winter wheat acreage. He believes next year's crop will more nearly approach the level of domestic consumption than the crops of recent years.

The bulge in the wheat market has increased the value of the board's holdings by about $40,000,000. The board's estimated loss on wheat and cotton stabilization operations has been estimated at more than $200,000,000. Every cent of increase in the price of wheat cuts that loss of nearly $2,000,000. The board still has about 185,500,000 bushels of stabilization wheat.

Bossy Has Bad Record Over Twenty Year Period

Despite all that has been said, written, preached and done about better dairy cows, the industry is burdened with altogether too many low producing cows, according to T. M. Olson, head of the dairy department at South Dakota state college.

The average production per cow in the United States has increased only about 35 pounds of butterfat per cow in the past 20 years. In South Dakota today the average production per cow per year is between 160 and 165 pounds of butterfat.

Since this figure includes many cows producing from 250 to 400 pounds of butterfat it follows that a large number of the cows must be averaging around 100 pounds of butterfat per year.

These cows are in the hands of farmers who can least afford to keep them, Professor Olson says. A cow which produces only 100 pounds of fat a year is a big liability in any man's herd and can never be handled so as to make a profit.

Records of 1,500 cows show that when the feed cost of producing a pound of butterfat from a cow which produces 100 pounds per year is 36 cents it costs 21 cents to produce a pound of butterfat from a cow which fat cow. From a 300-pound-fat cow it only costs 16 cents to produce a pound of butterfat and from a 400-pound cow only 14 cents.

These figures include the feed cost only. If labor, barn, and incidental costs were included the difference would be still greater in favor of the high producing cow.

MODERN WOODMEN EVENT IS SUCCESS

More Than 250 Present at Culmination of Loyalty Campaign.

More than 250 Modern Woodmen of northeastern Nebraska gathered here Friday evening, Nov. 6, for the culmination of a big Loyalty campaign which had been staged by District Deputy E. A. Jones of Wayne. Festivities of the evening started with a dinner at the Hotel Stratton in honor of Head Consul A. R. Talbot, who has served the society for 33 years in an official capacity. The 70 guests enjoyed a wonderful dinner. Attorney H. E. Siman, acting as toastmaster, adroitly entertained the diners and cleverly introduced Head Consul Talbot, who made a splendid short address. Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Oman sang a duet which everyone enjoyed immensely.

At 8:00 p. m. a large crowd gathered at the college gymnasium and Logan Valley camp No. 1076 was formally opened by Consul Leonard Lehzen. Head Consul A. R. Talbot was escorted to a position of honor by the Wayne Brill Team. The Wayne Foresters consist of a combination team of eight women and eight men under the command of Captain Marian Malory, who was highly complimented on his splendid management of the team. Randolph team, consisting of twelve men and women, did a pretty flag drill. The entire team was dressed in snow white. The Lyons team, under Captain Andrew Madson, did some fine floor work.

The Degree staff, one of the best in the state, consisted of the following: Thos. P. Lindsay, Omaha, Consul; M. B. Reynolds, Omaha, Past Consul; E. A. Jones, Wayne, Advisor; Wm. H. Wagonseller, Omaha, Banker; C. R. Hasskarl, Lincoln, Editor; Col. Welch, Osmond, Death; and Robert Jeffrey, Wayne, Youth.

Over 50 candidates had been written during the campaign, of whom 27 appeared for the initiation. Head Consul Talbot was introduced by I. H. Brittle, who has been a member of the Modern Woodmen for over 41 years. Mr. Talbot thrilled the audience with a powerful address on Fraternity, particularly stressing the great present need of knowledge and good fellowship, picturing them as the stepping stones to the rehabilitation of the great American home.

The initiation followed, with the full dramatic ritual exemplified by the aid of a picture machine operated by Col. O. F. Tornblom of Omaha. The ceremonial lecture was delivered by Capt. Madson of the Lyons drill team. Visitors included Major Krelle, Oakland; Dist. Deputies R. J. Stearns, Fremont; F. C. O'Donnell, Omaha, and Elmer Amick, Council Bluffs, Iowa. Norman Spaulding and Miss Elsie Hoppe of Lincoln were also present.

The meeting adjourned at midnight, when a lunch was served by the Wayne Foresters.

REGRETS

Molly and Ben are middle-aged friends of mine. They have lived beside me twenty years. The best of neighbors. The kindest of friends. One year ago they decided to go to a nearby city and build themselves a big house; retire from business; spend the rest of their lives in leisure and pleasure.

Ben is a successful manufacturer. A kindly man. Quiet, loving and patient. Seemingly always a bit bewildered by any phase of life outside his plant where he has lived, body, mind and soul for twenty years.

Also for twenty years — morning, noon and night — could be heard Molly's high-pitched, strident, irritated voice as she ordered her life, her home, her affairs. A splendid woman. Capable, immaculate in thought, person, home. Merciless toward indulgences of any kind. In this atmosphere Ben hovered about, holding an old pipe in one hand, the other rumpling his shaggy hair; a puzzled expression in his burning brown eyes as if seeking something not yet found in life; wincing sometimes under Molly's sarcasm. Molly never saw that look — not in all the twenty years. She saw only a rather dull and uninteresting man. Untidy. Unhandy around the house. Always smoking his old pipe.

The other day Molly came back to see me. In a voice now choking with genuine pity and concern for Ben she told me. "In a hospital. Cancer. Not a chance. Poor old Ben. So unselfish, so good and kind. What a home life I gave him — and it could easily have been different. I see it all now, clearly, but it is too late for Ben's life. What I did will have to stand."

Not a new story. We have all heard it many times. We all know these neighbors. — L. K. in Wright County Journal-Press.

Work on the Bushnell waterworks is progressing.

November 1, 1931, for the support of her minor children, Hilda Sellin, Hartwell Sellin, Gladys Sellin, and Lloyd Sellin, all of which is duly approved by the board and the county clerk is hereby ordered to draw such warrants.

Report of A. W. Stephens, Sheriff, showing amount of fees received by him for the quarter ending June 30, 1931, amounting to the sum of $95.75, and the payment of the same into the county treasury, was examined and on motion duly approved.

Report of A. W. Stephens, Sheriff, showing amount of fees received by him for the quarter ending September 30, 1931, amounting to the sum of $101.35, and the payment of the same into the county treasury, was examined and on motion duly approved.

Comes now E. E. Fleetwood and says that for the year 1931 he was assessed in the City of Wayne with a valuation of $210.00 on a cash register together with other items, the total valuation amounting to $420.00 making a tax of $16.38. That he paid the said tax under protest as shown by Receipt No. 121 for the reason that he did not own a cash register but that the assessor in entering the total placed it in the cash register column instead of in the total column. He now asks that the county treasurer be ordered to refund to him the tax on a $210.00 valuation or the sum of $8.19.

On motion the county treasurer is ordered to refund to the said E. E. Fleetwood the sum of $8.19 the tax on a $210.00 valuation.

Art Treasures Beyond

All Price in Vatican

It would take volumes to enumerate the treasures of the Vatican. The chapels of San Lorenzo, the Sistine and the Pauline are decorated with frescoes by Fra Angelico, Michelangelo, Perugino and others. Four chambers were decorated by Raphael.

The picture gallery is not large, but the paintings are among the most valuable in the world. Raphael's "Transfiguration," his "Madonna di Foligno" and his "Coronation of the Virgin," besides some smaller pictures, are here. So are works of Murillo, Titan, Perugino, Correggio, Paul Veronese and others of the greatest of painters.

The museum contains not only many of the most beautiful sculptures in the world, ancient Greek statues, among which are the Laocoon and the Apollo Belvidere, but also great numbers of antiquities, relics of ancient Italy, Greece and Egypt.

The library at the Vatican was founded in 1378, and now contains a valuable collection of 60,000 manuscripts and 250,000 volumes of rare books. A recent addition to this collection is the Rospiogiosi library and archives presented by Louis Mendelssohn of Detroit, Mich. This library includes many valuable books gathered by Pope Clement IX of Rospiogiosi during his pontificate from 1667 to 1669; also a portrait of Pope Clement by Carlo Maratta.

Bayberry Candle Boon to New England Women

Candles in days gone by were an item of expense to be reckoned with in the gay courts of Europe, as many as 5,000 being used on grand occasions when the vast halls were to be filled with guests. From the demand the making of candles developed into quite an important industry and laws were passed regulating the size and adulteration of the materials to be used.

When the Pilgrims found themselves on the bleak shores of New England with few facilities for artificial illumination, says the New York Sun, other methods of lighting their homes had to be devised. At first, like the Indians, they used knots of pitch pine to light their cabins, but it was not long until the thrifty New England woman learned that by boiling the little gray bayberries that grew on the low windswept shores along the coast she could procure a wax which rose to the top of the kettle. From this she made the first bayberry candles.

First Sunday Schools

A century and a half has elapsed since Robert Raikes began his organization of Sunday schools. The credit for the founding of the earliest of Sunday schools, as distinct from the Sunday school movement, however, is claimed for the little spinster Methodist, Hannah Ball, friend of John Wesley, whose first Sunday school was established in High Wycombe 161 years ago, 11 years before Raikes' historic movement, and is still active. An authority on the subject has stated: "It seems almost certain that John Wesley, who rode on horseback from place to place, and who visited Gloucester, spoke of the work of Hannah Ball to Robert Raikes, a man of great abilities, who thereupon not only commenced a school, but set himself to organize others."—Montreal Family Herald.

Standard Time

According to the United States naval observatory at Washington, standard time had not come into general use in 1885; no uniform standards existed then. At present, the time zone in which England is located uses the local time of Greenwich, and the time used in London in 1885 was practically the same as the Greenwich time today. Sweden adopted standard time in 1892. Since that date it has used time one hour more advanced than that of Greenwich. Stockholm, no doubt, used its own local time before 1892, which would have been a few minutes more advanced than the time used today. Owing to Greenland's sparse population, that country has not yet adopted standard time.

Country's Foggiest Spots

The foggiest spot in the United States brightened a little in 1930, and had only 1,562 hours of fog, so light-house keepers at Moose Peak, Me., have reported to the lighthouse service of the Department of Commerce. At Moose Peak, records for the last 16 years show a yearly average of 1,607 hours of fog. Runners-up on Moose Peak's record are Libbey Island and Petit Manan, also on the Maine coast. They are foggy a good bit of the time, but cannot quite match Moose Peak's figures. The United States lighthouse service states that Point Reyes light station holds the record for fog on the Pacific coast, with an average of 1,398 hours a year for 45 years.—Grit.

Remembered Old Debt

To pay back 50 cents he had borrowed from a schoolmate 50 years ago Ernest M. Ledden, New York, is said to have flown to San Francisco and handed a 50-cent piece to his creditor, Municipal Judge Fritz. Ledden was a student at college in San Francisco in 1880. The two boys wanted to go swimming one day. Ledden had no bathing suit nor any money to buy one, so Fritz lent him half a dollar.

WHEN WE GIVE THANKS

EVERY Thanksgiving Day we celebrate a very beautiful thing—it is the quality of gratitude. Everyone who has given or received gratitude knows how fine it is, how warm, how stimulating. Great thinkers tell us that gratitude opens the way for wonderful things to come to us. It seems almost a pity that it is so—or at least that we should know it—so beautiful is gratitude in itself. That for which we have cause to be most thankful does not always come with glowing colors in success; sometimes it steals in quietly on days so dark we do not know that it is there.

Seek a quiet corner, a comfortable chair, turn back the pages of your own life, look at the sadly thumb-marked ones, do you not find written there for the first time in its annals the name of a friend, afterwards the inspiration of deep happiness?

Our Forefathers Knew

We have more to be thankful for than we realize, and our forefathers knew that when they set aside a day for giving thanks and considering our blessings.

So let us get out our whitest linen, our gleaming glass, our richest silver, and let us prepare the finest feast our hands can make to celebrate, in gratitude, our friends, not forgetting the greatest Friend of all, who, whether the times are bright or gray, showers us with gifts. Here's the menu which serves eight.

- Sardine Points
- Orange Cups
- Pickled Crabapples
- Celery Curls
- Roast Turkey
- Bread Stuffing
- Giblet Gravy
- Whipped Potatoes
- Baked Hubbard Squash
- Creamed Caviflower
- Frozen Cranberries
- Dressed Assorted Salad Greens
- Pilgrim Father's Pudding
- English Toffee
- Coffee
- Salted Nuts and Raisins

Sardine Points: Mash one 4-ounce can boneless sardines. Add two teaspoons lemon juice, two tablespoons chopped walnuts, two tablespoons chopped stuffed olives, two tablespoons chopped celery, three tablespoons mayonnaise and mix well. Fill caviar puffs in pointed triangle shape or spread pointed pieces of toast with this mixture. Garnish with a slice of olive placed at the wide end of the puffs or toast. Makes about twenty. These may be passed with some iced beverage before going in to dinner.

Orange Cups: Scrub four California oranges and cut in halves with a saw edge. Scoop out pulp and remove all the white fibre from it. Keep skins in cold water while preparing filling. Add one No. 2 can crushed pineapple to orange pulp, then add two tablespoons syrup from green mint cherries. Drain orange cups, dry, dip edges in a thick sugar syrup, then in finely chopped fresh mint, making a green rim. Fill with fruit mixture. Put two or three after-dinner mints in the center of each.

Frozen Cranberries: Boil one-fourth cup sugar and three-fourths cup water to a thin syrup. Soak one-half tablespoon gelatin in two tablespoons cold water, dissolve in the hot syrup and add two tablespoons lemon juice and one-half cup orange juice. Add the finely mashed, sieved or melted cranberry sauce from a No. 2 can and freeze to a mash. Fold in one stiffly beaten egg white and pack in ice and salt mixture, four to one.

A Different Pudding

Pilgrim Father's Pudding: Beat two eggs, add one-third cup melted butter and two-thirds cup diluted evaporated milk. Add two cups flour, four teaspoons baking powder, one-fourth teaspoon salt which have been sifted and lastly one-half cup orange marmalade (or any kind of jam or preserves). Put one teaspoon of marmalade in each greased individual mold, pour in the batter and steam thirty-five minutes. Serve with the following Sauce: Cream six tablespoons butter and one cup confectioner's sugar, add grated rind of two oranges, three well-beaten egg yolks and six tablespoons orange juice. Fold in stiffly-beaten egg whites. Serve cold over the hot pudding.

For a Healthy Soviet

WHAT effect is the vast canning industry which is being built up in Soviet Russia going to have on the public health in that ill-fated country? At present its people are living largely on root crops and salt pork, but its canning industry plans to increase its production by 1932-33 to four billion cans of 400 grams (about 14 ounces each), and in 1933-34 the output of this industry is expected to reach six billion cans. Actual orders for more than $85,000,000 worth of American canning machinery have been placed.

Our Health Improved

The above question can be answered by quoting the report on the effect of canned fruits and vegetables upon the nation's health made by the Committee on Fruits, Vegetables and their Products of the American Public Health Association.

"The annual production and consumption of these foods has been rapidly increasing since the Civil War," said this report, "yet we know of no impairment to the general well-being of the people resulting from it. Canned foods are cooked in hermetically sealed containers which prevent recontamination until opened. The nutritive and calorific values of the same fruit or vegetable, fresh or canned, are essentially the same."

"Canned foods," it concludes, "whether prepared in the home or in commercial canneries, regardless of the type of container, are sound, wholesome and safe. Their continued use is commended. The advantages to the American health from the use of canned foods in the diet can hardly be overestimated. The nation may have faith in its canned foods."

YOUR GOAL AND OURS

Help Us Ring the Bell of Success for WAYNE

What's your goal and ours?

Our forefathers summed it up when they said "Life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness."

We all want to live well, to provide properly and comfortably for our dependents and to prosper.

There's just one way to do it. Look at any city, no matter how small or how large, that is happy and prosperous and you will find this one fundamental principle written in bold face on the horizon of its success:

"To keep our money at home and to draw more money in from outside our home town."

Let's repeat that again. It's important:

"To keep our money at home and to draw more money in from outside town."

By keeping our money at home we enrich ourselves and our home town enterprises. When we spend money with home town merchants and industries part of it comes back to us in the form of a dividend on home prosperity. When we spend it away from home it's gone---so much currency has been taken out of our circulation.

No one asks you to save and spend your money at home. You can spend it wherever you wish. But if thrift, economy and good judgement are your guides, you'll find that 99% of the time the best value that your dollar buys is obtainable right here. Distant pastures only look greenest.

Let's build a bigger, greater and better Wayne! We are well on our way to your goal and ours---

"Life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness."

Have you noticed that there is never a time that one hasn't some occasion to look forward to? No matter how insignificant there is, always something. Here it is time for Thanksgiving, and of course, as it is one of the most prominent holidays of the year, there will be many homecomings and much feasting. It would probably be safe to put added emphasis on the latter. Next week's forecast will give you the lowdown on what is being planned by Wayne residents for that traditional day. In the meantime here 'tis for this week's goings on:

Galley and Mrs. Paul Siman arranged a playlet including four Shakesperian characters in the cast. Mrs. Paul Siman, the author of the playlet, gave it the name, "The Ladies of the Square Table," and the conversation of the four ladies at their game of bridge was quite Shakesperian in phraseology. The characters, attired in appropriate costume, were Mrs. R. R.

Smith, Portia; Mrs. H. R. Best, Lady Macbeth; Mrs. C. R. Chbn, Juliet; Mrs. H. S. Moses, Petruchio's Kate. The Women's club is sending home made cookies to the Nebraska Childrens Home Society for a Thanksgiving treat for the children. Announcement was made of the movie to be shown by Mr. Galley at the Gay Theatre on the afternoon of Friday, Nov. 20, for the benefit of the unemployed of the local community. The managers of picture houses all over the United States are to give at least one benefit performance for this purpose, sometime during this week.
