This Week Marks 14th Year for Jacques Cleaners

Fourteen years ago this week the R. H. Jacques family moved here from Amarillo, Tex., where Mr. Jacques had owned a cleaning establishment. He became the owner of Jacques Cleaners in 1923 and has been at that location since.

The Jacques family were located in Wayne on two different occasions previously. The first time Mr. Jacques worked for Mr. Truman, then the owner of the Wayne Cleaners. The second time here for a period of two years, they operated the Student Supply store.

In honor of their fourteenth anniversary the Jacques Cleaners are making some attractive offers in cleaning and pressing as will be noted by their ad on another page of this issue of The Nebraska Democrat.

Wayne Woman Is Classmate of Mother Of 28 Month Old Prodigy

Mrs. Eric Fuesler whose childhood home was at Bonne Terre, Mo., is the classmate of the mother of Mary Christene Dunn, 28-month-old child prodigy and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Dunn of Bonne Terre. The accomplishments and intelligence quotient of Mary Christene has astounded men of science.

She was discovered by Prof. J. P. Nafe, head of the psychology department at St. Louis and he called her "the most remarkable child" he has ever seen. Nafe is a former Guggenheim Memorial Foundation fellowship holder and expert of sensations.

Mary Christine has the intelligence rating of a five year old child and a vocabulary range of an eight year old youngster. Her vocabulary contains 3,600 words including such words as dandelions, nonchalant, linoleum, and her sentences include from thirteen to fourteen words with several clauses. She has an uncanny memory and is not easily fooled. Mary Christine can do most everything for herself including brushing her teeth twice daily and dressing herself. She uses a telephone as a matter of course. She can name most any sort of blossom and "chrysanthemum" rolls jibly off her tongue.

Canned Salmon Makes Economical Food for Family

In stretching the family dollar the homemaker is always on the look-out for a protein main dish that is delicious, nutritious and within the food budget. Salmon meets these requirements.

Canned salmon contains many of the food essentials to good nutrition. It is a good body builder and provides food energy because of its high percentage of fat. Indispensable minerals such as calcium, phosphorus and iodine are found in significant quantities. Canned salmon is a moderately good source of vitamin A and a fine source of vitamin D, the sun-shine vitamin.

Salmon may be combined with a variety of foods or is delicious when served alone. Salmon is one of the least expensive protein foods. There are five species of salmon canned so in addition to the brand name on the label, there will be the name of the species of salmon.

Chinook or King salmon command a higher price than any other because it has a higher oil content and because less of it is caught. Its texture makes it more suitable for salads than for cooked dishes.

Red, Alaska Red or Sockeye usually denotes a deep red color. This species has considerable oil and is firm in texture. It is good to serve either hot or cold. Medium Red or Coho is sometimes labeled as such or merely as salmon. It is somewhat lighter in color than Sockeye. It is a good choice for all purposes. Chum is usually so labeled and is the cheapest of all salmon due principally to its light color and low oil content. It is a good buy for the money.

Pink salmon is packed extensively. More than half of the American pack is pink salmon and for this reason is inexpensive. It has a fine firm texture, a delicate flavor and is a whole some nutritious fish. Salmon will add variety in meals and contribute excellent food values.

Steamed Salmon

Remove label from can and drop can of salmon into pan of boiling water. Heat for fifteen to twenty minutes. Open can and empty into a serving dish. With this serve steamed rice or mashed potatoes.

A variation which families will like is to make a white sauce using salmon juice, add two chopped hard-cooked eggs and pour over the steamed salmon.

Salmon Pie

1 1-lb. can pink salmon
2 c. thick white sauce
1½ c. butter
1 No. 1 can peas

Flake salmon, add to white sauce and peas. Put in greased baking dish and top with baking powder biscuits. Bake in hot oven.

Sauted Salmon Slices

1937 Ford V-8

• If you think that "all low-price cars cost about the same" — forget it! They don't.

Ford makes a car — a 60-horsepower economy Ford V-8 — that sells from $30 to $60 dollars under the prices asked for any other car of comparable size. The lowest Ford prices in years!

Check delivered prices in your town and see for yourself.

• Of course, first cost doesn't prove "low cost" — you must consider operating cost also.

The "60" has definitely established itself as the most economical car in Ford history. Ford cars have been famous for economy for 34 years, so that means something!

Owners who have driven it thousands of miles report that the Ford "60" averages between 22 and 27 miles on a gallon of gasoline.

You can prove those figures — on the open road — in a car provided by the nearest Ford dealer.

• When you've finished your personal check-up, ask yourself:

"Do I want to save money the day I buy my car and every mile I drive it?"

"Do I want a safe, roomy, comfortable car of advanced design — created from the finest materials to the highest precision standards?"

There's only one answer, of course — the 1937 Ford V-8.

Springtime Is Clean-Up Time

You can see signs of spring fever almost everywhere. Farmers are plowing and sowing their fields; Suburbanites are planting their gardens. Housewives are cleaning and revamping homes. Communities are starting improvement projects.

Winter is apt to be a time of general neglect — partly because of severe weather and partly because of the press of other matters in that busy season. Vacant lots, yards and even streets become unsightly. Now is the time for a thorough spring cleaning, extending through the community, in the interest of health, safety and civic progress.

Such a clean-up campaign is a splendid activity for civic clubs, chambers of commerce, Boy Scouts and similar groups to sponsor. Every town should emulate those communities which, through a spirit of fine cooperation, have succeeded in gaining the name of "Spotless town."

When a movement to paint up, clean-up and beautify sweeps a city, it leaves in its wake a healthier, happier town. From the standpoint of fire safety alone, the movement pays big dividends — as the records show, many a disastrous fire has been caused by rubbish and litter. Drop a cigarette or a cigar butt into an accumulation of trash and a conflagration may follow — furthermore, piled rubbish is always susceptible to spontaneous ignition.

Carry out the clean-up campaign by carefully burning all trash in incinerators and under close supervision. Every citizen and every business will benefit — socially and economically.

Farm Income

Notwithstanding the drought and its accompanying crop failures, farm income continues to climb. The department of agriculture's April review indicates an average increase of 100 thousand dollars a month for the current year over the income of a year ago. The shortage in marketing is made up, with something added by the increase in prices.

To the farmer who managed to salvage nothing from the drought this doesn't mean much except higher prices for the feed he must buy to carry his live stock through until he gets another crop. About all the share he has in the nation's income is contained in his conservation practice check; if he qualified for one. But for the farm community as a whole it represents a distinct advance toward a more prosperous condition. And to the individual who managed to come through with a fair crop, it is something akin to genuine recovery.

Instant Cube Release Feature of New Refrigerator

Gone are the days when tugging, chopping, twisting, gymnastics are necessary to obtain ice cubes from an automatic refrigerator. Shown above is the sensationally new and efficient instant cube release featured exclusively in the 1937 Frigidaire. Developed in the research laboratories of the Frigidaire division of General Motors, the new type ice tray makes available instantly and with no effort on the part of the user from two to a dozen or more cubes, doing away with the necessity for holding tray under the water faucet and losing up to twenty percent of the ice content in melting. One grasps the tray firmly with one hand, lifts the lever with a finger of the other and there are the cubes ready for use without fuss or muss.

WHIRLWIND SKATING STAR OF PICTURES FILMED ON ICE OF SUNNY CALIFORNIA

SONJA HENIE, dazzling little ballerina of the ice skating world, learned her art in Oslo, Norway, where her father, a figure skater of some note himself, began teaching her fifteen years ago. Winters in Europe, and next in the United States, brought her more and more fame.

But it wasn't until she went to Hollywood, where at 23, she has just made her first picture, One in a Million, for the Twentieth Century-Fox Film Corporation, that she reached the real perfection of art that is thrilling audiences everywhere.

Man-made weather was provided for her when filming of the feature film began. Hollywood basked in the brilliant sunshine of California, but Sonja had her own air conditioned weather, constantly adjusted to the exact degree she required for skating performances that are being hailed as the climax of her career.

The Twentieth Century-Fox Film studio where Miss Henie's skating exhibitions were photographed has a refrigeration plant that manufactured the ice surface needed for her. It has, also, air conditioning equipment that enabled the producer to give her, at every moment, just the temperature and humidity she required for the most striking exemplification of her talents. It is the same kind of equipment that is used throughout the country in buildings of all kinds, including private homes, but it never had been put to such an unusual test as it received when One in a Million was staged.

Pleasant Memories !!

"Weather" always a topic for conversation and about the most variable thing in existence. April showers brought a most inviting amount of moisture to northeast Nebraska the first of the week. The weather has been most enjoyable.

How many remember the snow and cold of the past winter? Drifts piled higher than ever before, rotaries in operation and a general shut-down of all transportation. The accompanying photos will no doubt send the "chills" up the backs of many of our readers when they recall the blizzard's and stormy weather of the winter just past.

The engravings are furnished The Nebraska Democrat through the courtesy of Mr. Kingston of the Wayne Ice and Cold Storage company and the publishers of "The Tap" at Mankato, Minn. Both views were taken on highways near Wayne after the series of snow storms in December.

HISTORY BEGINS AT FORTY

College President and Playwright Discuss Odd Facts About Making Famous Characters Be Their Age

THE outstanding American hits his first high in achievement at forty. So says Dr. Dixon Ryan Fox, President of Union College, and historian.

"Now I don't mean that men are at the zenith of their powers at 40, by any manner of means," he said, "quite the contrary. But it does appear that critical turns in American history were influenced by men whose 'average' age is forty.

"For example, let's take a few of the men whose lives have been dramatized, recently on the air: Mark Twain was 40 when he wrote 'Tom Sawyer'. Robert Fulton 38 when he launched his steamboat, Peter Cooper 39 when he built the 'Tom Thumb', one of the first steam-engines; Victor Herbert 44 when he wrote 'Babes in Toyland'; Barnum 40 when he brought Jenny Lind to America; Sousa 38 when he organized his band; Horace Mann 44 when he was most active in bettering education in the United States; Elizabeth Blackwell 36 when she founded the first all-woman staffed hospital; Lincoln 39 when he was elected to Congress; Benjamin Franklin 42 when he gave up writing to devote his life to scientific research.

"And what manner of men are they? Well—statesman, musician, doctor, educator, engineer, inventor, author, promoter, a wide cross-section of American citizens who have contributed to the advancement of our industry and culture."

According to Kenneth Webb, Broadway playwright who works with Dr. Fox on the production of the "Cavalcade of America," making these people sound their age to the radio audience presents numerous difficulties.

"We spend a great deal of time studying records that will give us a clue to a man's speaking voice," said Mr. Webb, who has been author and co-author of many Broadway hits, including "One of the Family" and "The Gay Divorcee." "And odd as it seems, that sometimes gets us into trouble.

"Most people think a great man's voice should have dignity. Too, they associate his accent with the part of the country he comes from. When we produced a script based on the life of Victor Herbert we ran into all sorts of snags.

Herbert, you see, was born in Ireland of German parents. German was always spoken in his home, so, quite naturally, when he was with Germans he spoke with a German accent—when with Irishmen, with a brogue. Consequently his German friends believed the brogue was a fake and people who instinctively associated him with Ireland were as staunch disbelievers in the German accent."

Radio, according to Mr. Webb,

CONTOUR FARMING LESSENS SOIL LOSS

Crooked Row Cultivation Retards Annual Soil Loss 250 Million Tons

Nebraska's annual soil loss of 250 million tons of soil can be lessened by farming on the contour. H. E. Engstrom, state coordinator for the Soil Conservation Service, points out to farmers.

"When rows are run on the contour, each row serves as a miniature terrace, holding the water where it falls," he declares. "This keeps the water where it can be utilized for plant production and checks soil erosion losses."

Terraced fields suffer much erosion between the terraces where rows are run up and down hill, also terrace channels soon fill up with silt. Contour farming and strip cropping are being used in eliminating inter-terrace erosion."

On the 70,000 acre Soil Conservation demonstration erosion control project located in Boone and Nance counties and on the demonstration erosion control projects at Ralston and Syracuse contour farming is being done on an extensive scale. Farmers cooperating on 16 camp areas in scattered sections of the state are also planting their crops on the contour. On camp and project areas last year more than 50,000 acres of cultivated crops were planted on the contour.

Irrigated Seed Corn Satisfactory for Dry Land

With corn planting time nearing and getting of seed corn still a problem with some farmers, the advisability of using seed from irrigated sections on dry land has again arisen, according to reports being received at the Farm Bureau Office.

Erosion Control Projects Needs Specialists

Erosion control work of the Soil Conservation Service in many parts of the country have been carried on largely by groups of specialists working together — agronomists, agricultural engineers, soils scientists, plant specialists, and others. The widespread and increasing interest in soil conservation, however, calls for a new "specialist" trained in all phases of erosion control technique. Soil conservation courses in colleges and universities and educational work in CCC camps aim to develop these specialists.

Poultry Improvement Plan Outlines Factors

The need for improving the poultry situation in Nebraska was brought to the attention of the general public last week when representatives of all branches of the poultry industry gathered at the Nebraska College of Agriculture for a conference.

Wayne County farmers are informed that the College of Agriculture strongly recommends where seed corn from irrigated fields is available in nearby counties having similar growing conditions that such corn should be used for seed purposes. Where the seed corn must be purchased in deficit areas, irrigated seed corn from nearby sources should be safer to use than seed which has been shipped in a long distance and which has a rather indefinite history.

Enrollment In Livestock Clubs High

Despite unfavorable feeding circumstances and feed shortages, 4-H club members are taking an active interest in livestock projects this year. In Wayne county a total of 21 boys and girls are enrolled in baby beef clubs, and seven are in sheep clubs.

Walter Tolman, assistant state club leader, advised the Wayne County Farm Bureau this week that a record enrollment in sheep clubs is expected this year. This is due he says to the fact that such animals do not need as much grain as bees and it is easier for club members to arrange for the stock. Farm flocks fit into the general conservation program also as they make use of grasses which are expected to be seeded.

Stocker-feeder and breeding heifer 4-H clubs are again becoming popular in Nebraska. This is partic-

Pleasant Memories !!

"Weather" always a topic for conversation and about the most variable thing in existence. April showers brought a most inviting amount of moisture to northeast Nebraska the first of the week. The weather has been most enjoyable.

How many remember the snow and cold of the past winter? Drifts piled higher than ever before, rotaries in operation and a general shut-down of all transportation. The accompanying photos will no doubt send the "chills" up the backs of many of our readers when they recall the blizzard's and stormy weather of the winter just past.

The engravings are furnished The Nebraska Democrat through the courtesy of Mr. Kingston of the Wayne Ice and Cold Storage company and the publishers of "The Tap" at Mankato, Minn. Both views were taken on highways near Wayne after the series of snow storms in December.

Baker, Perkins Attend Finance Convention

Joe Baker as representative of the Wayne division of the Central Finance corporation and E. C. Perkins representative of the Triangle Finance Co., attended a two day convention of the Nebraska Association of Personal Finance companies at Hotel Norfolk Monday and Tuesday. Approximately 100 representatives from various divisions of the Nebraska Association attended.

At the luncheon meeting Tuesday, Edgar F. Fowler of Washington, D. C., secretary of the American association of Personal Finance companies was the main speaker. He is a noted authority on finance operations and he pointed out that large scale production cannot exist without large scale consumption, and large scale consumption can't exist without large scale consumer credit. He cited ways in which the personal loan companies cooperated with the relief agencies of the government in the crisis of 1933.

The convention banquet was held at Hotel Norfolk Monday evening. Professor H. J. Gramlich of the college of agriculture of Lincoln was the speaker making a big hit with the diners with his sparkling wit and remarks.

HISTORY BEGINS AT FORTY

College President and Playwright Discuss Odd Facts About Making Famous Characters Be Their Age

THE outstanding American hits his first high in achievement at forty. So says Dr. Dixon Ryan Fox, President of Union College, and historian.

"Now I don't mean that men are at the zenith of their powers at 40, by any manner of means," he said, "quite the contrary. But it does appear that critical turns in American history were influenced by men whose 'average' age is forty.

"For example, let's take a few of the men whose lives have been dramatized recently on the air: Mark Twain was 40 when he wrote 'Tom Sawyer', Robert Fulton 38 when he launched his steamboat, Peter Cooper 39 when he built the 'Tom Thumb', one of the first steam-engines, Victor Herbert 44 when he wrote 'Babes in Toyland', Barnum 40 when he brought Jenny Lind to America, Sousa 38 when he organized his band, Horace Mann 44 when he was most active in bettering education in the United States, Elizabeth Blackwell 36 when she founded the first all-woman staffed hospital, Lincoln 39 when he was elected to Congress, Benjamin Franklin 42 when he gave up writing to devote his life to scientific research.

"And what manner of men are they? Well—statesman, musician, doctor, educator, engineer, inventor, author, promoter, a wide cross-section of American citizens who have contributed to the advancement of our industry and culture."

According to Kenneth Webb, Broadway playwright who works with Dr. Fox on the production of the "Cavalcade of America," making these people sound their age to the radio audience presents numerous difficulties.

"We spend a great deal of time studying records that will give us a clue to a man's speaking voice," said Mr. Webb, who has been author and co-author of many Broadway hits, including "One of the Family" and "The Gay Divorcee." "And odd as it seems, that sometimes gets us into trouble."

"Most people think a great man's voice should have dignity. Too, they associate his accent with the part of the country he comes from. When we produced a script based on the life of Victor Herbert, we ran into all sorts of snags. Herbert, you see, was born in Ireland of German parents. German was always spoken in his home, so, quite naturally, when he was with Germans he spoke with a German accent—when with Irishmen, with a brogue. Consequently his German friends believed the brogue was a fake and people who instinctively associated him with Ireland were as staunch disbelievers in the German accent."

Radio, according to Mr. Webb,

"...their average age is 40"

People resent the failure of an actor to measure up to their pre-conceived ideas of a favorite hero's appearance. On the other hand, hardly anyone has a very definite conception of the voice of a man he knows only through history books. A nervous, impetuous person would be represented by a high-pitched, quick-spoken voice, a thinker would be slower of speech, deeper of voice—that's about all most of us demand in the interests of reality.

"Of course another generation or two and that will be changed," says the playwright, "for recordings of voices make it just as possible for us to be accurate in imitating them as portraits do for us to represent a man visually."

"Right now, though, we find it difficult to achieve variety from one program to the next when we are constantly creating major scenes played by men of approximately the same age. It's a radical change in casting each week and a strenuous effort to match the voice and personality of the actor to the part he must play.

"I'll tell you another strange thing—the air a man of twenty-seven often sounds much more like a man of forty than the man of forty himself. It all depends on the timbre of his voice."

Radio, according to Mr. Webb,

"...their average age is 40"

Their Secrets

WHAT do you know about canned peas, beyond the fact that everyone uses them and they are mighty good? Do you know that both wrinkled and smooth skinned varieties come in cans? Do you know that peas are packed by size and that these sizes are numbered from 1 to 6, number 1 being the smallest? And do you know that the smallest size is the most expensive because fewer of them are canned and it costs more to can them, and not because their flavor is superior?

As a matter of fact, many housewives think that the larger sizes (3, 4 or 5) taste better, and some canners pack a flavorful blend of these three sizes called "run of the pod." You must take into account, too, the grades—Fancy, Extra Standard and Standard—in buying canned peas. The Standard grade is the one best adapted to such dishes as soups and purées.

Rich In Vitamins

Canned peas are rich in vitamins A and B, and their vitamin C content is higher than that in certain fruits. There are also valuable mineral salts in the brine as well as in the peas—and this brine should never be thrown away but saved to use in soups and other made dishes. And don't forget that canned peas are a grand ingredient to use in vegetable salads. Here's a simple one in which they taste simply delicious:

Pea, Celery and Onion Salad

Combine the contents of an 11-ounce can peas and one cup diced celery, and marinate in one-fourth cup French dressing for about an hour in the ice-box. Add one-half cup sliced onion, arrange on crisp lettuce and serve. Serves six.

Are You A Nagger?*How To Make Your Home Life Happier

Don't nag.
Don't try to make your partner over.
Don't criticize.
Give honest appreciation.
Pay little attentions.
Be courteous.
Read a book on marriage.

THESE are the seven rules for making your home life happier pointed out by Dale Carnegie, author of today's best seller, "How To Win Friends and Influence People," who will discuss the secrets of marital bliss when speaking as a guest on the "Heinz Magazine of the Air." April 19th, over Columbia's network.

"It is an astonishing and alarming fact that one marriage out of every six in the United States ends in divorce," said Carnegie, "and if that number are actually wrecked in the divorce courts think of the number that must be unhappy but don't end in divorce because of children, religion or economic reasons.

"My advice to a wife seeking greater happiness is to first ask herself why her husband married her. She'll find that it wasn't because he expected her to nag or criticize him. We have many famous women in history who ruined their happiness by nagging.

"Mrs. Abraham Lincoln tried it and failed. She was always complaining, always criticizing her husband; nothing was ever right. She complained that there was no spring to his step, that he was stoop-shouldered. She didn't like the way his huge ears stood out at right angles from his head.

"Mrs. Lincoln's jealousy was so foolish, so fierce, so incredible, that merely to read about some of the disgraceful scenes she created in public makes one gasp with astonishment.

CONTOUR FARMING
LESSENS SOIL LOSSCrooked Row Cultivation
Retards Annual Soil
Loss 250 Million Tons

Nebraska's annual soil loss of 250 million tons of soil can be lessened by farming on the contour. H. E. Engstrom, state coordinator for the Soil Conservation Service, points out to farmers.

"When rows are run on the contour, each row serves as a miniature terrace, holding the water where it falls," he declares. "This keeps the water where it can be utilized for plant production and checks soil erosion losses."

"Terraced fields suffer much erosion between the terraces where rows are run up and down hill; also terrace channels soon fill up with silt. Contour farming and strip cropping are methods of eliminating inter-terrace erosion."

On the 70,000 acre Soil Conservation demonstration erosion control project located in Boone and Nance counties and on the demonstration erosion control projects at Ralston and Syracuse contour farming is being done on an extensive scale. Farmers cooperating on 16 camp areas in scattered sections of the state are also planting their crops on the contour. On camp and project areas last year more than 50,000 acres of cultivated crops were planted on the contour.

Irrigated Seed Corn
Satisfactory for Dry Land

With corn planting time nearing and getting of seed corn still a problem with some farmers, the advisability of using seed from irrigated sections on dry land has again arisen, according to reports being received at the Farm Bureau Office.

Some producers feel that corn from irrigated fields is likely to prove unsatisfactory when used on dry land. P. H. Stewart, extension agronomist at the Nebraska Agricultural College, however says that if such seed is similar in length of growing season and general ear type to that which is grown by dry land farmers, there is no reason to believe that irrigated seed corn would not be fully as satisfactory as that from dry land.

Irrigation of corn does not affect the crop for seed purposes, Stewart advises, any more than growing of a corn crop under favorable rainfall conditions for the year would affect it for seed. Some people confuse seed corn from irrigated land with the common, although mistaken idea, that potatoes grown under irrigation are never good for seed. It is true that it is more difficult to produce disease-free potatoes under irrigation due to environmental conditions. Irrigation itself, however, is not detrimental.

The agronomist points out also that during the past year a high per cent of Nebraska certified potatoes were grown under irrigation.

Wayne County farmers are informed that the College of Agriculture strongly recommends where seed corn from irrigated fields is available in nearby counties having similar growing conditions that such corn should be used for seed purposes.

Where the seed corn must be purchased in deficit areas irrigated seed corn from nearby sources should be safer to use than seed which has been shipped in a long distance and which has a rather indefinite history.

Enrollment In Livestock Clubs High

Despite unfavorable feeding circumstances and feed shortages, 4-H club members are taking an active interest in livestock projects this year. In Wayne county a total of 21 boys and girls are enrolled in baby beef clubs, and seven are in sheep clubs.

Walter Tolman, assistant state club leader, advised the Wayne County Farm Bureau this week that a record enrollment in sheep clubs is expected this year. This is due he says to the fact that such animals do not need as much grain as beesves and it is easier for club members to arrange for the stock. Farm flocks fit into the general conservation program also as they make use of grasses which are expected to be seeded.

Stock feeder and breeding 4-H clubs are again becoming popular in Nebraska. This is particularly true in the sandhill area. The breeding heifer club was the original beef 4-H club but dwindled down in popularity in recent years. There appears to be a trend back toward such clubs now.

Erosion Control Projects
Needs Specialists

Erosion control work of the Soil Conservation Service in many parts of the country have been carried on largely by groups of specialists working together — agronomists, agricultural engineers, soils scientists, plant specialists, and others. The widespread and increasing interest in soil conservation, however, calls for a new "specialist" trained in all phases of erosion control technique. Soil conservation courses in colleges and universities and educational work in CCC camps aim to develop these specialists.

Poultry Improvement
Plan Outlines Factors

The need for improving the poultry situation in Nebraska was brought to the attention of the general public last week when representatives of all branches of the poultry industry gathered at the Nebraska College of Agriculture for a conference. Need for financial help and lowered feed costs were foreseen as to important factors in rehabilitating the industry.

Wayne County farmers were informed of the meeting this week. Being that most farms here have small poultry flocks, anything that is done for the benefit of the industry will affect producers here directly.

Representatives of hatcheries told the small group that chicks are not going out to farmers this year. Prices, they said, are not inexcess but the real problem is keeping farmers from taking the chicks.

One possible solution to the feed problem was found in the results of cooperative buying "pools" organized in some parts of the state. Farmers band together and buy the feed, mixed with a formula recommended by the college of agriculture, and save considerable on the price of poultry feeding.

use the BABY POWDER that
FIGHTS OFF
GERMS

Don't let germs infect your baby's delicate skin. Instead of using ordinary baby powders, use Mennen Antiseptic Powder. It's definitely antiseptic and fights off germs. This famous powder is as soft, as smooth and fine as baby powder can be. But, in addition,
IT KEEPS YOUR BABY SAFER — PROtected against his worst enemies — germs and infection. It costs no more. See your druggist today.

Laughing Around the World
With IRVIN S. COBBWhy They Called It a Bug-House

By IRVIN S. COBB

THE CHIEF physician came up to an inmate in a private insane asylum, slapped him on the back, and said in comforting accents:

"Well, old man, you're all right. I've just pronounced you cured."

of all the delusions which afflicted you. You can run along now and write word to your people that you'll be back home in two weeks as good as new."

The patient departed gaily to write his letter. He had finished it and sealed it, but as he was licking the stamp it slipped through his fingers to the floor, and fell on the back of a cockroach that was passing and stuck there. The patient hadn't seen the cockroach—what he did see was his escaped postage stamp zig-zagging over the floor to the baseboard, and following a crooked track up the wall and along the ceiling overhead. In depressed silence he tore up the letter he had just written and dropped the pieces to the floor.

"Two weeks! Hell!" he said. "I won't ever get out of this place. I'm worse off than I was when they brought me here."
