Owens Return from Vacation in Kentucky
Prof. and Mrs. J. Q. Owen and two daughters arrived home Saturday noon after an interesting trip of ten days through Kentucky and Illinois, where they visited relatives, as well as many spots of historical interest. In Springfield, Ill., they saw the Lincoln Memorial.
They stopped at Frankfort, the capital of Kentucky. Of special interest to the Owens was the recently completed capitol building, in the rotunda of which are three statues. The largest is of Lincoln and two smaller ones are of Henry Clay and Dr. Ephraim McDowell. Dr. McDowell, who gained fame as a pioneer surgeon, is a paternal ancestor of Mrs. Owen.
In Lexington the Owens visited the state university and at Harrodsburg they saw a replica of Fort Harrod. In the park there is Kentucky's oldest cemetery, in which is buried the first white child to die in the state. All graves are marked roughly at the head and foot. Near there stands the log cabin in which Nancy Hanks and Thomas Lincoln, parents of Abraham Lincoln, were married.
Enroute home the Owens passed through badly flooded districts. At Beardstewa, Ill., water was standing as high as eaves of the houses and farmers have not yet been able to put in their crops.

CARLSONS IN CERESCO RECITAL
Prof. and Mrs. Albert G. Carlson gave a piano lecture-recital last Thursday evening at the Mission church in Ceresco. A large audience was present to enjoy the program which consisted of classical and modern compositions.
In his talk, Prof. Carlson emphasized the effect of music on the individual and the idea that the better class of music presents the higher attributes of man. Truth, beauty, nobility, and universal love are elements of real music. Music, then, in its higher forms, is idealistic and inspirational.
Mrs. Carlson gave some delightful and instructive comments on her numbers.

Winners Are Selected in Prosperity Contest
Answers poured in to The Democrat's "Prosperity" contest, details of which were published in last week's paper, and merits of the answers were so close that it was necessary to name three additional winners of tickets to see the comedy, "Prosperity," at the gay theater.
Winners of two tickets were Mrs. Garfield Swanson, Mrs. May Merrick, Bob Merchant, Virginia May Lewis and Richard Best.
Winners of one ticket were Marilyn Glenn, Ethyl Lutz, Frank Gamble, Jr., Ruth Judson, Izetta Fay

Buelow, Margaret Mau, Arline Davis, David Likes, Don McGulgan, Billy Jones, Mrs. Dorothy Stone, Mrs. Robert Johnson and Verona Hahlbeck.
Among the winning prosperity slogans were the following:
Purchase away depression; "Buy at Home" is the key to prosperity; Think it, talk it and you have it. What? Prosperity; Pop up, dress up, feed up for prosperity is here; Buy now and start the ball rolling toward Prosperity; Let's go buy, buy, America.

MONARCH'S 8-Speed Cold Temperature Control and Automatic Safety Shut-off Switch

Consistent with MONARCH Range Quality, this new product of the MONARCH Factory has been added only after years of testing and experimenting until it has proved worthy of the recommendation of the MONARCH trade mark.

cooling coils are well protected in the Castincoil cooling unit, a heavy cast aluminum jacket, specially treated, completely surrounding the freezing compartment. This, in turn, is controlled by a convenient 8-speed cold temperature control---SELECT-O-COLD. This not only produces faster freezing of ice, salad and desserts when needed, but uniform temperature is assured throughout the food storage compartment as well. Safe, sure food preservation at a temperature well below the danger point without chance of freezing foods. A minimum of parts and connections assures dependable operations as well as simplified service when required,

Modern Food Preservation requires dependable equipment to produce and maintain uniform cold for safe food storage--as important as uniform heat in modern bake ovens. MONARCH Refrigerating Units are dependable due to their moderate design and construction. It is standardized throughout and includes all leading refrigerator designs. First, a highly efficient and perfectly safe refrigerant is used. Second the Parts of the Monarch Refrigerator are fitted down to within two ten-thousandths of an inch.
