Professor A. V. Teed Addresses Kiwanis Club

Speaker Points Out Crisis In Education Concerns All

Prof. A. V. Teed, substituting on one day's notice for another speaker, addressed the Kiwanis club last Monday noon on the subject: "The Crisis in Education." The crisis he referred to is one growing out of current financial conditions. With taxation an increasingly difficult problem, with family resources behind students depleted by depression, how are the schools to be maintained on an efficient basis?

Without particularly urging as his own any one proposal, Mr. Teed outlined the following suggestions which have been advanced from various quarters:

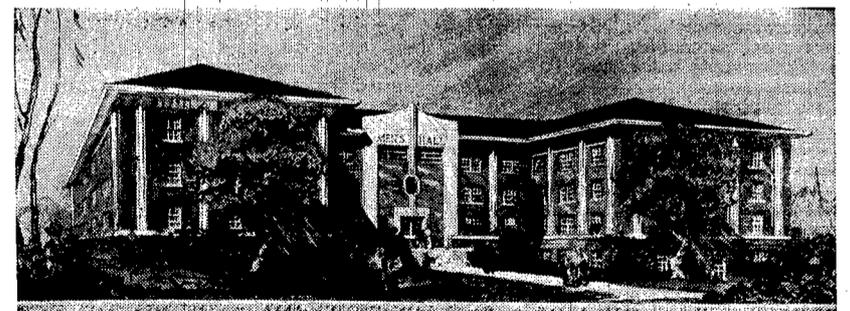

1. To revamp the entire tax system in Nebraska.
2. Federal Aid. The speaker said this would be welcome, but not at the price of Federal control of the schools within the state.
3. Special tax designated specifically for the schools.
4. A sales tax, the proceeds to be devoted to the maintenance of the schools. (Any sales tax of

52 New Students Enter S. T. College

Matriculation at Mid-year Shows 53 Per Cent Increase

Fifty-two additional students enrolled in Wayne State Teachers college at the opening of the second semester registering on Saturday and Monday. This is a 53 per cent increase over the number who entered mid-year last year, as there were 34 who enrolled at that time.

Of the number registering this year for the second semester of college work, exclusive of those in school the first semester and continuing, 30 are new matriculants.

Construction on S. T. C. Men's Hall to Begin March 1

The site for the proposed men's hall to be erected on the Wayne State Teachers college campus has been selected today as announced by the dormitory committee. The building will be located directly south of the gymnasium.

The hall has been designed by Grand Island, to harmonize with Grand Island to harmonize with the present buildings on the campus. The fireproof building will be of brick and reinforced concrete with the main entrance facade and stone ornamentation reflecting the modern influence in design.

Comptroller Andersen of the State Normal board states that these buildings are constructed without any cost to the taxpayers. The money has been borrowed from the Board of Educational Lands and Funds at a rate of 3 1/2 percent. The bonds are retired by the income from the rooms paid by students at the low rate of $1.50 each week.

Three girls dormitories on the Wayne campus have been constructed and financed in the same manner.

Construction of the proposed men's hall will commence March 1 and completion of the building has been set for September 1 for the opening of the school term. The cost of the new building will be $150,000.

The dormitory will contain 73 rooms planned to accommodate two students in each room, and these rooms will be equipped with built-in combination desks and bookcases, built-in chests of drawers, recessed lavatories, clothes closets and indirect lighting fixtures. In addition there will be five similarly equipped single rooms for monitors. In the basement will be a large recreation room, a kitchen, the necessary toilet rooms, storage and laundry rooms. The building will be heated with hot water.

Davidson Buys Paper at Jasper, Minn.

John G. Davidson, former editor of The Nebraska Democrat, Saturday purchased the Jasper Journal at Jasper, Minn. It is a weekly paper published in the heart of a rich farming area. Jasper is just beyond the dry land and residents of that vicinity claim they have never had a crop failure.

Tietgen Hatchery to Open for Business Saturday

The newly organized Tietgen Hatchery with Mr. and Mrs. Chris Tietgen as owners and managers will open for business Saturday. The hatchery is located in the former Wayne Creamery building. A formal opening will be held at a later date.

Meyer's Electric, Radio and Refrigeration shop will occupy the southeast corner of the building using the right door entrance. The left door entrance will be used for the hatchery.

Two all electric buckeye incubators with separate hatching areas being installed this week. The incubators have a total capacity of 33,000 eggs. The hatchery will also handle all kinds of feeds and poultry equipment.

All standard breeds of chicks will be hatched. Flocks are personally culled and blood tested for bacillary disease.

Mr. and Mrs. Tietgen need no introduction to Wayne and surrounding territory as they have been employed in a local hatchery for the past 7 years.

Pearl Sewell Attends County Superintendents Meet

Miss Pearl E. Sewell, county superintendent of schools, is attending a three-day conference of all county superintendents of the state which is being held in Lincoln today. The convention began Tuesday.

Among the guest speakers during the conference was Dr. Charles F. Dienst, deputy state superintendent, formerly county superintendent of the Wayne City schools, who talked on "Budgets for the Needs of Boys and Girls of Nebraska."

What is a soil conservation district? A soil conservation district is a legal subdivision of the state. The Nebraska Soil Conservation District Law creates the machinery by which such districts may be organized, in order that they be eligible to receive and expend funds made available through federal or state agencies for the conservation of soil and water.

Soil Conservation District

What are the steps in organizing a district? 1. Twenty-five or more landowners must sign a standard petition designating proposed boundaries for a district, and submit such petition to the State Soil Conservation Committee.

2. The State Committee shall, within 30 days after filing of the petition, give notice, and hold a hearing, at which all persons interested may be heard.

3. If the hearings indicate a demand for a district, the committee will determine definite boundaries for the district and give notice of a referendum, at which all landowners may vote for or against organizing the district. Seventy-five per cent or more of the votes cast must favor the organization of the district.

4. If the referendum vote carries, the State Committee appoints one supervisor who files with the Secretary of State an application to designate the district as a legal subdivision of the state.

5. Within the next 30 days,

The first story arrangement will include a large parlor with fireplace, a matron's apartment consisting of an office, living room, bedroom and bathroom. Also provided is an infirmary with kitchenette, private bath and nurse's room.

The second and third stories each will have the necessary bath and toilet rooms and two stairways so located as to properly divide the traffic between the different stories.

All stories will be served by an incinerator and by a freight elevator.

The exterior of the U-shaped building is faced with pressed brick, trimmed with gray limestone and the roof will be of asbestos shingles.

Throughout the work of design special attention has been given to the proper utilization of space, to the installation of modern conveniences and accessories and to all factors affecting the health and safety of the students.

Inquiries Show Growing Interest in CCC Camp

Kiwanis' Agricultural Committee Chairman Provides Information

Since publishing an article on what a CCC camp would mean to Wayne county farmers several weeks ago, many inquiries have been received relative to various details of the program which has sent the editor of The Nebraska Democrat scurrying for further information.

The information contained in this article is the result of interest taken in the project by the Kiwanis Club and was secured from Mr. I. J. Ahern, chairman of the Agricultural Committee. It is hoped that this information and any other which may be secured from time to time will help answer many of the questions arising in the minds of those interested in the soil erosion work carried on by the CCC camps.

Flood Control Funds

The federal government through the Army engineers has for years been working on a system of flood control along the Mississippi and other large rivers, dikes have been built which will hold back flood waters which reach a height of a second story. It is impractical to construct high dikes. Also it is apparent that unless the silt coming down from areas miles back of the flood zones is controlled much of the work and expenditures on the dikes will have been in vain because the silt raises the bed of the river which offsets the height of the dikes.

Appropriations made by the government are available for work to control this situation. It is at this point that funds are available for Soil Conservation and such funds as are spent will serve a dual purpose; flood control will be checked at its source and millions of acres of top soil will be saved to preserve farm resources. It will cost the farmer absolutely nothing. Some state funds will supplement Federal funds but no local funds will go into the work.

Before a CCC camp can be secured for this project in Wayne county a Soil Conservation District must be declared. The rest of this article will be devoted to the ways and means by which a district may be had.

Source of Funds

Where does the district get funds with which to operate? The district cannot levy taxes, make assessments, or issue bonds against any land within the district. The district will need to operate entirely on funds provided by the federal or state governments or through donations. At the present time these funds are likely to come entirely from federal sources. A portion of this money will come from flood control funds heretofore used entirely for building dikes and levees along the Mississippi river. Since the bed of the Mississippi is rising, due to the deposit of silt from farm land, it is now considered necessary to start controlling floods back on the land where the rain falls, and thus not only hold the water back where it will do good, but at the same time hold the soil on the land thus conserving soil fertility. This procedure will not only reduce flood peaks, but it will reduce the silting of stream beds, lakes, and reservoirs, and make downstream flood control more practical and less expensive.

Can the district impose any penalties on landowners who do not wish to cooperate?

Each landowner who is of age has one vote. Non-resident landowners who wish to vote by mail should request their ballots from the State Soil Conservation Committee, Agricultural College, Lincoln, Nebraska.

Who is on the State Committee? The law designates the Dean of the Agricultural College, the Director of Agricultural Extension, and the Director of the Conservation and Survey Division of the University.

How is the district governed? By five supervisors, one appointed for a term of 3 years by the State Committee and four elected by the landowners for a period of 4 years. Supervisors receive no compensation for their services, but are entitled to necessary expenses.

How will a district operate? Assistance to farmers in conserving soil and water will be chiefly through the services of engineers, agronomists, foresters, and soils men in laying out fields for contour farming, strip cropping, basin listing, pasture furrowing, terracing, building of dams, or whatever conservation practices the owner and the district agree are best suited to a particular farm. The district may own special equipment such as graders and tractors for terracing, bulldozers, tumble bugs, basin listers, and such other necessary equipment that the average farmer does not have.

A landowner who wishes to have work done on his land will apply to the district supervisors. The supervisors will direct the technical men to make careful surveys of the farm and to work out with the landowner a conservation plan adapted to that farm. In working out this plan, the supervisors of the district and the cooperating landowner will agree to do or provide certain things. The supervisors might ask that a memorandum of these provisions be drawn up so that there will be no misunderstanding.

Charity Event Nets $21 to Aid Children

Belden Townies defeated the Wayne town team in a nip and tuck battle Monday night on the auditorium floor with the final score ending at 36 to 31. Funds from this game will go to aid handicapped children in Wayne. Inclement weather cut the expected attendance but the committee is well satisfied with the proceeds which totaled over $21 clear.

In the volley ball between the College Faculty and Young Business men, each team won two games. Coach Hickman alternated between each team.

4 Rural Routes are Consolidated, Check Mail Boxes

New Route Ruling, New Schedules Becomes Effective Feb. 16

Orders have been received at the local postoffice from Harlie B. Bates, second assistant postmaster general of the division of rural mails of Washington, D. C., of the consolidation of the four Wayne routes into three. Only an extra mile had to be added to the three routes to consolidate them to a total of 129 miles.

The new routes become effective Feb. 16. By this date, all farmers must have their boxes properly placed. Mail will be returned to the office until the box is properly placed.

The consolidation absorbs route 4 of which the late Mr. Harry Perdue was carrier. Allen Perdue, regular substitute carrier, has been carrier on this route since May. He will be retained as regular substitute carrier.

A new time schedule will also become effective beginning Feb. 16. The carriers will leave the postoffice at 10 o'clock and return at 1 o'clock.

Route 1 with Carrier Frederick A. Milner covers 40 miles. Starting at the postoffice the carrier will go: N. 375 miles, W. 5, S. 1, E. 2, S. 2, E. 1, S. 1, W. 1, S. 1, E. 1, S. 1, W. 1, S. 2, W. 1, S. 1, E. 3, N. 3, E. 1, N. 1, W. 1, N. 1, E. 1, N. 1, W. 1, N. 1, W. 1, E. 2 and N. 125.

William J. Thielman, carrier in Route 2, will have a route of 44 miles. Receives 100 Per Cent O K of Kiwanians

Several Candidates In District Aspire for Judgeship Position

Attorney James E. Brittain received the unanimous endorsement of fellow Kiwanians in his candidacy for the position of District Judge of the Ninth Judicial District to succeed the late Judge Clinton Chase of Stanton. Attorney H. E. Siman made a forceful and dramatic presentation of Mr. Brittain's candidacy. The nomination was promptly acted upon and received the enthusiastic approval of the entire club with political party lines ignored at the noon day luncheon Monday.

Governor Roy L. Cochran will appoint a candidate to fill the unexpired term which ends 1940 from a field of several aspirants from Madison, Wayne, Stanton, and Knox counties. Other known aspirants for the position besides Attorney Brittain are P. H. Petersen of Wausa, M. S. McDuffy of Norfolk, Webb Rice of Norfolk.

Judge Chase Rites Held at Stanton

Wayne Attorneys Attend Service, Burial at Papillion

Funeral services for District Judge D. Clinton Chase of Stanton who died at an Omaha hospital Saturday were conducted Tuesday morning from the Congregational church of Stanton. Burial was made at Papillion. Several Wayne attorneys were in attendance at the service.

Judge Chase who had been in failing health for the past year came to the hospital in September.

Judge Chase was appointed to the bench of the Ninth Judicial District by Governor Charles Bryan to succeed Judge William V. Allen in 1924. Probably his most celebrated trial was that of Paul Wupper, one-time mayor and banker at Beemer, whom he sentenced to 110 years in prison for embezzlement.

Mr. Chase was a native of Papillion. He was a graduate of the University of Nebraska. Following his graduation he moved to Stanton in 1906 where he established his law practice until elevated to the bench.

He is survived by his widow, two daughters, Jeanette and Gale Jane of Stanton, one sister, Mrs. R. B. Armstrong and a brother, Grant Chase, both of Papillion.

Everything Ready for Gala President's Ball Monday

Infantile Paralysis, the disease which leaves in its wake crooked bodies, drooped shoulders, curvatures of the spine, contracted hands, arms, legs and feet will receive a staggering blow from an army of dollars which will flow from every corner of the nation as a result of the President's Birthday Ball.

Prepared to make Wayne's President's Ball the major event in Northeast Nebraska nothing has been left undone to make Monday night's affair one to be long remembered. The executive committee in this area is composed of the following personnel: Frank F. Korf, E. O. Stratton, Carl Nicolaisen, Henry Ley, R. K. Kirkman, Armand Hiscoc of Wayne; Elmer McGinnis and Tom Chittenden of Wisner; Robert Larson and Ray Wrench of Pilger; Adolph Wenche and Leon Carson of Stanton; R. R. Allison and J. W. Sullivan of Laurel; G. E. Barke and R. K. Draper of Belden; E. H. Sutherland of Randolph; F. S. Stege and Mr. Pessinger. These committeemen have spent several days selling tickets and perfecting final arrangements for the event.

Practically every agency in the nation has cooperated in the building up of the President's Birthday being celebrated to raise a fund to fight infantile paralysis. People all over the nation will anxiously await reports of the fund raised.

There is but one thing left to be done to make Wayne's President's Ball an outstanding achievement—and that is to come and join your friends at the dance Monday night in the City Auditorium.

After Middle Age, What?

Vocational adjustment seems to be the major problem of youth these days; vocational re-adjustment more frequently involves the middle aged and vocational termination faces the older person.

Society seems to have at least partially solved the problem for the aged with pensions. Vocational guidance and education is being expanded and wherever established and wisely administered will pay dividends to society and to the boys and girls as well. Adult education will aid many middle aged in solving the problem of making a living. But there seems to be an attitude of society which nullifies to a considerable extent the value of efficient training and even experience for the middle aged group.

Recently a lady said to me, "Have you ever considered how your wife would carry on in case you as a bread winner would be suddenly removed from the picture?" The ready answer was "yes," she would undoubtedly brush up on her education and re-enter teaching." The person who had put the question had gone through the identical experience. A frank outline of her prospects for re-entering teaching had been discussed with educational advisors and had resulted in some discouragement. Even with a background of several years teaching in A. school systems plus a modernizing course were apparently not sufficient to offset middle age. There is no one to blame teacher planning and employing bodies look primarily to the younger person. This situation faced by the middle aged group is not confined to the teaching profession but extends into every field of employment—even government positions. Nevertheless the problem constitutes a major catastrophe in the lives of many people and it will become more accentuated unless society can dispel the silly notion that a person at 40 with a thorough preparation and experience is of less value than a person with only preparation and a limited amount of experience.

Under the Smith Hughes Act Vocational Education has in hundreds of instances changed high school education from a mere college preparatory function to truly a Peoples University, where the local tax dollar is supplemented with Federal Government funds and a more practical training is given without sacrificing any of the older and conventional advantages.

It was our experience to have once studied the careers of 1,000 graduates of such a People University. That such an educational system had functioned efficiently is attested by the following facts: Seventy-four per cent of the high school graduates in agricultural vocations were graduates of the vocational agricultural course. During the early establishment of the course the percentage of those taking the course and making subsequent use of their training was much smaller than the 10-year average, but during the latter years when guidance had carefully selected the proper students for the vocational agricultural classes the percentage of those going into those vocations in the agricultural field were almost 100 per cent. A similar condition prevailed in the other vocational courses, that is, commerce, trades and industries, etc.

Reasonable Prosperity in 1938

In the "Voice of Business" number of the New York Sun recently, there was sufficient reading matter to keep one busy for the rest of the winter. It was an exceedingly interesting paper but one small article far outweighed the others. It was a short item by a business executive forecasting "Reasonable Prosperity for 1938." "It seems certain congress will remove many of the disturbing influences to business. It also is apparent that industry stands ready to eradicate any thought of political differences, to cooperate with government in re-establishing, rejuvenating, and regenerating, rejuvenating, and regenerating form of government which has made this country great. For this reason, and the fact that there is a very great unsatisfied demand for goods and services in all lines of business activity, I look for a period of reasonable prosperity for the year 1938," said the writer, William Withrow, president of Blaw-Knox Co.

During the past week President Roosevelt has devoted considerable time to conferences with leaders of business and industry. From newspaper comments of the president and the men conferred with it would seem that business and government are nearing the focal point where they will see eye-to-eye for the common welfare of the nation. The sooner this happens the more likely will 1938 become a year of "reasonable prosperity."

It is now obvious to the average citizen that politics has been the dominating influence in the so-called recession. It takes tax monies from republican citizens for a democratic administration to function. Republican business men can profit and prosper on money taken in from democrat citizens as well—so what? The conclusion for the government and business to work together like little judicial sense.

A Needed Experiment for Congressmen

Friday the 13th is the story of a Michigan Judge who really wanted to know how a recipient lived. He and his wife lived one week on the sum of $2, the amount apparently allowed a man and wife in the city of St. Joseph, Michigan, where Judge Hatfield lives. After his experiment the Judge wrote House Speaker Bankhead recommending that congressmen try the same experiment. The Judge saw a three-fold benefit in his recommendation: Congressmen would get a more sympathetic understanding of the underprivileged, it would enable them to reduce and it would result in less filibustering.

Candidate Field Barren

My fellow columnist, Mark Sullivan, staunchest of the G.O.P. publicists, even if he, no more than anybody else, knows what the C. O. P. stands for at this time, recently attempted a survey of the field of possible candidates. He dismissed Senator Vandenberg with a sentence, saw no hope among the few remaining Republican Governors, admitted that the House of Representatives is a barren field, went down among the Mayors and dismissed LaGuardia of New York because he had taken himself out of the Republican running by registering as a member of the American Labor Party—and finally came to this despairing conclusion: "It is at least a possibility . . . that the Democrats who believe in holding America to its traditions might find themselves cut off from their former allegiance . . . If this group should name a Presidential candidate from the abundant material they have—in such an event—the Republicans might find in this quarter the man they seem to lack within their own ranks."

Up to date, we have not read anywhere the reaction of any of these Democratic Senators to Mr. Sullivan's nomination.

Bygone Days

Jan. 1, 1904
 The Ben Hur lodge gave Mr. and Mrs. Berry a grand surprise party last night.

By the breaking of a telephone pole Tuesday afternoon, south of town, Billy Wills and Charles Hardenberg fell 15 feet to the ground and landed in a wire fence. Wills had his head cut quite badly by a barb, and Hardenberg was considerably bruised and rendered unconscious for some time.

F. E. Bell, an experienced telephone man from McHoreb, Wis., highly recommended by such men as Hon. H. P. Dale, banker at McHoreb, P. M. Hoffman, president of Cook county commissioners, and from cities that he has built, is here to take charge of the Independent Telephone exchange at this place. It is his intention to put in an up-to-date exchange in the city and rural lines throughout the country and to make connections with all independent companies in this and other states.

Mr. and Mrs. Charley Warner are here from Boise City, Idaho, for a few weeks visit.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Blumer of Shelby, Ia., are visiting Mrs. Blumer's parents for the holidays, Mr. and Mrs. Bargholz. A son was born to Rev. and Mrs. Birrel Wednesday.

Bill Larson left for Chicago last Saturday with six car loads of fat cattle, all but a portion of one car belonging to John Goss.
 Jan. 8, 1901

J. E. Abbott suffered quite serious injuries last Sunday being thrown off a load of hay he was hauling for his stock.
 The dates for farmers' institute in Wayne this year has been set for Feb. 5 and 6.
 Claude Hunter has been down from Minnesota visiting at the Ed Hunter home.
 Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Bressler and family left yesterday for Washington, D. C., and will spend a couple of months in the east.
 Mr. and Mrs. John Harder got home Tuesday night from their trip to Michigan.
 Last Sunday night, Adolph Dorman, who resides 10 miles southeast of Wayne suffered a heavy loss by fire losing his barn, five head of horses, harnesses and a lot of grain.
 The receipts of the Sons of Hermann masquerade Tuesday night were $105.
 Mrs. B. F. Swan is visiting in Pomeroy, Ia.
 Jan. 2, 1904

The bowling alley would not accommodate the crowd of sight-seers Tuesday afternoon to see Winside's crack bowlers play Wayne's invincibles. The visitors carried off honors by 40 odd pins in the first game but Wayne won out 283.

Dr. Leisenring will attend an automobile exhibition in Chicago next month and study the various machines with a view of purchasing the best serviceable vehicle in the market. The doctor finds an automobile a money-saving apparatus but won't be satisfied until he gets something that goes in mud, snow, or sunshine.

STOP! YOU'RE DRIVING ME CRAZY

I LOVE TO SEE THE CHILDREN HAVE A GOOD TIME

Which KIND OF MOTHER ARE YOU?

Do you "fly all to pieces" when the children are noisy, or when the jelly won't "jell"? Some mothers are just naturally cranky. Some mothers are cross and impatient because they are nervous.

If you are a natural crank, DR. MILES NERVINE won't do much for you. If you are irritable because your nerves are overtaxed, DR. MILES NERVINE will do a lot for you. Do you suffer from Sleeplessness, Restlessness, Nervous Irritability, Nervous Headache, or Nervous Indigestion? Do you worry over trifles, start at sudden noises? Overtaxed nerves will cause all these troubles, and DR. MILES NERVINE will help you to relax those overtaxed nerves.

Why don't you give it a trial on our guarantee of satisfaction or your money back? Your druggist can tell you about DR. MILES NERVINE. He has been selling it ever since he started clerking in a drug store. Dr. Miles Nervine comes in two forms—Liquid and Effervescent Tablets. Both equally effective in quieting overtaxed nerves. Both sell for 25¢ and $1.00 depending on the size of the package.

Your share of TELEPHONE TAXES has INCREASED 50% in 2 years

Taxes of this Company have increased 50 per cent since 1935. This means that the part of your telephone bill which goes for taxes is about one-half more than it was two years ago.

The cost of providing telephone service is increasing. Labor and material costs as well as taxes are substantially higher now than a few years ago. Charges for telephone service have not been increased to meet the increased costs. Total revenues of this Company in 1937 were about 5 percent less than in 1930.

Through improvements in equipment and methods of operation, we are doing everything we can to offset increasing taxes, wages and material costs and provide satisfactory service at present charges.

Brittain May Be Appointed Judge

(Continued from Page 1) folk, A. E. Weneke of Stanton, and Tim Grady of Stanton. Governor Charles W. Bryan appointed the late Judge Chase to the bench in 1924 to succeed Judge William V. Allen. It would be a valuable asset to Wayne to have one of its residents appointed as district judge, it was pointed out. Individual members of the Kiwanis club are sending telegrams to Governor Cochran urging him to place due consideration upon Mr. Brittain's candidacy. The late Judge A. A. Welch was district judge of the ninth judicial district for many years. Prior to his service, Judge Norris served on the bench.

Mr. Brittain was born in Wayne and grew to manhood here. He attended the city schools and is a graduate of the Wayne normal receiving his degree in 1912. In 1916 he received his A B degree from the University of Nebraska and two years later earned his M A degree. He has completed advance work in the School of Law.

Upon the death of his father in 1925, Mr. Brittain was appointed to complete the term as county judge. He did not run for re-election the following year. Mr. Brittain has served the city as attorney for more than eight years. After his graduation from the University Mr. Brittain was deputy collector in the Internal Revenue department, headquarters in Omaha.

Counties that comprise the ninth judicial district are Cumming, Stanton, Wayne, Madison, Pierce, Knox and Antelope.

Teed Addresses Kiwanis Club (Continued from Page 1) general character of course has the defect of placing the bulk of the burden on those least able to bear it.

Severance Tax, such as some states, like Wyoming, have on oil and Minnesota on iron. It is a question, said the speaker, whether Nebraska has anything upon which such a tax could be affixed.

A State Income Tax. To be adequate in this state, said the speaker, an income tax would have to include incomes in the lower brackets.

Mr. Teed disavowed any intention of offering a solution to the problem, but presented the various proposals for consideration, stating that it is a problem that concerns us all, and which it behooves us all to study. He did urge that some system of statewide distribution of school funds to equalize support and meet acute needs in certain localities is desirable. His presentation was clear, temperate and impartial.

Interest In CCC Camp Growing

(Continued from page 1) The law makes no mention of penalties. The legislators who enacted the Soil Conservation District Law insisted that cooperation with the district by individual landowners be strictly voluntary. If future legislation changes the law, will districts organized under the present law be affected thereby? The Attorney General states in substance as follows: "Retroactive laws may not be enacted where the effect is to disturb vested rights or impair the obligation of a contract. We would not expect the courts to sustain any such law."

To Include in District How may a farmer outside of a district get assistance? Individuals who have land adjoining a district may file a petition with the State Committee asking that their land be included in the district. If this petition is accepted by the committee, and if the number of landowners who signed the petition is less than 25, then their land becomes a part of the district. If there are 25 or more signers on the petition, their land can be included in the district only after a hearing and a referendum at which 75 percent of the votes cast favor inclusion in the district.

What is meant by land use regulation? The law provides that if at some future time the landowners of the district wish to vote upon themselves certain rules or regulations dealing with soil and water management, they may do so only after such rules are approved by 75 percent of the landowners voting at a referendum. In enacting the Soil Conservation Districts Law, the Nebraska legislators rejected a suggested section which provided for enforcement of such rules or regulations.

How can a district be dissolved? In favor of dissolution any time five years after the organization. Funds on hand return to the State Treasury after dissolution. The Kiwanis Club through its Agricultural Committee will gladly devote their services in any way to assist farmers in Wayne county to thoroughly familiarize themselves with this program. This newspaper will gladly solicit and devote its space to information on the subject.

"The Coming World Church" Discussed by Forum Audience

First of Public Forum Series Well Attended

The opening discussion of the series on "The Coming World Church" last Sunday night at the Wayne Methodist Church was attended with keen interest, and brought out two conceptions of the Nature of the Church, the one, the idea that the Church is constituted by individual Christians in voluntary association, the other, the conception of the church as a supernatural institution, above all other institutions in authority, essential to salvation and to the knowledge of God's will and the establishment of His kingdom.

Next Sunday evening the groups will discuss the social consequences of these two views; the difference they make in the functioning of the church in the face of modern problems. Such questions as the following will have consideration:

1. In the ideals and practices of its members, is your church like its community, or above the community levels?

2. To the extent that your church reflects the existing standards of the community, is it failing to "be the Church"? Should its requirements for membership be more exacting, or be made easier?

3. What is the Oxford Conference's standard for the dignity and authority of the church?

4. What will happen if the church here — and elsewhere — takes the full Oxford position: Will it lose members? Will it get into trouble with the community? With the state?

5. In determining how the church may "be the church" what is the responsibility of the layman? Of the minister?

Ministers and laymen of all churches are heartily welcome to take part in these discussions.

Twelve Clubs Complete Year's Work With 91 Members

The Wayne County 4-H Club committee met at the Court House Saturday afternoon, to make plans for 4-H work for 1938. An executive committee was elected with Lee Sellon as chairman; Mrs. Will Back, vice president; and C. H. Morris, secretary. Suggestions on Program of Work for 1938 were made by Guy Davis, assistant club leader of the College of Agriculture.

Twelve clubs were organized in 1937 with an enrollment of 107 of which 91 completed the work. In 1936, 19 clubs were organized with an enrollment of 140 showing 82 per cent completion. This is an increase in percentage of completion over 1936 but a decrease of enrollment.

Brief History of Wayne Firm

Thirty-three years ago, H. J. Felber established the Felber Pharmacy in its present building in Wayne. Mr. Felber came to Wayne in 1900 and was the druggist in the Raymond Drug store for three years. In 1903 he went to Laurel where he owned a drug store for two years. Then he returned to Wayne and established the Felber Pharmacy here. Mr. Felber is a graduate of the famous St. Louis College of Pharmacy. His son, Walden Felber, became associated with Mr. Felber in business in 1933 following his graduation from the College of Pharmacy of the University of Nebraska.

Recently, the prescription department has been rearranged and enlarged. The drug store has an unusually large stock of medicines and compounds to fill prescriptions.

Miss Aileen Agnew, student at Wayne State Teachers college, is a part time employe.

Rites Held for Winside Lady

Mrs. Harry Hornby Succumbs at Her Home Friday

Funeral services were held for Mrs. Harry L. Hornby of Winside Monday afternoon from the Methodist church. The Rev. A. E. Fowler of Belden and the Rev. R. L. Williams of Carroll officiated. Burial was in Pleasant View cemetery. She was 76 years old. Mrs. Hornby whose maiden name was Katherine Irene Jones was born at Trenton, N. Y., Nov. 1, 1861. When she was 6 years old she came with her parents to Louisa County, Iowa. While there, her mother died. In 1892, she came with her father to Winside. She was married to Harry L. Hornby Sept. 26, 1904. They lived on a farm 3 1/2 miles south of Winside. Her father died at their home Dec. 5, 1906. Later Mr. and Mrs. Hornby moved to Venango where they lived nine years. They returned to Winside where they have since resided. She is survived by her husband, five sisters, Mrs. Mary Long, of Huron, S. D., Maggie Jones of Emerson, Ia.; Mrs. Anna Jones of Carroll, Mrs. Tillie Griffith of Denver, Colo., and Mrs. Eunice Jones of Omaha. One sister and her only brother, preceded her in death. During the service a quartette composed of Mrs. Edwin Ulrich, Mrs. H. L. Neely, Ivor Morris, and Clifford Imel sang, accompanied by Mrs. A. T. Chapin. Pallbearers were Fred Miller, Charles Needham, Herman Flee, Henry Trautwein, William Brune, and G. A. Mittelstadt.

FARMERS ARE URGED TO KEEP RECORD BOOK

1,800 Farmers in State Record Business Transactions

With another year confronting Wayne county farmers, interest in farm accounting is increasing locally. The project is steadily growing due to the basic information which the books provide for use in answering many of the economic questions puzzling every farm operator.

Last year a total of 1,800 different farmers in the state cooperated with the agricultural college extension service in keeping the books. The books now are being closed and new ones placed for 1938. A total of 13 farmers here kept books in the project in 1937.

Farm records have been obtained by the agricultural college for a great many years. Under the present system, the farmer keeps his own record. He is provided with a convenient book to record his business transactions for the year and is given assistance in getting the record started and in closing it.

Summaries by counties or areas are prepared and average figures obtained for different factors having a bearing upon profitable farming operations. Copies are prepared for each cooperator on which are listed his figures, conveniently arranged for ready comparison with average figures obtained from his own county and also with average figures for the one-third most profitable farms in the group and the one-third least profitable farms.

By such records and analyses the attempt is made to obtain data which will answer such questions as these: What size farm is most profitable? What is a reasonable labor cost per acre? What would be a reasonable cost for the use of power and machinery per acre in crops?

Wayne county farmers interested in keeping books for 1938 can get full information from the Farm Bureau office.

Home Butchering Season Here

The season is here for home butchering of beef and pork and some Wayne county farmers having stock available are laying in a supply of meat for the coming year.

Both hogs and beef to be killed for farm use should be thrifty and healthy. Any animal that is off feed should never be used for meat. A very desirable type of hog to use is one weighing from 200 to 250 pounds. A nicely finished baby beef weighing from 800 to 900 pounds furnishes a weight carcass for farm use. The carcass from this size animal will weigh in the neighborhood of 450 to 500 pounds, thereby giving quarters weighing a little over 100 pounds which are fairly easy to handle.

Far experience and experimental work indicates that butchering of both hogs and beef should be done when the weather is fairly cold. The night temperature should be around 30 degrees or lower in order that the carcass may be properly chilled.

Various methods of curing meat are described in Extension Circular 226 which is available on a charge at the Farm Bureau office.

Produces Pork at Low Feed Cost

Henry Wiemers, Jefferson county farmer, is a person who not only is interested in determining the better adapted grain sorghums varieties for his community but also in knowing how the grain can best be fed to hogs. Last fall he found, under existing conditions, that Sooner Milo planted alongside of corn yielded much heavier grain production.

Now Wiemers is determining the relative feeding value of sorghum grains. After feeding ground oats and a supplement to pigs for some time, he changed the feeding schedule utilizing Sooner Milo as 50 per cent of the grain ration along with 50 per cent ground oats and supplement.

Preliminary results reveal that shoats gained up to two pounds daily, self-fed. In addition to rapid gains, with ground oats figured at 35 cents per bushel and Milo at $1 per cwt., the cost of grain has been as low as 4 1/2 cents per pound. Some of the shoats weighed up to 190 pounds at the age of 5 months. Wiemers, according to Agricultural Agent Rediger of Jefferson county, is not only interested in trying to grow crops which will pull through some unfavorable weather conditions, but also is concerned with keeping his cost of pork production as low as possible.

Keepin Soil New Can be Done

Contour Farming Prevents Erosion, Builds Up Organic Matter

While many farmers are concerned with the problem of building up worn out soil, E. M. Larsen, Sherman county farmer, is completing plans for keeping new land new.

Larsen has under his control 624 acres of land, 314 acres of which he owns and 310 acres he leases. On his own land the fields are practically virgin soil, the native soil having been broken only in recent years. Keeping the soil new and productive is his greatest concern, for about him is the ever-present reminder of erosion on fields that have been unprotected against the ravages of beating rain and soil-removing winds.

By contour farming, the use of buffer strips, cover crops, and by returning to the soil sufficient crop residues, Larsen plans to retain sufficient quantities of organic matter in his soil.

Soil containing the right amount of organic matter, he says, is able to absorb and hold much moisture and is not left open to erosion.

A member of the Sherman County Soil Conservation Association, Larsen is cooperating with the Ravenna Soil Conservation service camp in conservation practices on his land. With this assistance he planted 3,400 trees last spring to tie in with other erosion control practices. Aside from his cultivated fields, Larsen has 107 acres of native grass sod on his farm.

Name Cham in State 4-H Clubs

Four Counties Have Winning Stock, Poultry Groups

Four state champion 4-H clubs in Nebraska for 1937 were named today. The announcement was made from the University of Nebraska college of agriculture signaling the conclusion of the club year and the opening of the 1938 program. The champion clubs:

- Baby Beef: Ideal Feeders, Box Butte county
- Dairy: Marietta Dairy Hustlers, Saunders county
- Swine: Walton Pig Club, Lancaster county
- Poultry: Honey Creek Club, Holt county

Special trophies were awarded to the champions by the Gooch Milling company of Lincoln. All organizations have been active in community affairs and have participated in demonstrations, judging and other 4-H activities.

It is an interesting story behind the state champion Walton Pig Club of Lancaster county. For four consecutive years, it has won the state title. The club was organized in 1922 and has carried on continuously since that time. George Maahs, former club member, is the leader.

The group has established a reputation for producing well-bred hogs and have found a ready market for their gilts and boars. Through the club, farmers in the neighborhood have learned more about hog lot sanitation, the need for cholera vaccination and other improved practices.

Despite feed shortages and resulting high prices, members of the Ideal Baby Beef club in Box Butte county established a remarkable record in 1937. The club, sponsored by the Hemingford Lions club and organized in "Zestful" is the word for appetizers—and every year, more and more women are learning the value of serving a small plate of these tasty little tidbits before dinners. In fact, so attractive are the modern containers that the present trend is to serve these "zest givers" right in the glass packages in which they are bought. Light, sharp and tangy, they put a keen edge on flagging appetites, and add zest to the whole meal.

Pickles, olives, anchovies, caviar—all of these make excellent appetizers. It is not necessary to buy them in large quantities. A small bottle of each kind is better, and an attractive array of colorful appetizers, gleaming in their glass jars, will add zest to the table, as well as to the taste. Then a moment's glance at the array of attractive glass containers advises the hostess as to exactly what "appetite-tickers" she has on hand. Get the appetizer habit! You'll find it adds zest to your meals!

Mixed Canapés

Cut stale bread into squares, circles, strips, triangles, crescents or any desired shapes. Toast or sauté on one side, and spread toasted side with highly seasoned mixture, such as finely minced sardines and lemon juice, chopped parsley in butter, caviar and minced onion, olives and cheese, pâté de foie gras. Garnish each canapé with border (chopped hard-cooked egg, cream cheese, minced olives, or other suitable mixtures). Decorate centers as simply or elaborately as desired with appropriate garnishes, such as pimiento stars, green pepper, fillets of anchovy, grated cheese, mayonnaise, sliced olives, truffle, etc. Serve on individual plates as first course of dinner, or pass on tray for buffet suppers.

Hot Mayonnaise Puffe

1 cup mayonnaise
1 egg white, stiffly beaten
Canapé crackers
Fold mayonnaise into egg white gently but thoroughly. Pile on crackers and toast under broiler 1 minute, or until delicately browned and puffed. Arrange on platter.

Holiday Relish

6 cloves
1 pint boiling water
1 package lemon-flavored gelatin
1/4 teaspoon salt
1/2 cup vinegar
12 sliced maraschino cherries
6 sweet pickles, sliced
Boil cloves in water 3 minutes. Strain. Dissolve gelatin in 1 1/2 cups of this liquid. Add salt and vinegar. Chill. When slightly thickened, fold in cherries and pickles. Turn into individual molds. Makes 12 half-molds.

the Marshall Ross feed lots. Wayne county farmers planning on increasing their sorghum acreage in 1938 will be particularly interested in the demonstration. A free lunch will be served at noon with the afternoon meeting in Gibbon. Leonard Weinzl, Buffalo county agricultural agent, is in general charge of the program.

Snow Utilized to Irrigate Trees

Wayne County Farmers Make Application for Clarke-McNary Trees

An improvised snow fence, to catch snow which may fall yet this winter, is advocated for Wayne county farmers intending to plant trees this spring for windbreak purposes. Located on the north and west of the area to be planted, the fence will conserve moisture from falling snow.

The suggestion of a snow fence came this week from Clayton W. Watkins, senior extension forester at the Nebraska college of agriculture, as farmers continued to show interest in securing Clarke-McNary trees for spring planting. The seedlings are available through the Farm Bureau office.

To date Wayne county producers have made application for 2,600 Clarke-McNary trees. They are being urged to file their applications as soon as possible while the supply of seedlings is available. The trees are distributed in the spring.

Three or four feet of heavy snow held on plowed or listed fields will add approximately as many inches of moisture to the soil when it melts, Watkins says in advocating the snow fences. This method of increasing soil moisture is important even at this late date because there is very little frost in the ground.

The fence can be slat cribbing, brush or even a windrow of straw, hay or weeds. A snowdrift held by such an obstruction will usually remain there and not be blown away by the winds that too often sweep open fields clean of snow.

Present soil moisture conditions justify the use of every type of moisture conservation. The area which is to be planted for windbreaks is usually small

IMPORTS NOT ALWAYS ADVERSE TO FARMER

Crop Prices Govern Importation of Farm Products

Quoting statistics for over a period of years, Arthur George, extension economist at the Nebraska college of agriculture, said this week it is when prices are higher in the country and low in other countries that importations of agricultural products are favorable.

Available figures indicate higher importations of beef cattle and hogs during the last two or three years over what occurred four or five years preceding were due to the natural run of events. They should not be interpreted as being detrimental to the best interests of Nebraska beef producers.

Pork imports during 1937 totaled 62 million pounds. Pork exports though were 72 million pounds and lard exports 101 million pounds. There seems to be nothing in the import figures to warrant any worry on the part of Nebraska hog producers to the extent that they are having any adverse effect on prices received for hogs marketed. The United States normally exports much more wheat than it imports. During the three years beginning on July 1, 1933, though importations were much larger than during the seven years preceding, George points out. During these last three years wheat exports were much less than those for the early years of this period but production was much less and consumption about the same. It apparently was an advantage to American consumers to bring in some wheat from abroad in order to take care of the demand which existed in this country.

Corn importations since 1924 greatly exceeded the amounts exported. In 1934 over two million bushels were imported and 20 million bushels were exported. Total corn imports in 1936 just about equalled the 1937 corn crop produced in Nebraska. However, they were insignificant when compared with the normal amount of corn produced in the United States and the fact that consumers in this country could obtain corn from abroad apparently was an advantage rather than a disadvantage to the country as a whole.

TODAY'S RECOMMENDED RECIPE

REMEMBER THIS OLD TIMER?

Did your mother used to make Crumb Cake? A tender spiced molasses concoction in a square pan with buttery little lumps of spicy sweetness over the top? These little lumps were the "crumbs," of course. Doubtless your mother, like all good old-fashioned cooks, used to work the butter into the flour and spice and sugar with her deft nimble fingers. It took practice to handle the crumbs so quickly and lightly. Now there are pastry blenders to do this work. Or two knives—one in each hand—can be manipulated like scissors. These new devices with a modern accurate tried and true recipe make it possible for the youngest and most inexperienced of cooks to produce a Crumb Cake that looks and tastes—and smells as enticingly delicious as those of long ago that used to fill the house with their cozy spicy fragrance.

Here is a modernized recipe for just such an old time Crumb Cake:

- 2 1/2 cups cake flour
- 2 cups all-purpose flour
- 1 cup sugar
- 1 tsp. cloves
- 1 tsp. nutmeg
- 1 tsp. cinnamon
- 1/2 tsp. salt
- 1/2 cup butter
- 1 egg
- 2 tbsp. molasses
- 1 cup-sour milk or buttermilk
- 1 tsp. soda

Sift flour once before measuring. Sift flour, sugar, spices and salt together. Cut in butter, working it in until you have a fine crumb mixture. Save 1/2 cup of this mixture for top of cake. To the remainder add the beaten egg, molasses and sour milk to which the soda has been added. Mix thoroughly and pour into well greased and floured pan. Sprinkle top of cake with reserved crumb mixture, and bake 35 minutes in a moderate oven, 350° F. Size of Pan: One 8-inch square cake pan.

Question: I always have trouble lately with bread cracking open at the sides while baking and would like to know what causes this.

Answer: Not letting the bread rise long enough is one cause. It should rise until just double in bulk the first time, and until 1/2 its bulk the second time. The crack on the side could also be the result of imperfect molding of the loaf. To shape the dough into a loaf we first flatten it out into an oblong shape, pressing out all the air. Work quickly with closed fists, back of fingers on dough. Fold dough in half and flatten again (pressing out all air). Lift dough by ends and pull, slapping center of dough on table several times to elongate the dough. Bring the two ends to center, overlap them and seal well with knuckle. Take hold of further edge of long side and fold dough over 1/2 of way toward you and seal well. Fold dough over another 1/2 of way and seal and fold again to edge nearest you. Seal again and roll to tighten. Seal each end. Put into greased pans of correct size. If your pan is too small it will crack. Or, too hot an oven might be the cause. We use a hot oven, 450° F., for first 15 minutes, then reduce the heat to quick moderate oven, 385° F., to finish baking. Of course, a spreaded-looking roughness on one side of the loaf is one of the earmarks of a good loaf of bread.

Question: Can cake batters be baked in shallow loaf pans when the recipe states that it is to be baked in layers? The reason I want cake recipes for shallow pans is because I haven't time to make layer cakes—and I get more servings out of the shallow cake than when it is in layers. And, too, it's less bother and time.

Answer: Yes, layer cakes may be baked in shallow loaf pans. We give directions on some of our recipes that either two 8-inch round layer pans may be used or one 8 by 12 inch loaf pan. You'll also find that the batter for two 8-inch round layer pans will fill an 8-inch square pan that's two inches deep.

Question: Why does a cake crack all to pieces in the oven?

Answer: These deep "cracks" in your cake may be the result of too hot an oven (we use 350° F., moderate oven for most layer and loaf cakes and a 325° F., slow moderate oven for angel foods and sponge cakes). Too much flour is another cause of these cracks. Be sure that you sift your flour once before measuring and then spoon it lightly into a standard half pint measuring cup—being careful not to shake the flour down in the cup. Then level off the top with a straight knife. Baking the cake too near the top of the oven likewise could cause these cracks. Ovens differ, of course, but as a rule a 1/2 inch below the center of the oven is considered the best position for the grate on which a cake is to be baked. Over-baking is another possible cause of your trouble.

If you worry about what to serve, if you dread to start the next meal, just drop a card to Betty Crocker in care of your newspaper, and ask for this week's menu. "Smeed" to Deems Taylor, or From Cub to Composer

By Daniel I. McNamara

DEEMS TAYLOR, A.S.C.A.P., radio commentator on important musical programs, erstwhile journalist, music critic, raconteur and student, is becoming more and more identified with American grand opera.

Taylor's versatility finds expression in many branches of artistic effort. Journalist, critic, linguist, artist with brush and pen, photographer, author, public speaker, radio commentator, he has obscured the brilliance of other achievements by the quality of his musical composition. He is a director of the American Society of Composers, Authors and Publishers, and an active member of several of its important committees.

Seed Situation is Reviewed by F.B.

Bureau Warns Against Buying Unadapted Seed

With Wayne county farmers beginning to think already about spring planting of crops, attention is increasing on the available and prospective prices. The situation is unfavorable as it relates supply of seeds of various kinds to some crops and favorable for other crop seeds.

There apparently, said Agricultural Agent, Walter Moller, this week, is a good supply of sorghum seed. Prices are reasonable.
 Even certified seed of such superior varieties as Atlas Sarge is selling at prices much below last year.

Legume seed supplies in general though are short. Prices are high. Alfalfa seed is the highest in 18 years with a very limited supply of good northern grown adapted seed. The fact that southwestern states harvested a fairly good seed crop does not materially help the situation here since seed of southern origin is not adapted to growing conditions in northern states.

With the seed shortage and high prices, Wayne county farmers will do well to be on the lookout for unadapted seed such as comes from the south. Also for imported seed, adaption of which is questionable. The imported seed though is easy to recognize because of staining requirements.

Red clover, white clover and alsike clover seed prices are very high also. Supplies of sweet clover seed are somewhat more plentiful this year but prices will be high because of the shortage of other legume seeds. Many farmers will probably use sweet clover where normally they would plant alfalfa.

Grass seed supplies are in general plentiful than for several years. The supply of bluegrass is unusually good and the price relatively low. Bromegrass seed, the most highly recommended grass for Nebraska pasture purposes, is not plentiful but in sympathy with the lower prices of other grass seeds, the price is materially below last year. Because of the lower grass seed prices, there will undoubtedly be a tendency among farmers to use more grass seed in their mixtures and relatively less legumes than they would ordinarily.

Carroll Lady Dies at Age of 81
Service Is Conducted Tuesday for Mrs. Wineland
 Funeral services for Mrs. Mary Jane Cronk Wineland of Carroll who died in a local hospital here Friday were conducted from the Methodist church Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock with the Rev.
 Allen Magill in charge. Burial was in the Carroll cemetery. Mrs.
 Wineland who had been ill for several weeks died of complications due to old age. She was 81 years old.

Mrs. Wineland was born at Le-Grand, Ia., July 21, 1856. She was married to Bert Wineland on Feb. 22, 1877 at Avoca, Ia. Her husband preceded her in death.
 They moved from Avoca two years later to a homestead in Kansas. Ill health of Mr. Wine-land caused them to move to Carroll in 1890.

She is survived by a daughter,
 Mrs. Della Mae Wagner of Spokane, Wash., a grandson, Clarence Ward, of Minnesota, three brothers in Illinois, and six other grandchildren in Washington. A daughter, Estella, died in infancy.
 Hiscox funeral service was in charge.

Large Percentage of Trees Survive That trees will grow when given proper care has been shown definitely by Nebraska 4-H forestry club members. They planted 51,448 Clarke-McNary seedlings in 1937. Of this number, 55.6 percent survived.

Earl G. Maxwell, junior extension forester at the Nebraska college of agriculture, says a large number of 4-H clubbers were able to get a survival of 90 per cent or better. Three brothers, Donald, Bernard and Edward Collins of Box Butte county had a survival of 95 per cent on yellow pines. The trees were not watered except when planted.

In the meantime, Wayne county farmers continue to show interest in securing Clarke-McNary trees for farmstead planting in 1938. The seedlings are distributed by the Wayne County Farm Bureau at a minimum cost to growers. Applications for the trees can be had at the office in Wayne.
