Merritt Gives Talk on New Salesmanship

Research Expert Explains Technique of Modern Merchandising.

Norville D. Merritt, one-time research expert for the United States Chamber of Commerce, addressed Wayne Kiwanis, Young Business Men and their guests at Hotel Stratton Monday evening on "The Technique of Modern Merchandising."

"Forces of merchandising," Mr. Merritt said, "have gone through many changes in the past few years and traditional methods do not meet today's exact needs. A new type of store is being evolved. It is a scientific salesroom and the merchant is a sales engineer."

Personal salesmanship, he said, must be supplanted to a large extent by silent salesmanship, in which the store is so scientifically arranged that the consumer becomes his own salesman.

Sight and touch, he explained, are the two most powerful factors in the new salesmanship, with the open display idea as the vehicle of utilizing these factors. All merchandise, he said, must be so displayed that it can be seen and touched by customers.

"The merchant who gives the most efficient service," he said, "is entitled to the business."

Even during the depression, he revealed, women of the United States (continued on page five)

CORN-HOG PROGRAM GETTING UNDER WAY

Local Supervisor of Plan to Attend State Meeting.

Until more detailed information is available about the corn-hog adjustment plan, the breeding of sows for late February and early March farrow should proceed in about normal numbers. Livestock extension specialists at the Nebraska agricultural college believe. When farmers know more about the corn-hog adjustment plan, they can easily cull out their poorest brood sows and dispose of them to bring their numbers down to requirements.

First regional corn-hog conferences were held in Kansas City, Nov. 6 and 7, but it will be several days before the plan can be explained to all the farmers at their school houses and other neighborhood meeting places.

It has not been announced yet whether a man who has had both spring and fall litters can raise the usual number next spring and do all of his reduction in the fall of 1934, or if he must reduce each crop 25 per cent.

Representatives of the Nebraska agricultural extension service attended the Kansas City regional conference with representatives of other states and the adjustment administration Monday and Tuesday.

Emergency agricultural assistant G. H. Liggett of Wayne will attend a state conference within the next few days to get more details of the program. He said Tuesday it is quite likely that local meetings of quite likely that local meetings of farmers will be held to talk over the corn-hog plan as was done on the wheat plan.

The plan has been worked out by a committee of producers and the federal administration men. No salesmanship will enter into the educational program, but the state extension service will let every Nebraska corn and hog producer know the details of the plan. Each producer will decide for himself whether, or not he will enter into the contracts with the government to adjust corn and hog production.

Old Man Winter Sends Warning

Winter gave its first serious warning of cold days that are to come when the mercury sank early Wednesday morning to 13 degrees Fahrenheit. Weather reports indicated that yesterday's low temperature was a forerunner of an early season cold wave.

Low temperatures were giving garages and automobile service stations a rushing business on anti-freeze solutions. Local business houses reported increased business this week in seasonal commodities.

Maximum temperatures this week have been as follows: Sunday, 30 degrees, F.; Monday, 46 degrees; Tuesday, 34 degrees, and Wednesday, 50 degrees.

Weather forecasts for Wayne and vicinity today indicate possible snows and slightly higher temperatures.

Wayne Takes Grid Victory from Nubbins

Wildcats Defeat Nebraska "B" Team by Score of 14 to 13.

Wayne Wildcats presented a formidable football offensive Friday night in the first half of their game with the Nebraska "B" team, and the first half thrust was enough to win for the locals, 14 to 13.

Wayne's first touchdown came early in the second quarter when Gast punted to the 20-yard line. Nebraska's quarterback, Miller, fumbled and recovered on his own nine-yard line. Nebraska punt went to the 37-yard line. Gast cut through for four yards, Evans smacked the line for three yards and Gast made another four, putting the ball on the 26-yard line with a first down. Evans made a yard and Gast cut off left tackle to race to the three-yard line. Evans made a yard and went over on his second try. Gast's placekick was good.

Immediately following the first touchdown, Wayne began another drive when Manning returned Nebraska's punt to Nebraska's own 41-yard line. Gast made nine yards to Nebraska's 33-yard line and Evans went to the 29-yard line for a first down. Gast advanced to the 24-yard line on a lateral and a pass. Gast to Evans, put the ball on the 16-yard line. On the next play, Dermitt, substitute for Kunkle, went outside left tackle and (continued on page four)

Twelve More Get Work on Road Project

Labor on Highway No. 113 Now Utilizes 24 Men.

Twenty-four Wayne county men are employed on the Wayne county highway project No. 113, with the addition today of 12 men with four-horse teams. Twelve ex-service men with dependents had previously been employed on the project to grade the first mile of the highway west of the Wayne cemetery on Seventh street.

Wayne county's National Re-employment committee last week asked Governor Chas. W. Bryan to have a half-mile of the highway stacked out in the lowlands south of Wm. Mellor farm, and the governor complied with the request. Blueprints and specifications for the work arrived Tuesday evening, and Engineer T. C. Cunningham of Lincoln, who is in charge of the Wayne county work, asked the re-employment committee to have 12 more men on hand this morning.

This is the first local labor project of its kind in the state, and local members of the Wayne county National Re-employment committee are highly pleased with the results.

They have requested the state engineering department to survey a stretch of road 10 miles west of Wayne as the next step in the construction of the highway, so that work may be given to hauled-out farmers in their own neighborhood.

The Inquiring Reporter

THIS WEEK'S QUESTION

Do you think the National Guard should be called into the Farm Strike area to maintain law and order? (Requested)

Farmer: I think the anti-picketer farm organization will take care of things all right. Calling out troops might cause more trouble.

Merchant: Such a move should come only as a last resort. The picketers are not criminals, and should be made to see the fallacy of their campaign. Sticking guns in their backs won't convince them.

Farmer: They ought to call out the National Guard and get the highways cleared right away. There's no sense in permitting the picketers to get away with such outlandish deals.

Farmer: Well, they've burned down a couple of bridges, and if that doesn't call for government interference, I don't know what does.

Merchant: It would be much better to quiet the disturbance without the use of force, if such a thing is possible. If conditions get bad enough to require the National Guard's presence, however, the government should not hesitate to send the men.

Happenings That Affect the Diner's Pails, Dividend Checks and Tax Bills of Every Individual. National and International Problems Inseparable From Local Welfare.

On the fifth of December conventions will meet in the states of Pennsylvania, Ohio and Utah to go through the formal motions of ratifying the 21st amendment to the Constitution of the United States.

Then the fireworks will begin. Until January 3, at the earliest liquor will be sold under the control of State laws alone.

It was because of this that John D. Rockefeller, Junior, hired R. B. Fosdick, lawyer, and A. L. Scott, industrial engineer, to make a sweeping study of ways and means to control the liquor traffic.

The licensing system—which has been persuasively pushed of late—is severely criticized, inasmuch as it still leaves the problem of profit, becomes involved with politics, tends to encourage, rather than to discourage, overdrinking.

On the burning subject of liquor taxes, the report recommends that the tax rate should vary with a drink's alcoholic content, its price, and its social value.

Liquor manufacturers are showing themselves awake to conditions. In newspaper advertisements they are urging public cooperation and advocating temperance.

The President speaks the country responds. We've been used to that lately, and it happened again in Mr. Roosevelt's optimistic radio talk of October 22.

was a boom in securities, strengthening of prices and markets of all kinds. Along about the time this is...

Upshot of the conference—which will bear principally upon trade relations—is expected to be U. S. recognition of the U. S. S. R. and an exchange of Ambassadors.

Mr. Roosevelt will mention one subject that won't be especially pleasant to Comrade Litvinoff. This will be the American claims that have been discussed for close to twenty years.

Attitude of American business toward Soviet recognition has changed slowly but surely the last few years. Bulk of industries—especially the larger ones—feel that it is a wise step.

BUREAUCRACY WASTE The fear has been expressed that the supply of Roosevelt Democrats will be exhausted long before all of the places made possible by the new deal and recovery measures are filled.

The Denver Post hears a story from Wyoming concerning relief distribution. A federal investigator went to the head of a relief committee in a Wyoming county and inquired as to the amount the county had to spend for direct relief.

The effort to secure re-employment is balked by the government's scale of wages on public works. Some communities have found that they can pay the entire bill, using labor at current rates, and make a profit on the job over and above the federal grant that goes along with federal loans.

And how we have government in business. The recovery act has made government a partner, and not a silent partner either, in almost every line of business.

SCOTT SHOTS BY "SCOTTY"

Main Street Mimicry: I wonder if they'll be able to get Ford to comply to NRA rules? Did you see that in the paper where Lloyd's insurance company will give odds that there'll be another war within a year?

Once upon a time there was a man who decided that the money didn't come in fast enough in his own home town, so he decided to get bigger and better results for the use of what he referred to as his brain.

So he played the market. At first he had a little luck and that encouraged him. So he analyzed things thoroughly and bet the works on one deal.

You thing this little story is hitting at your neighbor, Mr. Zelig? Well, as a matter of fact it isn't hitting anybody, but if the shoe fits this column will charge you absolutely nothing for helping you to get wise to your limitations.

Let us consider the case, messengers of William Randolph Hearst. A few months ago Mr. Hearst, publisher of many daily newspapers, employs many men.

This last week, we were treated to the spectacle of Mr. Hearst turning a flipflop from one side of the fence to the other. It must be admitted by any unbiased observer that his flipflop ended with Mr. Hearst sitting on his posterior.

The time when we wish most we could make that funny noise so aptly emitted by one Edward Cantor is when William Randolph Hearst really gets down to the business of editorial writing.

Nebraskans, Mr. Hearst, don't read your Omaha Bee-News for your editorials. They read it for Walter Winchell and Popeye.

Show some pity for the sad plight of a certain local young fellow who has invested several hundred dollars worth of presents on a local gal.

Some time people will look back on the age in which we are living. They will go to the newspapers for information on our times and they'll find something like this: Gangster Riddled by Rival Mob... Even Your Best Friend Won't Tell You... Aimee Says Hutton Is Ideal Mate...

teen Million... Depression... Hutton Threatens Aimee with Divorce Suit... Movie Star Marries for Fifth Time... Sex. Author, Lectures to Packed House... Jazz King Slain... Five Thousand Dollars a Week Contract... Its Fun to Be Fooled but Its More Fun to Know... Trio Slain in Love Nest... Peaches Browning Makes Personal Appearance... Leader of Nudist Colony Faces Charges... Will Not Harm Tender Skin... New Novel Is Banned in Boston... Liquor Orgy Ends in Murder... Won't they get a perfectly swell idea of us?

How come, in this territory of tall corn and tall stories of cockshucking ability, Wayne county has no cockshucking contest?

Like each and every big class show, we carry a feature playmaster. He now takes center of the stage. All eyes centered upon him, ladies and gents. We take the greatest pleasure in introducing the man who does for the printed page what the man on the firing line does for the circus—Fred Howard of the Clay County Sun.

If you have a friend so faithful that he does not complain when you impose upon him, you have two good friends to impose upon.

Depositing a number of plates of broken elastic upon his dresser, a local investigator remarked to his room-mate, "Speaking of the nights of the gutter—"

I have known a large number of honest men in my time and have not lost faith in their integrity when they have turned crooked as well when caught in a jam.

Radio stars announcers are aggravatingly irresponsible in their work. Saturday when a boy was hurt in the Minnesota-Iowa game the announcer told the world that "He is not hurt much—just a little witt knocked out of him—wait a minute, it seems to have been more than wind" and there he quit without explanation, leaving a waiting world wondering.

A young woman friend of mine, whom I have known all of her nearly 25 decent, circumpectly lived years, tells me that she believes she has been cheating herself and now intends to "step out" in moderation. Moderation in stepping out is filled with the same dynamite that is presented in a controlled currency, sister, but you have the authorization of no less a woman than the president.

extremely capable wife who says "I am sorry if I offend anyone by the things I do, but, as a mature woman I claim the right to live my own life as I choose to live it." I question the right or ability of anyone to judge or criticize the mature judgment of anyone else. It's your move, honey, and I'm betting that you don't find the first steps on the primrose path so easy nor so pleasant as you picture them.

As a playster by a feature writer for a metropolitan paper I have just read a long list of "good" names for boys and in it found no mention of the solid old moniker, John. Perhaps I made a mistake when I almost forced the mother of our youngest son to christen him John instead of Alphonso. However, I fail to find anything in harmony with a square built young giant ready to fight anyone or anything, hairy as a young lion and strong as many lads much older than he is—I say I cannot find anything in harmony with calling such a kid anything less sturdy than he is. I hope that he may never become any weaker than his name and I have no fonder fancy when alone trying to piece the future to see what it has in store for him than to vision him standing an auto on its nose within an inch of my favorite rose bush in the front yard and then fingering his nose at my corrective utterances.

I shall be quite proud of him when he jumps into an airplane in spite of my protests and hurries down to Kansas City to take dinner with a girl with whom he is only barely acquainted. When he comes home with the story of his first fight I shall tell him of the evils of fighting, but meanwhile I shall be very proud if he relates an honest story of having knocked the tar out of his opponent. Not all fathers and only a few mothers can see these things as I do, but, viewing them as I do, any other name less solid than John would be unfitting for such a lad.

I hope my boy will be, I would much rather that he be a bank robber than a cradle robber; rather a prize fighter than a jayloose crooner; rather a bass soloist than a tenor crooner. I hope that he will become a big, self-contained, independent, gentleman of honor—if he is that, all things else will be added. By golly, I guess that is about what you wish your boy to be; too, regardless of his name and it may be that your wish has as good a chance of fulfillment as mine, and I hope that you get it. Anyway, John is a good name to build a good reputation upon and it goes at my house, even in the face of a feature writer's lack of approbation.

WAYNE TAKES GRID VICTORY FROM NEBBINS

cut back to the right to cross the goal line. Gast's placekick was good. In the fourth quarter, with Coach Ray Hickman substituting freely, Nebraska advanced from Wayne's 41-yard line to the 32-yard marker on a pass, Beaver to Cockburn. On the next play, Cockburn went 20 yards. Nebraska made only four yards in the next four plays and Manning punted to the 32-yard line. A pass, Cockburn to Beaver to Chase, put the ball on Wayne's 11-yard line and Cockburn cut off right tackle for a touchdown. His try for extra point failed.

At the end of the game Nebraska B marched down the field again on Wayne penalties. Cockburn made a first down on the Wayne 12-yard line and Fisher made another first down on the one-yard line in three tries. Cockburn made Nebraska's second touchdown 20 seconds before the end of the game. His kick was good.

Each team made 11 first downs. Wayne completed two passes out of nine attempts and Nebraska completed three out of seven. Wayne's punt average averaged 34 and Nebraska's 35. Wayne made 199 yards from scrimmage and Nebraska made 153. Wayne fumbled twice and Nebraska fumbled twice, with Wayne recovering one of Nebraska's fumbles. Wayne drew 59 yards penalties and Nebraska B, 35 yards.

Wayne's line did a particularly fine job of blocking. Wendell, left tackle, and Fisher, left guard, looked particularly good. Gast, Evans and Manning led the offensive. Cockburn was Nebraska's standout.

Officials were: Referee—Rich (Kearney), Umpire—Staley (Midland), Head Linesman—Gibb (Nebraska Wesleyan).

RED CROSS TO INAUGURATE ROLL CALL SATURDAY

for local business houses. While the official national roll call lasts until Thanksgiving, local officials hope to have the active Wayne county people to display their poise. Mr. Best requests all Wayne county people to display their poise indicative of membership.

Red Cross membership costs $1.90 per year, although more or less may be contributed. All gifts are kept by the Wayne county chapter, and half of the membership money is kept here. The forthcoming roll call will be the only drive of the year.

"The need," Mr. Best said yesterday, "is fully as great as that of last winter. During the past two years, the Wayne county Red Cross has distributed about 25 carloads of cracked wheat, several carloads of flour and a large amount of cotton goods made up into clothes. The local organization has collected and distributed a large amount of merchandise to needy families."

"While the Red Cross is chiefly an emergency relief organization," he said, "the last three years have been considered an emergency period, and almost continuous relief work has been carried on."

"Don't wait to be called upon," he asks. "See a Red Cross solicitor and ask to join, thereby assisting the relief program for the county."

He is spending $300,000 a minute over retail counter. Women, he declared, buy 87 per cent of all retail merchandise. Eighty-two per cent of all merchandise, he said, is bought on sight, which is 22 times stronger than any other sense.

"The customer," he said "is absolutely boss and is not concerned over any particular type of retailing. The customer is interested in service and right price."

"People want to see things," he continued. "They want selection and variety. They want a better store. Standards of living have not fallen. In times of depression we may stop buying, but we can't stop consuming."

He discusses the psychological effect of colors in merchandise displays and explained at length the proper type of display tables for retail stores.

His advice to clerk was: 'Be clean in appearance. Be attentive. Be enthusiastic. Be up-to-date. Don't feel under-paid. Be loyal. Be optimistic. Be continually on the run. Serve with your head and heart as well as your hands.'

Merchandise, he said, must have the right style, have popular appeal, be a real value, popularly priced, and be properly packed.

The Fraternal Tomato

THE tomato is a gregarious chap. He'll go along with almost any other food in brotherly fashion and he doesn't care whether the food is a meat or a vegetable as long as it and he are well cooked. He is quite content and toothsome, for instance, in such a combination as:

Kidney Beans with Fresh Tomatoes: Put alternate layers of kidney beans from a 10 1/2-ounce can and four sliced ripe tomatoes in a buttered baking dish, seasoning each layer of tomatoes with salt and pepper. Cover top with buttered crumbs, and lay three long slices bacon, cut in halves, on top. Bake in medium oven till tomatoes are done, and the crumbs brown and bacon crisp. Serves six.

Chummy with Meat

Swiss Steak with Tomatoes: Have one and three-quarters pounds round steak cut about three-fourths inch thick. Dredge both sides with flour and pound with the edge of a heavy plate until the fibres are well broken. Brown both sides in plenty of drippings in a large skillet. Add one large thinly sliced onion, one bay leaf, one No. 2 can tomatoes, salt and pepper to taste; cover and simmer until very tender, about one and one-half hours. Serves six.

A Message of Armistice Day

Fifteen years ago Saturday the guns of battle ceased--and where war birds once so angrily flew the dove of peace arose and fluttered.

—Peace won after the greatest, most disastrous of all wars. Significantly at eleven o'clock we shall turn East and in silent meditation signify to the greatness of one event . . . the signing of the Armistice!

It is good to celebrate such an event--good because it brings back to our sometimes forgetful selves the real value of Peace.

How small our present problems look in comparison with those of World War days! To be sure, we have today's fears and uncertainties to contend with, but if we arm ourselves with the determination of those gallant boys in khaki and blue, cannot we, too, attain success?

Let us begin anew today. Let us face trying modern problems with the same courage and intelligence that brought the Armistice to reality. Here is today's challenge! Every courageous American will accept it.

HORNEY GETS NRA INTERPRETATIONS

Johnson Explains Meaning of President's Order.

J. S. Horney, Wayne county NRA chairman, has received an interpretation of the President's executive order of Oct. 23 relative to employers located in towns of less than 2,500 population but whose operations extend over a relatively wide area and include a number of communities.

Administrator Hugh S. Johnson's interpretation of the order is as follows: "The Executive Order of Oct. 23, 1933, exempting from the provisions of the President's Reemployment Agreement and from approved codes certain employers located in towns under 2,500 population applies only to employers engaged in trades or services of which the operations are customarily confined to local areas. It does not apply to those trades or services in which operations ordinarily extend over a relatively wide area and include a number of communities. The Executive Order therefore does not exempt from the provisions of the President's Reemployment Agreement and from the provisions of any code those employers engaged in selling at retail such products as lumber, building materials, building specialties, builders supplies and coal."

Unmasked Bandits Rob Fleer Store at Winside

Herman Fleer's general merchandise store at Winside was held up and robbed Friday evening at about 6:15 o'clock. Two unmasked men entered the store and ordered Mr. Fleer to open the safe, thereupon commanding him to lie down on the floor while they looted the safe of about $40.00. At the same time Calbert Shearer, a clerk who had gone home but who had again returned, entered the store and he, too, was ordered to lie down on the floor. The bandits were described as being dark and of medium height. It is believed that they ran to the highway and entered a car in which they made their escape. No trace has been found of them.

Fossil Remains Blamed for Defects in Teeth

It is a long call from the masted-don't-giant elephants that roamed over North America 50,000 years ago to the teeth of Arizona school children, but there appears to be a clear connection as reported from the Arizona experiment station of the Department of Agriculture.

A large number of the inhabitants of the village of St. David, Ariz., had a peculiar condition of the teeth known as mottled enamel. This was found in every person whose permanent teeth had been erupted in the locality. It was finally traced to the drinking water, mostly obtained from arctic water.

Analysis showed this water to contain an abnormal amount of the chemical element fluorine. The deeper the wells the less fluorine.

Further research in the vicinity revealed deposits of fossilized mastodon bones and tusks. This contained considerable quantities of the rare element. The conclusion was that the long dead animals constituted at least one source of the impurity in the water that affected the children's teeth with a presumably incurable defect—Dentist News.

Masterpiece of Nature That Does Punny Man

In 1890 the owners of a tract of redwood timber near Porterville, Calif., attempted to fell a giant redwood tree but failed. The tree was sawed through from both sides at an angle and although cut through was held as in a vise. A little Irish lumberjack used a charge of black powder in the cut, but all that the charge did was to move the saved end of the tree an inch in its resting place. Had dynamite been available at the time the tree would not have been saved. Men at that time were engaged in the forests cutting stakes for use in fencing in the valleys. Hitching posts were turned out and were in great demand in front of all business places in the towns of the treeless valleys of California. But the tree that refused to fall though cut entirely through, still stands, dead of course, in the dense forest near Porterville.

Maple Tree Sap

The movement of sap in the maple tree is described generally as follows: It is the watery solution which circulates through the vascular tissue in woody plants. The ascending current consists of the water of imbibition in which are dissolved various salts obtained from the earth. This so-called crude sap passes through the xylem portion of the vascular bundles to the phloem-containing tissues, the leaves in most plants, where the surplus water is transpired into newly formed carbohydrates and proteins through the phloem or sieve tissue to the parts of the plant which may require them. The descending current often being called elaborated sap. From this it will be seen that the sap taken in tapping a tree is the type of sap which has already formed the carbohydrates and proteins and is therefore largely from the descending or elaborated sap.

Defense of Hobbits

It was "Tristram Shandy" that made Lawrence Sterne famous but he had other hobbies than writing novels, many of them, books, shooting, painting and fiddling. His excuse for indulging in so many hobbies was framed in words like these: "Have not the wisest men in all ages, not excepting Solomon himself, had their hobby-horses, their running horses, their coins and their cockle shells, their drums and their trumpets, their fiddles and their bufferies? And so long as a man rides his hobby-horse peaceably and quietly along the king's highway, and neither compels you nor me to get up behind him, pray sir, what have you or I to do with it?"

Needle Long in Heart

That Edward Sell, forty-five, of Hayes, England, carried a needle in his heart for more than four weeks was revealed by X-rays. Sell was working on an airplane when a needle in the apron of an upholsterer was driven into his breast. It was considered too dangerous at the time to operate. Four weeks later an operation was tried, but had to be stopped before the needle was removed. Sell died soon afterward, and a needle two inches long was found in the left ventricle of his heart.

Resin Industry Growing

In 1834 the copper kettle and condensing worm were first used for distilling crude-resin. Practically the same form of still is in use today. By 1860 the world was finding new uses for both turpentine and resin, which constantly increased the demand, causing a steady growth of the industry. Today about two-thirds of the world's naval stores are produced in the southern United States, and approximately $50,000,000 are invested in the business.

Not Through

Little Bobbie went to the school for the first time. When he came home in the afternoon all tired and apparently disgusted his grandfather said:

"Well, well, my little man! What did you learn today?"

"Nothing, Grandpop," answered Bobbie, with a sigh, "and I have to go back again tomorrow."

I'LL ASK THE BOSS
IF HE WILL SELL US
FOR THAT PRICE

Before farm products go to market, it pays to know what prices they will bring. How the farmer comes out on anything he markets depends upon the price he gets. Some days, prices are up...some days, they are down.

With a telephone, the farmer can find out at any time what the price is and he can sell when the price seems best. One call may make him enough extra to pay the cost of telephone service for months or years.
