

School Fund Audit Shows Discrepancy

Board of Education Picks Seymour to Succeed Secretary

Members of Wayne's city board of education meeting in adjourned session Monday evening heard the preliminary report of Campbell, Bryden and Kolzow, auditors, who recently began an audit of the board's books and records.

Edw. Seymour was appointed secretary of the board to fill the vacancy when it was established that A. T. Cavanaugh, whose whereabouts are not now known, no longer held the office.

A letter dated Sept. 14 addressed to the Wayne board of education by Campbell, Bryden and Kolzow and company, auditors in Lincoln is as follows:

September 14, 1936
Board of Education,
Wayne, Nebraska.

Pursuant to employment by you we have completed a detailed audit for the ten year period ending June 30, 1936.

Inasmuch as you may desire to have definite information with respect to certain of our findings prior to the time necessary to submit our general report, we advise you of the following discrepancies:

On June 19, 1934, check issued by J. J. Steele, county treasurer to A. T. Cavanaugh, treasurer of school district No. 17 in the sum of $1,856.25 representing high school tuition was on or about June 30 (as shown by ledger sheet, deposit slip included with deposit of June 28 in the bank records) 1934, deposited to the personal account of A. T. Cavanaugh in the State National Bank of Wayne instead of to the treasurer's account of school district No. 17 in the First National Bank of Wayne.

Similarly on Sept. 20, 1935, a cashier's check issued by the First National Bank in the sum of $1,576.60 (same as being a part of a five thousand dollar check from the county treasurer, the balance of $3,423.40 being regularly deposited to the school treasurer's account) was deposited to the personal account of A. T. Cavanaugh in the State National Bank instead of the entire five thousand dollars above mentioned being deposited direct to the school treasurer's account in the First National Bank.

On Nov. 2, 1935 a refund on an insurance policy in the amount of $6.06 did not reach the school funds.

The above items reflect the total discrepancies in money accounted for during the course of our audit as applicable to the administration of A. T. Cavanaugh as treasurer, and reflect a shortage in the accounts of said A. T. Cavanaugh as treasurer of school district No. 17 to June 30, 1936.

Respectfully submitted,
Campbell, Bryden and Kolzow Co.,
By O. M. Campbell, Chief of Staff.

Following the reading of the report, members of the board of education took immediate action in notifying the bonding company covering the treasurer and asked that the board be reimbursed at once.

City School Opens With Convocation

The first convocation this year of the Wayne public schools was given in the Auditorium at 3:30 o'clock Friday afternoon. The entire school, and many parents were present. The members of the senior class ushered the lower grades to the auditorium.

Dr. C. F. Dienst gave a short talk on Wayne school spirit. He stressed the importance of finding the purpose and learning the joy of real work. He said that we want the school to be the light on the hill for the whole community.

He cited the very difficult conditions the people had to meet during the past summer when they watched crops dry up and the grasshoppers strip the fields. He concluded that the real spirit of our people has been shown in their overcoming such obstacles. He expressed the wish that the students in learning the joy of real work will reflect the courage of their parents.

Convocation closed with the group singing of "America" lead by Mr. Melby.

The Rev. M. C. Powers of the First Baptist church gave the invocation. Professor E. E. Melby sang the vocal solo, "Morning". A girl's trio composed of Dolores McNatt, Hazel Capsey and Betty Wright accompanied by Betty Blair sang "Lift Thine Eyes". The kindergarten children gave the salute to the flag.

Legion Begins Lake Movement

Interested Persons Meet; Appoint Committee For Advancing Program

Persons interested in water conservation meeting at the city hall last Thursday evening selected Martin L. Ringer as chairman of a committee to investigate the possibilities for Wayne county to secure federal aid for constructing dams and making other preparations for an artificial lake. Members of the committee who will work with Mr. Ringer are C. C. Petersen, John T. Bressler and Charles R. Chinn. Fred G. Dale, commander of Irwin Sears post of the American Legion presided at the meeting.

On being contacted Wednesday regarding progress being made, Mr. Ringer said inquiries are being made relative to securing government aid for the purpose. He asked that persons having locations within a few miles of Wayne that might suitable for a lake and who would be willing to have such a development on their property should get in touch with him as soon as possible.

Already the water conservation program which is a part of President Roosevelt's soil reclamation plan for agricultural America, is showing many signs of promise. Neighboring states and counties have in several instances built lakes and extensively carried on a water conservation program. In many of these areas though there was little or no rainfall, crops have this summer been produced which nearly equals productions of years when rainfall was normal.

Tutor Gridsters Start Rehearsals

Coaches Hickman and Cherry and about 60 men are working out daily trying to shape a football team to meet Northern Normal at Aberdeen, S. D., on Sept. 25 in the first football game of the season. There are 13 lettermen reporting and several from last year's squad who didn't letter. Hickman will have to build a backfield around Retzlaff and Isom, the only two lettermen he has for these positions. Other letter men back are: Brenn, Smoyer and Larson, ends; Gragson, Walden, G. Paul and Lamson, tackles; Henkel and Goodell, guards and Edsoll and Lingenfelter centers.

There are a great many former high school stars who should work into a place before the year is over. Among these are Murry of Essex, Ia., Franz and Stanke, of Bassett; Williams, Lincoln, Fox, Binkie, Mallard and Milliken, of Randolph; Milson and Galley, Laurel; Copple and Crawford of Rosalie; Cunningham, Sioux City; Reimers, Bloomfield; Mitchell, Grafoe, Schott and Sando, South Sioux City; Wehrer and Pfund, Norfolk; Johns, Eigin; Splittler, Ewing; Funk, Atkinson; Carey of Bancroft; Byrne, Ponca; Fraday, Neligh; White of Hornick, Ia.; Brodthagen, Pierce; Saba, Carroll; Fager, Crofton; Curright Clearwater; Ulrich, Creighton; Curley, Allen; Harris, Omaha Tech; Mansfield, Winnebago; Welk, Osmond and Buckman of Coleridge.

- Oct. 9 — Chadron, there.
- Oct. 16 — Kearney, here.

Flames Raze Adolph Claussen Home Monday

Fire believed to have started from an exploding kerosene stove, early Monday completely consumed the farm home of Mr. and Mrs. Adolph Claussen who live about three miles southwest of Wayne.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Claussen were in the barn milking at the time the fire started. Mr. Claussen had worked late on a silo and had just started to help with the milking when his little boy told him smoke was issuing from the house. By the time the alarm could be sounded, house and contents were a blazing inferno of flames. Wayne volunteer firemen responded but were unable to combat the fire which had at that time reached its climax.

A washing machine on the back porch of the house, is said to have been the only thing saved from the flames.

The farm house which was owned by J. H. Claussen, father of Mr. Claussen, was said to have been partially covered by insurance.

SAUSAGE, SAUER KRAUT AND BLACK-EYED PEAS.

"Witness an anonymous article in the Saturday Evening Post, which states that really nice hostesses in Washington society cannot bear to invite New Dealers to parties in Washington are such vulgarians. Some don't even wear dinner coats, and others argue openly in favor of their own side."—New York Daily News Item.

It is not overstating the case to say that the New York Daily News has come pretty near to placing its finger on a major issue in this campaign. There is a floating aristocracy around Washington that beats its breast in suppressed emotion on any suggestion of what they call the "hoi-polloi" edging into the exclusive circles of the social elite and demitasse sippers who luxuriate at the expense of government practice and patronage.

For more than a generation these habits of mansions have been establishing themselves in boulevard grandeur in the choicest sections of the city and like emeralds in a diamond cluster have been able to vie with the capitol of the world for preeminence in point of the display of wealth and the brilliance of social position.

It is the ambition of the "beef baron" of Chicago and the prize hog caller of Iowa to ultimately install their wives on the winding heights of Massachusetts Avenue to flash their jewels and rush the four hundred. It is the dream of the "junk dealer" from the Bronx and the fat oil "greaser" from Oklahoma to some day roll on their velveted lawn with the light of the nation's capitol blinking in the distance through the tree tops. What is a million dollar home and a million dollar carpeted pathway leading to their gilded palaces to these social climbers? They count it as a necessary expense in the grand scheme of all things worthwhile.

Washington is full of them—from every state in the union—and from abroad—crippled dukes and dukes—the Sir Galahads and the pauper princesses. The social whirl is terrific and the gold dust is blinding. The White House is the goal—its sanctions, its seal and certificate. Down from that lofty height one can move with greatest ease and with no inconvenience of status or person.

The great wealth of a vast number of the Republican household, and the readiness which which they have been willing to lavish it, in order to obtain social ends in the nation's capitol, has through the years been directed toward the building up of a powerful blue stocking aristocracy, not all of it a very delicate weave, some of it shabby, closely woven, and reinforced by a cold disdainful cynicism, and held together as it is by prior right with all infringements barred on the ground of a squatter's title. That makes them a very nasty bunch to deal with. The greatest setback the Democrats can give the Republicans is to take the white house away from these social squatters. There is always weeping and gnashing of teeth all the way down the line of those peacocks and covets of lovely dowelings. They simply cannot endure anything that is harsh or crude. A Democrat is such an unseemly person. As people they are hairy, cove like, dingy and uncouth. They don't even wear dinner coats, and dip their knives into molasses to eat lady peas. The White House is to bring out the cupidons on great occasions for nearly everyone of them "chow terbacers." State dinners at the White House are always very trying to good Democrats. Such things as cabbage, sour kraut, sausage, black-eyed peas and other farm delicacies are not usually served and their absence is keenly felt by these "one gallus boys" and create not little unfavorable talk by them. They go away and talk about the "airs" that are put on. In a close election the followers of Andrew Jackson register their bitterness.

The country should be grateful that all this discussion for months has simmered down to a real issue and our Republican friends should be very happy, for at least these exotic ladies have discovered for them an issue worthwhile. It is that "really nice hostesses in Washington society cannot bear to invite New Dealers to parties because most of them are such vulgarians."

So it is up to the people to save the Republican party and thus restore the socially elite from further embarrassment. I think that question transcends the importance of the constitution. The chandlered dome of the gold room of the white house is there to send down its sparkling rays upon these crowned heads, gorgeously gowned dames, gold braided generals and the dazzling splendor of the silk robed elite and the near elite as they court in the presence of the great. Slowly this tinsel reality had maneuvered its way into the heart of democracy until it looks with its disdainful contempt on the simple ways of the fathers.

So the real issue before the American people is not the constitution, as we have been led to believe, but civilization vs. barbarism! Selah!

'All things comes to him who waits But here's a rule that's slicker - - The man who goes for what he wants Will get it all the quicker.'

'Flatter than a Landon speech' is becoming a common phrase among those who twist their dials for something worthwhile to hear.

Persons who have any doubt in their minds as to who they will vote for this autumn in the presidential race would do well to read a book entitled 'The Tale of a Fox' by Burt Comer, prominent Wichita, Kansas, attorney who has been a life long republican. In a book which is small, Mr. Comer speaks volumes. If untrue his statements would be highly libelous. Laying bare events that have taken place in the life of the 'great hope' from Kansas, the little book should make Alf blush with the very thought of having his public know anything about the material within its pages. The concluding sentence in the book states in the writer's own words that he will always wonder what sort of president the 'fox' might have been.

'As Main Goes, so goes the nation'. What a laugh! Just another form of Republican propaganda that came from a Republican stronghold to help make the country safe for the G. O. P. Too bad there had to be a Roosevelt come along to spoil things for them. And the worst part insofar as they're concerned is that Mr. Roosevelt will be well in the running again this year. After all, when there is such a close margin, there is evidence in the Democrat hold will be found many progressive Republicans.

One Scarecrow a Day

The nominating petitions filed in behalf of Senator George W. Norris should be good from now on in for at least one new scarecrow each day.

That always has been the tactics of his enemies.

To start it out, Mr. Hearst's Omaha-Bee News soils in its distress that the entry of Senator Norris repudiates the spirit of the primary—those who signed the petitions, those who filed them, Senator Norris himself have not and could not repudiate the spirit of the Nebraska primary. The scholarly gentleman who writes for the Omaha-Bee must know, or should know, that if there has been any rape of the primary in Nebraska, it was perpetrated by the legislature that made the petition method of a candidacy possible, and by the governor who signed that law. If it is not too childish, these fundamentals ought to be recognized. The petition route to a candidacy is an integral part of the election machinery in Nebraska. It was made so by legislative act in compliance with the crystallized sentiment of the voters of the state.

And the same forces that abolished the vicious abuses of the old convention plan, the liberal thought of Nebraska that gave this state the initiative and the referendum, likewise sponsored the petition method for a candidacy in order to strengthen and improve the real objectives of the primary system.

All this is known to the public. But the enemies of George W. Norris never pass up any string on any fiddle in order to attempt to arouse opposition to him. They play them all, not harmoniously, to be sure, but by fiddling they imagine they will distract popular attention. He acquired them by constant consistent devotion to public welfare.

It might be well to permit Senator Norris to speak for himself. He has earned that right. He has brought glory and credit to Nebraska. He has given this state more power, more influence, in the shaping of national policies than any man ever to represent Nebraska and any man now occupying a seat in the senate. The people of Nebraska have this definite conception of Senator Norris. He has been ruggedly honest in his votes upon legislative measures. Always he has fought the decent fight, the just fight, the battle for better government under which men and women and children may attain the ideals of democracy and achieve a greater happiness. He has been no man's tool; no party's puppet, but independent, brave, and courageous. And most of all, he has been dependable. The people of Nebraska know where to place him on popular issues. They know that it has been the habit of a lifetime for him to tell them what he thought and why he shared that opinion.

Virginia has its Glass. Glass who is eighty years of age—a Glass Virginia honors and reverences. Nebraska has her Norris—a Norris who has never betrayed his state—a Norris who has espoused the cause of the men and women on the farms of this state—a Norris who has fought the battles of the men and women in modest circumstances in this state—a Norris who never in action or vote defied the ideals to which he gave expression.

Against this persistent reappearance of a scarecrow every time that Senator Norris is an issue, the Nebraskans without regard for party lines who remember his years of labor surely are speaking for the spirit of this state when they suggest let him speak.—Lincoln Star.

 Dr. Anderson Gives Address Of Welcome At College Convocation Period

The Wayne State Teachers college held its first convocation of the new school year Wednesday morning at 9:08 o'clock in the college auditorium.

Dr. J. T. Anderson, president of the college gave an address of welcome, the theme of his talk being "This Is Your Opportunity". He stated that Wayne students are offered excellent building facilities, fine qualified faculty, a student body of high character and fine community from which they may choose their friends.

Dr. Anderson pointed out that a college education is a means of broadening and deepening one's life experiences and through the use of the library can relieve vicariously the experiences of a race before one. One of the greatest experiences of college contacts is learning to live with others according to Mr. Anderson.

He listed the ten important personality traits that all persons should seek to develop. They included poise, radiance, stability, enthusiasm, optimism, sincerity, confidence, tolerance, patience and honesty. He stressed that more people lose or fail to get a position because they possess negative personality traits than for any other reason.

Dr. Anderson concluded that personality may be improved by an improved way of thinking. "As a man thinketh in his heart so is he".

Professor O. R. Bowen read the devotionals. Professor Russell Anderson, new instructor in voice, sang two vocal solos. College announcements were given.

College Chapel Meets Wednesday
 Dr. Anderson Gives Address Of Welcome At College Convocation Period

The Wayne State Teachers college held its first convocation of the new school year Wednesday morning at 9:08 o'clock in the college auditorium.

Dr. J. T. Anderson, president of the college gave an address of welcome, the theme of his talk being "This Is Your Opportunity". He stated that Wayne students are offered excellent building facilities, fine qualified faculty, a student body of high character and fine community from which they may choose their friends.

Dr. Anderson pointed out that a college education is a means of broadening and deepening one's life experiences and through the use of the library can relieve vicariously the experiences of a race before one. One of the greatest experiences of college contacts is learning to live with others according to Mr. Anderson.

He listed the ten important personality traits that all persons should seek to develop. They included poise, radiance, stability, enthusiasm, optimism, sincerity, confidence, tolerance, patience and honesty. He stressed that more people lose or fail to get a position because they possess negative personality traits than for any other reason.

Dr. Anderson concluded that personality may be improved by an improved way of thinking. "As a man thinketh in his heart so is he".

Professor O. R. Bowen read the devotionals. Professor Russell Anderson, new instructor in voice, sang two vocal solos. College announcements were given.
