

Discuss Function and Merits of Vocational Agriculture

State Director Clements Speaks at High School Monday

Mr. L. D. Clements, supervisor of agriculture education of state department of vocational education, exhibited pictures and explained the advantages and the procedure for securing a department of vocational agriculture for schools before a group at the high school Monday night.

There are 86 schools in Nebraska operating under the provisions of the Smith-Hughes act. This act was passed by congress something like a score of years ago. Vocational agriculture instructors, according to the terms of this law, are paid 50 per cent by the local district and 50 per cent by the government. The instructor's mileage allowance in visiting the home projects of the boys is shared one-third by the local district and two-thirds by the government.

Wakefield, Ponca, Randolph, Laurel, and West Point are some of the schools in this section of the state that have had vocational agricultural departments for the past several years. They offer three years of agricultural training and in each of these three years the course in agriculture constitutes one-half the complete school time work of the boys enrolled. They graduate at the end of their four years in high school prepared to go on with the work of farming, as trained men. The credits they make in the school courses are accepted by colleges, in case they decide on entering college.

Enrollment City Schools Smaller

Number of Students Enrolled Totals 458 to Date

Four hundred and fifty-eight students are enrolled in the grades and high school of the Wayne City schools at the present time, it was announced today by school authorities. Four hundred and ninety-five students were enrolled during the school year with several students moving to other towns and transferring their school credits to other high schools of the state.

The present high school enrollment totals 221 students. Eighty-nine students are enrolled in Junior high. The grade school enrollment totals 148 pupils.

Enrollment in the kindergarten and twelve grades is as follows: Kindergarten, 20; first grade, 28; second, 24; third, 27; fourth, 25; fifth, 24; sixth, 20; seventh, 32; eighth, 37; ninth, 68; tenth, 61; eleventh, 52; and twelfth, 40 students.

Sixth Grade Pupils Organize Hobby Clubs

Sixth grade pupils of the college training school have organized hobby clubs. Jean Ann Sharer is chairman of the cooking and sewing club, Franklin Bressler is chairman of the handicraft club, and Billy Mildner of the game club.

Members of the cooking and sewing club are Norma Jean Grant, Bernetta Schroeder, and Margaret Ream. Hand craft members include Burrell Hughes, Mickey Gillespie, Richard Chinn, Merlin Finn, John Thiel, Frank Perkins, and Lawrence Smith.

The sixth grade has completed its unit of work on the early west movement. The three large posters of free hand drawings depicting the movement are on exhibit. The pupils have named their exhibit, "How the Settlers Moved Westward." Miss Levery Beaks and Miss Marie Morelock were the student instructors in charge.

Plan Collective Farm Exhibit

Fair Board Appoints Committee to Discuss Precinct Plan

A new plan of making agricultural exhibits is being considered by the executive board of the Wayne county fair association it was brought out at their meeting Friday night.

Plans which are now being discussed are for a collective exhibit from each precinct in such a manner as county exhibits are handled at the state fair. This will undoubtedly prove to be an attractive display and should increase the interest in agricultural exhibits at the county fair.

The Wayne county Farm Bureau, Farmers Union of the county and other organizations indicated that they would cooperate with the fair board in working out such a plan. Through these organizations an effort will be made to increase interest in each precinct and to set up an organization and to collect and display the exhibits from each precinct. Exhibits made in the precinct display will also be entered in the open class. The collective display will then be entered in the precinct competition. Attractive premiums will be made in both the open class and for the precinct displays.

Along with the agricultural exhibits renewed interest in live stock and other exhibits will help make the Wayne county fair one of the best in the state. Each farm family within the county should consider it their duty to take an interest in the fair and begin planning exhibits which they might make in all classes for which premiums will be offered by the fair association. Detailed plans will be outlined and made public at an early date to allow everyone to make their plans for the fair.

The committee on agricultural exhibits are R. F. Roggenbach, chairman; A. C. Sydow, Abe Dorman, William Von Seggern, and Walter Moller. Others at the meeting were Harry Craven, Kollie Ley, Walter Savidge, Fred Baird, Phil Damme, Will Peters, William Roggenbach, and William Biermann.

Wayne Drops Two Games to Chadron

The long road trip to Chadron proved disastrous to Wayne's basket ball championship hopes when the Wildcats dropped two conference games to Chadron on their floor Friday and Saturday nights. With these two victories to their credit, Chadron moved up to second place in the N. I. A. A. basket ball standings.

In Friday's encounter, Chadron won in the last five minutes when Forward Armstrong and Carmine went on a scoring spree and mounted a nice margin over the Wildcats. Guards Bradford and Retzlaff were ejected from the game in the final three minutes.

Bob Cunningham was high point man for Wayne, scoring 13 counters.

Chadron was challenged to a nip and tuck battle Saturday gaining only a one point win margin over the Wildcats.

Wayne will meet Peru on their home floor here Friday night in a conference encounter.

DELEGATION WILL URGE WORK ON HIGHWAY 15

Will Go Before Highway Commission at Lincoln on Saturday

H. B. Craven, Kiwanis chairman of the good road committee, stated today that a delegation will travel to Lincoln Saturday in four cars for an appointment with the state highway commission at 9 o'clock. The delegation will join other delegations in urging the commission to begin work at the earliest date on state highway 15 north of Wayne to highway 20.

A meeting of the group going to Lincoln will be held at Craven's hardware Friday morning at 9 o'clock.

City Directory Out Saturday

Boy Scouts Will Deliver Directory on Lincoln's Birthday

It's a triple good deed the Boy Scouts will do Saturday. They will deliver Wayne's first city directory to residents, they will be doing a civic deed on Lincoln's birthday and thirdly they will add a few shekels to their summer camp fund.

Recipients of the directory are urged to take care of their directory because it will prove serviceable and another copy will not be available.

The publishers wish to thank residents and businessmen for their co-operation in making the directory possible.

Wenke Appointed Ninth District Judgeship

Governor R. L. Cochran appointed Adolph Wenke of Stanton Saturday to succeed the late Clinton Chase as district judge in the Ninth district. His term will expire January 1, 1941.

The new judge has practiced law in Stanton for 14 years. He took over the practice of Judge Chase when the latter was appointed district judge in 1924.

Mr. Wenke is 40 years of age and is a democrat. He was granted his degree from the school of law of the University of Nebraska in 1923 and is a former Cornhusker football star and ex-serviceman. He is president of the school board at Stanton.

Mr. Wenke was appointed from a field of several aspirants.

Conservation District is Sponsored by Farm Bureau

Former Hoskins Girl Dies Sunday

Miss Lucille Ruhlow of Norfolk, formerly of Hoskins, died Sunday night of injuries received January 9 in an automobile accident six miles northeast of Norfolk.

Miss Ruhlow, 17-year-old high school senior, suffered a fractured skull, broken collarbone and other injuries in the accident. She was in a hospital for more than two weeks and was thought to be recovering. She had been dismissed from the hospital about a week ago. On Sunday she suffered a relapse and was taken back to the hospital.

Miss Ruhlow's parents are Mr. and Mrs. William Ruhlow of Chicago, formerly of Hoskins.

25 Land Owners Names Necessary to Present Plea to State

The Wayne county Farm Bureau will sponsor a petition for the organization of a soil conservation district within Wayne county. The decision was made at the meeting of the board of directors Friday. T. P. Roberts and Lee Sellon are acting as the committee on soil and water conservation and will have charge of the preparation of material for the organization of this district.

A petition will be prepared within the near future and will be circulated to secure the necessary signatures before being presented to the state committee. It is necessary to secure the signatures of at least 25 land owners on the petition before being presented to the state committee.

Open Dorm Bids March 12-14

Lands and Funds Board Reduces Interest Rate to 3 Per Cent

Bids on dormitory buildings on the Wayne and Chadron State Teachers college campuses will be opened March 12 and 14 at Lincoln.

Board of Educational Lands and Funds voluntarily reduced the interest rate of 3.4 per cent to 3 per cent on money borrowed by the Nebraska State Teachers college for construction of campus dormitories. This interest reduction is a substantial saving to the college. The interest rate on outstanding bonds has been 3 1/2 per cent and the Lands and Funds board reduced the interest rate to 3 per cent also. The 3 1/2 per cent interest rate had been set on money loaned to finance the construction of the new men's dormitory.

Those interested in the details of the organization may receive further information by contacting the Farm Bureau office.

The honor list students are as follows: Seniors: Verna Carlson, Arthur Gulliver, Arlene Griffith, Robert Hickman, Larhyla Whitmore.

Juniors: Carol Anderson, Glenn Geise, Katherine Kyl, Homer Seace, Robert Dale.

Sophomores: Marie Kirwan, Lauretta Manke, Constance Owen, Jeanette Riley, Leona Springer.

England is Balance Wheel, Utterback

"England is the balance wheel of Europe and she has taken repeated slaps from Mussolini to keep Europe and the whole world from plunging into another world war," said Major W. G. Utterback of Nebraska City at the Business and Professional Women's department of the Wayne Woman's club dinner party Monday evening at Hotel Stratton. One hundred and twenty-eight members and guests were present.

Major Utterback who attended the International Legion convention at Paris, France, "freelanced" in Europe during most of his three months tour visiting relatives and old friends whose acquaintance he made during the World War. He did not frequent the red light avenues of traffic and sight-seeing and his questions did not receive the stock answers given tourists. Chatting around the fireside with an old German acquaintance who was the influential man of the village, Mr. Utterback had many of his questions about Germany answered truthfully and sincerely rather than receiving answers the German people are told to say and do because of fear of punishment. He stated that in German Nazi propaganda is instilled so soundly that the German people say anything they are told to say.

Mr. Utterback's German acquaintance in answer to the question, "What do you think about Hitler?" said that in the magnificent buildings, fine highways, and excellent youth movement, Hitler has done more than any other man since the beginnings of German history. "But he is a madman!" "All the recent German progress seems to lead to war and then where is the profit gained if another war is the destruction of Germany?"

All through France and along the German-France border are evidences of an intensive and extensive preparation for war. Shellproof caverns, miles of barbed wire fences to be erected at a moments notice, and the constant maneuverings of French divisions on the borders of France all ominously spell war. And the French government because of lack of funds must manage state affairs on a day to day budget. The French people have the money but the government hasn't. Frequent revolutions do not instill confidence in the government and the French are hiding and hoarding their money rather than spending it in new industries.

Throughout the continent and England, hatred of the neighboring countries permeates all thinking and conduct of Europe's peoples.

The Business and Professional Women's department dinner invitations to several Wayne service clubs. Representatives of the Wayne Kiwanis club, American Association of University Women, Minerva club, American Legion, Young Business Men's club, American Legion Auxiliary, and Wayne Woman's club.

Apportion State School Funds

84 School Districts to Share in Fund Totalling $3,651,011

State school funds for January, 1938, totaling $3,651,011 have been apportioned among 84 school districts with a total enrollment of 2,843 pupils, it was announced today by Miss Pearl E. Sewell, county superintendent of schools.

In the one-fourth apportionment, the school districts received $1,250,941. In the three-fourth apportionment, the schools received $2,155,077 plus $245. The amount per district from the one-fourth apportionment was $14,891. The rate per child from the three-fourths apportionment plus fines was 84 cents.

Hoskins Discussion Group Meets

The Hoskins discussion group had its first meeting at the Hoskins school on Thursday evening. Eighteen men and women attended this meeting and entered into the discussion of the agricultural outlook for 1938. The group decided to hold meetings every two weeks until spring work begins. A list of subjects which they will discuss includes rural electrification, taxation, soil and water conservation, 1938 agricultural conservation program, ever normal granary, farm cooperatives and prices.

The superintendent of the Hoskins school, Willis Ickler, had a demonstration to show the Hoskins discussion group last week. Elaine Anderson, pupil of the Hoskins schools, had prepared a miniature soil erosion project which included one sodded and wooded slope and another bare tilled slope. In each slope a miniature drainage way had been prepared and then water from a sprinkler was run on both slopes continuously for some time. The sodded and wooded slope absorbed a great deal of moisture and the rest carried off with little or no erosion. On the bare slope the water cut gullies into the slope and piled up the top soil on the low slope. This is a very interesting demonstration for anyone who might be interested in looking at it.

H.S. Defeats Oakland, Hartington

Three Wayne Teams Win at City Auditorium Friday Night

Fitch, with 18 points, led the Wayne High cagers in their 38 to 17 victory over Oakland Friday night. Wayne started the scoring when Fitch sunk one in the opening moments of play. Shortly after Samuelson looped one for Oakland. Bob Wright came back a few minutes later with another counter for Wayne and from that time on Coach Morris' boys were always in the lead. At the half Wayne led 21 to 7.

Wayne play was marked with clever passing and exceptionally fast floor work. In the fourth quarter when Coach Morris had his substitutes finish the game, the Oakland boys staged a feeble rally, but the lead was far too great to overcome. The Wayne substitutes garnered several counters and did a fine defensive job.

In the opening game at the auditorium that same evening the Wayne High farm boys' team defeated the Sholes team. The final game of the evening, Wayne Town team vs. Oakland

Wayne Wins Again; Beat Hartington 45-17

In a game that was much faster than the score would indicate Wayne High basket ball team defeated Hartington High, 45 to 17, at the auditorium Tuesday evening. Wright was high point man for Wayne with fine field goals and three gift shots, a total of 21 points. Berry was second high with 12 points, five field goals and two free throws.

Hartington's team played a fast, clean game all the way through but the Wayne boys were dead on the basket and guarded so closely that their opponents found it almost impossible to break through.

The starting lineup for Wayne was: Graham, center; Wright and Berry, forwards; Fitch and Gildersleeve, guards. Substitutions were Granquist, Darrel Johnson, Seymour, Lessman, and Bus Johnson.

W. D. Barbour left Saturday for Kansas City, Mo., to attend an insurance convention.

SEEN and HEARD around the NATIONAL CAPITAL By Carter Field

Washington.—Not much has been heard lately about the "purge" of Democratic senators who opposed the White House on the Supreme court enlargement.

The answer is simple. The President is worried about possible strength at the 1940 Democratic convention of the southern conservatives.

So within a few days no one need be surprised when Senator Burton K. Wheeler, the one opponent of the court plan whose attitude was resented more than that of any other by the White House, is announced as conferring with the President.

But there is another reason why the talk about a "purge" has died away. It develops that plenty of thick and thin, tried and true, 100 per cent administration senators may have renomination troubles.

In both these cases there is no rumor of an anti-administration upstart taking the scalp of a good New Deal senator. Both the aspirants in these cases, Governor Gordon Browning of Tennessee, and Governor Albert B. (Happy) Chandler of Kentucky, are ardent supporters of President Roosevelt.

Bad Medicine

But it is bad medicine for the morale of the administration forces in the senate and house to have the word get round that even the most devoted following of the White House on every issue is no guarantee that the follower will be returned to power when his term expires.

Then there are some other bad spots. Governor Herbert H. Lehman of New York, whom Roosevelt once called "his good right arm," is getting sourer and sourer on the New Deal.

There are no cases yet of a Republican making a real threat anywhere, nor even of some rabid anti-New Deal Democrat frightening the faithful.

Nobody Likes It

The proposal by Commonwealth and Southern's president, Weldell L. Wilkie, that the government buy all the privately owned electric utilities in the Tennessee valley field, accompanied by the suggestion of the machinery for determining the price, promises to cause more irritation and trouble among the pro-government ownership and anti-utility groups in Washington than anything which has so far developed.

The truth is that nobody likes it. It is mighty hard to criticize, and that combination is an annoying thing to happen to anyone.

For all good newspapers are edited especially for their local readers. News of your friends and neighbors is needed along with that of far off places.

speeches about Wall street financing, etc.

But the head of Commonwealth and Southern has apparently learned something about Washington during his long controversy with TVA.

For it is very hard for a radical to criticize the idea of a board composed of three men, one to be appointed by the company, one by President Roosevelt, and the third by the Supreme court!

Put in a Dilemma

So Wilkie puts the government in a dilemma. To accept his offer is to admit that government action is and has been frightening investors from putting their money into utilities.

Further, it knocks the props from under the Roosevelt contention that the operating companies are all right, but it is the wicked holding companies, controlling the operating companies, that prevented this spending just as a lobbying measure to force repeal of the death sentence.

But to reject his offer is to make the actual picture worse, so far as these same investors are concerned! Which again puts the administration squarely on the spot as being responsible for the depression, or at least one of the important—according to its own expressed judgment—reasons for the depression.

Surprise Reverse

Passage of the Federal housing bill, it was generally agreed at the time President Roosevelt called the special session of congress on November 15 last, was the one thing congress could do quickly to contribute to the emergency situation, and to help business conditions.

When Fred Astaire returned from vacation to the R. K. O. studio recently to start work on his next picture with Ginger Rogers, he found the amusement park set of "Damsel in Distress" still standing.

The trouble was over one of those peculiar combinations of politics and face-saving which so often arise in any governmental body.

This amendment merely provided that no mortgages should be approved and brought within the scope of the act unless the prevailing rate of wages had been paid in the construction of the houses thus mortgaged.

Sounds fair and simple, doesn't it? Well, so it did to the senators the day young Mr. Lodge proposed it.

Not So Simple

Why was it so difficult to straighten this thing out? Face-saving is the answer. Senators and representatives do not like to vote against provisions for "prevailing wages."

Worse than that, in this case, it would put the union leaders and their lobbyists in a hole. The truth is that while the building trades have been pretty tightly organized, they have concerned themselves chiefly with larger types of building construction—public buildings, hotels, office buildings, apartment buildings, factories, etc.

It would sound bad when the opponent talked about it in the next primary, or election. Too many people would get the impression that the representative so voting was against fair wages.

a penny cheaper that way. Fred MacMurray saves razor blades to be resharpened. Martha Raye wears sturdy, service-weight stockings except on gala occasions.

Most thrifty of all is Marlene Dietrich. She is a string saver. Her maid is always wrapping up packages for her to take to the studio and the string comes in handy.

At Pearce celebrated the beginning of his second year with his present radio sponsor and his eleventh year on the air in his own peculiar fashion. He gave his orchestra leader a rubber baton so there would be no stiffness in his rhythms and presented himself with the most enormous news camera you ever saw.

When Fred Astaire returned from vacation to the R. K. O. studio recently to start work on his next picture with Ginger Rogers, he found the amusement park set of "Damsel in Distress" still standing. Kindly guy that he is, he arranged to buy all the slides and games and sent them to an orphan's home.

Errol Flynn did not even stop to hear congratulations on his grand performance in "Robin Hood." The minute the preview was over and he was told that no retakes were necessary, he hopped a plane to Boston where he bought a seventy-five foot boat (a ketch if you will be technical about it) in which he sailed off to the Bahamas for some fishing.

Hollywood players are trying to figure out some unusual hobby or secret ambition because the current radio craze is to present a film star doing something quite different from their work on the screen.

Invisible Determination Is Secret of the Great

Samuel Crowther wrote an article in which he examined traits of many notable men. This article, among other things, he said:

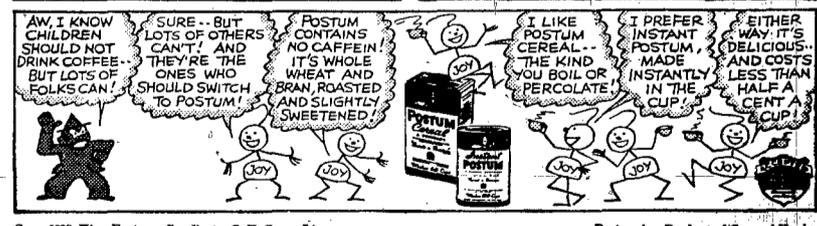

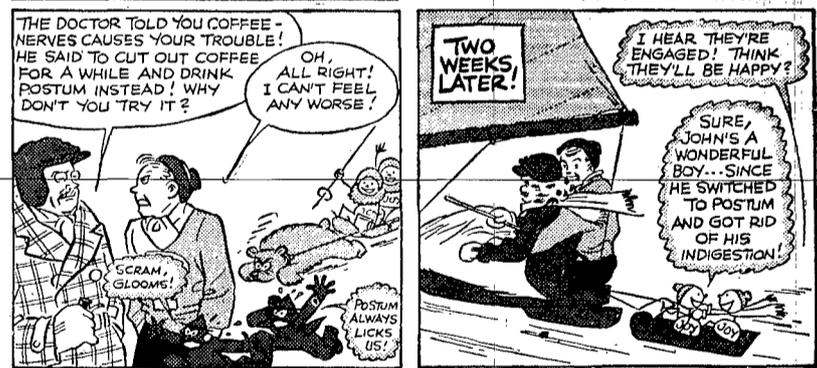

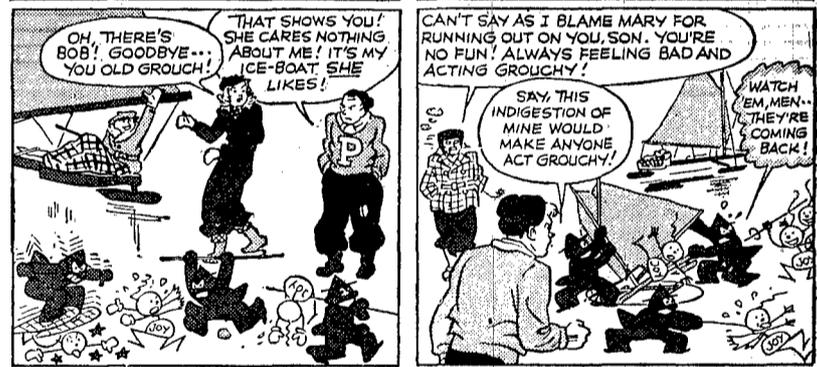

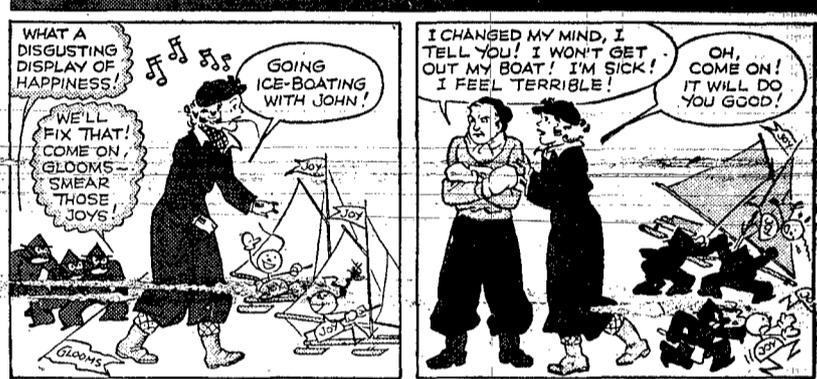

"The only common trait which can be discovered among truly great men has to do with the capacity they have for sustained work in the time of an emergency. 'Someone has said that the chief difference between a big man and a little man is that the little man lays down and quits when he discovers that he is tired and sleepy, while that is the very time that the big man presses on harder than ever.'—Hoard Dairyman.

WHO'S NEWS THIS WEEK...

By Lemuel F. Parton

NEW YORK.—Many a good news yarn has been spoiled by the necessity of "getting the story in the lead," as they say in the news-paper shops. This reporter asks indulgence for saving the kick in this one for the end, noting merely that it is a happy ending. In recent years, there have been so many unhappy fade-outs, from Sam Langford to the League of Nations, that anything in the line of an unexpected Garrison finish rates a bit of suspense before the news pay-off.

In Maxwell street, Chicago, long before the fragrance of Bubbly creek ebbed and sank and saddened, there was a book-stall which was the Jewish Algonquin of those parts. The place was overrun with philosophers, some white-bearded and highly venerated, some young and contentious, all stirred by a feverish intellectual zeal. They wolfed new books and started clamorous arguments about them, the way the crowds at the big pool hall down the street grabbed the box scores in the late sporting extras. Sweatshop workers used to throng in after a hard day's work and get in on the seminar.

Wrinkled, merry, mischievous little Abraham Bisno from Russia was the Erasmus of the sweatshop philosophers.

He used to circulate a lot around this and other Maxwell street book-shops, and many times the state of Illinois was saved the expense of calling out the militia because Bisno happened along to referee an argument.

He was a sweatshop worker, a man of amazing erudition, but of salty, colloquial speech, never enmeshed in the tangle of print language and him. He used to tease his friend, Jane Addams, of nearby Hull-house, by calling her settlement workers "the paid neighbors of the poor." He liked to deflate the Utopians, boiling things down to Gresham's law of money, the law of diminishing returns, weighted averages or something like that. He was the first of a multitude of sweatshop economists who spread light and learning through Chicago's Ghetto.

Bisno had a bright-eyed, clever little daughter named Beatrice, one of several children.

Old sages, up and down Maxwell street, used to say the world would hear from Beatrice some day. But the world went to war, regardless of Sir Norman Angell and all the other philosophers, and the Bisnos passed beyond the ken of this writer.

About twelve years ago, I had a visit from Francis Oppenheimer, a New York journalist. Beatrice Bisno was his wife. She was going to write a book, and did I know of a quiet hide-out where she could write it? I sent them to the old Hotel Helvetia, No. 23 Rue de Tournon, in Paris. She sat in the nearby Luxembourg garden and wrote her book.

They came home and the book made endless round trips to publishers' offices. The smash of 1929 took the last of their savings. Today I had a letter from Francis Oppenheimer.

"We finally threw the book in an old clothes basket," he said. "Then, acting on impulse, we used our dinner money to give it one more ride. Weeks passed. Beatrice fell ill. There came a letter from Liver-wright, the publisher. I knew it was another rejection and didn't want to show it to Beatrice. But I tore open the envelope and handed it to her. Her eyes were glazed. She could not read the letter. It slipped from her fingers and fell to the floor."

And in the same mail today, there came to this desk a copy of the new book, "Tomorrow's Bread," by Beatrice Bisno, winning the $2,500 prize award, the judges being Dorothy Canfield Fisher and Fannie Hurst. That was the news that Mr. Oppenheimer picked up from the floor when his wife was too ill to read it.

Dorothy Canfield Fisher says of the book: "A searchingly realistic portrait of an idealist. What an idealist does to the world and what the world does to an idealist is here set down with power and sincerity."

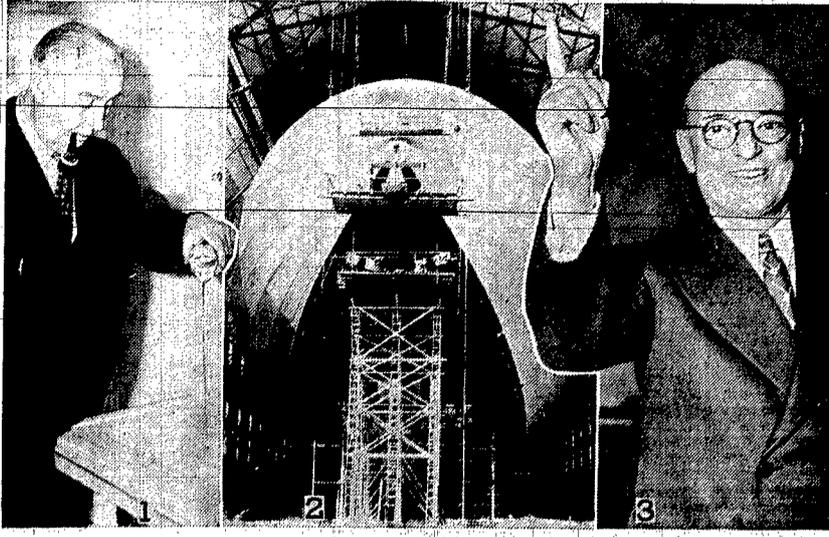

Winsome little Bisno is gone. One wishes he could be carrying the news down to the old Maxwell street book stall, if it's still there.

Asparagus au Gratin
SPARAGUS AU GRATIN is the dish to serve when you're looking for something especially good to eat that is easily and quickly made. The recipe given here calls for a medium-thick white sauce, but instead of making it you may prefer to use a can of cream of mushroom, pea, or celery soup. The soup adds flavor and eliminates the task of making sauce. If you use the soup, heat it with the cheese and serve over the asparagus on toast.
4 tbsp. butter Salt and pepper
4 cup. flour 1 cup asparagus
2 cups milk tips
1/2 cup grated 6 slices toast cheese
Melt the butter, add the flour, and stir until smooth. Add the milk and cook until thick, stirring constantly. Add the cheese and season with salt and pepper. Heat the asparagus tips in their own liquid until they are hot. Arrange the tips on the toast and serve with the hot cheese sauce.
Fried slices of pineapple would be good to serve with the asparagus. Sprinkle the slices ever so lightly with sugar and brown in butter.

HEADLINES FROM THE LIVES OF PEOPLE LIKE YOURSELF!

"Two Terrible Deaths"
By FLOYD GIBBONS
Famous Headline Hunter

HELLO, EVERYBODY:
This is the story of two adventurers rolled into one—the tale of a couple of lads who were facing not one death, but two—and right smack up against the task of making a choice between them. And it all came about over a girl who didn't even appreciate the trouble those two lads went to. It's a yarn that packs a couple of surprises—so watch for them.

James F. Kilcullen of Nutley, N. J., is today's Distinguished Adventurer, and the bird who tells this story. The tale takes us back to June, 1917, when Jim was working as a weaver in a cotton mill in New Orleans, La. That was in the early days of our participation in the World war, if you'll remember, and there was a lot of excitement in the mill among the men who were waiting for their numbers to be drawn by the Draft board.

Jim, himself, was getting pretty impatient with the Draft board. Jim wanted to enlist right away, and there was only one reason he didn't. He had a pal—a young lad of eighteen named Davie—and the pair of them had been buddies for a long time. Jim didn't want to enlist unless Davie went with him, and Davie had a particular reason for not wanting to enlist.

They Went to See Davie's Girl.
Davie's reason was that he wanted to see his girl before he went to war. The girl lived in a little town in Texas, more than three-hundred miles away, and neither Jim nor Davie had enough money to pay the railroad fare. But at last Jim had an idea. He told Davie he'd probably be drafted soon, anyway, and if he wanted to see his girl now was the time to do it. And since he didn't have railroad fare, he'd just have to beat his way to the baggage. Davie's answer to that was that he'd go if Jim would go with him. And that's how those two lads came to start on the trip that came literally within an inch of being the death of both of them.

They told their boss, Mr. Rickman, just what they intended to do. Rickman tried to make them see what a risk they were taking. "But when a chap's in love," says Jim, "he sees no danger. We took a ferryboat across the river to a town on the other side, got a time table at the railroad station and picked the fastest train on the Texas &

Pacific. It was a hot-shot to Dallas—solid Pullman except for two mail cars on the front end. It was about eight o'clock of a Saturday night when the train pulled into the station, and as it started to pull out it swung onto the bumpers, between the two mail cars.

The train started rolling, and, boy, how she rolled! Jim says she was hitting a sixty-five mile clip a good part of the time. The hours passed. The train listed and swayed. The two lads knew that to fall asleep or to lose their grip on the hand bars meant instant death, but that didn't bother them too much. They were being plenty careful. It was a tough job, too, hanging on to that swaying train all night long. But, on the other hand, they were making time—clipping off the miles at a rapid rate and that cheered them up considerably.

Messenger Began Shooting at Them.
As day began to break they had crossed the state line and were well into Texas. A few more hours and their trip would be over. "We were in good spirits," Jim said, "and we began congratulating ourselves on our good luck in not having been caught by the train crew or the railroad police. And just then the train began going around a horseshoe turn."

A horseshoe is supposed to be good luck, but that horseshoe turn was bad luck for Jim and Davie. As the train went around the bend they saw a porter standing in the vestibule of the rear Pullman—and that porter saw them. He took one look at them and disappeared from sight. And the next thing those two lads knew, there was a railway messenger standing in the vestibule they stood on, TURNING LOOSE ON THEM WITH A .45 AUTOMATIC!

That railway messenger didn't have any heart. Without the slightest warning he started blasting away at them through the canvas storm hood. "He was shooting to kill," Jim says, "and four lead slugs went through the tail of my coat. Davie, on the other bumper, turned white as chalk. The messenger kept shooting and yelling to us to get off. But the train was out of the curve now and picking up speed. We couldn't jump off without getting killed."

Escaped With Only Scratches.
Jim saw Davie look first at the storm hood through which the shots were coming, and then at the ground speeding past below. And then, all of a sudden, Davie fell at Jim's feet in a dead faint. By that time the messenger in the vestibule had stopped firing. "Believe me or not," says Jim, "I had one heck of a time holding Davie to keep him from falling off. I was clutching him with one hand and grasping the hand bar with the other. Either God was with us, or the railroad messenger gave a signal, but in a few minutes the train began to slow down. It slowed until it was crawling along at about ten miles an hour, and then, with all the strength I had in me I picked Davie up and heaved him off. Then I followed."

Those lads had had enough of baggage car riding. Neither of them was hurt except for a few scratches. They walked to the nearest town and wired for money to go on as passengers. When they arrived at the town where Davie's girl lived, Davie was a happy boy.

"But not for long," says Jim. "To his surprise, and mine, this 'best girl,' as he called her, had been married for months. He took it pretty hard, and inside of three hours he was on a train back to New Orleans."

But Jim didn't go back with him. And he didn't see Davie again until December, 1931. Then Jim was in New Orleans and went to visit him. Davie had forgotten all about that "best girl." He was married and had a bunch of kids—and he had a job as a RAILWAY MESSENGER! And I wonder if Davie ever gets loose with his gun at the boboos riding on the baggage cars.

THINGS TO SEE IN LONDON

In Hyde Park, "Safety Valve" of Britain.

World's Metropolis Is Undergoing Numerous Significant Changes

Prepared by National Geographic Society, Washington, D. C.—WNU Service.
NOT even London's growth after the Great Fire can compare with today's swift, significant changes. More than 600,000 new homes, besides square miles of flats, have been built in recent years to house people taken from slums, crowded sections, and from areas cleared for parks, factories, or new streets.

Historic Metropolitan hotel waiters its last summer. Sad-faced waiters closed its doors forever. Meanwhile the famous Adelphi terrace was torn down, even as Hotel Cecil melted into scrap.

As ancient city landmarks fade, queer modernistic structures, bewildering to Londoners returning after long absence, rise in their place. Look at that big cube of metal and glistening black glass which holds Lord Mayor's Daily Express in Fleet street; of the classic stone temple of the British Broadcasting corporation.

Or at Shell-Mex house on the Strand, Bush house in Aldwych, and all the monster new piles raised here as official headquarters by the U. S. A. In South Africa and other members of the British Commonwealth—whose show windows display the products of these far-away lands. They seem unreal, out of place, in this long-static, smoke-stained, weather-beaten old town.

Rise of new suburbs is no less astonishing. "Satellite" towns, dormitories of 50,000 or more, spring up where yesterday lay green fields and truck gardens. Smoky forms of new factories rim the horizon.

City Steadily Spreading Out.
Middlesex county, men say, will soon be wholly urban. Steadily the city unfolds down through Surrey, Southeast towards the hop fields of Kent "ribbon towns" sprawl beside the highways; in Essex and Hertfordshire "the scaffold poles of the builder are like wands that conjure new towns out of the ground."

Drawn by this boom, industry tends to shift here from the less prosperous north. Workers flock along: each year London adds a young city to its population, and each day 100,000 visitors pass through its streets. In one week, at Regent Palace hotel, 40 different nationalities filled out the police form. Yet you see few idle men. Munition works run day and night; 40,000,000 gas masks are being made—even every child is to have one; flying field schools turn out more and more pilots.

To learn how London, growing so fast, handles its passengers, go to "London Transport" headquarters, a system which hauls a crowd each year equal to twice all the tabulated people on earth.

This greatest of all urban transport systems was formed under the Passenger Transport act of 1933. Its board has issued more than half a billion dollars' worth of stock. Listed on the exchange, it is an example of the British public utility sponsored by the government, yet owned by private stockholders.

Buses and the Underground.
Londoners have a deep affection for their buses. They grow up to respect the conductor for his courtesy, efficiency, good temper, and wit. Many visitors hold out handfuls of pennies, trusting the conductor to peek out the right fare. Here the joy of a sight-seeing ride on a bus never stales. London played skillfully on human nature when she sent buses to France with British troops in the World war.

These gay, red vehicles, or "scarlet galleons," bore London's familiar advertisements right up to the front line.

There is no less romance underground than above. It is easy to imagine the relationship between the motorbus of 1933 and the first wheeled vehicles, made by shaping logs, that rumbled along prehistoric roads.

But the Underground, a triumph of mechanization, is uncompromisingly of today. The automatic tick- et-vending and change-giving machines, the fast-moving escalators, the air-operated car doors, and the automatic signaling which enables forty eight-car trains an hour to travel on some lines—these wonders cannot be taken for granted, even if they are mechanical.

Stitches in Time

A STITCH in time goes a long way toward making your days brighter and your burdens lighter when the bustling, busy days of Spring roll round. No time then for leisure hours with your sewing kit, and fortunate indeed are the early birds who have got on with their Spring wardrobe. The moral?—Sew now!

Practical House Coat.
There is a versatility to this clever pattern which makes it a prime favorite for the style-conscious and the thrifty. Designed in two lengths, it lends itself perfectly to either of two needs—as an apron frock in the night or seersucker for busy days around the house, or as a full length beach or sports coat in chintz or linen crash. The princess lines are smooth and flattering and there are seven pieces to the pattern.

Attractive Apron.
"Swell" isn't a word the teacher recommends but it is highly appropriate in describing this handy apron frock which is a real apron. Appealing in design, easy to wear, extremely serviceable, with two convenient pockets, this perfectly swell apron was designed by a busy housewife who knew her oats! Six pieces to the pattern.

The Patterns
Pattern 1323 is designed for sizes 14 to 46 (32 to 46 bust). Size 16 requires 5 7/8 yards of 35 or 39 inch material for short length without nap. Five yards of braid

TIPS to Gardeners

Get Flowers Earlier
GARDENERS can get earlier bloom from many flowers by starting them indoors from seed and setting the plants in the open when frost danger is past. Plant seeds of the following indoors about six weeks before the plants are to be set out: Delphinium, pink, gaillardia, lobelia, myosotis, pansy, Iceland poppy, salvia, stock and verbena. A week or two later the following can be sown indoors: Ageratum, snapdragon, aster, dahlia, cotiana, petunia, phlox drummondii, salpiglossis, scabiosa and inca rosea. Seed may be procured at your corner store sufficiently early to permit indoor planting. With a number of popular flowers, however, there is no advantage to be gained by early starting indoors, according to Gilbert Bentley, flower expert of the Perry Seed Institute. In this class are sweet alyssum, gladiolus, calliopsis, candytuft, four o'clock, marigold and nasturtium.

30,000 Bowlers To Match Skill In A. B. C. Meet

By GEORGE A. BARCLAY

YOUNG bowlers, old bowlers, fat bowlers, skinny bowlers, tall bowlers, runty bowlers, small town bowlers, big city bowlers — 30,000 strong from continental United States, Canada and Hawaii — will roll balls down the alleys and pray for strikes and spares when the American Bowling Congress world's championship tournament opens at the Coliseum in Chicago on March 3rd.

From morning till night for 47 consecutive days the legions of tenpin topplers will match skill on 40 specially constructed alleys in competition for the $200,000 cash prize money.

A bowler with a statistical mind has figured that the contestants will travel about six million miles getting from their homes to Chicago and back.

Champions and former champions will fight it out with unknown competitors for first honors. Max Stein of Belleville, Ill., all-events ABC champion in 1937, will attempt to equal or better his record-shattering performance of 2,070 pins in nine games.

But the chances of his repeating are regarded as slim, since only twice before in the 37 years of American Bowling Congress competition have all-events champions repeated.

Sharks Practice

On thousands of home town alleys all over the United States local bowling sharks have been practicing for months in anticipation of the tournament. Doctors, lawyers, farmers, movie actors, big league baseball players, clerks, mechanics, school teachers, merchants, salesmen, and representatives of hundreds of other professions will be among the contestants.

Tournament officials estimate that 5,500 five-men teams will be entered this year. Last year when the tournament was held in New York 4,017 quintets bowled.

Wherever you look on the map you will find big and small communities sending teams. The little town of Land O' Lakes, Wis., with a population of only 112, but housing eight bowling alleys will send at least two five-men teams. Every big city will be represented. Among the Pacific coast teams will be the Harold Lloyd club led by the famous movie actor. Lloyd has a set of alleys in his home and is handy with a bowling ball.

Harold Lloyd

Anybody's Game

One of the intriguing things about the ABC tournament is that everybody has a chance. Today's champions are yesterday's unknowns. Last year a young bowler nobody had ever heard of, Edward Gagliardi, of Mt. Vernon, N. Y., crashed through to a singles championship with a score of 749.

Acers from the baseball world who are at home on a bowling alley will participate. Ray Schalk, famous one-time White Sox catcher, will bowl on opening night. Jimmy Dykes will blast away at the pins on closing night. In between, Gabby Hartnett, Jimmy Archer, Everett Scott and others who won fame on the diamond will appear with some of the crack teams.

STOP IT WITH Alka-Seltzer

Does Headache "slow you down?" You are a rare exception if it does not. One or two tablets of ALKA-SELTZER in a glass of water makes a pleasant alkalinizing solution that usually brings relief in just a few minutes. ALKA-SELTZER is also recommended for:

- Gns on Stomach, "Morning After", Acid Indigestion, Colds, and Muscular Pains.

You will like the tangy flavor and the results when you take Alka-Seltzer. Alka-Seltzer, when dissolved in water, contains an analgesic (Sodium Acetyl-Salicylate). In addition, the alkalinizing agents in Alka-Seltzer help to relieve those everyday disorders associated with hyperacidity.

Commissioners' Proceedings

Wayne, Nebraska, February 1, 1938.

Board met as per adjournment. All members present. Minutes of meetings held January 18, 19, and 20, 1938, read and approved.

On motion the bond of A. L. Swan as member of the soldiers' relief commission for a term of three years is hereby approved. The following old age assistance warrants for January have been cancelled because of death: Warrant No. 69 drawn in favor of Mrs. Katherine Jones Hornby for $12.50, allowed January 18, 1938. Warrant No. 192 drawn in favor of Mrs. B. W. Wineland for $27.00 allowed January 18, 1938.

The following rules and regulations in regard to disinfection are hereby adopted to correct and replace disinfection and fumigation rules previously adopted by the county board on January 11, 1938:

"DISINFECTION"

The word "premises" used in this section shall mean all places where it is necessary to disinfect.

Disinfection includes: (a) Concurrent disinfection; (b) terminal disinfection.

Concurrent disinfection: Is required during the existence of any of the following diseases:

Chickenpox, diphtheria, influenza, measles, meningococcus meningitis, mumps, pneumonia, poliomyelitis, rubella (German measles), scarlet fever, septic sore throat, smallpox, tuberculosis (pulmonary), typhoid fever, and whooping cough.

Concurrent disinfection: Is the collecting of the communicable discharge of the patient during the course of the disease, the burning of same, or the application of a disinfectant solution to render same inert. Concurrent disinfection is of the greatest importance, for the organisms which cause communicable diseases are for the most part parasitic and depend upon their residence in the human system for the propagation. Under the usual conditions outside the body the bacteria of human disease will not grow and soon die. The communicable discharges, therefore, must be collected in covered receptacles. Bed linens and linens such as night gowns used by the patient should be changed at least every forty-eight hours, where this will not interfere with the well-being of the patient, immediately placed in a disinfectant solution such as 2 per cent liquor cresolis compound U. S. P., 5 per cent solution of carbolic acid, or an equivalent disinfectant solution.

Terminal disinfection: It is now generally accepted that terminal disinfection is much better and more in accord with modern scientific research than fumigation.

THEREFORE, FUMIGATION IS NO LONGER REQUIRED IN THE FOLLOWING DISEASES: Chickenpox, diphtheria, influenza, measles, meningococcus meningitis, mumps, pneumonia, poliomyelitis, rubella (German measles), scarlet fever, septic sore throat, smallpox, typhoid fever, and whooping cough.

When a Board of Health having jurisdiction is satisfied that a person who has suffered from any of the foregoing named diseases is no longer a source of danger to others, it shall see that the following procedure as to terminal disinfection is carried out before such persons, or premises, is released from placard or quarantine.

First: The patient and those in contact shall be bathed with an antiseptic solution. This should be done by bath of warm water and soap, then washing of the body with a mild antiseptic solution. Bichloride of mercury is strength of one to 5,000 is recommended for this purpose, care being taken that patient does not get the same in mouth or eyes.

Second: Everything in the sick room or that has come in contact with the patient and that is of no special value (papers, magazines, clothes, wooden toys, etc.) should be burned.

Third: Before removal from patient's room washable clothing, linens, used by patient and by those in contact shall be immersed in a 2 per cent solution liquor cresolis compound U. S. P., 5 per cent solution carbolic acid, or an equivalent disinfectant, and remain in such solution for half an hour, then boiled for half an hour.

Fourth: Mattresses and other articles presenting free surfaces and not too thick can be made safe by exposure in the open air to direct sun rays for three or four days, or sufficiently long to get fully twenty-four hours of direct sunshine. Such articles as rugs, carpets, etc., treated in the same way should, in addition, be brushed with a 2 per cent solution liquor cresolis compound U. S. P., a 5 per cent solution carbolic acid, or an equivalent disinfectant.

Fifth: Thorough washing of the wood work, wood and metal furnishings with hot water and soap, combined with disinfection through the use of a 2 per cent solution liquor cresolis compound U. S. P., or a 5 per cent solution carbolic acid of door knobs, open crevices, and such room furnishings as may have come in direct contact with patients' hands or hands of attendants, may be relied upon to protect against reinfection from the room. The need of repapering, calkmining, painting, etc., is left to the discretion of the board.

Who is Responsible: The county, city, or village board of health within the jurisdiction of which the premises are is primarily responsible. The board may use its discretion as to permitting this to be done under the supervision of the attending physician; provided, that in all cases the board within whose jurisdiction the case is, has the right to supervise the disinfection.

Cost of Terminal Disinfection: This is to be borne entirely by the people who reside in the premises.

Not necessary to disinfect premises for those in contact: Whenever anyone is to be "quarantined out" after having been in contact with a communicable disease it is not necessary to disinfect the premises at that time; provided that the disease still exists in the premises. In those cases, disinfection is only necessary when the patient is to be released from quarantine.

Discuss Vocational Education for Wayne High School

(Continued from Page 1) The courses, besides being practical, are of such character as to give the boys an interest in farming and a comprehension of its problems that lift farming above the level of an unskilled occupation. At present there is no agricultural school in Wayne county. Some towns not far from Wayne are reported as becoming interested in the advantages of vocational agriculture. Rural students as a rule are glad to have the opportunity of taking vocational agriculture courses. Schools that have such programs invariably attract students. The discussion brought out the fact that there are many boys in almost all farming communities not served by a vocational agricultural school who have finished the eighth grade and have not gone further with their education. Many of these boys are often reached and served by a program of agricultural training, when schools installed agricultural departments. Agriculture is the big industry of Nebraska. Communities as well as states and national governments are far sighted when they conserve the man power of rural areas by giving the boys the special education and experience in modern farming methods necessary to make them efficient and successful farmers. Animal husbandry is the course given the first year, soils and crops the second year, and farm management (including farm accounts) the third year. Shop work is also a part of the course, with emphasis on the practical phases of making and repairing the many things needing attention on every farm. There is always a best way to undertake and do even the meanest and smallest kind of a job. The best way is taught to the boys. Learn Farm Technique. Stock judging, seed grading, milk testing, flock culling, and a host of other necessary farm techniques are illustrated and demonstrated day after day to vocational agriculture classes. Much of this is done right on the farm where the boys live. Besides shop work and class room and laboratory activities, a third phase of the course is what is known as a home project. Each boy enrolled in the department has some kind of farm project of his own. It may be a grain project, a feeding project, (hog or cattle) poultry, truck gardening or anything else worthwhile. The boys keep inventories, a history of the operations and costs, selling price and profits. Most of these projects are profitable to the boys and become the nucleus of bank savings accounts. The experience of thus participating in actual farm production and cost accounting is of inestimable value. Of the 221 students in present attendance in Wayne high school over 90 are from rural district. Close to half of this number are boys. Agriculture is the chosen vocation of many of these farm boys and of some town boys. Town boys who do not enroll as agriculture students are sometimes admitted to shop classes, thus giving them a knowledge of tools, metals, wood work, gas motors, and basic principles of electricity. Space cannot be found in the present building for a shop if it were decided to add a vocational agriculture department to the present school. Construction of a shop building with a class room in connection would seem to be necessary. Mr. Clements was present Monday night by the invitation of Superintendent Smith. Mr. Smith introduced Mr. Clements and stated that he felt it was his duty to put at the disposal of the board of education and interested patrons, the information which Mr. Clements was in such excellent position to give. There were several present besides school board members and many of them indicated their belief that there was a distinct need in this community for the type of training the speaker explained. The question may well be asked, is our high school truly serving the town and the farm territory adjacent when it goes year after year ignoring vocational training in the one occupation which is basic to the county of Wayne as well as the state of Nebraska? Should not the students of the farm have an opportunity to learn the best farm practice at the same time that they are learning English, Latin, history and mathematics

Cornstalk Bait Kills Hoppers

Field tests carried on last summer by the Nebraska agricultural college have shown that ground cornstalks, when mixed with a small proportion of wheat bran, make a satisfactory base for grass-hopper-bait to be used in poisoning.

The value of these tests lies in the fact that in the face of heavy hopper infestation, bran becomes scarce and sawdust, commonly used to substitute for part of the bran, must be shipped long distances.

In government bait supplied to farmers, the proportion of bran to sawdust has been one to three. Raymond Roberts, agricultural college entomologist who conducted the tests, mixed mill-run bran in the proportion of one to seven of ground cornstalks. He did the same with ground corncobs and sawdust. In addition, he tried bran alone, ground cornstalks alone, ground corncobs alone, and sawdust alone. The usual amounts of arsenic and amygdalacetate were used.

Bran alone proved best, ground cornstalks and bran mixture was second, ground corncobs and bran third. The three produced satisfactory kills, thus demonstrating the value of ground cornstalks and corncobs. Entomologist Roberts points out that stalks without leaves are most suitable and may be collected and ground in the spring.

Organizes Pig Club, Elect Club Officers
