Laurel Man Takes State Nubbin Meet

Farmer's Roman Holiday Draws 10,000 Persons On Bleek Day

A crowd estimated at approximate ly 10,000 persons braved a bitter cold, dark and icy morning in early November Monday to witness the Ne braska state corn husking contest, which took place on the Oscar Rein hardt farm seven miles south or Pokett, 30-year-old Cedar county farmer of near Laurel won the eighty minute contest and the $100 prize by husking 17.666 bushess net. Second place went to Oscar Nelson of Dixon county, who husked 17 bushels to win a cash prize of $50. Third prize of $25 went to Louis Korte, of Stanton county who husked 16.838 bushels, fourth place and $15 went to John Rydel of Colfax county, who husked 16.703 and Mike Cuba of Nance county placed fifth with 16.498 to win the $10 prize.

Prizes were paid to the winners by the Nebraska Farmer, promotors or the contest. Picking was slow due to the icy condition of the field and the corn to be husked.

It was a Roman holiday for Nebras ka farmers who drove many miles over treacherous ice-coated roads to witness the event. Skies were lea den and a wind that chilled to the marrow blew from the northwest Now and then the sun would peep through the cloud banks to shine up on the ice-coated countryside, but only for a moment.

Enormous tents housed automobile and farm machinery and equipment exhibits, giving the appearance or a a belated country fair. Contestants found difficulty in keeping their footing on the ice-coated ground between rows. It was interesting to watch speed demon nubbin tossers taking advantage of every motion to They had it down to a science and even made use of their feet to draw up to them the ears of corr stalks which had for some reason or another gone down. Hands of some of the contestants were bleeding and one competing husker very effective-ly made use of football shoes with which he was able to keep his footing. Comments throughout the crowd were to the effect that the contest on the whole was really worth the effort.

Following are the tabulated results: Paul Pokett, 17.666, Cedar county Oscar Nelson, 17.0, Dixon. Louis Korte, 16.838, Stanton John Rydel, 16,703, Colfax. Mike Cuba, 16.498, Nance. Citizens Vote Against Bond For Hospital

Decline Federal Grant of $27,000 For Building; Big Vote Polled

Wayne citizens Tuesday swarmed to their various voting places and voted down the proposition to issue bonds of $33,000 for construction of a modern fire-proof 40-bed municipal hospital at a cost of $60,000, which the federal government granted $27,000.
Official count of ballots showed that 540 were against the proposition and 247 favored it. The issue was defeated in all three wards. Returns from the first ward showed that 146 were against it, while 67 favored it. Second and third ward votes cast differed by two. In the second ward it went 198 to 90 and in the third ward it was 196 to 90.

College Head Tells Preps About "Dreams"; Their Value to Us

Dr. J. T. Anderson addresses the College high school students Wednesday morning at convocation exercises on the subject of "Dreams." The speaker's contention that dreams can be very worthwhile and constructive instead of waste of time if one has the right ideals. He classified ideals into two types, terminal and regulative. The former have to do with one's ambitions and goals and the latter with the means of attaining them. Said Dr. Anderson, "Some-times people have worthy ambitions, long tables, which were decorated in but they employ unworthy methods of fall colors. Group singing between achieving them. Auto Crash Takes Lives Of Two Men

Die of Head Injuries Received Sunday

Adolph Pfister of Winside died Sunday evening at 6:15 o'clock and S. I. Jacobson of Wayne died Monday morning about ten o'clock, both being victims of an auto crash on highway No. 35, two miles east of Winside.

The accident occurred at 5:80 Sunday morning. The collision was attributed to low hanging smoke from a passing train which impaired the drivers' vision. Del Jones, son-in-law of Mr. and Mrs. Pfister, was driving and Mrs. Pfister and Mrs. Jones were other occupants of the car, which was traveling towards Wayne. S. I. Jacobsen of Wayne, who was traveling west enroute to Warnersville, was the sole occupant of the other car.

Both Pfister and Jacobsen died of head injuries. Pfister suffered concussion of the brain and both legs were broken below the knees. Jones was badly bruised about the arms and hands. Mrs. Pfister's left arm was broken above the elbow and her right wrist was badly hurt. had her nose injured and suffered minor cuts and bruises. Occupants of both cars were taken to a Wayne hospital.

Jacobsen was thrown from his car which remained upright in the road. times and finally rested on its top in the ditch. Mr. and Mrs. Jones were able to get out of the wreck but Mr. and Mrs. Pfister were pinned in the ar until help arrived.

Ben Benshoof and Pyott Rhudy, farmers living nearby, helped the injured and went to Winside for aid. Both cars were demolished.

FARM VOTE NOT A

NATIONAL REFERENDUM

ADes Moines RegisterQ
The Register won't be forced into the position of saying that everything AAA has done or contemplates is in line with God's providence.

It sees in the proposed 'permanent" agricultural plan that AAA has promulgated (at least in so far as Pres ident Roosevelt has outlined it to the country.. some aspects that may be necessary but that are hard to enthuse about.

But the Register gets decidedly irked when provincial eastern newspapers, speaking for provincial eastern interests, attempt to discount the significance of the overwhelming pro-AAA vote in the corn-hog referendum.

It is especially irked by the one line of argument that runs through most of their wails-the argument that this referendum was not a "popular endorsement" of AAA because only the producers voted, because putting it the other way, consumers who must pay a hgiher price for pork did not have a chance to vote.

Now nobody pretended that this was a nationwide plebiscite on whether to continue this specific group of producers. But do our clever eastern critics really want a national plebiscite held every time the conferring of some specific benefit on a minority group is proposed of consum want a national plebsicite of consumers about each item in an easterninspired set of tariff schedules, for

Of course this wasn't that kind of a vote. Here is what it really was: 1. It was an answer to the question whether, after a brief experience with a degree of cooperative control of production and marketing, the corn and hog farmers wanted to continue the experiment. It was em- not leave too much in the field in a phatically an affirmative answer.

were disposd to go on along the general line of co-operation so far tried. Again the answer was yes.

This is all any intelligent person ever supposed the referendum amounted to.

Of course there have been popular endorsements of the principle of boosting agriculture up to price parity-of giving agriculture by govern-mental action the better relative economic status that it is concededly entitled to. Unless we shall say that the platforms of both parties on this point have been and ought to be considered fakes, and unless we shall say that neither the 1932 election the 1934 one was a popular referendum, conducted in our traditional way, on the present agricultural pol-icies, we cannot say that there has been no popular endorsement.

That traditional way, periodical elections, is the only way we have for passing on issues, and we doubt very much whether eastern critics of AAA would favor any way that provided more clear-cut and specific issues.

And there is simply no use pretending, with rolling eyes and expressions of shock, that this is the first time a class of minority group in this country has ever been favored. About the only thing new in it is that this time there actually was held a referendum on methods among the a referendum on methods among the complete from which visitors were ask-benefitted producers themselves.

All of us, eastern critics included, may as well face the fact that if we may as well late that that the mean well have the mean business with our pledges of the Nebraska Farmer. We had a giving agriculture a better break, it is almost sure to mean somewhat Like all of us, these follows are in higher prices of farm products, at the game because they'd rather folmitted to slide drastically.

Or perhaps her shoulders are not broad enough . . . and she just can't take it. Oh! Sorry Day! Mayhap our little Babbling Barbara has just up and babbled herself all away !!!?

Say, Barbara, sometime when you are off duty, (which I heartily expect is most of the time, why don't you drop in to the "type farm" and look things over? I know you will be especially amused at those delightful, ducky little creatures which they braska farmers. Conference football explained to me were type lice. Yesterday I was walking down the street (in Apex, of course) and who should I meet but old Abe Scott. I stopped and chinned with him for a while and of course asked him if he were going pheasant hunting. Old Abe looked at me and snorted in disgust: "Pheasant hunting! Pooey to you!

Why, that's kid stuff. Now when I go hunting" . . . but just then along came Otto Zimmerhauser so I escaped and let him be Ol' Abe's public. I November 14 with Mrs. Ed Grier and must have missed a good tale tho'. Anyway this is the way Otto relayed office for a cup of coffee, I met Bunt Fleetwood on the street. I asked him how he came out in the cornhusking contest, never thinking that the officials wouldn't even let him enter. But such was the case. Bunt's big brown eyes were a study in real sorrow when he told me that both his and Father Kearn's professional records were known and that both were disqualified for competition in the state contest.

However, both gentlemen have done the real white thing, I think, when they volunteered to put on an exmibition contest for eighty minutes just before the national title opens near LaFayette, Indiana. I'm sure anyone who can find the time and the money to spend for attending the national meet will find it worth while. If for no other reason they will know there are some real good Wayne fellows out there showing them all how corn is husked by professional cornhuskers of this cornhusker state.

And still these out of town bakeries and laundries competing with local concerns find it necessary to park their enormous vans and trucks on the main stem. I think plenty has been done to get these guys to park their machines on side streets similar to the one on which the Democrat office is located. I've seen Bill Stew art go up to some of them and tell them to park elsewhere. I've seen George Bornhoft drive a big truck to another parking place after he had searched in vain for the driver. I think it would be a darn good idea to crack down on these guys park for a long period of time on know better. I think the others

Wayne Tutors Defeat Chadron

Wildcats Outplay Teachers From Northwest In 19-20 Thriller

Supplying the customers with an abundance of thrills, Wayne State Teachers college gridsters defeated Chadron State Teachers college 20 to 19 under the lamps on College field Friday evening.

Alumni as well as undergraduates backed the Wildcats with an enthusiasm only a team determined to wir could possess.

The spectacle of the evening occured when Dale Arnold, agile back-fieldsman of Chadron, received a kickoff from Wayne and scurried 85 yards for a touchdown. That was in the second half when the score stood at 13 to 12 in favor of the home The kick was good, annexing another point for the lads from the northwest.

Wayne was not to be outdone, how ever, and Retzlaff drew the task of taking a lateral pass for 21 yards and a touchdown, tieing the score.

The last point was successfully se cured in the waning moments of an entirely successful engagement for Coach Hickman and the Wildcats.

It was generally agreed that Wayne outplayed Chadron throughout the game. Wayne made 17 first downs o Chadron's six. Chadron outgained Wayne in yardage during the first half, however, with a total of 158 to 112. In the second half Wayne led by 210 to 36.

Following is the lineup:

Grads Attend Homecoming Celebration; Elect New Officers

"The challenge of the Armistice to each of us is the challenge of citizen-ship in the Republic," declared Dr. C. F. Dicast, superintendent of the Wayne public schools and a distinguished World War veteran, in a chapel address Wednesday morning before Wayne State Teachers conege

"My part and yours is to do well the tasks at hand, to build homes, to help maintain communities, to sup-port our government, to keep faith in the God of our fathers. In proportion as we hold true to these goals. shall we be happy in our day and contribute to the fulfillment of the high mission of America to the

Dr. Dienst stated that more than one hundred names are written on the military hono rroll of Wayne State Teachers college. Of this number six young men sacrificed their lives on the Western Front, some of them being comrades of Dr. Dienst at Camy Funston and two being members of his own 89th division of the Amerian expeditionary forces.

Said Dr. Dienst, hThere was no delusion in the minds of our people about the price of participation when America cast her lot with the allies For more than two years veteran armies of Europe had swayed back and forth across No Man's Land Thousands had already died in the struggle. The young men who left this campus, for training camps marched toward fields, already red we must pay tribute to the spirit of America that accepts war rather than the surrender of convictions." He also paid tribute to those who, though they never wore the uniform, carried on at home while the soldier was away. "The toll of war is universal," he stated, "and by the same token the credit of Armistice day belongs to

If we are to be worthy of the sacrifices of the past, the speaker pointed out, we must also accept the responsibility for the realization of the heritage that has come to us from sacrifices. "Others paid with their lives for these privileges which are ours," he stated in conclusion. "On this solemn occasion let us accept the challenge of peace as they did the challenge of war, and 'Carry On' for a nobler and more consecrated citizenship."

Homecoming festivities which took place November 1 and 2 were climaxed Saturday evening with the annua homecoming dance in college gymnasium under the auspices of "W" club. Because of the nearness of the Nebraska State Teachers association meetings which took place the pre vious week the number of alumni to attend homecoming was considerably

Teas, dinners, faculty receptions, a football game, pep rallies and parade featured the celebration this year. In the homecoming parade this year Neihardt Hall placed first; Katz club placed second; Newman club and W. A. A. tied for third; honorable mention, Terrace Hall and Sophomore class.

Newly elected oficers of Wayne College association for the ensuing year are as follows: Wm. Johnson of Clarkson, re-elected president; Cyrus Jones, Supt. of schools at Wvnot. vice-president; Phillco Friest of Wisner, recording secretary; Rollie W. Ley, treasurer. The following were selected members of the board of governors: Clarence McClurg, of O'Neill, Holt county superintendent, Miss Margaret Schemel, and Henry A. Schroeder, superintendent of Scribner
