Fire Hazard Inspection to Be Held Here

State Association of Be in Charge of Wayne Campaign.

Members of the Wayne Young Business Men's club will hold a banquet at Hotel Stratton Wednesday evening at 6:30 o'clock in connection with the Fire Prevention program which is being staged here under the sponsorship of that organization on that day. The public is invited to attend the banquet.

Henry E. Ley will serve as toastmaster at the banquet. T. S. Hook, president of the Kiwanis club, will give the address of welcome and members of the Nebraska State Fire Prevention association will present the remainder of the program.

Between 30 and 40 members of the State Fire Prevention association will be in Wayne on Wednesday to make an inspection of all Wayne business houses, churches and schools. The purpose of the inspection is to discover any defects in construction, equipment or upkeep of a business house or public institution that may cause fire if not remedied.

Members of the state fire organization will make short talks to students of the Wayne public schools and the training school.

In addition to inspecting local buildings, they will examine all Wayne fire hydrants and fire fighting equipment.

Mayor Martin L. Ringer sent out letters yesterday to all local firms, urging them to have their places of business in good order for the inspection and asking the co-operation of local people in making the fire hazard inspection as successful as possible.

Following the inspection, the fire preventionists will list the defects they have found in each place of business or public building and will suggest the necessary improvements.

The inspection is part of a country-wide plan sponsored by business men and civic organizations. L. B. McClure is in charge of the Wayne inspection, with E. B. Fleetwood and Henry E. Ley as assistants.

Hickman Explains Grid Rules at Kiwanis Club

Wayne Kiwanians were treated to an interesting and informative talk Monday noon at Hotel Stratton when Wildcat coach Ray Hickman gave an explanation of the 1933 football rules. Coach Hickman outlined the rules changes and gave the men a concise summary of important rules, explaining the penalties for rule violations. Mr. Hickman also explained something of the different tactics employed by football teams on defensive and offensive play.

Wayne Turns to Baseball Series

Wayne business underwent a relapse between the hours of 1:00 and 3:00 p. m. on Tuesday and Wednesday of this week, as local people gathered around their radio sets to listen to play-by-play reports of the World's Series.

Such mysterious phrases as "I drew the eighth inning" and "I'm in the pool" were being uttered frequently in the business district by men who ordinarily show little or no interest in the great American pastime.

Sentiment in Wayne seemed to favor the Washington Senators as winners of the series, despite the fact that the Washington team got away to a bad start by losing the first two games.

Miss Potras and Miss Ross organized their teaching work together Monday and Tuesday, alternately relieving each other at school.

Charles Bowers, secretary of the State Teachers' association, attended Tuesday's sessions of the Institute. He said that prospects for the coming State Teachers' association meetings promise the best programs ever arranged. Little decrease in attendance is anticipated at these meetings this year, he said.

A number of guests were in attendance at all sessions of the Institute. Many of those who attended said that it was one of the finest they had ever been privileged to attend.

Wildcats Win Grid Opener at Wesleyan

Gast Leads Local Team to 7-6 Victory at Lincoln.

A try for point after touchdown meant victory for Wayne Teachers and defeat for Nebraska Wesleyan Saturday night when Gast, Wayne fullback, led the Wildcats in chalking up a 7 to 6 score in the local team's first football game of the season.

Wesleyan scored first in the third period by marching 69 yards on 11 plays to score a touchdown immediately after the kickoff. Weyand's kick for the extra point was low, after being partially blocked.

A 41-yard return of Johnson's kickoff put Wayne in line for a touchdown, in the same period. Gast drove across the line into the end zone and then repeated his performance by plunging for the extra point.

Wayne threatened late in the first half and the gun sounded as the Wildcats had the ball on the one-yard line and were lining up for another try.

Gast was Wayne's main threat, his smashes through the line accounting for much of the Wildcats' lineage. He proved a menace to Wesleyan tacklers, carrying them along with him several times after they had their hands on him. He showed great improvement on his defense play over his work last year. It was his defensive play that stopped Wesleyan's second bid for a score.

Paul, Wayne tackle, and Brodhagen, center, were outstanding in the Wayne line. Evans' passing was one of the highlights of the game.

Summary:

Wayne	LE	Shuman
Owens	LT	Johnson
Paul	LG	Wright
Fischer	C	Misner
Brodhagen	RG	Smith
Henderson	RT	Marrow
Cook	RE	Merrhouse
Lamson	QB	Trot

Wayne Grid Stock Is Hitting Upward Trend

Wayne Teachers football stock went up this week, following the Wildcats' unexpected win Saturday night over Wesleyan, but Coach Ray Hickman was far from satisfied with his squad this week and was working his backfield hard in an attempt to develop a stronger gridiron offensive.

Wayne was one of the few Nebraska colleges to show up on the winning side of the ledger this week. Kearney fought to a 6-6 tie with Doane and Chadron was swamped, 13 to 0, by Colorado university. Omaha university took the short end of a 19 to 0 score from DePaul.

Wayne High Beats Lyons by 7-6 Score

Prep Gridmen Take First Game of Season by Kick for Point.

Coach Bob Gibb unveiled his Wayne high school football team last Friday afternoon at college field, and a crowd of several hundred spectators was agreeably surprised to see the local gridmen win from Lyons by a 7-6 score.

The kick for extra point after touchdown told the story, but behind that story was a picture of teamwork and ability to handle the ball. Local followers of the pigskin pastime were pleased at what they saw and many predicted a number of things for the Wayne team which defy prediction in the only game where the ball is apt to bounce any way at all.

Captain Cunningham and Brown were outstanding in the Wayne lineup, while Hansen was Lyons' chiefest scoring threat.

Coach Gibb had reason to be pleased with his pony backfield, but the greatest surprise to the spectators was the remarkable early season efficiency of the Wayne line, much of which was recruited from last year's backfield.

County Board Refuses to Build Spur from No. 113 to Carroll.

Wayne county commissioners had a stormy session Tuesday afternoon, when the county board was called on to determine the county's stand in connection with Governor Bryan's project of building highway No. 113 through Wayne county.

After heated discussions, a resolution saying that the state could use county road machinery in construction of the highway was signed by Commissioners Frank Erxleben and Dave Koch. This resolution made no reference to county construction of a spur from No. 113 to Carroll, which had been requested by the Governor.

The Governor's authorization for highway building in Wayne county called for construction of a gravelled state highway directly west of Wayne on Seventh street to the Pierce county line, with the provision for the county to grade and gravel a branch road to Carroll.

Henry Rothwisch, commissioner from the Carroll vicinity, voted "No" on the proposal to build the Carroll spur and on the proposal to grant the state the use of county road machinery.

Mr. Koch voted favorably on the grant of the use of the county road machinery but refused to approve construction of the Carroll spur. Mr. Erxleben was favorable to both propositions.

At the present time, it is not known what the Governor's reaction will be to the commissioners' refusal to build the Carroll spur. Wayne county leaders of the National Re-Employment Service had hoped for a complete grant of the Governor's requests, inasmuch as construction of the road was expected to be the only federal unemployment aid to be offered in Wayne county. The project would furnish a winter's work to many men.

Opposition to construction of the highway came from the Carroll vicinity where State Representative Frank Kloppping, numerous Carroll business men and a few farmers had waged a long fight against the road.

Wayne County Man Is Put Under Peace Bond

Roy Leinart was put under peace bond Tuesday, as a result of a complaint filed Monday in County Judge J. M. Cherry's court by Lindley Bressler. Bressler charged that he had just cause to fear that Leinart would assault him with his intent to do great bodily harm.

In Judge Cherry's court on Tuesday Leinart pleaded guilty. He was ordered to give bond to keep the peace for three months and was assessed court cost of $7.55.

The Inquiring Reporter

THIS WEEK'S QUESTION

Who do you think will win the World's Series? (Asked Tuesday).
Clerk: I favor the Giants. They are the under dogs, but they have a powerful team and the senior circuit is nearly always superior to the American league.

Merchant: Washington will win. The Senators have a better pitching staff and a better all-round team.

Barber: Washington is my pick. The Washington team has shown more consistent ability to play good baseball and has a powerful bunch of pitchers.

Student: My guess is the Giants. New York always has a strong team and, if a New York team gets into the series, you can just about count on their winning it.

Mechanic: It ought to be easy for Washington. The Senators have shown superiority in every branch of the game.

NOTICE OF SHERIFF'S SALE
By virtue of an order of sale issued out of the District Court of Wayne County, Nebraska, and in pursuance

THE KNOT-HOLE

No. 15 Wayne, Nebraska, Thursday, October 5, 1933. Vol. 8

Believe me the oldest continuous settlement in Nebraska. Here the first territorial governor was sworn in in 1854.

There is a "knot" in getting the most heat out of your coal. If you don't feel that you are getting maximum results, call us. We may be able to offer a suggestion.

Father to Son—"Why don't you get out and find a job? When I was your age I was working for $3.00 a week in a store and at the end of the year I owned the store."

Son—"You can't do that nowadays. They have cash registers."

Coal packing time is here right now. See us for wagon box repairs, corn crib repairs and other items of a like nature.

Lots of times people say that when they build again they will have an insulated house. It isn't necessary to wait. A number of Wayne people have built insulation into their attics this summer and they are delighted with the results. Let us measure your attic and tell you what the insulation will cost. No charge for this service.

Good cedar shingles are so low in price, as compared to any other roofing, that no one can afford not to use them. They will also wear from two to three times as long.

Hubbard—"I want to

He—"When I play golf I don't think about eating."
She—"When I play bridge I don't think about cooking."

You will need fuel this coming winter, that's certain. Knowing that as you do, don't you think you would be a good idea to have a "preliminary" load or two put in right now? Then you would be ready for cold weather and there would be no uneasiness.

Refrigerators are being reconditioned that coal is cheaper this fall. That's not so. Coal is cheaper in many kinds this fall than it has been since before the war. You can heat your homes at less cost today with coal than you can with any other fuel. Ask us about it.

Visitors—"Does the water always come through the roof like that?"
Landlord—"No, sir, only when it rains."

A lot of farmers are reupholstering their wagon boxes these days. Let us quote you on wagon box material for old and new boxes.

We have a good supply of portable corn cribs both steel and slats.

Boss—"Can you operate a typewriter?"
Typist—"Yes, I use the Biblical system."
Boss—"I never heard of it."
Typist—"Seek and ye shall find."

It's simple—we'll deliver one ton or a carload of coal. Try us.

"Heat With COAL"

Say Those Who Have Tried Other Methods

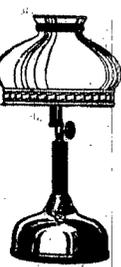

Surprisingly, some of our most enthusiastic supporters are those who are not using COAL right now. But they are going to! They are folks who tried other ways of heating their homes. And they tell us nothing will lure them from COAL again.

COAL'S steady, comfortable, reliable warmth cannot be duplicated—COAL'S safety and cleanliness and economy is hard to beat. COAL is so much less expensive—more heat per dollar and no extravagant extra installations. Folks who have changed are changing back—save yourself the trouble—heat with COAL.

WAYNE MARKET REPORTS

Following are the market prices quoted us up to the time of going to press.

Table of market prices for various commodities like Corn, Oats, Barley, Cream, Eggs, Springs, Roosters, Hens.

ECONOMIC HIGHLIGHTS

Since the middle of July there has been a definite—but yet not overly severe—downward trend in general business.

Conditions obtaining in various fields are as follows: COMMODITY PRICES—Advanced sharply, and still upward.

DOMESTIC TRADE—This continues to present a puzzling picture. What expansion there has been is not commensurate with the increase in production.

EMPLOYMENT—Definitely upward, though somewhat retarded in August.

BANKING—During a recent six weeks' period 200 banks with deposits in excess of $200,000,000 reopened.

SECURITIES—The most severe break for a long time was that of the middle of July, which canceled the gains made in previous months.

FOREIGN TRADE—Has continued the upward trend that started in May.

CONSTRUCTION—The long improvement in the construction industry still in an appearance in early August.

RAILROADS—Carloadings in recent months have been well above those of a year ago.

AUTOMOBILES—Recently the production index, with allowance made for seasonal trends, touched the highest point since June, 1931.

AGRICULTURE—Wholesale prices of farm and food products, meats alone excepted, have been showing substantial and steady advances.

LUMBER—It's too early to tell what Lumber Code stipulations, which have aroused a tremendous amount of dissenting opinion.

STEEL—Has been expanding operations, with a recession occurring in August.

Probably won't take the form of printing press money. If the Administration has its way, it will be done through an extension of bank credit.

Things Winchell Never Knew "Till Now (and probably not yet): If a breath detector could be placed upon all the people in Wayne who have said, "I wouldn't take a drink of beer myself but I'm liberal-minded about what other people do" the conclusion would be reached that somebody lied.

SCOTT SHOTS

by "SCOTTY"

Heart. (Liquor's his vice.) If you were to use to advantage all the time you waste reading such material as this, you would probably be President of the United States.

It T. S. Hook said "Hello" instead of "Hello, hello," his greeting would be only 89 per cent.

There is a girl at Hoskins who has never necked. (Her mother plans on putting her in the kindergarten next year.)

If all the automobiles in Wayne county were paid for, it would be exceptional.

If all the tomato soup that is consumed in Wayne in a year were to be placed in the college pool, it would be a hell of a mess.

Wayne has no residents named Oscar Pfampf (and only one George Benjamin Anderson.)

Back in 1914, a garage mechanic told a Wayne man, "This job won't cost you as much as I thought it would."

If all the money in the Wayne banks were stacked up in a pile, it would be a lot of jack.

Modesty is not the reason for the diaper (I learned it from an Old Chinese philosopher.)

If all the lipstick used by Wayne county girls in a year were to be thrown into a pit 40 feet deep, it would be all right.

A Wayne man had lived to a ripe old age without ever having had a sweet-

Idda faw is ad awful bad tibe to hav a code idda doze, but I have wud, so I guess I gotta grid ad bear id.

Main Street Mummies; He hadda pay a fifteen dollar fine, but if he'da got drunk in the country instead of in town it wouldn't cost him a cent.

You probably enjoyed that quit of Winchell's recently as much as I did. I mean the one that went like this: "On a busy Saturday night recently a Times square desk sergeant got a call from a man who said, in an agitated voice, he must speak with the chief of detectives."

"Oh, chief," gushed the fellow, "the reason I insisted on getting you was because I've read of your distinguished sleuthing and I wouldn't dare ask this question of anybody less capable than you."

"Yes, yes," replied the impatient chief, "what is the question?" "Guess," was the teaser, "who this is."

I wonder if Mr. Winchell ever heard the true story about the fellow that dialed the number of Howard Amick, Sioux City telephone manager.

Again pops up this letter, which is supposed to have been sent a firm in reply to a dun: "It is impossible for me to send you a check. My present financial condition is due to the effect of federal laws, state laws, county laws, corporation laws, by-laws, brother-in-laws, mother-in-laws, and outlaws, that have been foisted upon an unsuspecting public."

"These laws compel me to pay a merchant's tax, capital stock tax, income tax, real estate tax, property tax, auto tax, gas tax, water tax, light tax, cigar tax, street tax, school tax, sales tax, and syntax and carpet tax. "I am suspected, expected, inspected, disrespected, examined, reexamined, until all I know is that I'm supplicated for money for every known need, desire or hope of the human race, and because I refuse to fall and go out and beg, borrow and steal money to give away, I am cursed and discussed, boycotted, talked to, talked about, lied to, lied about, held up, held down and robbed until I am completely ruined, so the only reason I am clinging to life is to see what the hell is coming next."

Prof. F. C. Reed sees signs of a renaissance of interest in music. Musical instrument dealers, he says, are buying all the used instruments they can get, and admit that they are selling them easily at a good profit.

Fred Howard, Clay Center's leading custer of Sunbeams, now takes the stand and testifies in his own behalf, taking his carefully-picked words from the front page of The Clay County Sun.

Thin ideas find homes in thick heads. To forget the faults of your friends, consider your own.

Who depends upon lodge, church or elvite obligation to promote any private enterprise indicates a fearful lack of knowledge of things as they are.

If she continues to warm her cold feet in the middle of your back, she still loves you. If she employs the back of another—on your way.

A church in the county recently advertised that it would "do visitors good." Quite a large contingent of the 1929 sucker crop have not yet recovered to the extent of wishing to be done good again.

There will be no tears shed when the bald headed fraternity parts company with the summer fly. By the way, has answer ever been made to the query as when the flies of an all night restaurant sleep?

Those lucky devils who do not read the newspapers nor listen to gossip will not have heard yet that the country is off the gold standard, that trouble brews in Cuba, that NRA is a hard taskmistress for the unwilling, or that they are enjoying an era of prosperity unprecedented in several years.

The box office is the reason. In the picture palace windows the lithograph showing an undressed woman walking away from the camera gets twice the attention given to another picture of a fat comedian in full street dress. The undressed woman looks rather cheeky, but the funster looks nothing but imbecilic.

In my usual unobtrusive way I butted into a party of young women discussing a purchase at Elder's store a few days ago. It proved to be a council over some darn thing made of lavender and old lace. Blinded by embarrassment which was quite old fashioned I beat a hasty retreat followed by a gale of merry laughter.

County fair; Long undies; Furnace fire; Frozen pipes; Snow shoveling; BUT A big dishpanful of hot popcorn; a butterhorn filled with red checked apples; Buckwheat pancakes and sausage; Lunas full of health giving, crispy ozone; Sleighbells and singing runners; Football; Nights when the moonlight sends dancing beams across miles of level stony arid stardust falls in beatuous spray; these are some of the things of compensatory nature just around the corner. Hurry, lets have them!

Another question: How does this plan give the contract signer an advantage over the non-contract signer? The contract signer will get at least $1 a hundred more for his hogs during the period from November 1 to June 1, if the plan is approved.

The contract signer will be able to rent his corn land for a good cash price, and still get value out of it as pasture. Further advantages to the contract signer may be provided. The Agricultural Adjustment Administration is now checking over the program, particularly to see if adequate funds for renting can be secured, and to see that the ends desired by the committee in regard to hog and corn reduction are adequately provided for.

Farmers should remember that this proposed plan may be altered in several particulars before the committee and the Agricultural Adjustment Administration finally submit it to corn belt farmers for their approval.

They should remember, also, that it was the unanimous opinion of the committee, after going over a hundred plans in the last two months, that no advance in corn or hogs prices could be maintained unless producers were willing to sign up for heavy reduction in production of both corn and hogs.

Pushing the Corn-Hog Program

From Wallace's Farmer

The committee of 25, representing producers of corn and hogs in the middlewest, has made recommendations to the secretary of agriculture on a program designed to lift both corn and hog prices. Full details of the program, at the request of the committee, are now being worked out by the Agricultural Adjustment Administration.

On hogs, the committee asks: 1—An agreement with packers to the end that hog prices may be advanced to parity (around $8 a hundred) at Chicago by November 1, and held there until June 1, 1934. Prices on heavy hogs would be lower, in order to encourage the sale of hogs at lighter weights.

2—A processing tax of $2 a hundred on hogs. At least $1 of this would be turned back to contract signers who shipped hogs under 220 pounds.

3—Action to sustain this price by buying up surplus hogs for sale to the Federal Relief Administration, and by others means.

At the start, at least, the processing tax would come out of the price for hogs paid to the producer. Assuming that the Chicago price were raised to $8, the net price to the farmer would be $6 after deducting a $2 processing tax. If the farmer were a contract signer, he would get back $1 of this tax, and the price to him would be $7. It should be remembered that these prices are estimates only, and that they may be changed materially before the plan is finally announced.

On corn, the committee asks: 1—A reduction of 15,000,000 acres in the 1934 crop, this reduction to be secured by renting land at the rate of 30 cents a bushel on the average yield of rented land. This would mean a $12 per acre rental on 40-bushel land.

2—Of this rental, 25 per cent would be paid as soon as the rental contract was approved, 15 per cent on August 1, 1934, and the balance on December 1, 1934.

3—The corn acreage plan would not go into effect until the total of 15,000,000 acres had been rented. Each state and county would be given an allotment. Within the county, every farmer would have an opportunity to rent a portion of his land. However, in case farmers declined to rent land, the others would be permitted to increase their rented acreages so that the country's allotment could be met. All contracts would have to be signed by January 15, 1934.

For a permanent program on hogs, the committee suggests: 1—Every contract signer turn in a record of hog marketings for 1931-35, so that a start can be made in getting records to use as a basis for an allotment scheme on hogs, beginning November 1, 1934.

NOTICE OF SHERIFF'S SALE

By virtue of an order of sale issued out of the District Court of Wayne County, Nebraska, and in pursuance of a decree of said Court in an action therein pending, wherein The Prudential Insurance Company of America is plaintiff and John G. These dealers in musical instruments tell the local bandmaster that children all over the country are becoming music-minded. And, incidentally, their elders are firing of an exclusive diet of "canned" music. The next 10 years, Professor Reed believes, will see a fine crop of expert musicians develop. And he also believes that people will appreciate 'em more than they appreciate the good musicians of these present mad years.

The rally day services last Sunday proved successful and helpful. In the Sunday school a special program was held, one of the features of which was an orchestra conducted by Prof. Keith. We may expect to hear more from this musical group. 50 young people were at the Epworth League meeting led by Miss Ramsey. This meeting was preceded by a social hour very successfully arranged, by Kermit Stewart. Now we need to keep the rally spirit going in all branches of the church.

We invite you to the services next Sunday. Church school 10 a. m. and worship service at 11. Junior and Epworth Leagues at 6:30 with the bright evening service at 7:30. Sunday is the day we shall really gain by spending for our religion and our church.

Thursday this week the Woman's Home Missionary society meets at the home of Mrs. Ross. Next Thursday the Foreign Society is to meet.

Tuesday evening next the Junior League are planning a Carnival to be given in the church social room to which they invite everybody. Wednesday afternoon Ladies Circle number 3 will meet with Mrs. Paul Simon, there will be election of officers.

Greek Legend Gave Us Augean Stables Story

In Greek legend Augeas was a king of Elis who possessed a herd of 8,000 sacred oxen whose stalls had not been cleaned for 80 years. The cleaning of these stables in a single day was one of the 12 difficult and dangerous labors imposed upon Hercules by Eurystheus, king of Argolis. Hercules, who was promised a tenth part of the cattle in payment, succeeded in performing the task within the required time by turning the rivers Alpheus and Peneus through the stables. Augeas refused to turn over any part of the cattle to Hercules on the ground that he had carried out the commission in the service of Eurystheus, whereupon Hercules sent an army into Elis and destroyed the insolent king and his sons. Figuratively, cleaning the Augean stables means to clear away an accumulated mass of corruption or filth or to reform wrongs almost past the power of man to remedy.

Manila Up to Date

Venice of the Orient is one of the names given to Manila of the Philippine islands. The name comes to it because it is situated on both banks of the Pasig river and enjoys some canal life from the river. These waters provide a lot of bridges for the city suggestive of the Rialto of the Old world.

Thirty-five years ago the city had no drainage system and a heavy rain made boats on the streets a necessity. Around the Internuros, or walled city, which is most typical of its Spanish days, were walls and a moat dating back to 1590, two miles long and 25 feet high. Today the moat is given up to fine driveways and only the bridged river and canals remind the tourist of a city of islands.

The Postgraduate Wife

She asks her husband occasionally if he thinks there is any real danger in the political situation. The time most favored by experts for this question is when he has only five minutes in which to make his train. She never unfolds his morning paper. Few, even from the post-graduate school, develop sufficient technique for this important detail within five years. She takes charge of reads and returns all books lent him by his friends and gives him a few sentences which enable him to talk about them if cornered.—Kansas City Star.

Vienna Old and Beautiful

Vienna, founded 2000 years ago by the Romans, destroyed and rebuilt several times, is still a queen among modern cities, although it is no longer the residence of an imperial court. It has a famous opera, by many considered among the best in German-speaking lands. It certainly has the oldest tradition, dating back into the Seventeenth century. The public buildings, palaces, galleries, educational institutions, theaters and museums offer an inexhaustible fund of beauty and instruction.

Shiny-Headed Monster

At three o'clock in the morning we were awakened by a loud knocking at the door. On looking out of the window, we saw a queer looking beast about six feet long, having four legs, no neck and a shiny head three feet long. Before we could get a gun it disappeared in the darkness. We thought it an escaped animal from the circus. The next morning, cautiously walking, we found a big stray pig with its head tightly wedged in a tangle milk can.—Farm Journal.

Permission or Command?

The first-grade teacher in Sheridan, Ind., was drilling her pupils in the use of "may" and "can" and was directing a game wherein the pupil designated asked some one a question using either of the words as he thought best.

One little girl asked a ruddy-faced boy opposite her: "Jack, may I wash the dishes?" "Yes, you may," Jack retorted; "and make it snappy!"—Indianapolis News.

"Cheater"

Under English feudal law all land reverts to the crown if in default of heritable heirs—in other words, it escheats (from the Latin excheatere—to fall away). And the officers who had charge of the interests of the crown in matters of land that should so pass to the king were called "escheaters." There is food for the honesty of those men whose name came to be synonymous with "thief."

Silver Dollar of 1804 Is Rarest of American Coins

The 1804 silver dollar is the rarest of all American coins. There were some 20,000 of them minted, which seems to be a goodly number. But just why this coin is so rare is told by George G. Evans in his "Illustrated History of the United States Mint": "The scarcity of this dollar was owing to the sinking of a Chinabound vessel having on board almost the entire mintage of 1804 dollars in lieu of Spanish milled dollars. In those days American dollars were being carried to China to compete with the Spanish dollars which circulated in that country."

The history asserts that there are not more than seven or eight genuine 1804 dollars extant, and the coin has become known as "the king of American rarities."

The originals are from but one obverse and one reverse die. A draped bust of Liberty faces right, the head bound with a fillet, the hair flowing. There are six stars before and seven behind the bust, and above it the word "Liberty." On the reverse is a heraldic eagle bearing on his breast a broad shield, in his beak a scroll with the words "E Pluribus Unum." In his right talon twelve arrows, and in his left an olive branch. There is an arc of clouds extending between the tips of his outstretched wings, and below this thirteen stars. This side is inscribed United States of America. The edge of the coin is lettered "one hundred cents one dollar or unit."

The best copy of this coin is in the cabinet of the United States mint. A few restrikes were made in 1858 and between 1869 and 1869. Many of these were destroyed, and dies were also, in 1869. The restrikes are also very valuable.

Asserts Ideal Bridegroom Is Man of Love Affairs

The ideal bridegroom is a man who has accumulated—and discarded—five or six love affairs, Prof. Erdman Harris of the Union Theological Seminary of New York declared.

Addressing a conference on the "ideal husband," participated in by 50 men and women students of eastern colleges, Professor Harris said:

"In studying the masculine side of marriage, I have considered 200 cases. I find that if a man can't fall in love without apologizing to his mother for it, he is not a good marriage risk."

"A man who has had sisters is a good marriage risk."

"The best marriage risk is the man who has had at least a mild love affair. If he has had five or six affairs, it is better."

"It is necessary that the man have some knowledge of sex, too."

"A man who is easy to room with; easy to play with, is a better risk than one who isn't."

Illinois Fruit Growers Thinning Out Orchards

Intent upon reducing wastes and losses and producing more economically, 25 southern Illinois fruit growers thinned 11,500 trees from their orchards the past year, according to reports collected by R. S. Marsh, horticultural extension specialist of the college of agriculture, University of Illinois. These same growers have almost 2,000 more trees labeled for removal during the coming year.

Growers throughout the state are taking up the tree thinning and culling campaign which the extension service of the agricultural college is conducting.

Thinning out crowded trees, even in well cared for orchards, is held to be particularly essential at this time if growers are to wage a successful fight against the growing menace of insects and diseases and thereby reduce wastes and losses and keep down production costs. Even more important is the culling out of more than 900,000 apple trees in neglected orchards.

Best Handling of Manure

If manure is left in the stall or feed yards where it will be kept moist and thoroughly tramped, so as to exclude air, there is no better method of storing. Some of the liquid manure may be lost when earth floors are used and it may be economical to provide concrete floors to prevent this loss. This method of handling manure is advisable mainly where well-bedded stalls are provided for horses, and in cattle sheds or mule barns where the animals run loose and the tramping is very thorough.

It is best to have a system of cropping so that a place to scatter manure will be available during most of the year. This will avoid the necessity for storing any great amount of it about the farm. Thus, in a rotation of corn, oats, wheat, and clover, the manure would usually be applied to the clover sod and plowed under for corn.—Missouri Farmer.

Majority of Headaches Traced to Eye Strain

Seven out of ten headaches are caused by eye strain due to neglect of ordinary eye care, pointed out M. J. Julian of the Better Vision Institute, in a speech in Boston before a group of eyesight specialists. Other ills, such as insomnia and indigestion, are also traceable to this cause, he pointed out, and yet 40 per cent of the people of this country need glasses and are trying to do without them.

"The eyes are such faithful servants that we are inclined to forget the burdens we put upon them," said Mr. Julian. "Particularly in this age where men are pushing their investigations farther and farther into the realms of stars and atoms and where most manufacturing processes depend upon the precision, the tax upon the eyes has become far greater than we realize. The nervous energy possessed by the body is limited, and the eyes, if they perform this additional labor unaided, steal some of the energy required for other functions. Lenses especially adapted to the work in hand are necessary to relieve the strain on the eyes and release the stored energy through the intended channels. Proper eye care is more needed in this age than in any other."

Lost Spud Find May Bring Growers Gold

Early Development of Peach-blow Colorado's Hope.

By C. H. Metzger, Associate Horticulturist, Colorado Agricultural College.

Colorado potato growers may increase their incomes at least $100,000 yearly within three or four years as the result of the finding and development of an almost extinct strain of potatoes known as dark red Peach-blow or Red McClure.

The lost strain that is believed to have originated 30 years ago was located on the McClure farm at Carbondale, from which it took its name. It was a sport or seedling of the Peachblow potato.

Although this potato was produced in 1908 at a farm near Carbondale, all trace of it disappeared until 1927 when the college in connection with its potato improvement program, collected 250 varieties of potatoes for comparative tests. In this collection was the dark red Peachblow. It had been obtained from a Teller county rancher.

Later the same strain of potatoes, which commands a premium of 10 to 15 cents a 100 pounds on the market because of its attractive color, was found on a farm in El Paso county and a ranch in Teller county.

Farmers' Institutes Are

Crowd Bringers in Ohio

Although community funds for farmers' institutes have shrunk from $38,000 to $28,000, or 40 per cent, the total attendance or number of persons served has continued to increase, a rise of 14 per cent in the last two years, according to J. P. Schmidt, supervisor of farmers' institutes for the agricultural extension service of the Ohio State university.

Funds, he says, have decreased but requests for help are greatly increasing. Costs averaged about 8.3 cents per person attending in 1931-32, of which the state paid 2.3 cents. The total attendance was 799,395.

Institutes, which are open to any citizen in the community and which have been publicly supported since 1890, were held in all 88 Ohio counties. Wayne county, home of the Ohio agricultural experiment station, had the largest number of institutes and highest attendance in 1932, 16 institutes with a total attendance of 37,790.

Eighty-four per cent of the 89 members of the present regular farmers' institute staff, Schmidt pointed out, are farmers. The same person in some farm group rates as successful in some farm enterprise, college trained, or a master farmer or master homemaker.

Twenty co-operating state agencies furnish some talent at no cost or for expenses only. Among these are the state department of agriculture, the Ohio agricultural experiment station, farm organizations, state department of education, Ohio Bankers' association, state department of health, commodity marketing associations, and the Ohio Council of Churches.

Spray While You Prune

The home fruit grower can do much while he is pruning his trees toward lessening the number of injurious insects he will have to combat during the succeeding growing season, says a writer in the Rural New Yorker.

The close inspection of individual trees necessary for this work makes it impractical for the commercial orchardist, but it is a time and labor saver for the home grower with a few trees and little spraying equipment. While pruning keep a sharp lookout for egg masses, larvae and cocoons. Among the many things to look for, the following may be mentioned: The gelatin-like masses of eggs of the tent caterpillar, which are usually placed on small twigs; frothy egg-masses of the tussock moth; the cocoons of the codling moth which will be found under the codling moth which tree trunk; pear psylla, minute insects which often hibernates under the rough bark on the trunks; twig-birds which can be controlled by burning all twigs found on the ground.

Home-Made Brush Burner

A homemade brush burner, which will burn orchard prunings as fast as three men can pile them, solves one common orchard problem for Clifton and Everett Derby of North Leominster, Mass. The burner is merely a large box, 10 feet by 6 feet by 3 feet deep, made of scrap iron, salvaged from old iron drums and sheet roofing, the pieces fastened together with stove bolts. Ventilation, which was found necessary to keep the brush burning, was provided by chopping a hole in the sides with an ax. The box is mounted on skids and is pulled through the orchard at the end of the pruning season by a tractor or team, while men pick up the pruned branches from under the trees and pile them in the box.

Fossil Remains Blamed for Defects in Teeth

It is a long call from the mastodons—giant elephants that roamed over North America 50,000 years ago—to the teeth of Arizona school children, but there appears to be a clear connection as reported from the Arizona experiment station of the Department of Agriculture.

A large number of the inhabitants of the village of St. David, Ariz., had a peculiar condition of the teeth known as mottled enamel. This was found in every person whose permanent teeth had been erupted in the locality. It was finally traced to the drinking water, mostly obtained from artesian wells.

Analysis showed this water to contain an abnormal amount of the chemical element fluorine. The deeper the wells the less fluorine.

Further research in the vicinity revealed deposits of fossilized mastodon bones and tusks. This contained considerable quantities of the rare element. The conclusion was that the long dead animals constituted at least one source of the impurity in the water that affected the children's teeth with a presumably incurable defect.—Detroit News.

Masterpiece of Nature That Defies Puny Man

In 1890 the owners of a tract of redwood timber near Porterville, Calif., attempted to fell a giant redwood tree but failed. The tree was sawed through from both sides at an angle and although cut through was held as in a vise. A little Irish lumberjack used a charge of black powder in the cut, but all that the charge did was to move the saved end of the tree an inch in its resting place. Had dynamite been available at the time the tree would not have been saved. Men at that time were engaged in the forests cutting stakes for use in fencing in the valleys. Hitching posts were turned out and were in great demand in front of all business places in the town of the treeless valleys of California. But the tree that refused to fall though cut entirely through, still stands, dead of course, in the dense forest near Porterville.

Maple Tree Sap

The movement of sap in the maple tree is described generally as follows: It is the watery solution which circulates through the vascular tissue in woody plants. The ascending current consists of the water of imbibition in which are dissolved various salts obtained from the earth. This so-called crude sap passes through the xylem portion of the vascular bundles to the chlorophyll-containing tissues, the leaves in most plants, where the surplus water is transpired into newly formed carbohydrates and proteins through the phloem or sieve tissue to the parts of the plant which may require them, the descending current often being called elaborated sap. From this it will be seen that the sap taken in tapping a tree is the type of sap which has already formed the carbohydrates and proteins and is therefore largely from the descending or elaborated sap.

Defense of Hobbies

It was "Tristram Shandy" that made Lawrence Sterne famous, but he had other hobbies than writing novels, many of them, books, shooting, painting and fiddling. His excuse for indulging in so many hobbies was framed in words like these: "Have not the wisest men in all ages, not excepting Solomon himself, had their hobby-horses, their running horses, their coins and their cockle shells, their drums and their trumpets, their fiddles and their butterflies? And so long as a man rides his hobby-horse peaceably and quietly along the king's highway, and neither compels you nor me to get up behind him, pray sir, what have you or I to do with it?"

Needle Long in Heart

That Edward Sell, forty-five, of Hayes, England, carried a needle in his heart for more than four weeks was revealed by X-rays. Sell was working on an airplane when a needle in the apron of an upholsterer was driven into his breast. It was considered too dangerous at the time to operate. Four weeks later an operation was tried, but had to be stopped before the needle was removed. Sell died soon afterward, and a needle two inches long was found in the left ventricle of his heart.

Resin Industry Growing

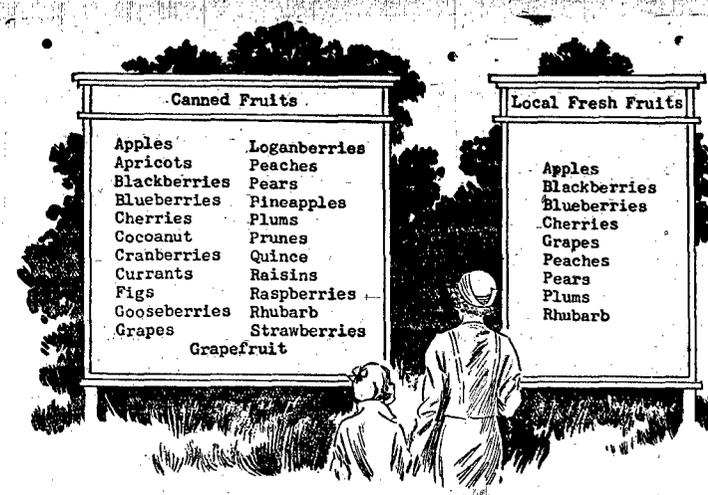

In 1834 the copper kettle and condensing worm were first used for distilling crude resin. Practically the same form of still is in use today. By 1850 the world was finding new uses for both turpentine and resin, which constantly increased the demand, causing a steady growth of the industry. Today about two-thirds of the world's naval stores are produced in the southern United States, and approximately $50,000,000 are invested in the business.

Not Through

Little Robbie went to the school for the first time. When he came home in the afternoon, all tired and apparently disgusted his grandfather said:

"Well, well, my little man! What did you learn today?"

"Nothing, Grandpa," answered Robbie, with a sigh, "and I have to go back again tomorrow."

FRUITS FOR HEALTH

ASK any doctor, and he will tell you that fruits are a fine, healthy food. They taste good and stimulate the appetite, and they are dietetically important as sources of mineral elements and vitamins. The eating of fruits is health insurance of the best kind.

You have doubtless been insuring your health lavishly in this way all summer, and perhaps you are a little tired of the fruits that are obtainable in your part of the country. In that case, here is a hint which will not only give a new zest to your fruit eating, but will prove a real economy as well.

Combine Fresh and Canned

Canned fruits are preserved in such gigantic quantities that they can be sold comparatively inexpensively. If you combine canned fruits with fresh, you immediately increase the number of the fruits which you can serve from the comparatively limited varieties which can be obtained in your neighborhood to fruits not only from all parts of this country but to delicious fruits from tropical lands as well.

The fruits put up in cans comprise apples, apricots, blackberries, blueberries, cherries, coconut, cranberries, currants, figs, gooseberries, grapes, grapefruit, loganberries, peaches, pears, pineapple, plums, prunes, quince, raisins, raspberries, rhubarb and strawberries—many of these in several different forms such as crushed, sliced, whole and in halves, and also in different combinations such as fruit cocktails, fruits for salad and wine fruit salad, and there are also the juices of grapes, grapefruit and pineapples in cans.

How to Do It

This gives some conception of the great variety of fruits in cans ready to combine with fresh fruits, or to eat by themselves, but the interesting part is to know how these combinations are made. Here are some recipes to show how to do it.

Compo of Pears and Apples: Pare two large cooking apples, core them and cut them into eighths. Add one and one-third cups water and one cup sugar to the syrup from a No. 2 can of pears, add a few cloves, and boil for three or four minutes. Add apples and simmer gently until tender but still in perfect shape. Remove apples and add the pears, whole or cut in halves, and cook until very soft and the syrup becomes somewhat thickened. Remove pears to dish with apples and strain syrup over. Chill. Serves eight.

Baked Apples Stuffed with Peaches: Core eight baking apples and place in a baking dish. Fill cavities with sliced peaches from an 8-ounce can and as much sugar as they will hold. (You will need one-half cup in all.) Sprinkle rest of sugar around apples. Dust with cinnamon and dot with three tablespoons butter. Pour around them the peach syrup and about half a cup of water, and bake until tender, about thirty minutes in a hot—400°—oven. Serves eight.

Combination Salads

Pear and Date Salad: Drain eight halves of canned pears, cover with orange juice and let chill for several hours. Drain and place each pear half in nest of lettuce. Stone twenty-four dates, stuff with cream cheese, and place a whole pecan half on top of each. Put three dates on top of each pear, and garnish with cream mayonnaise. This elaborate salad serves eight.

Five Fruit Salad: Drain the contents of a No. 2 can of peach halves and a No. 2 can of grapefruit, and chill. Remove all the skin and fibre from two oranges, and cut in thin circles or separate in sections. Cut two bananas in fingers. Place half a peach in the center of a bed of lettuce, and fill the cavity with cream mayonnaise to which has been added bits of preserved ginger and chopped salted almonds. Arrange the other fruits in groups around the peach. Serves eight.

Gasoline Vapor

One gallon of gasoline at 60 degrees F. is said to average 6.15 pounds in weight. According to Mechanical Engineer's Handbook, one pound of gasoline vapor at 62 degrees F. and at atmospheric pressure has a volume of 4.2 cubic feet. At this rate, a gallon of gasoline would produce about 25.8 cubic feet of vapor. The gas ignited in an automobile cylinder is of course a mixture of gasoline with a very large amount of air. It has been stated that if one gallon of gasoline be completely changed to vapor, it will render the air in a room 21 by 10 by 10 feet explosive; or a quart for a room 8 by 8 by 8 feet. One authority has estimated that automobile engines are able to utilize less than 5 per cent of the tremendous energy stored up in gasoline, the other 95 per cent being either thrown away entirely or used up in friction.

Birth of American Navy

The American navy came into existence in 1775 after the close investment of Boston by Washington had cut off all supplies to the British troops, save such as might arrive by water. To intercept these, some small vessels were armed and manned by New England seamen, first under the auspices of Rhode Island and Connecticut, and afterward by authority of the congress which organized a naval committee with John Adams at its head. These little craft not only deprived the enemy of success, but captured enough prizes to furnish the Colonial army with war material, without which it could not have continued hostilities.

Wealth Measured by Reindeer Herd

The wealth of the Laplander is measured by the number of reindeer he possesses. These animals yield to their owners milk, meat and leather which is used for making boots, clothing, tents and boats, and the sinews of the reindeer are used as rope. As a pack animal the reindeer has at least one advantage over the use of dogs; the reindeer finds its food where it rests, but the driver of a dog team must take food for his dogs along with him.

Greenfell Missions

The Greenfell Missions in Labrador and Newfoundland, administered by the International Greenfell association, were founded by Sir Wilfred Grenfell in 1892 to meet the great need for hospitals, nursing stations and other services for fishermen and their families on these coasts. The mission headquarters is at St. Anthony, Newfoundland, where Doctor Grenfell lives and where he has established an orphanage. His hospital, steamship, the Strafloona II, cruises annually along these coasts and he goes ashore to visit his hospitals, schools, nursing stations, orphanages, co-operative stores, industrial plants, etc.

Value of Mixed Farming

The great lesson of the crisis is the utter condemnation of one-crop cultivation. If the objection is made that beasts, poultry and dairy products are not fetching a better price than wheat, they do at least contribute in great measure to balance the farm budget by reducing the expense account. Our farming population must learn to be self-suffering. The progress achieved in this direction will be profitable and may avert other crises.—La Liberté, Canada.

To Control Insect Spread

Simple changes in routine farm operations to deprive insects of food or shelter at critical periods in their life cycle offer a valuable control method, according to United States entomologists. Timely forecasts of the probable performance of many insects, based on the results of entomological studies, now make it easy to outmove these pests by advancing or delaying seeding or harrowing by thoroughly cleaning up a threatened area or by changing crop rotations.

Better Breakfasts

THIS happened in pre-prohibition days.

"How can you take such an interest in your breakfast?" asked a battered old rooster of a rosy checked friend who was ordering his breakfast in a restaurant with great care.

"It's the best meal of the day for me," replied the latter. "How can you take any interest in your breakfast at all?"

"I can't!" groaned the latter, and turned away.

In case you would like to know what the man who enjoyed his breakfast ordered, here is his menu. It will taste even better, if served in your own home.

In your own home use canned eggs, and leave them in the ice box over night. After this breakfast you'll start off to business whistling, or whatever it is that you do when you feel just right.

Figs with Cream Cereal
Deviled Cream Toast
Strawberry Preserves
Coffee

And here's how to make the: Deviled Cream Toast: Make a cream sauce of three tablespoons butter, three tablespoons flour and two cups milk (or diluted evaporated milk.) Add the contents of a 2-ounce can of deviled ham and stir smooth. Season to taste with salt and pepper and serve on toast. Serves six.

Farm Income of $603 for Buckeye Farmers

Record-Keepers Find Dairy-ing Brought Most Cash.

From Ohio State University Agricultural College Extension Service.—WHD Service.

About 1,300 Ohio farmers who keep records of their businesses made an average farm income of $603 in 1931, according to rural economists for the agricultural extension service.

These farmers, the economists say, lived in about 75 Ohio counties and co-operated with the college of agriculture in keeping their accounts and in having them summarized at a series of 124 meetings held throughout the state especially for that purpose.

The average size of the farms was 143 acres. The sources of cash income were distributed as follows: dairy products, $718; hogs, $440; poultry, $355; sheep, $93; cattle, steers, $77; crops, $418, and all other sources were responsible for $218. The total cash receipts amounted to $2,314 for the average farmer keeping accounts.

The sources of cash expenses were feed, $284; taxes, $218; labor, $152; fertilizer, $88; and all other items, $537.

Information gained from the farm account records, according to the economists, are presented in various ways to groups of farmers, county agricultural agents, and groups of vocational agricultural teachers. In this way the data are used in helping hundreds of individual farmers who do not keep records of their businesses.

Tropical Insecticide Is

Found in American Weed

The devil's shoestring, a common weed in the eastern half of the United States, contains rotenone, a valuable insecticide formerly found only in tropical plants, a United States Department of Agriculture chemist has found.

The discovery is significant for farmers, both as potential growers of the plant and as users of the insecticide; to insecticide manufacturers; and to importers who carry on the international trade in rotenone and other insecticides.

Dr. W. W. Skinner, assistant chief of the chemical and technological research unit of the bureau of chemistry and soils, first called attention to the probable insecticidal value of devil's shoestring following his observation that bees and other insects fed on nearby plants but avoided the blooms of this toxic weed. Doctor Skinner later instigated the research which led to the recent discovery of this weed's rotenone content by Dr. E. P. Clark of the bureau's insecticide division. Although the insecticidal value of devil's shoestring was demonstrated about two years ago by Prof. V. A. Little of the Texas Agricultural College, who found it effective against various species of insects, its value as a source of rotenone was not known until proved by the department's research.

Lumber From Cornstalks

Scientists at Iowa State college have perfected a process for making synthetic lumber from cornstalks. They declare every kind of lumber can be manufactured from this farm waste in sizes that even great trees cannot furnish.

The making of "wood" from cornstalks is not a recent discovery. Dr. O. R. Sweeney, of the Tall Corn State Institution, has been working on the problem of utilizing the state's large farm waste for some time. He has succeeded in producing "lumber," not only from cornstalks, but oat hulls, sugar cane, straw and common weeds as well.

To make his synthetic "wood" Doctor Sweeney cooks cornstalks under pressure in steam until they are boiled up into fibers not more than two to three-hundredths of an inch long. This pulpy, pasty mass is then allowed to harden in forms. The more cooking the harder the resulting "lumber" will be.—Pathfinder Magazine.

Many Join Farm Group

Albany county leads the New York state county farm bureaus with 1233 members for 1933, 10 fewer members than in 1932, and reports an appropriation from the county supervisors equal to the 1932 amount.

According to E. A. Flansburgh, state county agent leader, 14 of the county farm bureaus reported 500 or more members up to the close of 1932, and 33 county boards of supervisors had made appropriations for 1933, to provide for the educational work in these counties in co-operation with the state college of agriculture.

The leading counties in membership are: Albany, 1,233; Dutchess 876; Wayne 810; Otsego 767; Monroe 666; Delaware 655; Montgomery 640; and Niagara 630. The total membership of 36 bureaus reporting is 19,242, he says.

Agricultural Slants

The value of all cows in Tennessee was $17,005,000 in 1930.

About a million farms in the United States now have electricity.

Vitamin C in apples lies under the skin. This is the vitamin that prevents scurvy.

The sugar crop of the Philippines, last season was 26 per cent greater than that of the year before.

Imaginary Ill Health

Refuge From Boredom?

It is a curious fact that there are more health pessimists among the well-to-do than among the poor and among those who work hard for a good living, Ruth F. Wadsworth, M. D., remarks in Collier's Weekly. You need time and money and an otherwise care-free mind to worry about what is going to happen to your health next.

The wage-earner has a certain amount of indefinite dread of illness at the back of his mind because he knows illness is expensive and disabling. But it never occurs to him to read medical treatises in order that he may think up some interesting disease which may hit him.

I sometimes think persons turn to the possibility of disease as a refuge from boredom. At first the idea is a fascinating one, but suddenly they are hoist by their own petard. The idea becomes an obsession and they really feel sick.

Living becomes an expensive affair. They go the round of the specialists and sanitariums, trying to find some one who will give them a positive and dire diagnosis. Often an unnecessary operation will effect a cure. Any operation is painful enough to jolt one out of imaginary ills.

Status of Turkish Women

Has Been Revolutionized

Much more than was first supposed follows the dropping of the veil from the face of Turkish women under the regime of Ghazi Mustafa Kemal, president of the Republic of Turkey.

With this innovation come many others—women police and women lawyers, as well as women judges.

"What a revolutionary change this is becomes more striking when it is recalled that only ten years ago a Turkish woman could appear unveiled only before other women, her father, and brothers. At fifteen or sixteen she was married by arrangement to a man she had never seen. Her future was precarious, however, for her husband could get rid of her at a moment's notice. He had merely to say he had no further need of her, and the marriage was annulled. Writes the Turkey correspondent of the London Times:

"As soon as the Turkish republic was firmly established, polygamy and the veil were abolished, and marriage and divorce laws based on those of the most highly civilized countries were adopted.

"Today women are admitted to the universities on an equal footing with men, and are eligible for practically all the professions. They vote at municipal elections, and it is expected that the parliamentary franchise will be extended to them. They mingle freely with men in the streets, in restaurants, dance halls and cinemas; many are employed in shops and offices."—Detroit Free Press.

Must Think for Ourselves

to Have Comfort of Mind

You cannot expect to have a comfortable mind if you don't prepare and work for it. Letting your thoughts just meander through without asking for their tickets of admission is laying yourself open to a good deal of trouble. Many indiscriminate thoughts, good and otherwise, come into our minds as a result of outside influences and suggestions, and if we have no method of dealing with them how can we expect to be sure just where we are? It is really an untidy and careless way of living. Actually, we are not thinking for ourselves; we are letting others think for us. Of course, the thoughts and influences we pick up from others may be good, helpful, constructive. On the other hand, they may be bad, discouraging, destructive. If we have no system of control over these things, we run a grave risk.—G. H. G. in Tit-Bits.

The Gentleman

"My own idea," he says, "is that neither birth, nor riches, nor education, nor manners suffice to constitute a gentleman, and that specimens are to be found at the plow, the loom, the forge, in the ranks, before the mast, as well as in the officers' mess rooms, the learned professions and the upper house itself. A gentleman is courteous, kind, brave and high-principled, considerate toward the weak and self-possessed among the strong. High-minded and unselfish, he does to others as he would they should do unto him, and shrinks from the meanness of taking advantage of his neighbor, a man or woman, friend or foe, as he would from the contamination of cowardice, duplicity, tyranny or any other blackguardly."—G. Why-Melville.
