To Tell Wayne People of Better Homes Plan; To Take Applications

E. C. Whalen of Omaha, Federal in Mousing Representative, arrived in Mousing Monday to acquaint people of this community with the various phases of the Federal Housing act and to take applications for the assistance which it provides. Mr. Whalen has a booth at the county fair which was set up for him by local business men as a gesture of courtesy to the administration which he represents. Mr. Whalen will be in the T. S. Hook insurance office during the mornings for the next few days to meet people and answer the questions of those interested in this federal project. Mr. Hook is the local chairman of the Better Housing program.

Few people realize the significance of the offer which the government is making through the Federal Housing administration. Through this agency it is made possible for people to make needed repairs or improvements on their homes or other property and to use and enjoy these emprovements while they are saving the money to pay for them. while they ar pay for them.

If a person can pay cash for these improvements the Federal Housing administration urges him to do so. It urges no one to borrow money unless he can fully afford to and expect for such a worthwhile purpose as the protection and improvement of area. protection and improvement of property and equipment.

protection and improvement of property and equipment.

Insured loans for these purposes are available from approved financial institutions. Easy terms and a convenient payment plan are made possible by title I of the National Housing act, which provides for a maximum of flive years on a loan. Title II is relative to the long term proposition and is designed for the purpose of refinancing existing mortgages, and providing new censtruction loans with a maximum of 20 years allowed for repayment.

Any responsible person with a steady income and a good credit record may borrow under this new system. The money is not loaned by the government. It is all loaned by private concerns, but because of the government insurance plan these concerns are able to lend larger amounts and at lower rates, and for longer periods than otherwise would be possible.

The need for such a system as this

The need for such a system as this to aid the small property owners has never been so great as at the present time. Never before have such large numbers of both lenders and borrowers realized at the same time the fundamental faults of the old system, and clamored through their cosional representatives for the system to supply their needs.

Training School To Open Monday

Gulliver, Hahn to Interview Students at Building Saturday Afternoon

The College Training school, including both elementary and high school departments, will open Monday morning, September 16 for one-half day of school. It will not be required of pupils to return to their classes Monday afternoon, which will be reserved by the supervisors for the arrangement of programs for the practice teachers.

Mrs. Prudence Theobald has been selected to be the new house mother at Terrace hall, for boys. The dormitory is at the present being redecorated and is also undergoing extensive repairs so that it will be in excellent condition to house the young men this year, and will be more attractive than ever before.

Mrs. Lillian Miller, who for the past several years has been in active supervision of the college cafeteria, will remain in that capacity. Mrs. J. T. Anderson, wife of the president for a time at least will assist Mrs. Miller and thus take the place of Mrs. Conn, whose chief duty it was to supervise the purchasing.

The committee on student employment, composed of Mrs. R. Smith, Miss Lenore Ramsey, Prof. A. V. Teed and Prof. K. N. Parke, report that the work of assigning jobs to students is nearing completion after more than a week of almost constant session. The assignments will be made public Monday.

Dr. Anderson expressed himself as being extremely optimistic concerning the prospects for a successful college year, both from the standpoint of increased enrollment and the unusually high calibre of the prospective students. contacts."

One of the more different exhibits is the geography project by both teachers and pupils which shows maps of the utilization of all the land in Wayne county.

Fitty-three district schools prepared these maps. Prof. Fred Dale of the geography department of the Wayne State Teachers college was instrumental in their planning.

Countless novel exhibits are on display in the educational group which, besides the rural schools, were contributed by Wayne Public school, the Wayne Training school, Carroll, Hoskins, Winside, Sholes and Altona. They are indicative of a keener interest and more ingenuity than has yet been evidenced in previous fairs.

Possibilities for Wayne to have a modern, fire-proof 40-bed hospital through the facilities of the Public Works Administration were discussed at the regular meeting of the city council Tuesday evening at the city, bell hall.

at the regular meeting of the city council Tuesday evening at the city hall.

Councilmen were unanimous in their approval of an application which has been made for a grant from PWA of $27,000. or 48% of the estimated cost of the proposed civic improvement.

John T. Bressler, Jr., Bert Hyatt and Dr. Walter Benthack attended the meeting to endorse the project and Dr. Benthack pointed out to the city law makers that bonded indebtedness which would be necessary in the amount of $33,000 could be paid off by earnings of the proposed institution. He said other Nebraska cities not as ideally located as Wayne had made application for such grants and believed that the approximately 30,000 persons in this area would furnish a sufficiently paying tributary to make hospitalization facilities self-supporting.

A petition for the graveling of Eleventh street, signed by persons living along the street was read and the matter turned over to the street and alley commission for approval. Charles White, PWA construction engineer whose duty it is to oversee construction of the city auditorium and George Grebe of Fremont, architect for the building were present in the interests of the new building. The matter of throwing open bids for heating the auditorium to old burner and gas burner dealers as well as coal stoker dealers was discussed and will probably be reopened for discussion at the next meeting. Twelve applications for the job of caretaker at the new auditorium were read and discussed and councilmen agreed on the application of Ross-stacobs. Terms under which Mr. Jacobs will work will probably be discussed and celled upon at the next regular meeting of the body, councilmen said.

A CITY HOSPITAL

A CITY HOSPITAL

Wayne can have a new fully modern, fireproof, forty room hospital if the citizens want it. Such a hospital may be erected at a cost of about $60,000 of which the federal government will give the city 45% or $27,000 outright through PWA.

Construction of Wayne's municipal hospital will require the issuance of bonds for $33,000 and these will be self-liquidating. Already the Wayne city council has made application to the PWA for the 45% grant available for the purpose. This application has been approved at the state PWA offices in Omaha and has been sent to Washington, D. C., for federal PWA approval.

Modern fireproof hospitalization is needed in Wayne. Wayne is centrally located in an area from which many patients can be drawn to a medical center of the right kind.

Wayne councilmen are to be lauded for taking the first step in get-ting a grant for such a great cause. The federal government will probably never make such an offer again. Wayne will need hospitalization fa-cilities until they are secured. The money appropriated through PWA will be spent somewhere. The cost will be spent somewhere. The cost to the taxpayers in so far as the federal grant is concerned, will be the same whether or not Wayne builds a beautiful.

same whether or not Wayne builds a lospital.

Wayne councilmen have the foresight to see this. They are getting into the sugar bowl early, that citizens may have a good hospital at as little cost as possible. A hospital of the nature desired would not be long in paying its way. Right now the thing that is needed is support of this issue and when it comes to a vote let's back it to a man. It will be money in our pockets. We might as well have a new hospital as long as we are paying for it anyway.

STATE FAIRS

You all remember one of the beet pictures Will Rogers ever appeared in under the title "State Fair". Its events were supposed to have occurred at the Iowa State Fair at Des Moines, and are of interest to people of this locality in that the champion, "Blue Boy, was raised on a farm near Wayne. But during the Deep Despression, the state fairs of the countrys suffered an almost total eclipse and some of them had to suspend operations altogether. news from the state fairs over the nation.

People living in agricultural areas have had their harvest festivals from the earliest times, and pobably the state and county fairs are the present counterparts of those ancient ceremonies. No graph or chart better reflects the success of the farm year than the receipts and attendance figures at state fairs. The magazine Time reports that attendance records were well over the 1931-33 figure, and that carnival show operators reported business increases ranging from 12% at the Illinois fair to 75% at the Colorado fair. With a grain crop 80% greater than last year's drought production, and with cattle selling at $2 per hundred weight more than last year's drought production, and with cattle selling at $2 per hundred weight more than last year's flow moved our shoes so they might dry year, daily papers over the farm belt uniformly reported a feeling of optimism among the patrons of fairs. Soon Mr. Davidson arrived on the scene and it didn't take us long to come to terms under which I would try to serve his newspaper. I then went to my hotel room where I clean ed up a bit and rested before returning to the office, where, with Mary Jane, I laid plans for what we could do that week.

Weeks rolled by and I gradually became better acquainted, so that I am now able to identify most of you and speak to you by name when I meet you on the street. I think the task of getting acquainted is one of the most difficult in the newspaper business, especially when one good and Dr. W. A. Emery always a fault about it. The Davidsons have been very tolerant toward me and I'm sure the would be many more mispelled words and domain splices in my copy, Jane, I laid plans for what we could do that week.

Outside the office, life here has been pleasant too. Attorney J. E. Brittain's observations are always are quite active in American Legion at new town where he does not know a soul.

I have made many worthwhile acquaintances and the experiences I have had have been worth more to me than any theoretical training I had in college. For the first time in my six years' experience in newspaper, and as country newspapering I have had something to do in all departments of a country newspapering is the field I have chosen to follow, I feel that it has all been valuable. One of the first stories I covered was the annual convention of the Farmers Union at the city hall. Bill Roggenbach, of Altona, was presiding, and Chester Hansen, of Wakefield, was secretary. There I remember is the field in the proposal of the propo Athletic coaches are nice fellows in Wayne. There are lots of good boosters here and as in every town, there are some knockers. This is unfortunate but cannot be helped. A chain is no stronger than its weakest link. The pastures across the hill are always a bit greener to those who have remained in their own surroundings for a period of years. The proper remedy for anyone who is dissatisfied would be for him to look carefully about and when he finds a place he thinks he would like better, should go there.

I have always found that those he would like better, should go there. I have always found that those most eager to leave a place are usually the first to return. Let's none of us think of moving to greener pastures but crack down on what nature has given us right here for a starter, and make our own pastures so much greener than those we long for that persons dissatisfied in other quarters for good reason, will come here and be glad they came. Ask yourself if you would change places, all things considered, with the most fortunate person you know. Would you?

He will also conduct a football contest every week—presenting an official football autographed by University coaches and players to the persons sending in the best solution to his football problems. The program, which will be called "Standard's Football Column of the Air" will give Lyman a chance to display his talents as a broadcaster. To the followers of the sport he is known as a football star; to his Nebraska neighbors as a successful rancher. But few know that he is also an old hand at the microphone. He has done considerable impromptu broadcasting and has even sung over the radio. His voice is a rich baritone. The more obtruse measures have an economic goal which may eventurally be attained anyhow, but it would be reached more quickly if the public went along, if it got from these measures some impulse which quickened its own action and met the economic depends on the recovery depends Yet how quickly the popular mind reacts to a bit of human comprehensible news about any of the alphabetical measures! The AAA got a lift when the embattled farmers descended on Washingon, not to protest, but to render thanks. It would help public morale if these aspects should receive some of the publicity that has given fantastic and spurious measures such a boost.

What is there to offset such now.

Progress exhibition went ahead as though no depression exsisted and accomplished what had not before been done in normal times, a two-year showing which paid all expen-

If it were possible to affect a whole country with such faith, to make each man and woman feel as he Chicago promoters felt, the halting steps by which recovery is resurring could be speeded up into a micksten.

ing steps by which recovery is returning could be speeded up into a quickstep.

Meanwhile here are millions of man power idle, being fed at public expense, and millions lacking the things these men might be making. To my mind the greatest single obstacle in the way of complete recovery is the army of the unemployed —not because it is a drag on the public funds, but because more and more the morale of the real workers on relief is breaking down into a reluctance to accept any work at all.

No plan or measure will be successful without the wholehearted acceptance of the whole people. It is the spirit that is lacking; all the other ingredients are here. Prosperity is created by the rhythmic earning and spending of the entire country. Before the country can return to work, it must have the will to work.

There should be more emphasis on to work, it must have the will to work.

There should be more emphasis on work as such, more scorn for those, who will not work when work is offered, the creation of a new state of mind in which the motto of Chicago, "I Will", becomes the motto of the nation; perhaps a return to the homely wisdom of the copybook maxims, the philosophy of "Poor Richard" on which some of us were brought up, "Where's there's a will, there's a way." It is the will that is lacking, not the way.

"Where's there's a will, there's a way." It is the will that is lacking not the way.

The old-stigma on idleness must be re-established, that stigma which has given this country its development, until offers of work may meet with eager acceptance. It is a serious thing to teach millions to be content and complacent in idieness: it is hard to get them back again. Character is our most precious national resource. It was work, plus initiative, adaptability, rendiness to do whatever job that had to be done, that transformed 2,000,000 square miles of forest and virgin pratric into an ordered, organized nation, most of it in less than a hundred years, a feat without parallel in history.

Many of us have the blood of those pioneers in our veins. We now face a new frontier. We need some of the old pioneer sparit. The work of supplying the needs and desires of 1:9,000 000 people, developing natural resources, utilizing what we have learned about a better economic system, is susceptible of creating presents wealth beyond calculation.

There's lots of room in the FORD V:8

EVERY ONE who steps into the Ford V-8 for the first time is surprised at its roominess. There's exceptional seat room, leg room and head room in all body types - the whole car gives you a feeling of substantial size.

The Ford gives you extra body room because of the compact design of the V-8 engine - an exclusive Ford feature at a low price. This V-8 engine takes up less space in the hood and permits more of the car's length to be used for passenger comfort. Many a car selling at a higher price does not give you as much interior room as the Ford V.8.

Rear seats are wide and restful . . . three people can ride comfortably in the front seat of the Fordor Sedan, Fordor Touring Sedan, Convertible Sedan and Phaeton, and in the Coupes and Roadster. The seat of the Ford V-8 Roadster is 52 inches wide. A ride in the Ford V-8 will show that it combines unusual body room with fine-car performance, safety and comfort.

Whatever you have to sell, whenever you have to sell it. The Nebraska Democrat, through its blanket coverage of this area will bring you more business at less money than any local advertising medium.

Everyone reads The Nebraska Democrat thoroughly. If you don't believe this, break the law, and appear in county court. Everyone will know it even though we write it up in a little story like this and stick it off in a corner.

Incidently this is the type of advertising that draws more Notice the white space? Let us figure on your next job of printing. The service is prompt and materials and workmanship are the best. We have a mighty fine line of high class engraved stationery to select from if you are a bit more discriminating.

Let The Nebraska Democrat continue to serve you as it has for fifty-one years. It's a friendly newspaper that's growing.
