Stock Fraud Is Charged By Teacher

Complaint Is Filed Against H. C. Bell, Sioux City Salesman.

Charges of fraudulent stock sales operation in Wayne were revealed this week with the placing on the records in County Judge J. M. Cherry's court of a complaint signed by Miss Margaret C. Schemel, faculty member at Wayne State Teachers college, against H. C. Bell, Sioux City stock salesman.

Miss Schemel filed the complaint on Tuesday, April 18, charging that on or about Feb. 9, Mr. Bell unlawfully, wrongfully, willfully and feloniously sold to her certain securities in the American Bank Stocks Corporation without that corporation's first obtaining a permit from the Nebraska State Department of Trade and Commerce and without Mr. Bell's having obtained a permit.

Miss Schemel also charged that on Feb. 13, Mr. Bell cheated and defrauded her, representing the common stock of the American Bank Stock Corporation of Maryland to be worth $10 a share. She charged that she relied on his alleged false pretensions and bought 36 shares, delivering to Mr. Bell 60 shares of Cities Service common stock. The Shares of American Bank Stocks Common, she charges, were in truth worth only $1.25 a share.

POPULAR STUDENTS PRESENTED AT PROM

Miss Gladys Spurluck and Richard Fanske Win Contest.

Miss Gladys Spurluck of Sioux City, Iowa, and Richard Fanske of Wayne were presented Friday evening at the junior-senior prom held in the college gymnasium as the most popular students attending Wayne State Teachers college. Miss Spurluck is a freshman and Mr. Fanske is a senior.

Their selection as the most popular students was determined by a vote of the entire student body, conducted two months ago.

Aaron Brodhaug, member of the junior committee in charge, announced Miss Spurluck and Mr. Fanske as the winners of the contest.

After the winners had responded with a few words of appreciation, the couple led a grand march around the gym.

Music for the party was furnished by the Blue Kings orchestra. Debts for the affair were in the hands of the senior colors. Chaperones were Dr. and Mrs. U. S. Conn, Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Huntner, Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Hickman, Mr. and Mrs. John R. Keith, Mrs. Ilda Holmes, Miss Louise Wendt, Miss Mildred Snyder, Miss Esther Dewitz, Dr. Amy Chastanet, Prof. and Mrs. J. Q. Owen and Miss Lenore P. Ramsey.

MUSICIANS TO GIVE BENEFIT PROGRAM

High School Students to Appear in Concert at Gay.

Wayne high school's winners in the recent district music contest will appear in a benefit concert at the Gay theatre, Friday evening. Proceeds of the benefit performance will be used to send the local high school's music contest winners to the state contest at Kearney, May 5 and 6.

Kermit Stewart, director of public school music, plans to take 46 students to the Kearney competition.

The program Friday evening will feature a musical comedy opera, "Cynthia's Strategy," with Jeanette Wright, Frances Kiker, James Kingston and William Studley in the cast. Both the boys' and girls' glee clubs will give groups of numbers. The boys' quartet will present "The Black and White Review," a musical sketch. The program will close with a number by the mixed chorus.

The program will be given in connection with the showing of the talking picture, "The Keyhole," starring Kay Francis and George Brent.

Rate Hearing to Be Held Friday

Telephone subscribers from Windsor, Laurel, Pilger, Norfolk and Wayne are expected to testify before the Nebraska state railway commission tomorrow at the Wayne county court house, relative to a reduction of telephone rates for rural and switched subscribers.

Members of the railway commission will come here from Wakefield, where they held a similar hearing this morning for subscribers from Allen, Emerson, Hubbard, Homer, Pender and Wakefield.

The Northwestern Bell Telephone company presented evidence to the railway commission on Tuesday and Wednesday, April 11 and 12, giving their reasons why they did not believe present rates should be reduced.

College Plans Concerts for Music Week

Six Musical Concerts to Be Presented by Students.

The week beginning Sunday, April 30, will be observed at Wayne State Teachers college as National Music Week, with the program opening Sunday night when the college A Capella choir, under the direction of Prof. Howard H. Hanscom, gives a concert at the Wayne Presbyterian church.

On Monday evening, a musical program featuring Mary Krakowski will be given on the college entertainment course. This is a duo-artist program, featuring a soprano soloist and pianist.

Mrs. Albert G. Carlson's pupils will give a recital in the college auditorium on Tuesday afternoon and Mr. Carlson's pupils will furnish the program Tuesday evening.

On Wednesday evening, a program will be given by the college orchestra, under the direction of John R. Keith, and by voice pupils of Miss Ardath Conn.

A varied program for Thursday evening is being arranged by Prof. Hanscom. The program will be made up of his own compositions. A suite for voice, violin, clarinet and piano will be given by Miss Leona McCracken, Miss Goldie Wendt, Stanley Davis and Prof. Hanscom. The A Capella choir will give one number. Several numbers will be given by a quartet consisting of Miss McCracken, Miss Sophie Damm, Miss Harriet Lamsan and Miss Eleanor Carlson, and there will be several vocal solos, piano solos and a clarinet solo.

The college band, under the direction of Mr. Keith, will give a program on the campus at 6:30 o'clock Thursday evening.

Students and the general public are invited to attend all of the programs. All except the one on Monday evening are free.

Local Boys Second in District Declam Finals

James Davies won second place in the finals of the district high school declamatory contest at Tilden Friday evening. William Studley was awarded second place in the extemporaneous division.

Wayne high school public speakers participated in the National Forensic League's state contest at Omaha last week-end. Those who took part in debate were Lucille Wright, Richard Moses, William Studley and Raymond Sala. Wayne's negative team lost to Thomas Jefferson high school of Council Bluffs and the local affirmative team lost to Benson high school of Omaha.

In declamatory, James Davies and Vivian Sandahl were entered in the oratorical division. Vivian Sandahl also competed in the humorous division and Mavis Baker took part in the dramatic group. William Studley and Raymond Sala were entered in the extemporaneous speaking contest.

COLLEGE GETS NEW SCHOLASTIC RATING

North Central Association Gives Wayne School High Rating.

Wayne State Teachers college has been transferred from the Teachers Training list of the North Central Association to the list of Colleges of Arts and Sciences, Dr. U. S. Conn, president of the local school was notified Saturday morning. Dr. Conn attended a meeting of the North Central association last week in Chicago, Ill.

The new North Central rating will give unquestioned standing to graduates of the Wayne school, qualifying them to teach anywhere that graduates of the University of Nebraska can teach with similar training. In addition to this feature, the Wayne school retains all the perquisites of a teacher's college.

The four teachers colleges of Nebraska were the only ones in the North Central group's jurisdiction given the transferred rating. Many colleges throughout the United States were removed from the North Central list because of low scholastic standing of faculty, athletic irregularities and poor equipment.

LOCAL FIRM HOLDS SCHOOL OF COOKERY

Many Wayne Women See Demonstration by Ruth Freeman.

About 125 women attended a cooking school given Tuesday afternoon in the local office of the Peoples Natural Gas company by Miss Ruth L. Freeman, as service director. She demonstrated cooking and baking, using two gas ranges. J. E. Reynolds spoke on the advantages of using natural gas. E. D. Gordon demonstrated the new Detroit Jewel range. Each lady who attended was given a rose.

Miss Freeman prepared five recipes and copies of these were given to each lady. She baked a mystery cake, using a can of tomato soup to give the cake a rich, fruity flavor. She also baked date strips and orange-rapenut muffins, and prepared a steak loaf and a vegetable sandwich loaf.

Following her demonstration, Miss Freeman answered questions and gave additional recipes.

Miss Freeman had charge of a cooking school at Wakefield Wednesday afternoon, and is superintending such a school at Emerson this afternoon. On Friday she will go to Bancroft for a demonstration.

Local Students Attend Mathematics Convention

Melvin Seymour, Miss Pauline Hannah, Clarence Sorenson and Robert Gulliver, delegates from Nebraska, Alpha chapter of Kappa Mu Epsilon, and Miss Marie Hove, sponsor of the local group, returned Sunday evening from Tallerquah, Okla. where they attended a national meeting of the honorary mathematics fraternity. Miss Hove was chosen national historian of the fraternity, which is a relatively new organization. There were delegates from Nebraska, Illinois, Kansas, Mississippi and Oklahoma attending the meeting.

Expression Class to Give One-Act Plays

Members of the expression class at Wayne high school will give an evening's entertainment of one-act plays on Wednesday, May 3, in the high school assembly.

The program will be made up of a variety of plays, including "Just Women," "Ashes of Roses," "Evening Dress Indispensable," and "The Lights of Happyland."

Hi-Y Boys to Attend Program at Norfolk

Wayne high school's Hi-Y boys will attend a Hi-Y meeting at Norfolk on Friday, May 5, when Ed Weir, freshman coach at the University of Nebraska, gives the principal address. A group of foreign university students will also appear on the program.

High School 'Stenos' Win State Contest

Commercial Department Is Winner in Statewide Competition.

Wayne high school's commercial department placed first in the state commercial contest held at Cozad, Saturday. The group, in charge of L. F. Good, local commercial instructor, won 23 points to lead the school rankings. Superior was second and McCook was third.

Helen Jones was awarded the state championship in Champion Accuracy Typing, with a net proceed of 81.4 words per minute. Cathryn Craven won third place in the novice shorthand test with a score of 99.33 per cent.

In the team contests, the novice shorthand team placed first with a percentage score of 97. The team was composed of Cathryn Craven, Helen Jones and David Likes. The spelling team, made up of Helen Jones, Edna Baker and Paul Bernston, placed second. The novice typewriting team, consisting of Cathryn Craven, Paul Bernston and Helen Vath won third place and the champion typewriting team, composed by Elaine Gildersleeve, Helen Jones and Romaine Simmerman won third place.

The combined points for individual and team placings gave the Wayne school first place in school rankings, for which the local institution was awarded a plaque.

MOCK TRIAL HELD MONDAY EVENING

"Minnie the Mocher" Is Central Figure in Burlesque.

About 100 members of the Wayne Kiwanis club and the Wayne Young Business Men's club attended a joint meeting of the two organizations Monday evening at Hotel Stratton.

Following the dinner, several vocal selections were given by the Young Business Men's quartette, under the direction of Prof. F. C. Reed. Miss Kathryn Lou Davis accompanied the singers at the piano.

As the feature of the evening's entertainment, E. E. Fleetwood was tried in a mock court on charges of harboring "an indecent and immoral woman, one Minnie the Mocher." Minnie the Mocher was a tinware statue constructed some time ago by Mr. Fleetwood.

W. R. Bills acted as Judge. Attorneys H. E. Siman and H. D. Adelson had charge of the prosecution, while attorneys Burr R. Davis, Don Miller and L. W. Ellis represented the defendant. Witnesses for the prosecution were Armand Hiscox, Dr. J. C. Johnson, Dr. C. T. Ingham, Mayor Martin L. Ringer and L. W. Vath. Witnesses for the defense were E. E. Fleetwood, Minnie the Mocher, and Dr. Paul Siman.

After a short deliberation, the jury found Mr. Fleetwood guilty as charged, much to the dissatisfaction of his lawyers. Bailiff E. E. Galley escorted the prisoner out of the hotel dining room.

Short talks were given by T. S. Hook, president of the Kiwanis club, and Mr. Davis, president of the Young Business Men's club.

Local Women to Attend Girl Scout Conference

Wayne Girl Scout sponsors and leaders will attend a regional conference at Sioux City, Iowa, on May 4, 5, and 6. Mrs. Frederick Edey, national Girl Scout president, will be on the program, as will Miss Margaret Murray, secretary of field institutes; Miss Elizabeth Beagle and Miss Jane Olson, national Girl Scout staff members, will give talks on various phases of scouting.

Members of the community committee, troop committee women and captains and lieutenants of troops plan to attend at least a part of the session. Anyone interested in Girl Scouting is welcome. Those who wish to attend are asked to notify Mrs. A. V. Teed, Mrs. H. S. Seace or Mrs. F. S. Morgan.

Twenty Wayne County Boys to Receive Jobs

Applicants for Forestation Army to be Received Saturday.

Applications for enrollment of Wayne county boys in the President's Emergency Conservation forces will be held Saturday at the Wayne county court house, with 20 boys to be selected from the county. Rollie W. Ley is chairman of the Wayne county committee. Martin L. Ringer and Frank Erleben will assist him.

The 20 boys to be enrolled must be between 18 and 25 years old, single and with dependent relatives. Their compensation will be $20 a month for six months, during which time the boys are to work eight hours a day for five days each week. They will have Saturdays and Sundays off.

According to present plans, no work will be carried on in Nebraska and the boys will be assigned to other states. An effort is being made, however, to have this regulation modified so work may be done in Nebraska and the boys kept within the state.

While Saturday is the day on which enrollment will be made at the court house, applications may be received in advance and applications of boys who are at present outside of the county may be received by mail. Boys who are selected will go to an army post for two weeks of conditioning.

It will be necessary for each boy to provide his own transportation from Wayne to the point where a recruiting officer will meet him. After he has been accepted by the recruiting officer, all expenses will be paid by the government. Food, clothing, shelter and medical attention will all be provided. Boys who sign up and are accepted must stay on the job for the full six month period.

Throughout the United States, 250,000 boys will be put to work. Congress passed the law on March 31, 1933, to relieve unemployment and aid the country's forestation.

Eighth Grade Exams Show High Average

Hundred Students Pass in All Subjects; Tie for First Place.

Wayne county seventh and eighth grade examination, given on April 6 and 7, will be given again on Friday, May 6. One hundred and forty-five eighth grade pupils and 149 seventh graders took the examination the first time.

Figures compiled by County Superintendent Pearl E. Sewell this week show that 101 eighth graders passed in the first examination and will not have to retake any subjects. Pupils must earn a grade of at least 60 in each subject and have an average of 75. No pupil is to retake any subject in which he has a grade of 85.

Marjorie Hamm of District 46 and Marjorie Soderberg of District 46 and the field on the first examination, each having an average of 93 per cent. Lois Gray of District 79 had an average of 92 and Evelyn Fuhrman of District 85 and Elvira Schroeder of District 86 each had a 91 per cent average.

Those having an average of 90 per cent were: Jean Sundell of District 13, Mary E. Jones of District 46, Myfanroy Rees of District 44, Eunice Wurdeman of District 18, Richard Stamm of District 77 and Ervin Lenser of District 60.

Elaine Allen, 13, of District 22, took the examinations in all 14 subjects in the two days and passed with an average of 82 per cent.

Forty-three students earned a grade of 100. Thirty earned 100 per cent in one subject, 11 in two subjects and Mary E. Jones, Eunice Wurdeman of District 18 and Ervin Lenser each had grades of 100 in three subjects.

Klopping's Road Bill Passes Lower House

State representative Frank Klopping's bill to reroute Federal highway No. 113 passed the lower house Tuesday, despite strenuous objection to its passage by Wayne and Pierce business men.

Passage of the bill would mean a rerouting of No. 113 so that from a point three miles north of Wayne it would go straight west to highway No. 81. The bill has not yet been voted on by the senate.

Omaha U Track Team Competes Here Friday

Coach Ray Hickman's Wayne State Teachers college track team will make its first home stand of the season in competition when the local scinty club meets the Omaha University team tomorrow afternoon at 3:15 o'clock. The meet will be held on the athletic grounds.

The Inquiring Reporter

THIS WEEK'S QUESTION

Do you think present "inflation" plans of the government would be a good thing for this territory?

Farmer: I sure do. This inflation proposition is going to raise farm prices and that can't help but do us a lot of good.

Merchant: I believe so. Buyer and seller both have a happier mental attitude when prices are up and everybody prospers as a result.

Educator: Theoretically, inflation can't be of much value. I have an idea, though, that it doesn't always conform to theory. I believe inflation will aid our financial comeback.

Merchant: It can't help anybody and can't cause anybody to be any better off. Our troubles has always been that high prices have made us kid ourselves into thinking we were well off.

Lawyer: There are lots of good arguments on both sides. Let's wait and see what happens before we form any opinions. My guess would be that we'll be agreeably surprised at the results.

Now is the time to paint. We've put in a complete new line of as good paint as the industry can produce. It's name is CERTAIN-TEED. See us for linseed oil, paint brushes, varnish etc.

We asked a farmer friend the other day if he thought general conditions would get better. He replied, "That's the only way they can get."

Spring time is fence time. We offer a 26-inch AMERICAN fence at 25c per rod. A heavier weight at 30c.

Judge — "I cannot conceive of a meaner, more cowardly act than yours of deserting your wife. Do you realize you are a deserter?"

Rustus — "Well, if you all done knowed that lady as Ah does, boss, you all sho would call me no deserter. Ah is a refugee—dat's what Ah is."

Carl has been making a lot of new trolleys the past week. Beautiful your home at a small cost with a sample or two.

Another car of oak flooring rolled in this week. If inflation gets under way, lumber prices will be higher, as well as farm prices. Get the jump on increased prices by re-flooring now.

One million extra-quarts of MILK will be consumed in NEBRASKA daily if you drink one more pint daily. Help our farmers by drinking MILK.

Fly-time is near at hand. Screen prices are way down. Let us measure your screens. No charge for the service.

There are eleven good reasons why you should insist on having 4-SQUARE lumber. One reason is that it does NOT cost more than ordinary lumber.

WAYNE MARKET REPORTS

Table with market prices for various goods including Corn, Oats, Cream, Eggs, Hens, Old Roosters, Leghorn Hens, and Springs.

MUCH ADJ ABOUT NOTHING

An insight into the average intelligence of the great and good men who go forth to Lincoln to make our laws and decide how much money is to be spent on the conduct of our government was given us a few weeks ago in the radio broadcast of the House debate on the bean bill.

We saw brilliant examples of men who had nothing to say and could take hours to say it. We saw, or rather heard, men who thought they had something of vital importance to say and were sadly deluded.

We agreed heartily with Mr. O'Garra, who said that the radio broadcasting equipment should be ousted from the capitol confines... that it was prolonging debate beyond reasonable time limits and that it would serve to promote great eruptions of verbose oratory.

TIN-HORN

It is a tin-horn tendency of the American voter to hire a man to do a job and then criticize him rancorously if he does it. The better he does his work, the chances are the more severely will he be criticized.

The most amusing part of it is that we seldom bother to find out the actual facts relative to the things we criticize. For example, we have the spectacle presented by a Wayne man who became quite badly wrought up over the decisions of a certain Wayne group elected to serve without pay in a capacity that is, at best, thankless.

GOOD TIMES

The Union Stock Yards company of Omaha is showing its faith in returning good times by instituting an advertising campaign in numerous Nebraska newspapers. The first ad of a series appears in today's Democrat and we predict that the Omaha stock yard company's exhibition of the merits of their service will get them tangible results.

All over the United States industry is beginning to hear the call of returning prosperity. The trend of the past two months has offered great encouragement and showed business men are quick to realize that fact. National advertisers are increasing their appropriations. Magazine advertising has shown an appreciable rise and the increase in newspaper national advertising has been noticeable.

OUR SENATOR

Those of you who read in the "Congressman" Edgar Howell would have an excellent Senator urged to so remain Governor Charles W. Bryan from the State. Bryan has the task of appointing some one to fill the senatorial vacancy left by the death of Senator Howell, and the governor appreciates the importance of his duty.

Edgar Howell has proved his worth in Washington. He has never disappointed us. He has not asked for the appointment and has done nothing to further his selection, but his record entitles him to the utmost consideration.

Visiting Nurses Find Strange Superstitions

The squalid room was filled with the thick heaviness of pneumonia in its last stages. There was hardly one chance in a thousand for the child. The Henry St. nurse in New York could see that at a glance.

"What should she do about that white pigeon rising dead on the child's breast?" "Pigeon good," said the Italian mother. "Just like old country. Pigeon die instead my babe. Three pigeons now, babe he will get well. You see, watch. Pigeons draw all pain out of my pigeon."

That seemed to be the theory the body of the dead pigeon, as it grew bold on the child's breast, would draw the illness away from the child's body. The mother explained volubly how she had killed the bird in the presence of the child, just like in old country. Had it been an illness of the head, he would have used a blue pigeon, she said, but for pain in the chest, always a white pigeon. She gabbled on, while the nurse thought fast, telling how when the child had been teething she rubbed pigeon blood on the gums. "Make teeth come through fine," said the mother. "Pigeon good for lot of things."

The nurse was thinking hard. Suppose she insisted that the dead pigeon be removed. That would give the child more of a chance. But suppose, as seemed inevitable, the child died anyway. Then the mother would feel always that the child would have lived had the dead fowl been left in place.

"So," said Mrs. Stella Koeng, secretary of the Visiting Nurse Service, telling the story, "the nurse left the pigeon where the mother wanted it. The child died that night. You know right," the mother sobbed when the nurse called the next day. "Pigeon no help!"

The old world brought its superstitions with it when it came to New York, but the problems faced by the Henry Street nurses are usually less serious. There is little to bother if an expectant mother insists upon sticking a penny on the wall during the pre-natal period. Which, it seems, is a superstition centuries old. If the mother wants a boy she puts the penny up with the head showing; if a girl, with the tail showing.

Nor does the nurse do more than smile when a lady mother insists upon keeping a pair of scissors and a kitchen knife under her pillow. Maybe that will keep bad spirits away, and maybe it won't, but no matter so long as the knife is kept safely under the pillow. In that respect, Negro mothers in Harlem play safer. They lay the scissors on an open Bible beside the bed.

But there is something to worry about when a mother insists upon washing her baby with all its clothes on. "The baby catch cold without clothes," explains such a mother, and after washing baby clothes and all, proceeds to remove the clothes and put on dry ones. And it is slightly unsanitary for a mother to insist on keeping a baby in its same swaddling clothes for the first year of its life, which again is a superstition centuries old. Or when a mother refuses to open the windows, a reasonable doubt that comes from the time when mosquitoes and yellow fever and malaria entered through any window left open.

"We have our problems," sighed Mrs. Koeng. "It isn't bad when a mother won't turn her back on her child because the devil might look at it! But there is a problem when a mother won't feed a child carrots or peas because the doctor ordered green vegetables."—Wright County Journal Press.

SCOTT SHOTS by "SCOTT"

Here's a grand bit of writing by an anonymous author. It's good enough for anybody's column, and if you don't like it, don't blame me—blame yourself!

Listen, Son

I am saying this to you as you lie asleep, one little paw crumpled under your cheek and the curls sticking to your damp forehead. I have stolen into your room alone. Just a few moments ago, as I sat reading my paper in the library, a hot, stifling wave of remorse swept over me. I could not resist it. Guiltily I came to your bedside.

These are the things I was thinking, son: I had been cross to you—I scolded you as you were dressing for school because you gave your foot a spurious dab with the towel. I took you to task for not cleaning your shoes! I called out angrily when I found you had thrown some of your things on the floor. At breakfast I found fault, too. You put your elbows on the table. You spread butter too thick on your bread. And as you started off to play and I made for my train, you turned and waved a little hand and called, "Goodby, Daddy," and I frowned and said in reply, "Hold your shoulders back."

Then it began all over again in the late afternoon. As I came up the hill road I spied you down on your knees playing marbles. There were holes in your stockings. I humiliated you before your boy friends by making you march ahead of me back to the house. Stockings were expensive and if you had to buy them you would be more careful. Imagine that, son, from a father. It was such stupid, silly logic.

Do you remember later when I was reading in the library, how you came in, hunched, timidly, with a sort of hunted look in your eyes? When I glanced up over my paper, impatient at the interruption, you hesitated at the door. "What is it you want?" I snapped. "You said nothing, but ran across in one, tempestuous plunge and threw your arms around my neck and kissed me, again and again. Your small arms tightened with an affection that God set even neglect could not wither. And then you were gone, pattering up the stairs.

Well, son, it was shortly afterwards that my paper slipped from my hands and a terrible sickening fear came over me. Suddenly I saw myself as I really was, in my horrible selfishness, and I felt sick at heart. What has'nt habit been doing to me? The habit of complaining, of finding fault, of reprimanding, all of these were my rewards to you for being a boy. It was not that I did not love you; it was that I expected too much of you. I was measuring you by the yardsticks of my years.

And there was so much that was good and fine and true in your character. You did not deserve my treatment of you, son. The little heart of you was as big as the dawn itself over the wide hills. All this was shown by your spontaneous impulse to rush in and kiss me goodnight. Nothing else matters tonight, son. I have come to your bedside in the darkness, and I have knelt there, choking with emotion and so ashamed.

It is a feeble atonement. I know you would not understand these things if I told them to you during waking hours, yet I must burn what I am saying. I must burn sacrificial fires, alone, here in your bedroom, and make free confession. And I have prayed God to strengthen me in my new resolve. Tomorrow I will be a great daddy. I will chum with you and suffer when you suffer and laugh when you laugh. I will bite my tongue when impatient words come. I will keep saying as if it were a ritual, "Here is nothing but a boy, a little boy."

I am afraid I have visualized you as a man. Yet as I see you now, son, crumpled and weary in your cot, I see that you are still a baby. Yesterday you were in your mother's arms, your head on her shoulder. I have asked too much, son.

Dear boy, dear little son, a poignant kneels at your infant shrine, here in the moonlight. I kiss the little fingers and the damp forehead and the yellow curls. Tears came, and heartache and remorse and also a greater, deeper love, when you ran through the doorway door and wanted to kiss me.

I do not know of a better shrine before which a father or mother may kneel or stand than that of a sleeping child. I do not know of a holier place, a temple where he is more likely to come into close touch with that which is infinitely good, where one may come nearer to seeing and feeling God. I am passing the "confession" along to the fathers who may be privileged to read it, and for the benefit of all the little "fellows," the growing, earth-blessing little Georges and Ethyls and Marys, Elizabeths and Janes of this very good world of ours.

Main street murmurs (heard on Saturday—We oughta organize a farm baseball league this year. Her fellow's coming to see her tonight and she's going to wear a new dress. Henry's gonna pay our taxes for us—we couldn't even start to do it ourselves. Giddy see where Wroking's getting ready for the Nebraska beer trade? Maybe you think I wasn't mad when he came lugging home a box of candy, with me expecting an electric ice box for a birthday present. I got some swell pictures of the kids last week.

You could have knocked me over with a feather. He may be a good golf player but he's better at scoring than he is at playing. You might not like the way Ed talks, but he's an O. K. fellow.

Huey Long, the great "Kingfish," while spouting off to reporters, says that he, too, worked in a printing office as a boy, having had to set up three galleys of type every morning before he went to school. This was hand-set type he referred to, by the way. Three galleys! Either Huey is a dud-brained liar or he has his terms mixed up. If he could have set up three galleys of type before school time, he was either a prodigy or a superman—and his entering politics was a waste of time. Most full-grown printers of my acquaintance used to put up about three galleys a day, providing the boss kept right behind them.

And, dear readers, here is something we promised you last week—a list of Wayne's favorite nooks (or parking, if you prefer) spots, prepared by Operative 214.

The Choicest Spots

Fair grounds, west road. Cemetery street. Sherman street between Seventh and Eleventh streets. The road north of Wayne State Teachers college.

The rendering plant road. The road a mile east, and a mile north of town. (Turn off the highway at the first corner north of Wayne.) The city park (before the city passes it off). Not so popular, any more, but getting more so with the lights being broken.

The new grand stand at Wayne State Teachers college (especially with local young folks who have no automobiles).

Below the railroad tracks on South Window street. Dearborn street. And Operative 214 adds, "Any old road which is not customarily loaded with traffic."

There's the list. If we have omitted any noteworthy parking places, Scott Shots will be glad to publish additional contributions.

BIDDLE ON HOME TALENT DRAMA

(Do not reprint without permission of the author. All rights reserved.) Dwight Biddle was returning from the library, and seeing the ladies of the Community Drama League emerging from his aunt's home, decided to drop in and see what new drama was "atoot." "Hello, Dwight," greeted his aunt. "You are just in time to pass on the new play the League is producing." "I'll bet the play has a rich society matron with philanthropic tendencies. This lady has a pretty daughter who is in love with one far below her station," her mother disapproves. etc.

"I know, a pastoral drama. The one time in history the League jumped out of the rut, and the League's best effort to date. They knew something about farmers and country store keepers, which is more than can be said for the dowagers, debutantes, stock brokers and city people they have been trying to act like for years," put in Dwight.

"Aunt Emma knew all too well many of the League's shortcomings, but she hated to have a critic's finger pointed at them. 'I wouldn't say that, Dwight. I think the society has a very able cast for a home talent group.' "I quite agree with you, aunty. The cast is able—able to spoil anything they undertake. They could get a laugh out of the Passion Play. Not that the play is funny, but the Community Drama League's rendition of it would be a riot," acquiesced Biddle.

"Of course, my dear. The Passion Play has to be lived. The actors must spend a lifetime to attain perfection," said Emma, feeling her statement would stand any test to which Dwight might put it and confident it was strong enough to prevent twisting.

"Quite right, my dear aunt. To act a part properly one must live it, and the Drama League's casts only act as if they are living a part, which is an altogether different thing," said Biddle, blandly.

This shade of meaning had never entered Aunt Emma's head, so she took time to think out a fitting answer. During the pause, Dwight started again, not waiting for his aunt's somewhat less nimble wits to function.

"Why don't you select a comedy some time. Your face won't crack if you laugh a few times," Biddle chuckled in.

"I think our play committee knows good drama when they see it without your help," Aunt Emma stated forcefully.

"They may know good drama when they see it, but they are powerless to do anything about it. Drama is like art. Everyone can't be an artist and neither can you draft the members of a community whoalse and expect them to do anything like a good job of acting," was Biddle's rejoinder to his aunt's statement.

"Why don't you stay home and don't attend our productions if you don't like them?" asked his aunt.

"If this town were big enough to have an S. P. C. A., they would have been after the League long ago for cruelty to dumb animals. Take the preacher's wife. It is a crime to make her act. She should confine her talent to reciting 'The Raven' at church societies," Dwight observed.

"I always thought Mrs. Rev. Pettie was very talented," Emma replied.

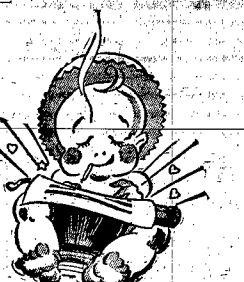

"But, her face, my dear aunt, has the look of a lost soul, and is fitted only for a background for such bits as 'The Raven' or 'Fall of the House of Usher' and 'Eulalia,'" Biddle opined.

"I see, Dwight, that our tastes in drama will never be reconciled, so we may as well quit talking about it," his aunt said to close the parley.

"That is the third thing on which which we are agreed this afternoon. I believe we will come to understand each other bye and bye. There is one place you have me. The punch and cake you served to the Drama League this afternoon is the best in town," Biddle remarked, to remind his aunt that his taste for food was the same as that of the League, even if they didn't agree on other things.

Aunt Emma gave him the hinted-for punch and cake, as Dwight never talked while eating.

"Thanks," said Biddle. "Aunt Emma, as an actor you're a mighty good cook."

Here's the Dope!

Surrounded by one of the largest casts in her long career and directed by Frank Borzage, Mary Pickford appears with Leslie Howard in "Secrets," adapted from the stage play by Rudolf Besler and May Edgington.

The story of "Secrets" is a simple love story, with no wise-cracking and no sophistication. It begins in Salem, Mass., travels across the continent to Monterey, Calif., and back again to Washington, D. C., entwining with it the life threads of two people, following their joint careers from youth to old age. "Secrets" was filmed once before in the silent days, with Norma Talmadge in the title role. Although brought up to date in its current version, it has lost nothing of its savor and charm.

In addition to beauty and romance, there is plenty of melodrama. While raising cattle in the west, the principals are beleaguared by a band of cattle rustlers in a terrifying night fight which deals death along with justice.

"The Keyhole," a Warner Bros. production, brings a new motion picture team in Kay Francis, one of this writer's favorites, and George Brent. It is said to be a different type of picture, presenting the gaiety and luxury of Park Ave. penthouses and the glamor of balmy nights under a Cuban moon. The story is dramatic for unusual situations and tense dramatic moments. The plot concerns a dancer who marries a rich society man who is so jealous of her he engages a job detective to follow and spy on her.

The detective, of a higher class type than the usual private spy, however, is portrayed by George Brent as a personable and charming man about town. He falls under the spell of the dancer's beauty and charm almost from the moment he meets her on the steamer that is taking them both to the Antilles. From that moment the drama takes unexpected twists and turns to a startling and surprising climax. Glenda Farrell and Allen Jenkins supply no inconsiderable fun as a comedy team.

Information for the benefit of youse femmes: Kay Francis appears in 23 separate and distinct gowns of the verest latest styles. Which should be one reason why you'd want to see "The Keyhole."

George Sidney, the original "kibitzer" and Charlie Murray are back together again in "The Cohens and Kellys in Trouble." Maureen O'Sullivan, Andy Devine, Frank Albertson and Jobyna Howland are in the cast.

It's a laugh picture, all the way through. Everything in the plot is built for a gag or laugh. The Hollywood Herald says it is easily the best of the "Cohen and Kelly" series. A run-away motorboat sequence is said to be particularly hilarious.

OLIVER LAMAEKERS Elizabeth Luceille Olson of Newman Grove will be united in marriage to F. W. Ramaekers of Carroll, editor of the Carroll News on Friday, April 28. Rev. Fr. William Kearns will read the marriage lines.

Presbyterian Church Notes

P. A. Davies, Pastor

We are looking for a large gathering next Sunday evening, when we are to have the "A Capella" choir from the college with us. This choir under the able leadership of Prof. H. H. Hanscom have been singing somewhere every Sunday night. Next Sunday evening is the one night that it has for Wayne. Baptists and Methodists are uniting with us in this service. We shall be glad to welcome others who may wish to come. You will find it a beautiful service of worship. This service will be held at 8 o'clock.

The trial scene, "Protection," was presented last Sunday evening at our church to a well filled house. It was put on under the auspices of the Anti-Saloon League of America, with the assistance of 26 of our local citizens. It was well given. The leaders who were here declared that the home cast from Wayne was one of the best that they have ever worked with.

We are very grateful to Leslie Ellis for taking charge of our morning choir. The anthem Sunday morning was beautiful and reminded us of the days in the past when we had a good choir.

Services for next Sunday are at the following hours: Sunday school, 10 a. m. Morning worship, 11 a. m. Evening choir 6 p. m. C. E. services, 6:30 p. m. Sacred concert by the A Capella Choir of our college, 8 p. m.

The Westminster Guild will be entertained by Mrs. Davies at the manse Thursday evening.

Miss Grace Koller is finding that the intermediates are coming in increasing numbers from Sunday to Sunday. They have promised to sing from the balcony at the Sunday evening service. Last Friday evening they had a wonderful time at what they called a "Tramp Party." Ask one of the young people about it.

Methodist Episcopal Church

Harold C. Cuspey, Minister

Next Sunday, the church school at 10, the public worship at 11 and the Epworth League at 7 will be held as customary. In the evening at 8 we shall join in the union service at the Presbyterian church when the college choir will give a concert.

Thursday of this week the annual guest day of the ladies of the church will be held in the afternoon. Next Thursday the Woman's Home Missionary society will meet at the home of Mrs. Robert Stambaugh. This will be the mita box opening and members are asked to bring these boxes.

Sunday, May 7, a family day is planned with basket dinner at the church following the morning services. The purpose is social fellowship and all who can are asked to plan to attend.

You will find a welcome at all of the services of this church.

First Baptist Church

William B. Braisted, Minister

10 a. m. The Church Sunday school. Classes for all.

11 a. m. The morning worship with good music and helpful messages. Subject of the pastor's sermon, "Jesus' After Easter Message."

Wayne Baseball Club Beats Carroll, 11-8

Wayne's baseball team defeated Carroll, 11 to 8, Sunday afternoon in a loosely played game. Wayne made 11 runs, 12 hits and five errors. Carroll made eight runs, six hits and four errors. Wayne used three pitchers, Ferris, Hicks and Collins and two catchers, Miller and Simmerman. Lagz and Reed pitched for Carroll, with Reed and Walker on the receiving end. The Wayne team will play Dixon Sunday.

Post Office Asks for Bids on Mail Route

Sealed proposals for carrying the United States mails, including parcel post, on local messenger route No. 257524 between the post office and the Chicago, St. Paul, Minneapolis and Omaha railway each way as often as required will be received by the postmaster at Wayne until April 30. Blank bids may be received from Postmaster J. H. Pike upon application.

Wayne Girl Attends Conference in Texas

Miss LaVerne Larson returned home Saturday evening from a week's visit in Texas where she attended the Athletic Federation of College Women, held at the University of Texas at Austin. She attended as delegate from the Woman's Athletic Association of Wayne State Teachers college. Name of the national meeting was changed last week from "Athletic Conference of College Women."

Miss Larson went by train, meeting about 30 other delegates on the train. Other Nebraska delegates were from the University of Nebraska, Omaha municipal university and Peru State Teachers college.

First three days of the meeting from April 18 to 20 were spent at Austin, where time was taken up largely by business meetings. Principal speakers were Dr. Walden of the Teachers' college of Columbia university, Miss Blanche Trilling of the University of Wisconsin and Miss Anna Hiss, head of the Physical Education department of the University of Texas.

Delegates were entertained by a festival, an opera, a riding exhibition and an exhibition of dancing. The group spent Friday in San Antonio, where they witnessed the annual fiesta celebrating the battle of San Jacinto.

Next meeting of the federation will be at the University of Minnesota in 1936.

The Book Box

New shipment of books received at the Wayne Public Library is unusually fine. The collection contains several good biographies, non-fiction on a variety of subjects, several good reference books, and nearly 20 novels.

"The Life of Lord Curzon," in three volumes, is an authorized biography of George Nathaniel, Marquess Curzon of Kedleston, K. G. The Earl of Ronaldshay is the author. The first volume covers Nathaniel's life from 1859-1899. The second volume takes him through the period of his Vicerealty to November, 1905. The last volume recounts his last years up to his death in 1925.

"Lafayette" by Joseph Deltell is translated from the French by Jacques Lo Clercq. The biography pictures Lafayette as a pure sentimentalist and a great poet, not as a great mind, an orator or a statesman.

Paul de Kruif's "Men Against Death" is an authentic record of some famous and some lonely men who have been fighting, not primarily to gain knowledge, but to keep people alive. The book discusses in 12 chapters 12 doctors who have been famous in conquering disease in their fields. DeKruif presents each in a vitally interesting manner.

Harry Feld who made a personal study of the social problems of Hindu India before Katherine Mayo wrote her "Mother India" appraises "Mother India" and adds ideas of his own in "After Mother India." The result is enlightening.

"Toward Civilization," edited by Charles A. Beard, is a review of modern civilization by a group of scientists and engineers who inquire into the dynamics of their labors with particular reference to the human aspects. "Insiders looking out," as it were. Each chapter is by a famous scientist or engineer with a summary by Beard.

"Bula Matari Stanley, Conqueror of a Continent" by Jacob Wasserman is another biography, the biography of Henry M. Stanley. Eden and Cedar Paul have translated a biography, both factual and physical, of a modern conqueror who is chained to a contract, an embodiment of the mastery of the white race, an opener of continents who is a journalist and an investigator and at the mercy of material exigencies. A Puritan, a leader, on insatiable and a lost man when a life of action falls him.

There was a time when reaching forty meant that women were old and that men were facing a decline in health and business ability. Walter B. Picken, professor in journalism at Columbia university and author of "The Art of Living" does not think so. In "Life Begins at Forty," which he says contains "no Pollyanna platitudes" he brings an important message about self culture after 40.

Elmer Fremont Tittle, author of "Jesus After Nineteen Centuries," says: "After years of study of the new Testament with the aid of modern scholarship and with a sincere endeavor to the full account of every difficulty which such study is bound to reveal, I am convinced that for our generation Jesus is, indeed, the real and living way. Indeed, I am personally convinced that we must follow him or perish in a worldwide catastrophe." His book is a collection of lectures which he delivered on the Lyman Beecher Foundation at Yale university in 1932.

"Who's Who in America" for 1932 and 1933, the Nebraska Blue Book for 1932 and the 1932 Annual Report of the Nebraska State Board of Agriculture are among the new books.

"More Toasts" is a compilation by Mirion Dix Mosher of jokes, stories and quotations suitable for use in after dinner speeches and toasts.

"The Best Short Stories of 1932," edited by Paul Ernst Anderson and Lionel White, contains writing of both English and American authors. It is the first collection of the new story form—the short story. The volume contains about 50 stories of this type, obtained from many popular magazines.

"All in the Day's Riding" by Will James is an account, in cowboy vernacular, of the ordinary duties and experiences of the modern cowboy.

Those who enjoyed Richard Halliburton's "Glorious Adventure" and "The Royal Road to Romance" will be anxious to read his fourth book, "The Flying Carpet." In this new travel story he and a companion and new experiences in the air.

"The Boat of Longing" by O. E. Rolvaag, author of "Giants in the Earth," is the story of Nils, the fisherman, who comes to America in search of wealth and position and of a mystical, indefinable beauty which he longs for but cannot express except with his visions.

"The Bulpington of Blup" by H. G. Wells is a character study of Theodore Bulpington, an average English boy who stumbles through a lonely childhood and adolescence companioned and consoled by an imaginary self whom he visions as a conquering hero.

The Bulpington of Blup—handsome, clever, brave, equal to every emergency and applauded by all.

"Beyond the Blue Sierras" is a novel of the early West by Honore Morrow. The story concerns happenings in Mexico, Arizona and California during 1775 and 1776.

Another historical novel is "The Long Rifle" by Stewart Edward White. It concerns Andy Burnett and the period from 1810-1840. In a sequel, "Ranchero," Andy crosses the Divide and makes his way into the golden Sanish California of 1840. Both books are in the new shipment.

The history and hardships of our own section of the United States makes up "Let the Hurricane Roar" by Roe Wilder Lane, the story of a young, newly married couple who fearlessly make their way westward to the Dakotas to brave there all the hardships that befell pioneers of that day.

Sinclair Lewis' newest novel, "Ann Vickers," is among the shipment of new books. The story, which has been so widely discussed that it needs no introduction, ran in shortened serial form in the Red Book recently.

Another story which recently ran in serial form in a popular magazine is Katherine Norris' "Walls of Gold." The novel is one of Norris' finest.

Other novels with worth reading are "The Ransom" by Grace Livingston Hill, and "Bachelor's Bounty" by Grace S. Richmond.

There are four new murder mystery novels in. Two are by Edgar Wallace—"Sergeant Sir Peter" and "The Mystery of the Frightened Lady." "Murder at Monte Carlo" is by E. Phillips Oppenheim. And to delight lovers of the Philo Vance story—"The Kennel Murder Case" by S. S. Van Dine.

J. G. Mines recently donated to the library a large number of books. Included in the selection are many old classics and five new books. One is "The Garden" by L. A. G. Strong, a story of the Dublin seacoast of 30 years ago. Others are "Imberthance" by Phyllis Bentley, "The Sheltered Life" by Ellen Glasgow and "Shadows on the Rock" by Willa Cather. A fifth, which is especially fine, is "Eastern Pennsylvania" by Willis Nutting. Illustrations make the book outstanding.

Merchant and Strahan

Take on Goodrich Line

Announcement has been made by Merchant and Strahan, Inc., that they have become dealers for the nationally known line of tires and tubes manufactured by the B. F. Goodrich company of Akron, Ohio.

"They will feature as part of their service to customers the Goodrich Safety Silvertown and Goodrich Cavalier.

Goodrich, now in its sixty-third year of existence, has as its latest contribution to the war against highway accidents the new Golden Ply Safety Silvertown tire which incorporates a construction change against blowouts. The major improvement is a ply made of a special compound to resist internal heat and friction.

Hundreds of thousands of motorists have been enrolled in the Silvertown Safety League, pledging themselves to wage continuous war against road accidents.

More Cattle on Feed This Year Than Last

Nebraska cattle feeders had about 10 per cent more cattle on feed on April 1 this year than last, according to a report made Monday by the state and federal division of agricultural statistics. There are about 130,000 head more cattle on feed in the Corn Belt than a year ago, although operations are still below those of 1931 and the five-year average.

The report says that there was considerable hesitation in the Nebraska feeding business last fall due to poor financial conditions and relatively high prices of feeder cattle. Although prices of fat cattle were relatively high during the summer and early fall, a general decline was evident about the time that feeder cattle were purchased, without a corresponding decline in the price of feeders.

After corn and hay prices became ridiculously low and feeder cattle declined in price there was a revival interest in feeding. The corn crop was abnormally large and it appeared reasonably certain that farmers could get more out of their corn by feeding cattle. Both hog production and sheep feeding are below normal.

Reports from a large number of feeders as to their marketing plans for cattle on-feed show that proportion to be marketed before August this year is even smaller than the small proportion reported last year to be marketed before August.

President Franklin D. Roosevelt's railroad aid plan will be presented to congress next week.

An election to legalize 3.2 beer in dry Oklahoma has been called for July 11.

Sioux City retailers sold $75,000 worth of 3.2 beer last week.

Stories clipped from newspapers about actual telephone experiences—these statements of fact show tangible evidence of the telephone's importance in everyday life.

Each individual uses the telephone in his own way. The busy, to save time. The lonely, to make contacts. The friendly, to win more friendship. The frightened, to call for aid. The troubled, to find reassurance. The gay, to share their gaiety.

The telephone helps to seize opportunities, to share benefits. It lessens risks, prepares you for emergencies... saves time, trips and money.

COMMISSIONER PROCEEDINGS
Wayne, Nebraska, April 18, 1933.
Board met as per adjournment. All members present.

Minutes of meeting held April 4, 1933, read and approved.

In view of the fact that motor vehicle license fees have been greatly reduced, the sheriff of Wayne County is hereby ordered to arrest each and every person found to be driving a motor vehicle without a motor vehicle license, or anyone found to be driving a motor vehicle on an old license, also to arrest anyone found to be running more than one motor vehicle on the same license.

The sheriff is also ordered to notify all other peace officers in the county to do likewise.

Wayne Girl to Wed
Evanston Young Man
Mr. and Mrs. Claude L. Wright announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Miss Genevieve Wright, to Alfred Conrad Lexow of Evanston, Ill., on June 14. The ceremony will be performed in the chapel of the First Methodist church in Evanston, where Mr. Lexow is employed in the State Bank and Trust company.
Miss Wright is a graduate of Wayne high school and received her A. B. degree from Wayne State Teachers college. She taught in the school at St. Edward for two years and the next year attended Northwestern university at Evanston where she received her M. A. degree. She is serving as principal in Beemer high school this year.
Announcement of the engagement was made Saturday evening when Mrs. Wright entertained 12 young women at a puzzle party in the Beemer home. Mrs. Philip Baas of Wright was an out-of-town guest. Conundrums, jigsaw puzzles made of pictures of the couple, anagrams of their names, a musical romance game and cross word puzzles made of appropriate words furnished diversion and cleverly presented the announcement. Peach and spring green, Miss Wright's chosen colors, were carried out in decorations and in the luncheon which was served at the close.

High Schools to Hold Track Meet in Wayne

Ribbons will be awarded winners of first, second and third places in all events. Member schools of the conference which are eligible to enter teams are Pilger, Wisner, Winfield, Laurel, Coleridge and the Wayne Training school.

Perfect Cookery

If you're willing to put up with "half-way" good cookery, you won't be interested in the MONARCH Electric Range.
But if you want absolutely accurate cooking temperature, positive safety, maximum economy, even heat and constant reliability---you'll have to choose the MONARCH Electric Range.
