Wayne Schools Win Honors In District 3 Music Contest

Record Crowd of 2,575 at Ninth Music Contest Meet Here

With both Wayne schools winning divisional honors, the ninth annual district three music contest staged here this week-end closed Saturday night with a record crowd of 2,575 people which was the largest attendance in the history of Wayne district contests.

Wayne high took Class B honors with 76 points in which they received eleven superior ratings. Stanton was a close second with 72 points.

Wayne Prep lead the Class C division field to place first with 73 points with eleven superior ratings also. Ponca placed second with 51 points and Emerson was named third with 44.

Norfolk in Class A had no competition and placed first with 37 points. Under contest rules, Class A schools, Norfolk's rating are not permitted to place their large groups such as glee clubs, bands, and orchestras, in competition with schools in Class B, C, and D.

In Class D division, Wynot placed first with 46 points, Pilger won second with 34 and Carroll received third with 18 points.

Superintendent A. P. Burkhardt of Norfolk, president of the association, introduced Dr. J. T. Anderson, Wayne State Teachers college head, who presented the awards to the winning schools.

The Wayne Prep ratings are as follows: Arlyn Griffith, cornet, good; Quentin Whitmore, saxophone superior; Arthur Gulliver clarinet, superior; Herbert Welch, horn, excellent; Larhyla Whitmore, piano, excellent; Ann Ahern, cello, superior; orchestra, Class C, superior; woodwind ensemble superior; brass ensemble, superior; string ensemble, superior; band, superior; boys' glee club, excellent; and Thralia Gramly, girl's high voice, superior.

Registration in divisions is based on the enrollment of students in each school. Class D includes schools with enrollments under 75, Class C with 75 to 150 enrollment, Class B with 151 to 400 students and Class A includes schools with enrollment over 400 students.

In the soloist section of Class B, Wayne City was rated as follows: Franklin Simoun trombone, superior; Dewayne Dunning, violin, superior; Betty Hawkins, piano, excellent; Delores McNatt, girl's high voice superior, and Betty Wright, girl's low voice, superior. In the larger groups the ratings were orchestra, superior; mixed instrumental ensemble, excellent; brass ensemble, good; string ensemble, excellent; piano ensemble, superior; boys' glee club, superior; mixed chorus, excellent; girl's glee club, superior; boys' vocal ensemble, superior; and mixed vocal ensemble, superior.

Stanton entered the largest group of musicians with 142 students taking part. Other out-of-town entrants included: Wisner, 110; Pender, 95; Osmond, 74; Page, 64; Pierce, 76; Ponca, 69; Randolph, 60; Scribner, 61; South Sioux City, 58; West Point, 63 and Wakefield 62.

All solo and larger groups which are rated superior in the state contest are eligible to participate in the state contest to be held at Hastings the last week in April.

Dealers Stage Annual Four Day Event at Wayne Auditorium

Estimating an attendance of approximately 3,000 people, the second annual four-day Wayne auto show opens tonight at the municipal auditorium with an excellent program of sports and music. Considered one of Wayne's outstanding events of the year, Wayne auto dealers have planned four days packed with entertainment and fun. The show continues through the week to conclude Sunday evening.

Firms sponsoring the show include: Briggs Motor Company, Baker's Garage, Corvett Auto Company, Fishers Garage, and G. and W. Motor Company.

About twenty cars will be on display on the auditorium floor and representatives of the local dealers will be on hand to demonstrate and explain the new features of the 1937 automobiles.

A number of well known figures in sport circles will appear in the opening program tonight. Some of the fastest boxers of Northeast Nebraska are paired for three round bouts. There are to be four matches. Bill Luaders of Wayne boxes Walter Brey of Pender. Bob Blakeman of Norfolk will meet Carl Meyer of Hartington. Leo Mahon, a high school star athlete from Ponca, who went to the finals in the Golden Glove contest at Sioux City, battles Chief Wabashaw of Madison. The third match on the card is between Levi DeCora of Winnebago and Leonard Beckley of Laurel.

There are to be two wrestling matches between heavyweight professionals. Earl Wade of Winslow wrestles Steve Nenhoff, the Bulgarian heavyweight champion of Houston, Texas. Harold Wade, formerly of Winslow and now of Kansas City will meet Dobby Osborne, "The Texas Red Man". The athletic contests are sponsored by the Modern Woodmen of Wayne.

The amateur contest will take place Friday and Saturday nights. The committee in charge announces that there are many exceptionally good entries this year.

The Wayne Drum and Bugle Corp under the direction of Miss Hazel Reeve, will be featured in drill formations on Main street and in front of the auditorium Saturday afternoon.

An afternoon concert will be given by the Wayne municipal band under the direction of Ford C. Reed at the auditorium Sunday afternoon.

I believe the first test of a truly great man is his humility. I do not mean, by humility, doubt of his own power. But really great men have a curious feeling that the greatness is not in them but through them.

War Is a Mistake

Twenty years ago this week the United States entered the war to end wars. Today in a nation-wide poll conducted by Geo. Gallup over 70 per cent of the people of our country think that our entering the war was a mistake.

We know that the prices of old iron and all metals are advancing. It is being used for war materials and battle ships. Secretary Hull, at a Woodrow Wilson dinner this week, said that the world powers are preparing for war as they never have before.

Friendly trade relations is the only thing that can save the United States from being drawn into a war if one should break out on the other side of the water. He said, "If this thing continues one of two things is bound to happen, either the world is going into a great economic depression or it will explode into a dreadful war."

If we can keep our money from being loaned to European nations we will have accomplished something. People are prone to want to follow their money, or better still they would rather have someone else go after it for them and protect their interests.

The Hopper Menace With three Nebraska congressmen working on the matter, and those from other states doubtless doing the same thing, it seems probable that poison bait for grasshoppers will reach the usual scenes of their depredations in time to do the most good.

It is the reported intention to ship the poison then to be distributed to the various counties. This will of necessity require some time, so haste must be exercised. No appropriation has yet been made for the purchase of the materials, but it is stated arrangements have been made for the secretary of agriculture to obtain funds from other sources, so there need be no delay.

Nebraska is vitally interested in this matter for it is probable that no state has suffered more from the depredations of the hopper pest than this one. It is said that there are millions of eggs in the ground, and if prompt action is not taken it may be that the damage will be greater than it ever was in the past.

When in the boom year of 1929 the traffic toll reached the now and awful high of 30,000 deaths, the nation was shocked—but not sufficiently. Now, with business indices rising steadily, we seem to be embarking on a boom year in accidents. And there is danger that traffic deaths in 1937 will reach the 30,000 mark.

Where will this cavalcade of death halt? When will we turn it back? Surely the American people are adequate to cope with this social emergency. Here we have the automobile, endowing us with the manifold blessings of a motor age. Why don't we control it, and retain the blessings, rather than dissipate them in death, injury and destruction?

The great irony is that while some people shrug their shoulders, or shudder and say, "Nothing can be done about it," others are doing something about it, and doing it very well. It is a matter of record that the cities and towns which are pursuing positive, planned and permanent policies of routing out the principal causes of their traffic accident problems, are reducing accidents and chopping away congestion. It is a matter of record that despite the unprecedented number of deaths in 1936, nineteen states reduced their traffic fatality records on an average of 7 per cent. All but two of these states carried out positive traffic control programs. Yes, it can be done!

Traffic control is not an exact science. But authorities agree that far more is known about it than is being applied by the average community. We need not kill 40,000 men, women and children this year if we determine not to, and if we put the goal of halting the cavalcade of death on the list of things to be done NOW!

Life is made up of one long facing of decisions—of deciding promptly or letting the opportunity pass. Doing or failing to do may equally affect us for good or for ill. Character is built up, according to our presentday psychologists, by the influence on us of the endless chain of decisions we are called upon to make so long as life is in us.—Anon.

A man is in the most imminent danger of being wrong when he is most positive of being right.

POOR MAN'S GOLD Courtney Ryley Cooper Synopsis Jack Hammond, gold prospector, returns to Prince Rupert after a spree in Seattle and learns that a gold rush is making him a friend of the family. Bruce Kenning, a geologist, Sergeant Terry of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police joins the gold-seekers on their trip north. Jack encounters the girl, Jeanne Towers, and she asks him to lend her a team of dogs and supplies. He consents. The next day the trek to the new bonanza begins. Later, on the trail, Jeanne is lost and Hammond saves her. The gold seekers arrive and the new camp is soon in full swing. Hammond and Joe have a secret of their own. The real gold find will not be on the present site of the Big Moose river, but on its prehistoric bed, which they are seeking. Kenning turns up with messages from Seattle. The Springtime comes. Then an airplane arrives bearing Kay, her mother and Timmy Moon, the aviator. McKenzie Joe is moody. While they are eating at the "Slumgullion" Jeanne Towers appears. CHAPTER IV—Continued "Of course," The Seattle girl extended her hand, a long-armed gesture—Jeanne Towers accepted it, hesitantly. They smiled and exchanged greetings; suddenly Jack felt ill at ease and wondered why Jeanne Towers should be apologizing for her appearance. After all, they were the clothes she always wore. As for Kay, she had said nothing but pleasantries which, some way, seemed unpleasant. Jack Hammond could not understand it. He hurried to the other introductions. Then: "Won't you join us?" he asked. Jeanne drew back. "No, no, thanks," she evaded. "I'm just going to have a bite. I've got to get back to the store." Jeanne sought the farthest corner. A Chinese waiter approached, rubbing his hands on a dirty apron. "Glaing fish, lalnbow fish, deer steak, blare steak," he announced. "Lay off the bear steak," Bruce Kenning warned. "It's tougher than old shoes." "And don't ask about the vegetables," Hammond interjected. "They're all desiccated and—" "Taste awful," announced Timmy. "I want venison." "Let's all have venison," Kay suggested, and with the order given, leaned back on the bench, her hands behind her. "The idea of being snooty about a venison steak." "What I'd like right now," said Timmy Moon, "is a nice, juicy grubstake, so I could buy another plane and make a lot of money out of flying supplies into this county." Kay flaunted a hand. She said, "I'll grubstake you," she said, "as soon as I make my first million." Then she half turned, at a nudge from Mrs. Joyce. Her eyes swept the restaurant, pausing at intervals in a stare of appraisal. Hammond followed her gaze, knowing at what she looked and wondering as to the result. Around the World Annie, accompanied by some of her girls, minced the last of her meal at a near-by table. Kay appraised them all. Her full lips broke into the merest suggestion of a cynical smile. Then she said in a low tone to her mother. "Quite interesting, isn't it?" Kenning laughed and called for her to soft pedal the press-agency. Hammond remained serious. "My partner's one of these old-fashioned fellows who doesn't believe in science." "McKenzie Joe, you know," Kenning supplied. "Been up in this country most of his life." "But don't people get queer—staying away from civilization all the time?" Kay asked. "Bushed, we call it," Hammond explained. "Well, it amounts to the same thing." She laughed. "I know what I'd do if I needed advice. I just wouldn't say anything to him about it." Kenning covered the situation with a laugh. "That's a woman's viewpoint for you." "Women are right sometimes," Mrs. Joyce added. Timmy fussed with his knife and fork. "Wish that Yellow Peril would bring on the steak. I'm going to eat the tablecloth in a minute." "It'll be along," Hammond answered, glad of the change of conversation. "I'll try to get hold of that Chinaman." He raised his head, looking about the shabby restaurant, only to pause as the door opened and a young man entered, paused a moment, then started forward at the sight of Hammond's party. He was a man Jack had not seen before, once well built, but now somewhat fallen away, as though his clothing did not fit, or an inactive life had robbed a frame once well filled by the outdoors. The sagginess extended to his features, deep lines about his mouth, a thickness of the cheeks at each side of his nose. He raised a cigarette to his lips with a jerky movement, then snapped the arm quickly down at his side. Now he hesitated, as if wondering whether or not to interrupt. At last he decided against further approach and turned again to the door. Hammond saw him glance toward the corner where Jeanne Towers sat and stiffen as though with surprise. Then he heard a sound from the corner, half gasp, half scream, that was smothered almost before it began. For an instant the two stared, as if each were petrified by the other's presence. Then the young man swung out the door, and Jeanne Towers, fighting mightily to pretend unconcern, returned to her meager meal. CHAPTER V An hour later, Hammond saw the man again. The meal was finished and Jack was strolling through the camp with his guests; Kay had announced a tremendous interest in everything about her; she could not wait until morning, she said. So now, picking their way along the dark passageways and trails which passed as streets, Hammond had done his best to give a picture of the place, its beginnings, its hopes. At last, tired, they had turned homeward, Timmy Moon lagging somewhat in the rear. Glancing back, Hammond saw the dim form of a man follow the aviator for a few moments—at last halting him. Timmy was late reaching the cottage. "Where've you been?" asked Kay. The pilot grinned. "A fellow wanted me to make a trip for him." "That man who came into the Slumgullion?" Hammond asked. Timmy y nodded. Kay Joyce shrugged her shoulders. "How far is it from here to Wrangell?" asked Timmy. "To where?" Kay was yawning. "Wrangell, Alaska," Jack supplied. "It's about a hundred miles, air line." "That's okay," said Timmy. "Fifty cents a mile; a hundred bucks for the round trip. Say," he queried, "there's a part of this lake that dips over on the Alaskan side of the line, isn't there?" "Yes." "Mind pointing it out to me?" "Now," asked Hammond. (TO BE CONTINUED)

Hammond did not catch the remark. He only noticed that before Kay lowered her eyes, she had looked toward the corner where Jeanne Towers sat. It made him want to explain; he remained silent, however, some way thankful that he had not told Kay it was Jeanne who had procured the woman to do the housework at the cabin. Suddenly he felt weak. Around the World Annie had risen, dusted the crumbs off her effulgent lap, and was heading straight for his table. Again Hammond noticed that Mrs. Joyce nudged her daughter, again Kay looked up, then turned to animated conversation with Bruce Kenning. Around the World Annie came onward. Somewhat awkwardly Hammond got to his feet. "Never mind that stuff," the dance-hall proprietor exclaimed. "I don't want to butt in. I wanted to know where I could find the pilot of that airplane." Timmy Moon grinned. "I'm it." Around the World Annie raised her diamond-sparked hand to her bleached hair. "I know now ain't no time to talk about it," she said, "you at dinner and everything. I just wanted to stick my oar in first. I got a lot of work for you—a guy will see you after while." Then, somewhat flustered by contact with hostile femininity, she walked on. Jack Hammond laughed uneasily and wiped a hand across his damp forehead. "Well, I'll say this," he sighed, "you're getting everything, all in one dose." "What's her name?" asked Timmy Moon. "Around the World Annie," Bruce Kenning volunteered. "She's putting up a big dance hall over on the Alaskan side of the line. Hasn't gotten it finished yet; that's why they're all eating over here." "We would run into that bunch tonight," said Jack in whole-hearted discomfort. "I'd hoped to ease Kay into all this stuff rather gradually." "Oh, don't be silly," the girl said. Hammond beamed. "You'll do, all right!" "Of course she'll do," Mrs. Joyce reached for her green holder. "Kay's no prude!" "Certainly not. Besides, I think all this is simply gorgeous. And when I've found my claim and fled it or whatever you do—" "As if you'd have to hunt a claim," Timmy broke in. "Jack wrote you he'd laid aside one for you." "Is it rich?" the girl asked. "With gold nuggets sticking out everywhere?" Hammond fenced laughingly. "Well, I can't say that. None of them are really rich. My partner was saying today that we'd do well if we got fifty thousand out of our first claims." Kay gasped. "Only fifty thousand?" "That's just one claim," Kenning interrupted. "Wait until they get into the real stuff." "Where is it?" Mrs. Joyce had become interested. Hammond shrugged his shoulders. "I wish we knew. We've an idea—but—" "What you good," Kay interrupted. "Is a good geologist to help you find it. That's what Father always said—never go into a mining deal without having a geologist to tell you where to go." Hammond toyed with his tinny fork. "I wish we could do a little consulting," he said seriously. "What?" Kay flipped her hand toward Kenning. "there's your consultant."

Livestock Drouth Rates Continue Forty-Five Days

Notice has been received that the drouth rates on livestock and poultry feeds are to be continued in Nebraska for the next 45 days beginning April 1. The most significant difference in the rates for this period over the period that has just expired is that feed taken for drouth rates must originate on the same railroad that the destination is located. This means that feed originating on the C. B. and Q. must be delivered on the C. B. and Q. This same ruling applies to all railroad lines. Purchasers of feed should take special notice of this difference as it will determine whether they are eligible for the reduced rate or not. For example, feed originating on the C. B. and Q. and delivered on the Chicago, St. Paul and Minneapolis is not eligible for the drouth rates.

Banks Cooperate With Rehab Loans

RA Office Helps Adjust Debts in Thirty-Four Cases in County

Nebraska bankers are joining forces with the government to help farmers get back on their feet, Ray Verzal, RA supervisor for Wayne county reports.

"Faced by a demand for standard rehabilitation loans far in excess of funds for that purpose, Resettlement employees in Nebraska are helping many farmers rehabilitate themselves through private credit, or even without credit," he commented.

In Wayne county debts have been adjusted in 34 cases from a total of $102,836 to $37,152, a reduction of $65,684. Back taxes paid in these cases amount to $501.

Farm debt adjustment aid available without cost through this agency enables and helps to bring the farmer's debts in line with his ability to pay.

Resettlement supervisors are helping farmers work out written, budgeted farm and home management plans that show how much can be paid on old debts after minimum family living costs have been provided for.

Private bankers realize that sound farming plans are just as important as credit. They are often willing to make small loans to enable farmers to put their farms on a paying basis, on the strength of these written plans and the technical guidance available through the local Resettlement office.

A few farmers who ask for rehabilitation loans find that all they need is debt adjustment and advice in sound, up-to-date farm methods. They are glad to get back on a paying basis without borrowing more money.

"The fact that this service aids creditors as well as debtors is borne out by reports that just about as many creditors as debtors over the nation have applied for voluntary debt cancellation assistance," Mr. Verzal stated.

Farm debt adjustment aid available through the Resettlement office has helped debtors and creditors reach voluntary agreements in 1,967 cases in Nebraska. Debts have been reduced from a total of $8,431,436 to $5,717,257, a reduction of $2,714,179. These adjustments have brought $162,543 in back taxes into public treasuries throughout this state.

Women Experienced in Housework in Demand

Young and middle-aged women experienced in housework will find several openings on file in the office of the Nebraska State employment service at Norfolk with headquarters at employment office, Room 21-23, Bishop Block, Norfolk. There is no charge for this service.

Because it is increasingly difficult to place inexperienced girls, a club for those interested in housework is being sponsored by the employment service and recreation center. Competent leaders are in charge of the meetings held each Thursday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. Girls from surrounding towns are urged to attend these sessions.

Girls who are interested may obtain additional information by writing Miss Zaida Nelson, interviewer for Commercial and service division, Norfolk office.

ELECTRIFICATION PROJECTS BEGIN SOON

Work to Be Financed With Allotted REA Funds Totalling $2,647,750

The Rural Electrification Project in Wayne county is slow in developing. The expected interest has not grown following a series of educational meetings that have been held during the winter. Many projects in the State of Nebraska have been started and many of them are in process of construction.

Rural electrification projects in Nebraska, for which a total of $2,647,750 in REA funds is allotted, will begin actual construction work soon, a survey disclosed April 1.

The Chimney Rock Power district at Bayard is awaiting approval of a permit to construct 225 miles of transmission line from the Nebraska Railway commission. Contracts were awarded recently, and directors are ready to proceed with actual construction if the permit is granted. The district will serve about seven hundred customers in Morrill county, and in Dewey, Field, Tabor, Highland and Castle Rock precincts in the east half of Scotts Bluff county.

R. O. Chambers of Minatare is the president of the district, C. B. Turner of Scottsbluff is secretary and manager, and Sumner Burnham of Bayard is treasurer.

Clarke-McNary Trees Shipped to Farmers

Shipment of Clarke-McNary seedlings and transplants to farmers for windbreak and woodlot planting started this week, according to word received at the office of the Wayne County Farm Bureau. A total of 12,000 are being distributed to local farmers who some time ago made application for the seedlings. This compares with 8,100 for 1936.

Shipping was to have started early this week. Farmers in eastern Nebraska were to get their trees first with shipments progressing from east to west. It was hoped that all shipments will be completed by April 15. Evergreens are being shipped from the Nebraska National Forest at Halsey where they are grown while the broadleaf stock is being sent out from Fremont where it has been in storage during the winter. Farmers getting the trees are being advised to unwrap the bundle as soon as it arrives and place the roots of the seedlings in a bucket of water or thin mud. Planting should be done directly from the bucket. The roots should be spread as much as possible in planting and dirt should be packed firmly about them.

If the soil is dry, farmers are being advised to pour a couple of gallons of water around each tree before the hole is completely filled. Cultivation of the area regularly is necessary to get the highest survival. Placing of a shingle or strip of burlap on stakes on the southwest side of evergreens immediately after planting provides protection against drying winds during the first summer.

Holds Demonstration on Penn Farm Thursday

A contour demonstration was conducted on the farm of Cliff Penn, two miles north of Wayne, under the direction of Albert Mollenaar of the Extension service Thursday.

Mr. Penn is following the practice of contouring his farm for 1937, and in the future intends to rearrange his entire farm to fit in with contouring practices.

Those attending the demonstration from Wayne county were C. H. Morris and Roscoe Jones of Carroll and Harry Howarth of Wayne.

4-H Livestock Club Leaders Meet Wednesday

A district meeting for 4-H leaders was held at Emerson last Wednesday evening with Walter Toman of the Extension service in charge. He gave many helpful suggestions to the leaders of 4-H livestock clubs to benefit them with their club work this year.

Those attending the meeting from Wayne county were Marvin Muller and Walter Herman of Wakefield of the Beat 'Em All Baby Beef club, C. H. Morris of the Carroll Sheep club, and Walter L. Moller, county agricultural agent.

Crofton Girl is Named One of Six Best Cooks

Miss Evelyn Mischke, daughter of Mrs. Martin Mischke of Crofton was named one of the six best cooks in the nation according to word received from Los Angeles, Calif., where she was selected the best cook in that part of the country.

Miss Mischke will broadcast over the C B S network Friday at 10 o'clock on the Heinz magazine hour. She left Friday night for New York City where she competed with five other sectional winners in the final "cook off" of three four-course dinner menus which each submitted.

Deadline for Pasture Contest Entries Set

Wayne County farmers have only until Thursday, April 15, to enter the statewide pasture improvement contest, they were reminded this week by agricultural agent Walter L. Moller.

Designed to encourage the improvement of pasture and grazing land, the 1937 contest will probably attract nearly 1,000 farmers. Reports from counties indicate a greater interest than in the 1936 contest. With a reasonably favorable year, much actual farm information on pasture management is expected to be gathered.

Record blanks will be supplied soon to all entrants in the contest for keeping records on the amount of grazing secured and methods of pasture management. Each cooperator will be visited this fall to determine the success of the pasture program followed on each individual farm. The 1937 contest will probably close with the third annual banquet in Omaha, where county and state winners will be announced.

Annual Feeders' Day At Lincoln, April 16

With feed scarce and high in price and several months time before feed crops can be harvested, unusual interest is centering in Nebraska around the twenty-fifth annual Feeders' Day scheduled to be held at the Nebraska College of Agriculture on Friday, April 16. Several Wayne county livestock producers are expected to attend.

Farmers at the college for the day will hear about experimental tests in which various substitute feeds are compared with standard feed available under normal conditions on farms. Much work has been done comparing molasses to corn for fattening animals and all results will be disclosed that day.

Two of the headline speakers on the program include Prof. H. P. Rusk chairman of the animal husbandry department at the University of Illinois, and Jesse Harper, former Notre Dame football coach but now a Kansas livestock producer. The former a well known national livestock authority, speaks about, "Some Illinois beef making practices of interest to Nebraska cattlemen." Harper, who will be introduced by Coach "Biff" Jones of Nebraska, will tell why the cattle business suits him better than football.

A program for women on the campus with their husbands during the day is also being arranged by Prof. Wm. J. Loeffel. Mrs. Roy L. Cochran is to describe the recent inaugural ceremonies. Prof. D. L. McKintosh of Kansas State College will present a meat demonstration, showing how to bring them up-to-date.

923 members. The number enrolled this year will not be known until after all the reports come in following the Achievement Days. There are over 1,800 clubs and the enrollment must be approximately 28,000. This makes over four times the membership of ten years ago. If the information was good for the small number of members who were enrolled 10 or fifteen years ago it is worthwhile repeating some of the things for the many new members. A number of women have said a good review is helpful, for we forget things even though we have known them well in the past. Conditions in the homes change and approved practices which were not used formerly may be timely now. In the country home demonstration council meetings the members have emphasized the value of carefully selecting project leaders. Too much cannot be said in praise of the good work most of the project leaders do. All will agree that the project leaders are the ones who receive the most good from the demonstrations; we receive good from things in proportion to what we give to them. To be a good leader does take time and energy but this is forgotten when club members express their appreciation for what is done. Kind words of praise help a good deal and we seldom regret doing or saying the kind word.

Witness my hand and the seal of said County Court, this 4th day of March, 1937. (Seal) J. M. CHERB, County Judge. Begins Tuberculosis Diagnosis Drive Association Outlines Three Objectives for Disease Increase Prevention Dr. Kendall Emerson, Managing Director of the National Tuberculosis Association, New York, today proclaimed the month of April as the month of the Early Diagnosis Campaign for the tuberculosis associations throughout the nation. "Discover Tuberculosis by Modern Methods" is a fitting slogan for this campaign," Dr. Emerson said. "Too many people either do not know or fail to use the great discoveries that science has given us in recent years to aid us in our fight against this disease. The tuberculin test and the magic eye of the X-ray should be widely used to detect tuberculosis in its beginning stages when the disease is curable. If these modern methods were employed," he continued, "we certainly would not be finding nearly 70,000 individuals dying of tuberculosis each year in the United States." Dr. Emerson said that this year's Early Diagnosis Campaign would have three objectives: the first, to acquaint everyone with the four danger signs of tuberculosis—the persistent cough, indigestion, continued loss of weight and unexplainable fatigue; the second, to advise them to discover hidden tuberculosis by means of the tuberculin test, fluoroscope and x-ray; and the third, to stress the dangers of contact with an open case. "The tuberculosis rate is disproportionately high in three groups of the population, young women, men in industry, and the Negro race," Dr. Emerson further stated. "Special attention is directed to these groups in the educational campaign." Letters and telegrams have been received from every state at the headquarters of the National Tuberculosis Association, in Rockefeller Center, assuring Dr. Emerson of whole-hearted support in making this year's Early Diagnosis Campaign count for the saving of lives.

HAMILTON TALKS ON CHILD CARE (Continued from page 1) rlety" is the trick of diet. Remembering that a diet should be digestible, sufficient, and of wide variety should help anyone in planning the whole family dietry, according to Dr. Hamilton. The problem of constipation is not solved by giving laxatives but by changing the diet. The problem of overweight and underweight is not met by the giving of drugs, but the physician, after a careful study of the patient, directs the treatment including diet. The lack of appetite in the older child is difficult to manage and requires the very best effort and cooperation between the doctor and the mother. Anemia, rickets and other conditions are better prevented than cured and this is the aim of both doctor and parents. The state is likewise interested in raising good citizens — a good mind in a good body, he concluded. The second meeting in the series will be held at Norfolk this coming Monday with Dr. Clyde Moore of Omaha in charge. He will talk on "Common Cold and Its Complications." The meetings are open to the public and all interested are urged to attend. Bridge Notice Notice is hereby given that bids will be received at the County Clerk's office of Wayne County, Nebraska,

PLAN PROJECT DEMONSTRATIONS Directors Divide Enrolled Counties Into Four Districts The Board of Directors of the Council of Home Demonstration Clubs met March 1 and helped plan the demonstrations which are to be used next fall in the project clubs. The first two demonstrations are to be given all enrolled counties. This means that about 28,000 women will be enjoying the demonstration on "Developing Personal Charm" in October and the "Christmas Gift" demonstration in November. The state is divided into four districts for the remainder of the demonstrations, of which District B is as follows: December — Patterns and Their Use. January — Fitting the Dress. February — Shortening the Work Hours. March — Planning Leisure Hours. Project club members are usually sympathetic in realizing how difficult it is to provide demonstrations which will be equally interesting to 28,000 women. When one thinks of trying to please all the members of even one club and realized how difficult that is, and then thinks of pleasing women in over 1800 clubs having about 28,000 members, one can readily see it is a difficult task. Nebraska women are appreciative and realize that the demonstrations have to be selected to please the majority and so cannot please each individual woman equally well. Those who write the circulars know what has been given in past demonstrations and as far as possible try not to repeat subject matter which has been given before. Each circular is a new one and is written especially for the project clubs. However, those writing the circulars also realize that in 1925-26 there were only 453 clubs with a membership of 6,626. At the end of the next five years there were only 777 clubs, having a membership of 12,505. By 1935-36, the end of the second five years, there were 1,622 clubs having 26,
