

Walter Bressler Injured When Car Catapults Down Embankment

Suffers a Double Pelvic Fracture in Accident Near Altona

Thrown 60 feet through the top of a somersaulting car, Walter Bressler suffered a double pelvic fracture and fractured left collar bone Sunday when his car turned over several times, a mile east of Altona.

Bressler believes he had fallen asleep. When he came over the brow of the hill the lights of a passing car aroused him and he instinctively swerved catapulting his car down the embankment. It righted itself landing across the fence with the rear wheels in the cornfield and the front wheels hanging over the bank.

He was found a few minutes later by Matt O'Donnell of Omaha, traveling salesman. Bressler who remained conscious following the accident dragged himself to the edge of the road to attract the attention of the passing motorist.

O'Donnell took the injured man to Wisner where his parents were notified. Bressler was then rushed to a local Wayne hospital by ambulance.

The driver lost control and the car which was going west careened 75 feet down the hillside. When it righted itself, it was facing south. The front part of the top was torn away where Bressler was hurled through. The right door was sprung and the rest of the top was battered.

Bressler who is a city mail carrier has been granted a leave of absence.

Campaign for Safer Driving Opens

More than 40 business firms, city and county officials and school authorities have united in sponsoring an auto safety driving campaign beginning this week in this newspaper which will cover a period of six weeks. Parents, children and others are urged to read carefully these educational messages and to cooperate in the safety driving movement.

S. T. C. Whips Peru 24 to 20

Wildcats Claw Bobcats in Thriller Saturday

The Wayne Wildcats and the Peru Bobcats clawed each other for 60 minutes on the latter's gridiron Saturday afternoon with the Wildcats getting the better of the encounter. Coach Hickman's gridders jumped into an early lead which found them on the long end of a 12 to 0 score at the end of the first quarter as a result of Gatewood following over from the five yard line following Murray's blocking of a Bobcat put on the 15 yard line. Later in the initial period Bradford, alert Wildcat fullback grabbed a Peru pass on the 30 and ran over for the second touchdown behind a so very good and very quickly formed interference.

Bobcats Come to Life

The Bobcats came to life suddenly and scored on a short pass and again on a 25 yard run to go into a 13 to 12 lead. A little later a triple pass put the ball on the Wayne 25 and Majors reeled off a 25 yard touchdown which terminated the Bobcat scoring.

The third quarter was hard fought with the Peru eleven trying desperately to protect their 3 point lead and Wayne equally desperate to score two more touchdowns to win the ball game.

Wakefield Man Honored at Meet

Joseph Johnson Is Among Leading State Pasture Contestants

Joseph Johnson of Wakefield has been chosen by the state pasture improvement officials to be among the contest entrants which were honored at the banquet Tuesday evening held in Omaha. The dinner party closed the 1937 pasture contest.

Increasing interest is being shown in the state improvement contest, with increased enrollment in the contest this year as compared to the year previous. Last year George McEachen of Wayne received honorable mention at the banquet for developing improved pasture practices.

Johnson operates a 400 acre farm of which 27 acres is in pastures. He has no permanent pasture. Four acres of rye, 15 acres of sweet clover, and 8 acres of sudan constitute his pastures. Stock in these pastures include 49 head of cattle, 8 horses, 4 sheep, and 71 hogs.

Among the Wayne men who attended the pasture clinic and banquet were C. H. Morris of Carroll, T. J. Roberts of Winslow, George Buskirk of Wakefield, Joseph Johnson, R. F. Roggenbach of Wisner and Walter M. Moller, county agent.

Little Earl Beeks Is Victim of Accident

Stops Directly in Path of Approaching Car Friday

Stepping from behind a parked car directly in the path of a slowly approaching car, Earl Beeks, young son of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Beeks, was knocked to the pavement and suffered a fractured right leg and broken left arm. His left leg was cut above the knee and he suffered other cuts and bruises.

The driver, Mrs. Victor Rastade of Concord, was going east along the college drive. The accident occurred Friday afternoon in front of the south entrance of the college training school building. Authorities said the accident was unavoidable as neither party saw the other until too late.

Earl was taken to a local hospital for medical care. His right leg was fractured below the knee and his arm was broken below the elbow.

Receive October Gas Tax Totaling $2,620.83

The October gasoline tax totaling $2,620.83 was received recently as announced today by J. J. Steele, county treasurer. It has been apportioned as follows: county road, $1,834.59; county bridge, $524.16; and road district, $262.08.

Former Wayne Man Dies

Word was received by Larry Brown of the death Tuesday of L. E. Day, former employee in the Wayne Brown McDonald store. Funeral services will be held Friday in Omaha. He lived in Wayne from Feb. 1935 to Nov. 1936.

"Blind as a bat" is a misleading expression. Bats are nocturnal creatures and can see very well in semi-darkness.

Ten New Members Taken Into Our Redeemers Church

Ten new members were taken into Our Redeemers Evangelical Lutheran church at the church councilmen's meeting Thursday evening. They were Mrs. Anna Soebner and daughters, Winifred, Mildred, and Gladys, Mrs. Albert Rebold, and Mr. and Mrs. Henry Victor, and Mr. and Mrs. Henry Victor and son, Sonny.

Monument Unveiled to County Pioneers

The granite boulder in commemoration of Wayne county pioneers on the site of the first town in Wayne county known as the La Porte site was unveiled last Sunday. A large crowd was in attendance. Mrs. Elnier Haglund presided.

In a short welcoming address the chairman explained the purpose of the meeting and reminded the citizens of Wayne county that they were indebted to the men and women who tamed the prairie and contributed so much to the welfare of all.

James E. Brittain gave a brief review of the early history of the county and stressed the need of further development of the resources of the county. He paid a fitting tribute to the early settlers and commended their motive for seeking new homes.

While the audience sang, "America," Clara Mae Simmerman unveiled the marker.

Annual Banquet Will Be Held at M. E. Church Friday Night

The Rev. R. L. Williams of Carroll as guest speaker will talk on "Views of the Parents of the 4-H Club Member," at the annual 4-H covered dish dinner which will be held at the Methodist church parlors this Friday evening at 6:30 o'clock. This banquet closes the year's activities of the various divisions of the organization.

Walter Ellis will give a brief recollection of his recent trip to Washington, D. C., as Wayne boy scout representative to the national jamboree. Vocal and musical groups from Carroll and Winslow will furnish the music entertainment. Each 4-H club will give a skill or stunt.

The committee in charge of the arrangements includes Mrs. Will E. Back, Mrs. Alfred Sydow, and Walter Moller.

The entertainment committee includes Fred Baird, chairman; Miss Loretta Baird, Miss Arlyn Nelson, Alfred Sydow and W. Moller. Mr. Lawrence King is chairman of the decorating committee. Other members of this group are Mrs. Harry Baird, Mrs. Carlos Martin and Fred Baird.

Services for H. J. Mahnke Are Held Here Sunday

Wayne Resident Passes Away Following Severe Illness

Funeral services for Mr. Herman John Mahnke, 55, were conducted Sunday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at the Grace Lutheran church with the Rev. Walter Brackensick officiating. Burial was in the Greenwood cemetery.

Mr. Mahnke had been in failing health but it was such that he could earn a livelihood for himself and family except in recent months. Several months ago he complained of severe pains in his chest. He suffered a hemorrhage last Monday morning followed by another in the afternoon. He was taken to a local hospital where he died Thursday afternoon.

He was born Jan. 1, 1882 in Waverly, Ia. Shortly after his birth he was baptized in the Lutheran faith. His boyhood days were spent in Waverly where he attended the Christian day-school maintained by the Iowa Synod church there. He was also confirmed in this church.

As a young man he learned the book-binding trade which he followed for many years. In 1904, he married Miss Alice Oibregge. To this union three children were born. His first wife preceded him in death in 1918. The following year he married Miss Hulda Stark of Martinsburg. They lived in Albert Lee, Minn., Central City, Edgar, and Long Pine before moving to Wayne in 1927.

He is survived by his widow, seven children, four grandchildren, and four brothers.

The Beckenhauer funeral home was in charge of arrangements.

Will Erect New Creamery Building

Ground Broken Tuesday Directly West of the Present Site

Ground was broken Tuesday for the new Wayne Creamery to be built directly west of the present creamery building. Edw. Seymour has purchased the Bentback property for the erection of the new two-story glazed tile building. Dr. Bentback will give possession of the house May 1.

The new building will be constructed of fernwall. It is a 12 inch ventilated wall with 4 inches air space in the wall. The ventilated air-space wall prevents moisture and frost from forming on the inside.

The building which will face south will be lighted largely by a row of windows in the east wall. The manufacturing room will be in this eastern section. A sales room and office combined and egg candling room will be located in the front part of the building. The milk and butter cooler and the ice cream storage room will be located in the west section. Back of the storage rooms will be a work room for the wrapping of butter pats, ice cream bars and other packaging of products.

In all probability the house will be moved to the northwest corner of the property and will face on Pearl street. Back of the new creamery building the poultry houses will be placed.

District Winners Compete in Omaha

Two From Wayne Enter State Citizenship Contest

Miss Larhylla Whitmore and Miss Roberta Baker as district winners in the Young citizenship contest sponsored by the American Legion and an Omaha newspaper left for Omaha Monday where they will represent their district in the state contest.

County examinations were held here recently and the papers of the highest ranking boys and girls were sent to Professor A. A. Reed of the University of Nebraska who checked them and selected the highest ranking boys and girls in the thirteen American Legion districts of the state.

The state contest which began Tuesday is being held during the time of the Omaha automobile show and transportation exposition in order to offer additional entertainment for the contestants.

Miss Whitmore and Miss Baker plan to return from Omaha today.

Collapses From Effects Of Gas Poisoning

Billy Jones Is Overcome By Carbon Monoxide Fumes

Billy Jones, son of Mr. and Mrs. Roscoe Jones, was overcome by escaping gas due to a faulty chimney connection on a bathroom heater Sunday afternoon. He is confined to his home weakened by the effects of the carbon monoxide fumes.

Billy was taking a bath. Thinking he was taking too long, his sister called to him and he answered that he would be right out. Entering the kitchen, he collapsed on the floor and suffered a convulsion from the severe poisoning.

His condition is improved at this writing.

Winside Man Dies at the Veteran's Hospital Saturday

Funeral services for Mr. Julius Schmode of Winside who died of cancer Saturday in the veterans' hospital at Lincoln were held Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the St. Paul's Lutheran church with the Rev. H. M. Hilpert officiating. Burial was in the Winside cemetery. He was 45 years old.

He is survived by his widow and two children, Alvin and Ruth, his mother, Mrs. Augusta Schmode, two brothers, Henry and George, and one sister, Mrs. Albert Steckling of Colone, S. D.

He is a cousin of Mrs. J. M. Strahan who was in attendance at the funeral.

Julius Constantine Schmode, son of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Schmode, was born July 1, 1892, at Norfolk. He was confirmed at the age of 14 years in Christ Lutheran church in Norfolk. In 1900 when his father died the Schmode family made its home with Louie Mittelstadt of Norfolk, an uncle. At the age of 18 he came to Winside and made his home with George Mittelstadt. On the fifth of September, 1917, he was married to Miss Cora Weible.

On the 26th day of April, 1918, he was drafted into the service of the United States army. After three weeks training in London he was sent to the front lines in the St. Mihiel drive. He also took part in the Argonne Wood drive where he was wounded by shrapnel on the 21st day of October 1918. He was confined in the Military Hospital at Mt. Dour. While he was convalescing Armistice was signed. He was put on a troop transport and arrived first at New Port, New Va. He was then transferred to Camp Dodge Iowa, where he was honorably discharged.

He worked in Citizens State Bank until 1932. In 1934 he was employed at Mittelstadt lumber yard and held that position at the time of his death.

Red Cross Starts Nationwide Drive For Members

Committees Appointed to Take Charge of the Roll Call

The annual Red Cross roll call for membership begins today throughout the United States. Mrs. Estler Thompson is the Wayne county chairman.

It is hoped that the drive will have the wholehearted cooperation of each citizen to help further the worthy endeavors of the Red Cross who are ready assistance in times of distress need no retelling.

Roll call committees in Wayne and near by towns have been selected. In the residential district of Wayne the committee women are as follows: Mrs. V. A. Senter, Mrs. Frank Gries, Mrs. Frank Heine, Mrs. R. K. Kirkman, Mrs. Nettie Hall, Miss Ruby Surber, Miss Gladys Vath, Mrs. Carl Nicholasen, Mrs. Ole G. Nelson, and Mrs. Clarence Wright. Mrs. J. P. Timlin will take Sholes contributions. Mrs. Elsie Manko is chairman of Hoskins. Mrs. Louis Needham is in charge at Winside. Mrs. Ed Merrill will take contributions for the Red Cross drive in Carroll.

Wayne Hi Meets Randolph Today

Last Game of Season Will Draw Large Crowd of Football Fans

A record crowd of football fans are expected to take advantage of the holiday opportunity this afternoon and turn out to see the last football game to be played in Wayne this season, when Wayne High School plays host to Randolph High School on the State Teachers Field.

Randolph defeated Wayne 6 to 0 last season in a hard fought battle. The Wayne boys are on edge for today's game having remained idle last week when Pilger canceled their game. Coach Morris has developed a versatile team for Wayne this year and fans may expect to see a varied and colorful offense on the part of the Wayne team. Likewise Randolph will present an efficient matching and since both teams are evenly matched the game will be hard fought. Both teams will be anxious to end the season with a victory.

Files New Case

A divorce action involving Hatlie Okholm and Roy Okholm was filed in the district court docket last Wednesday.

Junior Class Play to be Staged Tonight and Friday

The Junior class of the college training school present their class play, "Tom Sawyer," this evening and Friday at the college auditorium. Two complete casts have been selected to give the double night presentation. It is under the direction of Miss Lettie Scott, class sponsor. Robert Bromie is the student director.

The cast of characters include: Carol Anderson, Katherine Kyl, Carol Orr, Howard Whorlow, Beryl Nelson, Harold Carlson, Frederick Doctor, Herbert Welch, Joseph Kiriwan, Mary Sharer, Frances Devesia, Anna Ahern, Glenn Gleason, Nelda Mae Bressler, John Palmquist, Bob Dale, Wendell Groskurth, Bonnardell Roe, and Home Seace.

35-Round Boxing Card Is Arranged

Thirty-five rounds of amateur boxing will be staged at the municipal auditorium next Tuesday evening at 8 o'clock. The fights are under the sponsorship of the Wayne American Legion. J. M. Strahan arranged the boxing card.

The main event is a 5-round bout between Willbure DeCora of Winnebago, 170, vs. Walter Fick of Inman, 170. Ten other fast bouts have been arranged.

Wayne Prepse Go on Scoring Rampage

Packing enough touchdowns into one game to satisfy most any team's scoring for a season, the Wayne Preps turned a football game into a track meet Tuesday and ran almost unopposed over the Laurel High School 51 to 0.

Every boy on the Prep squad got into the game and practically every one who could hold onto the ball long enough, scored a touchdown.

Music Clinic to Convene Here

Nebraska Bandmasters, Choral Directors Meet Nov. 25-27

More than 350 members and guests are expected to attend the Nebraska Bandmasters' association and the Nebraska Choral Directors association convention to be held in Wayne Thanksgiving day, Friday, and Saturday, Nov. 25, to Nov. 27. J. R. Keith is local chairman of the convention.

A well-planned program of concerts, banquets, business meetings, and lectures has been arranged by the program committee. A joint gala concert of the two associations will be held Saturday evening at the municipal auditorium. An all-Nebraska clinic band of 100 and an All-Nebraska clinic chorus of 60 members will present the evening concert.

Guest choral directors will be Max Krone of Northwestern University, John Robergson of Omaha, William D. Recelli of the University of Michigan, Glenn C. Bainum of Northwestern University, and Harold Bachman of Chicago University will be the guest bandmaster conductors.

The Kiwanis club, Wayne Woman's club, and the Young Business Men's club and Wayne State Teachers college are cooperating to provide convention facilities during the three-day meet.

About three million bats live in the Carlsbad Caverns in New Mexico.

Wayne Loses Two Passenger Trains Following November 15

Commission Grants Application of C. St. P. M. and O

Wayne loses its westbound train at 10:45 o'clock and its eastbound train at 4:45 o'clock beginning Nov. 15 when the state railway commission granted the application of the C. St. P. M. and O. railroad to discontinue train service from Omaha to South Norfolk. Commissioners concurring were E. L. Bol-

Coach Hickman Invades N. C. C.

Coach Hickman will again invade the North Central Conference next Saturday when he takes the State Teachers eleven to Omaha to meet the University of Omaha. Next Saturday the Wildcats close the season against a traditional rival, Morningside, which is also a member of the North Central Conference.

Early in the season the Wayne team invaded the N. C. C. when they journeyed to Vermillion to play the University of South Dakota. Other members of the N. C. C. are Iowa State Teachers, North Dakota State, North Dakota State, and North Dakota Universities has a tremendous edge on experienced material over Wayne State Teachers. Conference members do not have to rely on freshmen because of a ruling eliminating them from varsity competition. North Central teams invade the big ten and the gridirons of some of the large Eastern Universities and at times have returned on the long end of the score with major elevens of the country.

Coach Hickman and his boys have fared very well in the N. C. C. competition and if the boys are hitting their stride it would not be surprising to see them scalp the Sioux of Morningside two weeks from Saturday and beat the windy city aggregation this coming Saturday in spite of the experience and weight advantages.

Seagle Singers to Give Concert

Noted Group Will Present Concert Here Next Thursday

The famous Oscar Seagle Singers are to appear next Thursday evening at the college auditorium as the second number on the program course. The group is very well known on both concert platform and radio.

When Seagle started his music colony in the Adirondack Mountains at Schroon Lake, he permitted a number of young fellows to earn part of their expenses by working in the kitchen and dining hall. Four of these young men founded a quartet which was promptly named the "Kitchen Quartet." Since that time the organization, later called the "Seagle Singers," has gained wide recognition. From time to time many individuals who are especially well known singers today have belonged to the Seagle Singers, outstanding examples being John Bole and Sigurd Nilsson.

Today the Singers are fortunate to have Miss Shirley Sinclair, mezzo-soprano, with them. She has made an enviable record for herself with her exceptional voice. William Wright, of "Americana in Song" fame, is also a member of the organization this year.

Quilting Party

The Trinity Lutheran Ladies Aid held a quilting at the church parlors last Tuesday afternoon with Mrs. Herman Podoll as hostess. Sixteen members and four guests were present. At the close of the afternoon the hostess served refreshments.

Miss Anna Benthien entertained at a party in her home last Tuesday evening. Approximately 150 guests were present. Cards and luncheon were the diversion of the evening. Miss Eulalie Brugger received the high score prize at cards and Miss Gladys Mettlen received the consolation and the bingo prize. At the close of the evening, the hostess served refreshments.

Dispelling the Fog

There seems to be considerable friction between the last Republican President and the last Republican candidate for that office. It is not that one wants a national convention at this inauspicious time, and the other does not want it, though that is the ostensible difference between these two eminent statesmen.

Undoubtedly either would like to have such a gathering of the remnants of what was once a political party if he could pick the delegates. Governor Landon apparently thinks that the pleasant fiction that the most recent recipient of a presidential nomination automatically becomes the party leader—win or lose—has real substance. Therefore, he concludes that through what is left of the G. O. P. machine he might dominate the show. Mr. Hoover perhaps shares the thought and true to his habit would like to wait in the hope that something might turn up between now and the normal time for a convention that would incline the routed Republican army in his direction.

Actually, the idea that the convention choice who falls the election, retains his leadership is far from the fact. We do not need to go very deep into political history to realize this. How much authority in his party, for example, did John W. Davis possess after the 1924 election. How potent in the party councils was Herbert Hoover after the 1932 election?

One of the direst indications of the plight of the numerous minority is that it has no leader. The only shadow of authority falls on Chairman John Hamilton. He, at least—or, for that matter, at most—the little. But, as perhaps the first act of any national by the Republicans would be to get rid of this unsuccessful chief provided anybody else could be prevailed on to take the chairmanship, that shadow is pretty faint.

Incidentally, the calling of a special convention would be in itself almost an acknowledgment that the Republican party was in its death throes. These things are symptomatic of the birth of a new party rather than of the rejuvenation of an old one. Whatever the course of such a gathering—assuming that anything in the direction of arriving at a conclusion as to policies was accomplished, the probable outcome would be the formation of another organization, whether or not it retained the old name. In such a transformation Mr. Hoover and Mr. Landon and Mr. Hamilton would all vanish, just as the old Whig leaders faded into the discard after the mass meeting in Wisconsin in 1854, when the Republican party was born, though it had to wait some time for its ostensible Convention Unlikely.

The mere thought of the pre-convention struggles over the chairmanships, temporary and permanent, the platform and the credentials committee, this a veteran political supporter with longing. A regular National Convention has to get somewhere; it has a definite purpose—nominations for President and Vice President—and when these are made it adjourns. But the kind of meeting these Republicans have in mind has no such bounds. The sky would be the limit for them, but it is too good a dream to come true.

I am forced to the conclusion that we may look forward only to the drab sequence of such speeches as Governor Landon made the other night, in which he said nothing, and that nothing not very well. The time will be diversified with an occasional soul-outpouring from ex-President Hoover, with a background of memory for a time that is past, and an implication of how much better he would be in the job than Franklin D. Roosevelt. Then, of course, Hamilton Fish will tell his thirty what real Progressivism consists of, and Senator Vandenberg may perhaps pursue his desire to debate over the radio with many fragments of the colorful records of the President's speeches.

Meanwhile, the rest of the party hands will continue to tell how wicked the Democratic administration is, while the Liberty Leaguers ponder of when would be the most effective time to again loosen the purse strings of the patriots who have taken a million dollars last year towards saving the nation from Roosevelt.

It is interesting to watch the consistency of the attacks on the President. If stocks go up and business booms, it is in spite of him and not because of anything he has done. If stocks go down, it is the direct result of his measures. If he is silent on the international situation, he is neglecting the most important of the Presidential functions. If he makes a speech proclaiming his search for peace, he is accused of plotting to bring the country into war.

When the President makes one of his trips through the country, the local committees of arrangements have the local dignitaries—who are not infrequently candidates for office—on the platform with him. If he shakes the hand of one of these who has been among the supporters of his measures, the hostile commentators point out that he is messing in state politics to favor his friend; if he slacks the hand of one who has opposed him, they ascribe some dark, invidious motive for the gesture.

If an important man of woman leaves the government service, it is in the reports of the law-hunters, because he has quarreled with the President or his policies. In most cases these important people have taken their posts with a definite understanding that they could give only a specified time from their businesses to perform a public service. That makes no difference. Why, recently, the reported prospective resignation of Chairman Early of his office as Postmaster General was explained by one of these chroniclers as the result of a row with his White House chief. The very newspapers that carried this extraordinary invention had been publishing for months tales of the Postmaster General's intention of going back into private business and had even guessed at the place he would take in commercial life.

There is no great significance to be attributed to these funny stories except that they do illustrate how bankrupt is the minority party in policies and issues. It makes even more regrettable that the mid-season convention will probably not take place. Think what an impressive thing it would be to have the strategy-makers of such a convention combing over the fly-specks in their hunt for a platform which would unite the most disorganized outfit that ever essayed the role of the opposition party in this republic.

HOW THEY DO LOVE THE FARMER

The love of the Liberty League writers for the farmers is a beautiful love, but the trouble is that it is not permitted to get right close to the object of affection. Just now I have been reading a masterpiece of farmer-love from the typewriter of the editor of the Fremont Tribune. That editor loves the farmer with a love which "surpasseth knowledge." Let's listen to the master farmer-lover for a minute, long enough to hear him carry his charming love song to the farmer in the following ditty:

The government has been pushing its rural electrification plans in Nebraska, and doing so on the theory there will be secured two and a half customers to the mile. It has been announced that in a southeast district they are not averaging one and a half customers per mile.

In that district they are now trying to get customers' contracts, but are finding it a hard job. They ought to know this is one of the hardest years eastern Nebraska has ever seen to get farmers to sign up for luxuries. Electricity may be classed as a luxury as the farmers have been getting along without it and can continue to do so until they are in condition to take on the additional expense.

No doubt there are many farmers who would like to have electricity in their homes, and about their farms. They would appreciate their convenience as much as anybody. They are entitled to it and will avail themselves of the service as soon as they feel they are in shape to do so.

Those promoting the electrification projects in Nebraska should remember the farmers are experiencing hard going and feel they must curtail expenses as much as possible. They cannot be blamed for this attitude. They are sensible in holding expenditures to necessities until they have better returns from their farms that will afford them opportunity to take on these conveniences.

How strange is love? The editor of the Fremont Tribune had such vast love for the people in his home town of Fremont that tears of joy coursed down his cheek when he joined his fellow-townsmen over their successful plea to Uncle Sam to give Fremont an enlarged post office building almost big enough for Omaha. He felt and said that boon would be great for Fremont. Today he admits it will be ried to the homes of farmers. Joyfully he envisions the farm home and barns lighted brilliantly in the night season, and his kindly ear may almost hear the happy hum of the ice-making refrigerator which the farmer's wife has installed in her kitchen. But his joy is crushed by a soul torturing fear—that the farmer cannot bear the expense "just now"—some other distant day, perhaps, but not now. The love of the Fremont editorial Liberty-Leaguer for the Nebraska farmer is quite akin to the love of Josiah Allen for the wife of his bosom. She wanted one of the new fangled parasols—all made of burnished steel, except the covering of cloth which matched the color of Samantha's new dress. A great fear possessed Josiah. He wanted to grant his good wife's request, but a great fear stood in the way. He had heard that lightning from the skies was attracted by metal objects, and he feared that if he should buy that parasol for Samantha, and if she should be caught out in a thunder shower the lightning might be attracted to the silver parasol with dire damage to Samantha.

The love of the Liberty-Leaguers for the farmers of America is just like that. And sometimes it would seem that the love of a Liberty-Leaguer in Nebraska for the farmer is just a little stronger than the love of any New England Power Trust writer's love for his bucolic brothers on the stony slope in the domain of the Puritans. Edgar Howard.

CHANGE ORGANIZED FARM

Wayne county farm people will be interested in knowing that the annual organized agriculture meetings at the Nebraska college of agriculture will be held earlier than usual this year. The dates are Dec 6-10.

W. H. Brokaw, director of the Agricultural College Extension Service, notified the Agricultural Agent Moller of the change of date this week and asked him to notify all local people. Usually some Wayne county people attend. Originally the winter meetings at the college were held the first week in January but the change is being made this year for the first time in an effort to avoid unfavorable weather encountered during the past few years.

Tentative plans for the meetings are now being prepared. Details will soon be available at the Farm Bureau office here.

The stupendous task of creating a dictionary is indicated by the fact that, starting a Brazilian dictionary of the Portuguese language thirty years ago the Brazilian Academy of Letters has not yet completed the definitions of words beginning with "A."

Having successfully defended two counterfeiters arrested in Brazil and charged with having passed bogus American currency, a lawyer accepted as his fee from the released prisoners five one-hundred-dollar printed, were the afterward regretted.

The first edition of Webster's dictionary contained seventy thousand words, of which twelve thousand, as well as forty thousand definitions, had not previously appeared in any dictionary.

Burma is the women's paradise, as far as the East is concerned. The women are as free as they are in any country of Europe. They don't marry until they want to, and in many cases they select husbands for themselves—a procedure which would have been thought quite impossible only a short time ago.

Engineers who design and build modern bridges must scientifically consider the structural dead load, the live load, impact, centrifugal and temperature effect, wind pressure, deformation and erection stresses, and longitudinal forces.

Sale of Christmas Stamps Will Start Thanksgiving Day

Plans are practically complete for the opening of the thirty-first annual Christmas seal campaign throughout Nebraska Thanksgiving day, according to Miss Alice Marshall, executive secretary of the Nebraska Tuberculosis association, who within the past three months, has organized county campaigns and appointed 166 seal sale chairmen.

Miss Marshall says that the need for a vigorous program against tuberculosis is increasingly necessary in view of a recent national survey by the New York Tuberculosis and Health association that reveals tuberculosis is still the foremost cause of death between the ages of 15 and 45.

The tragedy of tuberculosis is that it strikes mainly at the most vital elements of the community, people in the prime of life, during their most productive period and greatest value to their family and community," continues Miss Marshall. "Tuberculosis has not been wiped out despite every effort we have made to do so."

Great progress has been made since the war, but the last six or seven years of depression have given the disease new hold, and that is why health leaders feel the public must not be lulled into a sense of false security by figures showing a decreased death rate from the disease, she says.

A jolly town crier provides the basis for the design of the 1937 Christmas seal, the little penny stamp that finances the fight against tuberculosis, not only in the United States but in many other countries. On a background of bright blue the town crier is pictured ringing his bell with his right hand, and carrying his lantern in the other. The color combination of the yellow rays from the lantern, the bright red scarf and mittens of the crier, and his brown coat, form a unique and attractive seal. This year's seal bears but one word, "Greetings," and the year, 1937. As is customary, Christmas seals will not go on sale prior to Thanksgiving day, so as not to conflict with the campaign conducted by the American Red Cross. All seal sale efforts will be concentrated on the time between Thanksgiving and Christmas.

Fraternity Initiates Five Pledges Monday

Five pledges were initiated into the K. M. C. national mathematics fraternity, at its regular meeting Monday evening held at the administration building. They were Robert Clements, Jack Davenport, Gerald Johns, Eleanor Owen, and Donald Peterson.

Each of the pledges gave a report on a mathematician for whom some office of the national organization is named.

A committee was appointed to take charge of plans for the K. M. E. stunt for stunt night.

2708 Drivers Licenses Are Issued to Date

Less than three weeks remain for motorists to obtain their new drivers licenses before the deadline Nov. 30. To date, renewals total 2365 and 353 new licenses have been issued. Car operators are urged to get their licenses today to prevent the last minute scramble when the remaining motorists of the estimated 7,000 try to get their licenses the last few days of grace.

The old city hall is headquarters for the drivers test and visual test conducted by Willis D. Noakes, examiner.

The Jamieson Clinic and Hospital Wayne, Nebraska

We are using this means to introduce to the families of northeast Nebraska a series of educational discussions on the value of Osteopathy with relation to all general practices in the field of medicine. In these discussions we will deal with all different phases of general practice as well as surgery and all its branches and obstetrics.

In January Dr. L. W. Jamieson inaugurated a cooperative health plan in Wayne which was new in this territory but by no means an untried plan in other parts of the United States and European countries.

Because of a large volume of work among a clientele of paying patients, the Jamieson Clinic and Hospital is in a position to offer a complete health service for the entire family at a reasonably yearly fee.

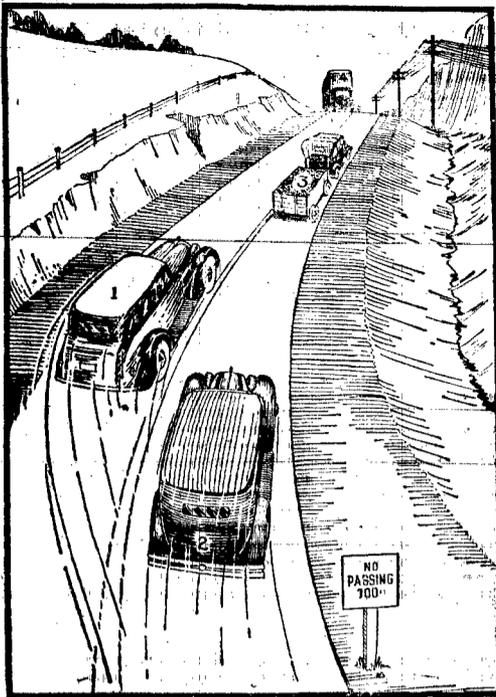

This reasonable fee schedule permits the many families of northeast Nebraska who form the clientele of the Jamieson Clinic to avail themselves of our six point health plan frequently. They have access to a greater amount of hospital and medical care as the flat yearly fee does not place a financial burden upon the breadwinner of the family for necessary medical service.

We attempt to operate our Hospital on a non-profit basis for the convenience of our patients.

Approximately 400 patients have been admitted so far in 1937 for care in our hospital of which over two thirds of this number have been surgical.

We regularly attract patients from all 12 northeast counties of Nebraska. We administer medical service to a large clientele from 40 towns and communities in this territory. Our mailing list includes 100 postoffices.

Consult us today about details concerning our cooperative health plan.

Passing on Hills or Curves

HOW many times have you been guilty of the extremely hazardous and foolhardy violation shown in the illustration? Despite all that can be done to safeguard traffic by erecting warning signs, proper design of curves, decreasing grades and removing obstacles that obstruct vision, some drivers will persist in gambling not only their own lives, but endangering the lives and property of all other motorists on the highways by attempting to pass other traffic on hills or curves. Plainly visible at every curve and hill is a regulatory sign "No Passing." To violate this rule of the road will result in painful injury or death, plus damage suits for loss of life and property. Hundreds of graves are filled annually because some drivers will not respect the rights of others when traveling on public highways.

If car No. 1 is traveling at 60 miles per hour, car No. 2 at 40 miles per hour and vehicle No. 4 is approaching at a speed of fifty miles per hour, NINE HUNDRED SEVENTY FEET of roadway is needed for all traffic to clear. THINK OF THE CHANCES BEFORE YOU ATTEMPT PASSING ANOTHER CAR.

Copyright, 1937. P. L. Cummings, Des Moines, Ia.

Traffic Violations are increasing daily—motor vehicle accidents also are greater as the speed grips the nation and carelessness in driving remains unchecked. A comprehensive study of this ever-present problem is being sponsored by this group of Wayne merchants who are presenting this "Drive With Safety" Campaign.

LEGAL PUBLICATIONS

IN THE DISTRICT COURT OF WAYNE COUNTY, NEBRASKA

In the Matter of the Application of Mary Sundahl, Executrix of the Estate of Thomas R. Sundahl, Deceased, for license to Sell Real Estate.

ORDER TO SHOW CAUSE WHY LICENSE SHOULD NOT BE GRANTED TO SELL REAL ESTATE

Now on this 18th day of October, 1937, it being a day of the regular September, 1937, Term of this court, this cause came on for hearing upon the application of Mary Sundahl, executrix of the estate of Thomas R. Sundahl, Deceased, under oath praying for license to sell the following described real estate of said Thomas R. Sundahl, Deceased, located in Wayne County, Nebraska, to-wit:

(a) Northwest Quarter (NW 1/4) of Section Fifteen (15), Township Twenty-six, (26), Range Two (2), East of the 6th P. M.; North half of the Southwest Quarter (N 1/2 SW 1/4) of Section Eleven (11), Township twenty-seven (27), Range One (1), East of the 6th P. M.

(b) West one hundred feet (W 100 ft.) of Lot Eighteen (18), Block Five, (5), Original Town of Sholes, Nebraska;

(c) Lots Five and six (5 & 6), Block Four (4), Crawford and Brown's Addition to Wayne, Nebraska; or a sufficient amount thereof to bring the sum of $11,000.00 for the payment of debts allowed against said estate and costs and expense of administration, for the reason that there is not a sufficient amount of personal property of said Mary Sundahl, executrix of said estate, to pay said debts and costs and expense of administration. It is therefore considered and ordered that all heirs at law of said estate, all devisees and legatees under the will of said deceased and all persons interested in said estate appear before me at chambers at my office at Room 5 in Keenings Building, in Norfolk, Madison County, Nebraska, on the 4th day of December, 1937, at the hour of 10 o'clock, A. M. to show cause, if any there be, why a license should not be granted to said Mary Sundahl, executrix of said estate, to sell all of the above described real estate of said deceased or so much thereof as shall be necessary to pay said debts and costs and expense of administration.

It is further ordered that a copy of this order be served upon all persons interested in said estate by causing the same to be published three successive weeks in the Nebraska Democrat a legal weekly newspaper printed and published in the City of Wayne in said Wayne County.

CHARLES H. STEWART, Judge of District Court. Nov. 11-18-25-Dec. 2.

From American Butter Institute

"Good butter that stays good is being made by an increasingly large number of creameries each year. That all-important keeping quality is put into butter at a price. The price is carefulness, forethought, and attention to the smallest details. Many influences—all with some effect upon keeping quality—are at work from the time cream is delivered by the farmer to the time the finished butter leaves the creamery, and much has been learned about them."

Farmers have good fresh cream, should it be permitted to deteriorate before it reaches a creamery? Selling to a local creamery removes that possibility, and automatically increases the prices of butter.

This space for the Wayne Creamery to promote better butter. Edw. Seymour, Owner

GEORGE AGNEW CHAMBERLAIN'S NEW SERIAL OF WEIRD MEXICO!

CHAPTER IV

El Tenebroso occupied a triangle at the intersection of a side street with the Calzada Manuel Villalongin. A string of private rooms comprised its longer flank but on the shorter side there was a respectable entrance leading directly to the restaurant and dance floor.

General Onelia met Joyce and Margarida in the foyer. He was dressed in mufti and when Margarida, divesting herself of an ultralike overcoat, displayed a dark tailored suit, Joyce felt a qualm as to her own lovely semi-evening dress.

General Onelia met Joyce and Margarida in the foyer. He was dressed in mufti and when Margarida, divesting herself of an ultralike overcoat, displayed a dark tailored suit, Joyce felt a qualm as to her own lovely semi-evening dress.

A flush of anger stained her cheeks but at that moment Adan Arnaldo came to Onelia's table to do homage to authority. He was a handsome young man and lacked the sleek look which usually distinguishes the master of ceremonies of such a boutique as El Tenebroso.

"Well, Adan," said the general. "I don't have to ask you how things are going. Jam-packed as usual." "Not so bad," admitted Arnaldo. "The genius of this place," he marked Margarida, "consists in its diversity. There's one clientele at midnight, another at two and a third at four in the morning."

"Yes," said Arnaldo, "and if we could close at one o'clock I'd be poorer but a lot happier." He glanced at Onelia. "It's a long time since you've honored me."

"Quite true, but I'm a busy man and I've taken to going to bed. I suppose the old habits are still on the job? I haven't seen Castellito, Diego Borda, Vasconcellos, General Dorado or Pancho Trujagen since I came here last. That about covers the list, doesn't it?"

"General," said Arnaldo laughingly, "I compliment you on your memory." "So? How could I forget any of that flock of flamingos?" "No, no, not that," corrected Arnaldo. "You remembered not to mention a single one of the dead!" Margarida laughed. "You're worried, Adan. Who's on the rampage nowadays? Are you expecting Dorado or is it only Castellito?" Arnaldo did not answer. "Tell me," she persisted. "Who is the cause tonight of that little crease of worry on your brow?"

after information as to Dorado's whereabouts and plans? In spite of her hosts' neglect Joyce was not bored. She sipped her wine sparingly and let her eyes wander.

Abruptly she sensed Onelia had gone tense in every muscle and following the direction of his gaze she saw an individual in uniform, accompanied by two bodyguards, erupt from a slight commotion in the entrance hall on her left. Never before had she seen a visage so striking, so individual, so different from the ordinary conception of a human face.

Joyce leaned toward Margarida. "Who is that man," she whispered, "the officer who just came in?"

Arnaldo, chatting cheerfully with Dorado, took out a cigarette and tapped it on his wrist. At the third tap the orchestra began to pick up its instruments and one of the four tiers of lights went out. Adan did his best to hold the attention of the recent arrival but when a second bank of lights was extinguished Dorado awoke to realization of what was intended.

General Dorado, murmured Margarida almost inaudibly. Arnaldo, chatting cheerfully with Dorado, took out a cigarette and tapped it on his wrist. At the third tap the orchestra began to pick up its instruments and one of the four tiers of lights went out. Adan did his best to hold the attention of the recent arrival but when a second bank of lights was extinguished Dorado awoke to realization of what was intended.

Then she heard Margarida whisper to him hoarsely: "Don't be a fool or you'll spoil everything. Leave it to Adan and nothing will happen, nothing!"

At that instant Dorado, who had his own gun, but not down, and crashed it on the table so violently that plates, knives and forks went flying. "Musical!" he roared. He pointed uncertainly at Joyce with a wagging forefinger, then waved it to include every woman in the room. "Musical!"

Arnaldo's strong hands darted out to seize the barrel of the gun and hold it pointed upward. The last of the lights were extinguished and with darkness came uproar. Five shots rang out in a steady spurt, tables were overturned, dishes crashed, women screamed, men groaned and grunted. Joyce sat quite still, pressing back as if to push herself through the wall. Soon she reached out her right hand tentatively. General Onelia was gone. She pushed her left along the seat. It was empty—Margarida was gone.

At that instant a fumbling hand found her shoulder, shot down along her arm and seized her wrist. She felt herself being hauled along the wall by someone who seemed sure of his way. Who was it and why? Was it Onelia, Van Suttart or—Dorado? What did it matter if—she could get out? Something struck her in the face, enveloping her head. For a moment she thought she would suffocate, then realized it had been merely a plunge through heavy curtains. The next thing she knew she was dragging the sharp sweet air of the night into her lungs as her escort half lifted, half hurried her into the tonneau of a waiting car.

The chauffeur started so suddenly her head was thrown against the back of the seat. Then the cold cut into her; she shivered from head to toe and her teeth began to chatter with a steady rattle. Promptly the man took her in his arms, snatched the rug from his bracket and drew it over them both. She tried to calm herself—she must calm herself or she couldn't think. What did he intend? Where was he taking her? Then he did something which steadied her nerves at once; he tried to light a cigarette without disturbing her. At the flash of the match she looked up into Adan Arnaldo's pensive face.

A great many thoughts struck Joyce all at once, making her dizzy. She had escaped the scene of pandemonium to fall into what? "If you'll put me in a taxi," she said, drawing away from him. "I'll be all right. Then you can go back." "To help the scrubwomen?" asked Arnaldo. "There wasn't anything unusual about our closing tonight. I've seen eight people shot and killed in the last two years." "Oh!" gasped Joyce. "That's why I was wondering," he stated. "About what?" "You—a girl like you! I don't get it yet. Coming into a dump like that between two buzzards. What did they want?" She decided at once to put Arnaldo off and in the same flash wondered if she dared try to draw him. "How should I know?" she replied, almost without a pause. "I never saw either of them before today."

"You're not lying?" "I came to Mexico only yesterday," said Joyce. "It's the truth. I wanted to see what was going on so I got Margarida Fonseca to take me."

"How did you come to go to her? Has she had herself listed as a guide?" "No," said Joyce. "She's my lawyer."

"You've got me guessing!" he declared. "When I saw you with those two zopilotes I had a feeling you'd need help pretty soon and need it bad, but you don't seem to think so and I'm beginning to change my mind. Every man living has to be fooled by a woman ever so often and perhaps this is my night. Perhaps I'm a bonehead, blind in both eyes, and you're a bad egg."

"I'm not," said Joyce simply; "I'm exactly what you thought. Please take me home."

"Where?" She told him. He hesitated for a moment, then called out the address to the driver. The car slowed, swung around the next circle and started back in the opposite direction.

"All right, I'll believe you. Since you say you're what I thought you were I'll take you straight to your hotel on one condition."

"What is it?" "That you never come into my place again."

"Don't worry!" said Joyce fervently. "I wouldn't anyway. I've never been so frightened before, and it wasn't the row that did it."

"No?" said Arnaldo curiously. "If that rumpled didn't scare you, what did?" "A face. It was horrible. I'll never forget it."

"What face?" "That man in uniform—the one who started the trouble."

"Dorado," said Arnaldo slowly. "Pepe Dorado. So that's it. What do you want to know about Dorado?"

"Only—only that I'll never see him again."

"You won't; nobody will for a long while," said Arnaldo grimly. "Why?" asked Joyce quickly. "Did something happen to him?"

"Not yet, but I promise you it's going to. I give him until daylight. I won't see him out of town in person but I have a couple of partners nobody knows about who will. When they tell him to beat it he'll go and stay gone."

As the car drew up in the light from the hotel entrance she laid her hand on his arm and looked straight into his eyes. "Why have you been so good to me? Why?"

"He shrugged his shoulders. "A lot of us Mexicans play at hating the United States, but not me. They were good to me up there, a lot better than I've been to you. We're different. It's like two worlds. There's one way to live in your country and another to live in mine, but let me give you a tip. It takes a strong head to stand mixed drinks. I have a strong head."

"So have I," said Joyce. He studied her thoughtfully. "Either you're right about your head or you're a fool."

CHAPTER V

Back in Elsinboro Mrs. Sewell was pacing distractedly up and down her living room awaiting the arrival of Helm Blackadder. Why had he shouted at her over the telephone? Why had he said such things? It was she who had grounds for anger, she who had a right to feel hurt. Was it her fault he had been away—gone to New York without saying a word? Her soft brown eyes watered and then blazed. Everything she had done had been right; she had sacrificed herself to the limit, but she had done what was right. Abruptly Blackadder appeared before her, not having bothered to ring or knock. She hurled herself into his arms.

"Helm! Oh, Helm!" she sobbed. "It was one of the cleverest moves of her entire career. Perforce he held her, patting her back, and the harder she clung to him the Jess could he find it in his heart to pour out the scathing words which a moment ago had been trembling on the tip of his tongue."

"Irma, how on earth could you stir up such a mess for yourself? Why didn't you find out where I was and call me up? Why couldn't you wait till I came back?"

She threw herself into a chair and covered her eyes. "Please don't, Helm. Please listen to me first. That child—that poor child! When she didn't come back after the week-end I telephoned Frances Holder and found she hadn't been there at all! Then I tried to telephone you; I did, Helm. I notified the police; then I thought of the radio."

"I'll say you did!" groaned Blackadder. "Hasn't it occurred to you Jesse isn't lost at all? That nobody kidnaped her? That nothing has happened to her except what she intended to have happen?"

"No, it hasn't. Do you remember what she said to us? Do you? Well, I do; the words are burned into my brain. This is what she said: 'You want to be rid of me—both of you. All right. I promise. If it isn't that way it will be another.'"

"Bunk," said Blackadder. "That girl? Never. How much money do you think she had?" "Hardly any."

Blackadder frowned. He went to the telephone and called up the station master. "Jim, this is Helm Blackadder. Did Joyce Sewell leave Elsinboro on a train?" Promptly came the answer: "No, Helm, she didn't. Naturally as soon as I seen about the reward I wasn't satisfied with only checking up around here. I telephoned every crew from Buffalo to New York. You can take it from me, she didn't get away on no train."

"Thanks, Jim," said Blackadder. He hung up and faced around toward Irma. "So there's a reward now, is there? How much?" "Five thousand dollars."

"Holy pike!" Blackadder started pacing the floor. Suddenly he halted. His brow cleared as if by magic and he made a leap for the telephone.

"Airport!" he shouted. "Get me the airport!" A moment later he was talking again. "Airport? I don't know you and you don't know me, but this is Helm Blackadder. Get it? Helm Blackadder. Have you reported to the police what day, what hour, and where you took your last woman passenger?"

"No. Why should we?" "You know why. You see the papers, don't you?"

"Sure, we read 'em—and the pilot both—and that's why."

"I see," said Blackadder softly. "Now listen, you. I'm Miss Joyce Sewell's guardian. Quit worrying about that reward, if it's ever paid to anybody, which it won't be. I guarantee you'll get your share. You and your buddy don't want to be put behind bars for compounding a felony, do you?"

"Aw, say now, Mister, we ain't done nothing."

"You're right you haven't and you'll find there are cases where you can get in as bad for doing nothing as for pulling the trigger. They call it abetting, meaning to incite, to encourage."

"Where to?" "We carried her to Newark."

"How much did she pay for her ticket?" "How do I know? She didn't buy no tickets from us."

"Who did?" "Nobody. She had her tickets with her."

"Did anybody meet her at Newark?" "No."

"Have you any idea where she went from there?" "Sure. She was a through passenger and would just have time to catch the plane south."

"Through? Through to where? Miami?" "No. Balbuena."

"Where's that?" "It's the airport for Mexico City, Mister, and much good may it do you to know it."

Blackadder turned to Irma. "Did you get it? Joyce is in Mexico City. She's been there for about four days."

"Mexico City!" gasped Irma. "Why, how can she be? You can't travel to Mexico City on five dollars. I know because—"

"That's what's got me stumped," interrupted Blackadder. He proceeded to call up the heads of the three banks in town, leaving Mr. Bradley, known to have been Cutler Sewell's good friend, to the last. The first two made no bones about answering since their information happened to be negative; they had paid out no money as a loan or otherwise to Joyce Sewell. But when it came to the president of the City National, the reply was decidedly evasive.

"Let me get this straight, Helm," said Mr. Bradley's aggravatingly calm voice. "Have you taken out papers as Miss Joyce Sewell's guardian?"

"No," said Blackadder, controlling his temper with difficulty, "but her stepmother is sitting here beside me. Do you want me to put her on the phone—have her tell you you can say it to me and say it all?"

"No; I'll take your word for it. Now just what is it you want to know, Helm?" "Did you or anybody else in your organization loan or give any funds to Joyce Sewell?"

"The answer is no, Helm," declared Mr. Bradley after a pause. Blackadder turned from the telephone with a scowl. "Bradley knows what he's saying," he announced. "He's no liar so he didn't give or loan it to her, but he knows where she got it and he won't tell."

Never since college days had Blackadder bowed to authority. But he was now momentarily confused, conscious he had just made a major capitulation. What did it matter how it had come about? Without the fuss and feathers of formal proposal or acceptance he and Irma Sewell were headed for the altar. Realization brought him no regret but also no particular exaltation.

By nine o'clock that night Blackadder was in Washington and by eleven the next morning, already having cashed a telegraphed money order, he succeeded in reaching the secretary of state.

The secretary knew nothing of Cutler Sewell or La Barranca but he had read plenty about Joyce. As a consequence he succumbed to direct action with the result that a few hours later, just as Dirk Van Suttart had finished changing his topoto togs, a messenger arrived summoning him to the embassy.

"Good boy!" exclaimed the ambassador. "Dirk, you've bought something. Get out and go to work. Take a holiday. I leave the entire matter in your hands."

Dirk climbed into his sports roadster and drove to the hotel Joyce had given as her address only to find she had checked out within half an hour of leaving the chancellery. There was no information as to whence she had come or where she had gone. The face of the woman who had been with her at El Tenebroso was unforgettable, but unfortunately he had failed to establish her identity at the time. General Onelia he knew, officially as well as by sight and reputation. Getting his address from the telephone directory, he drove to his residence and succeeded in penetrating to the patio where he was asked to wait. Presently he heard the roar of the general's voice.

"Say I'm not at home. I don't care if he can hear me. Say I'm out."

Dirk sat down on the near-by bench between two lounging soldiers and lighted a cigarette. When the messenger came back he looked up at him smilingly and spoke loudly in fair Spanish. "I heard, but the general is under a misapprehension. If my business were official I would of course have called on him by appointment at the war office. But it isn't. It's personal, as between one gentleman and another. I shall sit here until he sees me unless he wishes to assume the responsibility of having me thrown out."

Onelia came stamping around the angle of the patio. "Well, then, the gentleman, what is it—as one gentleman to another?"

"I came to elicit your sympathy. I saw you the other night at El Tenebroso accompanied by two ladies, one blue and the other black-eyed. Please take pity on me. Would you consider it an unpardonable indiscretion if I should inquire as to their identities?"

"Not at all," said Onelia promptly. "The black-eyed one is the well-known lawyer, Licenciada Margarida Fonseca. As for the young girl, I haven't the slightest idea who she is."

"She didn't come in with you?" "Oh, no. As I remember it Margarida smiled at her in the lobby and the girl simply tagged along."

"Do you happen to know what became of her after the disturbance?" "I don't. I haven't seen her from that moment to this. Are there any further questions?"

"None, General. I can't thank you too much for your frankness and courtesy."

The interview at an end Dirk could not break away quickly enough. Perhaps this thing was serious, and what lead had he left? Only one. Adan Arnaldo, and that was a thin hope. Going alone to El Tenebroso was a questionable move, but he would have to face it.

When he arrived he ignored the head waiter and took possession of a small table seldom used because it was too close to the orchestra. Dirk promptly showed the caliber of his brain by ordering a magnum of vintage champagne. A young man at El Tenebroso without a girl was an absurdity but a young man seated before a magnum of wine is never an absurdity to a maitre d'hotel and seldom to anybody else. In due course the lure worked even on Arnaldo. During an interlude he approached the table.

"Got it bad?" he asked with a friendly grin. "The worst in years," said Dirk. "Mind if I sit down?" "Not at all. I'll order another."

"Nonsense, man. One glass is all I want."

"Sorry," said Dirk, "this bottle is mine; I have to keep track of what I drink." He looked up and smiled. "No offense, Arnaldo; you can have anything else you want."

Adan ordered a wine. "You're clever, you know. A vintage wine is the one thing you don't dare fake."

Dirk leaned forward. "Listen, Arnaldo, I'm not such a fool as to try any slick business with you. Some people think the president runs this country, but I know better."

"Flattery!" said Arnaldo, "and how I love it! But let's be fair to myself; I run only the town."

out his sixth glass of wine. He looked up to see Arnaldo returning from the telephone booth at a pace that seemed slow yet moved with the speed of a stalking cat. "Get your hat and coat," whispered Adan. "Follow me."

Veterans Recall Whereabouts Nov. 11, 1918

Memories of many parents of veterans and veterans themselves drift back nineteen years today when the news of the signing of the Armistice, Nov. 11, 1918.

The Democrat reporter took occasion to ask a few veterans what they were doing 19 years ago this morning when the good news came. We are sorry we didn't have occasion to interview more of the boys in our rounds. We know it will be of interest to our readers to read their statements.

To F. A. Byram goes the honor of being the first Nebraska boy to land in France. His company was stationed at St. Mihiel, France. Carl Nicholson was on a train leaving Creighton going to camp. G. A. Renard was stationed at the Love Flying field at Dallas, Tex.

Dr. J. C. Johnson was stationed with the 105th Ammunition Train at Ambly, France, which is half way between Verdun and St. Mihiel. L. W. McNatt was at Camp Pike which was an officers' training school at Little Rock, Ark. Homer Smothers who was on the ship U. S. S. Hannibal which was at anchor near Plymouth, England, was aroused from a deep sleep having been on night watch.

John T. Bressler was an ensign in the navy stationed on Long Island sound near the Nantucket light ship. Carroll Orr, Walter Lerner, and Fritz Hinkle of Seattle who is visiting Wayne friends today were in the same 338 field artillery Regiment stationed at Camp De-Bourge, France, near Bourdeaux.

John Benjamin was stationed at the remount station at Camp Dodge, Ia. Bernard A. Meyer was with the veterinary hospital corp at Camp Lee, Virginia.

City Schools Present Educational Program At Auditorium

A well planned and well rendered program was enjoyed by the large audience that assembled in the city auditorium Tuesday evening. The orchestra of the city high school opened the program, after which the Rev. C. G. Bader delivered the invocation. K. N. Parke, commander of the American Legion, gave a brief history of the school system as it began in the early pioneer days down to our present system of free public instruction. The high school choir delighted the audience with three numbers. Beverly Canning and Franklin Simopin paid tribute to Horace Mann as the sponsor of free public education. The one act play depicted education as being much more than book learning, as it involves a preparation for complete living. "School Days" in song accompanied by the dance skit of the sunbonnet girl and her beau brought back many pleasant memories to the older members of the audience. Glen Sanberg spoke of the need of developing a true democracy which can only come as it is developed in the minds of our youth. The program was sponsored by the Wayne city schools as a feature of National Educational week.

"Got it bad?" he asked with a friendly grin. "The worst in years," said Dirk. "Mind if I sit down?" "Not at all. I'll order another."

"Nonsense, man. One glass is all I want."

"Sorry," said Dirk, "this bottle is mine; I have to keep track of what I drink." He looked up and smiled. "No offense, Arnaldo; you can have anything else you want."

Adan ordered a wine. "You're clever, you know. A vintage wine is the one thing you don't dare fake."

Dirk leaned forward. "Listen, Arnaldo, I'm not such a fool as to try any slick business with you. Some people think the president runs this country, but I know better."

"Flattery!" said Arnaldo, "and how I love it! But let's be fair to myself; I run only the town."

"All right; leave it at that. Do you remember the last night I was here—the night you had to do your stuff on some sort of a general with a gun?" "Sure—our last incident but one. Four nights ago to be exact."

"Here's the dirt," said Dirk with a quick nod. "General Onelia was sitting at the end of this row with a woman called Margarida Fonseca and a young American girl who doesn't seem to be here tonight. I've got to find that girl and find her quick. Can you help me?" During the speech Arnaldo's face had gone completely blank; now he frowned as if he were doing his best to remember. "A young girl, eh? Are you sure she was American?" "Why stall?" asked Dirk sharply. "I'm playing straight with you, why not try it with me? Her name is Joyce Sewell. Do you know where she is now? Arnaldo, if I don't find her I lose my self-respect and perhaps my job."

Adan nodded as if he had come to a decision. "Stay here. Wait for me. Without her permission I'll tell you nothing."

He was gone before Dirk could protest. His heart sank to a new low for the evening as he poured

Sheriff Pile Is Attacked By Insane Man

Sheriff J. H. Pile received deep cuts, bites, and bruises when he was attacked by Albert Maas who was confined to the county jail pending transfer to the state hospital at Npork. He had been judged insane several weeks ago. Ray Verzal and Jack Jones came to the sheriff's aid.

Pile had entered an enclosure where the prisoner was when Maas stepped behind him and using a heavy crockery soup plate hit Pile over the temple knocking him unconscious. Pile, however, did not fall but remained standing. Maas using the plate attempted to knock Pile down. When he was unable to do this he tried to gouge his eyes out. When Verzal and Jones entered the jail, Maas knew he was overpowered and gave himself up.

Authorities stated it was Maas' intention to murder Pile and then make Mrs. Pile open the jail doors and free him.

He was taken to the state hospital by Sheriff Pile and George Bornhoft that same morning.

what Irvin S. Cobb thinks about:

Species of Candidates.
SANTA MONICA, CALIF.—
 It takes all kinds of candidates to make up this world. Maybe that's why the world seems so overcrowded.
 There's the candidate who belongs to all the secret orders; if he left off his emblems, he'd catch cold; knows every grand hailing sign there is; hasn't missed a lodge brother's funeral in years; can hardly wait for the next one to die. No campaign complete without him.
 Candidate specializing in the hearty handshake, the neck-embraze, the shoulder-slap, the bear-hug, the gift of remembering every voter by his first name, and the affectionate inquiry regarding the wife and kiddies. When he kisses a baby, it sounds like somebody taking off a pair of wet overshoes. Usually has a weather-beaten wife needing a new hat.
 Strutty candidate who's constantly leading an imaginary parade of 50,000 faithful followers. Loves to poke his chest away out and then follows it majestically down the street. A common or standardized species.

Biblical Wisdom.
IN THE Book of Nahum, Chapter II, I came upon this verse:
 "The chariots shall rage in the streets, they shall jostle one against another in the broad ways; they shall seem like torches, they shall run like lightnings."
 Those Old Testament prophets certainly peered a long way into the future. Because I traveled by night through a main thoroughfare leading from Los Angeles to the sea and vice versa, and I knew what Nahum was describing.
 But not even an inspired seer of the Bible could imagine a record of traffic mortality so ghastly as the one we've already compiled in this year of grace 1937 A. D. (automobile destruction)—or a people so speed-mad.

How to Fight Japs.
WHENEVER we have a Japanese war scare, I think of Uncle Lum Whittemore, back in west Kentucky, who loved to dispense wisdom as he hitched one practiced instep on a brass rail and with his free hand fought the resident flies for the tidbit of free lunch which he held in his grip.
 One day a fellow asked Uncle Lum, who had served gallantly in the Southern Confederacy until a very hard rainstorm came up, what he'd do if the yellow peril boys invaded America.
 "I'd hunt me a hollow tree in the deep woods," he said. "Yes, son, the owls would have to fetch me my mail. I been readin' up on them Japs. They're fatalists."
 "What's a fatalist?" demanded someone.
 "Near ez I kin make out," stated the veteran, "a fatalist is a party that thinks you're doin' him a deep passional favor when you kill him."

Hollywood Fashions.
SOME envious style expert says Hollywood fashions are too garish. If he's talking about Hollywood males, I say they're just garish enough. If they were any more garish than they are, visitors would have to wear blinders, and if they were any less garish, Italian sunsets would stand a chance in the competition. And I want the championship to stay in America.
 Billy Gaxton picks out something suitable for a vest to be worn to a fancy dress party and then has a whole suit made out of it. Bob Montgomery's ties are the kind that I buy in moments of weakness and then keep in a bureau drawer because I'm not so brave as Bob is; and also I keep the drawer closed because I can't stand those sudden dazzling glares. And Bing Crosby is either color-blind or thinks everybody else is. But his crooning is mighty soothing. And so it goes—red, pink, green, purple, orange, sky-blue and here and there a dash of lavender.
 Our local boys gladden the landscape with the sort of clothes I'd wear, too—only my wife won't let me. Stop, look, listen! That's our sartorial motto, and these jealous designers back east can kindly go jump in a dye-pot.

Santa Monica
 Legend says St. Monica, on the eastern shore of a part Italy, was founded in the third century by St. Maranus of 1,500. Its total area is 28 square miles. The town's history begins in 1771. By the Tenth century the Mission had launched its residence. The Montefiore family and the Capry protected it. Once it was captured by Caesar Borgia, but soon regained freedom. Napoleon recognized its independence. Garibaldi, great Italian patriot, led to Santa Monica on his first retreat and there disbanded his army.

Aerial Preacher Spreads Gospel From Sky

"Sky pilot," a term sometimes used flippantly to describe a minister, is employed in a literal and serious sense when Rev. Al Waer of Whittier, Calif., takes to the air to preach the Four Square Gospel to congregations 1,500 feet beneath him. Waer preaches to throngs on the earth through a loud speaker system installed in the plane. He will also use the plane for gospel sky writing.

EMPIRE ROOM Your Headquarters While in SIOUX CITY

SEEN and HEARD around the NATIONAL CAPITAL By Carter Field

FAMOUS WASHINGTON CORRESPONDENT

Washington.—Public utility executives would do well to consider what has happened, is happening, and probably will happen to the San Francisco bay ferries.

He was right, dead right, as he drove along. But he's just as dead as if he'd been wrong.

Out in San Francisco the ferries, naturally, suffered a huge loss of business when the new bridges were opened up.

Just Imagine

Now let's go back a few years—in other words, use hindsight—and imagine a situation. Let's suppose that when the bridge was first proposed the ferry owners had reduced rates sharply.

The case is strikingly similar to a government hydroelectric project. The project may be uneconomic, but once the dam is built and the power plant installed the current must be produced.

No Hope of Speed

Crop control and wages and hours regulation legislation, to enact which congress was called in extra session, do not promise very rapid action.

Not does any one doubt that they would kill it if they dared! Neither of the organizations like it even a little bit.

Why else, it might be asked, would an organization as politically minded as the A. F. of L. devote prominent time to put through a resolution castigating something which had already been changed as a result of the pleading of its own president, William Green?

The answer is simple. Those responsible for that resolution, in that curious form, were seeking to build up public opinion against the wages and hours bill, almost regardless of details.

There is the possibility, of course, that there was a slightly different purpose—that the desire was really to prevent the bill's being changed again into something resembling its original and, to union labor, objectionable form.

As a matter of fact, the bitterest opponents of the bill, the folks who so effectively sidetracked it last session, holding it in the house rules committee after every one had assumed it would pass, are hoping to change the bill substantially.

As a matter of fact, the opposition of little southern sawmills and other small plants did not really reach the burning point last session until after Green's federation influence had accomplished these changes.

The effect of the so-called Green changes was to restrict the jurisdiction of the board, or whatever the governing body that enforces the wage and hour regulation may be called, to compelling the 40-hour maximum and the 40-cent-an-hour minimum.

Boost Income Tax

Income taxes on $50,000 to $50,000 are being revised in the tax law to get the additional money the Treasury needs, unless there should be some totally unexpected upset.

There will be a strong effort to lower exemptions and hike levies on incomes below $5,000, both of which are advocated, and have been for several years, by Senator Robert M. La Follette of Wisconsin.

As a matter of fact, this is one of the few points on which La Follette and the New Deal differ. La Follette wants those with the smaller incomes to pay taxes for two reasons.

Very few people in the country believe this. It sounds too fantastic. But it happens to be true and La Follette, though never quoting it, knows it and acts on it.

Not on Program

Taxes were not included in the announced program for congress. But since the announcement of the program the budget figures have been worked out. It has developed that the deficit for this fiscal year will be much larger than was anticipated.

On top of this the Treasury knows, and that a heavy shrinking of revenue that will be revealed in the income tax returns of March 15, next, both corporation earnings will be small.

Floyd Gibbons' ADVENTURERS' CLUB

HEADLINES FROM THE LIVES OF PEOPLE LIKE YOURSELF!

"Rattlesnake Kate" By FLOYD GIBBONS Famous Headline Hunter

HELLO, EVERYBODY: Get this one right hot off the waffle iron, members of the Adventurers' club. It's about a brave, hard-fighting, quick-thinking woman.

Lots of people think women aren't brave. But when it comes down to a case of life or death, just watch 'em. And then, throw in the life of a baby to fight for and—well, you'll find that old Rudyard Kipling was right about the female of the species.

Why, this adventure is so absolutely out of the ordinary, that I hardly believed it myself, when Mrs. Kate Slaughterback, Fort Lupton, Colo., told it to me.

Well, early that morning hunters had been banging away before daylight at the mallards and canvasbacks that were stopping over for the night in a lake away out in one corner of the Slaughterback ranch.

There was a Huge Snake Coiled. She saddled up the old pinto. Got down her .22 Remington, lifted three-year-old Ernest into the saddle and swung up behind him.

Kate Fought Rattles for Two Solid Hours.

at the gate post, coiled up and ready to fight anything that came along—a huge rattlesnake.

But he had his gang with him. No sooner had that rifle cracked—no sooner had the snake sounded his dying rattle than another angry whirr-r sounded from the tall, dry grass.

Three glistening, thick-bellied rattlers slithered into the open and toward Kate.

The Remington cracked three times in quick succession and three sets of rattles beat out a death-tattoo on the ground.

Still the nerve of the ranch woman held steady. She realized she could not kill twenty or thirty savage snakes with her little rifle.

She plucked that stake out of the ground. Smashed off the sign and turned to tackle the serpent army.

Her eyes met a horrible sight. There were no longer twenty or thirty attackers. They were sliding noiselessly in from all directions.

The first rattler to reach her coiled to strike. Kate swung the club, barely three feet long, and the dying tail flicked her hand. On came the others. Some circling. Some darting in.

Little Ernest was crying in the saddle. Brownie—the pony—was trembling. If he should rear, the baby would be thrown among the snakes.

Another rattler sprang. It missed her hand by a half inch. She could feel its breath as the jaws snapped. A sound behind her. Coiled and poised for a thrust at her stockinged leg was another foe. She struck backward. The snake uncoiled, its head crushed.

The slithering chain of reptiles seemed endless. They darted and struck from all sides. The club thudded hundreds of times. Dying snakes writhed in piles. Kate, hardly moving from her tracks, fought on—fought for two solid hours before she climbed painfully, nerve wracked, back into the saddle.

Her Nickname Well Earned. Brownie darted for the ranch house. Mrs. Slaughterback tumbled from the saddle, clasping little Ernest. Her hands were raw flesh and blisters—her eyes bloodshot and her face swollen.

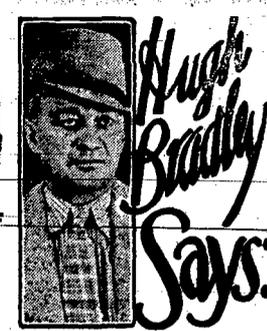

Then the boys lined her up beside her grisly foes. Cameras told the true story of her kill. ONE HUNDRED AND FORTY RATTLESNAKES.

I said to her, "I hear your friends have a nickname for you now—'Rattlesnake Kate.'"

"Yes," she said. "And I'm proud of it." ©—WNU Service.

This Game Called Football Has Many Confusing Angles

THIS game called football: Notre Dame and Marquette tied for three consecutive games from 1909 to 1911. In 1912 the Irish won, 69 to 0.

Year after year Pittsburgh has one of the nation's superior teams. But it has been seventeen years since the Panthers have had an undefeated team, nineteen years since they have had an undefeated and untied and unscored upon team.

So you're a football expert, eh? Then: 1—Name the coach at Iowa university.

2—What is the "Coffin Corner"? 3—What time out is permitted between the first and second quarters of a game, between the third and fourth quarters, between the second and third quarters?

4—What college team is nicknamed "The Friars"? 5—Name the "Four Horsemen" and what they are doing now.

Sure, you knew them all along, but here are the answers, anyhow: 1—Tri Tubbs of William Jewell college.

2—The angle formed by the side line and the goal line. 3—One minute between the first and second periods and the third and fourth periods. Fifteen minutes between the halves.

4—Providence college of Providence, R. I. 5—Blaise Cyprien, head coach at Notre Dame; Jim Crowley, head coach at Fordham; Harry Stuhldreher, head coach at Wisconsin; Don Miller, practicing law.

From a Pennsylvania gentleman who so often makes this weekly football piece so easy to write:

"Football is some game! It lasts but three months, yet symbolizes college activity for the whole year. It's just an amateur sport, yet puts hundreds of boys through colleges, supplies employment to thousands and provides a good living for hundreds of coaches. It supports the athletic programs for other games, yet is played by but twenty-five to fifty boys per school. It builds stadiums, but pays no cash to the participants (theoretically, at least).

"Its 'All-America' teams are dominated by foreign-sounding names. It's the roughest game in America, but girls love it. It's witnessed by millions each week, yet only a few hundred really understand it. It reaches its apex in the picking of 'All-America' teams when every honest fan knows one team can't honor all the best players.

"Football is some game!—for contradiction."

Gloomy Gil Had Ace Record at Navy

When Gil Doble was coaching at Navy, the Middies defeated Ursinus, 12 to 0, in 1918. Next year they slugged 121 to 0 score on Colby.

Columbia went twenty-one years without getting a man on the All-American. From the time Richard S. Smith was named at fullback in 1903 until Wally Koppisch got the halfback call in 1924.

The ball wasn't equipped with handles forty years ago, either. In 1896 Penn's great guard, Willy Woodruff, fumbled five times within Lafayette's 10-yard line, and Penn lost, 6 to 4.

There has been considerable misunderstanding of the Graham plan by which the president of the University of North Carolina has been seeking to remove some of the hypocrisy from college sports.

Perhaps a letter from a member of the North Carolina faculty best explains the university head's aims:

"President Graham is anxious to see it that scholarships and other help to athletes should be granted on the same terms as those on which similar favors are granted to other little railroad stations along the line.

Under the Graham plan the wilderness a 100 miles from the nearest human habitation, ought to be enlivened a bit with placards of his lectures and so had bills posted in them, containing these words: 'A lecture will be delivered here, in a sweet voice, by Artemus Ward the Wild Humorist of the Plains.'

"I might add in passing that since the application of this plan to our local athletic situation, there has been no great falling off in our athletic standing."

Built on Air Lots The Merchandise Mart is built over tracks of the Chicago & North Western railway. The railroad retains ownership of the area on which its tracks operate. It sold air lots, representing possession of the space above ground occupied by the entire building, and numerous miniature ground lots necessary to sink caissons.

The air was actually subdivided into lots and the diagram of the aerial real estate filed in the office of the recorder of deeds of Cook county, Ill.

GET READY FOR WINTER DRIVING

No section of our population is more dependent upon the automobile as a means of transportation than the residents of the smaller communities and rural districts.

Yet each Fall, many car owners cause themselves a great deal of trouble and expense by neglecting one or all of the simple yet necessary steps to assure proper operation of the car in Winter weather.

A minimum Winter protection program should cover: 1. Complete change to correct grade of lubricants for motor, transmission and differential.

2. Motor tuned up, including adjusting of carburetor, valves, distributor, sparkplugs, generator and all electrical equipment.

3. Drain and flush cooling system. Refill with suitable anti-freeze solution.

Selection of motor oil and greases for Winter driving is particularly important. You must select an oil which will permit easy starting, that will lubricate the motor throughout the entire driving range of speeds and will continue to do so for a reasonable mileage.

For many years Quaker State Winter Oils and Greases have been recognized as the highest quality and most generally satisfactory Winter lubricants on the market.

Through Quaker State's highly developed methods and equipment it is possible to produce a motor oil which will have a satisfying body over the 400-degree range of temperature it will meet. That is, when the motor temperature is way below zero, the oil will still be fluid enough to allow the motor to turn easily and also to flow freely to all the bearings. Yet this same oil has enough body to stand up and to give the motor proper lubrication when the temperature inside the cylinder wall reaches 400° and over.

As with any other product you buy, you get what you pay for. An oil of Quaker State quality is necessarily expensive to make. This does not mean, however, that Quaker State is more expensive to use. Being pure, concentrated lubrication, it stands up longer in service. It gives more miles per quart and at the same time gives the bearing surfaces safer protection.

You will want to step into the car, even when the mercury is hiding in the bulb and press the starter with every expectation that the motor will start off with its usual Summer zest. This sure starting, plus motor protection, is only possible by preparedness.—Adv.

ADD WARNING PINK COLOR TO ARSENICALS

The housewife who carelessly uses lead arsenate or calcium arsenate in cooking instead of flour in the future will have no excuse except that she is color blind, for manufacturers of these insecticides have decided to color them a distinctive pink.

Many cases of accidental food poisoning occur because arsenicals are stored in pantry shelves along side flour, soda, baking powder, and similar white powdered foods. The arsenicals are likewise white powders and have not distinctive odor to warn the careless cook.

Calcium arsenate is used widely for spraying and dusting vegetables for pest control, and lead arsenate is used for fruits.

For years the federal food and drug administration has warned the public of this danger, but reports of food poisoning have continued to appear in the papers. Only a few weeks ago several persons working in a mining camp in a western state were seriously stricken after eating flapjacks in which an insecticide was used instead of flour.

Regardless of the precautions of manufacturers, says W. G. Campbell, chief of the food and drug administration, arsenicals and other dangerous insecticides should be kept out of the reach of children. The garage or shed is the place for insecticides, not the pantry shelf.

Miss Rena Johnson spent the week-end visiting friends and relatives in Hartington.

4-H Club Work Shows Progresses

Organization Grown to Include 60,000 Clubs Since Inaugurated

Since 4-H club work was started in the United States about 25 years ago it has grown to an organization of more than 60,000 clubs, with over 100,000 local leaders and a membership of over 1,145,000 boys and girls ten to twenty years of age. Within the past 25 years over 7,000,000 rural boys and girls have taken part in these clubs in the United States alone.

So well has this club work been done and so significant does it seem to visitors who come to this country from abroad and see what 4-H boys and girls are doing that they have gone back to their own countries in many cases and organized 4-H clubs for their own boys and girls. So, today 4-H clubs have been organized in China, in India, in the various countries of Europe, in Africa, and some South American countries, the Philippines and some of the islands of the seas and each year the work is spreading into still other countries. Approximately 300,000 boys and girls are enrolled today in 4-H clubs in foreign countries.

There are many reasons why people everywhere want their boys and girls to take part in 4-H club work. Farm people like 4-H club work because it teaches them how to do farm, home, orchard, and garden work, and many other things, in a better way, and have a good time and earn a little money perhaps in doing it. It gives boys and girls a chance to make exhibitions at community, county, state, regional, and national fairs, and perhaps win some prizes and get a lot of valuable experience. It gives them a chance to go to camps and make educational trips and take part in short courses. It gives them a chance to meet together in groups at monthly meetings and learn parliamentary practices, how to conduct a meeting, make a report, act on committees, play and sing and have a good social time together. In demonstration and group work, it teaches boys and girls the thing the whole world is so much in need of, and that is cooperation.

Farm fathers and mothers like 4-H club work because their boys and girls because they develop a broader vision of rural life and farming is made more interesting because it is made more mind-stimulating.

Distinctly Educational

Four-H club work is distinctly educational. Educators endorse 4-H club work because it teaches each member how to do and see and understand things. They are educated to the extent that they can do things with their hands—plan and care for a garden, care for an animal, make a dress—to the extent that they can see significant things when they look for them—insects in cotton, disease in corn or poultry—to the extent that their mind can perceive the truth—the relation of fertilizers and moisture to yields—and to the extent that they can express the truth with their tongue and pen. Four-H work gives boys and girls practice in all these things and helps them make really educated people.

Religious organization throughout the United States—Catholic, Protestant, and Jews alike think highly of 4-H club work, because it stands for activities that are clean, wholesome, and constructive; because it develops a generous and kindly heart and wholesome living and a cooperative spirit.

Business men, bankers, and those engaged in commerce think highly of 4-H club work because the rural boys and girls who have been trained in club work are industrious; they know how to work; they know the virtues of thrift, sobriety and integrity; and they want such boys and girls in their business and in their city life.

Four-H club work has come to have the support of state legislatures everywhere and of the federal congress, because these agencies of government have come to believe that 4-H clubs promote the best in rural life—more science in agriculture and home making, more recreation, more social life, more rural culture—and because 4-H clubs help build character and train for fine citizenship.

Fraudulently Alters Verified Seed Certificates

As a result of investigations made by the bureau of agricultural economics, it was found that the E. K. Hardison Seed company, Nashville, Tenn., fraudulently altered department of agriculture verified-origin certificates for alfalfa seed, the bureau reported today. The seed company altered the certificates to show incorrect origin of the seed and then sold and shipped the misbranded seed.

This is a violation of the rules and regulations of the secretary of agriculture providing for the verification of seed, approved July 25, 1923, and of other federal authority pertaining to the misbranding of seeds.

The bureau has ordered that a public notice of its determination be sent to trade publications, farm papers, county agents, verified-origin seed dealers, other wholesale seed dealers and retail seed dealers. Action also has been taken by the Tennessee state department of agriculture for the same offense and a fine has been imposed.

The notice of the bureau's determination outlines the following facts:

The E. K. Hardison Seed company purchased verified-origin alfalfa seed from verified-origin seed dealers in Missouri and Oklahoma. The seed was received by the E. K. Hardison Seed company with verified-origin seed certificates properly sealed to each bag and showing true origin. Some of these verified-origin seed certificates were altered by this company to show Kansas as the origin and some were further altered by erasing or changing the lot numbers. The true origins of the lots involved were Arizona, Texas-Oklahoma, and Oklahoma.

It was also found that between the dates of July 30 and September 2 this year the E. K. Hardison Seed company sold and delivered to retail seed dealers in Tennessee 38 or more bags of misbranded alfalfa seed bearing U. S. department of agriculture verified-origin seed certificates which showed alterations of the origin statement.

In connection with this determination, the bureau called attention to section 14 of the Perishable Agricultural Commodities Act, as amended Aug. 20, 1937, covering alteration of certificates and other matters as follows:

(b) Whoever shall falsely make, issue, alter, forge or counterfeit, or cause or procure to be falsely made, issued, altered, forged or counterfeited, or willingly aid, cause, procure, or assist in, or be a party to the false making, issuing, altering, forging, or counterfeiting of any certificate of inspection issued under authority of this act, the produce agency act of March 3, 1927 (7 U. S. C., sec. 491-497), or any act making appropriations for the department of agriculture, or shall utter or publish as true or cause to be uttered or published as true any such false, forged, altered, or counterfeited certificate, for a fraudulent purpose, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction shall be punished by a fine of not more than $500 or by imprisonment for a period of not more than one year, or both, at the discretion of the court.

Interest in Sheep Produce Shown

Increased general farm interest in farm sheep production was indicated this week in a report received at the Wayne county Farm Bureau office from the Nebraska college of agriculture. It showed a great increase in numbers of 4-H club boys and girls feeding lambs. The report tallies with general interest here in sheep.

Eight Nebraska counties have definitely organized western lamb feeding clubs. Similar clubs may be organized here. Counties already having the clubs include Madison, Cass, Douglas, Washington, Thurston, Burt, Perkins and Buffalo.

The Sioux City and Omaha markets have provided January shows and sales for boys feeding those lambs. To qualify for the show, club members must designate a group of 16 lambs from which a show pen of 12 will be selected. From the pen of 12, a single lamb will be selected for individual competition. Walter Tolman of the college of agriculture is in general charge of the project.

In spite of the fact that feeder lambs are selling higher this year than last, feed prices are down now so sheep club members believe they will be able to produce a finished lamb at less cost per hundred pounds than was possible last year. The Bureau of Agricultural Economics of the U. S. Department of Agriculture has this to say relative to the probable market:

"Although marketings of fed lambs next winter are likely to be larger than in the 1936-37 season, marketings of sheep and other lambs may be smaller. Hence, it is possible that total slaughter of sheep and lambs in the 1937-38 fed-lamb season will be little if any larger than in the 1936-37 season. With prospects for a slightly higher level of consumer demand than last year, however, prices of fed lambs in the winter of 1937-38 may average about as high as a year earlier."

Regarding the amazing rice-terraces of Ifugao, in the Philippines: One of the greatest monuments to human toll that was ever constructed is this labyrinthine system of rice-terraces, more than 4,000 years in the making, which the wild Ifugaos have built. Without benefit of science, and employing only the crudest implements to aid the labour of their hands, they have, in the course of many centuries, completely changed the face of nature and transformed one of the steepest mountain chains in the world into enormous gardens of fantastic beauty.

Plans Bindweed Control Drive

Bureau Organizes Weed Eradication Department

In spite of the fact that many farmers have been voluntarily fighting bindweed, the infested acreage is continually increasing. The bindweed situation has reached the point where it is no longer the problem of the individual farmer. The people realize their responsibilities and are taking a vital interest in the control and eradication of this menace.

The weed eradication law, passed by the last session of the state legislature, not only provides for the eradication of bindweed, but for the control of bindweed-infested seed, grain, livestock feed, and other materials.

According to the reports of J. V. Erb of the agricultural college, who has been conducting meetings on the explanation of the bindweed law farmers are interested in an organized attempt to control and abolish bindweed. Petitions to form bindweed districts are in circulation in various parts of the state.

Louis Buchholz, director of the department of agriculture and inspection, has set up a weed control division in his department and has appointed W. L. Klatt, formerly superintendent of schools at Campbell, state weed supervisor, and Loys F. Smith, formerly assistant county agent at Syracuse, and Frank C. Egbert, former from Aurora, as assistant state weed supervisors. Under the direction of the state weed advisory committee, the weed supervisors are to assist in the promotion and organization of weed control districts.

The state weed advisory committee, as provided by the weed eradication law, is composed of W. H. Brokaw, state agricultural extension director, F. D. Keim, chairman of the agronomy department of the agricultural college, C. Y. Thompson, president of the Nebraska Crop Growers association, and Harry Baker, president of the Nebraska Horticultural society.

Warn Farmers on Seed Origin

Shortage of Adapted Seed Encourages Discrepancies

A caution to farmers to "know the origin of the alfalfa and red clover seed purchased this year" was issued today by the bureau of agricultural economics.

The bureau said "there is need for extreme caution because of the short supply of adapted seed of both alfalfa and red clover and the wide differential in price between unadapted and adapted seed."

It was stated that the carry-over of alfalfa seed was very small, that production in the northern and central states this year was much below average, but that production in the southwest was above average.

The bureau said that much unadapted southern alfalfa seed will probably be shipped to northern states, some of it correctly represented as to origin, and some misrepresented as to origin. Because of the relatively low price of this unadapted seed, it was stated that "many retailers, shippers, truckers, and others will use every possible ruse to pass off southern alfalfa seed for northern seed."

Though some southern-produced alfalfa seed may successfully go through mild winters in northern states, it was pointed out that the southern seed is not sufficiently hardy to withstand the usual severe winter weather in most northern areas.

Farmers were told that "alfalfa seed obtained from growers and shippers should be fully identified as to locality of production, and blends containing any portion of unadapted seed should be avoided as far as possible."

It was pointed out that public agencies provide information regarding the origin of seeds in two ways. Many states certify seed, and their certificates show the variety and locality where grown as well as other information. The bureau of agricultural economics maintains a verified-origin seed service under which verified-origin labels are attached to seed containers which indicate in what state or states the seed was grown. Seed verified as to origin by the bureau is not verified as to variety or germination, but the verification sets up certain minimum standards of quality covering such factors as germination, purity, and noxious-weed seed content.

As for red-clover seed, the carry-over is "very small," production is much below the less-than-average production of last year, prices of domestic seed are high, imported seed is much lower priced, and the supply of adapted domestic seed is insufficient to meet normal requirements, the bureau reported. As with alfalfa, buyers of domestic red-clover seed may be protected by obtaining known-origin seed. State extension services, county agricultural agents, state and county farm organizations, seed shippers and dealers, and all agencies engaged in seed certification or verification work are urged to cooperate with the department of agriculture in discouraging the use of unadapted seed. Much information and careful handling of the whole problem are necessary, the bureau said.

Releases Wayne County Mortgage Indebtedness

The mortgage indebtedness record of Wayne County at the close of September showed a slight increase over the month before. Twelve farm mortgages totaling $32,300, were filed in September as compared with three amounting to $14,000 in August.

More farm mortgages were released in September than in August. Thirteen totaling $67,850 as compared to 8 totaling $39,176. Two less city mortgages were filed this past month. In August five mortgages totaling $8,000 were filed as compared to three this month. However, the indebtedness was the same.

Six city mortgages totaling $7,350 were released in September as compared to 8 amounting to $22,190 released in August. Chattel mortgages number 264 and totaling $197,007.11 were filed in August. In September, 284 totaling $192,662.32 were filed. More chattel mortgages were released this past month than the month previous. One hundred and ninety-five mortgages totaling $90,433.48 were released in September as compared to 159 amounting to $99,650.62 in August.

CONTOURING HELPS HARVEST YIELD

With increased yields on contour-filled fields being reported by many Nebraska farmers, H. E. Engstrom, state coordinator for the Soil Conservation Service, points out that large increases are not to be expected every year. Larger yields this year are believed to be due to the conservation of the little rain that fell during the growing season.

Corn yields of 30 to 40 bushels per acre have been reported on fields farmed on the contour while fields on the same farms tilled in rows up and down the slope produced less than half these amounts.

Wheat yields of 30 bushels or more per acre have been reported on contour-filled fields while nearby fields produced less than 15 bushels per acre.

"In seasons when rainfall is light, contour farming always seems to help yields, but when rainfall is evenly distributed, contour-farmed fields may produce little, if any better crops than uneroded fields not contour tilled," Engstrom explains. "Of course, contour farming is a good practice any time. It saves soil that is always needed and it stores raindrops in the subsoil which would otherwise be lost through run-off."

STAR DUST

Movie • Radio

OFF-SCREEN romance is having a big influence these days in casting pictures. Paramount has given a three-year contract to John Barrymore and his wife, Elaine Barrie, and will feature them together in a picture as soon as a suitable story can be located. Making pictures with Mr. Barrymore used to be a nightmare to directors.

Some days he was three hours late showing up for work, and sometimes he disappeared for days. When he did arrive on time, likely as not he would make such caustic remarks to his fellow players that their nerves were practically shattered. Marriage to the young and ambitious Miss Barrie has changed all that. She has made him settle down to work in earnest.

At last the quarrel between Freddie Bartholomew and Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer has been settled and Freddie will soon return to work. Under the new agreement he will get two thousand dollars a week for forty weeks, and three thousand weekly for six weeks of personal appearances. Also he gets a dollar a week additional for pocket money. He'll need it, with a twenty-five thousand dollar bill owed for lawyer's fees.

One of your tried and true friends of radio, whom you may not know by name, has just made a great success on the New York stage—but he is still on the air. It is Clayton Collier. You have known him as master of ceremonies for both the Leo Reisman and Eddy Duchin bands, hero of the "Pretty Kitty Kelly" series, and star of the story of "Girl Interne." With all his rushing about from radio rehearsals to stage performances, he never seems to be in a hurry, is always quite unruffled and casual in manner.

A mysterious Mr. Gallagher flew into New York and began escorting Janet Gaynor to theaters and night clubs, but the Twentieth Century-Fox publicity department wasn't fooled for a minute. They knew it was Tyrone Power all the time, and made him come out from under his assumed name and attend a huge cocktail party in his honor. There are big plans ahead for young Mr. Power. He will play Disraeli.

Ann Miller, who played Ginger Rogers' dancing partner, is playing the lead in "Radio City Revels" opposite Milton Berle, the air comic. Her discovery is one of those strange tales of Hollywood. She and her mother went to California and almost starved while she was trying to break into pictures. Finally, defeated, she took a casual engagement in San Francisco and the very first night she played there, an R. K. O. scout saw her and signed her up. She had been trying to get into his office in Hollywood for three years!

Just the other day Warren Newell, a laborer at the Universal studios, wiped out the disgrace of ten years ago when he was discharged from a minor league baseball team for dropping a flyball in a crucial point in the ninth inning. He made a real catch! Alice Faye, catching her heel in the hem of her dress, toppled over a sixteen-foot ledge and would have landed on theater seats below if Mr. Newell hadn't rushed to the rescue and caught her just in time.

ODDS AND ENDS—Bing Crosby was so delighted with the smart dialogue in Conroe Lombard's picture, "Irene's Confession," that he insisted on having the author, Claude Binyon, write his next. It will be staged at Bing's own race track, and Mary Carlisle will play the lead, as usual, because she is the only actress Bing can make love to without making his son Gary burst into tears. Robert Taylor will be back in time for Christmas and if he ever goes away again he will insist on Barbara Stanwyck having a telephone installed at her ranch retreat. . . . Lanny Ross, having worked over his new radio program until it suits him and everyone else, may make the next "Broadway Melody" for M.G.M. . . . Warner Brothers' "Great Garrick" is the most delightful picture in many weeks, largely because of the witty way that Brian Aherne and Olivia de Havilland poke fun at the business of acting. . . . Jean Harlow will vary the monotony of playing Doctor Ufafoe on the screen by playing Doctor Christian on a coast-to-coast radio program over the Columbia system.

LITTLE STORIES FOR BEDTIME

by Thornton W. Burgess

REDDY FOX IS LAUGHED-AT

REDDY FOX was miserable. Yes, sir, Reddy Fox was miserable. To be continually laughed at is enough to make any one miserable. No one ever likes to be laughed at unless they are trying to make people laugh at them. Reddy Fox wasn't doing anything of that kind. Oh my, no! No, indeed! Reddy considers himself a very fine gentleman and so, of course, he wouldn't think of doing anything to make people laugh at him. But they did laugh at him just the same, Reddy Fox Was Miserable—To Be Continually Laughed at Is Enough to Make Any One Miserable.

even the very smallest, and it was all because of the way he ran from Buster Bear with Jumper the Hare right at his heels. You see everybody pretended to believe that it was from Jumper that he was running away.

So Reddy was very miserable. If he went down on the Green Meadows Danny Meadow Mouse would be sure to call out:

"Mr. Reddy has a scare
At the shadow of a hare."

Then Danny would laugh in the most provoking manner, and hide where Reddy could not get at him. If he went down to the Smiling Pool he would no sooner come in sight of Jerry Muskrat than Jerry would shout:

"Reddy, Reddy, you watch out! Jumper's somewhere hereabout."

Then Jerry would laugh in the most provoking way and Reddy couldn't do a thing, because Jerry would be swimming with only his head out of water.

If he went to the Green Forest he would be sure to hear Unc' Billy Fossum's funny chuckle from some tree overhead and then Unc' Billy would say:

"Ah done hear say it fo' a fac'. Who runs away will sho' come back."

Then all Reddy could do would be to grind his teeth and tell Unc' Billy what dreadful things he would do to him if he ever caught him.

Now, of course, all that the little people of the Green Forest and the Green Meadows did these things for was to tease Reddy Fox. When he grew angry they laughed, and the angrier he grew the harder they laughed. Of course that wasn't at all nice of them. But they didn't stop to think of that. Not one of them loves Reddy Fox, and now that they had a chance to get even with him for all the frights he had given them, and for all the mean things he had done to them, they were just bound to make the most of it. You see it didn't enter their heads that they might be making trouble for some one else. All they thought of was making Reddy Fox feel miserable.

But it is not very often that you or I or anybody else can make trouble for just one person. Did you ever think of that? It's so. You go ask Jumper the Hare. All Jumper's friends were laughing at Reddy Fox, and shouting mean things at him and calling him a coward, because they knew it made Reddy feel uncomfortable and miserable. It didn't once enter their heads that they were making trouble for any one else. Yet they were. They were making a lot of trouble for some one else, and that some one was Jumper the Hare.

Trustworthiness

PEOPLE would try harder for trustworthiness if they knew how lovable a quality it is. When you know you can rely upon any one, that whatever they undertake to do will be done, that you can really pass over a share of your load to them, you cannot help liking them.

On the other hand, it does not matter how amiable men may be, if they are forgetful, if they are unpunctual, if they habitually neglect, they become sources of such annoyance that one's liking is apt to die out.—Sir William Robertson.

Watch Your Kidneys!

Help Them Cleanse the Blood of Harmful Body Waste

Your kidneys are constantly filtering waste matter from the blood stream. But kidneys sometimes lag in their work—do not act as Nature intended—fail to remove impurities that, if retained, may poison the system and upset the whole body machinery.

Symptoms may be nagging backache, persistent headache, attacks of dizziness under the eyes—a feeling of nervous anxiety and loss of rest and strength. Other signs of kidney or bladder disorder may be burning, scanty or too frequent urination.

There should be no doubt that prompt treatment is wise. Doan's Pills, Doan's have been helping new friends for more than forty years. They have a nation-wide reputation. Are recommended by grateful people the country over. Ask your neighbor!

Fashion's Triple-Threat

HERE'S something new in the way of triple-threats, Milady: This trio of smart contestants in the thrilling game of Sew-Your-Own! With all three in your wardrobe you'll know stadium style, classroom coquetry, and sorority chic (and when you know these well, Milady, you've come a long way). Best of all, you won't spend a king's ransom nor a "long stretch" in their making, thanks to the economy and simplicity of these modern Sew-Your-Owns!

Pattern 1353 is designed in sizes 36 to 52. Size 38 requires 4 1/2 yards of 39-inch material.
Pattern 1357 is designed for sizes 12 to 20 (30 to 40 bust). Size 14 requires 2 1/2 yards of 54-inch material.

Send your order to The Sewing Circle Pattern Dept., Room 1020, 211 W. Wacker Dr., Chicago, Ill. Price of patterns, 15 cents (in coins) each.

Sorority chic begins and ends in the boudoirs on the third floor. This highly tasteful smock (above left) is a sorority requirement of the first order. You may choose either the short length to work in or the long length to be lazy in. Both are worth their weight in gold—silk, crepe, gingham or silk print will substitute nicely.

Classroom Coquetry.

What if your knowledge of bugs or battles, or what have you, is limited? You can count on a certain coquettish smile and a certain smooth-lined frock (above center) to take you through any inquisition. It will put the stamp of approval on your appearance indelibly. Try your version in dull crepe or sheer wool.

Stadium Style.

Big moments come fast and furious when you're rooting for dear old Alma Mater, but you have to look the part to be one with that glamour and fun. Sew-Your-Own suggests its newest spectator dress just for this purpose—that you may look the part, feel the part and be on the winning side, no matter when or where the competition takes place.

The Patterns:

Pattern 1997 is designed in sizes 14 to 20; 32 to 44 bust. Size 16 requires 3 1/2 yards of 35-inch material.

Yes, Constipation Is Serious But It Can't Poison You!

Say Doctors

Modern doctors now say that the old idea of poisonous poisons in your blood from constipation is BUNK. They claim that constipation swells up the bowels causing pressure on nerves in the digestive tract. This nerve pressure in what causes frequent bilious spells, dizziness, headache, upset stomach, dull, tired-out feeling, sleepless nights, coated tongue, bad taste and loss of appetite.

Don't suffer hours or even days longer than necessary. You must GET THAT PRESSURE OFF THE NERVES TO GET HELP. Finish the intestinal system. When offending wastes are gone the bowels return to normal and nerve pressure STOPS. Admire at once your feel more lively, refreshed, blue vanish, and life looks bright again.

That is why so many doctors are now insisting on gentle but QUICK ACTION. That is why YOU should insist on Adierika. The efficient intestinal evacuant contains SEVEN cathartic ingredients. Adierika acts on the stomach as well as the entire intestinal tract. Adierika relieves stomach GAS at once and often removes bowel congestion in half an hour. No violent action, no after effects, just QUICK results. Recommended by many doctors and druggists for 35 years.

Home Heating Hints

By John Barclay
Heating Expert

IMPROPER adjustment of the turn (or smoke pipe) damper in your furnace results in "chimney" loss of heat. Leave this damper closed as nearly as possible without retarding free burning of fuel or causing gas to escape into the basement.

Once you have found the ideal adjustment for it, be sure you leave it in that position throughout the heating season. Do not attempt to use it from day to day to regulate your fire. It was never meant for that purpose. The only time you need move the Turn Damper is at the start of the very cold season and again at the start of the very mild season. These two times are necessary to meet the extreme changes in outdoor temperature.

Use only the Ashpit Damper and Check Damper for regulating the fire daily—to speed up or slow down the rate at which you want the fire to burn. Rely wholly on these two dampers, and you'll get the proper fire regulation. I repeat—do not change the position of the Turn Damper inside the smoke pipe. Otherwise you'll waste a lot of very valuable fuel and heat.
