H. E. Siman Talks on Life of Washington

Attorney Tells Kiwanians First President Was All-Around Boy.

"George Washington" was the subject of a stirring address given by Attorney Harry E. Siman at the meeting of the Wayne Kiwanis club Monday noon.

Mr. Siman told his listeners that Washington has been held before all Americans for more than 100 years as the acme of all that is splendid and fine. Abraham Lincoln, he said, is the only American in the history of our nation that has ever been accorded nearly as much respect and love.

In our homes, Mr. Siman said, we find pictures of George Washington, framed copies of Washington documents, Revolutionary War scenes—all evidences of admiration.

Washington monument, higher than the Sphinx, is the loftiest memorial ever constructed by the hand of man to the memory of a man.

A half mile to the west of Washington monument, he told his audience, the Lincoln memorial, another beautiful masterpiece of craftsmanship, is located. The two are separated by an artificial lagoon, which, he said, catches the reflections of both shafts and tries to merge the two shadows.

Mr. Siman continued, "Rupert Hughes says that the average American (Continued on Page Four)

Phil Kohl Out for Rail Commission

Phil Kohl, outstanding political standard-bearer for Wayne in years gone by, has thrown his hat into the political arena again, by filing at the Wayne county court house for railway commissioner. Mr. Kohl has been absent from Wayne for some time, but has maintained his residence here and says that Wayne will always be to him "the home town."

His efficiency in politics has never been questioned, and members of the democratic party in northeastern Nebraska feel that they would have to go a long way and do a lot of hunting to find a more able contender for political honors.

While a member of the state senate, Mr. Kohl conceived and established much legislation that has been highly beneficial to taxpayers of this territory.

He and Grant S. Mears, republican, are generally conceded by Wayne people to have been this community's greatest champions in the Lincoln political arena.

Rites For Mrs. F. L. Phillips Held Tuesday

Wayne Woman Passes Away Saturday, Feb. 20.

Funeral services for Mrs. Frank L. Phillips of Wayne, who passed away at her home on Saturday, Feb. 20, were held Tuesday, Feb. 23, at 2:00 p. m. from the Beckenhauer chapel, with Rev. H. C. Caspey of the First Methodist church in charge. Interment was in Greenwood cemetery.

Mrs. Phillips was 61 years and 13 days old at the time of her death. Delta Florence Potter, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Potter, was born at Lawa Ridge, Peoria county, Ill., on Feb. 2, 1871. She was one of a family of six children, two sisters preceding her in death.

In 1882, she moved to Carson, Iowa, where she lived until 1893, when she was united in marriage to Frank L. Phillips of Oakland, Iowa. In the spring of 1896, she moved with her husband to Lyons, Neb., and then to Laurel in 1905. Mr. and Mrs. Phillips lived in Laurel until four years ago, when they moved to Wayne.

Eight children were born to the couple, two dying in infancy and three daughters and three sons remaining.

She leaves to mourn her passing a loving husband; three daughters, Mrs. Wm. Mitchell of Carroll, Mrs. Earle Schriener of Red Cloud and Mrs. Leon McClure of Lincoln; three sons, Leslie of Beldon, Edgar of Fullerton and Irving of Wayne; a stepson, Elmer, of Carroll; sixteen grandchildren; three brothers and a host of friends.

She was a faithful Christian, joining the Presbyterian church at the age of 12, and uniting with the Methodist church at the time of her marriage. She remained in this faith until the time of her death.

Sympathy of the community goes out to the bereaved family and friends.

"Belle of Bagdad" to Be Given March 10

"The Belle of Bagdad," comic opera to be presented by the College high school on Thursday, March 10, will feature Oriental and American dancers, characteristic music with catchy melody, colorful costuming and clever plot.

Henrietta and Ali furnish comedy, while Hassen adds dignity to every occasion. Mrs. McCann, the American consul, finds plenty to do in order to save Lord Archer's head. The "Super Supreme Film Company" of Hollywood adds interest and excitement, with its airplane crew searching for the "Loveliest Lady of the Screen" and the unknown Belle of Bagdad.

Intense Rivalry Features Democrat Travel Contest

"Anybody's race" is the verdict in the first week and a half of The Democrat's popularity Contest, with vote totals revealing slight differences between the various contestants, most of whom have been working hard to stay in the race.

Contest entries are all out to win a free vacation trip. They feel that the prize award is well worth working for, and they are exerting every effort to go ahead of their competitors.

Publication of incomplete vote totals today reveals that a total number of 238,600 votes have been cast in the short time since the contest started. The contest management is highly gratified at this early evidence of competition, in view of the fact that early weeks of similar contests in many cities have brought out less votes.

As an added incentive to the intense rivalry which has already developed, The Democrat is authorizing all contestants to sell subscriptions to The Nebraska Democrat. Each new one-year subscription will give the contestant making the sale 1,000 votes, and each renewal will entitle the saleswoman to 500 votes.

Only twenty-two new subscriptions to The Democrat would put the lowest entry in the contest ahead of the highest present standing.

Twenty-five local firms are giving votes with retail cash sales and payment of accounts. The contest runs until Monday, March 28, and the contestant having the greatest number of votes at that time will be given her pick of three expense-paid vacation trips: Wayne to New York to Bermuda and back; Wayne to New Orleans to Havana, Cuba, and back; and Wayne to Seattle and back. Transportation, side trips, hotel bills, meals, entertainment—all actual expenses—will be paid.

Names of vote-giving firms appear elsewhere on this page. Customers must ask for vote tickets at the time of making their purchases or paying their bills, as no tickets will be given unless requested.

Rubecks Observe Fortieth Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. C. G. Rubeck of Wayne observed their fortieth wedding anniversary on Friday, Feb. 19. Several members of the Rubeck family were sick, so no formal observance of the event was held.

C. G. Rubeck married Viola Morgan on Feb. 19, 1892. The ceremony was performed in the cabin of an old cow ranch in western Nebraska. The cabin had a stone floor, and light was furnished by the glow of burning pine logs in a huge fireplace.

Mr. and Mrs. Rubeck moved to Wayne 39 years ago, and have lived in Wayne county ever since.

WILDCATS DELUGE CHADRON CAGERS

Wayne Basketball Team Goes on Scoring Rampage.

Wayne's Wildcat basketballers entrenched themselves more firmly in second place in the N. I. A. A. conference hoop standings by giving the Chadron Eagles a 61 to 30 drubbing at the local college gym Tuesday night, before one of the largest crowds of the season.

The spectators saw a contest in the first half, with Wayne out ahead all the way but never leading by any great margin. In the second half the Wildcats came back strong, and "hot" scoring streaks by Alexander and Smith contributed largely to Wayne's act of turning basketball drama into farce.

Chadron seemed to be completely bewildered by Wayne's fast floor play and tricky scoring set-ups. When Coach Ray Hickman late in the first period shot his reserves into the game, spectators sighed and thought the scoring deluge was over, but Grubb and Paul led an assault which continued to sink shots with almost monotonous regularity.

Lindwood played his usual fine game. Alexander led the scoring with 16 points and Smith came in a close second with 13.

Johnson of Fremont officiated.

Sheriff Picks Up Wisconsin Forger

Sheriff A. W. Stephens "got his man" Friday, when he picked up a floater who gave the name of Arnold Eck.

"It seems to me I've seen your face some place before—or was it your picture?" the sheriff mused. He took Eck to the county bastille and began looking through his picture album.

Eck's picture was in his file of notorious people, and information stated that his presence would be appreciated in Lancaster, Wis., so that he might answer to a forgery charge.

Sheriff Stevens wired the sheriff of Lancaster county, Wis., who arrived in Wayne Monday and identified Eck as a fugitive from justice. The forger waived extradition.

"No reward for his capture," lamented Sheriff Stephens. "That's just my luck." Eck used no uncertain phrases to make known the fact that the sheriff's luck was considerably better than his.

J. G. W. Lewis Pays Tribute to Washington

Says Past Heroes Offer Inspiration to Strive as They Did.

Dr. J. G. W. Lewis of Wayne State Teachers' college was the principal speaker at a George Washington program held at the First Baptist church Sunday evening.

Dr. Lewis pointed out that it is possible to view the character of Washington with two quite dissimilar objects in view, one being that of worship and the other that of imitation.

"Those who worship Washington believe, in general," he said, "that the great things accomplished by the Revolutionary Fathers were accomplished once for all, and that is the duty of Americans now to preserve these great benefits and enjoy them with heartfelt gratitude and pass them on to future generations unchanged. The other group of thinkers believes that our national life involves a keen, never-ending struggle, and that the chief values to be derived from the contemplation of heroes of the past are the inspiration to strive as they did, and the will to imitate them in courageous, unselfish public service."

"Washington certainly belonged to this latter group," asserted the speaker, "and exemplified as his dominant characteristic a willingness to break with the past and put out courageously if need be on unknown seas. From his boyhood to his death he exemplified this fearlessness to plunge into the unknown."

The speaker pointed out the supreme courage required to assume the danger of the hangman's noose. (Continued on Page Three)

The Inquiring Reporter

THIS WEEK'S QUESTION
Who do you think is the logical contender for Max Schmeling's heavyweight boxing crown?

John Gustoff: "Kingfish Levinsky. His recent defeat of Jack Dempsey and his showing in other bouts should mark him as being of championship caliber. He's a crowd pleaser, and should draw plenty of paid admissions."

E. R. Lovv: "I don't know, but I'd say that Sharkey should have a chance to fight him. Sharkey was ahead of Schmeling on points when he fouled him in their former bout, and many sports fans still think he is a better fighter than the German."

Don Larson: "Jack Sharkey, if he can control his temper and can keep from fouling Schmeling. In my opinion, Schmeling can't really claim the title until he defeats Sharkey."

Lloyd Fitch: "I would pick Jack Sharkey as the logical contender for the heavyweight championship ship."

O. P. Birdsell: "It looks like Jack Sharkey is the only fighter who would even have a remote chance of taking the title away from Schmeling."

WITH THE WAYNE CHURCHES

Presbyterian Church Notes

P. A. Davies, Pastor

There is no question of greater importance and interest to our people and the people of the world than the question of peace. Tens of thousands of men and women the world over are organized to put an end to war. In the forefront of this movement moves the church of Christ. Next Sunday evening we are to spend a most interesting hour in the study of one of the great books of the day, "The Turn Towards Peace," by Mrs. Florence Brewer Bockel.

We shall eat together at 6:15 and have a pleasant time of fellowship. Classes will start at 7 p. m. and all over at 8 o'clock. We are asking those who come to the supper to bring their own suppers and dishes so that there will be little work at the church. The Sunday evening meal should be a simple, not an elaborate spread. Coffee will be served at the church.

If you can not be with us at the time of supper hour be sure to attend the study hour at 7 p. m. There will be a class for the little children and perhaps one for the intermediates and juniors. Dr. J. G. W. Lewis will have charge of the first lesson. Reviewing the first chapters of the book before the adult department.

The pastor was in Omaha Monday, called there for a committee meeting to organize the Young Peoples Conference for the coming year. The conference is to be held this year the last of June and first of July, being over the 3rd of the month.

Remember all services next Sunday. Sunday school 10 a. m. Morning worship 11 a. m. Fellowship supper 6:15 p. m. Study hour 7 p. m. If we have our C. B. service it will probably meet at 5:30 p. m. Announcements will be made Sunday.

It was a privilege last Sunday to join with the other churches of our city in the special Washington services, some of our people attending the Methodist and others the Baptist church at the evening hour.

Methodist Episcopal Church

Harold C. Capsey, Minister

The Washington Memorial service last Sunday evening was well attended and greatly enjoyed. The local Masonic lodge attended in a body and the speakers were all members of the order. We were glad to co-operate in this nationwide service sponsored by the great fraternal organization of which George Washington was an honored and active member, and one of its early leaders in this country.

Next Sunday the church school under the leadership of Prof. Costerton meets at 10 a. m. At the public worship hour at 11 o'clock the pastor will preach on the theme, "Telescope or Stethoscope?" and in the evening at 7:30 the sermon will be "Personality and Peace." The Epworth League will have a social hour at 5:30 before the usual devotional meeting. All young people are invited.

Next week on Monday the official board will meet at the pastor's home at 7:30. All members of the board should be present.

The Woman's Home Missionary Society will meet Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. D. C. Main with Mrs. L. Roe and Mrs. O. R. Bowen assisting hostesses. Mrs. L. A. Fanske will lead the lesson. At this meeting the annual Lenten offering will be taken.

Mr. Byron Brown of Sioux City spent several days this week completely going over and tuning our Estey organ which has been in the church now for two years. This is one of the finest instruments in this part of Nebraska and you will enjoy the music of the great composers as played on it week by week by Mrs. J. T. Bressler Jr.

First Baptist Church

Wm. E. Braisted, Minister

10 a. m. The church school for Bible study. Classes for all. Welcome to all. Adult lesson, "The Christian Assurance of Immortality." Young people's class.

6:30 p. m. Young people's fellowship-discussion meeting. "Missionaries' Contribution to Civilization." Is there any worthwhile? What?

7:30 p. m. Evening worship, inspiring congregational music. Vital, helpful message. Subject, "Songs in the Night."

The fine attendance at services, considering roads and walks, at times, is encouraging. A fine attendance heard Dr. Lewis last Sunday night.

8 p. m., Wednesday. Choir practice, with Prof. Hanscom, director. 7:30 Thursday. Bible study hour, and prayer. Lesson in Luke, ninth chapter.

The next communion service will be March 6th.

In word received Monday of the death of Mrs. A. C. Downing, wife of the former pastor of this church, the love and sympathy of many friends is extended this sorrowing family. Yet, "Underneath are the everlasting arms and the Eternal God thy refuge."

J. G. W. LEWIS PAYS

TRIBUTE TO WASHINGTON

when Washington rebelled against the most powerful as well as the most enlightened "mother of colonies" in that day—Great Britain, in face of the apathy and opposition of many of his fellow citizens. "This," Dr. Lewis pointed out, "was no less than treason and many of us today would be found arrayed on the side of the Tories had we lived at that time. Our conservative type of mind proves this."

"Washington's great courage and willingness to try a needed experiment was shown again in his participation in the almost wholly illegal overthrow of the old Articles of Confederation, and the adoption of the present constitution, which, judged by the standards of that time, was an unprecedented experiment in government and was so recognized by Washington himself."

"In his administration as president nothing could have been more courageous and unprecedented than his staking his whole reputation on securing the ratification of the Jay treaty with Great Britain, a treaty, which in the words of historians was 'probably the most humiliating treaty in the entire history of the country,' which provided nevertheless for the first example of arbitration and peaceful settlement between nations in modern times. This treaty even entrusted to arbitrators the ownership of a considerable territory occupied and claimed by Americans."

From the foregoing facts and from the fact that Washington exerted himself tremendously to bring together into a union thirteen discordant, jealous, sovereign states, Mr. Lewis was of the opinion that the name of Washington is now wrongfully used to argue against all plans of international co-operation. "On the contrary," he said, "because of his strong practical wisdom, his marked spirit of international fairness, Washington, had he lived in this day when American isolation no longer exists, would most likely be a supporter of such institutions as the World Court and some sort of association of nations."

"Washington's Farewell Address properly read, furnishes no contradiction to the foregoing reasoning. The Farewell Address condemned alliances which are small groups or cliques of nations set over against other like groupings. A union of partnership of all nations would be far different in purpose and performance. Then, too, Washington plainly states in his Address that his controlling idea was to maintain the isolation and detachment of America until she should be strong enough to perform her whole part as a nation."

"In last analysis, the American people are confronted today with just as terrifying problems as were the people of Washington's time. America must not be like the 'rich fool' who said 'Soul, take thine ease! If we do take this attitude, we are truly living in a fool's paradise."

Political Whisper

The voice of politics is starting to whisper soft, sweet words into the ears of Nebraska's voting public. The year of our Lord, 1932, is a presidential election year, and politics are naturally running a little stronger than at any time during the past four years.

What will William Ritchie, Jr., and Dwight Griswold do in the fight for governor's office? That question seems to be one of the most intriguing to local followers of politics. William Ritchie has been building up a wonderful organization throughout the state, but will that organization be strong enough to cope with Governor Charlie Bryan?

A little bird has whispered to this writer that Mister Ritchie, in an effort to change his name to Governor Ritchie, will speak in Wayne on the evening of April Fourth.

Dwight Griswold, the only Republican candidate for governor who has as yet made any play for the job, is getting the support of a number of Republican newspapers. He is said to have considerable support from the American Legion, of which organization he is past state commander.

Griswold does not make an impressive appearance, and many of those who have heard him speak are of the opinion that, when he delivers an address, he says little.

But he has friends, plenty of them—and friends are usually acquired by reason of some merit.

Ritchie, a much more prepossessing person, is a fine speaker. He is said to be a tireless worker, and his efficiency is attested to by many.

Gov'nor Charle is saying little and, apparently, doing less—but you can make up your mind that Nebraska's great showman-politician isn't letting anybody slip any fast ones over on him. He's just about as fancy a politician as you'll find in the state, and he knows how to get votes. His present inactivity is probably one of the strong points of his campaign.

Phil Kohl, one of the greatest politicians ever to go forth from Wayne county, is said to be planning a comeback. It is generally conceded that Mr. Kohl accomplished as much for Wayne in state politics as any person who ever made the attempt.

Kohl's re-entry into the political arena will not be in the role of state senator, however. "This rumored that recent very nasty charges filed at Lincoln against the eminent Mister Marsh may make Phil Kohl's race a bit easier."

So far, no one has voiced any opposition to Frank Klopffing for state representative, but chances are that he will have a contest over the job. Rumor has it that friends of Walter Gaebler of Winslow are trying to get him to enter the lists for the primaries. Another whisperer says that many friends of Henry Frevert would like to see him enter the campaign. Friends of Attorney Don Miller are trying to induce him to file for the Republican nomination, which he would probably get without opposition.

For state senator, we have Watson Pardy enrolled under the democratic banner and the veteran J. C. McGowan in the republican corner. A considerably large Norfolk delegation is said to be making an effort to get James E. Brittain of Wayne to file for the democratic nomination.

HARMLESS PURSUITS

I don't know what you think about Heywood Brown, but that writer does make some highly pertinent observations which are usually loaded with high explosive.

It doesn't seem possible that the majority of American citizens are in favor of United States participation in foreign arguments.

"I have been opposed to censorship for many years, but now am going to recant a little. It would be an excellent thing for the world if every nation had a provision forbidding all members of the army or navy from making speeches.

"Soldiers and sailors make poor speeches and back breaks. When an audience seems to be slipping away every after-dinner orator is tempted to throw in something to check the march for the exits.

"But public speaking seems to have been neglected at both Annapolis and West Point. At any rate, the lads at both institutions are turned out in a world of banquets wholly unprepared with any flock of funny stories.

"For the sake of national defense all generals and admirals ought to be interned as soon as war clouds loom and be restrained until the danger has been averted.

"Of course, I'm not contending that these men in uniform are particularly villainous. They are reasonable human beings, or, to be more precise, I mean they are about like the rest of us.

"And there are only two things an admiral can do. He can fight sham battles or real ones. And naturally he prefers real ones.

"And to indicate that these reflections are not inspired by any stung or sanctimonious attitude I must admit that newspaper reporters do much the same. As a reporter on space I could not withstand the wish that the fires to which I was sent would turn out to be big ones.

"It is only when a normal instinct has been recognized that it can be handled. The duty of a peaceful citizenry is to think up harmless pursuits for admirals lest they stand about the market place in netting conflict.

"By all means let us keep our generals and our admirals as happy as we can. Let there be parties, charades and spelling games.

lean knows only four things about George Washington: the cherry tree incident, the fact that he was only heard to swear upon one occasion, the story that he prayed so loudly once that it disturbed the neighbors, and the legend that he was austere and autocratic.

"I never did believe the cherry tree story," Mr. Siman averred. "There was nothing heroic about it—and the average American boy with average common sense would have done the same thing Washington did.

Mr. Siman said, in regard to Washington's alleged lack of profanity, that he was confronted with enough contingencies to cause him to swear plenty and be excused for it.

Washington, he said, was not austere and was more than ordinarily emotional. "He was a normal American boy who loved sports, horses, hunting and dancing.

Mr. Siman said that John Washington, great grandfather of George, came to Virginia in 1657. Two hundred years ago, to Augustine and Mary Washington, George was born.

Augustine Washington, Mr. Siman declared, was a man of culture and education. George Washington, he revealed, did not receive the education of his father or half-brothers, but did get to major in the study of mathematics.

"No star of destiny," he continued, "hung over his cradle. But nature had given him a splendid body. His sense of justice and right was so keen that he was often called upon in his boyhood to act as referee in the disputes of other boys."

When Washington was 16 years old, he was offered a commission in the British navy and would have taken it, but his mother vetoed the idea and his mother's wishes were sacred to him.

When he was 21, Governor Dinwiddie of Virginia made him adjutant-general of Virginia troops. He traveled more than 300 miles on foot through difficult territory to deliver a governor's message, but showed lack of experience, and resigned to go with Braddock's forces, where, in the route of Braddock, he managed to save many men and showed fine knowledge of military strategy.

At 27, his health broken from strenuous campaigning, he returned to Mt. Vernon. Mr. Siman said, where he married Martha Curtis. He stayed there for 20 years, but was elected commander-in-chief of the revolutionary forces when England became obnoxious with the colonists.

Mr. Siman divided Washington's public life into three periods: his activity as commander-in-chief of the army, when he took a conglomerate array of men and whipped them into line to such efficiency that they could cope successfully with the British forces; his activity at the close of the war, when he assumed the role of peerless sage and in 1787 got the continental congress together; and his activity as chief executive of the United States.

SCOTT SHOTS

by "SCOTTY"

An operative of this here now department who signs himself I. K. Smith (so that's probably the wrong name) writes, "Dear Scotty: This is a short, short story that is very true, for I saw it with my own eyes and heard it with my own ears.

"Two bright members of the younger set of the large metropolis of Dixon found themselves confused by Wayne's heavy traffic and large crowds; perhaps they were a bit dazed by the grandeur of the local architecture.

They looked at each other and then the bolder of the two asked if she could show 'em how to enter the Boyd hotel. Shiver my topsails! Dog my cats! and other expressions of acute astonishment. Were they referring to department? Not at all, for the Girl Scout pointed out three very prominent doorways."

"Thank you werry much," I. K. Smith. "You've no idea how a few nitfth contributions lighten the work."

The Girl Scout that this contriv refers to was notatal like the plesman who pulled this gag at a local dance one night. "Have you ever seen the Wayne hospital?" the copper asked a "terpsichorer" who had imbibed enough to be belligerent.

"Oh, papa, look at the funny mans using those drate big words." "None," the t. w. h. i. e. t. b. b. replied. "Do you know where it is sitchwated?" the minion of law asked. "None," the indiffernt guzler replied. "That's too bad," the tough ossifer mused, "because you're going to be looking for it in a few minutes."

My, my, my! Such langwidge as the two Wayne fellahs used on Tuesday noon, Feb. 16, when their cars smacked together at the corner of Eighth and Nebraska streets.

"You're a (deleted by censors) liar."

"Don't call me a (deleted by censors) liar."

"I'm sorry to have to call you a (deleted by censors) liar, but that's what you are, mister."

Another mystery solved. I had wondered what had become of that "Oh, Yeah?" phrase, and then the other day discovered that it had been put into the safe-keeping of a certain local high school girl who finds it the acme of wit as a retort to anything and everything.

He told it to me as a funny story. Mebbeso you'll think it's funny, too, but somehow or other, the humor of it escaped me. "I started this fellow out in business," he said. "Whatever success he has had, I like to think that I have been in some way responsible for. He's done his job well, there's no question about that, but I doubt that he could have gotten along so well without my help."

"The time came," he continued, "when this fellow had it in his power to do me a favor. I counted it as good as done, and asked him to help me. 'Whenever I need you to tell me how to run my business, I'll let you know about it,' he came back at me. Isn't it funny that he'd feel that way?"

The "Political Paragraphs" colyum in The Norfolk Press says, "Watson Purdy may have opposition for the democratic nomination for state senator. It is said Jimmie Brittain of Wayne may yield to his friends and file." Here's hoping, anyway. It's about time for Wayne to be represented again in the state senate, and James E. Brittain could be counted upon to give his constituents safe and sane representation.

I am considering running for state representative on a platform of more and better gossip. At that, wouldn't it be better for our state representatives to spend their time gossiping than in putting through legislation which is costly to taxpayers?

Another plank in my platform would be 'Give northeastern Nebraska farmers something besides bull."

And I'd promise Scott Shot readers all the inside dirt on the goings-on at the state capitol. That, all no, would be worth the price of your vote.

Last week we said that a local girl had tried to commit suicide. The girl in question says that the story is a deliberate lie and that it is just one more attempt to discredit her. "I think I know the person that started it," she says, "and that person is apt to get into a lot of trouble."

A local school teacher read this definition on an examination paper handed in by one of her young hopefuls: "A censor is a man who goes from house to house to increase the population."

Income tax reports are causing plenty of perplexity among some of the luckier local folks. One local fellow who has really made almost no money at all this year must, because of a peculiar quirk in the laws, pay a sizeable income bounty.

Remarks made by a young fellow about town the other day would lead me to believe that, generally speaking, you can tell what kind of a man he is by the degree of respect with which he refers to women.

Those South Dakota newspaper publishers who drew jail sentences and fines because of their criticism of a court decision are, martyrs to a cause. Any public official should be criticised when his conduct seems to merit criticism.

Flattery, even the most obvious kind, usually swells a person all up like a pouter pigeon. But when a person flatters you—look out! The bill will be delivered later.

Masons Hold George Washington Service

Wayne members of the Masonic lodge held a special George Washington service at the First Methodist church Sunday evening, with guests present from other churches.

"Washington the City" was the subject spoken upon by Dr. C. T. Ingham. Prof. I. H. Britzell spoke on "Washington with Braddock," and Prof. O. R. Bowen used as his subject, "Washington, the Chief Executive."

A welcome by John C. Carhart, Master, and patriotic music completed the program.

WAYNE ATTORNEY IS SIOUX CITY SPEAKER

Berry Gives Address at Washington Birthday Luncheon.

Attorney Fred S. Berry of Wayne was the principal speaker at a Washington birthday luncheon at the First Methodist Episcopal church in Sioux City Monday. More than one hundred persons, including representatives of Sioux City patriotic organizations and city officials, attended the luncheon which was given by the Martha Washington chapter of the D. A. R.

"America's need today," Mr. Berry said, "is for more statesmen and fewer politicians." He said that people of the United States should adhere more closely to the fundamental principles of the constitution.

He told his listeners that, in Washington's day, men were politically active because they desired to render public service. "In too many cases today," Mr. Berry lamented, "politicians are active for their own selfish ends rather than for public good. What we need today is more statesmen of the type we had in Washington's day."

College High Seniors Give One-Act Playlet

Four members of the senior class of College high school presented a one-act playlet, "Martha and George Return," before the assembled high school Wednesday morning. Characters were: George Washington, Douglas Spencer; Martha Washington, Sarah Jane Ahorn; Husband, Marion Auker; His Wife, Janice Mae Teed.

Dear Mister Man:

This Popularity Contest is creating a lot of excitement, and the winner is going to get a wonderful vacation trip.

Bunt suggests that we put on a little popularity contest of our own and let you in on the Secret of How To Be Popular In Your Own Home Though Married.

Maybe people laugh when you refer to yourself as the Head of the House, but if you'll take our tip, you can really be the Head Man.

We have some new dish pans, shaped to fit the sink, that are supposed to cut dish-washing time in half. (No, two of them won't cut the time to nothing.)

We have some Paramount Gas Ranges, Monarch built, that are designed to save the ball and chain lots of time and worry. Monarch ranges are still in a class by themselves.

Dexter Washing Machines make wash day a pleasure. Your shirts will come out safe and sound, with buttons (if any) intact and collars minus that shredded wheat edge effect.

As a matter of fact, we sell all kinds of labor saving devices that will give your wife more leisure and save time and expense.

Take the tip, Get Popular in your own home by showing your wife you're still thoughtful. She'll think you're a Greater Hero than Rudy Valee.

W. A. Hiscox, Hardware

P. S.—Incidentally, we give Popularity Contest votes with all cash purchases or payment of accounts.

All with subsequent coupons attached, with the Omaha National Bank of Omaha, Nebraska, trustee, by said Bank, as a pledge to secure deposits of the public moneys of this County in said Bank and the same hereby is approved as to said securities and the deposit thereof with said trustee, on condition that said trustee issue its trust receipt therefor, as provided for by Section 6193 of the Compiled Statutes of Nebraska for 1922 and amendments thereto.

Resolved, further, that said trust receipt when issued by said trustee shall be deposited by said Bank with the County Clerk of this County in lieu of the deposit of said securities with said County Clerk as a pledge to secure the deposit of said moneys in said bank.

Resolved, further that such trust receipt shall contain the following provisions which shall constitute the terms and conditions of the escrow.

I. When the interest coupons attached to said bonds become due, the proceeds of collection shall be applied to the credit of said bank.

II. The above securities shall be delivered to said bank only: (1) upon the joint order of the County Clerk and County Commissioners or Board of Supervisors of said county with resolution approving substitution of other securities, or (2) upon receipt of certificate of said County Treasurer that all deposits secured thereby have been repaid.

III. On presentation by the bank to the trustee of a certificate from the County Treasurer under seal, stating the amount of the deposits in said bank, together with a certified copy of a resolution of the County Board approving such withdrawal, the trustee may deliver to said bank designated securities in excess of 120 per cent. of the deposits based on the then market value of securities deposited.

IV. The above securities shall be delivered to the County Clerk of said county upon his written demand, (without further responsibility on the part of the trustee) supported by certified copy of resolution of the County Commissioners or Board of Supervisors of said county, and

(1) a certificate from the office of the Department of Trade and Commerce, under seal certifying that possession of said bank has been taken by said Department, or

(2) proof that a receiver of said bank has been applied for, with an affidavit signed by the County Clerk and attested by the County Treasurer under seal, or

(3) an affidavit of the Treasurer of said county that said bank has been unable to pay any check drawn by him on said bank.

Said county shall have the right to dispose of said securities and reimburse the county to the extent and for the amount of the deposit with interest in said bank.

V. The trustee may at any time act in reliance upon the signature of any public officer, attested by his official seal, without liability to either the county or said bank.

VI. Said securities shall be held by the trustee, without cost to the county and the said bank shall pay all costs, expenses and charges for the safekeeping, transportation and handling of said securities. The county shall not be responsible for any loss of said securities or coupons thereon.

VII. The trustee will give to said securities the same care it gives to its own property, but beyond that it will not and does not assume any responsibility.

VIII. Resolved, further, that a copy of this resolution duly certified by the county clerk of this County be transmitted to said trustee, and shall constitute the escrow agreement.
