Successful Community Life Depends on Home and School Conditions

"If we can't make a success of community life in Wayne it can't be done any place in America", declared Supt. Charles F. Dienst of the Wayne Supt. Charles F. Dienst of the Public schools in his talk before

Public schools in his talk before members of the Kiwanis club Monday noon at the hotel Stratton.

Judgement, endurance, and integrity, these three, says the school head, are the necessary attributes which enable people to make a true success of life. He pointed out, however, hat they cannot easily be supplied in the school room and that the home is the natural place for the development. the natural place for the development of character traits. "The eas-

the natural place for the development of character traits. "The easiest, simplest way to help a boy is to watch him, show an interest in him. It is more powerful than any information we can give him in school. The mere fact of a paper diploma is no guarantee of success."

"Interest means much to youngsters", continued Dr. Dienst. "We must think through their problems, help solve them. We must try to look beyond the immediate present to where the boys and girls of today will do their frontier work, and help them to obtain the proper equipment with which to meet the future. The frontier period for the boys and girls of today is a vital consideration and we should help them to meet the situations and problems of life, even if it demands a readjustment of our thinking."

thinking."
"The best instruction for anyone is a job", said the speaker. "And going to school is about one of the biggest jobs a youngster can have." There is a need for healthy teachers in education. Teachers who can do something for the youngsters outside of the home can perform great services cation. Teachers who can do something for the youngsters outside of the home can perform great services to the community. There are a great many pupils, said Mr. Dienst, who have not an even chance, a fair break. The kind of lives they live qualifies the kind of community life we have. Their home problems affect the community problems.

Because of this fact Dr. Dienst appealed to his listeners not only to look out for their own children and their wants and needs, but also to become familiar with the environmental background of other children of the community and attempt to help them. In this way the community life can be improved.

"The frontier life of tomorrow will not be a place. It will be a condition", maintained the speaker, "and it will require the best equipment we can give it." The training of people to meet the new problems is important, and in this Supt. Dienst invited the parents to share his responsibility.

Comes PINEAPPLE Juice

RATING should be one of the greatest pleasures of life, and the average European enjoys his food for its own sake and shums the things he doesn't like, but we Americans are afflicted with so much advice on the subject of diet that we have come to think it dangerous to enjoy our food. That's all wrong.

that sall wrong.

The purveyors of pineapple juice seem to have imprisoned some of the joy of living, the liquid sunshine and the lovely music of Hawali in the pretty cans in which it is offered to the public. It tastes good, it satisfies thirst, and all sorts of health claims are made for it, none of which we will quote because we are more interested at the moment in pleasure than in anything else, and this is a drink that gives pure pleasure.

THE COMMENTATOR

Slow, draggy, hot, sticky weather midsummer brings about a news in midsummer brings about a news famine that it's difficult to do anything about. Atrocious crimes in the more crowded areas some times offer kindling for a few huge headlines in the metrovolities news which fer kinding for a new nuge near-lines in the metropolitan press which dwindle off to nearly nothing as the stories are edited for smaller and farther away newspapers throughout the nation.

With the arrival of a turn in tem-

With the arrival of a turn in temperature such as was experienced in the mid west last Wednesday evening, it is accepted among news hawks everywhere that activity in the country is soon to be resumed.

Readers of Thursday's daily papers note that G. O. P. campaigners were overhauling their machinery with the beat Roosevelt goal as something to shoot at. Although partychieftains have not agreed upon anyone as their choice to run against the popular incumbent leader, there is one thing which seems to be quite well established and that is Herbert Hoover will not be a candidate in 1936. The depression period president is quoted as saying that his sole interest in the party is a titular leader is to see the nomination of a "standard bearer uncompromisingly opposed to new deal politics and the adoption of an anti-socialistic platform."

Then the League of Nations got to

Then the League of Nations got together and passed a ruling relative to the situation existing between Italy and Ethiopia saying that these nations could not go into war before nations could not go into war before December 4 without violating the League covenant. It will be rather interesting to note how long Mussolini and his dusky neighbors can get on without one or the other first crossing the line.

Another story the state papers brought to us Thursday was regarding Mother Ella Reeve Bloor, 73 year old Communistic leader and agitator who several months ago fanned the flames of riot among Loup City chicken pickers. Bright eyed and I fiery looking in her news photos, Mother Bloor was that day to begin a 30-day sentence in the county jail at Grand Island.

Island.

On Friday the papers brought us the news that II Duce was planning to hold off for at least ten days in beginning hostilities in Ethiopia. It was a case of "rain no game" due to the rainy season which is now at its peak there.

Karl Stefan talked at a convention of the Woman's Relief Corps and Mrs. Anna Mitchell of Clearwater was elected president of the organi-zation.

Meat packers presented to the AAA Meat packers presented to the AAA in Washington a demand that the Corn-Hog production control and the processing tax should be abolished. Fremont was planning a reception for President Roosevelt who is making a vacation trip through the west and "Mother" Bloor was transferred from Grand Island to Omaha to serve her sentence and an announcement from St. Louis stated that Ray Murphy of Ida Grove, Iowa, was elected national commander of the American Legion at the annual convention there. Thursday night brought a killing frost in this partien of the country. Governor Cockrane, stated, definitely frost in this portion of the country. Governor Cockrane stated definitely that matters concerning liquor regulation would not be taken up at the special session of the legislature he plans to call within a month. War drums beating into a crescendo in southern Europe are probably responsible for news from London stating that the British were planning a naval construction program which, however would be kept strictly within the limitations of the Washington treaty of 1922.

On Saturday the president with Mrs. Roosevelt stopped in Fremont where the chief executive addressed a crowd estimated at 20,000 prsons telling his listeners that conditions had definitely changed and shown a great improvement over what they had been on his previous visit to the agricultural empire of the mid-west, three years ago.

News from Rome stated that Italy would not sever her connections with the League of Nations until forced to do so by that body. A bulletin in the day's news stated that residents of Havana, Cuba, were in a panic due to the arrival of a hurricane of indefinate proportion.

on Tuesday the daily press carried a story to the effect that Mrs. Anna Sage, the "woman in red" in the Dillinger case won a delay in deportation proceedings against her. She charged that the government had paid hr $5,000 for aiding in putting the notorious outlaw on the spot and had then repudiated a promise to permit her to remain in America.

On that same day Senator L. J. Dickinson, (hell raising Dick) was in Omaha and speaking before an advertising men's club pointed out the faults, as he saw them, in President Roosevelt's new deal program.

THURSDAY, OCTOBER 3, 1935 NUMBER 40

> JOHN G. DAVIDSON Editor and Publisher

Entered as second class matter in 1884 at the postoffice at Wayne, Ne-braska, under the act of March 3, 1879.

Subscription Rates: One Year ... Six Months

This is the story of three upstanding American citizens under the New Deal—Joe Green, John Corntassel and Herbert Hoover.

and Herbert Hoover.

Consider Joe Green—that isn't his name, but he's a real person in Chicago. Joe is a skilled mechanic. He is employed by the International Harvester company. He helps make machinery that John Corntassel uses in his business. But back in 1932, when low prices put John out of the machinery market, Joe was automatically laid off and ceased to be an economic unit.

He managed to squeak through, however, because the company loaned him money against the day of returning prosperity, and he was handy at odd jobs. Today Joe is back in the picture working five and one-half days a week at good pay.

Which brings us to John Corntassel. Remember him. He's the fellow who, as the story goes, was paid for loafing and plowing under things. But now it appears that his plow struck something yellow and exceedingly beautiful. Anyway, the newspapers have discovered that thar is gold in them that fields. Publishers are inviting national advertisers to come out and get some of the money through the use of space in the papers that farmers read.

"Farm Comeback Over Whole Na-the papers that farmers read.

"Farm Comeback Over Whole Nation Now Opening Up Vast, Rich Markets," is the pleasant headline that graces the front page of Editor & Publisher, national newspaper guide, in a supplement devoted to John, his tall corn, fat hogs, lowing kine—and pocketbook. "the present fact is that the farm population, comprising one-third of the whole, is now prepared to spend money for urgently needed supplies. "This is good news for sellers and advertisers of commodities," observes the editor.

Although Mr. Hearst is personally the editor.

Although Mr. Hearst is personally shrieking to high heaven against the New Deal, a writer on his Omaha paper the Bee-News, happily informs us that, aided by $40,000,000 corn-hog AAA reduction fees, "a golden stream of buying power" is blessing John in Nebraska. "New automobiles and trucks flash along the highways," he reports. "Farm machinery sales have advanced and all products have wider and surer markets."

And while the Chicago Tribune's editorial columns burn with indignation against "Corn" Wallace and all his works, Frank Ridgeway, the farm editor of that journal, contributes an article with the information that dollars are rolling along rura Illinois roads.

Illinois roads.

Here's news too, that may or may not chirk up Senator Dickinson, Iowa's No. 1 old dealer. Anyway, it should remind him of the good old days that he's yearning for. "Iowa," reports J. S. Russell, farm editor of the Des Moines Register and Tribune, "sees a half billion dollars in farm income, the biggest since 1930. . . In the production of new agricultural wealth today, Iowa farmers lead all other states with an average of approximately $40,000,000 monthly in farm income during the first half of 1935."

So it goes. From all over the fat, broad land the story of John's gold strike is repeated: "Farmers of Indiana using black ink, gain $100,000, 000." . . . "Implement dealers and 000." ... "Implement dealers and manufacturers report nearly 100 per cent increase in business." ... "Northwest farmer has chin up—Agriculture is staging a tremendous comeback this year—Trade revival in ..."

"Kentucky merchants jubilant as farmers harvest good crops."
"Southwest in spirited recovery—live stock now selling at a profit—stockmen making more money than ever before during like period."
"Gross Wisconsin farm income this year will top $300,000,000 for the first time in five years." "Millions in new wealth pour into North Dakota farmers' pockets." "South Dakota farmers' pockets." "South Dakota farmers' pockets." "South Dakota farmers' pockets." "Suth Toke of 1935 crop will start river of wealth flowing." "Millions harvesting better than average fruit crop. "So much for John.

Now let's turn to the happiest story of all—the one about Herbert Hoover. It appears that while Mr.

Hoover is publicly and politically viewing with alarm, privately he is getting in on the New Deal's prosperity floor. According to John E. Pickett, editor of the Pacific Rural Pross, Mr. Hoover and his son, Allen, are among the largest investors in farm land.

"The smart money men feel," Pickett sew with the series of Dan Stephens were being tung by large for Dan Stephens were being tung by large sof Dan Stephens and it was due to this connection I was able to see his beauting and it was due to this connection I was able to see his beauting and it was due to this connection I was able to see his beauting and it was due to this connection I was able to see his beauting and it was due to this connection I was able to se "Kentucky merchants jubilant as

"The smart money men feel," Pickett says, "that farm land is the soundest investment of all, and they are encouraged by the fact that agri-culture has made the best recovery of any major industry and has a more cheerful outlook."

The Bystander By Stan

Robert Quillen is a bang up newspaper man. He is a country editor over at Fountian Inn, South Carolina. He publishes his newspaper for his own amusement as he puts it and that's as it should be for any man in whatever field he chooses to cultivate for a livelihood.

I have long been a Quillen fan. He writes a syndicated column for many daily newspapers, dividing the features into two portions, the first portion being a short editorial and the remainder divided into short paragraph quips. An apt student of philosophy, religion, economics and many other branches of wisdom, Bob Quillen is adept at expressing himself on many subjects. Many of his short paragraphs are stolen by unethical writers and editors and passed on to their readers as being the product of their own minds.

I like Bob Quillen and quote the

their own minds.

I like Bob Quillen and quote the following much quoted wedding story which appeared in his newspaper, The Fountain Inn Tribune.

A Life's Ambition Realized

Mr. Robert Chetaway and Miss Alice Broadkin were married at noon Monday at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. P. D. Broadkin, Rev. M. L. Gasssoway officiating.

The groom is a popular young bum kin, Rev. M. L. Gasssoway officiating.

The groom is a popular young bum who-hasn't done a lick of work since he got shipped in the middle of his junior year at college. He manages to dress well and keep a supply of spending money because his dad is a soft-hearted old fool who takes up his bad checks instead of letting him go to jail where he belongs.

The bride is a skinny, fast little idiot who has been kissed and handled by every boy in town since she was twelve years old. She paints like a Sioux Indian, sucks cigarettes in secret and drinks mean corn liquor when she is out joy riding in her dad's car at night. She doesn't know how to cook, sew or keep house.

The house was newly plastered for the wedding and the exterior newly painted, thus appropriately carrying out the decorative scheme, for the groom was newly plastered, also, and the bride newly painted.

The groom wore a rented dinner suit over atheltic underwear of imitation silk. His pants were held up by pale green cuspenders. His number eight patent leather shoes matched his state in tightness and harmonized nicely with the axle-grease polish of his hair. In addition to his jag he carried a pocket knife, a bunch of keys, a dun for the ring and his usual look of imbeeility.

The bride wore some kind of white thing that left most of her legs sticking out at one end and her bony upper end sticking out at the other.

The young people will make their home with the brides parents—which means they will sponge on the old man until he dies and then she will take in washing.

Postscript: This may be the last issue of the Tribune, but my life ambition has been to write up one wedding and tell the unvarnished truth. Now that it is done, death can have no sting.—Bob Quillen in the Fountain Inn (S. C.) Tribune.

Dan V. Stephens, former congressman and Fremont banker was responsible for making arrangements that the president might again visit this agricultural empire. It was my good fortune to shake hands with that grand old man and bask in the radiance of his cheerful smile. It was easy for me to understand why he is so well thought of by so many people of Fremont. Dodge county and the state of Nebraska. One preliminary speaker prophesied that Mr. Roosevelt's visit to Fremont would likely prolong the old gentleman's life ten years.

Throughout Fremont Saturday the praises of Dan Stephens were being sung by the people. He and Mr. Ley and Mr. Ahern are friends of long standing and it was due to this connection I was able to see his beautiful country home, The Cottonwoods, five and one-half miles northeast of Fremont.

Around the top of the room is an elaborate series of murals tolling the story of the country of which the Cottonwoods is a part, from days previous to the advent of man up to the time of those sturdy pioneers erected long cabins, drove away the Indians and cleared wast tracts of those fertile acres.

The barns are sanitation itself. Flies simply acting as if they cared to infringe upon this bovine society must pay the extreme penalty. They are promptly electrocuted by charged screens which form the top portion of doors in the dairy stable. Every time a fly, either within or without, strikes this screen a sizzling buzz tells us that another one has bit the dust.

The policy that "it pays to look well" is closely observed in this dairy barn. On entering, a cow is promptly shown her own stanchion where there are drinking cups automatically filled by pressure exerted by the bossy's nose.

Here the cows are fed, watered, curried and their udders are washed preparatory to their being taken to another spotlessly clean room where the milking is done.

Three cows can be milked at one time in this room by means of machines which have glass containers, showing the pearl colored liquid as it is being pumped from the udders.

A colony of neat little bungalows surrounded by beds of garden flowers and vines growing about them tell the visitor at The Cottonwoods that working conditions are pleasant.

It was well worth while to visit this fine farm. I am of the opinion the Roosevelts would have enjoyed a visit there had their plans permitted

Something that just had to happen occurred last week end when his majesty, Herman, the old "Sage or Apex" strode into this office and gave himself up. It's gratifying to me at least to know who Herman is, and that he is a real living, breathing, eating, sleeping, human being just like the rest of us.

just like the rest of us.

His contributions have been coming to this office in handwriting I was unable to identify. Simply signed "Herman Beetlebottom". I was unable to know who the Sam Hill he was. In his last contribution he threatened to pay me a visit. He was as good as his word and I found myself supprised that I have known him for some time but never by his adopted name. It was right nice of you to drop in, Herman, I will look forward to another call from you and that will be all for this week. Thanks for the call.

TALE TELLING

By The Tattler

Preaching to a congregation of novel readers is what Lloyd C. Douglas deserted his big city pulpit to do, and apparently he is quite happy in the work for he continues to deliver highly readable sermons all done up between book covers for his avid public. In a magazine article some time ago Douglas explained why he took this unusual method of reaching his flock by saying that it was more effective. And true it is that thousands more have heard the message of Author Lloyd C. Douglas than of the Rev. Lloyd C. Douglas. So one might reasonably suppose that the days of the backward collar are gone forever for this pen wielder, assuming of course that actually wore one—a backward collar. His first novel has a really comic history. Douglas thought he was writing a little religious essay, but decided that some conversation might make it more interesting. So he introduced a few characters and became so absorbed and fascinated in putting them through their paces that the result was a full length novel. And the Tattler ventures to say that Douglas was ever turned out a book.

And the Tattler ventures to say that Douglas was about as surprised an author as ever turned out a book. Incidentally this unexpected brain child—was Magnificent Obsession. Many people have criticized it but far more have praised it. The atmosphere is very medicinal and savors of hospitals, doctors, operations and relapses until the Tattler almost had one of the latter herself when she first learned that the author was a minister instead of a physician. Certainly one must give him credit for minister instead of a physician Certainty one must give him credit for writing realistically and with an understanding of his subject matter.

Then the way in which Douglas brings religion into his story through the leading character, Eubby Merrick, a good-for-nothing society playboy who reforms through the effects of a freak accident and becomes a famous brain surgeon. That is good reading.

Maybe his ideas aren't brand new

Maybe his ideas aren't brand new Maybe his ideas aren't brand new and original, but because they are fictionized they seem that way. Religion becomes something more than a matter of faith, apparently, it becomes scientific and something to ponder over with one's best intelligence. It's rather disconcerting too. The sort of religion set forth in this book is that which brings no comfort to our book character. It lashes, firives and haunts him day and night. It works him like a slave, and he beare encouraged culture has made the color of any major industry and has a more cheerful outdook."

at too much length about religion this week and it probably hasn't been very interesting-reading for you. Not that the subject can't be made interesting. That is where one must give this Mr. Douglas his due. Just see for yourself, if you haven't already. But if you can stay in this columnar buggy a little longer we'll spring an old gag that has a religious flavor—it really wasn't selected for that reason—and also in a rather pointed way a little sidelight on the newspaper game. Here it is:

A preacher at the close of one of his sermons said: "Let all in the house who are paying their debts—stand up." Instantly every man, woman and child with one exception, rose to their feet.

The preacher seated them, and then said: "Now every man not paying his debts stand up." The exception noted, a careworn, hungry looking individual, clothed in last summer's suit, slowly assumed a perpendicular position.

"How is it my friend," asked the minister, "that you are the only man not to meet his obligations?"

"I run a newspaper," he merely answered, and the brethern who stood up are my subscribers and."

"Let us pray", interrupted the minister.

Modern Magic with STRINGLESS BEANS

JACK and the Beanstalk is a JACK and the Beanstalk is a very old story, but the magic made with beans has not gone out of fashion. Of course Jack must have had a stringy variety to enable him to climb up so high to discover the feartil giant who muttered "bee Fi Po Fum," the goose that laid the golden egg and the magic harp, but the stringless bean is well adanted to modenn magic in the kitchen. Serve the following dish, for instance, at luncheon and note its original effect upon your guests.

Luncheon Vegetable Toast. Clean and cook one bunch fests asparagus until tender (or use canued asparagus). Drain, Heat the contents of a No. 2 can stringless beans until they have absorbed all their liquor. Who would expect to find these delicate veretables, for instance, in such a dish as Raked Stuefed Squash: Cut two small sweet potato squashes in halves lengthwise, remove seeds and scrape out all the stringy fibres. Dust with salt. Mix together two cups soft bread crumbs, one teaspoon sage, one-half teaspoon salt, a few grains pepper and one-half cup melted butter, and add enough canned bean liquor (from two to four tablespoons) to moisten. A FRUIT FOR

HOW a Modern Hostess makes a REPUTATION

NO hostess ever made a reputation with a routine dish. Imagine, for instance, trying to convince your dinner guests that your stewed corn excelled that of any other hostess they know. Stewed corn is an excellent dish, but it does not excel. If you want to make a hit with a dish which contains corn, you must dress it up into something like this *Corn and Mushroom Casserole: Sauté two tablespoons sliced onion in one tablespoon butter for several minutes. Add the contents of a 4-ounce eam mushrooms and a No. 2 can creamy corn, three-fourths cup chili sauce and salt and pepper to taste. Turn into a buttered casserole, and bake in a moderate—375 degree—oven for about thirty minutes. Serves six.

A Luncheon Dish Of, if you want a corn dish that looks attractive and tastes twice as good as it looks, to serve at a luncheon party, try this Tomatoes Stuffed with Corn, Celery and Cucumbers: Cut stem ends from eight firm tomatoes, scoop out centers and dust inside with salt. Saute one-half cup cerry and Cucumbers: Cut stemends from eight-firm tomatoes, scoop out centers and dust inside with salt. Saute one-half cup diced celery and one-half cup diced celery and one-half cup diced cucumbers in two tablespoons butter for several minutes, add one cup creamy canned corn, and if too dry, add two or three tablespoons cream. Season to taste with salt and pepper. Fill tomatoes with this mixture and top with buttered 'crumbs. Around each tomato wrap a slice of bacon, fastening with a toothpick. Bake in a moderate oven for about thirty minutes, or until tomatoes done and corn brown. Serves eight.

Lyons Gridsters Defeat Wayne High School 12-6

Last Friday, in a good, fast early season game, Wayne high school went down to defeat at the hanks of the Lyons grid machine to the tune of 12 to 6. The game was played on even terms throughout, and the outcome was never an absolute certainty until the final whistle ended the game.

After a fumbled punt and a fifteen yard penalty for piling out the ball

After a fumbled punt and a fifteen yard penalty for piling put the ball on the Wayne 8-yard line, the Lyons boys started to work and scored, after three attempts at the line on an off tackle drive, which put them ahead 6 to 0 in the first quarter. The try for the point failed.

In the second quarter, Alderson, stellar wing man for the Wayne cub, took a couple of passes out of the air, the second finding him in the open, from which place he scampered 20 yards for a touchdown. The place kick for the extra point was blocked and the game was tied up at six all when the intermission was called.

The third quarter was played on even terms, with the Wayne team getting away early in the quarter for three downs, but were unable to keep up the pace, and they were forced to punt. Neither team got within scoring distance during the quarter, and so no one seemed in danger, and the game looked like a tie, but in the fourth quarter the Lyons club turned on the heat again, and after a series of thrifty yards made a touchdown. The try for the extra point was no good and the game ended with the Lyons team in possession of the ball but in the middle of the field. Score, Lyons 12, Wayne 6.

Gibb was pleased with the showing

Gibb was pleased with the showing Gibb was pleased with the showing of his team, and hopes that in the game with Laurel on the latter's grid iron this week, the boys will come out on the long end of the score. Peterson and Barnett will be out on injuries and they should be back in the game after that time. The signal calling spot is the weak spot in the Wayne outfit, and Gibb is looking for someone to call the plays and call them right. In all probabilities there will be some minor changes in the them right. In all probabilities there will be some minor changes in the lineup for this Friday, and Dale Alderson and Alan Nelson may be moved back to the Wayne bickfield in order to get a better balanced offense. Sevy may be moved into the center post and Wallace, a new man this year, may be placed at Alderson's end. The tackles seem to be fairly certain with Fleetwood and Delbert Alderson handling them in good shape. Ray Bonawitz, Buford Johnson and Jim Ahern are staging a son and Jim Ahern are staging a merry battle for the guard positions, with Sevy also having a chance there.

The backs are all just fair, with Gilly, dersleeve, Penhollow, Robinson and Maricle looking the best.

Laurel has a big, fast team this year, but the boys will be out there trying to avenge the 21 to 0 defeat of last year. So the pass word at the high school grid camp this week is BEAT LAUREL!!!

tomatoes has acquired such a vogue in the last few years that it is now one of the major concerns of the commercial canning industry. There are a number of reasons for this, all good, but the chief reason is that tomato juice just tastes fine to nearly every body.

As is perfectly natural when any new beverage has such a vogue, everyone host taken a slot at making variations of it. Some people just drink the juice of canned tomatoes, and save the vegetables themselves for use in other dishes. Others prefer the prepared canned tomato juices with seasoning added. Still eithers try to paint the lifty, and conceits the prepared canned tomato juices is a beverage of which you do not tree, but it is interesting to know how some people have tried to vary it. Here are a few examples.

The Simplest Forms

Motor Company Buys Sam Larson Building

Announcement was made early this week of the purchase Saturday of the brick building at Main and Fourth streets by the G & W Motor company from Sam Larson of Wausa. The building was erected in 1914 by B. W. Wright to house the Ford automobile agency he operated at that time and for automobile storage. The site was purchased of W. A. Hiscox who at that time operated a livery stable there, Mr. Wright recalls being advised by friends while the building was under construction that accomodations

The WHY Of GOOD COFFEE

WHAT is the one essential bev-werage which makes or breaks the average American's doy? Cof-fee, of course! We spend, as a nation, $300,000,000 a year for this debetable, becomes fee, of course! We spend, as a nation, $300,000,000 a year for this delectable beverage, and yet a good many of us continue to grumble because we sometings get coffee that does not take right. There's a reason for this, The only coffee that makes a good breen is strictly fresh, and the only coffee that keeps strictly fresh until opened is that which is packed in vacuum cans.

There's a reason for this, too. When the coffee beam is roasted, a gas, called carbon dioxide, is found in its tiny cells. This gas is under such high pressure in the coffee bean that it forces its way out very rapidly for the first twenty-four hows after the coffee is roasted and ground. In about rice days practically all of it has left the coffee.

More Reasons Why

More Reasons Why

More Reasons why The roasted bean also develops an aronatic or volatile oil which c attains the arona or favor of the coffee and forms that part of it which is so delicious in the cup. This aromatic oil evaporates from the ground coffee along with the ans.

This around to off evaporates from the ground coffee along with the gas.

The oxygen of the air is the great enemy of good coffee because its reaction with substances in the coffee develops that discreeable favor which makes us call it stale. It is to preserve the flavor and offs of coffee and to exclude the oxygen that it should be packed in vacuum cans.

Coffee, so packed, is scaled in the can in a large machine called a vacuum closing machine which draws out the air and seals the cover so that no air can possibly got in, all this in one operation.

FACTS ABOUT FURNACE FUEL

SINCLAIR FURNACE FUEL has been especially produced for the purpose it must serve. It is high in gravity, light and clear and insures successful operation of oil burning furnaces without gumming up burners and producing sludge or other residue.

High gravity of SINCLAIR FURNACE FUEL insures sure fire ignition in the coldest of weather. This fuel remains liquid at lowest temperatures thus eliminating the dangers of ignition failure.
