Karo Speaks to Kiwanians on Philippines

Survey Expert Describes Customs and Habits of Island Natives.

Drawing upon his experiences and observations in the Philippines, Lieutenant H. A. Karo, son-in-law of C. O. Mitchell of Wayne, addressed members of the local Kiwanis club at that organization's regular meeting Monday noon.

Lieutenant Karo is attached to coastal survey work, and expects to return to the Philippines in the near future.

He pictures the Moros and Igorotes, the two main Philippine races, to his audience as being highly honest and fair. He told much of their traditions and customs and said that while the Moros are Mohammedans, the Igorotes are somewhat Christianized.

The Igorotes, he said, are the better civilized of the two tribes. A Philippine custom which he said would not appeal to Americans but which is based upon the needs of the islands is the practice of having pet snakes and lizards in the native homes. The reptiles, he explained, keep the homes free of more undesirable occupants.

He brought out the fact that, while the government of the United States had promised never to allow the Filipinos to govern their own morals, there are many native officeholders in the islands.

Lieutenant Karo spoke briefly of his own work and the progress that has been made in recent years in survey methods. The American survey, he said, makes its own instruments, because commercial instruments have not kept pace with the scientific advancements made by the government group. The survey, he said, is one of the oldest and least generally known government services, and is highly necessary from a commercial standpoint.

SCHWINDTS TO PAY FOR WINSIDE FIGHT

Have Month in Which to Raise Fines on Fleeer Assault Charges.

Martin, Herbert, Alex and Paul Schwindt were all found guilty of assault in County Judge J. M. Cherry's court Monday, and each of the four was given a fine of $10 and costs of $5.80. Judge Cherry gave the Schwindts until Monday, Feb. 1, to pay their fines.

Charges were filed against the Schwindts by Mrs. Martha Fleeer and John and Hubert Fleeer, all of Winside, as a result of a Christmas day fight in which the Schwindts attacked members of the Fleeer family. The fight is believed to have been the result of bitterness on the part of the Schwindt family over business disagreements with the Fleeers.

County Attorney H. D. Addison and Attorney H. E. Sigan appeared for the state, and C. H. Hendrickson represented the defendants.

Martha Fleeer, John Fleeer, Hubert Fleeer and George C. Dreveson were called to testify for the state. The Schwindts appeared as witnesses in their own behalf.

Blaine Auker to Show Baby Beef at Denver

Blaine Auker of Wayne plans to exhibit a baby beef, held over from the Wayne county fair, at the Denver Livestock Show, which starts Tuesday, Jan. 19. The calf which he will exhibit in Denver was not shown at the Sioux City Stock Yards baby beef show, but was held back for later competition. Another calf, which Blaine exhibited at the Sioux City show, was reserve championship winner.

He will make the trip to Denver with the Hoffman brothers of Winside who are taking 13 purebred Hereford bulls for show purposes and for sale.

Marriage Business Good Here in 1931

Eddie Cantor's song, "Now's the Time to Fall in Love," evidently fell upon alert ears in Wayne county during 1931, with the report of County Judge J. M. Cherry showing that 64 marriage licenses were issued from his office during the year.

The judge doesn't know whether issuance of marriage licenses has anything to do with depression or not, but says that he believes his office issued only 63 matrimonial certificates in 1930. "And we didn't have to solicit business to show an increase for 1931," he adds.

The county judge's office turned down numerous applicants for marriage knots during the year because of irregularities in their applications. Considerably less than half of the licenses were issued to people living outside Wayne county. The law requires that marriage licenses shall be issued in the county in which the marriage ceremony is to take place.

ULRICH IS FOUND GUILTY OF THEFT

'Molly' Draws Fine of $25 and Costs in County Court Tuesday.

Even the heavy snowfall which made roads practically impassable in Wayne Tuesday afternoon failed to keep a capacity audience from being on hand to witness the trial of John "Molly" Ulrich in County Judge J. M. Cherry's court on a charge of stealing a trailer, "valued at more than $25," and a charge of concealing stolen property.

Ulrich, through his attorney, C. H. Hendrickson, pleaded not guilty to both charges. Upon hearing of the evidence, the court found him guilty of the theft charge and not guilty of concealing stolen property. He was fined $25 and costs on the theft count.

The Democrat learned Tuesday afternoon from a reliable informant that Ulrich planned to appeal the decision to district court.

Complaint was filed by August Haase, who charged that Ulrich took the trailer from the Ernest Kohrt blacksmith shop on or about Nov. 25. The case was to have come to trial last Thursday afternoon, but "Molly" had engaged M. O. Cunningham of Omaha as his attorney and had asked a continuance because of inability of his attorney to be in Wayne at the scheduled time. Mr. Cunningham later withdrew as attorney for the defendant.

Public School System Buys New Pictures

Three art pictures, purchased from proceeds of prize money won by the Wayne public schools at the county fair, have been placed in the kindergarten, first grade room and second grade room.

The pictures are costly imported prints, bought in accordance with the school's policy of buying fewer but higher-quality works of art. So skillfully is the work on them carried out that it is difficult for the average person to distinguish them from originals. The prints are "Hirten Gluck," "Hirten Knabe," and "Pals."

WILDCAT CAGE GAMES

Wayne State Teachers college basketball team goes to Lincoln tomorrow to meet the University of Nebraska B team. The Wildcats will encounter Omaha Mury U's hoopsters Saturday at Omaha.

Youngsters Asked to Clean Ice Rink

Now is the time for all good kids to come to the aid of the skating pond.

An S. O. S. call to this effect was answered Wednesday by more than 50 youngsters, who went to the local ice skating rink south of the Evangelical Lutheran church armed with brooms, shovels and snow scrapers.

Fire Chief Martin L. Ringer says that if the skating pond is to be put into satisfactory shape, volunteer work by about 100 more youngsters will be necessary. Local firemen donated the pond, and they believe that children who have skated on it will be glad to help clean the heavy snow from its surface.

"If the kids want the ice rink, 's up to them to keep it cleaned free of snow," is the general opinion of the firemen.

So rally 'round, kids. If you want to skate, you'll have to do a little work.

Presbyterians Make Golden Jubilee Plans

Church Observes Fiftieth Anniversary Next Sunday.

Members of the First Presbyterian church of Wayne will observe the semi-centennial of the local church's founding Sunday, with special services planned for morning, afternoon and evening.

Features of the morning service will be the reading of a short history of the church by Mrs. A. A. Welch and an anniversary sermon by Rev. A. F. Ernst of Omaha.

A fellowship covered dish luncheon will be served in the church parlors at 5:30 p. m. Orchestra selections, reminiscences and the reading of letters from former pastors and members will make up the program.

The evening sermon will be delivered by Rev. J. W. Pressly of Omaha. The first Presbyterian sermon preached in Wayne was delivered in September, 1831, by Rev. G. M. Lodge. During the following December, Rev. Lodge visited Wayne again and preached in the unfinished real estate and banking home of Bressler and Patterson.

Rev. Lodge and Rev. G. L. Little of Omaha organized the First Presbyterian church of Wayne on Dec. 21, 1831. The eleven charter members were Mr. and Mrs. G. A. Lindley, Mr. and Mrs. Shaffer, Mr. and Mrs. G. L. Merriman, Dr. and Mrs. Love, Mrs. Wilbur, Miss Julia Hardenburg and Mrs. Anna Maxwell.

The first services were held in the Lutheran chapel. Rev. Lodge, who also served the church at Wakefield, was the first supply pastor.

The first church building was dedicated on Jan. 14, 1833, by Rev. Little. It was his last Sabbath service, as he died on Jan. 25.

Rev. P. A. Davies is the present pastor.

Fire Fighters Net $100 from Masquerade Ball

Wayne's volunteer fire department fund netted about $100 from the annual masquerade ball held at the Coryell garage on New Years Eve, according to Fire Chief Martin L. Ringer. The amount is about $150 short of the usual profit. Local firemen say that the small attendance was due entirely to bad weather and impassable roads.

Miss Helen Grier of Wayne won the ladies' prize for the best masquerade costume, and Antone Olson of Wayne won the men's prize. Costume judges were Harvey Noely, Ernie Dowling and P. A. Theobald.

TO ADDRESS KIWANIS

Prof. Kenneth E. Parke of Wayne State Teachers college will be the speaker at a meeting of the Wayne Kiwanis club Monday noon.

Drifted Snow Blocks Roads Out of Wayne

Highways Closed to Traffic as Wind Piles Up Huge Drifts.

Nineteen-thirty-two, whatever it may have in store for citizens of Wayne county, has started off as "the year of the big snow," with over 12 inches of snowfall registered for the past week.

Wayne was handicapped yesterday by a snow which had started Monday night, continued through most of Tuesday and was still at work Wednesday night. The flakes had been shaped into huge drifts Tuesday by hard north winds, and highways were blocked in most directions.

The snowfall Tuesday, plus the heavy snow which fell last Thursday night, gave Wayne county its heaviest deluge of snowflakes in a similar period for several years.

Passenger Agent Ray E. Larson said Wednesday afternoon that all trains into Wayne were running on schedule time, despite a slightly heavier snowfall at Norfolk than in Wayne county. He said railroad men reported no storm at Bloomfield, with most of the snowfall extending from Magnet this way.

O. L. Randall, manager of the Northwestern Bell Telephone company's offices in Wayne, said late yesterday afternoon that all telephone lines were in good shape and that service had not been interrupted.

Bus and truck traffic out of Wayne was at a standstill Tuesday afternoon, and had not been completely opened up Wednesday. Trucks and automobiles were stalled in heavy snow-drifts all over the storm area. East and west highways, particularly, were blocked by impassable drifts.

B. W. Wright's bus depot reported late Wednesday afternoon that the road between Wayne and Wisner was still blocked but was being worked on from this end. The road between Wayne and Norfolk was said to be in practically impassable condition. The road between Wayne and Wakefield was said to be passable, but in bad condition, with the highway between Emerson and Dakota City almost impassable. The road between Wayne and Laurel was open.

Highway officials issued a statement Wednesday morning that roads in this district were, for the most part, blocked, but that many of them would be open by evening.

The official weather forecast indicates snow today, with little if any decrease in temperature.

The Inquiring Reporter

THIS WEEK'S QUESTION

Do you prefer popular or classical music?

Mrs. W. C. Coryell: "I prefer classical music, because there seems to be so much more to listen to than the ordinary run of popular music."

Mrs. W. A. Emery: "I like them both, but when preference is considered I believe classical would rate first in my estimation."

Mrs. L. F. Pefry: "I really get more entertainment and enjoyment out of popular music, although I do like classical music over the radio. I think one has to be educated to liking classical music, before he can really appreciate it."

Mrs. A. R. Davis: "Classical music is my preference of the two, because one does not tire of it so quickly as popular strains."

Mrs. C. A. McMaster: "It just happens that I am very fond of both and you would be perfectly right if you just put me down as liking each equally well, because I have many favorites in both classes."

NEBRASKA FARMS

The Nebraska farm is on top of the world today. It always will be. When all of the various forms of get-rich-quick schemes fail as they always do as far as the general public is concerned, then and then only, do we properly appreciate the wonders of our farm property. When the propaganda in regard to the desirability of liquidable and negotiable securities falls of its own weight, as it always does, every so often in the history of our country, then and then only, do we and those dependent upon us, appreciate the soundness of permanent investment—of safe, sure living-bearing farm property. The man who owns a good Nebraska farm is in a class by himself today. He always has been. His Nebraska farm has fed and clothed and educated his family and will go on doing that which many other endeavors are utterly failing to perform. The man who owns a Nebraska farm is sleeping nights. There are many others who are not. Businesses come and go, but the good old Nebraska farm goes on forever. Banks utterly fail in times of stress and strain to afford the relief that can come only from the farm. Legislation is proposed and promises made but during the elapsing time of fulfillment the farms furnish the wherewithal to support those who farm them and, in truth, come close to carrying the entire commonwealth. Thank the great Creator for our Nebraska farms. It is a sin to be unappreciative of their wonders. — Hastings Democrat.

A NEW GUEST RACKET

A comparatively new racket which has assumed such proportions that the American Automobile association has taken cognizance of it has come with the practice of "guest riding" in private cars. This is a dignified form of hitch-hiking. A person wishing to take a trip seeks the aid of a commercial organization and through it finds someone who is going to the same destination and will carry him there for a small fee, or none at all.

This in itself looks like nothing to get excited about, but it doesn't always end there. Perhaps there is an accident and the "guest rider" suffers an injury, real or imaginary. Then comes a "guest suit" and the driver of the car stands a good chance of being mulcted a heavy sum for accommodating a stranger.

There are other dangers to which the automobile association calls attention. A "guest" may rise up in the back seat and bash the driver over the head with a car crank, pitch him unconscious from the car after turning his pockets inside out, and drive off with the automobile. Or the case may be reversed. The driver who accepts a guest may turn out to be a hold-up man.

The frequency with which such things happen has led the association to advise local clubs to discontinue acting as go-betweens in arranging for guest riders.

Automobilists might well heed the warning. Picking up hitch-hikers, whether they thumb their invitations at the side of the road or make their arrangements through an established agency, has dangers that are not worth taking. —Norfolk Daily News.

Plans are being considered to extend electric service from Lyman to farm-homes north of the town.

Is Your Wife the Janitor In Your Home?

the Shovel or the Thermostat?

Heat your home the modern, effortless way with Natural Gas

WEIGH CAREFULLY THESE FACTS ABOUT HOME HEATING

How shall your home be heated? The question rests with you, but before you make your final decision, we desire to present the facts about NATURAL GAS for home heating. Suppose you draw up a chair, sharpen a pencil, and list these features, with the idea of comparing automatic NATURAL GAS heating with other obsolete methods. First of all, NATURAL GAS home heating is completely automatic. No fire to build or look after. Sleep thirty minutes longer every morning. (Go up to bed when you are tired, not down to the basement to bank up the fire!) The only effort required is the setting of the thermostat, placed conveniently in your living room. And of course there's no ashes to lug away; no smoke, soot or dust. No cleaning or redecorating. Then, too, you pay for NATURAL GAS after you burn it. No money tied up. Not even a fuel bin. A tidy basement instead, with a play room or gym for winter recreation. Best of all, your home is never overheated or underheated — temperatures remain constant, even on the coldest days. ANOTHER WAR

All the hub-bub which has been stirred up recently over the alleged attack upon American Consul Culver B. Chamberlain by Japanese soldiers...

The success of such a campaign is doubtful. The memory of the way in which George Crael, skilled propagandist, and his staff of capable aides hoodwinked America into a rip-roaring frenzy that led to the World War, is too fresh in our minds...

We are a peace-loving people. We do not want to fight. Our entrance into any war must be "built up" in a manner similar to that used in exciting sports fans to a point where they will spend a million dollars to see a prize fight.

Our cold-blooded government officials must realize that the World War is too fresh in our minds to make the promotion of another fight an easy matter. But these officials are to use the gangster's jargon, "on the spot." Licensed murder, war, brings temporary flashes of prosperity, and a streak of prosperity—no matter how fleeting—is something that our present officials would welcome at any cost.

Let our officials be frank about the situation. Let them say, "Times are tough. We must kill off a few million people. We must have more big-scale graft, such as was current during the World War, which will bring wealth to our country."

But they won't follow that line of attack. They will build a hatred in our hearts and a belief in our minds that entrance into a war is necessary. Maybe they will. It would seem, however, that the public should be getting next to itself and to militarists.

SIXTEEN TO ONE

An Associated Press dispatch from Washington says:

"The 16 to 1 silver issue on which William Jennings Bryan rode to the threshold of the White House in 1896 was revived Sunday by Senator Wheeler as the nation faced a new presidential election year."

"The Montana democrat announced he would introduce Monday a bill providing for the free coinage of silver on the basis of 16 ounces to one of gold—the identical issue for which Bryan fought."

"This legislation would do more than all suggestions heretofore combined towards reviving, encouraging, vitalizing and resuscitating business in this country and throughout the world," Wheeler said.

Can it be that William Jennings Bryan, pooch-pooched as visionary and impractical in his day, was ahead of his time? Is it possible that The Great Commoner, scoffed at by many for some of his almost universally discredited theories, was on the right track when he made his stirring "Cross of Gold" speech?

It not only seems possible, but it seems probable, that Bryan's advocacy of a 16 to 1 silver issue was based on sane, logical reasons. Maybe it is still too early for the world to take such a theory seriously, but there may be a time when William Jennings Bryan will be respected for an idea that, at the time, seemed nearly as ridiculous as his anti-evolution crusade.

"SCOTTY"

If it's Scotch jokes you're wantin' to hear, this column is after havin' a raft of 'em:

This one is credited to Ben Foster: A friend noticed Dugald riding along the street on a woman's bicycle.

"How came ye by that?" he asked. "Well, it was like this," said Dugald. "I was walking out with Janet the other evening, and when we came to a darkish part of the moor she said, 'I love ye, Donald; I love ye so much I'll give ye anything ye like.' So when I had thought it over a bit I took her bicycle."

Elinore Blaisdell tells the one about the Scotch child who shot his parents so that he could get to the Orphans' Picnic.

George Washington once threw a dollar across the Potomac river. He was trying to teach a Scotchman to swim.

An Englishman, an Irishman, a Frenchman and a Scot were standing at the bar, relates Karl Kitchen. The Englishman stood a whiskey-and-soda around, the Frenchman stood a quart of champagne, the Irishman stood a bottle of brandy, and the Scot stood six feet three.

"Bargains in coffins!" announced a sign in an undertaker's window in Glasgow—and the next morning the papers reported 200 suicides.

Bev Strahan tells about the Scotchman who came up to his filling station and saw the sign, "Free Air." Within 10 minutes he had blown out four tires.

No Scotchman, says L. W. Kratavil, likes to wear rubber heels. They give.

McGregor and his wife celebrated their Golden Wedding anniversary. After the guests had departed, they discovered that they had received a package of Old Gold cigarettes, a box of Gold Dust, and a bowl of goldfish.

Then there was the Scot who stayed away from a banquet, not knowing what the word "gratis" on the invitation meant. Next morning he was discovered dead before an open dictionary.

There was the Scot who gave up golf—he lost his ball... and his friend, who hadn't played for 25 years, took the game up again... he found it.

And we'll hope that you've heard enough Scotch jokes to keep you satisfied for a while.

Now for

THE GOSSIP
That romance between a local teacher and student is still flourishing like the green bay tree.
AMAZING OFFER — In order to bring the Scott Shot-column's records up to date, the Scott Shotter will give ABSOLUTELY FREE a package of CHESTERFIELD cigarettes to every woman or girl who will come into The Democrat office and admit to the Scott Shotter that she smokes. There are positively no strings attached to the offer. All you girls have to do is to come into this office and say, "I smoke cigarettes," whereupon you will be handed a package of 20 fresh Chesterfields. The offer is good for a limited time only. Don't crowd, don't push—but hurry and get your free ciggies. The names will

NOT be published in The Democrat or any other paper — you have my word of honor for that. Of course, you must be of legal age or we'd be disobeying the law to make you such a present. We want to find out how many local women smoke, and are willing to give out the free fags in the interest of research.

A certain Wayne man who gave his wife a nice Christmas present gave a still nicer present to a young gal about town.

If you don't think the Scott Shot gossip is authentic, get a load of this: a certain Wayne woman is threatened with a suit for breach of promise if she doesn't marry a certain fellow. The woman has money, goodness knows, any fellow who can locate money in these times is entitled to heart balm if this Mamma Mamma turns him down.

They're telling the story about the local collich girl who has incurred the wrath of her girlfriends. It seems that this charming gal has two or three boyfriends on the string all the time. There's a scarcity of boyfriends, and the other girls don't believe in monopoly.

Rally 'round, folks, while we have a little chat with Fred Howard, prize columnist of the Clay County Sun. His efforts for this week include:

"Jazz Orchestra Pinched." Ah, ha, justice is not dead.

Some folks are not home enough to do their domestic battling in private.

With congress in session, liberal spending as a cure for depression will be given a thorough trial.

Gazing into a store window, girl from remarked that she could always find time for reflection.

You may have noticed that the guy who is always ready to offer financial information is the one who seldom has any first hand knowledge of none.

One hears considerable adverse comment about Congressman Shallenberger drawing 10 thousand a year salary for himself and then placing as many of his relatives on the pay roll as possible. The criticism is just. However, in the same position, what would you do with an unemployed spinster daughter? So would I.

Omaha may with advantage recall that crime received no check in Chicago until the public ire was directed at the police heads rather than at the flat feet section. If you hope to get far in the matter of re-establishing law and order lots of upstaters know that you will have to shatter many of the idols to whom you have paid unmerited tribute for many years. I, with many others, question your courage though I hope to have it proven that I am wrong. What business has an upstater entering your family affair? Much of the commercial supremacy which was once yours has been lost to you for no other reason than your failure to recognize that the upstate contingent are factors to be considered in both your moral and business life.

BE IT ORDAINED BY THE MAYOR AND THE CITY COUNCIL OF THE CITY OF WAYNE, NEBRASKA:

Section 1. The Mayor and the City Council of the City of Wayne find and determine that the Intersection Paving Bonds of District No. 1 of the City of Wayne in the principal sum of $41,000.00 are outstanding and unpaid, and are the valid, interest bearing obligations of said City; that the Intersection Paving Bonds of District No. 2 of the City of Wayne in the principal sum of $16,000.00 are outstanding and unpaid, and are the valid, interest bearing obligations of said City; and that the Intersection Paving Bonds of District No. 5 of the City of Wayne in the principal sum of $16,000.00 are outstanding and unpaid, and are the valid, interest bearing obligations of said City; and that the City has no other funds accumulated for the payment of said outstanding bonds, that the rate of interest since the issuance of said bonds has so declined in the markets that by taking up and paying off such bonds by the issue of bonds as hereinafter provided, a substantial saving in the amount of yearly running interest will be made to the City; that notice that the City seeks to take up and pay off said bonds by means of "Refunding Bonds" of the City of Wayne, in the sum of $195,000.00, and bearing interest at the rate of five per cent (5%) per annum, provided in the resolution heretofore passed by the Mayor and City Council was duly published as required by Statutes for three weeks in the Wayne Herald and the Nebraska Democrat, newspapers printed and of general circulation in the City of Wayne, and the due proof of said publication has been made by the affidavits of the publishers of said newspapers, filed with the City Clerk that said notice was duly posted upon the building in which the Mayor and City Council held their meetings for more than two weeks before the date fixed in said notice on which any taxpayer might file objections to said action; that no objections have been filed as to the amount of said bonds or against the validity of such bonds and the date fixed in the said notice on which any taxpayer of said City might file objections to such proposed action is passed and the time for filing such objections has expired.

Plan Prevention of Soil Erosion

Nationwide Fight Against Evil Is Now Taking Definite Form.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.—WNU Service.)

The United States Department of Agriculture's nationwide campaign against soil erosion is now taking definite form in the practical erosion-prevention work of the first regional erosion stations which have been established in widely separated areas from the Atlantic to the Pacific, says Dr. Henry G. Knight, chief of the bureau of chemistry and soils. Doctor Knight has just returned to Washington from inspection of the bureau's work in erosion prevention, soil survey, and soil fertility in the Middle West, Northwest, and Pacific Coast states.

Farmers Interested. Doctor Knight visited the erosion stations of the department at Bethany, Mo., and at Pullman, Wash., where the necessary equipment has been installed and where sheet erosion or run-off is being measured on experimental plots. Plans for field operations are under way at the station recently established in Page county, Iowa. He found that the farmers are keenly interested in the practical work of the stations, particularly in the terracing of cultivated fields, long a successful erosion-prevention measure in parts of the South, but which is new to the western and middle western farmers.

The need of soil erosion prevention, says Doctor Knight, has been forcibly brought to the attention of Utah farmers by a recent cloudburst which cut great canyons in the old lake shore of Salt Lake and covered a considerable acreage of fertile irrigated land with debris, sand, and bowlders. This erosion was a result of overgrazing of range lands. Overgrazing had removed the protective cover from the soil, he says. The destruction roused interest in erosion prevention even in that dry section.

Sugar Beet Yield. Doctor Knight visited the state agricultural experiment stations in Colorado, Wyoming, North Washington, Montana, and in North Dakota and South Dakota. He reports that increased yields of sugar beets have resulted from the use of phosphatic fertilizers in Colorado, Nebraska, and the Dakotas. The bureau of chemistry and soils initiated this practice a few years ago, and sugar beet companies now recommend the method generally. Directors of experiment stations, says Doctor Knight, are predicting a considerable increase in the acreage of crops next season as the result of the influx of farm laborers who have returned to the land because of the industrial depression. He cited the case of a single township of North Dakota in which 50 men from one factory have returned to farms.

Substitution of Ground Wheat for Corn or Milo

Substitution of ground wheat for ground corn, milo or kafir in the laying mash and of ground or rolled whole wheat for hominy feed, milo chop or ground barley in certain dairy feeds was approved by the Texas college feed conference board in session at the A. and M. College of Texas recently. This action was taken by reason of the general interest at this time in the use of wheat in feeding rations on account of its relatively low price as compared with certain other grains, it was announced.

Substitutions approved for dairy feeds were listed as follows: "I. Nineteen per cent protein dairy feed with limestone—ground or rolled whole wheat may be substituted for hominy feed, milo chop or ground barley in amounts not to exceed 20 per cent of the mixture, provided not more than one of these ingredients shall be reduced to less than 5 per cent. 2. Carbohydrate supplement with limestone for cows—ground or rolled whole wheat may be substituted for finely ground milo heads, hominy feed or ground barley in amounts not to exceed 20 per cent of the mixture, provided not more than one of these ingredients shall be reduced to less than 5 per cent."

Annuals and Biennials of Weeds Hard to Kill

An immense quantity of seed is produced by some weeds, especially by annuals and biennials, the resulting pollution of the soil requiring years of cleaning, even if no more plants are allowed to go to seed.

Many species have vigorous perennial root systems (thistles, dandelions, etc.) which renew growth until repeated destruction of the tops at every fresh appearance, starves them.

Very often weeds persist for the simple reason that farmers will keep on re-seeding their land with crop seeds containing weed seeds, rather than pay a little more for pure seed.

Legume Inoculants

Recent tests at the experiment station at Geneva, N. Y., indicate a wide variation in the quality of legume inoculants on the market. Some samples of this material were found to be worthless while many others were satisfactory. In the selection of commercial materials for this purpose an investigation of the quality is desirable. It is also highly desirable to have the date stamped on the package since inoculating materials lose their value with age.

Fortunes From Simple Idea

Among inventors of domestic utilities, a high place must be given to an unknown old lady of Durham, England, whose notion of gridding mustard seeds and sifting the powder through cloth led to Mr. Jeremiah Colman making a tremendous fortune and founding a worldwide business. The old lady was enterprising enough to forward a sample of her preparation to King George I, who was delighted at the new form of a condiment which previously had to be prepared by a clumsy and lengthy process, and his favor instantly established its success.

Wassailing Apple Trees

The ancient custom of "wassailing the apple trees," which dates back 800 years, was recently observed at Carhampton, near Minehead, Somerset, England. Two men carried a bucket of cider into the orchard, set it down under the largest tree and hung pieces of toast soaked in cider to the branches for the robins and good spirits. The wassail incantation was then chanted, and when it ended the villagers began to shout and cheer, while guns were fired through the branches of the tree. This custom is supposed to preserve the apple crop by driving off tree "hoggards" and other bad spirits.

"Railroad" and "Railway"

The reason that one transportation company is called a railroad and another a railway is simply that railroad and railway are corporate names. Often when a railroad goes bankrupt it must reorganize under a different name. For example, the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul railroad went into the hands of receivers and when it emerged it was the Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul & Pacific railway, the adding of the words "Pacific railway" making a new corporate name. Likewise the changing from railroad to railway changes the name of the corporation.

All Sorts of Virtues

Credited to Turquoise

To the people of Tibet and Persia, the turquoise appears in the light of a charm—a talisman endowed with curative powers and mystic benefits, writes Bayard Nettleton in the Los Angeles Sunday Times. It was considered "an astringent and sweet to the taste, an excellent means of provoking the appetite. Every poison, whether vegetable or mineral, or a mixture of both, was rapidly neutralized by the turquoise. It relieved the pain caused by demoniacal and other obnoxious influences. The stone was employed as an eye remedy and applied against the stings of the scorpion. It was used in temple worship and as an amulet of good luck in the marriage ceremony."

For centuries the turquoise has been linked with the spiritual and physical welfare of the ancient nations. Derived from Tibet and Persia, these superstitions or beliefs were carried through conquest and trade to all the countries of the East, finding a ready following in India, China and among the more cultured peoples. Later, the ideas invaded Europe and it is held by many that much of the American Indian turquoise lore had its inception from these same beliefs.

Scientists Baffled by

Malignant Tsetse Fly

Ruling a modern empire is not wholly a matter of troops, treaties and trade agents. Shock battalions of scientists may be required to combat native enemies far more menacing than an uprising of aborigines, according to the National Geographic society. For example, in eastern Africa the British recently captured 1,898 enemies in a day—dread insect enemies, tsetse flies, which were caught in 13 imitation animal traps. The tsetse fly lives in the bush. When an animal wanders into the bush and is infected by the insect the natives flee the region, just as they did before the swarms of the locusts of Bible times and do in present day history. Only the tsetse fly is a much deadlier enemy than the locust. It has effectively wiped out habitations from extensive areas—areas in Tanganyika as large as California and regions as extensive as other of our states in Rhodesia, Nyasaland, Uganda and Zululand. Throughout these units of Britain's political domain cultivated patches of land have been abandoned, farms and pastures have gone back to the bush, and the tsetse fly resumes its jealous reign.

Hungry London Consumes

Foodstuffs by the Ton

Nearly 450 miles of bread are eaten by Londoners every day. The weekly ration is 25,000,000 half-quarter loaves, and, although they vary in size and shape, if they were all of the "sandwich" type, about seven to eight inches long, they would extend, if placed in a straight line, for 3,100 miles.

Very large quantities of foodstuffs are unloaded at the London docks every year. The figures for last year, according to a statement made by the port of London authority recently, included 1,400,226 tons of wheat, 218,000 tons of flour, 660,000 tons of chilled and frozen meat, and 160,000 tons of butter.

One astonishing figure was 621,000 tons of green fruit and vegetables. And London also imported 491,000 pounds of tea, enough to make 94,320,000,000 cups—between six and seven every day of the 365 for every man, woman and child in England and Wales.

Vivid Pen Portrait of #### Old English Gentleman

"I notice that this gentleman is dressed in more easy fashion than some," Dion Clayton Calhoun wrote in "English Costume" in describing an eighteenth-century Englishman. "His coat is not buttoned, the flaps of his waistcoat are not over big, his breeches are easy, his tie is loose. . . . I know that he has a tremendous periwig at home covered with scented powder; I know that he has an elegant suit with fullness of the skirts, at his sides gathered up to a button of silver gilt; there is plenty of lace on this coat, and deep bands of it on the cuffs. He has also, I am certain, a cane with an amber head very curiously clouded, and this cane he hangs on to his fifth button by a blue silk ribbon. This cane is never used except to lift it up at a coachman, hold it over the head of a drawer, or point of the circumstances of a story. Also, he has a single eyeglass, or perspective, which he will advance to his eye to gaze at a toast or an orange wench."

Six Towns in One

There are six towns in one in Staffordshire, England. They are Stoke-upon-Trent, Hanley, Burslem, Longton, Tunstall, and Fenton, and they are now known under the name of Stoke-upon-Tren, with a single head in the lord mayor, who is really five mayors in one with the use of five mayoral chains which are the badge of office, one for each town. There are also six town halls in the federation, but the police administration is centered in one chief constable. And there are six public libraries which were separate municipal undertakings, and there are five markets, which are now under one control. The towns are largely given over to the pottery industry of which there are more than 300. Foremost among them is that of Josiah Wedgwood whose bicentenary has been celebrated recently.

Modern "Dear Old Ladies"

They came down the garden path as summer rain comes on the thirsty ground, kindly and softly, these two old ladies in their dark clothes. Peace walked in their footsteps. Their gait was like the laying-on of healing hands, their steps fell on the earth like a benediction. Strife and weariness never lived with them, one felt. Sure they had quiet in them, more wisdom than the great, else they never walked so freely down the garden path. They talked, as they came to the garden gate. Quietly they talked, with untroubled quiet faces. The sad passer-by heard them open the gate, and heard the taller lady say, their peaceful talk ended: "But, oh, my dear, if I were you, I'd hedge on Bumpur Tin, and sell my copper short!"—Manchester (England) Guardian.

Odd Virginia Law

The idea that there is a law in Virginia that forbids a woman to become engaged to more than one man at the same time is probably based on the story of Cicely Jordan, a charming and wealthy widow, who engaged herself to marry two men, Capt. William Farrar and Rev. Greville Pooley, the latter of whom sued her for breach of promise. The suit was lost, but the promisor and council of the colony were so aroused over the affair that they issued a proclamation against a woman's engaging herself to more than one man at a time. Wiltach, an authority on Virginia lore, says this has ever been revoked.

Population of Babylon

Has Been Overestimated

There have been various attempts, by comparing its area with the area of modern cities, to estimate the population of ancient Babylon. On the lowest calculation it would be found, supposing it to have borne any considerable resemblance to a European city, to have had a population of 5,000,000. The map of Asiatic Turkey shows that the extent of country around Babylon available for agricultural purposes must have been quite inadequate to supply the necessary demands for anything like such an immense population. Perhaps, on the whole, says a recent writer, one may estimate the population at from 1,000,000 to 1,200,000. This supposition derives support from the fact that Selucia, with a population of 600,000, is stated by Strabo and Pliny to have been about half the size of Babylon in the days of her greatest glory.

Satisfied With Their Lot

The minister of the flock had been invited to dine with the Jones family, and the four young boys had been told to wait for their repast until the grownups had finished the meal. They were to come in for the "second serving."

One of the lads, however, secreted himself under the table to listen in. Commenting on the four boys, the minister said to the hostess: "Mrs. Jones, it is too bad that at least one of your children couldn't have been a girl!"

This was too much for the little stowaway. Out shot, a bristling little red head from under the overhanging tablecloth, and a volley of protesting words:

"Well, Tom wouldn't been 'er; Ed wouldn't been 'er; Hal wouldn't been 'er; and I wouldn't been 'er! I'd like to know who'd 'a been 'er!" No other answer was needed; the point was settled.

Quinine Tercentenary

The tercentenary of the first use of quinine was held in St. Louis at Shaw's garden, October 31 and November 1, 1930. The earliest well-authenticated instance of the medicinal use of cinchona bark is found in 1638, when the countess of Chinchon (hence the name), the wife of the governor of Peru, was cured of an attack of fever by its administration. The medicine was recommended in her case by the corregidor of Loxa, who was said to have practically experienced its supreme virtues eight years earlier. A knowledge of the bark was disseminated throughout Europe by members of the Jesuit brotherhood, whence it also became generally known as Jesuits' bark. According to another account, this name arose from its value having been first discovered by a Jesuit missionary, who, when prostrated with fever, was cured by the administration of the bark by a South American Indian.

Noted Scholarship Fund

The Harriet Hurd Schelde scholarship was founded in 1928 at Princeton university by an anonymous donor with a gift to amount to $50,000 to establish scholarships of the value of the annual undergraduate fee, plus $100, to be known as the Harriet Hurd Schelde scholarships. In the award of these scholarships, preference is given to candidates who are sons of Presbyterian missionaries, or Presbyterian educators, or falling such candidates, to those who are sons of ministers, missionaries or educators of a church holding the Presbyterian system, who without the assistance thus provided would, in the opinion of the university authorities, be unable to obtain an education at Princeton university. Award is made in accordance with the general principles of the Rhodes scholarship plan.

Spider's Ingenious Web

Woven Afresh Each Night

Master of geometrical precision and skillful artisan, the fastidious orange tan orb spider presents a mystery in her arrival at a certain identical moment every evening when with amazing ingenuity she constructs or weaves a new web over the framework of her permanent dwelling, states an article in Better Homes and Gardens.

Although the framework of the simple structure, which consists of three spokes radiating from a single point, is constantly under repair, the finished web is never repaired no matter how damaged it may be. Guy wires are anchored to leaves, blades of grass, with a crow's foot fastening. Then follow the radial lines which retrace the original spokes of the permanent frame. The dainty tatting wheel in the center serves as a feast hall. The last stroke is biting out the floss constituting the hub, which leaves an aperture for the unwary insect to crawl through and be ensnared. Then follows the fastidiously-cmshes. Feast, continues Better Homes and Gardens, after which the web is carefully removed and, if no longer of service, devoured to make more silk and be respun later.

Lovers of Wild Birds

Mourn for Heath Hen

Early settlers along the Atlantic coast found huge flocks of the heath hen—in size and appearance much like the western prairie chicken—frequenting the sandy, scrub oak plains of Massachusetts, Connecticut, Long Island, New York and other coastal areas from Maine to Virginia.

The Cavaliers discovered that the heath hen was excellent for roasting on a spit before the huge fireplaces. The fowl helped Roger Williams and his followers through their first hard winters in Rhode Island. Pilgrims who hunted turkey or wild deer without success brought home heath hens for Thanksgiving. Thomas Morton wrote in 1637 that the bird is much "like our pheasant henne of England of excellent flesh and delicate meat."

The heath hen, however, was the pot hunter's prey. It flew in a straight line and rather slowly on flushing and it had an unfortunate habit of congregating in large flocks in open spaces.

It was extinct on the mainland as early as the Civil war, but still flourished on islands. Bird lovers called attention from time to time to the fact it was dwindling, and in 1925 there was a heath hen conference in New England in an effort to save the plumed fowl. Thousands of dollars and much time and effort were expended, but it was the old story of priming the pump after the house burned down.

Grateful and Beautiful

Tribute to Loved Wife

Those who report the inscriptions in old burying grounds do so ordinarily to call attention to what is quaint, untutored and bizarre. A different quest in these days might have as its object the discovery of inscriptions which testify, with simple sincerity, to long lives of joint happiness. The present-day world benefits by every reminder that there were such and always are.

Perhaps in all New England there is no more graceful tribute to a grateful devotion than that upon a headstone, placed not so many years ago, in the old Grove Street cemetery in New Haven. It was placed there at the grave of his wife by a physician whose high skill and learning were long in the service of the community, and of the Yale Medical school, whose courtesy and graciousness became a tradition and who bore worthily a great name, Francis Bacon. Below her name and the fact that she was his wife, he added: "For forty years the crown of his felicity."—Springfield (Mass.) Republican.

The Perfect Cup of COFFEE

If you are just an ordinary human being, you love your coffee—probably it is your greatest culinary treasure. Just plain coffee, carefully prepared, is so good sometimes we don't bother about getting the best out of this fragrant beverage.

Fine coffee perfectly prepared is the nearest thing to nectar we poor earth-bound mortals know of—but and it is a BIG BUT—fine coffee means not only the best bean and blending; it means careful, scientific handling and as little exposition to the air as is possible.

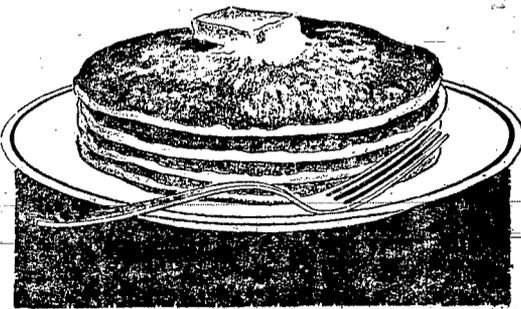

"Umm—That's Good Coffee!" For coffee is volatile—who hasn't sniffed the pleasant aroma of a neighbor's package in a street car or bus and said to himself "Umm—that smells like good coffee—wish I had a cup right now!"

Unhappily, for every delicious sniff you get, in that way, the coffee, when made, will be just that much less delicious. There seems to be just so much good in a particular package of ground coffee, and when it comes out in aroma, it doesn't come out in taste.

That is why vacuum packed coffee which comes in air-tight cans makes the very best coffee. The pound size is probably the most convenient, and when it has been opened, put the coffee which has not been used in a mason jar with a rubber ring to keep out the air until coffee is used up.

Better Breakfasts

"BREAKFAST is the bulwark of the American nation," remarked the emissary of a foreign nation who was sent here to observe the customs of our country for the benefit of his own. It is true that we prefer to face the fortunes of the day better fortified than the average continental on his cup of coffee or chocolate and bit of bread.

We are right—for us, at least. Life dashes along briskly over here, and we need energy every moment. Then, too, once immersed in the big business of living, we are loath to stop at midday precisely as they do across the seas. A good breakfast goes a long way towards a good day, so if you would improve the family fortunes give them a "better breakfast" tomorrow—here's one:

Sliced Oranges
Cold Cereal With Cream
Wholewheat Griddle Cakes With Rhubarb Sauce
Coffee
Wholewheat Griddle Cakes: Beat one egg well and add one cup diluted evaporated milk. Sift together one-third cup wholewheat flour, one teaspoon baking powder, one-fourth teaspoon salt and add to milk. Add one tablespoon melted butter and bake as usual in small cakes. Serve with butter and rhubarb sauce.

Rhubarb Sauce: Mash up one 3-ounce can rhubarb, add two tablespoons sugar and two tablespoons water, and bring to boiling to dissolve sugar, then cool.

CLUB ACTIVITIES

Now that everybody has made all the necessary New Years resolutions, paid all the old bills (ahem), and is already anticipating better times, the proper thing for us to do is to start a new leaf in our society books. You know, this hasn't been such a depressing year in society as one would think, and if this HAS been a depressed year, just think what a busy one 1932 is going to be when the depression IS lifted (according to Herbert Hoover). All business organizations are taking invoices on their stock this week, and as the only "stock" the society page seems to have is the weekly calendar, we might as well take inventory of what we'll be doing this next week:

Bryan Asks More Aid for Drouth Area People

Governor Charles W. Bryan and State Tax Commissioner W. H. Smith, in charge of the Nebraska drouth relief program, Tuesday renewed appeals for contributions of food and cash, as a result of recent surveys in drouth stricken counties which indicated an increase in the number of families needing aid. A Knox county committeeman predicted 1,200 persons there will need aid within two weeks. His committee now is feeding 900. A similar situation was reported from Boyd county. Farmers at Ewing are said to have sufficient feed for about a week, but after that they will be in dire need.
