"This Administration came into power pledged to a very considerable legislative program . . . Duty and necessity required us to move on a broad front for more than two years." —President Roosevelt.

LET'S BACK THE TEAMS

Every week day afternoon these fine autumn days three squads of husky fellows get on their respective football fields here to prepare for the tough schedules ahead of them. Thoroughbreds, every last one of them, they have the winning spirit and should be encouraged by everyone.

Whether you like football or not, you can and should develop an appetite for it. It's great to see two evenly matched teams plunging, blocking, running, punting and scrambling about on a field, well timed with the precision of clock work.

All three squads have excellent material this year. Prospects for successful seasons are good. Everyone likes to follow a winning team but no one should expect his home team to win every game. There always has to be a loser.

Good football depends upon good players. Support from fans make good football players better. With sufficient backing, all Wayne teams will make a creditable showing. Let's all back the teams and plan to follow them at least one game away from home this fall.

THEY'RE BUILDING IN WAYNE

Remember the prophecy made in 1931 by a certain portly baby-faced gentleman to the effect that grass would grow in the streets of this country should there be a change of administration.

It cannot be said that the change came about without fair warning. The people asked for what they have and what they have goes without saying is far better than what they had or what they might have had, had there not been a change of horses made in the middle of the stream.

So far as we're able to learn no grass has grown in the streets of American cities where it had not already grown before. As a matter of fact in many sections of the country, a bit of grass growing anywhere a year ago would have been a welcome sight.

Wayne is a growing city with practically unlimited possibilities for making a remarkable homeland for a good and energetic race. Natural resources are here. Generally speaking the seasons are favorable to the growth of many of our staple food-stuffs.

Pioneers with foresight have settled here and have through hard work benefitted. Their descendants are now building for the future in a greater way than have their elders.

Civic improvements made by the people themselves include a palatial new post office building and a beautiful new municipal auditorium nearing completion. A new $50,000 engine and generating unit has been added to the power plant. Street improvements have been made, sewers have been extended and a group of new shelter cottages were built in Roosevelt park.

Northwestern Bell telephone company added a fine little brick cottage type office building on Pearl street. Dr. W. A. Emery made a nice addition to East Third street by putting up a modern office building with an apartment on the second floor. A new front is being added to the Gertner building on Main street.

Ernest Alderson built a lunch room on Main street near the college but later moved it over on Pearl street where it is now a residence. Later he station, and much work has been done at the fair making many necessary improvements.

Russell Larson has made improvements in the basement of his store and the Wright Lumber company erected a modern and commodious storage shed. W. C. Coryell built a new filling station and fitted it with the latest kinds of improvement.

Roy Langemeier down on South Main street put up a modern lunch room just south of his service station and much work has been done at the fair grounds.

A new Church of Christ building was erected on East Fourth street and new residences either completed or now under construction are owned by George Berres, C. E. Nicholaisen, Mrs. N. T. Nybeig, Mrs. A. Erickson, Miss Beulah Rundell, J. H. Foster, Mrs. A. Lewis and Mrs. Mae Young.

With all the building that has been done here in the last year, there is still room for more to be done. A dozen new bungalows would not be too many. There is still a need for residences. Many persons who would likely make a creditable addition to Wayne would come here to live and conduct their businesses if the housing situation were not so acute. A good apartment house should be a good bet here. Wayne is going forward. It has all the desirable qualities which go to make up a good town. Everyone should be doing everything in his power to aid this growth.

Several persons have brought to the attention of this newspaper the need for a community choral society. They have pointed out that there are many good voices in Wayne and that there is sufficient talent for directing and accompanying such a group.

A year ago Wayne Business and Professional womens club started the ball rolling along this line by assembling a group of singers, placing a director in charge and presenting the Messiah to a capacity house in the auditorium at Wayne State Teachers college. Soon we will have a fine new municipal auditorium. Our fine municipal band will be heard there and we believe there should be some vocal concerts presented by the type of choral society that can be produced here. It is our understanding that the Business and Professional Womens club is again planning to sponsor productions by vocal chorus. Why wouldn't it be a good plan for everyone who sings and loves to sing to help make a choral society a Wayne institution?

The Bystander

by Stan

Signs of waning summer blending into early autumn are evident everywhere. More felt hats are replacing reluctantly stored straws. Fewer white shoes are in evidence. Everyone talks of the vacation trip he has had rather than the one he contemplates. Some are looking forward to that last fishing trip to the lakes and anticipating the smell of crisp fried bacon and hickory smoke in the tangy autumn air.

World series prophesies are being made and plans are being laid for the pheasant hunting season and trips to the alma mater for homecoming jamborees. Yes, autumn has hit and its my favorite time of year.

Another sign of that season which gradually goes into that time of year characterized by radio, bridge and a warm nook near the fire was shown by a scrap of paper I picked up on the street the other day.

Certain names were scribbled across the top of the paper and they told me that it was a part of a budget book kept by a young married couple of my acquaintance. Here are the entries for a recent Sunday:

Coffee cream08
Sunday paper10
Oranges30
Cigarettes25
Sunday dinner1.00
Golf50
Beer75
Shows70
Beer75
Aspirin15

And that, my friends, is the younger generation. Having a good time as they go along, paying the fiddler for their dancing to the tune of 15 cents worth of Aspirin. I hope the young husband was entirely without a headache when he assumed his duties on Monday, dont you?

And heres that letter from Kay Noel. Kay asks my opinion about something but after all I'm afraid I can do her but little good regarding this matter she's asking about. Maybe some of you who have observed this thing more than I, can throw some light on the question. Newspaper folk should rarely give their opinions anyway. Their prime purpose in life, if any, is to get them. Anatole France sized the matter of opinions up pretty well when he said "all generalities are false including this one." One of the exchanges, in a certain paragraph, makes this query: "Did the gossips ever tell a story about you that was entirely without foundation?"

And alas and alack here's Kay's letter:
Lincoln, Nebr., Friday,

Dear Stan—

Your touching plea for contributions has set my pen a travelin! Just to save me thinkin so hard would you mind if I didn't use paragraphs? (I never know when I've finished with one thing and started another — it all tumbles out so fast and furiously). Then another thing I wanta get off my mind is this: I getta a big fick outa Barbara . . . Give her my love! Now we can begin. I gotta funny little bump on my tongue — one of those lie bumps, you know. I can't imagine what lie it was that caused it.

This morning I worked around in the kitchen baking and cooking and cleaning — getting ready for company this week end. I was actually doing so much at once that I burned one of the pie crusts. I wasn't even mad. (I guess I don't feel so well today). Well, then mother gotta card thru the U. S. Mail and it said (I read it) the company couldn't come 'cause they had to have threshers this week end. (I wonder if that's anything like having a goose?) Anyway, I won't need the burned pie crust now!

And say, would you get all my farmer readers and ask them not to be shocked at my Grammar, diction, etc., etc. I'm not teaching school now and so I'm relaxing for a few months. I use 'ain't' real often and sometimes, 'ain't got no!' I s'pose I must begin to correct all that, 'cause after all, 'pretty is as pretty does'.

After reading what Barbara said about keepin' your nose out of other people's bizzness, I was reminded of a lady who works up at the Capitol Building. She's really humorous at times. Some meddlin' old fellow was "putting in" about something that didn't concern him at all. This lady turned to him and said, "My man, didn't your mother ever teach you that half the time you were s'posed to mind your own bizzness and the other half you wer s'posed to keep your nose outa other people's bizzness?" I'm going around trying to find a situation where I can step in and say that to someone — it's a good one to remember. And that reminds me: my sister and I were arguing about whether a person with a big nose has the big nose because he puts it into other's bizzness or whether a person with a little nose has the little nose because he puts it into other's bizzness. Well, you know what I mean, anyhow. You see, Sis has a boy-friend who has a big nose, and I got one that has a little nose. So, you see, it's rather important that we settle the question. What is your opinion on it?

Now, I ain't nearly through, but this is all for now. And please give me credit for not sending one line of verse.
—KAY NOEL

Thank you Kay Noel, thank you. Please write again. I like to hear from you and am sure the half dozen persons comprising my circle of readers get something of a drive out of them too. Provided I get my press ticket in time this year, I will probably attend the Pitt game again this year and will no doubt see you there.

Congratulations, Howard Allaway of the Cedar County News over at Hartington. It was fine for you to receive the Gilbert M. Hitchcock scholarship to that good school of journalism at Columbia University. That you are deserving goes without saying. I like your work in the News and am sure that the theory training you will receive in one of the nation's greatest universities will stand you in hand to go places in the profession you have chosen to follow. Here's my wish that good fortune will follow you all the way up the ladder.

Bygone Days

One Year Ago

Announcement was made of the approaching marriage of Miss Kathryn Lou Davis and Walden Felber. Excavation work was under way for Wayne's new post office building. Mrs. F. S. Berry left for Washington, D. C. where she attended the 14th annual convention of the National Council of Catholic Women.

Train loads of distress cattle from the drought stricken area were being hauled through Wayne. Wayne State Teachers college football players were scheduled to play Morningside college at Stock Yards park in Sioux City. Wayne high school was scheduled to play Lyons at Lyone and the College high gradmen were to meet Wausa on the college field.

Five Years Ago

Nineteen Wayne business and professional men went to Sioux City where they bought Wayne county baby beeves which were placed on the auction block. Don Cunningham sold the calves to the Wayne men at premium prices, with the boys and girls who raised the fat cattle benefitting by the margin price. Calves brought from $12.50 to $14.50 per cwt.

Mrs. Sarah C. Hostetter died at the age of 75. Mr. and Mrs. Henry Foltz sustained injuries when their truck figured in an accident near Wakefield.

Miss Lucille Harder and Lawrence Bennett of north of Wayne were married on September 25.

Don Cunningham this week purchased the livestock sales pavilion from the Wayne pavilion association.

The Rev. W. W. Whitman was re-appointed to the Methodist church pulpit for the fourth year.

Henry Bojens of Winside died at his home at the age of 62.

10 Years Ago

The Wayne county fair has just closed and was considered a great success.

The Rev. John Grant Shick who for three years occupied the Methodist pulpit was appointed to the church at University Place. He was succeeded here by the Rev. L. F. Townsend who was at that time preaching at Seward.

Baby beeves raised in Wayne county in 1915 were market toppers in the Sioux City market bringing their owners $15.75.

High school enrollment for 1915 was 208 of whom 35 students were from outside the district.

Mistaking the accelerator for the brake pedal in his automobile, Calvin Kopp was unable to stop his machine before it had plowed through the plate glass windows of the postoffice.

T. K. Serviss, representative of Hull House settlement in Chicago was presented to Kiwanis club by Prof. O. R. Bowen. The Democrat states that he was well received.

20 Years Ago

In this issue of the Democrat appeared a denial that Wayne had an epidemic of infantile paralysis. Several children were quarantined at that time with the disease.

William Weber sold his interest in the Wayne flour mill to his brother Walter R. Weber and with his family moved to a ranch in Blaine county.

The marriage of Miss Myrtle Mathiesen to Fred Sandahl was announced in this issue of the Democrat.

October 13 and 14 were at that time set for the days of a livestock show which was scheduled to take place at Carroll.

A. P. Gossard had that week gone to Omaha to make arrangements for opening the Wayne creamery and getting the churn into motion, after the plant had been shut down for nearly a year.

Competing in the four states livestock show at Sioux City, honors went to Gus Hanson for the best carload of fat cattle exhibited. C. W. Anderson of Hoskins won second place in the same class. Paulson and Son of Carroll won third place with an aged Poland China boar.

Wayne golfers who journeyed over to Norfolk that week for a day of golf at the country club were: Mr. and Mrs. Harry Fisher, Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Craven, Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Ahern, Paul Herrington, Frank Morgan, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Orr and Chris Hansen.

Electroliners were ordered for lighting the streets and were to be installed on their arrival.

GOP Fives Martial Spirit
By Tossing Out Raw Meat

"It seems almost impossible to understand how even a backward nation could hold a raw-meat feast to 'fire the spirit of its soldiers'—until you read some of the hysterical Constitution Day speeches," says Raymond Clapper, political editor, in The Washington Post. (Rep.) "In 148 years of history, the Constitution takes its place as one of the greatest political inventions of mankind. A group of men, most of them in their thirties, living before the steamboat and railroad in a country with a population less than half that of New York now, devised after much debate and compromise a charter of government so flexible that it has stood with comparatively slight alterations through a period of breakthrough growth and revolutionary scientific and mechanical development.

"The date set aside to commemorate that great event in the art of government is seized upon by opposing politicians and perverted into something approaching a political program as a buildup for the 1936 election campaign. It is not sufficient for politicians who are trying to beat their way back to the public trough to join the Nation in reverencing the spirit of the men who in the constitutional convention faced their problems squarely, brushed aside outworn devices of government and fetishes, and sought to frame a new instrument adapted to the American spirit and American needs. "Instead they rattle the Ark of the Covenant and set up a straw-Roosevelt who would abolish the Constitution, make himself a dictator and shoot every Republican at sunrise. Under the pretext of honoring the Constitution, they toss out long, juicy strips of raw, red meat to their political followers so that these, like the warriors in Africa, will charge against their approaching foe with a more savage fighting spirit. "But the Republican Constitution Day orators have conclusively proved one thing. We will have free speech in America."

H. D. Addison was a business visitor in Ponca Saturday.

Democrats Gain 209,468
In Pittsburgh Registration

Evidence of the growth of the Democratic party in Pennsylvania was contained in the announcement of registration in Allegheny county (Pittsburgh), for the primary election on September 17. Department of Elections figures showed 338,429 registered as Republicans and 239,307 as Democrats. In 1931 the year of the last important election of county officials, 483,029 were registered as Republicans and only 29,841 as Democrats. As compared with 1931, the Republican loss is 140,600 and the Democratic gain is 209,468.

WITH SUMMER WARMTH AND COLD CASH

NOW, more than ever, you can't buy Heatrola—it pays for itself. Really! For the striking new 15th Anniversary Heatrola not only mark the 15th year of Heatrola leadership, but they also mark a new high in fuel economy, in home-heater beauty, in convenience and economy! They have the patented Intensi-Fire Air Duct that turns waste into warmth, cuts fuel bills 25 to 40 per cent. Enough to soon pay back the few dollars extra you pay for the genuine Estate Heatrola—enough to pay for the Heatrola itself in just a few years. And think of the convenience of the Ped-a-Lever feed door. The security of the improved five-year-guaranteed fire pot. The comfort of having healthful, draftless, whole-house warmth in place of half-hearted heat. Come in—see these new Heatrolas. See how easily you can own one.

Supervised Correspondence Study

(From the Wayne County Teacher)

The University Extension Division of the University of Nebraska, cooperating with the Department of School Administration is making available through Supervised Correspondence Study a variety of courses with which to increase the present offerings of high schools. Arrangements have been made for Supervised Correspondence Study to be carried on by invalids and otherwise incapacitated students and by adults under limited supervision where no credit is desired.

Provision has been made for high school students who are unable to attend an organized high school to carry Supervised Correspondence Study courses under the direction of any rural school teacher. High school credit earned in this way will be accepted by the University toward entrance in exactly the same manner as it accepts credits earned in fully accredited high schools.
