Crop conditions have been such that no new projects will be adopted, but probably through this meeting ground work can be laid for more definite plans later on.

For this meeting a representative of the Rural Electrification Administration will be present to explain the Rural Electrification Administration program and give any information in regard to developing a project within the county. A representative of the College of Agriculture will be present also and he will discuss the Nebraska law in regard to Rural Electrification districts under which this project would be organized.

Everyone who is interested in this project at all should plan to come to this meeting and learn more about Rural Electrification. Bygone Days

Taken from the Round About Us Column in Wayne Gazette of Friday, Dec. 10, 1886:

Norfolk Gazette: All hopes of finding the remains of the 7-year-old son of Jacob Bungo of Millersboro, Knox county, who was lost in the storm of last week has been abandoned for the present. There were 200 men engaged in the search for a while. It is believed that he is buried in a snowdrift.

Hartington Democrat: By mistake last Saturday night one of the switches at that place was left open. Monday morning when starting to make up the train the engine started down the wrong track, upsetting things lively. Breaking a box car into splinters and threw Geo. Conley, baggage man from his feet, and his right ear cut open. Some of the other boys were also badly shaken up.

Dakota City Argus: Anthony Meyers says we will have a mild winter. We don't know kind it will be. We dare not predict.

A lawyer from Ponca, said to us last week, that after knocking down and kicking an attorney there, he walked up and willingly paid $10 for his infraction of the law. He thinks that under the aggravating circumstances, he did about right.

William Lucia was here on Monday, and said, that with good weather he would soon have up in South Sioux City, a store building 20x40. He also said that he had a verbal contract to put up four more, before spring. He expects forty to go up as soon as the grass grows.

Stanton Democrat: Yesterday the quiet of our town was very suddenly disturbed by a loud report, which shook buildings like an earthquake. It was soon learned that the two boilers at the W. R. Wilson and Co. elevator had exploded. Both ends of the engine house were bitterly blown out and the windows on the north side of the main building shattered, but the main building was not otherwise damaged. The boiler was carried across the street and struck the railroad track and corner of the depot platform, shivering the ends of the boards and a railroad tie, and bending a rail. Of course the damage is considerable and will take some time to repair.

West Point Progress: The Norfolk Gazette is assured of waterworks electric lights, cannery, a pork cannery, a railroad and minor improvements too numerous to mention and all within a year. Wait sister, till your hotel is rebuilt and we will take a limited amount of stock in your inflated ideas of Norfolk's enterprise.

Fresh gold discoveries in Alaska follows closely on the heels of the black diamond discovery in Omaha.

Chapin Precinct, reported by Jay Eye See: Neise Lauson is spending the winter with Mr. Sundahl, which is far better than keeping "batch."

Asher Hurbuet, is indeed very conspicuous these days while the snow lasts in the form of sleigh riding. He is in possession of a pair of very large fine mules (?) and is endeavoring to learn them to drive in order that a certain young lady in this vicinity may live and enjoy herself the way she should.

Samuel Stephen is the "crack shot" of this district. He shot across the creek at a poor innocent little rabbit, and after the innocent thing got disgusted and tired of the noise and smell of burnt powder he modestly walked off and left Sam to mourn the loss of his shot and powder. Shoot again, Sam.

Items are scarce in this vicinity but will try to get up a few occasionally.

Carroll Clippings, reported by John Deer: Circumstances have been such that I could not well report the happenances from this neighborhood, but I have so far recovered that, I shall try to fill my old position but perhaps not so well as I might have done had I not suffered so from the attack, which my son (John Deer, Jr.) made upon me. Though somewhat emaciated by the shock, I hope, if I keep improving, to not prove a total wreck, ad right here I wish to tell the public, that he left my house or home without just cause or provocation, and that I will not pay any debts which he may contract, and furthermore would advise everybody to have as "Little" to do with him as possible. I did and got badly "wrecked" then.

The telegraph wire is up from Wayne to some distance beyond the depot.

Owing to the recent storm and the deep snow which is left behind, the attendance at the Literary and Reading club has been rather light, recently.

We hope to see the town begin to grow when vegetation starts in the spring, if not before. It is undoubtedly a good location for a town, and the country round would support considerable business. If the right man with five or six thousand dollars, were to do a general business sort of thing, he certainly could do well.

Goods valued at nearly three thousand dollars were stolen from the Fred L. Blair clothing store here early Tuesday morning when thieves entered the store and took 134 suits, four overcoats, two bath robes and a number of neckties. The goods stolen was partly covered by insurance. Early in the week, the Tolles Moore clothing store of Laurel was entered and a large stock of men's clothing were stolen.

According to a market report, fat cattle are active and lighter - people seem to demand the highest priced meat. Cattle on the Sioux City market Tuesday sold from $11.25 to $13.50. The Bystander

Is there anything quite so beautiful as quiet falling flakes of snow, a gorgeous golden midwestern sunset or the beauty of a rolling countryside bathed in broad shafts of white moonlight? Am I making my reasons clear when I say I have long believed thoroughly the expression of a poet of another age who said in effect that "truth is beauty and beauty is truth"?

Hats off to the eastern publisher who purchased the "Mint" by T. E. Lawrence of Arabia. Only two copies of the book have yet been published. These are held behind locked doors in the bureau of patents and copyrights in Washington, D. C., valued at only $50,000 each. Under the terms of the deal the book is not to be released to the general public until 1950. What a wonderful build-up the publisher can give it in 13 years! It had better be good when the readers get it or they may feel the same way toward it as they do toward the Literary Digest.

"There are no phenomenal prosperity or depression conditions at our house," a friend told me recently. I was extremely interested and asked him to explain himself a bit more fully. This he was happy to do.

Each Saturday my friend, who incidentally operates a business of his own, writes himself a weekly salary check of a modest sum. This, he says, must provide a living for himself and his family until he draws another check. If the funds run low they must get along some way until the next week's salary is earned. On these rare occasions when they do not use their weekly allowance they place their savings on the shelf for use at some future time, for holiday shopping as an example.

It occurred to me that this was a most sane way for people to conduct their personal finances and how much better off the country as a whole would be if everyone made such an earnest effort to live within his means.

Do you go in for tongue twisters? I heard Foster May pull a good one the other evening on his news broadcast after making an unsuccessful attempt the first time. Try saying it quickly yourself if you think you are pretty good. He was talking about the Spanish revolution when he spoke of "debris strewn streets."

"Mail your Christmas packages early," is the advice of Jim Farley's right hand men throughout the country. One of the hired hands over at the Wayne post office was telling me of the greatest optimist in town, who two years ago mailed a package to Los Angeles on Dec. 23 and labeled it "not to be opened until Christmas". The postal employee added that he supposed the sender had enclosed a card saying "I knew you would, you old smarty."

Yes! we at the type farm are making plans for Christmas. Saturday we washed the residue of the last storm from the windows and re-ran away the screen doors.

It occurs to you that particularly adept at glass and stuff could do right establishing a concern known as Haters Incorporated? Just think of the possibilities. Suppose someone dealt you one off the bottom or you thought he did and you wanted to just thoroughly displease him for it. You of course, being a busy person wouldn't quite have time to do justice to our pet hatred so you could just go to the phone and have a chat with Haters Incorporated, or perhaps the name could be applied locally to be known as Logan Valley Loathers, Inc. Well you simply call up this efficient organization and tell them to get one of their most capable lieutenants on the job and hate so and so until it hurts. In that way you could keep right on smiling and take care of your business as usual. You would not be having wrinkles form in your face, you would not have to use any forethought in the matter of whom to speak to or whom to pass rapidly by. You would be giving a job to someone who just loved the work because if he were the type of loather or hater to become successful in his calling, professional hating would be the only think he could effectively do.

True friends like old shoes are seldom fully appreciated until one comes to the place where he feels their real need. Have you ever felt the pain, misery and utter discomfort that can come your way when your feet appear to be most trim and neat in a pair of new shoes.

MUSINGS: Few persons realize what they are letting themselves in for when they absently tell guests "just make yourselves at home" . . . Radio, a gadget that sells things to housewives on "lowdown" payments while the old man is out trying his confoundedest to bring home the bacon. . . Cities are a place where country people go to make whoopee while the city people are doing the same thing out in the country. . . Hangovers are plain nervous headaches that were purchased by good money by their sufferers. . . Taxes are bills we grudgingly pay for things we just could not get along without. . . Why do some persons tying up a package have to have someone hold his finger on the string to make it taut when the finger invariably slips and the result is that the package is more loosely tied than if the person trying it had done the whole job himself? . . . No long ago I heard Gene Austin, tenor extraordinary, broadcast from a midwestern radio station - it's the first time I've heard him in a number of years - do you recall a time when campus queens were going gaga over his screaming phonograph records - I recall certain college boys who used to call up their favorites and with a portable phonograph have the wailing Anetta sob out the lyric of "Melancholy Baby" and others - another favorite of a few years ago was Lee Simms - I would consider hearing broadcast some of his seemingly barbaric piano arrangements a treat, wouldn't you? - and they say he cannot read a note of music. . . I'm like a Wayne lady, whom I greatly admire, in that I'd like to know Jim Farley and learn what makes him tick - I have a notion there are others who would like to know the same thing. . . A few sprigs of bright bitter-sweet in a black or gunmetal vase lends beauty to a room in which people live on wintry days. . . Few things have disgusted me quite so much as the publicity that has been given to Canada's "stork derby".

I feel that Edward should be allowed to keep his throne and marry who he wishes - the liberal people of England with Edward as their leader may show the reactionaries a few new holds yet. . . The great Fleetwood is really at his best in his story of the mouse that followed him to his new house when he moved - get him to tell it to you - others have heard it and say he tells it better each time, and you know that Bunt dislikes to have anyone think that anything he would say would be anything but the gospel truth. . . Have you ever noticed children, strangers to each other, seeing one another through a window - We in the type farm have observed this with interest - we got a big kick out of kiddies on their way to school as they press their chubby noses against the large north windows and watch the wheels go round. . . S. A. Hemple lives next door to Wayne's post office but he is the last patron to receive mail on the carrier's route. . . There are but 12 shopping days before Christmas - visit the Wayne stores today and see the fine stocks your neighbors have to select from - you will be fully as much surprised as I was. Goodbye for now and do not forget, I'll be seeing you. STA

Not even in the boom days was there such a surge of extra dividends wage increases and employe bonuses as this season. Corporate industry is pouring out money to its stockholders and workers in unprecedented amounts.

A list of extra dividends and bonuses declared would take many pages to detail, but here are some outstanding items: Steel has announced a 10 per cent advance in wages, which will step up payrolls $70,000,000 in 1937. General Motors will pay its workers a Christmas bonus of $10,000,000, in addition to other benefits. Chrysler has voted an extra dividend of $5.50 per share. Eastman Kodak declared a 75-cent extra, and Jewel Tea company $2.00. Standard Oil of New Jersey will pay a $4,500,000 bonus to workers, and Sears, Roebuck and Co., one of $1,500,000.

Upshot of this is that dividends of various big industries will be as large as in 'pre Depression days'—while wages, in some cases, will be higher. Steel's new wage rate is the highest in its history. General Motors is 10 per cent above the 1929 average. Business Week says that next year industry's labor costs will probably be the highest in all U. S. industrial history.

What caused this amazing change? Obvious answer is better times—and there is no question but what industry in general has pulled out depression, has entered a period of recovery.

But that isn't the entire answer to why business is figuratively breaking its neck in an effort to get as many dollars as possible into the hands of stockholders and workers before 1937 dawns. Big and potent influence is the new tax bill on undistributed corporation profits, passed by the last Congress.

This tax bill levies taxes of unprecedented severity on such profits—taxes ranging up to 27 per cent. But when the profits are distributed, in either wages, bonuses or dividends, the tax is avoided. And that is the major reason why business is following its present lavishly generous course. According to the New York Journal of Commerce, distributions to stockholders ordered for the last three months of this year is directly traceable to the tax law, total at least $500,000,000.

Economists are highly dubious of the ultimate results of the law, fear it will prevent industry from building up surpluses that are essential if future depressions are to be survived. In the meantime, however, the tax is helping cause a veritable dividend and wage boom.

There has been considerable discussion concerning the value or the futility of the Inter-American peace conference at Buenos Aires. Some point out, with truth, that there is no danger of a war existing in North or South America, that Europe and the East are the danger spots.

However, it is the President's belief—which is shared by many—that if the nations of the Western Hemisphere show Europe that a round-table discussion of issues can lead to amicable settlements and agreements, some progress toward world peace will be made. And it is likewise believed that if the President takes a forthright and aggressive stand for peace and throws his vast prestige against armed conflict, heads of powers which are now close to war may think again before giving the command to open hostilities.

The President's trip to Buenos Aires is thus in the nature of a gesture in a world which was never nearer to armed chaos. As a matter of fact in recent months there have been more occurrences contributory to war than there were in 1912 and 1913.

Everyone hopes that gesture will be productive of good. In the meantime, it seems that every seasoned news commentator and every old-time war correspondent, is certain that war in Europe and Asia is inevitable—one of the leading correspondents recently stated, on departing for Europe, that he was going over to cover the next war.

The Italo-German recognition of the Spanish rebels has further widened the cleavage between these powers and France and Russia. The greatest force existing today in both Europe and Asia is the force of hatred.

Christian Science churches for Sunday, December 13.
 The Golden-Text is from Psalms 16:1: "Preserve me, O God: for in thee do I put my trust."
 A passage from the Bible in the lesson sermon is from Isaiah 43:2: "When thou passest through the waters, I will be with thee; and through the river, they shall not overflow thee; when thou walkest through the fire thou shalt not be burned, neither shall the flame kindle upon thee."

A correlative passage from the Christian-Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy, reads: "God, without the image and likeness of Himself, would be without a witness or proof of His own nature. Spiritual man is the image or idea of God, an idea which cannot be lost nor separated from its divine Principle." (page 303).

Ample Accommodations Desired

By IRVIN S. COBB

THE GENTLEMAN who approached the box-office had evidently been drinking something stronger than water. He was slightly wavering on his pins but still able to navigate and there was nothing about him calculated to create the suspicion that he might become disorderly. "Gimme good seat for show," he said. "Sorry," answered the theatre treasurer, "but we haven't got a seat left—nothing but standing room left and that's pretty well sold out up to the limit." "Gimme standin' room then," ordered the patron. He received the ticket, paid for it and passed inside. The opening act was hardly started when he reappeared at the window. "Such a crowd in there I can't see a thing," he explained; "gimme 'nother standin' room."

The National Mirror

By WILLIAM T. AMIS
In Washington

WHEN WILLIAM JENNINGS BRYAN QUELLED A RIOT AND ACHIEVED HIS GREATEST VICTORY.

"Today the Democratic party is able successfully to defend every action of the administration. Our President, our Senate, and our House are responsible for the greatest constructive program the Republic has ever known. We have put more laws of importance to the people on the statute books than any other half dozen Republican administrations." — WILLIAM JENNINGS BRYAN, on opening the campaign for the WILSON second term in 1916.

The first term of Woodrow Wilson in the presidency saw more beneficial legislation for the people incorporated in the nation's laws than under any other single administration in the history of the government.

It is what a party does for the people that gives it the right to continued power. This is a people's government. No party has a right to exist for a day in Washington that will not serve the whole people to the exclusion of special interests of any kind. I think the people have spoken so clearly on that subject in the recent election that it will take parties and politicians a long time to forget it.

The Democratic party from its inception under Thomas Jefferson has been the people's party. When it has failed to function definitely in that sphere it has failed and should always fail. For more than fifty years during and after Thomas Jefferson's administration this government was under the almost exclusive control of the Democratic party that is committed to giving expression to the demands of the masses. The discords of the Civil War period disrupted this happy situation. But through it all the Democratic party has lived to cherish the ideals of its founder, the man who wrote the Declaration of Independence—a liberal, and in fact a radical and revolutionary in the rights of the people.

There can be no question that this country has again seen in the Democratic party its greatest hope for progressive government. It has spoken its mind so clearly that it has cast aside as of little consequence all divisive and disruptive minor political divisions that the party may have ample leeway to perform the great task committed to its keeping. To treat lightly or to violate this trust would constitute the most colossal and suicidal crime in the history of modern government. If the Democratic party will be faithful to its charge in this instance as in its past history, previous to the Civil War, doubtless the American people will see fit to give it a longer lease of life and an opportunity to benefit the great masses of underprivileged as has never been accorded any other party in the history of the government.

I have thought and still think that at the Democratic National Convention at Baltimore in 1912, when WOODROW WILSON was nominated for the presidency, and when WILLIAM JENNINGS BRYAN was the outstanding figure in the convention, the tide was definitely turned in the party against the forces of reaction and ultra-conservatism; at the same time a seal was placed upon the Democratic party for leadership in progressive government. Had not William Jennings Bryan been there it would have been different. Woodrow Wilson would never have been President. Divine Providence had something to do with that convention.

At the time of the convention in Baltimore I had the following comment to make on what took place there.

"The bold and defiant refusal of William Jennings Bryan to accept any candidate for the nomination to the Presidency by the convention approved by the New York delegation under the leadership of Thomas Ryan and August Belmont, delegates in the convention and representatives of vested interests; and his own reputation of Champ Clark, the leading candidate with the largest instructed delegation in the convention for the nomination as a candidate for the presidency, threw the convention into an uproar unequalled in political history and left William Jennings Bryan standing there in front of a threatening mob, bordering on riot, pot and murder, but he stood, his giant figure and penetrating gaze and thunderous voice at last quelling the tumult and conquering his foes. His friend Champ Clark was refused the nomination. It was given to that vigorous, progressive, constitutional democrat, Woodrow Wilson. Champ Clark temporized with subversive, compromising elements in the convention and apparently had no depth of conviction on the issues involved. This convention will go down in history as a stop-gap against reaction in the Democratic party. William Jennings Bryan has made his greatest contribution to Democracy. He has definitely fixed the Democratic party as the party of liberalism and progressive government in this country."

It was fortunate for the Democratic party that Mr. Wilson became the President of the United States. Subsequent history has proven that his cultural background and deeply imbedded constitutional principles were such as to give the country a renewed and vitalizing contact with the fundamentals of our government. It was given a firm anchorage from which it cannot be driven by the shifting sands of political expediency and uncertain policies.

Simon Bulkley Griffin, the great editor of the Springfield Republican, Springfield, Mass., some years ago said of him: "Mr. Wilson has a profound sympathy with the average life of the people. He was never a staid conservative, but made progress intellectually and politically. No other executive I have known so constantly concerned himself with underlying principles and no other man was so familiar with them." The historic background of Jef-erson, Jackson, Cleveland and Woodrow Wilson insure a safe, constitutional and progressive government for the people under the renewed and overwhelming confidence the people have again placed in the Democratic party, the party that is unalterably committed to the rule of the great masses of our people as opposed to the rule of privileged and vested interests.

Conservation Payments Arriving
Christmas Sweets
Terracing vs Gullying
Bindweed Gets Attention
Discusses Hybrid Corn

With the first Nebraska payments under the 1936 Agricultural Conservation program made in Platte county to a small number of producers and indications that within a few weeks cooperators will be getting their checks, the need for maintaining the Wayne county farm bureau becomes more apparent this week.

All speed is being attached to cleaning up the 1936 federal farm program and getting proper forms filled out prior to sending applications to Lincoln for auditing. It is hoped that all of this work will be completed before the 1937 program is announced and that payments will be made to cooperating farmers.

The necessity of maintaining the county farm bureau office is more imperative than ever in view of this final work, says R. S. McGuire, president of that organization. Closing the office at this time would entail more expense for farmers participating in the Agricultural Conservation program and make more delay in getting payments to them.

Whether the local office remains or will be re-districted with surrounding counties now supporting Extension work depends upon the success of the membership drive which is now in progress.

Christmas Sweets

Christmas is just around that famous corner and with it comes candy making time. All people possess the proverbial sweet tooth for such delicacies.

For younger children there is Turkish Delight. It contains fruit juices and a minimum amount of sugar per piece of candy. Here is how it is made:

3 T. gelatin 1/2 grated orange rind
1/2 cup cold water 1/2 cup hot water
2 cups sugar 4 T. orange juice
2 T. lemon juice

Soften the gelatin in cold water. Bring the sugar and hot water to the boiling point. Then add the gelatin and boil 20 minutes without stirring. Add fruit juices and rind. Pour syrup in wet mould. When the candy is cool, cut it in squares. Then roll in powdered sugar.

Terracing vs. Gullying

A comparison of two fields near Mankato, Kan., just across the Nebraska-Kansas line, during a recent rain brought out strikingly the value of terraces. The fields were of about the same size and slope. One field was terraced and one was not.

Run-off from these two fields was measured by the Soil Conservation Service and the quantity of silt carried by the water was determined. More than 30 times as much surface soil was removed from the terraced field as from the terraced field. The water running off from the terraced field was muddy brown but the water coming out of the terrace channels was relatively clear.

The appearance of the two fields immediately after the rain also presented a contrast. The terraced field was covered with miniature lakes, water that was soaking into the ground and being stored in the subsoil. The terraced field was covered by thousands of miniature gullies—each one carrying valuable moisture and soil away from the field.

Bindweed Gets Attention

Though the 1936 season was unfavorable for combating bindweed—Nebraska's worst weed pest—farmers in all sections of the state in a co-operative movement were able to make slight headway against their Public Enemy No. 1. Sodium Chlorate was used to an advantage both in the spring and fall months.

Down in Jefferson county, in southern Nebraska, a comparatively new method of eradicating the pest was tried. Agricultural Agent Victor Rediger put out a "smother crop" test on the Claude Nider farm near Fairbury. Hegari was planted late on a small patch heavily infested with bindweed. The dry weather, however, prevented a stand from being produced. Sodium Chlorate as a result was applied to the patch this fall.

Not so long ago Paul Scheer, Jefferson county farmer, reported to Rediger that he used smother crops effectively in eradicating the weed. He says it can be done by summer fallowing until June 10 and then planting a cover crop and leaving it until frost.

Discusses Hybrid Corn

Nebraska farmers attending the annual Organized Agriculture meetings at the Nebraska college of agriculture, Jan 4-7, are going to have an opportunity to discuss in detail the possibilities of growing hybrid corn and plans for seed supplies in 1937. The discussions will feature the Crop Growers' program on Wednesday, January 6.

Wayne county farmers have been invited to participate in the meetings. Since there is more local interest in the growing of hybrid corn than ever before, some producers will be interested in the talks. Approximately 8 farmers in this county grew some hybrid corn in 1936.

WINSIDE - The water conservation dam constructed at federal expense on the Chas. Schellenberg farm northwest of Winside, is nearing completion. About eighty men, mostly farmers, have been working on the project. The dam has a natural basin and with banks about four feet above the ground will hold about sixteen feet of water. NEWMAN GROVE - When the street commissioner, Clarence Solso, dug into the ground in front of a local cafe to repair a broken water pipe he found steam arising from a break in the pipe. Investigation showed that the water came from the range boiler in the cafe which had been turned on slightly to prevent its blowing up as there was fire in the range. The opening of the tap allowed the air to enter the boiler so that it drained back into the pipe and ran back to the leak.

NEWMAN GROVE - The WPA park improvement project for which the city of Newman Grove voted a bond issue of $10,000 in a special election held September 22 to match a 75 per cent grant by the government was started last week when construction began on a municipal swimming pool. Representing the Third congressional district, made up of twenty-two counties, the congressman's office at Norfolk will be kept open every day except Sunday from 8 a. m. to 6 p. m. until the congressman leaves for Washington.

PENDER - Gerald Monette, 9-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Monette of Thurston was accidentally killed Thursday night at about 8 o'clock when he was struck by a truck driven by Dee Shannon. The accident occurred on the street between the Presbyterian parsonage and the Emma Mier rooming house.

Mr. and Mrs. Monette and their family, who came to Pender from their home at Thurston, parked their car on the west side of the street and the boys started across the street to the Mier house. Mr. Shannon was driving north and the parked car obstructed his view until the moment the accident happened. The boy died while being taken to a local hospital.

PENDER - Tuesday evening Norman Tegler of Wayne college spoke to the Pender Boy Scouts on physical training. Mr. Tegler is an exceptionally fine track man, having competed in some of the largest track meets in the United States.

HARTINGTON - A new modern fire truck will be added to Hartington's fire fighting equipment if the plans of the city administration are carried to a successful conclusion.

At the invitation of city council, representatives of nearly a dozen manufacturers of fire-fighting trucks met at the city auditorium last week to submit proposals.

NORFOLK - At a hearing in Norfolk last week before Secretary of State Harry R. Swanson, the license of Patrick E. McKillop, president of the Norfolk National Loan Co. as a real estate broker was cancelled on the grounds he withheld money due his clients.

Following the decision of the Secretary of State who is real estate commissioner, McKillop appealed to the district court of Madison county and posted a $50 appeal bond as required by law.

SPENCER - John T. Lampman and sons, living west of Spencer, this week sold to the Farmers-Union elevator at Spencer, $446.15 worth of alfalfa seed, the crop having been raised this year from a little less than four acres.

This sale proves there was a nice profit in some crops in Boyd county for 1936, as better than $100 per acre is not a bad farm income.

CARROLL - Oliver H. Koles and

Carl W. H. Fredrickson of Carroll choice of all applicants for enlistment in the U. S. Army went to Omaha last week for their final examination.

Mr. Fredrickson has a special assignment. Both will be stationed at Fort Robinson, Nebraska.

COMMISSIONER PROCEEDINGS

Wayne, Nebraska, Dec. 3, 1936.

Board met as per adjournment. All members present.

Minutes of meeting held Nov. 24, 1936, read and approved.

The funds of the county and its numerous sub-divisions of which the county through the county treasurer is custodian are found to be deposited in the banks of the county at the close of business for Nov. 1936, as follows: (This does not include the funds invested in liberty bonds or the funds on hand in the office of the county treasurer.)

State Nat'l. Wayne $47,736.98
U. S. Nat'l, Omaha 38,985.69
First Nat'l, Omaha 34,671.31
First Nat'l, Wayne 25,334.11
Winside State, Winside 8,526.75

Whereas it appears that there has been an erroneous assessment made against the Federal Land bank of Omaha, who according to Section 26 of the Federal Farm Loan Act as amended are exempt from the personal tax of $1.78 in Sherman precinct.

Be it therefore resolved that the County Clerk be ordered to cancel said tax in Sherman Precinct.

Comes now D. G. Burrell for Socony-Vacuum Oil Company, Inc., and states that said company was assessed with personal tax in Strahan precinct in amount of $3.26; that such tax was paid under protest for the reason that there were two assessments on the same property, one in the name of Socony Vacuum Oil Co., Inc., and the other in the name of White Eagle Oil Corp. He now asks that the sum of $1.14, the tax on one assessment be refunded to said company.

On motion the County Treasurer is ordered to refund tax of $1.14 and to distribute balance of $2.12.

Bond of Ed McQuistan as Leslie Assessor has been approved by the County Judge.

The following claims are on motion audited and allowed and warrants ordered drawn on the respective funds as herein shown. Warrants to be available and ready for delivery on Monday, Dec. 14, 1936.
