

City Invites All to Attend Electric Show

Light Department to Give Flowers to Ladies On Thursday, June 25

Thursday, June 25, is the date set by Wayne city councilmen as the time for an "Open House" which will take place at the municipal electric light and power plant on South Main street.

The plant, which for the last year has been steadily undergoing modernization is now being rapidly put into shape for Wayne citizens to give it a thorough inspection on that day.

With the installation of the new $52,000 diesel engine and generating unit, the plant is one of the most modern owned by any municipality the size of Wayne in America.

Three diesel powered generating units, any one of which is capable of carrying the normal load comprise the equipment at the plant. These engines are alternated periodically, thus insuring the plant of at all times having a freshly overhauled unit to carry the load whenever it is deemed necessary to change from one to another. A third engine stands ready to carry any emergency which might arise to call for additional generating of power.

Well groomed at all times Wayne's modern plant is as clean as most kitchens. The concrete floor is painted a battleship grey and blue linoleum strips form walks about the giant engines.

A new room added in the south portion of the building provides office room at the plant.

In a setting amid the ponderous machinery which provides Wayne with electrical energy, merchants who sell washing machines, ranges, refrigerators and other electrical appliances will have exhibits of their merchandise. Everyone is invited to attend the power plant open house, flowers will be given to the ladies and employees of the light department will conduct visitors on a tour of their plant.

Carroll Robbers Remain at Large

Men Answering Description Of Carroll Bank Raiders Reported Seen

Though peace officers throughout this section of the country have been told to be on the lookout for the two bandits who early Monday afternoon slugged M. S. Whitney, vice-president of the credit corporation, operating in the Carroll State Bank building, and escaped with nearly $1,400, no arrest had been reported late Wednesday.

Reports of having seen men answering the description of the bandits have been telephoned in to the office of county sheriff James H. Pile from various parts of northeast Nebraska at intervals since the robbery took place.

Sheriff Pile accompanied by County Attorney Burr R. Davis and Tom Roberts, deputy state sheriff of Norfolk were in Carroll Tuesday interviewing persons who had witnessed the robbery.

Shortly before the robbery took place the men entered the bank where Mr. Whitney who was in charge was visiting with W. R. Scribner, receiver of the defunct Carroll State Bank. They asked for a chattel mortgage blank which they said they needed in a car deal. Whitney advised them to get a sale contract from some auto dealer.

Leaving the bank the men were seen to go to the car they were driving and there waited until Scribner had left the building. Returning to the bank the men asked for the mortgage blank and as Whitney was going to get it for them they forced him to lie down upon the floor at the point of a gun.

After lying down on the floor Whitney glanced up to see one of the men scooping up cash while the other covered him with a pistol after having slugged him over the head twice with a flat black jack.

Driving south out of Carroll, the men escaped in the 1933 Ford V-8 tudor automobile which later developed to have been stolen in Council Bluffs Sunday and seen Sunday evening in South Sioux City.

One of the men is described as being about 30 years old, 5 feet 6 inches tall and weighing about 140 pounds. He had a small Roman nose which bore a small but freshly peeled wound.

The other man is said to be between 28 and 34 years old, 5 feet 7 or 8 inches tall and weighing about 150 pounds. Both men wore overalls, one having worn a gray shirt while the other's was white.

Kiwanians Hear County Treasurer

J. J. Steele Says City's Financial Condition Is Excellent

County Treasurer James J. Steele of Wayne addressed members of Kiwanis club on the subject of taxes following noonday luncheon at hotel Stratton Monday.

"We have always had taxes with us", began Mr. Steele, "and we might just as well know something about them. Whether we like taxes or not they are necessary."

In explaining the divisions of the tax dollar, the county treasurer first enumerated the steps necessarily taken in arriving at a levy. The first step, he said, is to obtain the valuation of all personal property in the county and add this to that of other counties to obtain the total taxable valuation of the state. Both real and personal property are included in the total. It is next decided how much money will be required to run the state for the ensuing year. When this is determined a levy is set which is expected to produce that amount of money.

Total levy for Wayne citizens for 1936, including state, county, school and city taxes, was 46.3 mills, said Mr. Steele. This was expected to produce $77,740.01. Following is the way this sum was planned to be apportioned: state, $3609.96; county, $6632.25; school $22,331.86; city, $45,166.44.

Every tax dollar spent by a Wayne citizen is divided as follows: 4 1/2 cents to the state, 8 1/2 cents to the county, 28 1/2 cents to the school and 58c to the city.

Financial Condition Good

That Wayne is in an excellent financial condition was pointed out by Mr. Steele. During the last thirteen years, he said, the city has paid off $417,900 worth of bonds and $354,000 interest. "We now have in unpaid bonds $415,500", he stated, "but it should be much easier to pay because of reduced interest debt. Unless the city takes on more indebtedness it should be bond free in about twelve years."

Verne Powell was found guilty in county court last Thursday of driving an overloaded truck. He paid a fine of $10 and costs of $4.85.

Mrs. Moses Tells of Trip To Washington and White House

Though she may be "from the farm", Mrs. F. Irving Moses of near Wayne knows what it is like to go to town in a great big way. She recently did just that and as a result is able to describe the handshake of Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, the late Joseph W. Byrns, and a galaxy of other luminaries.

The "town" she went to was Washington, D. C., and her purpose was to attend the third triennial conference of Associated Country Women of the World, which was in session from May 31 to June 11. About 7,000 other women from 43 states and a score of nations had the same purpose, with the result that the Capitol city was swamped by the influx and encountered great difficulty in taking care of its guests. Only about 2,000 were expected. At meetings conducted previously in Stockholm and Vienna, there had been between 200 and 300 delegates present.

Mrs. Moses was Wayne county's only representative. She traveled in company with 136 other Nebraskans, 99 of whom rode in three chartered buses, one of which was driven by Loren Agler, nephew of Miss Pearl Sewell and Mrs. Frank Davis. Only eleven of the 99 had ever been to Washington before, said Mrs. Moses, whose first trip it was.

The Cornhusker group, believing that the longest way around is the best, traveled 3,000 miles in making the complete trip, which consumed one week where usually three days are required. The women visited, among other places, Niagara Falls, St. Thomas, Canada, Battle Creek, Philadelphia and Independence Hall, and Chicago, where the police formed an escort and took them through the city without even the necessity of pausing for a red light.

Mrs. Roosevelt Entertains

Because she is pettily built, dark haired Mrs. Moses found herself shaking hands with the First Lady of the Land one day, the opening day of the Washington conference which began June 1 with a formal opening in Constitution hall. Famous speakers included, Secretary of State Cordell Hull, Secretary of Agriculture, Henry A. Wallace, and Mrs. Roosevelt, who afterward entertained with the President at a garden party reception at the White House.

The Roosevelts were hosts to 6000 women, all eager to shake hands. In the straining and jostling, Mrs. Moses suddenly became caught in the human current and being small, found herself swept along until she was pushed up against Mrs. Roosevelt who, protected by three White House aides, extended her left hand to Mrs. Moses, one of the few who had no intentions of seeking to shake hands. See Byrnes Before Death

Sadness touched several of the women June 4 following a visit with the late Speaker of the House of Representatives, Joseph W. Byrns. The interview was arranged by Congressman Karl Stefan and Byrns appeared in good health, though tired. He chatted with the delegates, shaking hands with four or five, of which Mrs. Moses was one, and complimented Mr. Stefan by saying, "You farm women can feel assured that if any bill of interest to farmers is introduced, Stefan is here to boost it." This was Thursday at 12:30 a. m. He died suddenly twelve hours later.

Congressman Stefan through special arrangements made it possible for the Nebraska delegation to ride the trolley cars for the exclusive use of congressmen and also to attend a Senate meeting. He took 37 of them to lunch one noon. Secretary of War Dern and his wife also entertained the Nebraska delegation at a garden party at their Washington home. It was humorously marred, however, by a sudden rain storm which necessitated the guests fleeing into the house for shelter and staying until five-thirty o'clock. When the buses came for them the women dashed from the house to the wait-buses through a veritable deluge.

Objects of sightseeing in Washington included the Smithsonian Institute where Mrs. Moses saw wax models of Presidents wives dressed in their inaugural gowns, the Ford theatre where Lincoln was shot, and the international exhibits of foreign delegates to the convention. The women also visited Mt. Vernon and attended commencement exercises for naval cadets at Annapolis.

The conference was formally concluded with a sundown farewell ceremony at the Water Gate, Arlington Memorial Bridge. It was a fitting touch, said Mrs. Moses, to an entirely satisfactory and educational trip.

Senator Norris Speaks

The Republican Old Guard, the crowd behind which stand the reactionary Wall Street interests, the international bankers, the grain and industrialists, the utility trust, the Morgans, Mellons, and DuPonts, were thoroughly in control of the G. O. P. national convention which met in Cleveland last week.

With Gov. Alfred M. (Call me Alf) Landon, Kansas, "budget balancer" and cutter of school teachers' wages the choice of the big boys, the hand of William Randolph Hearst was seen as one of the powerful directing forces back of the convention. Landon is the Hearst candidate, and the discovery of the "Lord of San Simeon".

Senator George W. Norris of Nebraska, speaking over a nation wide radio hook-up Sunday evening called attention to what transpired behind the smoke screen. He further said:

"It does not necessarily follow that the nominee is not a good man. But it does mean that if he will not take orders from the undisclosed bosses who made him, then these eminent gentlemen have been deceived."

Norris said he was not asking support of Roosevelt on a party basis, but that he was pleading with his countrymen to forget partisanship and come to the support of the man who more than any other man in recent years, has stood for the welfare of the common people. He further said:

"I want you to remember that these eminent gentlemen behind the smoke screen at Cleveland will attempt to buy the electorate at the coming presidential election. They will be supplied with funds from special interests which have come into conflict with the reform measures of President Roosevelt."

"They will be careful in this coming campaign not to appear in the open, wherever they can conceal their attempts. They will wrap themselves in the American flag, stand on the housetops, cry for liberty of contract, denounce the government for going into business and do anything that they can, directly or indirectly which will enable them to maintain the stronghold they held under President Hoover, and upon which Roosevelt has gradually but surely loosened their grasp."

Let's Visit Our Plant

One week from today the city of Wayne will conduct "open house" at our ultra-modern electric light and power plant on South Main street. Few Wayne citizens realize what a wonderful piece of property they have in their municipally owned plant and this will be an opportunity for them to learn something about it.

It is without a doubt the most profitable investment our taxpayers have ever made. It is complete in every detail and is equipped with adequate equipment to keep it abreast of any plant in any city of its size anywhere. Three huge diesel engines, each of which has its own exciter and dynamo, comprise the main physical equipment in the plant. Any one of these units is capable of carrying the normal load under present conditions, thus allowing the output between two units of approximately equal size, with the third being used as an auxiliary to be used only when required to carry peak loads which are heaped upon the plant during the winter months or when certain conditions arise at the Wayne State Teachers college which require additional power to be procured from the municipal plant.

Electricity in Wayne is a most economical servant. One representative citizen whose home is fully equipped with range, refrigerator, washer, ironer, vacuum sweeper, portable heaters of various kinds and numerous smaller appliances including a floor waxer, told this writer his monthly light bill seldom ran over five or six dollars.

Electricity is clean and safe and when we consume it we are not only benefitting ourselves by keeping the plant in operation but we are at the same time contributing toward city improvements of all kinds including the municipal auditorium, street and alley and sewer maintenance.

We Wayne citizens should do everything we can electrically and in that way help to make this a debt free city.

We should find time to pay Sol Hemple and his helpers at the plant a friendly call Thursday, let them show us about and tell us what sort of place it is. It is our guess that you will be as surprised as we were when we made the tour a few days ago.

The Nebraska Democrat feels that when you make this tour of inspection next Thursday you will know what we mean when we advise you not to buy milk when you own a cow.

SEE NEBRASKA FIRST

With the approach of vacation time near at hand, "See Nebraska First" should be a good slogan for all good Nebraskans to observe. This newspaper is indebted to the Game Forestration and Parks commission for a beautiful Outdoor Nebraska official map recently received. The map is lithographed in colors showing locations of recreation grounds, state parks, state fisheries, game reserves, points of interest, national forests, game refuges, hard surfaced, graveled maintained and not maintained roads by means of an easily read legend.

Below the map are listed the names of all the places mentioned above with their particular key number and letter in parenthesis. The reverse side of the map is a profusion of fine photographs showing scenes in our state parks, recreation grounds and accompanied with blocks of well written copy which tell the story of what an attractive vacation spot Nebraska is.

The map is a fine piece of advertising for Nebraska. It clearly tells us of the wonderful vacation possibilities within our own state boundaries and makes one wonder why he ever considered crossing state lines for an outing before seeing Nebraska first. Under the caption "Seeing Nebraska" appears the message contained on the frontpiece of the map. The article is written by Carveth Wells.

Seeing Nebraska

By Carveth Wells

"I can think of at least six reasons why you should visit Nebraska. Of course, there are plenty more, but the six reasons are quite enough, as you will agree if you take my advice and explore Nebraska - 'The Tree Planters' State."

"The first reason I thought of was Buffalo Bill! For, to me, he is just as beloved as Robinson Crusoe, Cinderella, or Sinbad the Sailor, and one of my ambitions is to visit the largest city in western Nebraska - North Platte - Buffalo Bill's Home Town, and be there for the annual round-up. "Another reason you should visit Nebraska the next time you feel the call of the West is to see Scott's Bluff National Monument. And here are the other four reasons:

"The Joslyn Memorial in Omaha, the State capitol in Lincoln, the famous Arboretum in Arbor Lodge State Park at Nebraska City and the Hall of Elephants in Morrill Hall at the University of Nebraska in Lincoln. You don't have to go to Africa or Asia for elephants! Western Nebraska just swarms with them! All you need is a shovel and a pickaxe and a little energy - and you can go elephant mining!

"Then you must see the Sand Hills, filled with lakes and marshes, and two areas of evergreen wooded mountains - The Wild Cat Range and the Pine Ridge. As you motor through the western portion of Nebraska you will realize that you are beginning to enter the Rocky mountain region. Here and there, rising hundreds of feet above the surrounding plains, are those great isolated rugged hills known as "buttes". The North Platte river with its splendid valley, the Wild Cat range with its majestic scenery, Fort McPherson National cemetery, the Old Oregon and Mormon Trails - all of these hold unusual interest for the visitor.

"Here are a few facts about Nebraska that will surprise even some Nebraskans! She has 1,200 natural lakes - she has more river mileage than any other state - she has one county named Cherry which is larger than Connecticut - she has 438 varieties of birds - she has the largest deposit of potash in the United States. Her state flower is the Golden Rod and the state bird is the Meadow Lark."

NOT CONSTITUTIONS BUT PUBLIC OPINIONS GOVERN NATIONS.

"Our government rests in Public Opinion. Whoever can change public opinion on any subject can change the government." - ABRAHAM LINCOLN, quoted by United States Senator William E. Borah.

At Runnymede in 1215 we have the power of public opinion in the matter of government. It was the birth of the MAGNA CARTA, reaffirmed many times by English Kings, under force of public opinion, and finally the substance of it was incorporated into the Constitution of the United States.

Most of the talk that is being made today about the destruction of our constitutional liberty is being made by the Republican party under the auspices of the American Liberty League and other affiliated propagandists. To them it is a handsomely bound revised edition of the bloody shirt.

The origin and history of the Republican party have never had any reason for existence except as an expression of public opinion. That is all to its credit. The whole history of that party, from the day of its inception until now, is based on a fundamental and open rebellion against the constitution of the United States. Had the Dred Scot decision not been handed down, reaffirming states rights, the Republican party would never have been born. Its one objective was the destruction of slavery, constitution or no constitution, and in the course of time it succeeded in the establishment of a Federalism that has made constant encroachments on the constitutional integrity of the states; so much so in fact that it is a matter of serious doubt whether we are at all today governed by a constitution, if so, whose constitution? Does it belong to the people, the national congress, or the Supreme Court?

As for the Bill of Rights no tyrant has for eight hundred years ever attacked it and for long held the right to rule. It constitutes the cherished rights of mankind and will ever be held inviolate and is as sacred as the Ark of the covenant. We will never amend the Bill of Rights.

As for the Constitution - it is a changing document. Thomas Jefferson declared that in the interest of government it might suffer a change every thirty years. He thought so little of it he set it aside of his own volition in less time than that and added the Louisiana strip to the nation. He did not suffer in public esteem for doing it. He recognized before Abraham Lincoln that government rests in public opinion.

Andrew Jackson had a worse reputation than Jefferson. His idea was that popular government should live and not be shackled by narrow constructionist ideas of a limited government, straggled and limping on the crutches of political sanctity. He destroyed the United States Bank which was eating out the very vitals of the nation.

Even Lincoln's Proclamation of Emancipation was an unconstitutional act of the grossest kind, and for it he was severely condemned among his own northern friends, and lost prestige and administration support, but he came back with the answer that "it was a necessary war measure, warranted by the constitution upon military necessity".

Theodore Roosevelt defied the constitution in building the Panama Canal, telling a belligerent congress that after it was built it was time enough to talk about it. Also he took the bull by the horns and built an office annex to the White House which he said would cost fifty thousand dollars but after it was done presented a bill to the government for six hundred and fifty thousand dollars and told them to pay the bill and do it now.

Woodrow Wilson during the war was the object of constant attack for overstepping the bounds of constitutional prerogative, but was supported by public opinion, the keystone in the arch of all government.

We have now a president who is variously charged with unconstitutional acts. Most of the criticism is merely the repetition of a lot of drivelling nonsense from a bunch of wind bags; a small part of it from men who understand governments and how they function and endure. If President Roosevelt has at any time gone beyond the constitution he has chosen legal means to do it - he has gone through the Congress to the United States Supreme Court. Any President has a right to do that. In writing this I do not recall a single instance in his record where he has in a highhanded, arbitrary and dictatorial manner brushed aside the fundamental law of the land, as many of his eminent predecessors did. For their ability to get away with it they are now adorable objects of praise and emulation on the part of these inveterate enemies, and I may say, traducers, of this administration.

The only really supreme issue before the American people at this moment is just this: Is the President following the trends of public sentiment and demand? Does he know what the people want and is he able to give it to them? Does he feel the heart beat of America.

Senator Borah never uttered wiser words than these: "If we disregard the interests of the people, it will be vain during this campaign to discuss constitutional questions and the validity of constitutional government."

Dairy Cow Gets Highest Rating

VonSeggern Is Owner of Association's Prize Cow, Dairy Herd

William E. VonSeggern of Wayne is owner of the cow which ranked highest in recent testings conducted by the Madison-Cuming-Wayne Dairy Herd Improvement Association. This cow produced 2443 pounds of milk and 78.2 pounds of butterfat on twice a day milking.

Mr. VonSeggern is also owner of the high herd in the large group, his herd of 25 registered and grade Holsteins producing an average of 1188 pounds of milk and 42.7 pounds of butterfat.

H. L. Anderson had the high herd of the association. Mr. Anderson's herd of five registered Holsteins produced an average of 1318 pounds of milk and 51.1 pounds of butterfat. These cows are all first and second calf heifers. Their record is exceptionally good for so young a herd.

The M-C-W Dairy Herd Improvement association tested 291 cows during the month of May in this territory. The cows tested produced an average of 838 pounds of milk and 35 pounds of butterfat.

Stewart Says Weeds Should be Destroyed

Practical farm demonstrations in eastern Nebraska show the advisability of destroying weeds that have matured. In one pasture last year in Washington county, the little barley and wild brome in one section were mowed and burned when reaching maturity. The grass this year is in an improved condition. Where no such control measure was used in the same pasture, the weeds are thicker than ever now and the grass stand is literally killed out.

If the weeds have about taken the pasture, P. H. Stewart, extension agronomist at the Nebraska College of Agriculture, believes it best to plow the area. It should then be harrowed and worked well and seeded to permanent pasture mixtures sometime in August, depending on weather conditions.

4-H Enrollment Shows Big Gain

Wayne County Alone Has 65 Members in Live Stock Clubs

Improved farm conditions were reflected this week in the announcement that enrollment in 4-H live stock clubs throughout Nebraska is about to set a new all time record. A total of 2,932 boys and girls now are engaged in either raising baby beef, sow and litter, sheep, horses or mules in their 4-H work.

Here in Wayne county enrollment in live stock clubs has now mounted to 65 members. A total of 58 boys and girls have 85 baby-beeves on feed, and seven are in the sow and litter project.

Walter Tolman, assistant state 4-H leader at the Nebraska College of Agriculture, informed Agricultural Agent Moller this week of the increased enrollment. All of the projects entail the expenditure of some money for the animals. A total of 1,456 baby beeves are on feed in the state.

At least two boys who have produced grand champion baby beeves at the state fair are again feeding calves this year. Harold Fausch of Webster county, will be back to defend his title won last year. Keith Gilmore, Custer county, hopes to be able to recapture the championship which he lost to Fausch in 1935.

Native Grasses To Be Displayed

Agronomy Field Day This Month at Lincoln Will Be Informative

Scores of native grasses planted this spring in experimental plots will be on exhibition at the annual agronomy field day scheduled for the Nebraska college of agriculture on Tuesday, June 23. The first extensive plantings made in the state in an effort to scientifically determine the best methods of seeding native species, these tests will probably bring forth valuable information to farmers planning to make new seedings.

The field inspection trip to the grass-nursery and the agronomy farm will come during the afternoon. Anton Frolik of the agronomy department is to be in charge of the tour. Improved varieties of winter wheat, oats, barley, alfalfa and other crops will be inspected in the experimental plots at the agronomy farm.

Elvin Frolik is to discuss pasture improvement practices during the morning speaking program. M. D. Waldon is scheduled to speak about soil fertility problems. Dr. F. D. Kelm will talk about weed pests and E. E. Engstrom will tell something about cropping practices for moisture and soil conservation. The Nebraska hybrid corn program will be discussed by D. L. Gross while K. S. Quisenberry is scheduled to explain the superior small grains.

Frigidaire Unharmed After Plunge from Blimp into Bay

Look out there! It's a flying Frigidaire falling from a Goodyear dirigible into salty Biscayne bay at Miami, Fla. Subjected to one of the most severe tests ever given an electric refrigerator, this stock model unit built by Frigidaire Division of General Motors was dropped 100 feet from a blimp into Florida waters. Towed around by a speedboat to guarantee complete submersion, it was hauled out, found sealed as tightly as when it left the factory and was put into immediate operation freezing ice-cubes. Aeronauts who witnessed the spectacular test were amazed that the refrigerator survived the terrific impact of the drop and came out without a single leak in its permanently sealed mechanism or a break in its cabinet, because, after all, they reasoned; household refrigerators are not supposed to be manhandled that way.

Tickets for more than 200 persons were made available and with the exception of the 25c tax admission to Nebraska's largest pari-mutuel running race meet will be free.

Leaving Wayne early Wednesday the booster caravan will make stops at Pender and Oakland where the band will play a few numbers and advertising of the race meet will be distributed.

At Omaha arrangements have been made for the Wayne band to play a concert on the Douglas county courthouse lawn before going out to Ak-Sar-Ben field. Stops will be made at West Point and Wisner enroute home.

Anyone wishing to make the booster trip and wishes transportation or has room for extra passengers should get in touch with B. F. Strahan who will be in charge of the booster trip.
