Editor Gives Travel Talk to Kiwanians

St. Louis Man Discusses Japan, Manchuria and Russia.

Don Clarke of St. Louis, Mo., editor and owner of the Clarke Publications, a group of financial and trade magazines, addressed Wayne Kiwanians at the organization's regular meeting Monday noon on customs and conditions in Japan, Manchuria and Russia. Mr. Clarke, a nephew of J. G. Mines of Wayne, recently returned from a tour of countries he discussed.

Members of the local Kiwanis club characterized his talk as highly informative. Club officials expressed themselves as greatly pleased at a chance to get first-hand information on three of the focal points of international interest.

Mr. Clarke said that the customs of Japan, Manchuria and Russia are diametrically different from those of our own country. He expressed the opinion that Japan has had plenty of provocation for going into Manchuria, with a billion dollars worth of Japanese property in that territory. Japanese citizens in Manchuria, he said, have not been protected from Chinese bandits, and the Manchurian province has practically no evidence of efficient political control.

He contrasted Manchuria and its inefficient government to Korea, where Japan has taken over the political situation and has put the political situation on a comparatively high plane. Mr. Clarke expressed the opinion that if Japan takes control of Manchuria, the condition will be entirely satisfactory.

Kiwanians were greatly amused at his vivid description of the Japanese baths. He said that Japanese citizens evidently place much importance on taking plenty of baths, and added that these cleanliness practices were co-educational, with men, women and children all performing their ablutions together.

Mr. Clarke said that it is impossible to get any really accurate conception of Russia in a short time. He said that the average person who visits Russia for a month wants to write a book about the country. A year's stay in Russia, he believes, would convince that same would-be writer that he was not at all qualified to tell the world anything about the land of Lenin.

He stated that the people he saw in Russia did not seem to be happy, but that they apparently were accomplishing a great deal. He was impressed by Lenin's tomb, and said that the entire Russian idea seems to be centered around Lenin.

Mr. Clarke said that he attended church several times in Russia, and that while the churches seemed to be crowded, the Christian religion of the Greek orthodox church has been discarded in favor of Leninism, a worship of Lenin's principles. Lines blocks long, he said, wait in Moscow for a chance to view Lenin's remains, which are encased in a glass casket and remarkably well embalmed.

The five-year plan, he said, is practically a religion with the Russians, and is a part of the Leninism religion.

How the Russian situation will eventually turn out, he believes, depends on the new generation, which is being kept in almost total ignorance of the outside world.

Presbyterians Observe Fiftieth Anniversary

Crowds that taxed the capacity of the First Presbyterian church attended the morning, afternoon and evening services held Sunday in observance of the organization's fiftieth anniversary.

Rev. A. F. Ernst of Omaha, staff member of the Omaha Theological school and former Wayne pastor, delivered the morning sermon. Rev. J. W. Pressley of Omaha spoke in the evening.

About 200 people attended the fellowship supper in the church parlors at 5:30 p. m.

Penn State Hunts Deer In Big Way

Anyone who thinks Nebraska was the scene of big-scale hunting during the open season on pheasants last fall should read a copy of the Altoona, Pa. Mirror for Wednesday, Jan. 6, and find out what large-scale hunting really is.

A. E. Bressler has received a copy of the Pennsylvania paper, which states that the legal kill of deer in that state during the 1931 open season has been set at 94,722, in addition to 1,952 killed illegally.

The state game commission anticipates the total will reach the 100,000 mark and is pleased because it will reduce damage to farms, orchards and forest plantations.

The 100,000 kill represents 10 percent of the deer herd in that state. 502 bears were killed legally and 30 illegally. Twenty-one elk were killed, only one legally.

TELEPHONE COMPANY HAS NEW MANAGER

C. L. Pickett, Formerly of Norfolk, Takes Charge of Local Office.

Appointment of C. L. Pickett as manager of the Northwestern Bell telephone company in Wayne has been announced by District Manager E. M. Hieenthal. Mr. Pickett assumed his duties here on Friday, Jan. 8. He succeeds O. L. Randall, who left Saturday to take a position in the Norfolk business office of the telephone company.

Mr. Pickett is a telephone man of many years' experience. He has been in the telephone industry since 1899, but did not join the ranks of the Northwestern Bell company until June, 1912. During his years of service, he has engaged in nearly every phase of the telephone business and has been manager at Norfolk for more than 12 years.

In addition to his duties as manager at Wayne, Mr. Pickett will have supervision over the South Sioux City area, comprising the central offices at South Sioux City, Dakota City, Homer and Waterbury.

Mrs. Pickett and a son, Ned, will arrive in Wayne some time during this next week, and the family will be at home at 409 West Tenth street.

Mr. Pickett is a member of the Masonic lodge, and was a member of the Lions club at Norfolk.

Work on Dormitory Progresses Rapidly

Bad weather is holding up work on J. M. Pile hall, the new dormitory at Wayne State Teachers' college, but work on the building is far ahead of schedule. Men were at work on the project Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday of this week, despite inclement weather. Nearly all of the stone, brick and other material necessary for construction of the dormitory is on the ground.

C. E. Atwater, contractor in charge, says that he will have the building finished by the middle of July, and Dr. U. S. Conn, president of the college, is highly pleased by this prediction, inasmuch as early completion of the dormitory would give ample time for landscaping of the grounds and installation of furnishings.

Wayne Plays Oakland Here Tomorrow Night

Wayne high school's basketball team will play the Oakland high school quintet at the college gymnasium tomorrow night. The local team is badly weakened by injury and crippled basketballers, but Coach Ray K. Holder hopes to salvage a victory.

West Point's high school hoopsters have been signed up to play the Wayne team, with the game scheduled to be played in the college gym on Friday, Feb. 5.

SCOUTERS TO HOLD AREA MEETING HERE

Between 300 and 500 Men to Attend Convention at College Gym.

Scouters of the Covered Wagon area, Boy Scouts of America, will hold their annual meeting in the gymnasium at Wayne State Teachers' college on Friday evening, Jan. 29. Between 300 and 500 men are expected to attend the meeting.

The Covered Wagon area, comprising northern Nebraska from Iowa to Wyoming, takes in 84 towns and cities, including Wayne.

A program depicting work of the area for the last year, election of officers, reports of committees, and an address by a nationally known scout official to be sent by the New York office, will be highlights of the meeting.

WAYNE LOSES HOOP GAME TO OMAHA U.

Wildcats Take Short End of 25 to 42 Score Last Night.

Wayne State Teachers' college Wildcat basketballers were "cold" last night and Omaha Mundy U's hoopsters found it not too difficult to make their invasion of Wayne a victory. The game, played at the college gym, resulted in a 25 to 42 win for the Omaha team.

Only once, for about eight minutes at the start of the second half, did Wayne's quintet look like a stellar basketball team. The locals came onto the floor for the second period almost hopelessly beaten and proceeded to whittle point disadvantage down to seven points. Then something happened—that indefinable and intangible something—and Omaha was off to the races again.

Smith, flashy freshman from Montana, easily outclassed the rest of the local basketballers. He showed himself to be a ball hustler and brilliant defensive player, as well as being aggressive on the offense. Alexander, too, played a good game.

As far as stars are concerned, there was only one. Patterson, Omaha forward, made 16 points and conducted himself like a champion all through the game. Egbert, Omaha guard, was another bright spot in a team that was strong in every department.

Wayne lost a number of points via the foul route, with the locals completing one foul shot out of eight attempts, and Omaha making six out of eleven tries.

Starting line-ups were as follows:

|-----------|--------------|
| Wayne | Omaha |
| Alexander | RF Curtis |
| Andrews | LF Patterson |
| Sexton | C Sales |
| Lindamood | LG Wilkerson |
| K. Paul | LG Egbert |

Substitutions: Wayne: Smith for Andrews, Grubb for Sexton, Baker for Lindamood, Berry for Lindamood, Smith for Paul, Sund for Paul; Omaha: Hover for Patterson, Grayson for Egbert.

Referee, Sisty (Midland). Timekeeper, Strahan.

Wayne County Gets State Gas Tax Money

Wayne county has received $1,531 from State Treasurer Bass as its quota of $165,258, one-fourth of the state gasoline tax collected for November. On January 1, the state gasoline tax fund contained only $141,698, the lowest amount in its history, and was not enough to pay the counties. By waiting for collections to come in, Bass had enough to pay and a $25,000 balance besides.

Council Hears Report of Retiring Treasurer

Report of O. L. Randall, resigned city treasurer, was approved by the city council at that body's regular meeting Tuesday night, and discharge of Mr. Randall's bond was ordered. The report showed a balance on Friday, Jan. 1, of $49,248.62. Bond for A. T. Cavanaugh, new city treasurer, was approved.

College Must Cut Summer School Cost

Appropriation Reduction Forces Lowering of Expenses.

Because of an appropriation cut of about $21,000, the second summer term of Wayne State Teachers' college will be cut down materially, with the faculty reduced to the lowest possible point consistent with good work, it was agreed at a meeting of the state board of education of normal schools at Lincoln, Monday. Practically all of the usual repair work will be omitted.

It was at first thought advisable to discontinue the summer session of the training school, but a decision was reached to keep the training school in session during the first month of summer school, as has heretofore been the custom.

No conclusion was reached in regard to installation of natural gas at Wayne State Teachers' college, except that the local institution will probably use it. Board members felt that a change in heating systems in the middle of the winter would be unwise. Further discussion of the natural gas question will be brought up at the next board meeting.

TELEGRAPH OFFICE TO BE MAINTAINED

Wayne Men Sign Petition for Continuance of Wire Service.

It is probable that Wayne will continue to have a down-town Western Union telegraph office, according to Miss Kathleen Smith, manager of the local station. Miss Smith has received no notice relative to any immediate closing of the Wayne telegraph station, and said yesterday that she believed the company contemplated continued operation of the office.

Miss Smith last week received a communication from telegraph company headquarters asking whether or not Wayne business men desired the down-town office kept open.

A petition, asking the Western Union company to maintain the office, was circulated through the business district Monday and was signed by about 200 names, representing practically every firm in Wayne. It is understood that this expression of opinion has had considerable weight with telegraph company officials.

COLDER WEATHER IS FORECAST FOR TODAY

Roads Out of Wayne Are in Bad Condition, But Open to Traffic.

Cold weather this week, which has kept the heavy snowfall of last week from melting, is responsible for roads into Wayne being in unusually bad condition. Motorists yesterday were troubled with "high centering," where drifts had been shoveled out. A number of cars were reported "hung up" on the high center strips prevalent in most roads. Several cars experienced difficulty in getting from Emerson to Hubbard on highway No. 35.

W. H. Andreson, natural ice dealer, said this morning that the ice is from seven to eight inches thick.

Snow and much colder weather is today's prediction for Wayne and the immediate surrounding territory.

A recording thermometer kept by J. S. Horney recorded four degrees above zero as the minimum temperature last night.

A terrific blizzard was predicted for Wayne Tuesday night, but failed to materialize. America's weather lines were irregularly drawn Wednesday, with blizzards roaring through the Rocky Mountain region and tornadoes claiming a heavy toll of life and property in the south.

CRADLE ROLL

A baby boy was born to Dr. and Mrs. L. W. Jamieson Saturday afternoon, January 9, 1932.

Dragon's Land Is Manganese Mine

"Thar's gold in them thar hills." Correctly speaking, there's manganese in them—and manganese is an ore of great commercial value.

"Them thar hills" are located between Chamberlain and Oacoma, S. D., and are the property of Al Dragon, employee of the Wayne State Teachers' college department of grounds and buildings, and his brother. The Dragon brothers have leased the mining rights on the land to the General Manganese corporation of Detroit, Mich., at a substantial price.

Manganese deposits on the Dragon land are said to contain a minimum of 50,000,000 tons of ore. A refining plant, to cost about $271,000, is being built at Sioux Falls, S. D. The Sioux Falls Argus-Leader for Friday, Jan. 8, stated that the plant would be built there immediately. Sioux City, Iowa, and Mitchell, S. D., were said to have been contenders for the project.

Drouth Area Needs Stock Feed at Once

Conn Has Plan to Donate Straw Stacks to Relief Cause.

Dr. U. S. Conn, president of Wayne State Teachers' college, is convinced by reports coming to him from students who live in the north-Nebraska drouth and grasshopper-stricken territory that immediate action is necessary if farmers in that locality are to save their stock from starvation.

"I know that what these students tell me is true," Dr. Conn said this morning. "A girl from the drouth area told me only this morning of seeing horses that reeled and staggered from starvation. Students from that territory all tell me that feed for stock is the imperative need at this time."

Dr. Conn believes that straw stacks which are rotting in the fields around Wayne would serve as sustenance for starved horses and cattle. He is confident that many farmers in this territory would be glad to donate a few of their straw stacks to brother farmers who are having a desperate struggle to keep their stock alive through the winter.

Anyone who feels that the cause is a worthy one (and that should include everyone) is asked to call Dr. Conn's office at Wayne State Teachers' college. He will keep a list of all people who signify their willingness to donate straw stacks, so that when plans to transport the stock feed from Wayne to the drouth area are completed, the truck-loads of straw stacks may be sent as quickly as possible.

Dr. Conn is impressed with the need for immediate action. He believes that some sort of local organization should be formed to take care of the drouth area relief work, but until that organization is consummated, he is willing to act in a supervisory capacity.

Debaters Meet Blair and Fremont Teams

Wayne high school debate teams journeyed to Blair and Fremont on Friday, Jan. 8, and came back home with a .500 batting average. They won one and lost one at Blair, and the debates at Fremont were no-decision affairs.

SCHOOL GIVES TESTS

Achievement tests were given Tuesday and Wednesday throughout the grade rooms of the Wayne public schools. Scores and norms are being arrived at, preparatory to the ending of the semester.

County Board Makes Lower Tax Estimate

Commissioners to Enforce Economy Program in 1932.

County commissioners, in regular session at the Wayne county courthouse Tuesday, made an estimate of expenses for 1932 which is $26,000 under the 1931 estimate.

The county general fund is estimated at $45,000, whereas last year it was $60,000; the county bridge fund for 1932 is estimated at $35,000, as against $40,000 for 1931; the county road fund is estimated at $15,000 instead of $50,000 as in 1931, and the mothers' pension fund, soldiers' relief fund and county fair appropriation are estimated at $2,000 each, the same as in 1931.

Frank Erlebon was re-elected chairman of the board of county commissioners, and R. P. Williams was appointed a member of the soldiers' relief commission.

Contract for printing of all stationery for county officials in 1932 was awarded to The Nebraska Democrat, with The Democrat and the Wayne Herald as the only bidders. Contract for printing of legal blanks was awarded to the Herald, the sole bidder.

Printing of delinquent tax lists, commissioner proceedings, etc., was awarded to The Democrat, the Herald, the Winside Tribune and the Carroll News, and all four are designated as official county papers. The four publications were also designated for publication of primary and election sample ballots.

Pay for a single man on road work was reduced from 40 cents an hour to 35 cents. Pay for a man and a team remains the same as in 1931.

District Court Terms for Ninth District Set

Wayne county will have regular terms of district court in 1932 on April 18 and November 14. Equity sessions will be held here on May 23 and September 12.

Jury members will be called on the Monday following the opening day of each regular term, unless otherwise ordered. Clinton Chase of Stanton and Charles H. Stewart of Norfolk are the district court judges for this district, and R. C. Sweet of Stanton and W. R. Ellis of Wayne are court reporters.

Norfolk's postoffice is being modeled and a new addition added.

The Inquiring Reporter

Who, in your opinion, is Nebraska's greatest living man?

Carroll Orr: "I would pick Roscoe Pound, dean of the Harvard Law school, as being Nebraska's most eminent national figure."

Dr. W. A. Emery: "I would think John G. Neihardt would rank right at the top. He has shown the rest of the United States that Nebraska can rightfully lay claim to having a highly advanced culture."

H. D. Addison: "General Pershing, in my opinion, is Nebraska's most outstanding man. There is some dispute as to whether or not we can rightfully claim him, but the state is proud to call him 'Nebraska's own'."

E. O. Stratton: "I believe John G. Neihardt has earned the title of Nebraska's greatest living man through gaining national recognition as a poet of the first order."

Wm. Assenheimer: "That's a hard question to answer, but I believe that no list of outstanding present-day Nebraskans would be complete without the name of George W. Norris."

WITH THE WAYNE CHURCHES

Presbyterian Church Notes

P. A. Davies, Pastor

A happy and blessed day was last Sunday as we celebrated together the fiftieth anniversary of the founding of our church. The messages by Dr. Ernst and Dr. Pressly were both timely and helpful. We rejoiced in having these two leaders of our work in the state with us. The music prepared by the morning choir and the male chorus was far above the ordinary; and greatly appreciated also was the beautiful violin number by Prof. Louis Gregory, accompanied by Mrs. Welch at the organ. There were nearly 200 seated at the tables for the good fellowship banquet at 5:30 o'clock. At the close of the meal a pleasant hour was spent in the receiving of greetings and letters from former pastors and friends and the giving of reminiscences. At the morning hour Mrs. A. A. Welch read a most interesting history of the church. All in all, it was a most happy and blessed day.

Our services for next Sunday are: Sunday school 10 a. m.; morning worship 11 a. m.; evening choir 6 p. m.; C. E. services 6:30 p. m.; evening worship 7:30 p. m.

Nine were received into the membership of our church at the communion service last Sunday evening. Seven came by letter and two on confession of faith. Others have signified that they wish to unite with the church in the near future.

The missionary society met at the church last Wednesday afternoon.

It is our hope to begin our Mission school next Wednesday evening. It is to be conducted as in other years with a covered dish luncheon followed by meeting of the classes. Each session is to be over at 8 o'clock. Our book this year is interesting and timely. It is entitled "The Rural Millions." Plan now to be in the sessions of this school.

Methodist-Episcopal Church
Harold C. Capsey, Minister
Have you started the new year right by attending church? If not, don't let another Sunday pass without being in your place. Worship to our God is a duty that we cannot neglect without distinct loss to ourselves. You will find a friendly welcome and a really enjoyable service here. We cannot promise you a back seat unless you come early.

Next Sunday morning the pastor will preach on "The Call of the Deep" and in the evening the sermon theme will be "Unsatisfied Religion." There is good music that aids the spirit of worship. The Epworth League devotional meeting is at 6:30 each Sunday evening. This is always a real young people's meeting that young people can enjoy.

Monday next week the church school board will meet at the home of Prof. I. H. Britell, 814 Nebraska St., at 7:30. At this meeting the annual election of officers and teachers will be held and all members of this board are asked to be present.

Wednesday afternoon the Ladies Circle No. 2 will meet in the afternoon with Mrs. Winnifred Main.

The Brotherhood will meet for the regular monthly meeting at the church Wednesday evening at 6:30. Election of officers for this year.

COURAGE OF CONVICTIONS

Maybe you've been following the Culbertson-Lenz bridge battle and maybe you haven't. If you have, you'll probably agree with this writer that Ely Culbertson, regardless of his ability as a bridge player, is a shrewd man.

In the first place, he refused to travel with the mob. He formulated a contract bridge system of his own. Whether or not his system is better than the so-called "official" one is beside the point. He proved his shrewdness in refusing to fall in with the ideas of all the other bridge experts, thereby gaining himself a tremendous amount of publicity.

Again, having formulated his system, he believed in it and, believing, he offered to put it to the test. While Mr. Lenz is participating in the tournament, Mr. Culbertson is the show. It is Culbertson who gets the publicity. Culbertson did the challenging. And, incidentally, Culbertson must be raking in plenty of money.

It is a conservative estimate that 30 of the Culbertson Blue Books on Contract Bridge were given as Christmas presents to Wayne people. With at least 30 of the books coming into this community, think how many must have been sold in the United States.

Maybe you think contract bridge experting is a feeble profession. But the Culbertson-Lenz bridge battle shows that a man who has originality, shrewdness, capability and the courage of his convictions can make a success of just about any occupation under the sun, come hard times, come what may.

A TOUGH TEXAN

They rale tough guys down in Texas. Representative Patman of that once wild and woolly state has asked for the impeachment of Andrew Mellon, the "greatest secretary of the treasury since Alexander Hamilton." The chairman of the committee to which the impeachment resolution was referred is another Texan, Representative Summers.

Patman said, "I rise to a question of constitutional privilege. On my own responsibility as a member of this house, I impeach Andrew W. Mellon, secretary of the treasury of the United States for high crimes and misdemeanors and offer the following resolution."

It takes nerve to bring impeachment proceedings against a billionaire who is alleged to control Republican national politics, especially when the billionaire is the type of individual that Andrew Mellon is said to be.

The "greatest secretary of the treasury since Alexander Hamilton" has the greatest deficit of any secretary of the treasury since Alexander Hamilton. A law forbidding secretaries of the treasury from engaging directly or indirectly in trade and commerce is said to exist. Andrew Mellon is most assuredly holding his office in direct violation of that law. If you had as much money as Andrew Mellon is said to have, you, too, could hold office contrary to all laws—unless you ran up against a hard-boiled tough guy like this Patman of Texas.

A DISTURBING FACTOR

While the Democrats have never been in sympathy with party lumbers George Norris, this paper recognizes that the Nebraska senator constitutes a serious threat to the 1932 presidential election.

Norris is being spoken of as an independent candidate for the presidency. Mere whisper of such a possibility send shudders down the spinal columns of Democrats and Republicans alike. It is admitted that if Norris runs for the presidency, the only proper place for him would be on an independent ticket. He has shown that he is not a republican and he has refused to ally himself with the democratic party.

His chances of being elected, if he chose to run, would be so slim as to be almost negligible. Greater politicians than George Norris have learned that you have to be affiliated with one of the major parties if you want to be elected. Norris, himself, found it expedient to run on the republican ticket at the last election, despite his almost complete alienation from the G. O. P.

What a mess Independent Candidate Norris could make of the presidential election! Democrats and republicans alike would bolt their party tickets to vote for him. His candidacy might even, heaven forbid, swing enough votes away from the democratic ticket so that Herbert Hoover could be re-elected. There's no telling what might happen. Here's hoping he does not chose to run.

LOOKING FORWARD

Nineteen-thirty-two is a "Presidential year." A presidential election and the political questions it raises would ordinarily loom large on the horizon. This is not an ordinary period, however, and political issues have become small things in the minds of the public, as contrasted with economic and social issues. Folks who need jobs can show little interest in partisan platforms and political wrangling.

We may see the "big business" attitude toward politics by reading copy sent out by the Manufacturer and Industrial news bureau, which says, in part:

"The greatest danger of a depression is that we may lose our heads—that a sort of mob hysteria may take the place of reason. We may try to overcome economic law with panaceas. Already many such efforts are being proposed—the new Congress, before it has completed its session, will be swamped with suggestions for relieving the unemployed with gigantic bond issues; for helping the farmer with governmental subsidies and attempts at price-fixation; for helping the small business at the expense of the large one; for helping the poor and those of moderate means by overtaxing the wealthy.

"While such proposals may be made in good faith, most of them are based on misconceptions.

"Prosperity will return as the result of stimulated employment, stimulated buying, stimulated trade, commerce and building. We cannot produce that by frightening the capital we need. We cannot do it through governmental meddling, which inevitably forces retrenchment and inaction on the business it touches—and, by example, on the entire business structure. The potential destructive forces of politics cannot be measured.

"We cannot create prosperity by heaping additional tax burdens on businesses and individuals already struggling under a tremendous tax bill. Robbing Peter to pay Paul is not sound economics. All taxes must eventually be paid by the public—business must pass all costs onto those who buy its products or services. For the nation to go further into debt, to appropriate additional millions and billions for temporary and unsound relief schemes, is the height of folly."

That gives us a side of the question that few of us have paid much attention to, because our interests are naturally not centered on manufacturing and "big business." The middle west has never been sympathetic to the problems of eastern moneyed interests, but the fact remains that their side of the question does exist and probably has a certain degree of merit.

HOUSE REMEMBERS NEBRASKA

Having Ludwig's Napoleon, a lot of new Russian tracts and a copy of Sheldon's new History of Nebraska urging for every open minute I laid aside my December copy of "Present Day American Literature" for the luxury hour. It came finally and I read first Dr. House's very interesting story of his trip to Italy and Greece. Then "How Faras Our Citizenship" by J. G. W. Lewis of Wayne State Teachers college, one of the most inspirational things I've seen in months. Starting then with the first line on the first page, I read absorbed in the joy of every line on through to page 71 where I gasped, breathless at this:

"Dr. Julius Temple House, formerly of the Wayne Teachers college faculty and a loyal Press friend, is writing some interesting things for a magazine he publishes called 'Present Day American Literature' and which all who like the printed word should read. I wish to thank my friend in West Virginia for the fine article by Thomas C. Donnelly on George W. Norris, champion of progressive democracy. I am wondering if Donnelly be a nom de plume. — Marie Weekes in the Norfolk (Nebraska) Press. No, no, Marie, Tom is flesh and bone and brains, not a phantom. He was born and reared in West Virginia. Don't you know that these mountaineers are not happy if their neighbors agree with them; that we have many, many among us that hunt for reasons to fight the current notions? Dr. Donnelly was graduated from a West Virginia college, went to New York university while still an infant, received his doctorate while an adolescent. Besides, he is six feet high, broad and strong, and can whip anybody who dares to touch him. Of such is the kingdom of progress. Perhaps the readers of this paper would like to meet Mrs. Weekes. Well, it would be some meeting. She is the one woman editor to whom all politicians in Nebraska do reverence. She helped to elect Charlie Bryan governor once, and later to defeat him; and, when she took her pen in hand in the second enterprise, it was "good night, Charlie." She is, republican, democrat, non-partisan league by turns, but always consistently she is Marie Weekes. — Norfolk Press.

DEMOCRATIC OPPORTUNITY

Seldom have the democrats in either branch of Congress had such an opportunity to serve human welfare as now offered the democratic majority in the lower house.

It is a foregone conclusion that the Senate will pass President Hoover's reconstruction finance corporation bill. It is less certain when the House will do it. The House measure is still buried in committee.

Granting that the business situation warrants employment of government credit, it may be well for Congress to extend such credit in reasonable measure.

But Congress should reserve the right to act in behalf of inarticulate millions to provide work as a means for them to earn food and shelter.

As Senator Blaine of Wisconsin expressed it "there is not a mouthful of food or a job in this bill," referring to the emergency finance measure.

But it is necessary that some bill be passed that will provide jobs and food.

If the democratic house is true to the tradition of the democratic party it will refuse to pass the bill to aid business until its sponsors agree to accept another measure to finance public works and provide charity wherever additional relief may be needed.

A reasonable program for business relief balanced by a reasonable program for human relief is absolutely essential to meet the existing emergency.

This is not a partisan matter. It should not be made a question of politics. It does not involve a vote. It contemplates nothing more than the right of human beings to be granted equal consideration with vested dollars. In addition, it would be good business. — Sioux City Tribune.

BONDS RETURNED

Gus Winkler has kept his pledge. His promise that, if not prosecuted on a charge of robbery of the Lincoln National Bank, he would arrange the return of negotiable securities taken from a million dollars to the bank. What will not be understood, what seems nonunderstandable, is why Winkler, who was so certain he could free himself through the Buffalo alibi, should have preferred to buy these bonds and return them to the owner, rather than stand trial. Further, a great many will wonder how Gus Winkler, innocent of the charge, could locate the bonds and secure their return when officers of the law could not find all of the robbers.

The Winkler case has become a famous one in Nebraska. It has been reviewed by every newspaper in the state. It has been a subject for editorial treatment in many outstate newspapers. It has been discussed within the state ever since Winkler's offer to return the bonds in return for freedom from prosecution.

County Attorney Towle, after an investigation of the Winkler alibi, announced that he was certain conviction was impossible and that the alibi appeared to be convincing. Nevertheless there was a strong feeling that Winkler should have been prosecuted, regardless of results, and that Britt, also charged and tried twice without result, should have been tried a third time.

So far as Winkler is concerned and so far as the return of the bonds is a factor, the case is closed. There were participants in that robbery who are still at large. If the effort to find and convict them continues, some restoration of the majesty of the law, so far as enforcement in this community is concerned, will have been made.

Chicago reports indicate that the bonds were not returned by Winkler; that return was accomplished by the securities being left where an officer of the law could find them. Their restoration to an officer of the bank was brought about in the presence of the county attorney. Winkler did not return the bonds, but he gave officers "great help" in securing their return. — Lincoln State Journal.

MASTER PRODUCTION

Secretary Hyde of the federal department of agriculture sticks to the text that the salvation of agriculturists in co-operative limitation of production. His advice must have had a strange sound to the 11 men awarded master farmer honors who heard him speak at Lincoln recently. What strikes one as most significant in the record of master farmers of this and previous years is that they have achieved success by farming on a generously large scale and keeping production high.

As a rule these master farmers own and farm more land than the average. Only one of the farms represented in this year's award is smaller than 200 acres. The largest is 2,500 acres and the average of all is 660 acres. They raise as a rule more corn and wheat and oats per acre than most farmers, raise more pigs per litter, produce more pounds of butterfat per cow. They have become master farmers by means of large production.

Large production has been a godsend to many a farmer this year. Those who suffered crop failure or partial crop failure are in deep distress. Those who have full granaries and fat cattle and hogs are lucky dogs, even with the sickening prices exhibited by current market quotations. They are sitting pretty in this tumbling house of economic cards.

Whatever responsibility overproduction may have had for farm prices two or three years ago it is now the explanation for 30-cent corn and 3 1/2 cent hogs. The world has gone off its economic balance and farm prices have gone with it. If there is any balm in Gilead it is for the farmer who got the last kernel of grain out of his land this year and put the last possible ounce of fat on his animals.

Secretary Hyde had better take his panacea to somebody else than the country's master farmers. — Omaha World-Herald.

Eastern Star Honors

Charter Members

At a regular meeting of Wayne chapter No. 194, Order of the Eastern Star, Monday night, twelve resident charter members were welcomed. Mrs. Ida Blair, first worthy matron of the chapter, gave a twenty-six year history. Each charter member was presented with a red rose, while Mrs. L. B. Ellis sang "Only a Rose." Charter members honored were J. G. Mines, Jean R. Mines, John T. Bressler Sr., Julia Bressler, Harvey Ringland, Myrtle Ringland, Anna Welch, Clara Ellis, Catherine Chace, Nettie Craven, Horace Theobald and Ida Blair.

The installing officer, Miss Louise Wendt, retiring Worthy Matron, was assisted by Mrs. Ida Blair, and Mrs. Hazel Bressler as mistress. Officers installed were: Mrs. Lucille McClure, W. M.; Dr. R. W. Casper, W. P.; Mrs. Maybelle Blair, A. M.; L. W. Ellis, A. P.; Mrs. Vera Larson, conductress; Mrs. Hazel Bressler, associate conductress; Mrs. E. E. Pleetwood, secretary; Mrs. Ada Costerlan, treasurer; Miss Minnie Will, Adah; Mrs. Elsa Noakes, Ruth; Mrs. Clalla McGarragh, Esther; Mrs. Aulda Surber, Martha; Mrs. Thelma Coryell, Electa; Mrs. Lucille Korff, chaplain; Mrs. Florence Wiltse, marshal; Mrs. Nana Whitmore, warder, and Miss Zetta Buefow, sentinel.

Refreshments were served by the following committee: Mrs. Ada Andrews, Mrs. Elmore Parker, Mrs. Anna Blanche Ler, Mrs. Ruth Claycomb, Mrs. Edna Davis, Miss Katherine Lou Davis, Miss Elsie May Carhart, Mrs. Helen Orr, C. M. Craven, C. H. Hendrickson and H. S. Ringland.

SCOTT SHOTS

by

"SCOTTY"

Maybe it comes under the classification of humor... maybe it's tragedy. At any rate, this report of testimony given by Walter S. Gifford, director of President Hoover's organization on unemployment relief, impresses me as fit fodder for the Scott Shot column.

The Associated Press report says: He was questioned closely by Senators La Follette, republican, Wis., and Costigan, democrat, Col., sponsors of bills for federal appropriations to help the jobless.

"How many people in New York state are in need?" asked Costigan. "I do not know," replied Gifford. "Have you an estimate for Illinois?"

Gifford shook his head. "Is your information similarly indefinite for the rest of the country?"

"Yes sir."

"Do you have an estimate of relief needs in the smaller communities?"

"No."

"For rural districts?"

"No."

And this man is supposed to be director of Hoover's unemployment relief organization. It looks as if what America needs is a moratorium on incompetent politicians. That Associated Press dispatch from Washington probably tells us as clearly as anything could, what is wrong with these allegedly United States.

And now, all you who are interested in having a few falut rays of light cast upon what we commonly refer to as gossip—here's your

WEEKLY DIET

Here's an amazing bit of news. There are no cigarette smoking women in Wayne. Believe it or not, but not one woman answered the Scott Shotter's magnanimous offer to get a free package of Chesterfields, as announced in last week's issue. If Wayne's feminine contingent is curbed by reticence and fear of having their names appear in this column I can assure them on my word of honor that no publicity will be given to their ciggle fondness. The offer will be open for one more week—a free package of Chesterfields to any and every female person over 21 years of age who will simply come into this office and say "I smoke cigarettes."

One Wayne business man neglected to shovel off the walk in front of his residence after the heavy snows of last week, but hired a man to shovel the snow out of his garage driveway. Which is the height of something besides consideration.

A business place which refused to spend one dollar for a ticket to the Firemen's benefit masquerade dance will probably lose at least $500 worth of business as a result.

Pity the local gal who is really that way over a local man who has a wife and family. She refuses to have anything to do with him, although his attentions are not nearly so unwelcome as she makes him think. Don't waste any sympathy on the man.

Secret Operative 211 comes through with the story of a local young fellow who made a very noticeable nuisance of himself at a Norfolk dance not so many moons ago. The fellow was 99.99 full of assorted stimuli at the time.

Local storekeepers are wise to the woman, a regular church-goer, who puts things in her pockets when she makes her daily market trips. She probably doesn't know that when she pays her bill the price of the supplies in her pocket is added, with a little more for good measure.

Don't tell Mr. Volstead about the Wayne man who entertained at a Tom and Jerry party last Friday night.

At a Leap Year party last Friday night, 'tis said that the various couples exchanged partners, with a proviso in force that there would be no necking. One gal, however, failed to abide by the rules. If her boyfriend should find out about it, would he be mad? Don't ask!

Have yourself a hearty laugh by getting someone who knows to give you the dope on that alleged romance between April and November.

Two fellows in one local place of business have not been speaking terms as a result of one's granting unfair concessions to the other.

The Scott Shot column has been able to find no factual basis for a rumor that has been making the rounds for some time to the effect that a certain prominent Wayne man is going to be married in the near future.

Neither is there any foundation for stories questioning the financial stability of a Wayne business place. Drop around some afternoon and we'll talk over all the news that isn't fit to print.

The Scribner Rustler, in a column called Rustlings, prints the following sage observations:

All of us like the man who comes right out and says what he thinks—providing he agrees with us.

It is said that women get 65 percent of the divorces in this country. And they also get 100 percent of the alimony.

Every day is a good day for motorists to remember that no matter how much they may improve the auto they can't put horse-sense in one of them.

Nearly all men are satisfied to fight for what they want, but most women prefer to attend a bargain sale.

There's a big difference between the things a salesman tells you about the car when you go to buy it and the things he tells you about it when you go to trade it in.

Now is the time for all good Scott Shot readers to see what Fred Howard, the happy-editor of the Clay County Sun has to say this week:

A local lad says he will so arrange his next divorce that he will not have to sleep alone in the winter time.

Now it is announced that there is not enough food value in a dish of ice cream to satisfy a sparrow between teams.

One may pity the clown who tries to be serious, but there should be no sympathy for the serious man who deliberately stoops to clowning.

A gentleman who is receiving the same salary he has received for several years told me last week that he would only be able to pay his subscription six months in advance because "you know everyone is broke." I assured him that the payment was perfectly satisfactory to me, but, I ask, what makes you hard up? He looked at me in amazement and repeated "Why, dammitman, don't you know everyone is broke?" Thousands of men on salaries are suffering the tortures of fear today, made cravens by rumor rather than harbingers of good cheer in the positive knowledge of their own safety.

The local radio announcer who last Sunday morning made it appear that our country was derelict in its road work because hiway 6 was in bad condition between Sutton and Hastings, disclosed an amazing amount of ignorance in placing the responsibility as well as a lack of information as to the reasons for an underbred condition. CHRISTIAN SCIENCE
"Life" is the subject of the lesson-sermon in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, for Sunday, Jan. 17.

The golden text is: "This is the record that God hath given to us eternal life, and this life is in His son." (I. John 5:11.)

Among the citations which comprise the lesson-sermon is the following from the Bible: "Enter ye in at the straight gate: for wide is the gate, and broad is the way, that leadeth to destruction, and many there be which go in thereat: Because straight is the gate, and narrow is the way, which leadeth to life, and few there be that find it." (Matthew 7:13, 14.)

The lesson-sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "When being is understood, Life will be recognized as neither material nor finite, but as infinite,—as God, universal good; and the belief that life, or mind, was ever in a finite form, or good in evil, will be destroyed." (page 76.)

considered and unjustified critique, for we all are inclined to do our hell raising first and our investigating later in these decadent days when free speech is becoming so unlicensed that threats of curbing are heard frequently.

The cheese factories that are grieving over slow business might, with profit, study the publicity policies of the purgative producers. When pound slabs of epsom salts (actual value 15c) find ready sale at $1.25 when diligently advertised, there is no reason why just as fancy a market could not be established for an honest product like cheese. Dress up your package, gentlemen, copyright a few distinctive names and then tell the people—tell them over and over again. The method is not experimental—it is a proven fact. Any competent publicity man will tell you that "Lomacy Lamberger" is allied to the last smell with the greatest vitamin X, the thing which prevents warts; that "Seductive Swiss" has the magnificent strength giving ingredient which nothing less than two slices of rye bread can restrain and that the daily eating of "Creamy Caress" will straighten bow legs and cover bald pates with silken locks.

Wayne Pastor Attends Last Rites for Sister

Rev. W. C. Heidenreich left Wayne Friday, Jan. 8, to go to Lena, Ill., where he attended funeral services for a sister, who had passed away early Thursday morning. The services were held Sunday, and Reverend Heidenreich arrived back in Wayne Tuesday.

Grand Island Architect to Plan Chadron Dorm

Arthur D. Baker of Grand Island, architect who drew up the plans for a new dormitory now under construction at Wayne State Teachers' college, was selected Monday by the state normal board to prepare plans for a new $100,000 dormitory building at Chadron.

He is to receive five percent on the cost for his compensation. Nine other architectural firms submitted proposals to the board.

Football in America

The first football players in America were the "Oneidas," a football club in Boston, the first organization of its kind in this country and the predecessor of modern college football, says an article in Pathfinder Magazine. According to an inscription on a monument in that city the "Oneidas" played all comers from 1862 to 1865, and never tasted defeat nor had their goal line crossed.

American colleges had their football during that period. The first intercollegiate game was played between Princeton and Rutgers on November 6, 1869, the latter having 28 men on the field to the former's 21. But the first real development of the modern game came in 1906 when at a meeting of the American intercollegiate football rules committee the forward pass was introduced.

Up-to-Date Youngster

A new nurse was engaged in the household of one of our most advanced doctors, and the first night, toward eight o'clock, she settled down with a book of fairy stories to read the doctor's daughter to sleep.

The child, aged six and very "modern," listened placidly through "Peter Piper," dozed over "The Old Woman Who Lived in a Shoe," and seemed to be sound asleep during the reading of "Jack and Jill," until suddenly, at the end of the poem, she started wide awake again. The poem ends, you will remember, with something about "tum-tum-tum, and Jack mended his crown with vinegar and brown paper."

"Why, isn't that awful?" cried the child, gazing horror-stricken at the nurse. "Didn't he even have an X-ray taken?"

Ashburton Treaty

The Ashburton treaty was negotiated between Great Britain and the United States in 1842 settling the international boundary between Maine and Canada, Lord Ashburton acting for Great Britain and Daniel Webster for the United States. Of the territory in dispute the United States received about seven-twelfths and Canada five-twelfths. The same treaty provided for the boundary of the St. Mary's river near Sault Ste. Marie and to the Lake of the Woods; for the suppression of the slave trade and for the extradition of criminals.

The Proper Comeback

A prominent English woman who recently visited us expressed her bewilderment with regard to the correct reply to the customary American greeting, "Pleased to meet you." No doubt there is a fitting response, if one could only think of it. Of course one might follow the lead of the old duke of Beaufort. An American gripped the duke warmly by the hand and said, "Pleased to meet you."

Committee Gives Rules for Athletic Awards

Wayne State Teachers' college athletic committee, consisting of E. J. Huntmer, chairman, C. R. Chinn, Fred Dale and Coach Ray Hickman, have announced a new set of regulations governing eligibility for athletic letters.

To win a football "W," a man must be in scheduled games for eight quarters, and these quarters must be in one-half of the games, the team plays. The man must remain out for practice during the entire season. To win a letter in basketball, a man must be in the regularly scheduled games for one-fourth of the time. A man must score 12 points during the season or five points in a major meet to win a letter in track.

Norfolk Teams Unable to Get Here for Debate

Norfolk debaters, scheduled to tangle words with the Wayne high school debate team Tuesday afternoon, were forced to postpone their trip to Wayne because of impassable roads. The debate is tentatively scheduled for Tuesday, Jan. 19.

PUGH-DENNIS

Word was received Saturday by Mr. and Mrs. John T. Dennis of the marriage of their son, Gerald G. Dennis, and Miss Marjorie Pugh, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George E. Pugh of Stanton. The couple were married in Lincoln Saturday. Mr. and Mrs. Dennis will make their home in Tilden, where he is coach and instructor in the high school.

Originated Postal System

Hailed by many as the father of the modern postal system, the one hundredth anniversary of Heinrich von Stephan was modestly celebrated in Germany. He came from very humble origin and rose to be director of the Royal Prussian post. The work for which he is particularly remembered was engineering the world postal union, which became effective on July 1, 1875, after the Berne conference had sat only a week and a half before accepting his scheme without change. Germans perhaps treasure Von Stephan's memory particularly as the originator of the cheap-rate postcard. Indeed, his name is closely associated with all the postal innovations of his time.

Weight and Health

Recent insurance experience has shown that average weight tables are often misleading. The average weights are by no means the best weights. At ages under thirty, the best conditions apparently exist among those whose weights are from five to ten pounds above the average. After age thirty, the most favorable conditions are found among those whose weights are below the average. The amount below average increases with advancing age, and at the age of fifty, persons seem to be at their best when their weights are as much as 20 or 30 pounds below the average. Insurance experience shows that underweight is definitely an advantage so far as long life is concerned.

Indian Mission Director to Speak Next Thursday

Rev. Bruce Kinney, D. D., of Denver, Col., Director of Indian Missions for the American Baptist Home Mission Society, will speak at the First Baptist church in Wayne on Thursday, Jan. 21, at 7:45 p. m.

Dr. Kinney has general supervisory over the work done in six areas occupied by northern Baptists: the Crow mission in Montana, the Plute and Washoes in Nevada, the Mono, California, the Hopi and Navajo in Arizona, the western Oklahoma, and western New York tribes.

Northern Baptists have 32 missionaries, exclusive of teachers, working at 52 stations. The denomination has about 3,000 Indian church members. Dr. Kinney has had long experience in this field.

Max Big Man, advertising man for the Burlington railroad and Custer Battlefield highway, who has met many Nebraska people, is from the Crow agency mission in Montana and was formerly Sunday school superintendent there. When he took a position with the railroad company, he asked the privilege of attending church services on Sunday while in the railroad's employ. It is likely that he visited more than one Nebraska Baptist church in the course of his tours.

Dr. Kinney will relate many stories of such men as Max Big Man. The service will be open to the public.

State Has Over 7,000 Wards in Institutions

Over 7,000 persons are cared for in 17 state institutions of Nebraska and the average cost of caring for each person for two years was $620, according to state board of control records. One employee is required for each six inmates on the average, 1,024 being the number maintained. The school for feeble minded at Beatrice shows the lowest cost per patient, with one employee caring for 11 inmates. The average per capita cost each month is only $18. Highest expense per patient is at the orthopedic hospital in Lincoln, where there is one attendant for each two patients and the monthly expense a patient is $79.

The three state hospitals, at Hastings, Lincoln and Norfolk, take care of their inmates at a minimum expense, with the monthly cost per patient $18, $21 and $23, respectively. Stockville streets are being graveled.

REGISTERED RAM WILL PAY HIGH

Wool and Meat Produced Are Always Profitable.

If you have not as yet secured a flock ram, it is high time that you did so, says a writer in an exchange. Of course you would not use anything but a registered ram, and it is even more necessary in a time like this that you have a good ram. Good pure-bred rams are much more profitable than scrubs, and in the days of off color prices we need all the profit possible. This is a good time to weed out the scrubs and keep the good ones. A good sheep will not eat any more than a scrub, yet the wool and lamb produced are more valuable by far. Always build up the flock by using a ram that is superior to your ewes. Breed the best ewes to the best ram. If more than one is used, and instead of getting a long-legged ram for small ewes and a short-legged ram for the big ewes, get a thick, square ram of ideal breed type for all the ewes, because if a ram comes from a first-class breeder he will be prepotent enough to stamp his individuality on most all of his lambs from any kind of a ewe. And right now you should grasp the importance of getting a ram with something back of him via good ancestors. A lot of people don't stress that point strong enough. Because some one prices you a ram cheap, and he happens to be a pure bred, you think you are saving money by getting him $10 or $15 cheaper than a good one. Nothing is further from the truth. Don't forget that in sheep as in automobiles you get what you pay for. The really good rams cost more to breed and are worth more.

Cattle Require Shelter for Profitable Results

More shelter for fattening cattle against winter's cold is urged by W. H. Peters, chief of the division of animal husbandry of the University of Minnesota.

Many Minnesota farmers who fatten cattle on grain through the winter months feed stlage and grain in bunks and hay in racks out in the open in all kinds of weather. Sufficient shelter in many cases is provided only when the cattle are not feeding.

Mr. Peters believes that the lower gains than usual reported by many feeders the past winter are to be attributed to the practice of feeding outdoors, especially in times of severe cold that characterized January, February, and early March of the present year.

"A check-up on a few feeders leads to the conclusion," he says, "that those who fed under shelter obtained better gains than did those who fed out in the open. This is a matter that is well worth consideration on the part of the cattle feeder. It is highly probable that a little money spent in the summer for arranging sheds for indoor feeding in the future will pay a worthwhile profit."

Live Stock Facts

Every farmer should produce at least meat for his home use.

Use the purchased feeds and save the home-grown grains for later use.

Hogs need a lot of water and will show their appreciation through increased gains.

Home-grown feeds are usually the most economical and should furnish the basis of the ration.

Plenty of salt, wood ashes, tankage and alfalfa or clover hay, in addition to the regular corn feed, is a mighty good layout to insure a good crop of strong, healthy pigs.

The nut-like flavor developed in cooked soy beans not only appeals to the palate of particular porkers but increased nutritive value is reflected in faster growth and cheaper gains.

Human beings like to drink ice water, but live stock prefer warm water. Dairy cattle and poultry will maintain normal production if provided with water of the correct temperature.

Exercise is of great importance to both work horses and growing stock. A few hours in a paddock or small pasture with protection from bad weather, is worth many pounds of feed in the growth and care of horses.

Too high a percentage of corn or barley and too low a percentage of protein feeds are common errors in feeding.

Size and quality of the pig crop next fall will depend in large measure upon the care and feed given brood sows this winter.

A thing worth bearing in mind is the trend of market demand for the highly finished lightweight "baby beef" of the yearling class, weighing from 500 to 1,000 pounds finished.

Look at Your Coal Bin TODAY!

Don't wait until your coal pile gets down to the last few shovels full before you think of replenishing your supply. Call us today for enough to last out the winter. Better yet, follow the plan of many Wayne folks and let us keep your coal bin filled year in and year out. We guarantee quality coal at low prices.

GOOD COAL Makes A Difference

There are all kinds of coal, just like there are all grades of everything else. Some grades will give you a hot, clear-burning fire that means comfort---others will give you lots of furnace trouble and clinkers.. We sell only the best grades.

Better Breakfasts

IN making your plans for the winter it is just as important to lay in a goodly supply of sustaining breakfast menus as it is to see that the furnace or steam-heating apparatus is in order, or that there is plenty of coal and wood on hand. One type of fuel heats the house and the other the body—which would you say was the more important?

Just about November the family develops a man-sized winter appetite—everybody wants a good breakfast and needs one. It doesn't make any difference whether the order of the day is business, school or stay-at-home, when the sparkling November sunlight shines in on the breakfast table, when a fire in the house feels good and the home becomes a cozy refuge in a brilliant wintry world, then is the moment to be prepared with "better breakfasts." Here is one which answers that description:

*Grape Fruit Halves
Corned Beef Hash
with Poached Eggs
Toast Coffee Apple Butter*

Corned Beef Hash with Poached Eggs: Mix one twelve-ounce can corned beef, two cups finely chopped boiled potatoes and quarter cup milk; season to taste. Flatten out in a skillet, with a little hot fat, and brown well on one side, turn over and brown on the other. Slide out onto a hot platter and lay six hot poached eggs on top. Serves six.*

FARM STOCK

PRODUCTION OF AVERAGE SHEEP

Wise Culling and Attention Bring Returns to Owner.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

How culling and wise attention to breeding of farm animals may be expected to produce returns for farmers is reflected in statistics gathered by the bureau of animal industry and published in the current Yearbook of the United States Department of Agriculture.

"In 1840," says R. W. Sheets, in charge of animal husbandry investigations, "the average weight of fleeces sheared from American sheep was less than two pounds. By 1900 it had increased to nearly five and one-half pounds. Today it is approaching eight pounds. In other words, an average sheep today grows wool enough each year to make approximately one suit of clothes. In 1840 it took the wool of four sheep to make a suit of equal weight and quality."

Better breeding and more rigid culling of breeding flocks promise to raise this average still further. Wool production is similar to such qualities as heavy milk production in dairy cattle and heavy egg production of hens. The offspring of heavy producers are likely to be heavy producers and to transmit to their offspring the capacity for heavy production.

In the case of sheep, Mr. Sheets says: "There is still room for improvement. By 'weeding out' the poor producers and breeding from the heavily fleeced sheep, flock owners can raise the average."

Self-Feeders Produce

Most Profitable Pork

The importance of self-feeders in producing profitable pork is rapidly increasing. The successful use of a self-feeder in making pork is well proven and every hog farm is now using them for feeding the growing shoats. This popularity of the self-feeder for producing pork has, as many other good things, its drawbacks. One of these is the ease with which rain and snow seeps in and dampens or wets the feed. Were it not for the delicate digestive system of the pig, this condition would pass unnoticed. However, the stomach of the growing pig is like that of a small child and eating wet or damp feed which has started to mold has about the same effect on it as green apples have on the child. The care and guidance of the mother removes the apples from the youngster, and it soon recovers. As in the case of the child, the thinking must be done by the man caring for the animals.

Minerals Necessary

for Growing Animals

Producing animals, pregnant animals, and growing animals need large amounts of minerals, says J. C. Nisbet of the Kansas extension service. A cow puts 14 pounds of mineral in every ton of milk, 53 pounds in a normal production year. A large amount of minerals is needed for repair within the body. A growing calf needs 40 to 60 grams of mineral matter per day. Alfalfa hay contains the two minerals needed the most in animal nutrition, calcium lime and phosphorus. These minerals are available and in such abundance in alfalfa hay that there can be no deficiency when fed at the rate of one pound of hay for every 100 pounds live weight in a properly balanced ration. One pound of alfalfa hay contains more calcium than 100 pounds of corn. One ton of alfalfa contains 163 pounds of minerals.

Produce Ton Litters

Without Feeding Corn

You can produce ton litters without corn. County Agent Svoboda, of Eddy county, North Dakota, tells of ten pigs, owned by Smith brothers and weighing 2,336 pounds at the age of six months. They were sired by a pure-bred Duroc boar and farrowed by a Chester White sow. After weaning, the pigs were on alfalfa pasture and were self-fed on ground barley at all times.

During the first four months these pigs were given a slop made of red dog and middlings, mixed with skim milk and water. The last two months the slop was made of ground hull-less oats. The owners believe the weight would have been increased had corn been available, but the experience shows that you can produce good pigs without corn.

Good Rams Needed

Those who have ewe flocks already established should by all means get good rams with which to mate them. Only by so doing can a product of good quality be secured. In some sheep raising countries the practice is to buy rams for the production of commercial lambs at a cost equal to from five to ten times the value of the average ewe. When good rams are secured this is not an exorbitant price and might serve as a fair guide as to how much to pay.

Game of Polo Brought

Eastward From Persia

Polo, the oldest of games played with stick and ball, was known to the ancient Persians 2,400 years ago. From the dusty plains of Persia the game spread eastward through the Vale of Cashmere on to the tableland of Tibet, where it was christened polo from the Tibetan word, "ball." Southeastward through Afghanistan, across the high passes of the Himalayas down to the sunny plains of India, it journeyed, where, throughout the Sixteenth century it was the favorite sport of the people.

For 200 years after this, its records in India cease, but it again became popular there about the middle of the Nineteenth century. Polo was first played in England in 1830 and a few years later it was adopted by other European countries, when many of its ancient rules were altered and improved. Thus established in an English-speaking country, the game quickly crossed the Atlantic, where under clearer skies it swiftly traversed the American continent in a westward chase that did not end with the shores of the land of the sunset, but, skipping the Pacific, established itself in Samoa and other far off western islands.

Poisoned Food Vainly

Set Out to Kill Rats

Recently a well-known school teacher in a Lewis (Hebrides) public school told the following rat story: "Last spring a family of rats invaded his barn. To get rid of the undesirable visitors, he got a supply of a rat poison and spread it one night on the floor of the outhouse, thereafter locking the door to prevent any of his domestic animals entering and eating the food. Next morning, he found, to his amazement, the untouched food, covered over with a layer of chaff which was lying in a heap near at hand. He asked his wife if she had been to the barn, but was answered in the negative. However, on the following night he first removed the heap of chaff and put down the poisoned food as before. On the following morning he was further mystified to find the food still untouched, but on this occasion it was covered with a piece of old sacking which was lying in a corner of the premises. Next night the rats took their departure."

Grows Leaves at Will

After "sleep" of from 15 to 20 minutes a plant recently developed in Germany produces new leaves. So sensitive is it that if the leaves are touched, or a match burned near them, they immediately wither and fall off. In about a quarter of an hour after the withered leaves have dropped off new ones grow out. The plant is a member of the mimosa family. It grows in great quantities in India, where it is gathered and sold for commercial purposes. The bruised leaves are said to have a high medicinal value in healing burns. The roots of the plant are charred for gunpowder charcoal.

Tracing Words' Origin

The words check, checkmate, chess, cheque and chequer come to us through the Arabian from the Persian. The words avast, bow, boom, cruise, cruiser, gybe and keelhaul are reminders of England's maritime relations with the Dutch. The word finance goes right back to the Latin "finis" (end). When it first appeared in English it had the sense of a "fine" or forfeit, but its modern significance was developed in Eighteenth-century France among the taxfarmers or "financiers," as they were called, to whom the king delegated the duty of collecting his taxes.—Exchange.

Back to Remote Times

Some of our older and most English words contain buried vestiges of the lives once lived in the forests; as weary, which is traced back to an old verb meaning "to tramp over wet ground," and learn, which goes back to a root which meant "to follow a track." The words cotton, gazelle, giraffe, masquerade, sirup and tamborine come from the Arabic via Spanish and French, relics of Islam's settlements in eastern Europe. Test is an alchemist's word coming from the Latin "testa," an earthen pot in which the alchemist made his alloys.—Kansas City Times.

Pretty Lame Excuse

It looked as though the game warden had caught a hunter red-handed who produced his last year's license and admitted he had not obtained a new one.

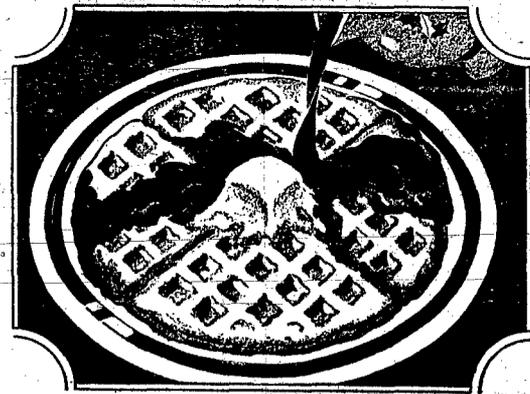

"But what's the idea of hunting with last year's license?" asked the warden.

"Well, you see," stammered the hunter, thinking fast, "I was—er—I was just shooting at the birds I missed last year, you know."—Cap-per's Weekly.

Sheriff Gets Orders

Some strange communications come daily to the desk of a sheriff. The following one arrived recently from a woman in a small Washington city: "Will you please go out and see how everything is in the house and how is the yard and fruit trees? Try all windows in basement, also, and let me hear about the place. I left a box in the pantry with dishes in and furniture in other rooms and left a list of all."—Portland Oregonian.

Plentiful Pineapple

AMERICA is one of the few and very fortunate countries in which pineapple is both cheap and extremely plentiful. The history of the pineapple associates it always with the tables of the great and wealthy. Only in America has it become an article of daily diet—a delicious delicacy within reach of even the most modest purse.

For Every Meal

There are many pleasant ways to use it at every meal, and between meals for beverages, candies and incidental snacks. Here is a recipe for pineapple waffles which has been tried and found exceptionally good. You know that the best pineapple comes from our Territory of Hawaii.

Pineapple Waffles: Beat three egg yolks well, and add one and one-fourth cups milk. Sift together two cups flour, four teaspoons baking powder and one-half teaspoon salt, and add to above. Next add six tablespoons melted butter and two-thirds cup drained crushed pineapple. Fold in three stiffly beaten egg whites. Bake on hot waffle iron at table. The electric iron should be preheated ten minutes before making the first waffle. Serve with pineapple sauce and pass cubes of plain American cheese.

Pineapple Sauce: Simmer one cup crushed pineapple, one cup sugar, and three-fourths cup water until syrupy. Add three drops oil of peppermint. Cool to lukewarm and serve on waffles.*

Remedy for Divorce

According to an American medical man "a pint of milk per day and two oranges, eaten by a couple threatened by divorce, will straighten matters out." We already know that "an apple a day keeps the doctor away," and grapefruit is supposed to be useful in fighting flu. But the idea of curing matrimonial troubles by milk and oranges is new. Green grocers are already inviting customers to "Eat oranges and be happy at home." One of them has gone even further. He is displaying notices: "Eat our peaches if you want Him to propose"; "Plums for breakfast mean a good day's work"; "Our broccoli will bring you business success"; "A cauliflower a day means a magnetic personality."—Montreal Family Herald.

Color's Great Influence

Man has apparently become careless about one of the most important items in his environment—color. As soon as he realizes fully the inhibitive and repressive influence of drab, uninteresting color surroundings, the vistas about him will be immediately transformed. Man has always conquered or changed conditions unfavorable to his best development. There is no reason to believe that he will not rise to the present situation and reinstate into his daily life the color which is so important to his well-being.

Bottle Gas

Bottled gas is refined and compressed from the vapor that rises from oil wells that are in production and even from wells that have been pumped dry. It is "bottled" under the form of a low-pressure liquid which on being released resumes its gaseous form and burns in a gas jet. This casing head gas, as it is known among oil men, is a rich natural gas. It is compressed, refined and the liquid stored in steel bottles or drums which are strong enough to withstand the low pressure of the semiliquid gas.

California's Inland Sea

The Salton sea is a lake in the Colorado desert, in southeastern California. Under ordinary conditions it is a salt marsh covered in places by shallow lakes about 30 miles long, 12 miles wide and 230 feet below sea level. At times of freshets, the lakes expand into a water body covering approximately 50,000 acres. Water from the irrigating ditches of the Imperial valley keeps the level of the lake fairly constant and unless this is diverted it will continue to maintain its previous area despite heavy losses from evaporation. Terraces slightly above sea level on the sides of the basin indicate that there was formerly present a lake called "Lake Cahulla," which was 12 miles long and 30 miles wide.

Horseshoe Superstitions

There are varying views on the origin of the superstition concerning the horseshoe. Some think it is lucky because it has seven nail holes in it. Another idea is that the horseshoe is lucky because witches are afraid of it. So if a horseshoe is placed outside your door, no witch will dare to enter. It is possible that one object of hanging up horseshoes in the old days was a desire to appear wealthy in the eyes of passers-by, for only a comparatively rich man possessed a horse, shod with iron. By the way, the luckiest horseshoe is supposed to be the first one shed by a mare, and you must hang this with the opening at the top in order that the luck may not drop out!

Rather Die Than Get Dirty

One of the best war stories has to do with an English training camp. A live shell fell into the mud in the middle of a class of young gunners. "Lie down, gentlemen!" roared the instructor. But no one moved. In due course the shell was rendered harmless, luckily without anyone being injured. Then the instructor inquired why they had not obeyed his order. "You might have been blown to pieces." "Well, sir," faltered one of the gunners, "it was so muddy."

The Perfect Cup of COFFEE

If you are just an ordinary human being, you love your coffee—probably it is your greatest culinary treasure. Just plain coffee, carefully prepared, is so good sometimes we don't bother about getting the best out of this fragrant beverage.

Fine coffee perfectly prepared is the nearest thing to nectar we poor earth-bound mortals know of—but—and it is a BIG BUT—fine coffee means not only the best bean and blending; it means careful, scientific handling and as little exposition to the air as is possible.

"Umm—That's Good Coffee!" For coffee is volatile—aroma has not been used in a mason jar with a rubber ring to keep out the air until coffee is used up.

car or bus and said to himself "Umm—that smells like good coffee—wish I had a cup—right now!"

Unhappily, for every delicious sniff you get, in that way, the coffee, when made, will be just that much less delicious. There seems to be just so much good in a particular package of ground coffee, and when it comes out in aroma, it doesn't come out in taste.

That is why vacuum packed coffee which comes in airtight cans makes the very best coffee. The pound size is probably the most convenient, and when it has been opened, put the coffee which has not been used in a mason jar with a rubber ring to keep out the air until coffee is used up.

A $2 Dinner for Six

If they aren't hungry, this menu will make them think they are, and if they are hungry—Oh, joy!

*Baked Ham, Pineapple and Sweet Potatoes $1.13
Creamed Onions 20¢
Baking Powder Biscuits 11¢
Corn and Pepper Salad 31¢
Meringued Pears 19¢
Demi-Tasse 5¢*

Baked Ham, Pineapple and Sweet Potatoes: Lay one and one-half pounds sliced ham in large flat baking pan, broil one side until done. Turn over. Lay two pounds sliced boiled sweet potatoes around slice of ham, dot with two tablespoons butter. Mix together eight-ounce can crushed Hawaiian pineapple, one-half cup brown sugar, and one-quarter teaspoon ground cloves, and pour over ham. Return to broiler and cook until potatoes are brown, and ham and pineapple are done.

Corn and Pepper Salad: Drain a No. 2 can whole drained corn, add one-half diced green pepper and one pimiento. Season with salt and pepper, and marinate in quarter cup French dressing in refrigerator until very cold. Serve on six lettuce leaves.

Meringued Pears: Drain six halves canned pears (about two-thirds of a No. 2 can) and lay in baking dish about two inches apart. Fill cavities with two tablespoons of brown sugar and two tablespoons butter. Beat three egg-whites stiff, add slowly half a cup confectioner's sugar, and continue beating. Add one teaspoon almond extract, and cover pears completely with meringue. Bake in slow, 300°, oven fifteen minutes until a delicate brown. Serve hot or cold.*

SOCIETY and Club

Brrrr! Cold weather, lots of snow and ice. Mother doesn't like it because she keeps her busy making everybody sure to take off their goshes, and objects to the monstrous fuel bill—but the youngsters, do they have any objections? Well, I should guess not from the fun they've seemed to be having skating and sliding in the past week. Hardly an evening goes by but one hears the merry gle of sleigh bells and the gay laughing voices of carefree youth. What a happy thought—why not have more bob-sled parties this week before the snow and other features of the winter decide to leave. We haven't any scheduled for next week but there's no telling what MIGHT turn up.
